"JESUS LOVED THEM" by Patrick and Garrison

LAZARUS

. . . he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes . . .

—John XI-43,44

It is easy to understand the confusion, unbelief, and astonishment of the people who witnessed this event.

Lazarus, the friend of Jesus and the brother of Martha and Mary, had been dead four days. The prophet Martha told Jesus, when He asked them to take away the stone from before the dead man's tomb:

"Lord, by this time he stinketh."

Saddened a little by the lack of faith, even in His closest friends, Jesus ignored the objections and, lifted His face heavenward in a brief prayer:

"Father, I thank thee that thou heardest me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the multitude that standeth around I said it, that they may believe that thou didst send me."

Then He called into the dark tomb, "Lazarus, come forth."

Lazarus came stumbling out, still wrapped in his grave clothes.

"Loose him," said Jesus, "and let him go."

No doubt, as Lazarus walked again as a man and flexed his muscles painfully as feeling returned to his limbs, he tried to recall what it had been like to be dead and entombed.

It is quite likely that he could recall only a blank state of unconsciousness, similar to sleep, for Jesus had said:

"Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go that I may awake him out of sleep."

Both Martha and Mary reproached Jesus with the same words before He had recalled Lazarus from the tomb:

"Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died."

Perhaps it was for them, for their lack of faith, for their blindness to His true identity that Jesus wept in that moment, rather than for His friend Lazarus, whom He was about to restore to life. For the answer He gave Martha is the answer that lives today as the solace of all Christians who mourn for their loved ones:

"I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth on me, shall never die."

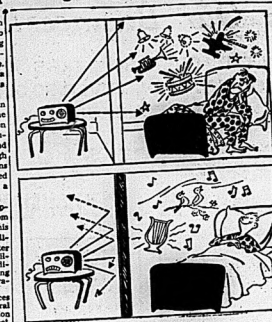
Soundproofing Adds Comfort



If that radio in the next room keeps you awake, you ought to find out about the soundproofing of walls. Radio and television studios use it to a refined degree. Their rooms virtually float in a vacuum like the inside shell of a thermos bottle.

Soundproof rooms are built in a suspended fashion to stop the reproduction of sound waves on the opposite side of a wall. Acoustical engineers say that sound does not necessarily pass through a wall, but it sets up vibrations in the wall that are reproduced by the opposite side acting as a sounding board.

You can prevent this by keeping wall surfaces separated from the framework of a house. This is done by hanging gypsum wallboard or gypsum lath and plaster on resilient clips. Instead of nailing the wallboard or the lath directly to the wall studs, spring clips are used to provide separation.

Filling the remaining spaces between studs with mineral wool or other loose insulation adds a further deadening effect.

Tests reported by the Practical Builder, trade journal, show that these methods are the next best to a solid concrete wall, 8 to 10 inches thick. In a practical sense, the testing engineers found, heavy plaster on both sides of a standard partition will do as acceptable job.

Are your walls sounding boards or sound deadeners?

Why Pitched Roof Is Popular

A majority of all home remodelling projects this year are certain to take place under pitched roofs. The same space provided by an attic not only gives the homeowner an economical place to get more room in his house, but of course there are more sloping roofs in this country than flat tops or any other type.

The reason pitched roofs are as well-liked today as they were centuries ago is that they are more practical — which is of importance to you whether you are planning an addition or a new home.

The way builders figure costs by the cubic content of space it seems hard to believe that all the space contained under a gable could be economical. But here is the way it works out:

1. Extra Space — the attic under a pitched roof provides useful space. If the pitch is steep enough, the attic provides livable space or expansion space. If the pitch is low or medium, the attic gives you an abundance of storage room and can even be used for a modern furnace or air conditioning system.

2. Comfort — Even an unused attic under a pitched roof makes for a more comfortable home. It provides permanent shade for the house under the summer sun. Ventilated with adequate louvers, with or without fans, it permits air washing to dispel summer heat. In combination with air conditioning, this cuts a big slice off operating costs.

3. Appearance — with today's trend toward more color, inside a house and out, pitched roofs are being used to set a color style for the house. The wide variety of roofing colors now available both in pastel and solid hues opens new ways to make a house distinctive.

4. Economy—a roof that pitches as even 3 or 4 inches in every 12 inches of surface rise, makes it possible to use asphalt shingles. These standard low cost roof coverings have proved durable, decorative and fire safe. Covered with mineral granules, a roof of this type has texture, lustre and reflective insulation — the latter depending on the lightness of color selected. (A white roof is cooler in summer; a black roof, warmer in winter).

Further economy is provided by a pitched roof over a basement home. Basementless construction generally is conceded more economical to heat, cool and maintain than a house with a basement. When attic space is available for new types of furnaces and provides additional storage space, the need for a basement is eliminated.

Attic Fans Offer Least Expensive Home Cooling

Attic fans of the suction box type, designed to draw all air out of a house within a few minutes and thereby create fresh air to breeze in through windows, are one of the least expensive methods of summer cooling.

The effectiveness of such exhaust fans is chiefly a matter of hearsay rather than exact measurement. However, recent tests made in Dayton, Ohio, show surprising comparative temperatures involved in the use of attic fans.

On a hot summer day, attic temperature in a two-storey house was found to run as high as 150 degrees. With normal insulation, the upstairs bedrooms registered up to 102 degrees. Temperatures downstairs were 92.

Because of the heat absorbed by the house structure during the day, the night-time temperature in the attic dropped to only 102 degrees, despite much cooler night air outside. Upstairs bedrooms registered 95 and the downstairs remained at 90 for hours. Not until early morning did the house become comfortable.

With a fan cooling system installed in the attic, the daytime temperature was lowered from 150 to 130. This dropped second floor bedroom temperatures to 85 degrees during the day. Instead of 102, the downstairs readings ranged around 80 instead of 92.

The air movement through the house kept walls and ceilings cooler, so that night-time temperatures took a nose-dive to 82 in the attic, 76 on the second floor and 75 on the first floor.

"This spells the difference between a good night's sleep and none at all," said the chief engineer of the Last Blower Co., which made the test.

Baby Swabs Get A Place in Home Handyman's Kit

Young mothers have a new problem on their hands when they discover that the cotton swabs from the baby wash from the medicine cabinet but turn up in the home handyman's tool kit.

It seems that these swabs, with non-linting cotton wrapped around both ends of a smooth birch stick, are wonderful for delicate painting and oiling jobs.

For instance, when you're working on the thin edges of trim, or the corners of a window frame, it's a lot easier to handle a cotton swab than a tricky camel's hair brush. Also when you're through with the swab you can throw it away, while brushes cost money. The baby will understand some day.

Hard-to-reach paint spots in corners can be quickly cleaned by dipping a swab in turpentine and a dry swab can be used to dust corners before painting. Dipped into ammonia or other cleansing agents, the same tool can be used to whiten discolored mortar between wall tiles in kitchen and bathroom.

Other uses for swabs include touching up scratches on furniture, spreading glue and lubricating delicate machinery, locks and hinges.

Family Mill Flourishing

Chisholm's of Roslin Ltd., this district's largest and oldest lumber mill, will celebrate its centennial in July.

One of a few survivors of many lumber mills which dotted the Moira in early days, Chisholm's is situated one and a half miles south of Roslin where the Shannonville gravel crosses the Moira River.

The present property was bought by W. F. Chisholm of Marmora in 1857. The original mill consisted of a flour and feed mill as well as a saw mill. The flour was ground by stones.

In the early days W. F. Chisholm bought large timber tracts in the north and drove the logs down the Moira River to the mill. The last of these drives was in 1909.

The mill had its own water - driven power plant and used this source of power until eight years ago when it was attached to hydro.

W. R. Chisholm, the founder of the mill, had two sons. One of them, Joseph carried on the business after his father's death in 1926. Joseph's son Harvey or W. H. Chisholm inherited the business when his father died. W. H. Chisholm in turn took his three sons, Don, Walter and Jim, into partnership of the mill, into the business shortly before his death in 1951.

The old mill was destroyed by fire in 1944, rebuilt then replaced by a completely modern plant in 1950. In 1956 a large stock and show room with up-to-date office were added.

The present owners have extended their operations to include all types of building supplies as well as lumber and feed grains. These products are distributed throughout Ontario.

The greatest asset to increased production has been the addition of diesel engines and hydro power which augments the mill's original water driven power plant.

The permanent staff of 24 members is eagerly anticipating celebrations of 100 years of quality production in July.

Keep Oil Tank Full in Summer

You can get the longest life out of a fuel tank, whether it is buried underground or stands in your basement, if you keep it full of oil during the summer. When a tank is not full of oil, moisture can form condensation on the inside of the tank. This can cause rust which eventually will penetrate the steel tank and cause leaks.

Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

There is a lot more interest and satisfaction in gardening if one plans to make plants fit. No two vegetables, flowers or shrubs are exactly the same. There are, of course, the familiar differences in height or colour or season. But there are just as definite differences that are not nearly so obvious.

Some plants, for example, prefer sun, many do not and quite a few indeed actually like a fair amount of shade at least for part of the day. There are similar individual preferences in the way of soil, some liking it rich, some poorer, some heavy and some light. If we want to get the best out of our garden then we should cater to these likes and dislikes. No matter how unfavourable the location seems, there is certainly something that will like it and do well.

SPECIAL LOCATIONS

For steep slopes, perferably rocky - even though we may have to put the rocks there ourselves - there are a score or so of special plants, mostly tiny that thrive in such a location. These are listed under the general heading of "Rock Garden" plants. They need very little soil or moisture and they will add colour and cover to any bit of steep ground.

Then there are other flowers that literally pine for shade, things like begonias, violets, pansies, lily of the valley and so on. These are just the right sort for planting on the north side of house or wall, or other places where the ground is heavily shaded. Here too is the right place for the wild flower garden. There is even special grass for shady locations.

At the opposite end of the scale are those flowers which will not do well unless they get lots of sun, things like poppies, nasturtiums, portulaca and many others. Most of them are very particular about soil or moisture but they do love the hot sun.

In the vegetable line the preferences are not as pronounced. Most vegetables ask for rich, fine, open soil with lots of sun. Now in some gardens that is a tall order but so far as soil requirements are concerned, we can provide them with it no matter how discouraging the prospect.

If the soil is heavy, sticky clay, we simply roll up our sleeves, get in well dug or cultivated and at the same time turn in all the humus we can get hold of. And humus, of course, is just a gardener's name for anything in the way of vegetable material that will rot, stuff like barnyard manure, leaves, grass clippings, green weedy, even clean garbage. The more of this stuff that is dug in, the finer and looser becomes the soil. After a few years the difference is simply amazing.

And for very light sandy soil, the treatment is about the same only easier. This too, needs a lot of humus so that it will hold moisture and not dry out.

For very tough cases, other measures like draining, or treatment with soil conditioners, may be called for. And, of course, any vegetable garden will benefit a lot from regular applications of commercial fertilizer applied according to directions.

Here's a Safety Tip You'll Like

A safe way to rest a ladder against a round column or a thin square post is to substitute a chain for the top rung. Allow some slack so the chain will lay around the column. An Ontario builder who uses this trick says a short piece of old garden hose, used to cover the chain, will add non-skid qualities.

Moisture Makes Wood Rot Even When Painted

Dry rot, as a term, is "a lot of rot" in plain conversational terms. Actually there is no such thing as dry rot. A piece of lumber may be dry and rotten when you see it, but it never would have decayed if it had not been moist.

Experts say that no wood will decay if its moisture content is kept below 20 per cent.

"Paint," says a lumberman, "will not protect wood against decay. If the wood is not thoroughly dried to a moisture content far below 20 per cent when it is painted, it will rot behind the paint.

"Take any piece of ordinary lumber, paint it on all four sides and ends; pit it in the ground as a fence post and it will decay just about as quickly as a piece that is not painted."

Green lumber, or even partially dry wood, should not be painted. You won't get a good paint job and you'll help the wood to decay by sealing in the moisture it contains.

"You paint your house for two reasons," says the lumber expert. "First, to make it look pretty and second, to protect the wood against weathering."

An old rule for handling hard wood flooring is to have it delivered on a dry day and to store it indoors, protected from the weather. Even pine boards to be used for indoor panelling deserve as much respect. The Western Pine Association urges all home remodellers to store such lumber as knotty pine in the room where it is to be used for four or five days before installation.

MIXING WOOD DOUGH

To patch a damaged spot in wood to be given a natural finish, make a paste of sandings from the same wood, using a sanding disc and just enough glue to hold the sandings together.

Pre-finished Plywood Is A Short-Cut

Factory-finished plywood makes it possible to install luxurious wall panelling in a hurry.

These all-wood panels can be mounted to any kind of existing wall in a few hours and with a minimum of effort. The most tedious part of a panelling project—the sanding, filling, staining and waxing, has been expertly done in the factory.

The biggest advantage in using pre - finished wall panelling is in labor time saving. A large room can be completely panelled in one day. A 25-foot wall can be covered, start to finish, in a few hours.

There are at least four major plywood producers offering factory-finished plywood panelling. Their products include a variety of veneers of imported and domestic woods—Philippine mahogany, birch, walnut, oak, sycamore, cherry, and other favorites.

IN SIZES TO FIT

All pre-finished plywood comes in standard 1-4-inch thickness, but in widths varying from 4 inches to 4 feet. All are sold in 8-foot lengths. One average height of room walls.

Many textures and patterns give you a wide choice for distinctive effects. Some have surfaces that simulate random planks. Others are V-grooved to produce the plank effect. Some types has small wooden peg heads showing to give the appearance of colonial hand-crafted walls.

Checkerboard patterns use squares of contrasting woods, such as light mahogany and darker walnut, all prefabricated in 4 by 8-foot panels. Grooved, combed and sandblasted surfaces are among other novelties.

ATTACHMENT IS CONCEALED

All surface nailing has been eliminated by new methods of installation. One system makes use of special contact cements that hold the panelling permanently to the wall without clamping or bracing, and of course without any nails or brads. Another method employs small metal clips that are concealed from view.

Invention of the adhesives and the clips was directly responsible for the development of factory-finished plywood. With no nails to be concealed after installation, professional pre-finishing became practical.

"It is now almost impossible to ruin a wall panelling job," says one plywood authority. "Unpleasant varnish and stain odors have been eliminated and aching muscles from sanding and filling are a thing of the past."

Factory finishing involves the use of traditionally accepted materials — wood fillers, lacquers, stains and furniture finishing wax. One manufacturer finishes with special resins that are resistant to stains and humidity.

A WORKSHOP IDEA

You'll always find your tools in place if you suspend them on hangers on a panel of pegboard, the perforated hardboard, and outline each of them with a fine white line. This will tend to prevent anyone from hanging the hammer where the saw belongs.

A COMBINATION OF materials makes the Vivian an appealing for the living room wing, right, and also around the garage. Shingles home. Brick, which always adds an air of distinction, has been used and vertical siding cover the upper bedroom level, over the garage.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

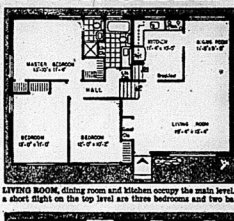
By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THREE levels for living! That phrase sums up the Vivian, a split level style that offers full value for your construction dollar.

As in all split level homes, the advantages are twofold. While levels are separated so as to provide privacy, they're not far enough apart to mean strenuous stair-climbing and extra steps for the homemaker. A short flight of just six steps goes from one level to the next.

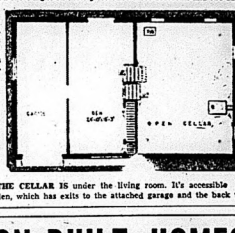
Bright Rooms

Enter the house and you step into the living room, which forms an "L" with the dining room so the areas can be combined or treated separately. A picture window brightens each room.



The kitchen, accessible from either room, is a square of efficiency. Cabinets and appliances are placed in an L and a corner has been set aside for a dinette table. From the kitchen, a stairway leads down to the den, which is a sort of second living room that's 24 feet long, has a wide window at one end, a door to the terrace at the other end. Along the side wall, a short flight on the top level are three bedrooms and two baths, door opens into the one-car garage.

Sleeping Quarters



From the living room, it's six steps up to the bedroom level. The main bath is just off the hall at the top of the stairs. In addition to a vanitory, it has two closets for linens.

The master bedroom, at back, boasts a private lavatory with shower, as well as a walk-in closet and a smaller clothing closet. Two smaller bedrooms complete the top level.

The Vivian comprises 23,076 cubic feet.

LIVING ROOM, dining room and kitchen occupy the main level. Up

THE CELLAR IS under the living room. It's accessible from the den, which has exits to the attached garage and the back terrace.

Quarry Tile In New Colors

Quarry tile, the six-inch squares of dull brick red you often see as pavement for luxury porches and terraces, is now being produced in new colors — dark brown, buff, blue, green and sand shades.

SEALING CONCRETE CRACKS

Elastic calking compound often works better than Portland cement for filling cracks in concrete foundation walls.

DANCE AGAIN

MOSCOW (AP)—Ballerina Galina Ulanova danced Wednesday night for the first time since she pulled a leg tendon and collapsed on stage last November. The 47-year-old ballerina danced without any sign of injury the leading role in Romeo and Juliet at a state performance for a visiting Hungarian government delegation.

Three Points Set Home Sales Price

Kitchen, bathrooms and basement are the three most important areas which affect the selling price of a house, in the opinion of bankers and other lending officials.

These men who decide on how large a loan they can safely make on a house, say that in most cases the woman buys the house. Her husband may sign the cheque, but generally she has the final word. So to bring the best price, a house must have a spacious and modern kitchen, ample and up-to-date bathing facilities, and a basement large enough to accommodate storage, workshop and possibly a recreation room.

SCOTS COLLEGE

King's College at Aberdeen, Scotland, was founded in 1494 by Bishop Elphinstone.

HOW SOFTENERS WORK

Two functions are performed by household water softeners. They remove calcium and magnesium, the minerals that make water hard. They also filter out dissolved iron. The first function reduces the amount of soap needed. The second prevents red or brown stains on clothing and plumbing fixtures.

Do It Yourself

Here's How

TO DO IT — TO MAKE IT — TO FIX IT

By PETER WHITTALL

With a few simple adjustments, the versatile cabinet shown at left above, becomes the attractive desk-and-cupboard combination on the right. In today's column Peter Whittall shows you how easily you can build either or both of these interesting units.

Easy To Make Built-In Desk Or Cabinets

This is one of a series of columns by Peter Whittall on expertly-designed major projects by which the handyman can add beauty and utility to every room of the house.

Here's a plan for built-in cabinets that is as versatile as you want to make it.

It is designed primarily for a dining room buffet. But the same plan, perhaps with simple changes, can give you a built-in unit for the bedroom, a kitchen or dining room counter, a play-room toy storage cabinet or a desk for the den.

Designers, housewives and cabinet-makers have long agreed on the standard measurements used in this plan — two feet wide and three feet high. The only basic measurements that you have to decide yourself is the length.

So determine that first, and make adjustments in size as necessary.

For convenience, we'll deal here with a unit eight feet long. Note that the plan makes use of two-foot modules. This not only reduces cutting to a minimum but also makes size changes more convenient.

EIGHT-FOOT PLYWOOD

The first step in making this unit is to cut a standard sheet of ¾" plywood (4' x 8') down the middle. This gives you the top and bottom pieces for an eight foot cabinet.

The next step is to cut another sheet of ¾" plywood in the same manner, then make further cuts to provide the end pieces and partitions.

Now you are ready to start assembling. Place the two end sections on the floor piece, lift the top slab into place and tack this framework together with 2" finishing nails.

FINISH FRAMEWORK

Square the framework and keep it rigid, for the time being, by tacking small triangles of plywood across the top two corners. When you're satisfied that it's exactly right, replace the finishing nails (except in the little triangles with No. 8x¾" flat-head wood screws. These should be slightly countersunk and filled with wood putty.

An incidental hint: Countersinking is a simple job with the new types of drills available now in most hardware stores. Using a single drill attachment with the proper adjustment you can do the entire operation at once instead of taking three or more runs at it to drill the pilot hole, drill the countersink hole and so on.

Back to the project at hand: Now you fix the shelf and drawer cleats in place on the partitions and install them.

Build a floor frame out of 2x4s (on edge) or scraps of ¾" plywood. Nail this frame into its permanent place along the wall. Set your cabinet on top of it, and nail it to the floor frame and to the wall. At this stage you can remove those temporary plywood braces at the corners.

The new, simplified drawer design used here, calls for a half-inch plywood tray fitted between two guides or runners.

Details of finishing the cabinet depend on its use and location.

Some of the possible variations are these:

Where drawer storage is needed, then drawers can be fitted rather than doors. Where both are needed, they can be used in happy and endless combinations.

For a built-in desk, one of the modular squares between the partitions is left empty (well, maybe one drawer could be fitted just under the top) for knee space.

For detailed floor cabinet plans, see your nearest plywood dealer, or write me in care of Box 335, Vancouver, B.C.

Gardening Heads Hobbies For King and Executive

American business executives and a Twelfth Century Persian emperor have something in common with King Henry VIII of England.

They like to garden.

In a recent country-wide survey by the National Garden Bureau, forty-eight per cent of interviewed executives — all in top management jobs — listed gardening as their favorite recreation.

The interviewers were a little late for Henry and Emperor Cyrus of Persia, but in their days they surrounded their palaces with some of the largest, most ornate gardens the world has ever seen. As out of character for a ruler as it might sound, both Henry and Cyrus boasted of doing a lot of the sowing and planting themselves.

A contemporary royal gardener, whose green thumb is so famous he has written books on gardening, is England's former King Edward VIII, the present Duke of Windsor.

To get back to our executives, they told garden bureau interviewers they prefer flowers to vegetables by a two to three ratio. A majority of them said they carry their hobby inside in the winter, starting their seeds growing in hotbeds for transplanting in the spring.

The bureau's survey also showed gardening husbands usually have gardening wives who — perhaps just to be different — have a slight preference for vegetable gardens.

The executives agree with the Duke of Windsor that gardening is mentally stimulating and helps keep the waistline down. However, most garden club members point as a further inducement to the hobby, it's material rewards in flowers and vegetables which an entire family can enjoy.

On a small plot, most of the vegetables needed by the average American family can be grown in fewer hours of work than it would take to shop for them in a store. Real estate authorities say flower gardens and plants favorably add substantially to the value of a house.

There are hidden rewards in gardening, too. For example, by belonging to garden clubs, one not only learns the art through the experience of other members, but also makes social contacts which are rewarding and quite often valuable in business.

Picture Window Is Not a Joke

Picture windows have been subjects of many unjustified wisecracks, such as framing the picture looking in, not out. Appraisers, however, are kinder when it comes to putting a value on a house.

"The picture window," says Laurel G. Blair of Toledo, "need not frame a view or trees and streams if it serves to bring light into an otherwise dark room and if the occupants want to look out at passing neighbors and traffic."

Good Tools Needed for Good Work

Here's What Comes First In Your Home Tool Chest

How a tool chest can grow from basic requirements to a versatile collection by adding a tool at a time in the order of their general need. Although many others can be added before starting into the powertool field, these shown above are considered fundamental: (1) A 16 to 16 ounce claw hammer; (2) A crosscut No. 8 saw; (3) Various size screwdrivers; (4) Monkey wrench; (5) Accurate rule; (6) Combination pliers . . (7) Jack plane; (8) Chisel; (9) Brace; (10) Adjustable try square; (11) Spirit level; (12) Keyhole saw (13) Hacksaw for metal; (14) Fine point backsaw; (15) Files and rasps; (16) Carpenter's square; (17) Hand drill; (18) Portable electric drill, a basic power tool.

Choose Them For Quality And Save

A few good tools can save you a lot of money and time in home care and repair. It is better to own a minimum number of quality tools than a miscellaneous collection of cheap toys or gadgets. Poor tools can spoil a job, cause injuries and discourage any man from making the simplest repairs around a house.

Six basic tools are considered a must for the average household. There are a claw hammer, a crosscut saw, a screwdriver or two, a monkey wrench, an accurate rule and a pair of pliers.

From this point on, most home tool chests just grow as needs arise. And it is wiser to assemble good tools gradually than to compromise for the sake of price.

A hammer handle that breaks, a hammer head that flies off, a screwdriver that ruins a screwhead making the screw difficult to remove, or a saw that jumps from its kerf and cuts your hand are just some of the hazards involved in the use of cheap tools.

And of course, hand tools come before power tools in the career of any craftsman. If you haven't learned how to use hand tools properly, your neck will be out when it comes to power tools.

A PLANE RANKS HIGH

One of the first needs that may arise after you have acquired the six basic tools probably will be that of a plane. For most household chores, like smoothing the edges of doors and drawers, a jack plane seems to serve best.

This is a plane used with two hands, one on the handle, the other on the knob.

Being about 11 to 15 inches long, a jack plane is handy for smoothing longer surfaces, although carpenters use a jointer plane, 22 to 24 inches long, for very long surfaces. However, a jack plane does not cut the end grain of lumber as well as a small one-hand block plane, which soon becomes needed in the home workshop.

Then chisels and gouges are needed for such work as cutting mortises for locks and door butts. Gouges are rounded chisels.

A bit brace and a set of various sizes of bits become the next appropriate addition. A most everybody gets a ratchet brace nowadays. This allows you to bore holes in tight places where complete turns of the brace are impossible — close to a wall, or in a corner.

SQUARES AND LEVELS

An adjustable try square with a miter edge solves many problems. These usually include spirit levels, horizontal and vertical. A regular carpenter's level also will be needed. These are made with either a wooden body or lightweight aluminum for greater durability.

A keyhole saw or a compass saw with changeable blades will cut curves and holes through floors or walls for pipes and other purposes.

Then you'll need a backsaw to cut metal and backsaw for careful work, such as mitering. Files become indispensable and a carpenter's square is handy for use as a straightedge and rule as well as truing framing angles.

A hand drill to cut small holes through either wood or metal will soon whet your appetite for power tools, of which the portable electric drill is usually one of the first acquired.

It's a good idea to take a tip from a skilled cabinet maker when you are about to buy tools. You will notice that he will go to a reliable dealer and select a reliable brand of tools. Watch him heft a tool. He will stage a little pantomime trying the tool in all working positions to see if it feels good.

For instance, in buying a hammer, grasp the handle near the end and find out how your wrist feels. A good household hammer can be anything between the 10 and 16 ounce sizes, depending on how it feels in your hand. Usually heavier hammers are used for nailing into hardwood and for driving larger nails.

A good general purpose household saw is a No. 8. This is coarse enough to cut fast and fine enough for rough work. The number of a saw means the number of teeth per inch. Crosscut saws have 8 to 12 points per inch. Rip saws range from 5 to 7. Backsaws for fine work at the workbench have 12 to 16 teeth per inch.

Most hardware stores sell handy booklets describing the uses and cares of tools. These usually run around a quarter but they contain valuable advice for all workers with tools.

How to Refinish Switch Plates

Remove all electric switch and outlet plates when you paint a room. Paint these plates separately on newspaper, oiled paper or aluminum foil. If you paint them on the wall, your paint job will be marred the next time you take them off for any repairs. The painted edges will stick and break.

FOREST HAZARD

Careless smokers constitute the largest single human cause of forest fires.

Press Conference Chairman Has Developed Fine Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"We don't bait our debating," says Martha Rountree, chairman of Press Conference (ABC-TV, Sundays, 5:30 p.m EST), "We are not trying to delightful our guests."

Thereby she takes a stand quite different from an increasing number of television interview programs.

"When you start arguing you don't get information. And from an important guest you want information." We are, actually, trying to do an information program."

ON TOP OF NEWS

In its effort to stay on top of the most current news Martha Rountree's Press Conference usually does not select its guests until today or two before air time. Because of Miss Rountree's many friendships in Washington she says she never has been stuck for obtaining a guest who is familiar with an important news event.

"I don't think it essential that we always should announce in advance who our guest should be," she said. "I'd rather be on top of the front page news than make the television listings inside the newspaper."

Martha Rountree's Press Conference has been considerably streamlined since it came on the air last summer. It now has a continually changing panel of 12 newspaper men who interview an important guest. It is the only regular weekly interview program which has flown its staff abroad to interview prominent European statesmen when important news was breaking there.

Ideas for television dramas often seem to roll in circles, says Marshall Jamison, executive producer of the Theatre Guild's TV Hour (CBS-TV, every other Wednesday, 10 p.m EST.) Currently he notes two "western psychologicals" and "soul-searching TV comedians."

Jamison is constantly seeking new dramatic approaches. An example will be seen on the home screen May 8 when the Theatre Guild presents Duke Ellington and his orchestra in "A Drum Is a Woman," a dramatic interpretation of jazz from the jungle to present place in contemporary life.

Berrios Fights Costa Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Tiny Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico is a 7-to-5 choice to defeat clever Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn tonight in the opening round of the featherweight elimination tournament to determine a successor to retired champion Sandy Saddler.

The 12 - rounder at Madison Square Garden will be broadcast and telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

The winner will meet Nigeria's Hogan Kid Bassey, British Empire 126-pound titleholder, in the semi-final of the tourney set up by the World Boxing Committee and the National Boxing Association.

Canuck Ousted From Badminton

LONDON (AP) — Dave MacTaggart of Vancouver, Canadian singles champion, was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the all-England badminton tournament Thursday by Finn Kobbero of Denmark, who defeated him 15-13, 15-8.

Marjorie Shedd of Toronto, using a hard drive and skillful drop shots, fought her way into the semi-finals of the women's singles by defeating Mrs. Tonni Ahm of Denmark 11-1, 11-6.

Miss Shedd today meets Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., United States singles champion.

Winning this tournament amounts to an unofficial world title.

Peter Ferguson of Woodstock, Ont., bowed out after his third-round match to Joe Alston of the U.S., 15-11, 15-3.

In men's doubles, MacTaggart and Ferguson defeated J. R. Coulard-Ferguson defeated J. R. Coulard and R. J. Southwell of Britain 13-15, 15-10, 15-13.

Miss Shedd and Joan Warren, also from Toronto, were ousted in the first round of the women's doubles.

At The Park

A TRUE STORY
Nature Thrills Abound in "Mystery Lake"

Edgar Bergen, radio and television star George Fenneman and blonde newcomer Gloria McGough are featured in "Mystery Lake," wildlife adventure film in color now at the Park Theatre today and Saturday.

Fenneman portrays a young naturalist who is faced by scientist Edgar Bergen into the eerie surroundings of Mystery Lake to study the strange creatures that abound there. Flying squirrels, swimming rabbits, spadefoot toads, woodchucks and a battle to the death between a cottontail rabbit and a rattlesnake, all come before the color cameras.

Gloria McGough is a native who guides Fenneman through the menacing swamps in this suspense-filled story that was photographed by Karl Maslowski, whose work was fame in Walt Disney's Academy Award productions "Beaver Valley" and "Nature's Half Acre."

On the same program Randolph Scott in his latest action hit in Technicolor, "The 7th Cavalry." The shows are continuous on Saturday from 12.30.

Balding Ends Out of Money

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Toronto professional Al Balding ended up one stroke out of the money Thursday at the end of the $5,000 second annual Coral Ridge pro-amateur tournament.

Balding's score was 37-36—73, two over par for the 6,579-yard course.

Winner was Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Pa., with 34-34—68, a competitive course record. The win was worth $700.

ROSE VS. SEIXAS

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Mervyn Rose of Melbourne, Australia, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia won berths against each other in the quarter-finals in the Good Neighbor tennis championships here Thursday.

Asks Fair Play For Pro Sport

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Kenneth Keating (Rep., N.Y.) proposed Thursday that Congress enact a "fair play code" for professional team sports instead of putting them all under federal anti-trust laws.

Keating suggested the code as a middle approach in a dispute among Congress members over the big business aspects of baseball and football.

One plank in the code he is drafting probably would "give blessing" to the reserve clause in major league baseball and football player contracts, Keating said.

"I am pretty well convinced that is essential to their operation," he told a reporter.

Keating announced he is preparing a code "with some teeth in it" after conferring with Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League. Bell is the second day circulated among senators and representatives by sports professional football's opposition to government regulation.

The supreme court last month ruled the NFL is subject to anti-trust statutes. This declaration left unchanged earlier decisions exempting baseball from the same laws.

Trappers Blast Sudbury 5-1

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers drew first blood in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A best-of-five final Thursday night, defeating Sudbury Wolves 5-1.

A three-goal explosion by the Trappers before 3,800 fans, within the first 11 minutes of the second period settled the issue.

Wolves counted their only goal on a ganging attack in which Trapper left winger George Gosselin accidentally knocked the puck into his own net. Beaudry was credited with the goal. Centreman Art Stratton completed the Trapper scoring in the game's final minute.

Second game of the series will be played Saturday at Sudbury.

Walt Disney Refuses to Rest On Laurels in 'Disneyland'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—That restless creator, Walt Disney, isn't resting on his laurels at Disneyland. He has millions of dollars' worth of new features for the fabulous park on his drawing boards.

Walt gave me a preview of his ambitious plans at his Burbank studios. He showed models and sketches of such features as Sleeping Beauty Castle, showing how living has progressed because of the great inventor, and a re-production of New Orleans' French quarter, including a fantastic haunted house complete with ghosts.

Disneyland already is a vastly successful enterprise. So the question is, why add to success? I asked Disney what would happen if he left the park as is.

"You sound like my bankers," he laughed.

But he added seriously: "My idea when I built the place was that it wouldn't be a static affair, but would give us a chance to be constantly creative. That's the fun in something like this. Having the chance to make it grow."

It's not merely a creative matter with him, however. There's a cool business reason for adding improvements. During the summer, the out-of-state visitors at Disneyland have been calculated at about 47 per cent. The rest come from California, and the percentage of local visitors is much higher on the off-season.

That means the park must count heavily on the repeat trade. "I don't want anyone to say they're not going back to Disneyland because they've seen everything," Disney said.

Last year he put in $2,000,000 in new features. He'll have another bunch of attractions for the park's dedicatory anniversary this summer.

Now under construction: The interior of Sleeping Beauty's castle, the fairy-tale princess' story; the Train of Tomorrow, a half-scale, high - speed streamliner; the House of Tomorrow, a futuristic home; a rock mountain on Tom Sawyer Island where kids can climb through mazes and a re-vamped autopia and speedboat ride.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Saturday, March 23, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Stimulating vibrations from the Sun and Uranus invite your best efforts at both regular occupation and other activities now. Be sensibly economical; not, too.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — New spheres of activity, wholesome fun and clever methods to entertain or educate indicated today. Ambition should be stimulated, too. Give thought to sound propositions, conferences, granting favors.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's position urges care in signing papers, agreements, giving estimates, and in all legal matters. Day otherwise can be a pleasant one with accent on social events, children's interests.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Avoid rows for purely personal matters but stirring and beneficial ones for matters of more general scope, such as social problems, educational advancement, etc. Sports, relaxing hobbies encouraged.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This can be a big day for you. Good news, favors likely; happy and surprising events indicated. Necessary tasks and work should go along smoothly, profitably. A delightful day! Give it your best.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — As with Gemini, be careful about signing papers. Do not get into legal difficulties or be careless about assignments. Day is full of promise for all worthwhile endeavors, however, for new or familiar work and tasks.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra) — With delicate matters and sensitive people to be handled, be extra tactful and considerate. You can have happy and restful diversions, too.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A benefic but challenging period during which much can be accomplished, many worthwhile activities enjoyed and promoted. Inventions, other creative and ingenious pursuits favored. Heed children's needs.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Not exactly a money — making day but it can be a profitable one in many ways. Seek to better relationships with family, good friends; make contacts to help your business, increase assets later.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A period of great activity, with many new offerings and pleasant surprises indicated. Cast aside nothing that may have value in either a personal or business way.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — A peak day for your talents. Don't lose interest in any promising undertaking, and don't fail to take advantage of new or improved methods, materials, etc. Relaxing hobbies, rest urged.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Single out past week's deficiencies and prepare to offset them in the future. A fine period for visiting educational exhibits, museums, national shrines, the sick. Be moderate in strenuous sports.

You born today have the ability to create new methods for others but may not always do the same for yourself. You not only can gather knowledge quickly and efficiently but can terminate it wisely. You have a love for humor, wholesome fun, travel, music and many of the arts; could become a good orator, teacher, actor, religious; will stand firmly by friends; are not petty or jealous, but can be supersensitive. You usually set up your own standards of right and wrong and are rarely disposed to change even though strongly opposed. Try to be more flexible — but without forsaking principles, of course.

Mr. Fleming referred to the budget announcement that, effective July 1, old age pensions and other welfare payments would be raised to $46 from $40 a month and family allowances for certain age groups by $1 monthly Sept. 1.

He said the government should bring in legislation now to make the increases effective at once. The Conservative party would endorse in passing it.

Mr. Fleming said the budget claimed to be anti-inflationary. It was nothing of the kind. People in fact would pay more taxes.

Referring to federal-provincial the federal government has had a tax relation, Mr. Fleming said "stiff-necked, blind and unyielding attitude."

He said the federal government has forced the provinces into greater debt because it holds the lion's share of joint tax fields. Provincial borrowing last year had risen 61 cent.

PROVINCES GET MORE

Mr. Garson said the new agreements provide $640,000,000 in payments to the provinces—25 per cent more than last year, and almost double total provincial expenditures in 1945.

Conservatives, including Premier Frost of Ontario, had said provinces were only unfairly treated considering the big federal surplus.

The "clear implication" was that there is no particular objection to the size of federal budget "provided a more substantial portion of it is handed back to the provinces in the form of revenue for which they do not have the responsibility impose a penny of provincial taxation to raise."

Sunday School Lesson

Who Are the Real Heretics?

By ROY L. SMITH

Let us be quite honest about the matter. The heretic, whether he be a political, social or religious heretic, is a man who needs watching.

Unfortunately, the individual who is not informed on the subject of politics is not greatly concerned about the political heretic, and that other individual who knows little or nothing about religion is apt to be quite indifferent in the case of the religious heretic.

But inside the field of politics, social ethics, business or religion, there are those who have made a scientific study of their fields. They are apt to know the difference between the master and the quack.

RELIGION AND HYPOCRISY

It is a common practise of the critics to point to some Christian who has fallen short of the mark and to say, "If that is Christianity, then I want nothing to do with it."

As a matter of fact, misbehaviour is no part of Christianity, and the critic knows that to be true. The one who misbehaves has not been taught to misbehave by religion. His fault lies in the fact that he lacks the very thing that Christianity has been urging upon him. He has heard honestly preached, and he has been dishonest. He may have had nothing to do with Christianity" except that he has heard it preached and has thereafter ignored it.

There is a great deal of difference between hypocrisy and failure. It is probably true that the vast majority of those who are called hypocrites are those who are guilty of no worse crime than failure to measure up to the demands of good religion.

WHO ARE THE RADICALS?

We have heard no little outcry of late against the communists, and it is quite true that the world may well be alarmed over the spread of that fatal philosophy. But if there had been only a little more outcry against those who were exploiting the impoverished nations of the world, we might find ourselves today with a far simpler problem on our hands.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 24: "Woes to Hypocrites," Matthew 23.

Communism, for example, has overrun a large part of the little land of Viet Nam, both north and south. And we, as Americans, can well be genuinely alarmed.

We should, however, have been alarmed many years ago when the French were building more jails than hospitals in that country, when some of their corporations were making profits of as much as 85% per year out of monopolies that were encouraged by the French government, and paying starvation wages at the same time.

Is that one a "radical" who protests against exploitation, and that other one a "patriot" who protests against the spread of communism in those lands where exploiting has gone unrebuked?

IT COMES CLOSE HOME

In a certain city there was a prominent clubwoman of great ability and sincere purpose who spent herself in exhaustion fighting communism. It was a good fight, and she was a good fighter.

But because she gave so much of her time to the fight she was under the necessity of hiring a maid, and when she discovered that every woman she interviewed wanted at least a dollar a day and carfare she was astounded. She finally succeeded in getting the mother of two small children to accept the job at a slightly less, "because she had to have the job."

In the meantime the "maid" became bitter because of her poverty, and her children were in danger of becoming delinquents because their mother was not at home to welcome them when they came home from school.

Who made that "maid" a radical? Was it her employer or the agitator?

Britain To Pledge Not To Cut Flow Of Canadian Goods

Trade Will Not Be Harmed By Common Market Scheme

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent in interview-session from British Prime Minister Macmillan here next week that the United Kingdom has no intention of trying to restrict the flow of Canadian goods to European markets.

He also will likely be asked for Canada's views on participation as a full member or only as an observer — in a North Atlantic parliamentary assembly, first proposed formally last December by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The Canadian government has been worried about the possible effects of the European Common Market and the proposed free trade area on Canadian markets in Europe. Britain is not a member of the Common Market, a principal feature of which is a customs union, but wants to participate in the free trade area if certain conditions are met.

SAVE WHEAT SALES

Another condition is that overseas territories of member nations be excluded from the area so that Canadian farm produce be excepted from the agreement. An example would be wheat sales to Ireland and other European nations on these conditions would be hurt.

Britain's agricultural products, chiefly wheat, would not be affected by the Common Market.

The Canadian prime minister, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill and Finance Minister L. B. Pearson are scheduled to arrive here Monday for a day and a half of meetings with Macmillan, Lloyd and other British officials.

British spokesmen here say Macmillan will assure Canadian leaders that the United Kingdom will continue to consult the Commonwealth at every step of the involvement of the free trade area and will do nothing to damage the traditional Canadian interests in Britain.

SINGLE ASSEMBLY IDEA

Lloyd on Friday outlined to United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles the idea of a "grand design" — a single assembly of Europe.

He is reported to have told Dulles he hopes the United States will associate themselves with certain aspects of the single assembly. He was not specific on both points.

Lloyd and Dulles also discussed the European Common Market and free trade area. Officials said Dulles expressed approval of these moves toward economic integration and also the hope that the European Market would be based on a low tariff concept.

U.S., CANADA AGREE

Officials said there was little disagreement between the U.S. and Canada on the Middle East problem. Both countries are anxious to exclude goods from Arab countries.

British officials contend British participation in the free trade area will in no way weaken the economic links with the Commonwealth. Exclusion of agricultural products from the scheme would mean 80 per cent of Commonwealth exports to British would be affected, and even more of the remaining 10 per cent might also be untouched.

Further discussion here say the United Kingdom will continue to seek every effort to increase exports to Canada.

Though trade topics loom large in the talks, Laurent - Macmillan talks, British spokesmen said a wide variety will also be thoroughly reviewed.

Plane Missing In Quebec Area, 3 Men Aboard

HALIFAX (CP)—An air search will get under way today, weather permitting, for a single engine civilian plane missing in the barren Knob Lake, Que., region with three persons aboard. A second search, for a missing naval Avenger, enters its sixth day.

Little is known about the civilian plane. A search and rescue spokesman said Friday night it is believed to be lost about 20 miles southwest of Knob Lake. Bad weather prevented an immediate air search for the three unidentified persons.

Meanwhile, ground parties will continue to comb the Springhill area of Annapolis County, N.S, for a trace of Sub-Lieut. Joseph Komarisky, last heard of Monday afternoon when he radioed base nearby Shearwater for landing instructions from a point about 35 miles east of Dartmouth, N.S.

SEARCH ENDS QUICKLY

A third air search, for a missing civilian aircraft with a prospector and mining company engineer aboard, ended the day it started when an RCAF Canso spotted the plane Friday near Clearwater Lake, 40 miles southwest of Winnipeg, Man.

Even as the search plane hovered overhead the ski-equipped Piper skimmed over the lake, took to the air and later landed safely at Bathurst.

The search for the plane was started when Dr. C. H. Cherlton, 30, of the Anaconda Mining Company, failed to complete a scheduled flight from Bathurst to Moncton. Dr. Cherlton said later he was forced down by a snow storm and decided to spend a little time prospecting.

'Yellow Objects' Possible Clue To Missing Plane

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S Navy destroyer plowed through choppy seas tonight to investigate a report of "yellow objects" as a possible clue to the fate of 67 American soldiers and their privately-owned plane which vanished Friday off the coast of Japan.

Officials conducting what was described as the greatest air-sea search in the East history said there was no evidence that the objects were connected with the missing four-engined C-97. The plane, on a flight from California to Japan, carried yellow life rafts. A yellow "Mae West" life jackets and packets of yellow dye marker.

Air force officials said, however, that the area where the objects were reported is about 100 miles south of the plane's last reported position and that yellowish sea weed often is mistaken for life jackets or rafts.

The lost C-97, military version of the Boeing Stratocruiser, carried 67 persons, including three women, and a crew of 10.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The weather will clear and seasonably cool over Southern Ontario this morning. Skies will remain clear over the province this afternoon and noon temperatures again near 50 in southern sections and 30 to 40 in northern sections.

The area of cloudy skies and light rain that covered the eastern United States Friday moved eastward into the Atlantic rather than northward into the lower Great Lakes region.

A storm in Texas is expected to move northeastward bringing rain or snow to Ontario on Sunday.

Income Ceilings For Blind, Needy Will Be Raised

Health Minister Martin Makes Announcement

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government didn't let all of its financial worth benefits out of the bag with its budget.

Health Minister Martin announced Friday that the government, in addition to its willingness to increase such federal-provincial pensions 80 monthly, also proposes to raise income ceilings applying to pensions for the needy between 65 and 69, the blind and the disabled.

The easing of the means test would increase by $240 a year the additional 13,500-odd persons eligible for the pensions and allow those receiving it to get the $40 monthly—it would go up to $46 July 1—to have higher incomes. Mr. Martin estimated the cost to the federal government at about $3,500,000.

Both the pension increase of 96 per month, announced in last year's Minister Harris in his March 14 budget speech, and the boost in income ceilings are under provincial agreement because the provinces share the cost of pensions.

KNOWLES HAS COMPLAINT

Mr. Martin got into the government-welfare act during the early his speech in the Commons budget debate. By the time he finished, Winnipeg South Centre (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) had found what he considered a flaw in the bill.

A perennial advocate of higher welfare benefits, Mr. Knowles complained the government was using single income of married couples distance—payment by only $240 a year while the proposed boost in the assistance to both of them would total $144 a year.

"On that basis the new ceiling will not permit a married couple to get what the pension that is proposed." Amount of the pension is included in the ceiling income.

Mr. Martin made his pension announcement after Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) said the government was "shirking responsibility in the "paltry" $6 monthly pension increase. Pensioners can get out and buy somebody handle his job who can do it.

Pensioners now earning the maximum permissible incomes, $1,200 single, $2,400 married, could not have benefited by the $72-a-year pension increases until the ceiling was raised. They will get at least that amount. However, they will not benefit by the full pension because their income exceeded the ceiling now would be able to get increased payments.

ACCEPTANCES LISTED

Mr. Martin said that to date the provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Newfoundland have accepted the federal government they accept the proposal. Press reports indicate that acceptance of the federal proposal has been received from Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia also accepted it. Acknowledgement

BOY MAKING CANDLES CAUSES FIRE ALARM

City firemen had two runs Friday night, both for minor causes with little or no damage reported.

About midnight the first call came to 368 Bridge St., East where a small blaze was caused as result of the owner's son making candles over the stove. The boy's hands were slightly burned as result of the blaze.

The other call for firemen was to Black's Meat Market, also on Bridge street, where an electric motor in the basement was overheated.

Police Blotter

Investigation of three minor accidents and a minor theft along with 14 charges being laid against several inebriates was the sum total of city and provincial police activity during the night.

Provincial police reported one drunk driver with a passenger in the same car being charged with drunken driving. City police reported two minor accidents and a Toronto man representing the Interlarke Realty Corp. complained that a League sign had been stolen from his car.

Spring's Here, Dog Catcher Has Field Day

With the coming of spring and the tendency of dogs to be on the prowl, the city dog catcher is having a field day corralling stray dogs. No less than 18 city dog owners are facing prosecution for letting dogs run at-large as result of this week's activities.

"Dogs must not be allowed to run at large," city dog catcher Charles Thorn, stressed today. "Under a city by-law dogs must be kept on a leash or otherwise confined."

If the dogs are allowed to roam they will be picked up and owners will face charges of contravening the city by-law.

The dog catcher also noted that 1957 dog licences are now due and procurable at city hall.

Police Warn Against Gunplay

Youthful owners of small arms such as B-B rifles are pointed in facing their guns within the city limits will face prosecution and confiscation of their weapons City Police Inspector J. C. Hayes warned today.

"The discharge of .22 rifles and B-B guns within the city limits is getting too prevalent with results that someone is going to get injured if the practice continues," the Inspector said. "The police Department is receiving numerous complaints.

Street lights, spot lights, and even windows in homes are being broken as the youthful gun owners sharpen their shooting eyes according to the police.

"Not only will those using guns inside the city be prosecuted, the matter is also one of parental responsibility," the Inspector concluded.

Nurses' Residence at Hospital Prime Item in New Facilities

The perplexing problem of financing a new $800,000 nurses' residence and class room building was the main point of discussion at the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors monthly meeting yesterday.

The property committee composed of J. E. Buchan, chairman, Doctor J. S. Loynes, Warden L. McLaren and Kenneth Bate, recommended "the only practical solution to providing adequate classroom facilities for student nurses is a new multi-storey combined nurses' residence and class room building to provide a class room area plus 80 student beds. A rough estimate of the costs is $240,000 not including furnishings.

Mr. Buchan said the best site for the proposed structure would be on the west side of the property running north and south in U-shape allowing for even greater expansion than presently contemplated.

While all members of the board recognized the necessity of these added facilities, general uncertainty regarding the future financing was expressed by Chairman J. N. Yanover who recommended that the executive and finance committee for further study.

The new residence is a primary item in the hospital's long standing policy of concentrating mounting demands for hospital facilities from the ever increasing population of the area. As the realization of these necessary facilities will be more successful operation of the hospital, erection of the new building is virtually certainty as soon as financial arrangements have been completed.

Other matters concerning the increases in keeping with an additional expenditure of $16,000 predicated by reduction of the employee working week to 44 hours, were referred to the finance committee for study.

Increases in salaries, was also held in abeyance for further consideration.

Administrator Kenneth Box told the board of governors that consideration be given to increasing the rates for private rooms by $1.00 per day and all other types of accommodation 50 cents per person.

The committee felt that they should consider financial exigencies for the next two or three months before definitely increasing the rates.

Recommendations from the supplies committee for the renewal of the contract for bread from Burkholder's, the purchase of a short wave diathermy unit, a Leitz Microscope and Camera, and central recording equipment for members of the medical staff, were approved by the board.

Mrs. J. H. Sinclair, Margaret L. Peart, chairman and secretary of the school of nursing committee, recommended "that we continue with the present three-year nursing program and commence to pay the student nurse $60 monthly in the first year effective August 1st 1958. It is agreed that attention must be given to the expansion of the resident accommodation and teaching facilities as this would assist in the stabilization of the nursing service."

A motion approving the payment of a $50 monthly salary to student nurses in their third year was proposed by Mrs. Sinclair and seconded by Mr. A. F. Whitehead.

Members of the board attending were Kenneth Box, J. E. Buchan, H. P. M. Cane, J. Domenico, W. H. Finkle, Ben Safe representing Mayor Jane Forsyth, J. S. Loynes, Mrs. H. McCabe, L. McLaren, Mrs. J. E. Marsh, K. G. M. Ross, C. H. Wright, N. Yanover and T. C. Graham.

The annual meeting of the hospital will be held at the time of the next board meeting in April.

Donald McNiven Named President Of City Liberals

"All Conservative governments have done when in power was to pile up debt for Liberal governments to pay off. Lee Grills says the federal party's finances are spent four years of unfinished business. Well, he's going to see another four years of unfinished business by the same party."

On this lively note by Herb McCabe, president for the past 10 years, the Liberal Association for the City of Belleville, opened to session at the Kiwanis Centre last night to nominate ward representatives.

Donald McNiven was nominated to succeed Mr. McCabe as president of the Liberal Association.

Other elected members of the new executive are Mrs. H. McCabe, 1st vice-president; Tommy Harris, 2nd vice-president; Robert Temple, 3rd vice-president, and Mrs. Harris, secretary-treasurer.

Frank Weir was returned chairman for Foster Ward; Harold Williamson for Sampson Ward; Peter Huson for Ketcheson Ward; Herb Ireland, 1st vice-president; Tommy Flagler for Bleecker Ward; Peter Melchior and deputy Joe Doyle for Coleman Ward and Doug Moxam for Murney Ward.

FOLLWELL SPEAKS

Frank Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, set the pace of the meeting with ringing pre-election oratory.

"This district wants representation not opposition," he declared. The Liberal government is representation for the people by the people. In contrast the Conservatives have yet to enunciate a policy other than criticism to protect the rights of parliament and the pipeline. With two months to election they admit they have no policy, whereas we have a consistent policy of progress to care for the good of everyone.

"Louis St. Laurent is the strongest advocate of national unity and each one of you is a member of a wonderful team."

Mr. Follwell also spoke glowingly of Hon. L. B. Pearson.

"The American's envy him their Ike but thank God we have our Mike."

The speaker reminded fellow Liberals that they have an opportunity to hear Mr. Pearson at a party convention to be held on April 11th and on the occasion of the laying of the date slab for the new post office at Batawa.

Cheese Marketing, Making to Feature Spring Parley

A panel discussion on the problems of cheese manufacturing and cheese marketing will feature the annual spring meeting of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association to be held Tuesday, March 26th, at the Kiwanis Centre in Belleville.

Heading up the panel discussion will be Robt. H. Gillan, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Belleville. Panel members will be Charles N. Heath, Belleville; Ralph Smith, Kemptville, and A. Quickert of Belleville.

The convention will be an afternoon and evening affair with a cordial invitation extended to all cheesemakers, their wives, officials and cheese patrons in the Central Ontario area.

Addressing the conference will be J. M. Bain, chief cheese inspector for Toronto, Hamilton and Ontario who will talk on planning for 1957; D. M. Seattle, chief dairy products, grading and inspection services, Ottawa, who will speak on cheese grading; C. E. Lackner, chairman The Milk Products Board of Ontario; and R. Irvine, Head of dairy division, Kemptville Agricultural School; Professor Dunbrack, Guelph; John Fraser, Vankleek Hill, who will talk on activities of the Ontario Cheesemakers' Assoc., and J. F. Robinson, chief cheese inspector for Eastern Ontario, who will speak on problems within the cheese industry.

Dump-Truck Owner-Operators Ready to Take Court Action

TORONTO (CP) — A militant core of dump-truck owner-operators said Friday they are ready to go to court in an attempt to bar the 1,500,000-member International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC) from organizing the sand and gravel haulage business operating Southern Ontario's huge concentration of new construction.

The owner - operators group views the issue as one of free association. Moreover, its members argue that men like themselves are classed as independent contractors by Ontario labor law and thus can't qualify for a union. These people say they will be ordered now would cripple a multitude of building and road projects in booming districts such as Metropolitan Toronto.

The teamsters union professes to see no issue at all. It merely says it has a broad plan to recruit construction and haulage personnel across Southern Ontario—including dump-truck owner-operators.

The teamsters say that if anyone wants to try to stop them by going to court, they're welcome to go ahead. They're confident in the target labor categories can join or quit the union anytime he likes.

SMALL OWNERS BETWEEN

The men in the middle are the dump-truck owner-operators who haven't joined either side. Both both rival groups claim to have made headway.

On one side in the dispute is the teamsters' musical conference headed by James Hoffa of Detroit. On the other is the tiny Individual Dump-Truck Owners' Association, formed Feb. 25. Its president is John R. Watson of Stouffville, 35 miles northeast of here, a truck-owner himself.

Jack Bonhomme, teamsters director for the teamsters' central conference, said the teamsters had already signed 15 contracts covering 700 men in various phases of the haulage business. But the association had done nothing about it.

WIDE AREA

Watson said his group hopes eventually to have 1,000 members in an area extending from Hamilton to Kingston and north to North Bay. Then: now are about 300 members, all working under 15 contracts with sand and gravel pits in the Hamilton, Toronto and Peterborough areas.

He said the association has achieved better rates and higher standards among members, but Robinson said "there is no match" for what the teamsters' union has obtained elsewhere.

Watson said he felt there would be trouble but Robinson said he doubted it. But he said organizing campaigns in Southern Ontario will be stepped up.

GIRL FOUND

STRATFORD (CP)—A 14-year-old Grantham Township girl missing for a week was found here by police Friday night. Police said Louise Sanders was apparently heading for Windsor since letter addressed to relatives there was found in a Cooksville motel where she had spent Thursday night. She will be returned to her home near St. Catharines.

Sap Run Good; Syrup, Sugar Are Plentiful

A good run of maple sap during the past week resulted in considerable quantity of maple syrup and sugar being offered on the local produce market this morning.

Top price for the early season make of syrup was $1.75 per quart or $6 per gallon with the odd vendor quoting down to $1.40 per quart and $5.50 per gallon. Maple sugar cakes were offered in all sizes, tart tin size bringing 35c for two cakes.

Egg prices seemed a bit firm with extras fetching 50c per dozen; firsts were 45c and mediums sold at 40c per dozen.

Fowl sold generally at 30c for mature birds with young chicken at 35c.

On the outside market apples generally sold at 75c per small basket for early varieties with the exception of fancy Delicious which were offered at 90c per basket. Potatoes sold at 60c per basket and $2.50 per bag; parsnips were 60c per basket.

Honey was quoted at 55c for two pounds and $1 for four-lb. tins.

Sauerkraut brought 25c per quart.

African violets and begonias sold at from $1 to $1.50 per pot, tulips were 85c per dozen, "mums were 75c per bunch, geraniums 50c, $1 each and rhododendrons $6 each.

Pickerel and whitefish sold at 40c per lb.

One vendor offered cross-bred spaniel puppies at $4 and $5 each.

Type of Judges Needed for Bench Hard to Obtain

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Friday that high earnings of Canadian lawyers make it difficult to obtain top-calibre judges.

He also told the Commons estimates committee, studying the department's spending program, that the government is opposed to "piecemeal" implementation of recommendations of the Fauteux committee on the parole system.

Mr. Garson said the type of men most suitable for the bench are "at their peak earning power." He said 24 per cent of judges' salaries last year, they "can be prepared to accept less than half their income as lawyers and be prepared to work as hard."

Mr. Garson said the chief justice of Canada is $27,500 with other judges of the Supreme Court of Canada receiving $22,500. The chief justices of the provincial courts of appeal, Supreme Court judges $16,900 and provincial and district court judges $10,500.

WANT ACTIVE MEN

The type of men wanted were those under 50 still in active practice and "who are willing to slow down."

Another difficulty was that corporation law was more lucrative than court work. While corporation lawyers were "active men" "we like to get men on the bench who are experienced in court work."

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said he is disappointed at the delay in implementing recommendations of the Fauteux committee.

The committee, headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux, last July made 44 recommendations for a complete overhaul of Canada's criminal and remission system. Most requires federal-provincial co-operation.

TRY CO-OPERATION FIRST

Mr. Garson said Ottawa wants to co-operate with the provinces in implementing recommendations even if some could be instituted without their consent. If this co-operation was not forthcoming, the federal government would be prepared to act on its own.

The minister said it will take several more months to assemble information necessary for a federal-provincial conference to consider the recommendations.

Mr. Macdonnel said he didn't see why action could not be taken immediately on a recommendation to adjust salaries and duties of probation officers.

Mr. Garson disagreed. It was an example of an "extremely difficult and complex problem" requiring co-operation by Ottawa and the provinces.

IN MEMORIAM

BELNAP. — In loving memory of a dear son, Ronald Belnap, who passed away on March 24th, 1956. Time flies, years pass by, but memories of you will never die.
They are cherished in the hearts of those they left behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
Sadly missed and mourned by Dad.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of Ronnie Belnap who was killed one year ago on March 24th, 1956.
You are gone, but not from our hearts you will stay,
Sweet memories linger, and sadly missed by sister Gwen and family.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of a dear son, Ronald Belnap, 1956, who was instantly killed March 24th, 1956.
No one knows the silent heartache
Of those who loved you well.
Of the grief that is borne in silence
Of the tears that fall unseen.
Sadly missed and dearly remembered. Mom and Dad.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of a dear son, Ronald Belnap, who passed away March 24th, 1956.
His life was ended, his actions kind
A generous hand and an active mind
Lasting be his memory we attend
A loving brother and a faithful friend.
Sadly missed and remembered by brother Don and family.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of Ronald Belnap, who was killed on March 24th, 1956.
There is a friend who misses you sadly,
And that's the time long since you went away.
And we think of you daily and hourly
And try to do the things you would attend.
The tears that we shed are in silence,
And we breathe a prayer for you.
For you were ours and we remember,
Though all the world forgets.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Bernice, brother-in-law Jack and nieces Loretta, Christine and Karla Ann.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of our darling Daddy and Grandpa, Jimmy Gay, who were killed one year ago.
They say it's only a year ago,
But to us it seems so long,
A million words of living awake,
A million times we think of you,
Your memory is our keepsake
Dear to us when we pray
Are the days we spent with you
—Jimmy Gay.
Always remembered never to be forgotten, sister Gwen and family, Grandma.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of my beloved brother, Ronald Belnap, who died on March 24th, 1956.
I cannot forget your smiling face,
Your image is ever near,
The smile that won so many friends,
In those happy days of yore.
I'd give the world if I could say,
"Hello, Ron" and see you once more.
Too dearly loved to be forgotten,
Sister Lillian, brother-in-law Jack, nephews Steve and Sidney Grigg.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away March 24th, 1956.
The month of March now is here,
It's on the calendar I see,
We lost a loved one good and fine,
The sad day in our hearts
Till the end of time.
We miss her now the same old way
As we have done each year.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Dan, Doug, Dick, Janet and Donnie.

MONDEVILLE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Fred Mondeville, who passed away March 24th, 1956.
He's at home with his Maker,
And as always busy at thinking.
The thoughts of dear Mom and Dear,
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
But through them keeps he cheering.
Thy they little know the sorrow
That lies in the heart of a mother,
Who's lost a husband by mother and father.

CHAPMAN. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Chapman, who passed away March 23rd, 1955.
Nothing can ever take away
The love we have for you dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps you near.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Earl and sister.

BROOKS. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, John David Brooks, who died March 24th, 1956.
You left sweet memories to blossom,
Beautiful fruit we have to grow;
In the lives of those who loved you,
Precious memories of days that are gone.

Work Will Start On Legion Hall Early in May

TRENTON (Special) — Construction of a new $90,000 Legion Hall in the bayshore area is expected to get underway in early May. Tenders will be called immediately on several of plans from the architect, a Legion spokesman said yesterday. He indicated the blueprints have been in the process of preparation for some time.

The financing necessary for the new building through the sale of bonds has been encouraging to date.

Legion members will utilize the present accommodations until the new premises are available.

Production Awards Given Data Workers

TRENTON (Special) — Scores of shoe workers at the Bata company received special awards yesterday when Dr. C. K. Hyde made presentations of silver shields and envelopes to the winners of production competitions.

The shields, symbolic of outstanding accomplishments in production, went to the foreman of departments on the third, fourth and fifth floors.

Later, individual winners of competitions were called to the Managing Director Herz' office to hear a message of congratulation and receive cheques. Those honored included B. Pearson, C. Tracey, J. Hoffgren, Harold Mitchell, J. Spratt, V. Balent, I. Stycinle, E. Punka, A. Pittaluga, C. Hinrenan, H. Buckles, P. McGown, C. Willis, M. Pocq, R. Mossman, F. Weese, M. Winters, J. Tyrer, R. A Lift for Living

Matter of Personal Destiny

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Let us think about the matter of personal destiny. How far is life predetermined? Did God a million years ago foresee and foreordain that on this particular day of March we should be engaged in whatever we are doing?

Or take the questions often put to me, "Did God predestine that Judas should betray Jesus in order to carry out the divine plan of salvation? And if so, should Judas be blamed for being merely the instrument of the divine purpose?"

And of course, we might answer that if Judas deserved no blame for fulfilling a foreordained plan, then Jesus merits no praise for carrying God's plan through to the Cross. Such reasoning reduces the question of predestination practically to absurdity. Oh, yes, this matter of personality raises many baffling queries.

But swing to the other extreme and say there is no such thing as destiny at all.

Some years ago Robert Blatchford, a British journalist, wrote his autobiography. He opened the book with a passage in which he attributed his success, such as it was, to luck. In explanation he said his mother had been an actress. When he was 10 years old, she was offered the choice of two engagements.

SONS' DECISION

Unable to decide for herself, she asked her little sons to make the decision. As they happened to know only one of the two towns, they chose the one they knew. Had they gone to the other town, said Blatchford, he would not have met the girl whom he eventually married, and who became such a factor in his life.

Moreover, he attributed his securing of a position in the field of journalism to the fact that a friend of his happened to take lodgings in a house with a young man who had just been engaged on a newspaper. Thus two great factors in his life, his marriage and his vocation, Blatchford ascribed directly to chance.

Life is strewn with enigmas like this. Events sometimes seem to turn on the most casual and unpredictable occurrences. Centuries ago the writer of Ecclesiastes looked out on his world and said: "The race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong neither yet bread to the wise nor riches to the man of understanding, nor yet favor to the man of skill; but time and chance happen to them all." Yes, the best of people often suffer reverses through no fault of their own. Accidents do come to the most careful.

How can we reconcile chance with the laws and purposes of God? Our science is based on the belief that this is a law-abiding universe, and our duty is to do all in our power to master the laws which reduce the element of chance.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

No music is sweeter to the bird-watcher's ears than the song of the eastern meadowlark in March. Not that this is the very best songster in Birdland, and not that the sound is particularly cheerful. No, though the meadowlark is one of our really good vocalists, it is surpassed by a number of others; and its voice is more sad than cheerful. But this is a herald, announcing that "spring is here", and that the rest of the choristers will arrive presently. No wonder it is welcome!

The clear, flute-like whistle, often translated in those words, is generally the first indication we have of the meadowlark's presence. Strangely enough, although it is comparatively easy to recognize the voice, nevertheless, many different tunes can be attributed to this species. Not only do individuals sing their own special version of the song (as song sparrows do), but a single bird may have a great number of tunes. Sometimes one will go through a whole series of songs, at other times will sing but two, alternately. Yet the slurred, decidedly musical whistles are always delivered deliberately, and the song always ends on a long drawn out descending note — the word "here". This ending is probably what gives us the feeling of sadness.

The eastern meadowlark is not afraid of cold or snow: some actually winter in the northern states, though the majority holiday farther south. But they return to us before snow has completely left our fields, contenting themselves with weed seeds until summer brings beetles and grasshoppers.

IDENTIFICATION

This is one of the easiest birds to identify by sight. The white, outer feathers of its short, broad tail are conspicuous not only when the bird flies, but even when it walks about picking up food on the ground, because the tail is constantly flicked open and shut. The front view, too, is unmistakable, as a black V is plainly marked on the brilliant yellow shirt front. Comparable to the robin in length, it is a much heavier bird, with more body and less tail.

The name meadowlark is apt, for its favourite habitat is a meadow or field. A rock, a fence post, or a tree may be the singing perch, but, like a lark, it has a flight song (heard only at the mating season), not so loud, but decidedly longer than its regular song. One odd characteristic about this species is that it may sing any month of the year — though we in Canada, have little hope of hearing it after November.

Recall how Louis Pasteur discovered the principle of vaccination. He had been studying the diseases of sheep and hogs. He had taken serum containing germs from infected animals and was developing the cultures in his laboratory. During a vacation season his assistant failed to feed the cultures properly, and on his return Pasteur found them in a half-dead condition.

The assistant, in his chagrin, was proceeding to throw the cultures away when Pasteur stopped him, saying, "Let's see what they will do." Taking those enfeebled germs, Pasteur injected them into healthy animals and thereby discovered the principle of vaccination, for critics taunted him, saying he had stumbled on it. "It came by chance," they mocked. Pasteur replied simply, "True, but chance favors the trained mind."

The wise man learns and uses all the laws he knows to overcome chance. The good farmer takes every precaution to insure his crop by proper cultivation, and then he has to take a chance on the weather. There is an element of uncertainly even after he has done his best.

But it is because of the element of chance and uncertainty that we develop faith, hope and love. If the rewards of goodness were always visible and assured, there would be no heroism and no sacrifice. If the answers to prayer were to come directly the next day, religion would be reduced to the level of a heavenly post office.

But God is more than a postmaster. God is a Father who works by love. And in love there is always risk.

Study Change In United Church Women's Work

MONTREAL — There is to be a change in the organization of the women of the United Church of Canada.

For some time now the women have been saying, "Let's see what they will do." Taking those enfeebled germs, Pasteur injected them into healthy animals and thereby discovered the principle of vaccination, for critics taunted him, saying he had stumbled on it. "It came by chance," they mocked. Pasteur replied simply, "True, but chance favors the trained mind."

The wise man learns and uses all the laws he knows to overcome chance. The good farmer takes every precaution to insure his crop by proper cultivation, and then he has to take a chance on the weather. There is an element of uncertainly even after he has done his best.

But it is because of the element of chance and uncertainty that we develop faith, hope and love. If the rewards of goodness were always visible and assured, there would be no heroism and no sacrifice. If the answers to prayer were to come directly the next day, religion would be reduced to the level of a heavenly post office.

But God is more than a postmaster. God is a Father who works by love. And in love there is always risk.

LORD'S DAY ACT CHALLENGED

Attorney General A. Kelso Robert's announcement in the Ontario legislature that he has consented to laying charges against the Toronto Telegram, the CBC, the Globe and Mail, the Toronto Star and CKEY for alleged infringement of the Lord's Day Act, is highly significant.

Ever since John Bassett, publisher of the Telegram announced that he intended to publish a Sunday paper pronouncement from the Lord's Day alliance, tests have been forthcoming from the Lord's Day alliance.

It is now apparent that Mr. Roberts beat that body to the punch and in his own words has produced a "fait accompli" by furnishing the necessary information through the Ontario Provincial Police before the alliance had a chance to carry out its intention to prosecute the Telegram specifically.

Mr. Roberts said that he had received a letter from the alliance's counsel Mr. Brewin asking permission to prosecute just before he came into the legislature.

Mr. Brewin protested "since dictating the above I have received information that you propose to make a statement in the house on this matter. It is of interest to my clients to note that you propose to make a statement without consultation with them or with me although their interest in this matter has been made clear to you on a number of occasions."

The alliance made clear it wanted permission only to meet the open challenge to the act by the Telegram rather than "less conspicuous offenders" and "private violations."

It is significant that the information against the others charged was laid by an employee of the Telegram. In aligning such a powerful combination as the government, CBC, the Telegram, has taken the offensive and forced a test case of the Lord's Day act itself.

This act, which was conceived near the time of Confederation, prohibits, permits only works of necessity on Sunday. The courts will now decide if the activities of the newspapers and broadcasting stations comply with this condition.

However, in the past half century there has been a tremendous evolution in the dissemination of news and entertainment on this day. Many of these activities for the extension of travel, recreation and the speedy resolving all kinds of day business and services formerly considered unnecessary but now so much part of our way of life that suspension could have wide repercussions.

If, for instance, the activities of the CBC were suspended on Sunday, where would the church itself find such a vast audience as it now reaches through radio and television? If Canadians had no alternative but to turn to American stations, would this advance the cause of our national interest and aspirations?

Since both the first and second editions of the "Sunday" Telegram are the chief sellers in Toronto before midnight Saturday, it is somewhat ironical that it was the openly announced intention of Mr. Bassett which should have sparked the showdown.

Obviously it is the designation of this made-on-Saturday product as a "Sunday" paper which has raised the ire of the alliance. If this were not so, all early Monday morning papers which are invariably published on Sunday would have raised alliance objections long ago.

In that the first edition of the Globe and Mail has sold in Toronto on Saturday for some years without protest, it seems obvious that the alliance is more interested in appearances than realities.

As far as radio and television stations are concerned, they far rather, edit and broadcast their Sunday news during that day.

If selling news and editorial material on Sunday is the primary concern, then all other Canadian and American publications so readily available on drug and news stand counters on the Sabbath, will be equally liable to prosecution.

As a matter of fact, if the matter of necessity as defined by the Lord's Day act is interpreted literally, the preparation and handling activities of thousands of people will be drastically affected.

From the heavy, legal shooting revision of the Lord's Day act appears to be a far more likely outcome.

AN UNACCEPTABLE CONDITION

What a difference three little words can make!

A short time ago EOKA, the rebel underground on Cyprus, announced that it was ready to end its terrorist activities if the British Government released Archbishop Makarios, in exile in the Seychelle Islands in the Indian Ocean.

Wednesday the British Government said that it would free Archbishop Makarios if he clearly calls for the cessation of terrorist violence. Nothing could be more reasonable.

Hope for a settlement, or at least for the diversion of Cypriot agitation for union with Greece into peaceful channels, must have soared in the hearts of all who read that.

Until they read the government's second condition.

If the Archbishop pleads for the end of terrorism, the British said, "he will then be released and will be a completely free man to go wherever he choose" — (how bright the promise of these words) — "even to Cyprus."

"Sorry to Cyprus." How often the prospects for any acceptance of such a proposal. If it were his own personal freedom that the Archbishop sought, is there any who doubt that he could easily have obtained it by renouncing his right for Enosis. Yet of the two conditions for his release, one is so obviously completely unacceptable that it would have created less bitterness had the British Government merely rejected the peace overtures.

The World of Jean Cocteau

By I.N.S. of the Ottawa Journal

The other evening amid my nightly chore of drying the dishes I questioned my assistant, my presence on the kitchen table of a loaf of bread which had been in my way for hours and place the night before. It hadn't budged.

"What's it doing there?"

"Waiting until it is stale so it will stuff the turkey."

Now that was one of those wifely replies which normally I take in my stride. But during these same days I had been reading the Journals of Jean Cocteau. The doomed, brilliant loaf took on personality. Was it listless and wasteful of it to sit there like that? Or was it fulfilling a quiet destiny with magnificent concentration and commendable indifference to the rush and turmoil of the living? Perhaps it knew the dog and was-by it disdained —which made it unique in our entire home.

I can't be sure what Cocteau would have said of the bread, but it would have had an effect on him. He is a man of interest. The fierce play of honesty in his Journals, by turns brutal and tender, but not monotonous. He writes as he draws, a sharp steel line that goes where it wants to go. Simple impelling.

This poet, artist, actor, playwright, film director has the kind of friends that bring life to the word "small". Picasso, Gide, Nijinsky, Gide and others. And he has friends who are strangers, to use humans that brings a disturbing effect of nakedness. Who are the strangers, writers or others, or the reader, is somehow immaterial. He is not going to everything from dismay to elation.

"They seemed like children playing adults."

It fixes the matter much what the context of that line from Cocteau, but it is a quality that lingers after the context has gone.

This is not the only use of children to steal into our subconscious. Thomas Mann's ballet "Joseph" was booed in Paris in 1917 he says flatfootedly, by the intellectual Paris. A theatre director crying "We're too old for Punch and Judy". And Mann, to whom when Picasso heard saying to his wife, "I must have a child by Olga," wrote, "I would have brought the children".

And a friend Jacques Maritain he wrote: "I insist that it was the children who saved me." The child saw the child. At a table of adults, children, seated at the two ends, converse one another with their eyes".

Cocteau felt all along that he suffered a particular brand of misunderstanding. Withdrawn from it in opinion for a period; at other times of gallop into the bouts of energetic production, only to fall back into misunderstanding.

France did everything to him: pointed scandal, the French Academy, ridiculed him, inspired him. In revenge for the latter he says he thought he thought. One has to put it that way because he tells us that the Academy was quick moving and fast changing. "Nothing," he says, "is so jealous, we sure hell to him.

"I said I was jealous of the words of other writers. It is because they are not mine. Each writer has his own style, he has a lotto set, with which he has to win."

He said he cared more about the way he said things than what his hearing was always being set upon or influenced. He gave up writing when I do not admit that anything can harm me. "Nothing can harm him self repeatedly by being too upset and which I had forgotten, but is he not wistfulling in the wind? Is he not insisting that there must be room for all thought, all ideas. This may be his most earnest belief and we see in several splendid sentences on the subject.

The supercritic says "no" and is the fear of appearing ridiculous in offering praise, and the superficiality of spreading intellect in criticizing adversely. This does not prevent beauty from being created and growing silently under the curve of the projectiles."

"I have always been surprised at the situation in which the success of someone else is painful. I count on the truth that a pretty woman is more attractive in a group of pretty women than of ugly women."

And this:

"Let a foreign critic judge us, and into the chasm out of us he is right. He knows us better than our complicities who trip over us. Space plays here the role of time. Our competriots judge the work by the man. And since they see only a false image of the man, they judge falsely."

But this has been a rather humorless review of a book that has plenty of humor.

"Cliche kept out of the way. He could forget affences, especially those he wrote.

"Radigiet read a large number of worthless books comparing them with masterpieces, returning them, annotating them, and declaring that the mechanism of a masterpiece, being invisible, could be studied only in books which pretended to be masterpieces and which were not."

To the American: "I know that when inhabit a farmyard (but) you inhabit a bathroom."

To all captives: "Do not give over to the mortal obsession of radio and television. Television induces the mind to stop mastificating, to swallow soft predigested food. The mind has strong teeth. Chew with those teeth. Do not let them be solely the ornament of the smile of stars.

"Too much importance is given to the word genius. We are too economical with it. Stendhal uses it to say that a woman knew how to get life a carriage.

"Toward the end of his life he (Radigiet) tried to hold his broken glasses for a monocle, which gave him a distant grin, and with a hard time keeping it on.

"My hair has always grown in every direction and my teeth always and the bristles of my beard. My nerves and my soul must be planted in the same way. That is what makes me insoluble to people who devote to one direction.

"I have to cocteau flying and keep constantly up in the air. That is how I give a false impression and fascinate the lively ness of the spirit. For, unless I fall flat onto things, I am incapable of reaching or touching any of the normal channels".

"My book", said Cocteau in conclusion, "has no other purpose than to show the reader the operation those who read it. It is the opposite of a course in college."

But it isn't all that opposite. Cocteau has lived a lot and has a strange (and sometimes) dismaying) personality value gift for telling the rest of us what life is like.

Maybe a university course, for instance, probably failed to make clear what Cocteau says in six words:

"When you see fairies, they disappear."

Sea Shells Are Varied

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Sanibel and Captiva, islands in Florida, offer more than 300 varieties to shell-hunting visitors and every tide washes in thousands more shells for the taking. The beaches, Both islands are long and narrow, in some places only a quarter of a mile wide.

This hobby can be lucrative, if one is lucky. One of the rarest of all specimens, the Junonia — perfect specimens of which have sold for $200 — occasionally can be found on the shores of these islands. The Junonia is a shell with a creamy-white background, with brown spots rows of square brown or orange spots.

Other shells to be found include the multi-colored calico scallops, the lovely lace murex, the white bowl-shaped, yellow-lined buttercups which come in pairs from the deep water, the dark-red lion's paw, the delicately scalloped moon snails, the large red-brown cockle, fragile white angel's wings and the Chinese alphabet.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THANK YOU

I am of the opinion that these two little words—Thank You—are about the most blessed and inspiring of any two words that have warmed mankind ever since words were invented! You can't buy them. They are not for sale anywhere—but their free use is universal. They come back to us full of dividends of happiness.

Every time we say Thank You, when we should, we shrink in stature, and we grow larger in the heart of the one expecting it. It's such a simple thing to give anyone, and should become a habit.

The least that we can give in return for a kindness or some phase of thoughtfulness is an expressed thank You. We never know to what extent it is appreciated. But it is enough just to have given it from a generous heart.

Thank You is always appropriate! It embodies a world of good will in it. People don't like to give of themselves when they are appreciated, and a Thank You binds them to us. Often it is all that we have to give.

Business organization cannot distribute a Thank You to too many in its employ. It's something that puts people in an organization. People sacrifice and go to great pains to make others happy, only to be brushed aside with not even this simple Thank You. Read the gospels of "Father Goose," by Balzac. Imagine what a Thank You could mean to Sam'l W. Somerset Maugham says this story is one of the greatest in literature.

Thank you for reading this Talk. I hope that it will have served a joyful purpose.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
March 23, 1937.

The tourist camp on Dundas Street East has been losing money yearly and last year the deficit was about $300.00. At a meeting of the city council last night, aldermen were strongly in favor of calling for tenders and allowing the interested party to operate the camp. The matter was left in abeyance and referred back to the committee.

Professor and Mrs. B.C. McCabe of Springfield, Mass., are visiting the former's sisters, Mrs. E. R. Bird and Mrs. Donald Ketcheson, in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Argue, Charles Street, have returned home after spending several weeks in Havana, Cuba, and other interesting places in Florida and the Southern States.

Miss Marguerite Young, Reg. Nurse, Trenton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Cornish, Boswell Street.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. W. D. Ketcheson went to Toronto this morning.

Number Lieut. Ponle Millburn, daughter of Mr. E. F. Millburn, Charles Street, left Kingston this morning for Halifax and will sail from there early for overseas service.

Mrs. Jape Hampton, Foster Hall, Bridge Street, Caleb Gilbert and her grandfather on her mother's side was Captain Meyers. Mr. Hampton is quite active mentally though feeble physically and is a great interest in the war news as she has relatives and friends with the forces at the front. Many friends will be pleased to extend congratulations and to

Rheumatoid Arthritis Is Getting Out of Hand

In the good old days of horse and buggy practice, I thought I knew rheumatoid arthritis when I saw it. Not that I had the remotest idea as to the nature and cause of it or a plausible medication of treatment. I just followed the teachings of the medical authorities of the day. From my note books, I gather that I had not yet discovered that medical authorities sometime become inebriate with the exuberance of their own verbosity.

To you with chronic joint disability, I say that no medical authority today can or will (1) define rheumatism or arthritis or (2) put his or her finger on or present a specific case for examination and study. Surely those who prescribes or administers either standard treatment or miracle medicines for arthritis and/or rheumatism should be able to define what he is treating.

I have told you over and over again that the diagnosis of chronic arthritis is wrong in most instances for the absence of clinical, pathological and microscopic examination revealing a specific evidence of arthritis-inflammation joint tissues.

I hope it won't confuse you as much as it does me, to read this definition of rheumatoid arthritis given in the Fact Sheet of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation (1956)

Rheumatoid arthritis is a systemic progressive disease . . . cause unknown . . . onset thadious . . . course varying and old course . . . no specific cure has been found . . . About 40% of the rheumatic patients who visit doctors . . . have rheumatoid arthritis. About 30% of all rheumatic patients have osteo-arthritis, known also as degenerative joint disease . . . Nine out of ten persons past 60 have osteo-arthritis . . . About 97% of all persons who live beyond middle age come down with rheumatic disease . . .

I try to read all the current medical literature relating to chronic joint disability, but it puts a great strain on me. Here's the latest statement by one medical authority:

The causes of arthritis are not known. However, it is known that certain contributing factors may trigger the onset . . . fatigue and worry are two of the greatest contributing causes of arthritis.

But even though the cause of arthritis remains "not known" the business-men of medicine continue to string along with the latest wonder drugs and whatever trick diet the popular magazines are featuring this season.

THE TREES CLAP THEIR HANDS

Stanley Jones says that the morning after he was converted he walked out into the world and thought he had never looked upon its beauties before. The trees clapped their hands and all nature was a tingle with joy and beauty. For the first time in his life he felt the wind was his. He had inherited it.

In one of the most beautiful chapters in the Bible (Isaiah 55), the promise is made, "Ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing; and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands."

Religious joy is a very real thing for those who experience it. Some people never know anything about it throughout the whole of their lives. Either they are too much afflicted with the world as it is, or have lost hope and grown blind to it, or they are afraid to forge themselves on the husks of lesser joys. But when God performs the miracle of spiritual regeneration by touching with his finger tips the life of a man who wants to enter into the larger life, then the world and all its inhabitants suddenly take on a new aspect. The Old Testament writer, Isaiah, described it in such a way that the mountains and hills, under such circumstances, break into song and the trees of the field clap their hands.

What is that perverse impulse within us which makes us perfectly content to live within the circle of a few narrow interests, when the vast universe of God beckons us with eager hands?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Joseph Wood Crutch, the American critic and essayist, has created a sensation in sporting circles by his brilliant assault on sport-as-it-is in new book, "The Great Chain of Life." As one who has in my time taken a good deal of life in the shape of fish and game, I felt, as I read the chapter on sportsmen, as if the surgeon's skill fully skinned alive.

Over the past hundred and more years, a great many people have believed in the so-called "blood sport" with considerable vigor. But no one, so far as I know, has gone it go hook-specific as Prof. Crutch. He shoots down sportsmen with a swivel gun loaded with buckshot. And he proceeds to grisly English, quarter and hang them up as fish in the poulterer.

He ends up with the proposition that the absolute evil that has the past several thousand years is achieved by the sportsmen who takes life for no reason but the joy of taking life.

Though the book deals in a wide sense with life and its mystery and existence, it is Prof. Crutch's weltzer conception, I feel the attack on-the-sportsman is the most fascinating of what, on the part of nature lovers, in a battle that is soon to be joined between the vast multi-million dollar sporting industry and the other powerful organizations of outdoorsmen that are part of the environment, such as the Audubon Society of Canada and the parent society, the National Audubon in the States, the field naturalist clubs, and the conservation bodies, bird watcher groups that, in New England alone number more than a million. Unless sportsmen who employ no conservation are careful.

Already, in many United States publications, there is being drawn a distinction between the sportsman and a sportsman. An outdoorsman is one who takes pleasure in being out of doors amidst the interests and wonders of nature in all its forms, but who is increasingly aware of them. He views with increasing anxiety the commercial and even the economic forces that are destroying the forests, draining the swamps, damming and polluting the rivers, creeping in on the wilderness and parks for the grazing rights they have destroyed elsewhere, and relentlessly eating away all other life in the interests of what is arbitrarily referred to as the gracious life. Meaning, I suppose, the fat cat life of man.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here Are Some Suggestions to Aid Retired Get More Security, Money

By THOMAS COLLING

Talk is about you, retirement, pensions.

You probably think, if you are of retirement age, that you're pretty smart about your money. Perhaps you are. But letters that come to me indicate that about 75 per cent of the people in their 60's are not getting all the money and all the security that are possible for their reach.

Here are four suggestions that may help you get a little more of both.

1. Investigate your life insurance policies.

Sometimes they are wonderful pieces of paper that can do magic things for you. Go to the insurance company that issued the policies and ask how many different kinds of payments you can get on them, what you can convert them into, how much cash they will pay you. Few people know how valuable are the benefits of a normal insurance policy. How willing the insurance company usually is to help you get every advantage you can.

2. Learn a few fundamental facts about investing.

Any money you have will make money for you — if it is in a savings account. In U.S. Savings Bonds, in corporation bonds, in stocks. All these will pay you different rates of interest. Many responsible people think you can get 4 per cent a year safely in a safe investment. Others think you can get about 6 per cent. Few conservative people will advise you to seek more than 4.

A man wrote last week that he had around $35,000 in a savings account because he was afraid to put it anywhere else. He was getting a fraction over 2 per cent on which was $58 a month, and he couldn't live on it. At 5 per cent he would have had $116 a month.

TALK TO COUNSELORS

Read the market pages of the newspaper. Get some books on investments at the library. Muster the courage to go talk to an investment counselor at the bank or to a reputable bond or stock broker.

3. Learn what an annuity is.

Any large insurance company will give you the facts. An annuity is a contract you can buy which will guarantee to pay you so much money every month until you die. The size of the annuity you get years ago at the time of buying, will determine what your monthly payments will be. Some people don't like annuities; others swear by them. So muster the courage to go ask some questions, and ask particularly about the beneficiary provisions of the annuity. Then make up your mind.

4. Consider every method of the great monetary value of a two-hour-a-day job that will pay you $1,000 a week. This would total $1,040 a year (not enough to cut much ice, Social Security). Put $1,000 a year from investments and you would have to have $25,000 invested all at 4 per cent. The average people now in retirement, $25,000 would be a fortune.

CD Co-ordinator Gives Talk to Local Committee

The majority of observers say that Russia will launch a nuclear attack on the Western hemisphere because she fears she retaliation that would most certainly follow such a move. In this nuclear age retaliation can be as effective as attack.

Major G. F. Broadbent, civil defence co-ordinator for Eastern Ontario, told members of the Belleville Civil Defence Committee this week a few of the dangers encountered in a hydrogen attack and what is expected of a civil defence scheme in the event of such a catastrophe.

One hydrogen bomb, if dropped in the centre of Belleville, would wipe out all signs of habitation in the city and cause destruction, ranging from severe to slight, in communities around Belleville within a radius of nine miles of the city limits.

To avoid such a loss of life, the civil defence organization has decided on certain reception areas for each of the cities most likely to be military targets for nuclear weapons.

In Belleville, although this city is considered very low on the list to get, civil defence workers are working on a reception plan under which will take care of the needs of 40,000 evacuees from larger communities. In Belleville one centre here could be employed only if sufficient warning two or three days) was given of an impending attack. If sufficient warning is given, it would be the population of larger cities can be effectively evacuated before the first bomb is dropped.

Certain calculated risks must be taken in the event of a bombing to insure that the 40,000 evacuees have enough food, shelter and accommodation. The most important of these three items is the stockpiling of food. Such emergency and rationing will be done by the municipal government, while the municipal government will take care of distributing the food.

COULD BE IN FALLOUT AREA

The path and speeds of winds determine the size of the fallout enclosure. In this part of the province the prevailing winds move from west to east 90 per cent of the year. Therefore, if a hydrogen bomb is dropped on one of the larger cities west of Belleville, there is the possibility that this city would be included in the fallout zone. Radiation effects can be felt for 250 miles in a path 20 to 40 miles wide. Because of the importance of winds in atomic or hydrogen bomb drops, meteorologists are continually studying wind streams and submitting regular reports to the government on their behavior.

Major Broadbent said, "To help alleviate the effects of radiation, mobile hospital units, fully equipped with instruments and drugs, are being stockpiled in strategic areas."

He pointed out that Belleville should be the headquarriers for civil defence operations in this part of the province.

"Kingston and Frontenac County are shariers costs of operation on a per capita basis. This is how Belleville and Hastings County should do it," he said.

The speaker suggested a joint meeting of all communities concerned be held to set up a civil defence unit on a county basis before starting in on setting up individual municipal units.

The Face on the Stamp

Man Who Built the Sewing Machine

By Nicholas Mika

Can you imagine having to make your clothing by hand? Painstakingly, stitch by stitch, seam by seam? Well, as little as a hundred and twenty years ago people did not know any different for the simple reason that there was no sewing machine. Every bit of sewing had to be done the hard way, by hand, until a young man in Boston, Massachusetts, began to experiment with a machine that would put an end to the laborous task of sewing.

Actually, he was not so much concerned to make the world and especially the women happier as to make life a little easier for his own wife. Since he hardly earned enough to feed the children, she had to work hard from morning to night sewing for her family as well as for other people to help make ends meet. When he saw her sitting stooped over the needle and thread in her thin fingers, he swore that he would try to find a mechanical device that would help her sew.

He did not realize that it would take him years of experiments, hopes and failures before he succeeded. By the time his sewing machine was perfected, his wife had died of tuberculosis. She could not benefit from his invention, but the world had received one of the greatest blessings that an inventor could give.

HAD LITTLE EDUCATION

He was the son of a farmer and sawmiller. Sickly and frail from childhood, he was not able to do any heavy work, but he showed a remarkable interest in tools and machinery. He had very little education, never read any books on mechanics nor did he calculate or make any drawings of his ideas, but he built a mischievous streak that is also fascinating in its simplicity as in its usefulness.

His first plan was to construct a sewing machine that imitated the motion of the hand with the needle. He made hundreds of experiments. He improved everything except sewing. For hours he sat and watched his wife sewing. Often he would get up in the middle of the night and try again. It seemed impossible to make a stitch with his machine. What was he doing wrong? What was the secret? Suddenly it struck him. Why not changing the eye and make the eye of the needle near the point instead of the head! With this new idea he succeeded in a loop and with the help of a little shuttle that passed another thread through the loop a lock stitch could be formed. And that was his dream. Then all things began to be worked feverishly, and by the end of the week the first sewing machine was born.

NO BUYERS

Hopefully, he went to a fashionable dressmaking shop and asked the proprietor to let five of his best dressmakers enter a sewing competition against him. He said that he could sew as fast as the five of them together. He was wrong. When the race was over it appeared that he had not only beaten the five sewing girls but had done his work twice as fast as all of them. No doubt that this was an amazing machine! Words to admire! But the funny thing was, nobody wanted to buy it. Why, such a machine would put every seamstress out of work!

His dream of making some money with his invention faded away. Finally his brother went to England and sold the rights for the first sewing machine to an English manufacturer. The inventor was to receive twelve hundred dollars in exchange for his machine and the promise of his future services. His hopes raised again, he went to England with his family. But the promising beginning soon turned into slavery. He had to live in the slums or London, work till he could hardly stand on his feet and received only nothing as a salary.

RETURNED PENNYLESS

Disappointed and pennyless he returned to the States. But this was not the end of his misfortune. The boat on which his belongings were supposed to come back from England sank. His wife who had been sick for a long time died. And still this was not all. In the meantime his sewing machine had been exploited and not one of the sewing companies made a profitable business with his invention. Furiously, he began to fight for his rights. The fight dragged on for five years. In the end he won the battle. From misery and misfortune he lifted himself to wealth and fame as the man who built the first sewing machine. His name — Elias Howe.

Elias Howe appeared on United States stamps in 1940.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Fathers, sons and guests numbered over 130 at the 2nd Christ Church Boy Scout Annual Banquet.

Grace was said by Mrs. Everett Smith and a very hearty dinner was served by the Mothers' Auxiliary. The banquet tables were really beautiful. An iced cake, ablaze with lighted candles and golden 50's, and models of the cake at intervals, honoring the 50th Anniversary of Scouting, was perfect. The color scheme was of course, green and yellow —2nd Belleville colors. Place cards were canoes with paddles for names. Cub Wally Marnett, assisted by Akela Ashley, cut the huge cake.

The chairman, Bob Munro, toasted "the Queen," Scout Martin Hug — the fathers, replied to by Goodie Livingstone, and Rover Scout Richard Rowbotham to the "Memory of Lord Baden Powell." Ray Lemon thanked Mrs. Hughes and her faithful assistants for the magnificent banquet and praised the mothers for their encouragement to boys in Scouting.

The chairman then introduced the guests: Phil Allison, A.D.C. Cubs; Oliver Coyne, D.C.; Les Boyle, A.D.C., Scouts; the Venerable Archdeacon R. H. Creegan, Group Padre; Scout Bill Munro; Mrs. L. Ashley, Akela 8th; Phil Barton, secretary 2nd; and the president of the L.A., A. S. Hicks. Also the hardworking and popular Akela, Mrs. M. Kemp, and her assistant, "Rikki," Dr. Joan Bronskill, "Kaa" Dennis Rowbotham, who received his tracker's badge; "Kim," Terry Marson; Scoutmaster Ron Lane; A.S.M. Doug Burns; Rover Skipper Don Hickson.

Lionel Blaker, accompanied at the piano by Ray Lennox, gorgeous in red shirts and white hats (suspiciously similar to the birthday cake models), led the singing. "Old MacDonald" sure added a lot of odd animals to the farm. Ray and Lionel are old troupers and soon had everybody enjoying themselves.

RECTOR WAS SPEAKER

Archdeacon J. B. Creegan was the speaker and told a story on Mrs Mead. It was had the best coon in the district, but h.. wouldn't share it. He was a peculiar man, hard to figure. An isolationist, no friends, never spoke to anybody. In some things he was proficient; like throwing a knife, but couldn't play leap-frog; good in arithmetic, poor in composition. When he grew older he distrusted everybody, had no girl friends, but won blue ribbons for his corn. This was the one thing he had that was better than his neighbors and he meant to keep that way. The pollen from Ira's corn blew over his neighbor's corn, improving it. So, instead with his neighbor's made Ira's corn poorer. He ended his conversation "Good corn cannot grow very long all by itself;" "I can't have good corn if my neighbor's poor;" "Because he had good corn his neighbor's corn improved." Poor pollen drags life downward —good pollen lifts life upwards. So Ira eventually shared his corn and was contented and happier.

The Archdeacon enthusiastic on Baden Powell's "pollen" was so good it extended all over the world. Today over ten million boys and girls benefit because of B.P.'s good work.

Phil Burton thanked the Padre for his beautiful, inspiring speech and amusing sidelights, delivered in the free and easy manner of the accomplished Archdeacon.

TOLD OF SCOUTING DAYS

On May 2nd, 1924 Lionel Blaker passed his Tenderfoot test. He told us of these early Scouting days. Rev. Clarke started the Christ Church group with no committee to help him. Some of the names are interesting: Frank Pollwell, Jack Crozier, Percy Flemming, Walt Batchelor, Bill Ashley, Cec Ling, Bob Fair, Auton Eggleton, Nig Day, Don Thomas, John Spencer, Jim White and Scoutmaster Bing Hayes. Lionel's informal "talk" spiced with humor, was keenly interesting to all Christ Church Scouts and members. With two sons in Scouting and his own varied experience he spoke with authority and knowledge. His Tenderfoot certificate and snapshots of days gone by, were presented to the 2nd Belleville, with the promise of a cabinet to house museum items. Bob Munro gratefully accepted Mr. Blaker's gifts on behalf of the group.

Graydon Colwill then took over as M.C. for entertainment.

Broncho Jack McKnight literally sparkled in her Royal Stuart dress tartan. She danced the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance with sureness and dexterity which belied her tender years. A.S.M. Doug Burns played the pipes in the manner of a true Scot, a brilliant performance for two experts.

It is unusual at these affairs the Cubs provided the main feature. The curtain rose on "Mammy" Akela Kemp, showing her old photograph album to the houseboy, Rikki Bronskill. As pictures were commented on such characters as Aunt Jemima would appear in a picture frame. The Cubs who were the living pictures kept quite still. This is the first time on record that Christ Church Cubs ever kept still. A minstrel show followed with Laurie Rowbotham as Mr. Bones and Bobbie Blaker as Sambo. The chorus sang Southern songs between jokes. Their rendition was sweet voices were very soft and pleasing to the listeners. All the Cubs were black-faced and wore costumes. The other Cubs who took part were: Larry Lennox, Bill Elliott, Warren Bongard, Vernon Martin, Bill Gibson, Peter Mitchell, Neil Miles, Jack Colwill and Timmy Cole. Where and when the boys rehearsed is put another mystery down on a secret known only to Mrs. Kemp and Dr. Bronskill. A lot of patience and hard work is probably the answer — and co-operative Cubs of course.

Space forbids a full description of this banquet, but the ladies who decorated the tables and prepared the dinner, the leaders responsible for the entertainment, the people who planned the affair and the speakers may well congratulate themselves on another highlight of Scouting in Christ Church.

A.D.C. Les Boyle played the last recorded speech of Baden Powell and as the Chief's voice died away the Cubs softly sang the Vesper. An appropriate closing to a full and wholly successful Boy Scout banquet.

suspension employs the torsion principles, and is designed for a smoothing out a great deal of road roughness. It also helps in minimizing those rolling and tossing sensations.

Others have made ride improvements via rear leaf-spring changes. One includes an air-filled rubber cushion mounting that reduces jarring and vibration. And on several cars, more efficient rubber body mountings serve to dampen those shakes and jolts which might spoil riding pleasures.

R.A asks: "According to a news article, one of the 1957 cars is equipped with a speed control. As I understand, it's a safety device which warns the driver about excessive speeds. How does it work?"

(A) You probably refer to the speed reminder which, by means of a buzzer, alerts the driver when a predetermined speed is reached. Th driver sets this alarm by turning a knob on his dash panel.

E.S writes: "I have a car which starts fine, but after I run about a mile or so, it does not have any power at all. If I leave it idling, it will stop in about four or five minutes. Changing the choke or the carburetor doesn't seem to help. At about 40 miles an hour it will then run as good as new. Would appreciate it if you could help."

(A) Temporary sticking or binding of the manifold heat control valve will cause such troubles.

From K.W: "Every morning, while walling in the car for my husband, I usually listen to the radio news and weather broadcasts. Now, I can't turn on the radio before the engine is hot, but start the car because someone told him it was harmful. Would you?"

(A) With the engine off, turning on radio, lights, etc., will drain some of the battery's power, but that's only one disadvantage. Cranking the engine while the radio is on can ruin the radio tubes.

W.B writes: "I have a 1954 eight-cylinder with automatic drive which just had a rebuilt carburetor put on. The engine installed. I also had new points, condenser, plugs installed and timed. Now, when I put the car in drive, low or reverse, or when I stop at a signal, it always stalls. What do you think is wrong?"

(A) This probably occurs because engine idling speed adjustment is too low.

New Suspensions Allow Greater Riding Pleasure

By EUGENE MILMOE

The lower center of gravity on most of the new models means better roadability, but some car makers have gone further than that in their efforts to assure smoother ride and easier handling.

One offers a different type of front coil spring which is supposed to do a better job of absorbing jolts and bumps. It's an improvement, but not as effective as one as the system introduced on several models which eliminates coil springs entirely. This particular

Garden Notes

Get an Early Start With Annuals

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There are some annuals which can be planted out by the first of April if the ground is dry enough. Annual larkspur is one of these. It is very hardy and does not like to be transplanted. Then, too, it is a slow starter. Many gardeners find that it may be planted in the fall just before the freeze up, say late November. You can also plant sweet peas and cornflower, or batchelors buttons as they are often called. Other gardeners say that they must be planted on the 17th of March. A trench should be prepared in the fall if you wish to plant them in March.

If you are planning on planting seeds indoors do not start too early with the seeds that germinate quickly. They become too tall and are subject to "damping off". Mid-May is usually safe for transplanting tomato, eggplant and petunias need more time six to eight weeks is not too much. If you do not have a sunny window and the means to keep a steady temperature better plant the quick starters and buy the others.

Flower flats should have a few drainage holes in the bottom and some drainage material such as gravel, or cinders. Wash the flats well. What do you think is wrong?

(A) This probably occurs because engine idling speed adjustment is too low.

off fire and keep pan covered for another ten minutes. Spread the soil in the flat and allow to partially dry. If you wish to make a mix use one part each sand, soil and spagnum moss. The moss should be well sterilized.

GROW IN SPAGNUM MOSS

Chopped spagnum moss can be used to grow the seedar in, in place of the soil mix. It is slightly acid and this seems to be an added advantage in sprouting seeds. Screen the moss to get rid of the lumps. Hardware stores often also use the chopped moss to cover the seed after it has been planted on the soil mix.

Use a short piece of board to plant them in. Mark the surface off in shallow rows two inches apart. Dust a little oxide of zinc along the rows. Plant the seeds thinly. Sift a little fine soil over the seeds to a dept of three times their diameter, or use a light layer of spagnum moss. Very fine seed should be pressed into the soil without covering.

If the soil does not seem damp enough, sprinkle with a fine spray from a mister. Cover with a glass to keep in the moisture and a newspaper to keep out the light. Keep temperatures at 70 degrees. When seed sprouts remove paper and glass. Seedlings need good light. Bring to sun gradually.

2ND LEAVES — TRANSPLANT

Transplanting will be necessary when the seedlings have their second leaves and begin to be crowded. Use the same soil mix as in the first or plant in small pots. Pots can be placed in flat and packed with moss to keep them moist and damp. This will simplify watering. Harden off by placing flats out in sun for a few hours on the south side of a wall on fine days. Once sturdy plants are better than tall spindly plants.

Transplant to the garden when danger of frost is past. Plants will suffer less check if there are covered before and after moving. Use a liquid fertilizer to give them a boost in the spring and evening is the best time. Protect from strong sun for two to three days, after moving.

BRETT - LOVE

Tall, white standards of white chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons, interspersed with ferns, decorated the altar rail of Hazard's United Church, Madoc, for the lovely spring wedding on Wednesday, March 20, at 2.00 p.m. when Jean Cynthia Love, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Love, became the bride of Donald Allan Brett, son of Mrs. Brett and son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brett, The Reverend Gordon Brett, of London. Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, officiated.

Mrs. Wade Hubbs, aunt of the bride, rendered the traditional wedding music, accompanied by the soloist, Mrs. Walter Armstrong, who sang, "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Harry Love, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of ivory-tone satin, full ballerina length, designed on Victorian mode, with full gathered skirt and a princess waist line, the molded bodice featured a Sabrina neckline adorned with a fine ivory organza medallions, which also accented the sleeves, and the long gallathy gathered cap sleeves were enhanced with elbow length gloves of the matching satin. She wore a coronet headdress of fine tulle studded with pearl and rhinestones and full circular veil of elbow length, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centred with Jonquil and Sweetheart roses.

Little Miss Wendy Dewart, of Peterborough, as flower girl, was dainty and sweet in her powder blue nylon organza dress, permanently pleated satin, enhanced with waist of silver brown, flattered by a Peter Pan collar and tiny, puff sleeves edged with lace. She wore a tiny lace cap and carried a tiny nosegay of pastel carnations, with blue satin bear roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Grant Brett, of Madoc, and the ushers were Mr. Franklin Love, brother of the bride, Mr. Glen Brown, of Madoc.

The reception was held at the home of the bride which was adorned with white 'mums and pink snapdragons for the occasion.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, and pink candles.

The bride's mother received, wearing powder blue lace over taffeta, with matching accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in beige Shantung with matching accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Florida and the Southern ports, the bride chose a champagne sheath dress of Alencon lace over taffeta, pictures hat, matching accessories, and mink muskrat jacket, and corsage of gardenias.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Brett will reside in Madoc, Ontario.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Assoc. Holds Get-Together

The regular meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association held on Tuesday evening in the auditorium, took the form of a social get-together.

Military whist was enjoyed by a good attendance of parents and teachers, conducted by Mr. James Sutherland. Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. H. Farrow; Mr. and Mrs. E. Finkle; Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Ashforth; Mrs. A. Storm; Mrs. E. L. Farrell; Mrs. Fred Strathdee; Mrs. Frank Benson.

An attractive array of food on the favorite recipe bake table was quickly sold to members under the convenership of Mrs. W. Slavin and Mrs. F. Benson attended the bake table.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ada Steenhart and her committee, and the end of a pleasant evening.

Six Local Artists to Display Work in Travelling Art Exhibit

Last evening at King George school, north Front Street, an exceptionally fine collection of oils embracing in all 30 paintings went on exhibit. These included pen-and-ink still life; landscapes depicting the varying seasons of the year; winter; colorful autumn; springtime, summer in all the wealth of foliage; barbor scenes; and two out of the ordinary studies of the head and torso of the Christ upon the cross, and an impressionistic study of a modern scene skillfully into relief a small cottage against lofty blackness. Mingled with these were some of tulips, sunflowers and Iris flowers.

The two paintings, one of a chestnut-haired youthful female in decolette, a pleasing face created with a deep smile, and the other of a strong-characterized male showing much executive ability in the lineallines. Both were carefully done, catching and holding the head of the Christ with outstretched arms upon the cross was a striking, especially the soft and back-ground of shades of light mauve which were repeated in the halo and cross. The artist also had soft portrait, the outstanding one of which was the blue of the eyes which was again revealed in the deeper shade of handkerchief and necktie of a t-shirt.

Only one winter scene was shown, but there was no mistaking the icy clutch of the elements, the snowbanks and drifts, and the bitter cold. Another showed a scene on the little widening stream between the broad expanse of ice bound shores. Several harbor scenes were shown of colored, one-masted fishing boats, with the water lapping the resort side; some in parallel, and others were in the triangular formation. Another consisted of two one-masters and a launch, arranged in triangular formation, with the wide expanse of calm greenish water.

ATTRACTIVE LANDSCAPES

The landscapes were most attractive, the colors were vivid, and were for the most part, scenes familiar to those who have lived in Belleville. One which was outstanding in its realism was that of trees bordering a country road in the early springtime, with blue-based wooded distance, the fresh green of the trees and the edge bordered by upturned roots, deftly treated with pleasingly contrasted deep grass and broken limbs.

The title of delightful color depicted red, and golden maples accented by a deep green evergreen bordering the curving road, with deep grey-blue skies and distant misty wooded hills, made a picture with its soothing calmness. A golden tinted tree beside the farm house was also a striking study of color.

Another scene with color appreciation was that of three deer. Friends in their Quaker blue bonnets sitting on a blue garden seat surrounded by a bed of garden of rosy-pink flowers, bordered by a whitewashed fence, near by the little grey-white cottage.

BEAUTY IN NAKED TREES

That the beauty of trees' naked limbs and leafless branches was shown in the interesting study of a tree with a bird's nest as colorful backgrounds. All were carefully executed, and those who saw them were outstanding one of a partly broken trunk, with an intricate tracery of interlocking branches and smaller which pulled over two trees, whose entwining branches so interlocked to form an almost perfect circle. The title of the painting is one of the most difficult, as there are no complimentary externals to add to the beauty, the branches themselves must do it well and naturally drawn that they need no beautifying. The artist has also set out with pleasingly shaded background in pastel tones.

In the latter pictures there were three types, mauve and rose-tinted tulips in a pastel grey-blue, fluted vase; pastel iris in misty blue tones with loose petals in dark velvety purple on a whole solid extent of them, resembling one of wallpaper designs, and the one which stole the floral show was that of sunflowers, no seat one could almost hear the buzz-buzz of the busy bumblebee, and the nectar from the little golden cups beneath the over-hanging yellow petals.

STILL LIFE

The still life pictures were beautifully colored, with drawing of line and highlights deftly executed. Flowers, as real one could almost fronted by a green water glass resting upon a blue cloth, with the yellow orange, and red McIntosh apple, and the purple-blue grapes in the background by a softly folded green curtain. Two of the still life studies was executed in the modern manner with triangular effects. This was also true of the coloring which chose the browns and deep greens.

Other pictures of still life included apples in various arrangements, one of these portrait of the modern type with pears, grapes, and apples, while others were of apples in a small basket and a large bowl.

The woodland torrent depicted the rushing mountain stream with steep, rocky curve in autumn tinted woods. A vigorous bit of drawing was displayed. Two other pictures showed reflections of a mountain stream with the rocky cottage nestling under the branches; while another was of stark trees bordering deep grass and golden brown limbs.

The art delight of delightful color depicted red, and golden maples accented by a deep green evergreen bordering the curving road, with deep grey-blue skies and distant misty wooded hills, made a picture with its soothing calmness. A golden tinted tree beside the farm house was also a striking study of color.

Capacity House Greets Children In Operetta

A capacity house showed their approval in no uncertain manner at Queen Elizabeth School Auditorium last night, when the children of that school presented the operetta "Fairies are Really Truly!" It was a delightful evening, said those responsible for the direction, music and costumes are to be congratulated on their efforts. "Fairies are Really Truly!" will again be presented on Monday evening at the school.

The Operetta depicted two children Teddy and Dotty (Anita and Peter TenHoope) who fell asleep in a field of daisies and are fairied by a run-away fairy (Heather Slade), they are taken to fairyland where the queen of the fairies (Susan Yanovev) and other fairies are in deep distress because of a village of children who do not believe in Fairies. Tinker and Bell are appointed King and Queen of children who need and love fairies, and in due time return to Fairyland with a message from unbelieving children asking forgiveness of the fairies.

Other children taking part included Brownie Ann McGuire and Gaston Brignell as Queen's attendants; and Ronnie Lovett, Glen Kinkaid and Jimmy Lovett as Queen's attendants.

Phyllis W. May was in charge of music arrangements; Mrs. J. Szczerba directed the choirs; Miss O. Blain, drama; and Mrs. R. Simcock, choreography. The principal, Mr. H. G. Anderson extended a welcome on behalf of the school.

Those taking part in the dance numbers included:

This ... and That

Alberta is the sixth province to take up equal-pay-for-women legislation. It is hoped that the Alberta Teachers' Association, the labor unions, the housebuilders' associations and Women's groups are supporting the measure.

The evolution of Empire to Commonwealth continues as Britain proceeds to honor its ancient pledge to nourish dependency into independency. A new constitution for an independent Malayan Federation has been drafted in preparation for Malaya becoming independent in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Arnold Edinborough, speaking to the University Women's Club of Belleville last Thursday, referred to Britain's many strengths in world affairs. Although the speaker was unhappy about the Suez and Persian problems, he maintained that Britain is still a powerful force in the world politically, economically and especially. Never before has anything comparable happened in history. We see a far-flung empire evolving into a far-flung commonwealth through the gradual process of the evolution amazing and almost unbelievable faith in a long range plan. The governments of the world scene may not portray reason for confidence but the evolution of the commonwealth helps allay total pessimism.

T and T may be forgiven when its reason for existence is a hope that it may be of service to persons interested to learn from a friend at Madoc that your column was the best paper for announcements. The Madoc reader was asked to address a group. She was not given a specific subject so she decided to use for her title "Pins and Needles" and then, ramblings of the course of your column Intelligencer. We are grateful to the Madoc friend, who wishes to remain anonymous, for telling us.

There is a great world thinker who maintains that if the rational is followed through to its absolute and ultimate end, it will inevitably become irrational. Maybe he is close to the truth than whitehall thinking will admit.

However, at present, it probably will appear that progress is a rational aspiration. We are inclined to accept progress as an integral element in the Belleville community. Progress is the keynote of annexation in the near future and this is also a rational and necessary price. So often progress, a rational and desirable development, brings among many irrationalities.

Cultivating the mighty prairie expanses is rational growth but the threat of erosion proves that forethought was irrational. To the east of Belleville and within the proposed area for annexation there are stands of lovely timber. Is it rational if any consideration has been given to preserving these woods for future generations? This is a plea for rational progress to preserve the future against irrational destruction of natural beauty spots and park advantages.

We often hear of girls who are sent to Toronto to visit relatives for a visit to heal a case of homesickness. From Australia comes a touching story of homesickness. A party of 78 parents and friends of Australian girls who are serving in American servicemen during World War II is flying to the U.S.A. and Canada. They will visit the girls in Queensland girls and the party will be met by the girls' husbands in the U.S.A. It is an idea for war brides to think about in our own country.

Canada's first newspaper, The Halifax Gazette, was issued for the first time on March 23rd, 1752, or 203 years ago today.

Our thought for this weekend is for confused children wherever they may be. Hattie Hall who died in 1944 left behind the following lines: "Gone is the builder's temple,
Crumpled into the dust:
Low lies each stately pillar,
Food for consuming rust.
The temple not made-by-hander builded
Will last while the ages roll,
For that beautiful unseen temple
Was a child's immortal soul."

Alpha Lambda Plans Black And Gold Ball

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lambda chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. B. Bowman.

The initiation program was introduced by Mrs. R. Rowe. Her topic being "Opera". She also played Act II from Carmen on the record player.

Mrs. E. Laughlen presented an interesting talk on "Drama" followed by the members acting out parts of professions.

Mrs. L. Read, the secretary, took roll call of members present.

More plans were laid for the Black and Gold Ball. Ticket sales are going well with an early selling date.

The Belleville chapters of Beta Sigma Phi are joining the Kingston chapters on the Founder's Day, banquet on April 30. Mr. Jack Ellis is representing the Belleville chapter, and has a special effort to be present on this happy occasion.

A preferential tea will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Rowbotham in April in honor of new pledges. A vote was taken for girl of the year, the award to be made on the evening of the Black and Gold Ball.

Refreshments were served by hostess, Mrs. B. Bowman and co-hostess, Mrs. H. House.

Contart Club Holds Lively Auction Sale

The Parish Hall of Christ Church was the scene of a lively auction sale held by a large group of Contact Club girls and their friends.

Myra Cresswell and her group convened promptly at 8 p.m. pleasant evening's entertainment.

Under the able direction of auctioneers, Diane Bettle, and Evelyn Clarke, with Margaret Hinchliffe acting as clerk, a very profitable night of fun and good fellowship got under way.

Lively bidding broke out on the sale of such articles as jewelry, gentlemen's and ladies' wear, clothing, books, and other goods which were displayed to good advantage.

After the auction was concluded, president Alice Wannamaker made a few important announcements, and the group signed off for the next regular Monday meeting.

An interesting study group and bible was conducted by Creegan, with a short discussion by Archdeacon

Utilize Travel Agents' Free Services for Better Vacation

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

For those going to Florida, Arizona, the Adirondacks, North Carolina or any other place of interest, we have a suggestion that may save you time, money and worry, and leaving your holiday spoiled: Use the most valuable free service in Canada today, the travel agent.

In Florida, whence we just came, we spotted a new motel whose swimming pool was completely in two shades. Another glamourous and expensive hotel next year will be in the shape of a boat, thanks to skyscraping neighbors now a-building. Still another has a new and thoughtfully constructed that the patio area is completely unprotected from the ocean winds; making sun bathing a sport for Spartans.

Should you like to arrive for your long-dreamed-of vacation free from the prospect of putting up with such ruinous inconvenience, or even worse ones, the inadequate, indirect, or otherwise poor service or food?

Probably you will be expected to know about such things unless you find out. Which is why the travel agent is in business for.

Amazing number of travellers still don't know that a travel agent's services are free.

CARRIERS, HOTELS PAY

Not so, of course, to the carriers and hotels who pay the travel agent commission for booking your reservation. But he won't last long in business if he doesn't steer you to hotel you won't like. Thus you can rely implicitly on any travel agent's dependable agent for any guidance you may need in choosing your vacation spot.

Occasionally rumors go around that agents' fees and rates be accommodate the commissions they must pay agents. Common sense should tell you that the cost of this, since most resorts depend on agents for a majority of their customers and they'd be cutting their own throats by reducing rates for agents who agents.

There is rarely enough business for any commercial resort to exist without the reservations sent in by agents. And there is rarely enough business for any agent that he can afford to steer a customer wrong.

St. Michael's Choir Presents Concert

The St. Patrick's Day program, sponsored by the Catholic Women's League, on Sunday evening in St. Michael's Academy auditorium proved to be a success.

The first part was the presentation of the play in one act with three scenes, by Miles Malleson, named "Michael". The characters were: Michael, Christopher Burker; Martha, Vivian Cannon; Anna, Cathie Patterson; Michael, Peter Cannon; Gabriel, Raymond Cowan; Servant, John Black; Woman, Kay Lynch; Mary, Margo Poirier and Joyce Clemens.

The setting of the play was a peasant's cottage in Nazareth, and ope in the 18th century.

Much credit is due to the work and skilful direction of John D Ryan who directed the play, assisted by Mary Christopher and Cecil Lloyd.

Properties were by Veronica Belanger and costumes by Angela Sagriff.

Miss O'Neil was stage manager.

During the interlude a group of St. Michael's high school girls delightfully entertained with a song following Irish vocal selections: — "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming", and "The Off to Philadelphia."

Bob Burke favored with two vocal solos, "Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Lake Isle of Innisfree."

The second part of the program set a different pace with "Merry Christmas", a musical comedy sketch in one act by Brian McCarthy. The characters were: Molly Malone, Maureen Hennessy; Mitchell Harrington, Martin Halloran; Nellie Barrington, Theresa Mahoney; Sally, Perry Van Lone, Nelson Patterson.

The scene was a living room in the Barrington's town house in Dublin, Ireland, on Christmas Eve afternoon in May.

This play was directed by Mary Christopher assisted by Esther Bawden. The stage crew were: Lionel Kavanagh, Terry Foley and Larry McDonnell.

Gabriel, Messenger of Heaven

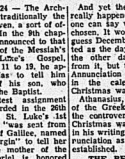
By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, March 24 — The Archangel Gabriel is remembered as the messenger of Heaven, a sort of official announcer, in the 9th chapter of Daniel, he interpreted for the prophet the time of the Messiah's coming. In the 1st Gospel, the chapter 1, verses 11 to 19, he appeared to Zacharias to tell him about the birth of John, who was to be John the Baptist.

Gabriel's next announcement was the one recorded in the 26th to 33rd verses of St. Luke's 1st chapter, when he was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin by the name of Mary betrothed to the husband of God, Gabriel is the messenger today, on the eve of the anniversary of the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary.

The divine ambassador has been remembered in the Roman Catholic Church with a big festival on this day only since 1921, but there is much evidence to show that the church was not unmindful of him. He figures prominently in early Christian art. For example, on a fresco in an ancient chapel along the Appian Way in Rome, Gabriel displays Gabriel in a place of honor.

Appropriately, Gabriel is the patron of postal, telephone and telegraph workers.



THE ANNUNCIATION

Monday, March 25 — Today Christians the world over are celebrating the Annunciation by the Archangel Gabriel to the young virgin Mary of Galilean city of Nazareth. Read the Gospel of St. Luke, chapter 1, verses 26 to 38. An interesting fact about Christianity is seen here by the fulfillment of prophecy, one of which foretold of himself on anyone. Even so vast an undertaking as the birth o. the Messiah would not be done without prior human cooperation.

Mary's reply was as to whether or not she would accept the greatest honor ever offered a human. In the 38th verse she replied "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word" forever united with human flesh. The Feast of the Annunciation, or Lady Day, commemorates this action.

A whole cycle of annual dates depends on this one day. If March 25 is the day on which the Lord was conceived, it followed, then by simple arithmetic December 25 must be the day on which He was born; January 1 (eight days after birth) must be the day of His circumcision and February 2 (40 days after birth) must be the day of His presentation in the Temple. And so the church calendar has been arranged, all coming from the Annunciation, March 25 set as the day of the Annunciation.

Wife Preserver

Home economists emphasize the need for complete breakfast for the family. A good breakfast, they say, is important and spring approaches may consist of compotes of raspberries, strawberries in juice, bread, toasted if preferred, and eggs. Bacon, ham, sausages and fish eggs require little preparation. Coffee for adults, milk for children.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

START RECONDITIONING FOR YOUR EASTER PERMANENT NOW

Liquid petrolatum massaged into the scalp before shampooing will help to recondition dry, splitting hair.

After months of longer, fuller hair styles, the new season is bringing a return of shorter, closer coiffures. Hair will clear the collar neatly in back and curl softly around the face, peeping out from the brims of the new "Thirties" clochets.

If you are planning one of these smart new cuts for Easter, and perhaps a permanent, it is advisable to check up now on the condition of your hair and scalp.

Pay more attention to your shampoos, get your hair in lively condition. Brush it much and often—and schedule your hairwashing more faithfully to a once-a-week-or-oftener program. The woman who rushes out in frustration for a quick permanent isn't doing herself or her beauty operator any favor. For only clean, lively hair takes a really good permanent.

Is your hair breaking off and splitting at the ends? Does it lack sheen? Is the scalp irritable and scaly? If "yes" is the answer to these questions, a hot oil treatment is indicated.

For a really bad condition, plan to have several such treatments before every shampoo once or twice a week for the next month. For simple dryness, a treatment the day before your cut and permanent would suffice.

Whether it's a series of treatments or just one, the method for a home hot oil treatment is the same. Use a bland, pure liquid petrolatum such as Vaseline hair tonic which contains no drying alcohol. Shake it directly from the bottle onto your scalp, a drop or two for each sectioned-off square inch. Then, massage vigorously with your fingertips with rotary movements until the scalp feels tingly and loosened. Wring out a terry cloth towel in steaming hot water and wrap your head in it. Reheat the towel when it cools off, allowing a total of about half an hour for this steaming period.

If you are going to the neighborhood salon the next morning, there is no reason why you can't wrap your head in a turban and let them shampoo out the excess oil before your cut. In this case, go to bed with your oiled hair and scalp wrapped in strips of old sheeting or old nylon stockings. For extra pillow protection, top the con pin a terry cloth towel to the pillow case. Your hair and scalp will benefit from the hours of lubrication.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SIGNATURE OF OLDER WOMAN ON GIFT CARD TO YOUNGER WOMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Three years ago my husband retired from business, and he and I came here to live. Everyone here has been so kind to us. Through our church connection, we have become very fond of three young women who are to have babies within the next two or three months. The parents of these mothers-to-be have been so very good to us that we thought it might be a nice idea for us to send their daughters presents for their babies-to-come. But I'm uncertain how I, being so much older than they are, should sign the cards I would enclose with the gifts. Should I sign our names "Mr. and Mrs.—" ?—Sara B.

No. Naturally you would write a message of some kind, and then your names become the signature, and in a signature you do not sign your name with a title.

For example, you might write on the enclosed card: "With every good and friendly wish to you and your husband, and the baby to come. From the Blakes . John and Sara."

Or you might enclose a note with the gift, and end it: "My husband joins me in sending to you both our congratulations and our very best wishes.

Sincerely,
Sara Blake"

WHEN TO FILL THE WATER GOBLETS, INFORMAL SERVICE

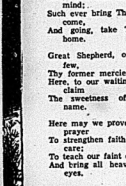
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I give small, informal dinners, and since I am the cook and waitress as well as the hostess, of course I want to have as many details as possible done beforehand. So I fill the water goblets just before going into the living room to "summon" the guests. But yesterday I went to talk on the table-setting and table-service in our large department store here, and the speaker said that the water should not be poured until after the guests are seated. Now I'm confused.—Ruth

Don't be confused, for undoubtedly the speaker was referring to table-service of some formality, and in formal or semi-formal service the water is not poured until after the guests are seated at the table. But with today's customarily informal table-service, it is accepted as entirely correct for the water glasses to be filled before the guests come into the dining room. And either on the sideboard or other convenient place is the pitcher of water for refills. All very convenient, and practical.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



STORIES OF FAMOUS — SR
JESUS, WHERE'ER THY PEOPLE MEET

Jesus, where'er Thy people meet,
There they behold the mercy-seat;
Wher'er they seek, Thou art found,
And every place is hallowed ground.

For Thou, within no walls confined,
Dost dwell with those of humble mind;
Such ever bring Thee where they come;
And going, take Thee to their home.

Great Shepherd, of Thy chosen few,
Thy former mercies here renew;
Here, to our waiting hearts, proclaim
The sweetness of Thy saving name.

Here may we prove the power of prayer
To strengthen faith and sweeten care;
To teach our faint desires to rise,
And bring all heaven before our eyes.

William Cowper, English poet and hymnist who formed a literary partnership with the Rev. John Newton to produce the famous collection of Olney Hymns in 1779, was the author of this popular devotional song.

It was one of Cowper's contributions to the Olney collection and it was written to be sung at the first of a series of prayer-meetings held at a home in Olney known as "the Great House".

Cowper was an enthusiastic supporter of the prayer-services which were held close to the Olney church where his friend, Newton, was preaching. He was excited to tell in later years how he arose before daylight on winter mornings to trudge through snow and cold to the place of prayer. It was necessary to carry a lantern to light his way through the streets. But faithfulness was matched, it appears, by that of a good many others for Cowper tells us that always when he arrived at the prayerhouse he "found assembled 40 or 50 poor folks who preferred a glimpse of the light of God's countenance and favor to the comforts of a warm bed".

Cowper wrote other popular hymns; some of the best known of these are "God Moves In a Mysterious Way", "There Is A Fountain", and "O For A Closer Walk With God".

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU HAD BETTER TAKE A STAND NOW

Nobody can do more harm to her children than a loving mother, if her love is turned in the wrong direction.

Particularly is this true when a mother's possessive affection gets such a stranglehold on a son that he finds it almost impossible to get away to live his own life.

I have a letter from a bewildered young man of 23 who apparently isn't able to figure out why he is finding the road to romance so rocky.

He writes:

Recently I met a girl a year younger than myself to whom I took an instant liking. She is 22 and I am 23. I have dated her several times, and each time I liked her more. I am sure that if I keep seeing her, I will fall in love with her because I have never met anyone who seemed so completely my type.

The trouble is, though, that for some unknown reason my mother has taken a great dislike to this girl, and every time I've taken her out, she gets very mad at me and we have a quarrel. This hurts me very much, because I want very much to like her mother and I can't see any reason why she shouldn't. My girl friend has been very courteous and polite to her each time we have stopped by the house, and while my mother has not gone so far as to be rude to the girl herself, she has made remarks about her when I come home after a date.

I have never done anything behind my mother's back and I wouldn't want to start that now, but I don't want to give this girl up.

How can I keep seeing her without my mother making scenes about it? Should I openly explain to the girl how my mother feels, or try to work the problem out all by myself?"

It is a very sad thing when any child is unable to feel sure in his heart that, in reality, it is not her son's girl friend that she dislikes but the idea that the girl may take him away from her. In cases of this kind, the mother's fears are focus of any girl, in whom their sons take a fancy, and it is very easy to pick all the flaws they possibly can, in those girls to try and make them seem so unattractive that it will destroy the sons' interest in them.

Nothing but unhappiness, of course, can come to anybody through this sort of thing. Either the son is so alienated from his mother that he refuses to pay anything more to do with her and goes his own way, or else, if he does give up the girl because of his mother's nagging, a resentment results that creates an impenetrable barrier between them.

I think the young man will have to make up his mind to face the situation squarely, and recognize the fact that whether or not what it is, namely, a jealous fear of being replaced in the affections by another woman, I think, too, that he should make it quite clear to his mother that a kindly as possible of course, that she cannot dictate to him about his choice of girl friends. She will undoubtedly make a scene at first, when she finds him taking a firm stand, but it is far better to get the whole thing settled now, than to let it drag along until some real crisis arrives. He will have to make the decision to settle the matter sooner or later anyhow, and the longer he puts it off, the harder it will be.

Finally, I don't think he should tell the girl about the situation, certainly not until he has tried to handle it himself. There is no use in making her uncomfortable, or embarrassing her because of his mother, if it can be avoided. After all, however much he may be attracted to her, she is still only a casual acquaintance at this stage, and there is no need to discuss the problem with her when, for the time being, she is seriously interested in each other.

Shelley Rohde Byline Writer At Age of 23

LONDON (CP)—Shelley Rohde, a byline writer at 23, is one of a group of alert young women making their presence felt on Fleet Street. She seems unperturbed at competing with hard-boiled male reporters on a tough newspaper beat.

"I don't prepared to work as hard as they do," she says philosophically, "we find we're pretty well accepted."

Acceptance may be related to appearance. Shelley is a decorative brunette who doesn't lack for dates. But ability counts, and she already has to her credit interviews with Russia's Nikita Khrushchev, Marshal Bulganin and Georgi Malenkov. She speaks Russian fairly well and wants to learn Chinese.

WIN RECOGNITION

Miss Rohde, and such women writers as Anne Sharpley of The Evening Standard, are gradually breaking down the exclusiveness of Fleet Street, once pretty much a male preserve.

She finds her male colleagues fall into three categories. First, there are the paternal types, whom she likes; then there are those who dislikes; and the ones "who just ignore you."

Texas-born, Miss Rohde worked for newspapers in the provinces for a year before joining the Daily Express 18 months ago. Since then, she has been "more or less" Because of her proficiency in Russian, the paper sent her to Moscow for a time. She has met and talked with many of Russia's leading figures.

FAMILY MAN

"Malenkov is my favorite. He loves to talk about his family and always has amusing anecdotes about them."

Shelley first went to Russia in 1956 with supporters of the Wolverhampton Wanderers football team. Her first Russian train ride was a shock. Sexes aren't segregated in the sleeping compartments and she said it was disconcerting to watch a melange of male and female shoes dropping from the upper deck.

"Passengers are awakened by a clanging bell in—the early hours and then they play the national anthems. Coffee is served and everyone scrambles into their clothes and down to the bar to drink vodka at 7 a.m."

Always casually but attractively dressed, Shelley confesses more interest in cars than in clothes. She drives a small white model, taking an extra pair of shoes wherever she goes "because I'm always having trouble with my shoes."

How did she come to be called Shelley? Her mother liked Shelley's poems—"it's a good thing it wasn't Woodsworth or Keats."

Perinatal Mortality Committee Doing Fine Work in Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Some credit for the fact that Alberta's infant mortality rate is decreasing and the number of births increases must go to a committee which has been operating since 1954, says Dr. J. Ross Vant, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Alberta.

The committee was set up by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in agreement with the health minister, and a federal-provincial grant was provided to assist it.

It is called the "perinatal mortality committee" as the word perinatal being explained by Dr. Vant as a composite which embraces the deaths of babies before, during birth and during the first week after birth.

The committee is composed of two obstetricians and two pediatricians, from Edmonton and Calgary. Through the grant, it was able to employ a trained obstetric nurse as executive secretary, and office assistance.

CAREFUL REVIEW

In Alberta, 100 hospitals take maternity cases, and in each there is a local committee, which reviews the deaths, classifies them and sends a report on to the committee.

The committee has also been doing its share to place responsibility for deaths.

In the other 90 hospitals, each doctor is asked to send his perinatal deaths to the committee. All the forms are reviewed carefully by the doctors, before they are classified and indexed.

"This has done two things," says Dr. Vant. "It has made the doctors in the province keenly aware of the possibility of any circumstance which may be a part in causing the death of a baby and to some degree it has made persons aware of the need of consulting the doctor and placing one's self in his care.

"That this committee has already proved its worth is evident by the fact that in 1955 there were 1,000 more births than in 1954 while there were 70 less perinatal deaths.

"Our results in 1956, while not complete, show that in spite of an increasing total number of births, our perinatal rate is dropping proportionately.

"We are finding, as well, that the hospitals are co - operating fully in this project and in endeavor to find the cause and to put into force measures which will reduce this perinatal mortality."

Dr. Vant said that in any campaign to reduce maternal and infant mortality, the education programs for childbirth are "insignificant besides the necessity for the exacting prenatal care given by the doctor in his office to the patient."

Soprano Could Carry Tune Before Walking

NEW YORK (CP) — Singing came almost as naturally as breathing to soprano Mary Bothwell, who vows "I could carry a tune before I could talk."

A concert stage artist for 20 years, Miss Bothwell—born at Hickson, near Woodstock, Ont., and educated in Toronto, says her greatest discovery as a singer was:

"People come to be entertained, with their minds and their hearts open. They want the artist to succeed. The sweetest things in life happen to a singer."

NICE HATS

Miss Bothwell, who recently held recital at the Town Hall here, was named 'age of the 10 "best champs-ed" women at about the same time.

"It was a little startling for someone who used to be a farm girl and make her own hats," said the blonde singer with a smile. The list includes such famous names as Helen Eisenhower, Anna Louise Crawford, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Ivy Baker-Priest, who has the unfeminine title of U.S. treasurer.

Miss Bothwell's love of music came honestly, her late father, W. A. Bothwell, being an amateur violinist. As a girl she studied art in Toronto, then entered the Toronto Academy of Music, now the Royal Conservatory. She made her European debut in 1937 and her New York debut came the next year.

Miss Bothwell finds time to conduct a radio program, in which she interviews famous artists, and is a hobby she collects toy elephants. About 700 of these, presented to her in various parts of the world, adorn her apartment—elephants that talk, sing, dance, walk, fashioned from everything from gold and diamonds to twine.

Answer: Recipe for Chinese Egg Rolls has been sent by mail. The Hot-Mustard Sauce as served in Chinese restaurants is made by adding to either ½ cup genuine mayonnaise or boiled dressing ½ teaspoon dry mustard and 1½ tablespoons prepared mustard. If it is a bit too thick dilute it with lemon juice. Adjust this to your taste. I will keep your request for Chinese dishes in mind..

The Experts Say
56 Canadian Products Wear Insignia of Design Award

OTTAWA (CP) — Well - designed Canadian products—56 of them—now are wearing black and gold cardboard tags, Indian style, of the 1957 Design Awards.

Pots and pans, furniture, toys and even a step-ladder are among the items displayed in the Design Centre's showroom here.

The items, examples of excellence in function and beauty, durability and of good value, will eventually be shown in other Canadian centres.

This is the sixth year the National Industrial Design Committee, an extension of the National Gallery, has sponsored design awards.

DUAL PURPOSE

Dozen expert Norman Hay, the centre's acting director, says the aim of the awards is to promote better design in consumer production and to encourage manufacturers to use the talents of Canadian designers.

The award tags are also trustworthy guides for design - conscious shoppers.

Those who designed the award-winning items and the experts who selected the winners considered each item in terms of appearance and good taste.

Judges selected items suitable and efficient for their function or purpose. For instance, tea pots that represent a little girl waterboy flowers are out.

Some items represent a design-for-basic improvement on a traditional design. Others are considered good values because of their price, simplicity and usefulness.

Only eight of the 56 winning items are of foreign design, Mr. Hay said.

Pointing to an eye-catching occasional arm chair, he noted that numerous articles were designed by immigrants who now are contributing their talents to Canadian designs.

PLEASING FURNITURE

"The furniture generally pleases me," he said. "It's refined, clean, has some sophistication and would stand out in any international exhibition."

Almost the Design Award "firsts" is a series of saucepans, made in Canada to combine the qualities of aluminum and stainless steel for the first time in kitchenware history.

The cooking utensils have aluminum bottoms for better heat spread and stainless steel lids for long wear and stain resistance.

There's a do-it-yourself furniture kit for girls, made of sturdy polished birch with pieces easily pulled apart or put together.

Displayed beside a new power mower with handle - controlled speeds and refrigerator and stoves, visitors find a solid-looking stepladder.

The stepladder isn't as comfortable as the award-winning Stratford Festival folding chair with a foam rubber back and seat. But the ladder has ingeniously arranged hinges that slide and adjust when it's placed on rough or uneven ground so the climber can avoid spills.

PROTECT SWANS

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—An enclosed sanctuary fenced to keep swans in and dogs out is being dredged out of marshy land along the Sydenham River in Harrison Park here. The parks board at one time had seven swans roaming the river but six were killed by dogs—or people—and the birds were so often disturbed they failed to breed. Three more swans have been purchased from St. Thomas to join the survivor.

"Anyone in sympathy with the club's purpose of knowing Can- ada better is welcome."

Membership fees range from $4 to $8 a year depending on the size of the city.

The Association of Canadian Clubs was formed in Toronto in September, 1896, and incorporated by an act of the Ontario legislature. Most of the seven or eight speakers heard every year by the smaller clubs come from the 92 clubs' headquarters of the movement.

Some clubs prefer their own speakers. No professional speak- ers are used and only a speaker's expenses are paid.

WIDESPREAD MOVEMENT

There are nine clubs in the United States, 10 in Britain, 40 in Ontario, 18 in the Prairies and 13 in British Columbia.

Mr. Morse, national director since 1949, travels about 7,000 miles a year visiting the clubs and organizing new ones.

Clubs have set up scholarships to foster Canadian literature, cul- ture and history; and help new Canadians become "integrated in to the community." They assist projects on Canadian historic sites.

Governor - General Massey, honorary president of the Cana- dian Club speaker, has said: "One cannot praise the part which the Canadian Club movement has played over the years — such things defy a close assessment. But we can be certain that Can- ada is profoundly indebted to this, the only national movement existing for the sole purpose of fortifying our belief in our coun- try."

B.C. Fishermen's Union Hit As Communist-Run But Earns Praise for Conservation Work

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The fish- ermen's union of British Columbia is like the butter in the mystery pie. No matter how you like it served, it's still suspected of do- ing the dirty work.

The United Fishermen and Al- lied Workers Union, to use its full title, is damned as Communist- run and as a "phony," but earns praise for its work in conserva- tion and advancement of fisher- men's living standards.

Its conservation work includes limiting the fishing season to spread out and conserve the fish harvest, and fighting power thefts and others whose actions are often viewed as a threat to the industry's survival.

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The union's annual meeting will be held here next week.

Labor, industry and law en- forcement sources have said the officials of the union are Com- munists and that its policies in more than one instance have fol- lowed the "party line." There have been allegations the union is more a monopoly than a labor organization and is responsible for price-fixing and restraint of trade.

The union was formed in 1945 after a merger of two groups rep- resenting fishermen and process- ors—the United Fishermen's Fed- eral Union and the Cannery and eduction Plant and Allied Work- ers' Union. Its membership then was about 4,000. Now it has 1,000 members in 32 locals along the B.C. coast.

In 1952, the union was sus- pended by the Trades and La- bor Congress. A letter to the un- ion from the TLC said the fisher- men had produced an "accumula- tion of incidents tending to show a very definite leaning towards communism and its front organi- zations."

FULL-TIME EXECUTIVES

The fishermen's union has two full-time paid executives — secre- tary-treasurer Homer Stevens and business agent Alex Gordon. Stev- ens was an unsuccessful Labor- Progressive (Communist) Party candidate in the 1953 federal elec- tion. Mr. Gordon, editor George North of the union's three - monthly publication, and research director Bill Rigby also are said by authoritative sources to be Communists.

The union has long advocated increased trade with Communist China. A resolution at next week's convention will urge that a dele- gation from the union visit Rus- sian fisheries centres this sum- mer.

Union spokesmen country, sug- gestions that the resolution "may be Communist-inspired by refer- ring to a visit to Hurley's in 1955 by Fisheries Minister Sinclair and exchanges of delegations between Canada and the Soviet Union in other fields.

A combines investigation of the United Fishermen now is believed in its final stages. Editor North of results of a study of union and company books is in the hands of T. D. MacDonald, head of the justice department's spe- cial investigations branch.

REASONS FOR PROBE

Mr. North says the combines probe is based on allegations that since many union members run their own boats they are "self employed" and the union is not an employee organization. The Combines Act specifically ex- cludes unions from its provisions. The union contends that its mem- bership includes large numbers of shore workers as well as fisher- men hired as crew.

The union, along with other con- servation - minded groups, has fought interference with salmon hatchery power dams and sought agreements between the United States and Canada for preserva- tion of salmon runs by restricted fishing.

Another resolution before the convention, which begins Sunday, urges expansion of British Colum- bia's territorial waters, to exclude U.S. and Alaskan fishermen from B.C. coast waters and Hecate Strait, between the B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island.

MARY MAGDALENE

"And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils . . . and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance."

—Luke VIII.2,3

"Women loved Jesus," says Papini in his incomparable "Life of Christ." They would have liked to be His sisters. His servants, His slaves; to serve Him, to set bread before Him, to pour Him wine, to wash His gar- ments, to annoint His tired feet and His flowing hair."

Next to His mother, the woman who was nearest to Jesus, who followed Him fearlessly to the very foot of the cross, and to whom He appeared first when He rose from the dead, was Mary Magdalene.

She was so called because she came from the town of Magdala, in Galilee, where she lived during the early part of her life.

Scripture does not include many details of her life before she met Jesus, but most Biblical scholars agree that she was a woman of considerable means and posi- tion in her society.

Although popular opinion has long made her a kind of arch-type for the "repentant sinner" and fallen woman, there is not a shred of evidence to support such a view.

On the contrary, it is more likely that she was, as one ancient writer says, an educated woman, daughter of a wealthy Greek ship owner, who taught Platonic philosophy.

In any event, from the moment she met Jesus, until His final reappearance from the tomb, she was His devoted and intimate follower.

She accompanied Him and ministered to Him on His last journey from Galilee to Jerusalem, and, together with Mary, His mother, and John, the Beloved disciple, went for Him on Calvary.

After the Crucifixion, she helped prepare His body for entombment. And, as Papini says so beautifully:

"Many loving tears fell upon that face where in the calm paleness of death the old sweetness had come once more, and their tears washed it with water purer than that from Joseph's well."

JESUS LOVED THEM

by Patrick and Garrigan

THE OBSESSED BOY

"There came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed . . ."

—Matthew XVII:14-15

Because Scripture refers to this unfortunate boy as a "lunatick," some modern writers have asserted that the child was merely afflicted with epilepsy.

They argue that in Greek usage the term (meaning to be moonstruck) was commonly applied to that disease.

However, the New Testament account is unequivocal in stating that the boy was possessed by an unclean spirit:

"He rebuked the foul spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him and enter no more into him.

"And the spirit cried and rent him sore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; insomuch that many said, He is dead."

The child's father had previously brought the boy to Jesus' disciples to be healed, but they were unable to cure him. Upon this the disciples that they should cast him out; and they could not."

From the description of the boy's symptoms, related by the father, we know that he was not only given to seizures in which he fell into the fire and into the water, but was deaf and dumb. During his attacks, he often endangered his own life by falling into the fire or into the river or lake.

Mark, in his Gospel, points out that it was the father's faith which made it possible for his son to be healed.

"Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth."

And in response to Jesus, the boy's father cried out, with tears in his eyes:

"Lord, I believe; help thou my unbelief."

The result of this father's humble, but powerful faith, was the expulsion of the evil that controlled his son.

Was such a cure merely evidence of the healer's art, or was it the will of God that banished demons?

For those who believe that Scripture is true, Jesus that day commanded a "foul spirit" to come out of a child, "and the child was cured from that very hour."

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Young Couple Presented With Fine Gifts

MOUNTAIN VIEW — On Sat- urday evening about 75 relatives, neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bonnah, (nee Dana Michael), gathered in the Mountain View Community Hall to honor them upon their recent marriage.

Dana and Roger were asked to take seats at the front by a table covered with a lace cloth. Mr. Clarke Rodgers read an ap- propriate address and she and Mrs. Alfred Foote presented them with a coffee table, a step-table and a lamp from Mountain View community. They also received a Kenwood blanket from Hutt's Island community and a number of individual gifts from friends who were outside the two com- munities who participated in the presentations.

Mr. Seymour Hamilton read an address and a leather bound Bible was presented to them from Mountain View Sunday School where Roger had always attended.

Roger, on behalf of his wife, and himself, thanked everyone for the gifts and invited everyone to visit them in Toronto where they are now residing.

In the ladies room refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by everyone.

CHANGE SAVED BILLS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A housewife outwitted a robber Wed- nesday by hiding $120 in her son's diaper. Mrs. Bridie Harting said the young thief forced his way into her apartment and asked for money. She asked that he let her change her seven - months - old baby's diapers. He did and Mrs. Harting quickly switched the money from her budget envelope.

ritish Industrial Workers ead Into Greatest Showdown ith Employers in 30 Years

By KEN METHERALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's rising appetite for consumer goods is enthusiasm. British industrial workers are moving toward what might develop into the greatest showdown fight with their employers in 30 years.

Already the clink of hammer on steel has been stilled in the building yards with 800,000 workers refusing to work until employers agree to negotiate their pay for a 10-per-cent pay increase.

Even more serious is the decision of the 40 unions representing the 1,500,000 workers in the engineering engineering industry to begin a series of "snowball" strikes starting Saturday that will effectively halt work in some 7,000 factories—including those making cars, aircraft and motor cycles—and household utensils.

EMPLOYMENT

Other strikes are threatened by the 200 railway workers and the 20,000 employees of the state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation.

The prevailing mood among employers appears to be a mixture of grim acceptance of their workers' militant attitude and considerable scepticism of the wisdom of a strike during a period of full employment and extensive spending week.

Letter-to-the-editor columns in the national and provincial newspapers are carrying a flood of letters expressing dissatisfaction with the strike which could develop into a national stoppage similar to the 1926 general strike.

STRIKE CRITICIZED

Employers are criticized for their "provocative" 10-month refusal to discuss any wage claim for the unions, while the unions are under fire for refusing a last-minute offer the employers made before the shipbuilding and engineering dispute to arbitration.

The mass-circulation Daily Mirror, which generally sides with the unions, says bluntly the workers cannot expect wage increases unless production is stepped up.

The right-wing Evening Standard publishes a cartoon by Fred Majdalany two employers watching the mass union meeting of engineering and shipyard workers. One employer carries a "no offer" sign and his caption reads: "The only way we can compete with foreign countries is to let British craftsmen emigrate if they want higher wages."

STANDING BRITAIN

The Daily Express sums up the general disenchantment with both employers and unions in a cartoon showing two daggers each belonging to employers and the other to the unions, being plunged into a map of the United Kingdom.

Undoubtedly one reason for lack of enthusiasm by rank and file unionists is that they have been collecting pay packets considered "fat" by British standards. Average earnings for the 800,000 shipbuilding workers—including bonuses and overtime — are just under $40 a week in the engineering industry range from about $30 to $36 a week. Skilled men get $40 for skilled craftsmen.

At the current rate of exchange, $418 is the equivalent of about $38.50. But the purchasing power of the pound, in relation to the cost of living, is substantially greater than is its dollar equivalent would indicate.

Working conditions in the shipbuilding industry are the cause of considerable grievance.

DISREGARD SAFETY

The News Chronicle's industrial writer, Laurence Thompson, after a group of progressive British and Dominion industrialists with whom he toured a number of shipyards a year ago "blanched visibly at what they saw."

"Safety regulations were being blatantly disregarded, canteens and lavatories inferior, the visitors asked why doors could not be fitted to an open shed to keep out at least some of the weather and improve working conditions, they were told that it never had been done."

Because British trade unions are closely associated with the country's opposition Labor party, the country's industrial strife has inevitably brought charges, denied by union officials, that the strike weapon is being used as a means of overthrowing Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative Government.

The "Irish potato" is not Irish, and while the fruit is a tuber, the plant is a perennial herb. It was first discovered in the Andes where it was a food staple of the Incas, which it is believed to have cultivated. Botanically Solanum tuberosum, it is closely related to Jerusalem artichoke, tomato and Bittersweet.

Bruins, Habs Battle For Second Place Features Weekend Hockey Scen

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The defence corps of the Boston Bruins is the highest scoring unit in the National Hockey League. The Boston blueline brigade have accounted for 23 of their club's goals in games played on the morning of March 16. Three of the Bruins' defencemen, Fern Flaman, Doug Mohns and Allan Stanley, scored six goals each. Leo Boivin and Jack Bionda (no longer with the team) scored two goals apiece while Bob Armstrong tallied once.

Twenty of Detroit's 184 goals came off the sticks of Red Wings' defencemen. Red Kelly topped the defenders with 10 goals, Marcel Pronovost followed with seven markers, while Larry Hillman, Warren Godfrey and Al Arbour each scored once. New York Rangers' defencemen scored 17 of the Blue Shirts goals. Larry Cahan scored five and Bill Gadsby four. Jack Evans and Lou Fontinato each scored three times while Captain Harry Howell notched one counter.

Not counting the output of Ron Stewart who played both defence and forward this season, the Toronto Maple Leafs' defencemen scored 16 of the Leafs' goals. Marc Reaume was the top goal-getter among the rearguards with six. Tim Horton scored four, while Al MacNeil and Jim Morrison each scored three times. Chicago Black Hawks' defencemen rated fifth in goal scoring among the six N.H.L. teams. The Hawks' defencemen scored 13 of the Chicago goals. Captain Gus Mortson with five, Elmer Vasko and Pierre Pilote each with three and single-tons by Frank Martin and Ron Ingram accounted for the 13 goals. Ingram is no longer with the club.

Surprisingly, the defence of the Montreal Canadiens which is ruled by many as the best in the National Hockey League, scored the least number of goals of any defence group. The Montreal defenders scored a total of 11 goals in games up to the morning of March 14. Doug Harvey was their top. One man with five goals, Tom Johnson was next with four and Dollard St. Laurent and Bob Turner each scored one.

BIG IMPROVEMENT THIS SEASON

Boston Bruins surely must rate as one of the most improved hockey teams of 1956-57. The Bruins finished last season in fifth place in the N.H.L. standings with 19 points. Now they are tied for second in the standings with one game left to play to finish the season. This is an improvement of many points.

Several players on the Bruins show a big improvement this season over a year ago. Fleming Mackell has 22 more scoring points this season than he finished with a year ago. Real Cherreffils is 20 points up on last season's mark, while Don McKenney is 19 ahead of his 1955-56 record.

Mackell finished with seven goals and nine assists last year. On the morning of March 16 he had 11 goals, 17 assists, 28 points. Real Cherreffils scored 14 goals and assisted on 12 for 26 points last season while playing with Detroit and Boston. He had 29 goals and 13 assists for 46 points on March 13 this year. McKenney jumped from 10 goals and 24 assists a year ago to 29 goals and 33 assists in 66 games this season.

R.I.P.

The Red Cross campaign here, coupled with the death of Frank Doughty of Toronto, recalls to outstanding work of the Toronto sportsman in the interest of the Belleville Red Cross several years ago.

Frank at that time was the manager of the Sunday Morning Class famous Toronto girls' softball team which won a world championship. In conjunction with the late Ken J. Colling and Ted Schwab, Frank brought the "Class" here on two occasions for exhibition games in aid of the Red Cross. The efforts of Frank Ken and Ted resulted in nearly $1,200 being handed to the Red Cross from the two games.

Frank married Kay Genereaux, a former Belleville girl, who learned her softball in this city and went on to become one of the world's best. Belated but nevertheless sincere condolences go out to Kay in her loss of a fine husband and a true sportsman.

Teams Tied With Game Left Canadiens Can Take Spot On Scoring Record Strength

By KENNEDY WELLS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The National Hockey League's 1956-57 season will be history after this weekend, but much rests on the outcome of the final five games.

Most important probably is the battle between Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins for second place and the $500 for each player that goes with it.

The two teams are tied and each has one game left, Bruins must win tonight against New York Rangers, but if Canadiens win too, they will finish second top spot through most of the first because of a better scoring record.

Besides second place, a bagful of personal awards and records will be decided.

HOWE TOPS

Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings' great right winger, is holding top spot in the scoring race with 42 goals and 42 assists for 84 points. A point behind is the Canadiens' Jean Beliveau and another point back of him comes Wings' left-winger Ted Lindsay.

Howe and Lindsay race will get $1,000 and the Art Ross Trophy, the runner-up collects $500.

The way here must go to Howe and Lindsay since they have two games to play. Beliveau on the other must do all his scoring against Chicago Black Hawks tonight and The Red Wings play both their games against fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Incidentally, is two assists away from Bert Olmstead's all-time record of 56 set last season.

Finally there is the goaltenders' battle between Wings' Glenn Hall and Montreal's Jacques Plante.

Here again, the Detroit player would seem to have the edge. Hall has allowed two less goals than Plante this season, and while he has played one less game, his final two are against the low-scoring Maple Leafs, while Plante must face the Boston Bruins, who have showed surprising scoring muscle during the last half of the season.

The winner will get the Vezina Trophy and $1,000.

The 1956-57 season will probably be remembered as the year of comebacks.

It saw the rise of Boston Bruins from one of the league's weak sisters to a team that held top spot through most of the first half of the schedule and was close all the way.

Less dramatically, it was also a comeback year for Detroit, which was expected to go into a decline after allowing the Habitants to break their seven-year hold on first place last season.

There was also the aging Ted Kennedy's return after an 18-month retirement in a desperate, but futile attempt to get Toronto Maple Leafs into the playoffs.

SMITH RETURNS

And the comeback of Leaf left-winger Sid Smith, who after missing four goal total last year to nearly 30. Smith made his revival official Friday night after announcing his retirement earlier he signed for 1957.

Most impressive of the personal comebacks perhaps is that of Chicago's Eddie Litzenberger. Litz, after a disappointing sophomore year, became a 50-goal scorer and established himself as one of the league's best centres. Beside him was Eric-Nesterenko, who called...it, quits when the Leafs axed him. He was back this spring, then returned to action in January to shine as Litzenberger's left winger.

No-Windup Pitch A Big Drawback Says Boudreau

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The no-windup pitch will be a big drawback to baseball's new 20-second rule, predicts manager Lou Boudreau of Kansas City Athletics, because together they will "completely remove the quick pitch when the bases are empty."

The rule says that with the bases empty the pitcher must deliver the ball within 20 seconds after receiving it from the catcher. If the pitcher takes more than 20 seconds the umpire automatically calls a ball. And, if the batter is not in his box when the ball is delivered, the umpire is required to call it a strike or ball just like any other pitch.

"What's going to happen," Boudreau said, "is that some of these (no-windup) pitchers are going to be holding the ball and as soon as the batter steps in they'll fire. If they want to work without signs the catcher can wipe the ball back to the pitcher and he can throw it back, boom The ball will be going back and forth so fast it will look like one of those old silent movies."

Prior to this season the batter was permitted to get set before the pitcher was allowed to throw. If the batter was not set and the pitcher tossed the ball before the batter was set, a quick pitch was called and the pitch disallowed.

"The way the rule stands now it is all in the hands of the umpire and is swinging," Boudreau declared.

"Besides that," he continued, "the rule is not in effect when runners are on base. The quick pitch is usually when the pitchers and batters take a lot of extra time."

"A Rose Would" Names Not Bothering Boudreau 'As Long as Team Improves'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau isn't bothered by the tag his club carries:

"The Junior American League farm team."

The Athletics have a dozen players who at one time or another were under contract to New York.

"I don't care what they call us as long as we improve," the baseball-some pilot said after Friday's Yanks-KC game at West Palm Beach, Fla. "In fact, it wouldn't hurt us if some of the Yanks' class rubbed off on us. It's better than being a last-place team."

Boudreau's operatives had just been licked 3-2 by the Bombers, but just the same he said he thought the A's were making going to improve because of their hitting. He also likes Bill Graff, who hit .314 for Birmingham last year and came to Kansas City as a throw-in in the big mid-winter deal.

HAS HIS WORRIES

But he's worried about; 1. The defence (bad!); 2. The pitching (wild!); 3. Irv Noren (knees still won't permit him to run); 4. Harry Simpson (injured last year, out with serious muscle pull and probable won't start season).

No matter how you look at it, the athletics appear to be all the Yanks need. Offseason it's trading. In-season, it's playing. Until Friday the world champions had lost two in a row and had looked feckless in both outings.

But Tom Sturdivant and rookie Jim Depalo combined to whiten wash the Athletics on four hits. For Sturdivant, this was his third time on the mound in a total of 14 innings, he has given up just eight hits and no runs.

While Boudreau was contemplating his problems, manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati had cause to rejoice as the Redlegs whipped Detroit Tigers 2-1 in Lakeland, Fla.

SECOND TO GO DISTANCE

Veteran Johnny Klippstein went all the way for the Redlegs, to become one of the first two major leaguers to go nine innings this spring and Ted Kluszewski wrapped it up with a seventh-inning single following a triple by Smokey Burgess.

Big Klu was bothered most of last season by a hip injury (which didn't prevent him from hitting .302, batting in 102 runs and crashing 35 homers!) and there was some worry around the Redlegs' late that it might break out again.

This was Klu's first start with the A's since he served time as bench-hitting chorer. He re-orted the 'ob felt as good as ever.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee Braves 10 innings; Philadelphia Phillies licked St. Louis Cardinals, also 3-2; Chicago Cubs had to go 11 innings to beat Baltimore Orioles 5-2; New York Giants defeated Cleveland Indians 5-3; Washington whipped Brooklyn Dodgers 7-2 with Camilo Pascual in route for the Senators; and San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League vanquished Boston Red Sox 5-2.

HELMETS MANDATORY

TORONTO (CP) — Jockeys on Ontario tracks must wear protective helmets starting this season, the Ontario Racing Commission ruled Friday.

The plastic-glass helmet, perfected by John Alessio, general manager of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club in Mexico, weighs 14 ounces, is lined with sponge rubber and has a hinged, shock-absorbing sweat band around the inside. Each jockey must buy his own helmet.

Britain Opens New Racing Season Monday

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain opens a new flat-racing season Monday, doggedly determined to keep a few of the prizes at home.

Last year, French horses won three of the five classic races, a feat perhaps unequalled in the history of the British turf, and this time local horsemen are intent on keeping the invaders away from the money.

The 1957 campaign, lasting eight months, starts on the usual quiet note with a three-day meeting at Lincoln, 130 miles north of London.

A Canadian-owned horse, Royal Canuck, is entered in the first race of the season, a one-mile event for horses that haven't won a heat worth more than 300 sovereigns.

BRAMPTON OWNER

Royal Canuck is owned by J.E. Armstrong of Brampton, who started campaigning in Britain two years ago. Royal Canuck's trainer, Pip Royal, was originally entered in next Wednesday's Lincolnshire Handicap, the big race of the meeting, but was scratched and will run in a cheap event Tuesday.

What are the prospects for the classic races?

The homebred colts seemed a pretty unpromising bunch last year, British owner Keith Mason has a three-year-old filly named Crystal Cup who may be a champion. Sarcelle is by Amour Drake out of Sarce and is half-sister of Prefect, purchased here two years ago by Max Bell of Calgary and sent to North America.

Sarcelle won her three races last year easing up.

The first of the classics, the two thousand guineas, will be run at Newmarket May 1. The derby will be at Epsom June 5.

Thinks Pirates Good Enough To Finish in Fifth Position

By JACK HAND

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates, who shocked the National League by taking the lead last June only to fall back to a second-division finish, think they are good enough to make fifth place this season.

"We should finish fifth and, if we're good enough to beat St. Louis, we could be fourth," said manager Bobby Bragan. "I think we'll beat Philadelphia, New York and Chicago."

Bragan, the peppery pilot who moved the Pirates out of last place in his rookie year, has four definite reasons why he couldn't his 1957 club improved over last year's team.

HAS BETTER BENCH

"First of all, we have Bill Mazeroski from the very start with a year's experience under his belt.

"Second, we have Bill Virdon from the very start. He hit like a champion for us after we got him from St. Louis in mid-May.

"Third, Frank Thomas is settled down at third base after his switch from the outfield.

"Fourth, we're going to have better bench. This year I'll have John Powers, Paul Smith, Danny Kravitz and Skinner Jeffries. And Gene Freese and Ramon Mejias as righthanders."

The Pirate infield is set with (.243), the 20-year-old Hollywood great, at second, Dick Groat (.310) at short and Thomas (.282) at third. If long needs relief he can get it from Powers, while the probably will be the No. 4 outfielder. Thomas also can play first. Dick Cole (.212) and Johnny O'Brien (.173) the pitcher-infielder, will be in reserve.

WEAK AT PLATE

Lee Walls (.274) in left, Virdon (.310) in centre and Roberto Clemente (.311) in right make Bragan's regular outfielders. Freese (.208), a former infielder, has been playing the outfield with success in Ingress Bragan. Powers (.312 at New Orleans) and Mejias (.274 at Hollywood) may stick with Bragan had fair catching year but not enough hitting department. Kravitz (.265 lywood) is back for another and may wind up Pirate No. 4 do the job behind the bat.

Bob Friend (17-17) was the best pitchers in the last season and could be a dynamic (14 - 18) strong. He should be even Vern Law (9-16) is the old tain starter.

STARS PLAY AMATEU

TORONTO (CP)—National Day will be held in Canada day, June 1, with Marlies art and Al Balding playing the week-end golfers.

Miss Stewart, from Ont., won the American in 1956 and Balding, Toron has been playing the winter for more than three years will play at Toronto St. Club the afternoon of June

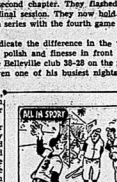
Whitby Defeats Macs 7-2 For 3rd Straight Eastern Senior Finals Win

Unleashes Third-Period Power To Net 4 Unanswered Goals In Best Game of Big Series



By Geo. H. Currey
Sports Editor

Elimination handwriting loomed plainer on the hockey wall for the Bellerville Macfarland Macs last night as the smooth Whitby Dunlop machine rolled relentlessly on its march to the Eastern Senior "A" group championship.

The Dunlops again unleashed its power in the third period to fling home four unanswered goals and defeat the Macs by a 7-2 count. The teams split two goals in the first period and the Dunlops outscored the Macs 2-1 in the second chapter. They flashed their scoring ability in the four-goal final session. They now hold 4 3-0 game margin in the best of seven series with the fourth game slated for Whitby tomorrow night.

While the score may not indicate the difference in the teams, the Dunlops again stressed their polish and finesse in front of the McFarlands net. They outshot the Belleville club 38-28 on the night's play with Gordie Bell being given one of his busiest nights since opening a 16-game season.

Whitby's ace line of Gagnon, Attersley and Samolenko again provided the scoring punch for the Dulops

"I'd fine him $100 but it would be useless since he's just giving him $100,000 to sign!"

the Dulops, accounting for four goals and six assists. Attersley scored two of the counters and had an assist while Gagnon and Samolenko scoring singles. The latter had three assits with the Dunlops' coach being credited with two.

Tom O'Connor, Fred Eicher and Frank Bonello scored the other goals with Gordie Myles getting two assists and Bill Ecker and Jack Armstrong one each.

Moe Benoit displayed a blazing puck past Long John Henderson for one of the McFarland goals with Johnny Muretich and Wes Greene Floyd Crawford had two assists with Bobo Bell getting a single.

The game was the best of the series thus far with both teams checking hard and playing a wide-open style of hockey. Referee Jack Murpodaire of Richmond Hill doled out but eight penalties, five of them to the Dunlops and one a misconduct to Attersley and to McFarlands.

The Macfarlands flew to the attack in the opening minutes of the game and gave Henderson in the Dunlops' nets every time they came close on several forays but the packed Dunsies' defence held them off the scoring sheet.

The Dunlops roared back with a series of dash-spoiling rushes and Gagnon rang the first scoring bell after four minutes, driving in Samolenko's pass from the corner on the play.

A few seconds later Ted O'Connor was chased for elbowing and the Macs put on the pressure. They hammered the Dunlop net behind their own blueline and on a pass out to the point Bell rifled a blasted a sizzling slapshot into the net that Henderson has yet to see. ioyrdf?

Floyd Crawford gave Gagnon his "coupon" as the result of a 1,000 roared its approval. Then Botley got the gate for holding and he went to the box for his office when Treen was chased for boarding. Both defences held and no scoring damage was done while the sinners were off.

The Macfarlands resumed to the attack starting the second period and the pressure was back on Dunlop. Only seconds before Johnny Muretich gave the Macs their only lead of the game. The winger scored on a pass from Bobo Bobenic and Floyd Crawford, his hard drive blasting past Henderson's short side with inches to spare.

The lead was shortlived however, with the Gagnon, Attersley, Samolenko line again making fast action to tie the score three minutes later with Bobby finding the target with a neat drive. The Dunlops exerted terrific pressure at this point and at the seven minute mark had outshot the Macs 9-2. Tom O'Connor gave the Dunlops a 2-2 lead with a screened shot at the five minute mark.

Midway through the period Gagnon was chased for elbowing and the Macs put on the pressure, and the Belleville crew found it an dthe Belleville crew found it hard to organize their offensives. Henderson saved their efforts and no damage was done.

Gagnon and Armstrong were sent off within seconds of each other and Benoit was assessed a coincidental minor. The Whitby player went to the hoosgow. Later Myles was sent to the penalty box and again the Dunlops threw back the McFarland attacks.

The Whitby crew unleashed its scoring power early in the third period with Fred Eicher starting the four-goal offensive. He tipped in Myles' cross-goal pass with Tom O'Connor getting in the assists column. Davy Jones raced back and went in to Henderson all alone but the lanky goalie outguessed the Macs forward.

Gagnon and Samolenka away on a lone foray after breaking up a McFarland attack, and the winger roared in to beat Bell to put the Dunlops three goals up. Maintaining their furious drive the Dunnies again surged in with Bobbie Attersley scoring his second goal of the night on a pass by Samolenko's pass in front of the Belleville goal.

Manchester U Decides on Big Gamble

LONDON (AP) — Manchester United have decided on a big gamble for its Football Association Cup quarter-final tie against Birmingham today.

Centre-forward Tommy Taylor is out of the match with a leg injury. In his place goes Dennis Viollet, playing the position for the first time.

Soccer experts had expected Manchester manager Matt Busby to move Bobby Charlton to the position of centre. Instead, he switched Viollet from inside forward to centre forward and named Charlton to the inside left position.

If Viollet fails at centre forward Busby probably will order Charlton into the middle and switch Dennis to his normal inside forward berth.

Manchester United, 11-to-8 favorites for the English Cup, is chasing a unique soccer treble. It is European Cup and league championship and also has reached the semi-final of the European Cup.

No team has ever won the three competitions, but think mighty Manchester can pull it off.

Glorious Twelfth Favored in Grand National

IBC Can Deal With 'Ole Archie'

NEW YORK (AP)—Officials of the International Boxing Club said today they had been told by General Juige Sylvester Ryan that the organization is free to continue its negotiations with Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, for a title bout.

Judge Ryan telephoned the IBC from Phoenix, Ariz., on a vacationing briefly, the IBC said.

Judge Ryan ruled March 8 that the IBC may have been tied by Control is president, wa as monopolistic, in violation of the federal world championship title fights.

Negotiations with Moore for a fight with Floyd Patterson, March 7, were halted by Norris who said the IBC was "not appealing to flout the judge's ruling." Norris and his attorney then asked for the judge for advice

It is probable that Moore will defend his title against the winner of the April 5 bout between Tom Anthony of New York and Chuck Spieser of East Lansing, Mich.

Tips to Improve Casting Technique

The great majority of hunters, as you very well know, rarely take their shotguns out of the cases until the night before "opening day."

Early morning finds them afield. That evening they return home, complaining bitterly of missing birds and rabbits. It does not occur to them that a trip or two to the skeet range would do much toward filling empty or partially filled game pockets.

The same holds true for all too many fishermen. At least 90 per cent of them simply do not know how to cast. No matter whether they prefer orthodox bait-casting outfits, spinning rigs, or fly rods, it is quite obvious that far too few of them have learned how to handle the tools of their trade. In other words, they are not ready to cut for instruction and practice.

The probabilities are that not very many fishermen know how to practice. Most of them have the typical attitude that they prevent them from being good casters. Without instruction, casting practice is simply a waste of time. About all they accomplish is to incorporate the faults they have into their casting motions that correction becomes more and more difficult.

All right—let's see if we can't get down some nuts and bolts. Ideas which will help the average caster to improve his casting.

First off, let's take a look at the grip: how should you hold a rod correctly? Place the thumb of the casting hand on top of the rod grip with the thumb directly opposite the reel. Hold a rod that way and you have two strikes against you before you get started up to the plate. It makes no difference whether you are casting a big rod, a spinning rod, or a fly rod, the grip is the same.

The way to hold a rod correctly is to place the palm of the hand on top of the rod grip, thumb on the reel. This places the thumb at the side. Then close the fingers—not by the fingers—just the finger tips, not the entire fingers wrapped around the grip—and the side of the thumb. Hold this way, the rod handle will ride in a line with the casting hand only at the "pressure points" which are the base of the index finger and the heel of the hand.

As you read this, take a pencil or a fountain pen and use it as a rod grip. Then hold it as suggested above. You will see that your wrist is completely free to move, how, hold it the other way, with the thumb on top. You will see that the wrist is partially locked so that the only way you can move the rod through the casting arc.

Let me warn you that this grip may not be comfortable when you first try it. Use it for a few days or two and any other grip will feel clumsy and awkward.

The best, and the handiest, place to practice casting is on a lawn. No need to go to a lake or a stream. When practicing, it is always better to cast against obstacles to have a target. Placing a target on a lawn is easy; place one on the surface of a flowing stream is something else again.

THE CASTING ROD—

If you practice with the conventional bait-casting rod and appealing rod with the quadruple-multiplier reel, the first thing to learn is the overhead cast, wherein the rod moves in a plane that is perpendicular to the ground. Consider this plane, for convenience, to be divided into segments like a clock and the face of a clock, twelve o'clock being at the top.

Now, place your thumb lightly against the spool of the reel. Hold the rod handle in your right hand, side, with the rod tip at approximately two o'clock, the practice plug hanging a few inches below the tip guide. The back cast should go back to about ten-thirty and the forward cast should complete itself once more at two o'clock.

Remember that with a casting rod there is no pause between back cast and forward cast. Instead, it is all one smooth motion. Release the pressure of the thumb at about one o'clock and the plug should sail out toward the target. Be sure to apply thumb pressure just as the plug strikes the lawn; otherwise the spool will over-run and build up a backlash.

At first you may find that the plug strikes the lawn directly in front of you. Should this happen, release thumb pressure on the spool a bit earlier than before. You will soon find the correct spot. And, remember—never remove your thumb entirely from the spool. Instead, maintain a light pressure at all times. That way you will avoid backlashes.

As you know, a great many plug casters use the "side-wheel" reels. While easier at first, the side-wheel cast is inefficient and inaccurate. Believe me, there is no room in my boat for a side-wheeler.

SPINNING—

To practice with a spinning rig, the rules are the same as with the casting rod—overhead cast, release point about the same. Control of distance can be effected by placing the tip of the index finger on the front edge of the spool. And remember, a side-wheel cast with a spinning rig is not as inaccurate and dangerous as with a casting rod.

FLY CASTING—

With the fly rod, the grip is exactly the same as that used with the casting rod and the spinning rod. Only the line is different. So take a tip from the good casters and learn to "feel" the line.

There are two things of vital importance to learn with a fly rod: a high back cast and sound timing. Learn these, learn them well, and you can throw a fly cast, and your days on lake and stream will be pleasant ones. Fail to learn them, and you will always be an indifferent or a poor caster. Believe me, that is true.

To learn the high back cast, begin with a short line. Use about 30 feet. Then practice the back cast, stop the rod at about eleven o'clock and then bring the line up and back so that it extends about 30 degrees about the horizontal. As you do this, turn your head and watch the line as it travels back. Then, remembering that the back cast, face forward again and cast the line out onto the lawn.

When you watch your back cast, you learn two things. First, you learn exactly how far back you are there where it belongs; next, you learn how long it takes the line to extend itself. That way, and only that way, can you learn timing.

Moreover, as you practice the high back cast, you will find that this is true: if the cast-is made correctly, up there where it should be, and you can't see it, right, it is impossible to throw a bad forward cast. Conversely, if the back cast is low and the timing is off, it is very difficult to throw a good forward cast.

So there you have it. If you will just practice this gosting — and let's hope that you do—you know ahead of time the nature of the fundamentals which, when practiced, will make you a better-than-average caster. Good fishing!

MOVE SUNDAY SPORT

VICTORIA (CP)—A legislative committee opened study Friday on the city's application for a charter amendment allowing commercial sports between 1:30 and 6:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Vancouver's corporation counsel Russel Baker told the committee the move had been approved by citizens in a 1955 plebiscite and Vancouver council had asked to grant it. The action was opposed by R. J. McMaster, representing the Lord's Day Alliance Act.

Guelph, Thorold Keglers in Bowling Final

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Williams of Guelph and Lodge Nawaski of Thorold won their way to the finals in the Eastern Canadian five-pin bowling championships Friday.

In the women's division, Vera Ward, three-time winner from Hamilton, and Mabel McDowell of Toronto won their semi-final matches to enter today's finals.

Williams defeated the more-experienced Wally Soushes of Oshawa 2,508 to 2,391 in a 10-block semi-final to gain his berth in the finals. Nazwaski had a score of 2,508.

Miss Ward bowled cooly and methodically as she defeated Muriel Kingston 2,643 to 2,387 despite a rally by the Kingston player in the seventh and eighth games.

Berrios Wins Over Costa

NEW YORK (AP)—Tiny Miguel Berrios advanced into the semi-finals of the featherweight elimination tournament Friday night by outpointing Brooklyn's Carmello Costa in a 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The Puerto Rican contender finished strong, dropping Costa in the 10th round, to seal the verdict.

The 24-year-old Berrios was the only winner in the quarter-finals as harder punches and the only knockdown, but won by split decision.

Judge Harold Barnes voted for Berrios 58-56 while Referee Arthur Aidala had it even in the count at 57-57. Judge Bernard Sandler gave it Berrios on points, 7-6. Referee Harry Kessler voted for Costa 7-4-1. The Associated Press card had Berrios head 8-4.

The victory earned Berrios a semi-final shot at Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey, British Empire titlist, at Washington April 29. The semi-final winner then will meet France's Cherif Hamia, European 126-pound champion, in May, for the title vacated by retired Sandy Saddler.

Costa until the decisive 10th, it was a dull affair with the squat, eager Berrios in constant pursuit of his opponent. Both weighed 125. Costa, 28, has a fine past of keg and he used them to elude Miguel most of the night.

WIN TITLE

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Flin Flon Bombers won the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League championship Friday night when they defeated Prince Albert Mintos 4-2 on goals by Ralph Backer and Pat Kelly in the second game of the best-of-seven final series by the same margin.

Flin Flon now meets Edmonton Oil Kings at Flin Flon Sunday in the first game of the best-of-seven Western Canada semi-final.

'Got the Power' Birdie Chirps While Redlegs Blast Larsen, Yankees 20-6

By JOE REICHLER

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—"We have to finish third. We should finish second. And we may finish first."

Birdie Tebbetts, Cincinnati's manager-of-the-year for 1956, was directing his remarks to the interviewer in the visiting dugout at Al Lang Field but his alert eyes never wavered from the action on the field in front of him. His florid, round face gave no indication of the enjoyment he must have felt as he watched his power-packed team zip into Don Perfect Game Larsen and defeat the world champion New York Yankees 20-6.

"We've got the power," Birdie acknowledged. "Nobody doubts that. But you've got to be realistic. Pitching is the first thing in baseball. And in our league Milwaukee and Brooklyn have the pitching, deep and strong. I'm not complaining about mine, however. 'I'll make a prediction right now. No more than 90 games should win the pennant in our league. That's because the league hasn't had so many clubs that could beat the top clubs for many years.

NO SUSTAINED ATTACK

"Everyone talks about our hitting. They are blinded by our home run power. But we don't have a sustained attack. Our home runs likely didn't mean as much as many runs as they should have. What we need most is another good, steady, righthanded hitter, one who can hurt the lefthanders.

"Our power is predominantly lefthanded. Wally Post and Frank Robinson are our only righthanded power hitters. We're going to be lefthanded to death."

The Redlegs' big need, even more than pitching help, is a solid-hitting third baseman. An attempt to obtain Willie Jones from been unsuccessful. In the meantime, Alex Grammas and Don Hoak, fine fielders but light hitters, are battling it out for the job.

REST SET

The rest of the infield is set unless Ted Kluszewski fails to regain his form. In Smart corp, George Crowe, the hottest hitter in the Redleg camp, will open the season at first base. Big Big has been bothered by the sciataca nerve.

There's no finer keystone combination than Johnny Temple at second (.311) and Roy McMillan at shortstop. Ed Bailey and Smokey Burgess, a pair of .300 hitters, give the Redlegs the strongest catching in the league. Tebbets will start Jerry Lynch in centrfield after with Gus Bell in centre, Robinson in left and Post in right.

Tebbetts plans to carry a 10-man pitching staff. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall (13-11) and righthander Hal Jeffcoat (8-2), Brooks Lawrence (19-10), Johnny Klippstein (12-11), Warren Hacker (3-13) and Art Fowler (11-11) form the big six. Hershell Freeman (16-5), again will be the bullpen ace. That leaves one spot open. It could fall to veteran Russ Meyer.

Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops are one game away from the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" eastern division championship.

The Dunlops, playing the same brand of hockey that has carried the league all season, defeated Belleville McFarlands 7-2 in Belleville Friday night. They now lead the best-of-seven series 3-0.

Timmins Flyers kept in the running in the best-of-seven Porcupine Miner League final with a 6-3 win over south Porcupine Porkies. Porkies lead the series 3-2 with one game tied.

Gil St. Pierre scored twice for Flyers on single goals by Tottie Campbell, Eric Prentice, Kenny Trevenna and Dick Kulik. Porkies Skater Jerl Parker led with two goals and Eddie Kulik scored the other.

DREW FIRST BLOOD

McFarlands scored first in the Belleville tilt, but by the end of the period Dunlops tied it. Bellevilleans moved into the lead again, but Dunlops soon came back with two goals to win the game and knot the series at two-all.

Leading Dunlops was George Samolenko with one goal and three assists. Bob Attersley had a pair of goals and three assists. Others were scored by Bus Gagnon, Tom O'Connor, Freddie Eicher and Frank Bonello.

Moe Benoit and Johnny Muretich scored for the McFarlands. Floyd Crawford had a pair of assists and Bobo Bell scored a single.

The Dunlops play the same Belleville McFarlands in eastern division tonight Kingston Memorial Centre with Referee Jack Murphy slap Windsor at Kitchener.

Dutchmen, who need only to win or tie to take the best-of-seven final, will have goalie Bob Perreault back in net after Bob McKnight of St. Michael's College scored the other.

The series is tied at two games apiece with the deciding game to be played in Kitchener Monday night.

Canadians End Out of Money

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The elements and par-breaking unseasonable thwarted bids by Bob Balding of Toronto and Gerry Kesserling of Kitchener to get into the money Friday in the $5,000 Miami Beach pro-amateur golf tournament.

While five pros tied for first with five-under-par 67s, Balding and Kesserling carded 72s — one stroke out of the money. Balding had 36-36, and Kesserling 37-35.

The match was played through 30-mile-an-hour winds and heavy rain.

Tied for first were Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass.; Walker Inman, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Dutch Harrison, Pinehurst, Louis Weaver, Beaumont, Tex.; and Gary Player, Johannesburg, Eachwon $450.

Manchester United's

Bid for Soccer Triple Crown Affected by Arduous Schedule

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United's precedent-shattering bid for soccer's triple crown is beginning to get in its own way.

The biggest obstacle in the club's drive toward the European Cup, Football Association Cup and First Division championship is the arduous schedule forced on a team simultaneously engaged in three competitions.

If Matt Busby's phenomenal band of youngsters makes the finals in both cup ties, it will call for at least 13 matches in six weeks — plus any necessary replays of drawn matches in the FA Cup competition. Currently the Reds have reached the semi-finals in both cup tournaments.

Barring a wholesale collapse, Manchester is likely to take its second straight league title without serious contest since most of the contenders have been able to launch a serious drive to run down the United's comfortable lead. But the knockout cup competition is something else again.

MORE COMPLICATIONS

The team's success brings additional complications to already the tightly packed schedule. Its players are in constant demand for international matches and as many as four may be called upon when England meets Scotland April 6.

Recently the army supplied Busby with an additional headache.

Eight of the 35 professionals on his roster are servicemen and both Busby and some of the best players required for the annual inter-service match, four days before the FA Cup semi-final.

Since he counts on the army's good graces to keep the servicemen on his team at all, Busby was in no position to complain. And the Football Association, which selects England's international sides, not only has abolished freedom of choice but keeps its chosen players out of league action during the week of an international match.

The army already has been involved in a controversy during the current cup competition. A few weeks ago it slapped a suspension on Charlie Hurley, centre half of Millwall, a third-division side which was bidding for a quarter-final berth.

SERGEANT REFEREE

The circumstances were, to say the least, unusual. A few days before his discharge from national service, Hurley was accused of "using unemployment" on the marks about the referee while watching a match between two army teams. The official, a sergeant, hauled him up before an army board which cancelled him for two weeks — a ruling which automatically disqualified him from playing for Millwall.

After considerable press furore, the sentence was reviewed by a committee consisting of a major-general, a brigadier and a major, who reduced it to a reprimand.

The story had an unhappy ending. Millwall decided to bench Hurley anyway in favor of Alex Jardine, a back who was overawesing from a broken toe and whose slowness stood as largely instrumental in the club's elimination by first-division Birmingham.

Napanee Defeats Marmora 7-4 in Playoff Opener

MARMORA (Special) — Napanee squared the Intermediate "C" series in the third period here last night to walk off with a 7-4 victory over Marmora in the opening game of their OHA Intermediate "C" playdown series.

The second game in the four-of-seven set is slated for Napanee on Monday night.

Marmora battled the powerful Napanee club on even terms for the first two frames but could not hold the visitors in the third. Napanee held a 2-1 lead after the first period and the score was tied 3-3 after the second.

The winners netted a pair for a 5-3 lead by 15:04 of the third, Marmora got one back on a 5-4 score before Walt Gerow's boys wrapped it up with a pair in the last minute and a half.

Johnny Green was the big gun for Napanee, getting once and assisting on three others. Billy Strahan and Jack McKeown each registered goals, two helpers while Tar Bradey had a goal and one assist. Stan Fish, Griffin and Maracle each had one goal.

Brooks took part in three Marmora scoring plays, logging one marker and helping on two more. Jones, Leonard and Green filled the other goals.

The fourteen penalties were evenly divided at seven per team.

Marmora Midgets Defeated 7-4

MARMORA — Marmora midgets dropped their first decision in the OMHA championship series last night in Port Arthur, bowing to the home team by a 7-4 score. The teams play the second game there tonight and the third game scheduled for Marmora next Friday night, and Saturday if necessary in the best-of-five series.

Bev Osborne, study defenceman of the Marmora team, scored two of their goals with Mike Doyle and Bob Olson getting the others.

Canadians Lose In Badminton

LONDON (CP)—Friday was a tough day for Canadian players in the all-England badminton tournament, the unofficial world championship.

Marjorie Stedd of Toronto was defeated in the singles semi-finals 11-2, 11-5 by defending titleholder Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., who entered the finals against Judy Devlin of Hillsboro.

Dave MacTaggart of Vancouver, Canadian singles champ, and Peter Ferguson of Woodstock, were defeated 15-11, 15-11 in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles by Joe Alston, Pasadena, Calif., and H. A. Heah, Malaya.

Outdoor Writers Name Executive

TORONTO (CP) — Herb Smith of the Western Canada Outdoor Writers Association was elected president of the newly-formed Outdoor Writers of Canada Friday.

Others elected at the close of a two-day session attended by 30 Canadian outdoor writers, were:

Vice-president, Reg Fite of Red and Gun in Canada; directors, Bill Kliney, Winnipeg Tribune; Joe Masko, Windsor Star; Bruce Murdoch, Hamilton Spectator; Les Morrow, Rod and Gun in Canada; King Whyte, Toronto Star; Pete McGillen, Toronto Telegram; Bob Turnbull, Toronto Globe and Mail; Keith Ketcheson, Napanee, Ont.

Wichita Trounces Kingston Five

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A fast-stepping and straight shooting team of youngsters from Wichita, Kan., knocked a Kingston five out of the International Biddy basketball tournament Friday by a decisive 52-28 score.

The Canadian youngsters played hard, but did not have the experience to match their opponents.

Only in the third quarter of the game was Kingston able to outscore Wichita, getting 11 points to 10. The half-time score was 21-11.

Don Sharp of Kingston, however, was the game's high scorer, with 16 points on five field goals and six fouls.

STEVENSON SIGNED

CALGARY (CP) — Bill Stevenson, 34-year-old quarterback and punter from the University of Toronto, has signed for his third season with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Stevenson was obtained Friday. He came to Stamps in 1955 and played defensive safety last year.

Walt Disney Continues to Be Wonder of Television Industry

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Walt Disney continues to be the wonder of the TV industry. He hasn't yet made a pilot film.

Nearly all TV film shows are sold on the basis of pilots—single films made on the gamble that a sponsor might buy it as a series. Millions of dollars have been spent on pilots and only a small percentage have paid off.

Disney already has sold two successful series without a pilot and now is doing another based on the fictional Zorro tales of an early California adventurer. He recalls a conversation he had with a sponsor before entering the TV field:

HOW THE TALK WENT

Sponsor: Your plan for a Disneyland sounds interesting, Mr. Disney. When can we see a pilot?

Disney: Oh, I'm not going to make a pilot.

Sponsor: You're not! But how can we tell what you are going to do?

Disney: I'll just be doing the same things I've done at this studio for years.

The producer recalls that the sponsor told newsmen afterwards:

"I don't think this Disney is really interested in television."

But Disney and Mickey Mouse shows proved otherwise. Now it's Davy Crockett. The same sponsor is in the new lineup of Disneyland backers for next season.

Disney added: "I think it's a mistake to make pilots. Too often the pilot either is worse than the series can be or it promises more than it can deliver."

The Zorro series already is half - sponsored without pilot. What's more, Disney has resisted urgings to star a name actor in it. His reasoning: "I think that's what television is for—to create stars. When you start with a name player, he wants a pile of money and starts giving you trouble from the beginning."

LOST MONEY LAST YEAR

Disney said he lost money on his TV enterprises last year, may make a little this year.

"But I'm not in it to make what he said. "My reasoning is the same: Our business is still making movies and television can help us sell movies."

He is constantly amazed at the pull of the TV shows, which now are playing in foreign countries. Recently he visited Caracas and reporters started chattering in Spanish to him. He had to explain that he didn't speak the language.

"But we just saw you speaking it on last week's show," protested, referring to the dubbed version on Venezuelan screens.

Argonauts Want To Sign Ronnie

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union want to sign Ronnie Knox who last year spent a controversial season in Canadian football.

Argonaut managing director Lew Hayman says he will discuss in 1957 contract with quarterback Knox when he visits Argo coach Hampton Pool in California next week.

Hayman indicated Friday he is interested in Ronnie Knox, only, and not his stepfather, Harvey. Knox was a publicity sensation in Canada last year when he played four games with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four for a reported $1,000 a game.

Harvey Knox, who came to Hamilton in a huff and Ronnie spent the remainder of the season with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Hayman said he thought Knox had "tremendous potential."

Will Seek Ban On Steeplechase If Nags Killed

LONDON (AP)—The influential League against Cruel Sports says it will seek a ban on next Friday's Grand National Steeplechase if any horses are killed in pre-national races at Aintree.

Three horses died in races before last year's Grand National.

The LCS said Friday that if there is a repetition of those incidents next week it "will apply to the high court immediately for an injunction restraining the Grand National until an undertaking is given to carry out RSPCA (Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) conditions."

The RSPCA wants a modification in the 4½-mile, 30-fence course and also stricter entry rules for the horses.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, March 25, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Winsome, really productive influences will prevail most of the week. Your Mars is in stimulating aspect; delicacy and skill are promoted by Venus and the Sun encourages sound logic and helpfulness. Make good use of all.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Beneficial vibrations for worthwhile interests, activities, work, plans. You should be skillful and artistic at least, creative in part. You could also do a dandy job at a trade, mechanical, particularly.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A time to exploit your innate creativeness, your advertising and promotional abilities, to build a solid foundation for future gains. First, plan your program intelligently, then follow through ably.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You can accomplish a great deal and render service to others at the same time. Aid those close to you. Good friends always stand by, are amenable to suggestions. Listen, also follow your own intuition.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Control emotions and beware a tendency toward idleness. The Sun, Mars and Venus, in fine array, promise good returns for like effort.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You may not be as full of bright ideas as usual but the day has many advantages nevertheless. Use your various talents and capabilities as best you can and you will profit.

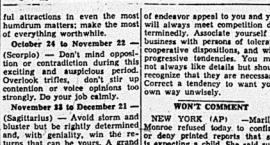
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Persuade yourself to start the day — and the week — with vigor, initiative and determination. There are some delightful attractions in even the most humdrum matters; make the most of everything worthwhile.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Don't mind opposition or contradiction during this exciting and suspicious period. Overlook trifles, don't stir up contention or voice opinions too strongly. Do your job calmly.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Avoid storm and bluster but be rightly determined and, with geniality, win the returns that can be yours. A grand day for attainment.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Among top sponsored persons and activities: Surgeons, physicians, inventors, religion, mechanics, engineers, aeronautics, electronics and nuclear physics.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarian) — This should be an eventful, stimulating day if handled intelligently and with progressiveness in mind. Keep in step with the do-ers.



February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — This can be a fruitful, satisfying day with your all-round capability working at full measure. Personal interests favored.

You born today possess great determination to succeed. New fields of endeavor appeal to you and you will always meet competition determinedly. Associate yourself in business with persons of tolerant, cooperative dispositions, and with progressive tendencies. You may not always like details but should recognize that they are necessary. Correct a tendency to want your own way unwisely.

WON'T COMMENT

NEW YORK (AP) —Marilyn Monroe refused today to confirm or deny printed reports that she is expecting a child. She said such matters are private. The blonde actress is the wife of playwright Arthur Miller.

CAR IS BIRTHPLACE

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I (CP) — The stork Friday visited a young mother who was alone in a small car bogged down in deep snow. FO Ken Davison and his wife were driving 50 miles from the RCAF airport to hospital here when their car became stuck. The husband went for help and that's when Wendy Gale arrived. Mother and daughter are doing well.

URGE U.S BABY BOOM

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The National Catholic Family Life Conference proposes that the U.S. government consider paying "bonuses" for babies as a means of promoting larger families. Large families, the delegates declared in a resolution, are "our first guarantee of the continuation of our American way of life."

UNECONOMIC CHOICE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Piano playing in Canada is a "sociological phenomenon," Dr. Boris Neel, dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, said Fri day. He told the Kiwanis Club that 5,000 of 7,000 students at the conservatory are studying the piano. Meanwhile all the prin jobs in Canadian orchestras are filled by musicians from the United States.

The Week's News

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was "Ike" and "Harold" when the president of the United States and the prime minister of Britain met under sunny Bermuda skies to begin their historic conference.

President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan soon were deep in discussion of the Middle East peril and other problems that confront the United Nations around the world.

The Gaza strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal were the first topics of the four-day talks that will be followed by a conference between Macmillan and Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada.

While "Ike and "Harold" talked, UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was in Cairo to see Egyptian President Nasser, seek-ing a proclamation of non-belligerency from the dictator.

STRIKE PARALYSIS

A monster strike crept through British industry, bringing recollections of the general strike of 1926.

There was one bright spot late in the week when government and railway union leaders reported they have found a basis of settlement of a threatened walkout that would involve 200,000 men.

The new all crisis started among shipyard unions, when 250,000 workmen closed 70 shipyards. The liner Queen Mary was advised out of Southampton by navy tugs, angering 2,000 dock workers who promptly joined the shipyard strike in the port.

In the absence of Prime Minister Macmillan, Labor Minister Ian Macleod struggled to cope with the walkouts in which unions demanded a 5-per-cent wage increase. Engineering unions called a phased strike, beginning Saturday, with 1,000,000 men and eventually to total 2,500,000.

TEAMSTER INQUIRY

Dave Beck, president of the 1,000,000-member Teamsters union, agreed to appear before a United States Senate investigating committee—with his personal financial records.

The committee delved deeper and deeper into the financial activities of U.S. teamster officials.

On the public was Frank Brewster, a teamster vice-president who admitted that union funds got mixed up with horses and jockeys.

Beck said in a television interview that he borrowed $400,000 from the union with no interest.

Powerful union vice-president James Hoffa had been arrested on a bribery charge in connection with the labor probe.

"It's not good," Brewster said at one point.

ADAMS TRIAL

Newspaper readers found the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, portly society physician, just about as fascinating as a thriller mystery novel.

The 58-year-old doctor was in the prisoner's dock in London's Old Bailey, charged with killing an elderly woman—who reportedly left him her will—with massive doses of drugs.

Testimony appeared to go against the doctor early in the week, with nurses giving evidence of heavy dosages. But under merciless cross-examination and confronted with notebook-records of the treatment in her own handwriting, a nurse tearfully admitted her memory was wrong.

The doctor had a little champagne party in his cell that night. But the next day the judge charged that someone had tampered with the notebooks.

PHILIPPINES' SORROW

Mourning grew to hysteria in Manila following the death in a plane crash of President Ramon Magsaysay.

Sorrowing citizens swept aside police lines and tore open the door of the plane that brought the president's body to the city from the scene of the jungle tragedy that took 24 lives.

One report said Magsaysay had expressed belief that political enemies were out to kill him before his planned bid for re-election in November.

Investigators studied the crash for evidence of sabotage. Vice-President Garcia took over the reins of government.

SCOTTISH LAMENT

Not for the first time, talk in the rugged island of South Uist, in the southern Hebrides, turned to emigration to Canada.

The British government plans to build a rocket-launching station in Uist, and the 3,000 islanders fear it will shake up their way of life that goes back 1,500 years.

Rev. John Morrison, a Roman Catholic priest, said last month: "More than live with rockets, the islanders would move to Canada, preferably a Newfoundland-district island."

Immigration Minister Pickersgill and Newfoundland's Premier Smallwood recommended it their judgment.

Many Scots from Hebrides settled in Canada in years gone by with many immigrants from the Uist area in Cape Breton, among other places.

CYPRIOTS DEFIANT

New attempts to settle the bitter dispute in the strategic Cyprus met failure.

Britain accepted a NATO offer to mediate the quarrel, but the offer was rejected by the 400,000 Greek Cypriots, who want union with Greece, and the Greek government.

Turkey, Greece and Britain are all members of NATO. The 100,000 Turkish Cypriots on the Mediterranean island oppose union with Greece.

The Greek Cypriot underground offered a truce if Britain ended the exile of Archbishop Makarios, but the British countered they would free the politically-minded cleric only if he called a halt to violence and remained away from the island.

Grandmothers' Meeting Held By W. Institute

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Douglas Pigden with a fair crowd in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Charles Pigden, opened the meeting.

It was decided that Mrs. George McGrimmon be delegate to Guelph for the convention.

Mrs. Charles Blackburn gave a reading on "grandmothers" as this was grandmothers' meeting. Readings were also given by Mrs. John Thompson on "The Census Taker" and by Mrs. L. Carman on "An Essay on Grandmother by a 17-Year-Old Girl."

Historical research was given by Mrs. Doug Pigden, followed by a reading, "A Perfect Marriage," by Mrs. Harold Chambers.

Several prizes were given to the grandmothers.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour was spent.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the hostess for her hospitality.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — A fire, which might have been disastrous, occurred in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carleton, east of Highway No. 37, north of the village, on Sunday morning. It was discovered in the woodbox adjoining the chimney in the wall of the house. Fortunately, help arrived in good time and the blaze was extinguished before too much damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Calvert, recent newlyweds, were honored at a party in the L.O.O.F. hall on Monday evening. They were presented with a studio couch, with the best wishes of the community. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wesley Coulter of Belleville took place from the R. Bush Funeral Home, Belleville, with interment in Thomasburg Cemetery, March 13th.

Pre-school children and those who had not received all the necessary shots of polio vaccine received same at the Thomasburg school on Wednesday afternoon.

Several from here attended the card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lynn, sponsored by the Elliott's L.O.L. on Thursday evening.

The dance under the auspices of the Thomasburg Lodge in their hall on Friday evening was well attended. Music was supplied by the Music Makers' Orchestra of Madoc.

The Guild of Christ Church held its regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morton on Friday evening.

The regular meeting of the C.G.I.T. and Explorers' Group took place in the vestry of the United Church on Saturday afternoon.

Huntingdon Fed. of Agriculture Holds Annual Meet at Ivanhoe

RAWDON

Thursday evening Huntingdon Township Federation of Agriculture invited the farmers of Rawdon township to attend the annual meeting in Ivanhoe hall. A number of farmers' families was in attendance.

Mr. Russell Sills was chairman and welcomed the guests while Mr. Mac Sarles acted as secretary. Barry Bray rendered a solo and Mrs. John Morton contributed a reading.

The Federation decided to give $100 to the county Federation, thus bringing its grant up to the quota of $370.

A short discussion took place, re "Warble Fly Control". Nearly everyone agreed that spraying cattle for this pest is beneficial; however, it seemed too late this season to begin operations. The first spray should begin May 1 and the second May 30. Thus it is necessary to organize in January in order to have everything in readiness for May.

Mr. Grover Smith, fieldman for Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Hastings counties, spoke briefly. He stressed that the dividual farmer can do very little on their own. Thus it becomes necessary to form a county organization. He stressed the value of farm forums and thought every community should have a discussion.

Mr. Percy Ray, Halloway, county president of the Federation, gave a short address and outlined the work of the Federation and the various commodity groups. He also introduced the guest-speaker, Mr. James Jacklin, from Bruce county.

AGRICULTURE FEDERATION

Mr. Jacklin gave a descriptive account of the work of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, which represents 104 farm organizations in the province. The various policies originated from a series of meetings of commodity operatives and Federation units held on township, county and provincial levels. Farmers are able to solve many of their problems on the basis of fact found in order their marketing boards and other organizations but in many cases government assistance is needed to help the organization to become effective.

The Federation requested in its brief to the Ontario government that a study of vegetable oils in the manufacture of edible products in the province be started in order that the consumer would know what he was purchasing.

WHY EGG PRICES FLUCTUATE

The poultry producers have no set cost of production and thus price of eggs fluctuates. The tobacco growers have a rigid control over production and are able to assist the growers with better prices. The peach growers pay 2 cents per basket to stabilize the price. The consumers felt they would likely have to pay more for their peaches, but results have shown the peaches cost less to the consumer now than they did before the growers organized.

OPEN HOG MARKET

The hog producers are aiming to have all the hogs sold on an open market. Grey and Bruce counties have organized assembly points where hogs are sold to the highest bidders.

The Co - operators Insurance Association is set up under the Federation of Agriculture. One dollar of every new policy goes back to the county Federation and 15 cents from every renewal. The C.I.A. has a good policy providing hospital and medical and surgical care which protects the farmers until such time as a good health scheme is promoted by the province of Ontario.

Short addresses were given by James Sprys, reeve of Rawdon; Kenneth Mumby, deputy reeve of Rawdon; Elmer Wilson, reeve of Huntingdon and Barton Haggerty, president of the hog producers.

Mr. Wilson expressed thanks to those who assisted with the program.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mr. Percy Ray presided for the election of officers for Huntingdon township. Those elected are: — president, Russell Sills; wice-president, George Wood; secretary - treasurer, Mac Sarles; directors, Don McInroy, Leslie Blakely, John Wallace, Milton Shaw and Elmer Wood; women directors, Mrs. Goldie McInroy, Mrs. Will Domer and Mrs. Will Collins.

At the close, members of Ivanhoe Institute served refreshments and a silver collection was taken. The proceeds of the evening were given by Ivanhoe W. I. to the Stirling Arena Building Fund.

Mr. George Carlisle, county treasurer, and some 45 farm folk from Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga townships attended a Joint Federation of Agriculture meeting Tuesday evening at Cannilton.

Mr. Don Leeming, president of Thurlow Federation, was chairman. Mr. Percy Ray, county president of the Federation of Agriculture, spoke briefly. He said a delegation of county officers is visiting all the township councils to arrange for an equal basis. They hope to have each township providing the same equivalent of funds to carry on the work. This can be by grant or levy.

FREE VACCINATION

He also outlined the free calf-hood vaccination which the Federation was instrumental in establishing in 1956. The Ontario Government has taken steps to provide provincial financial assistance to those townships which have instituted brucellosis control programs.

Mr. Ray introduced James Jacklin, Federation fieldman for the province. He said at the present time the poultry committee of Ontario and the Federation are studying ways and means of organizing a poultry producers' organization. He outlined the Farm Products Marketing Act and told how the Ontario hog producers are putting their hogs on the open market with better results.

The counties of Grey and Bruce have pioneered in marketing hogs through their efforts the price of hogs advanced. Western Ontario farmers are ardently working to put the farmers' produce on a fairer basis.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture is being faced with increasing demands for services by its member organizations. The Federation believes farm problems are closely associated with the problems of other sections and it feels all groups should strive for closer co-operation.

TV PROGRAMS

The counties of Grey and Bruce have also pioneered in farm programs by way of television and this is both informative and educational.

Mr. Lee Grills gave a brief address and stressed the need for a Federation of Agriculture farm program. He said in this changing world there is a need for all those engaged in agriculture to work co-operatively.

Mr. Roy Sills, vice - president of the hog producers, gave a few highlights from the recent convention held by that group and told of its educational program.

The 104 farm organizations in Ontario authorize a series of meetings of commodity, co-operative and Federation units at township, county and provincial levels and thus get the opinions of farmers everywhere and then summarize the plan on a whole and work accordingly.

At the close of the meeting the directors of the three townships held a discussion period during the refreshment hour.

Hope Is Growing For Quick End To Twin Strikes

Expect Employers to Agree To Five P.C. Wage Increase

This Is Hot One, Smell of Smoke Was Pipe Dream

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP) — Gerry Stevens found his face as red as the fire truck when the firemen arrived at the Stevens home in answer to an alarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were sitting down to lunch when they smelled smoke. While Mrs. Stevens phoned in an alarm, her husband went outside to close off the main electrical switch.

While outside, the smell of smoke became stronger. Suddenly Mr. Stevens found his jacket pocket smoldering. The pipe he had dumped into his pocket before sitting down to lunch was the culprit.

Defence Annoyed As Crown Changes Testimony Plan

LONDON (CP)—The jury trying Dr. John Bodkin Adams for murder was sent out of court today while his defence counsel made a submission to the judge about the evidence of a detective.

Detective Inspector Bryn ley Pugh of the Eli...bourne police hid just started to testify about his search for dangerous drugs in the early days of Adams' trial when the defence request was made.

Earlier, defence lawyer Geoffrey Lawrence complained that the decision to call the detective at this stage was "an embarrassment" to him.

SAYS NOT PREPARED

A list of witnesses prepared by the Crown had led him to prepare to deal with medical and not police witnesses as the trial in Old Bailey entered its second week.

Adams, 58, is charged with the murder by an overdose of drugs in the death six years ago of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81, at her mansion in Eastbourne.

Before the jury was sent from court, Pugh said that last November he went to Adams' house with Superintendent Herbert Hannan of Ford, Yard, who was in charge of investigations.

Told that the detectives had a search warrant under the Dangerous Drugs Act," Adams said: "There are no dangerous drugs here."

He then walked to a cupboard, opened it, and said: "I have quite a bit of barbiturate here, is that what you mean?"

Earlier, Mrs. Morrell's chauffeur, Thomas Price, said she was a rich and very generous" woman who had left him £1,000.

He said after her death he took her Rolls - Royce limousine to Adams's home because a pharmacist also gave evidence of another of Mrs. Morrell's prescriptions delivered to the doctor after her death. This was an oak cabinet containing silver.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Skies were clear in Southern Ontario overnight and minimum temperatures fell into the low 20s at most points. However, clouds began moving into the Lake Erie region by mid-morning as the storm which has lain nearly stationary in the Kansas area for the past few days began spreading cloud and precipitation northeastward. The snow from this storm should reach the Lake area by evening and gradually cover most of Southern Ontario Tuesday. Although the precipitation will be mainly snow some freezing rain may occur Tuesday morning in Southwestern Ontario.

Except for scattered patches of thin cloud, skies were clear in Northern Ontario overnight. Cloudy with chance of snow is expected in this region for the next day or two in a slow rise in temperature.

LONDON (Reuters)—Hope grew today for a quick end to two massive strikes which have crippled production in British shipyards and disrupted work in factories throughout the country.

Industrial quarters expect government - sponsored negotiations will settle the twin walkouts—in support of a five-per-cent wage increase in the next few days.

The factory stoppage, involving 1,000,000 workers, was launched Saturday and became fully effective today. Remainder of the plants do not work weekends.

The shipyard strike, which has pulled out 40,000 men in 70 yards, paralyzed construction and repair work on about 600 vessels. It entered its 10th day today.

SEE 5 P.C. BOOST

The general belief is that employers will agree to wage increases of not less than five per cent in return for union guarantees of improved productivity.

A meeting between shipyard employers arranged for today by Labor Minister Iain MacLeod was expected to work out a pay-increase agreement on the lines of a formula reached in negotiations Friday night.

MacLeod, whose intervention in the shipyard dispute brought the first hope of peace, also has scheduled a meeting with the factory management.

Saturday's factory walkout was only the "first phase" of what is planned as a general strike of 1,000,000 skilled and unskilled factory workers, loosely referred to her as "engineers."

A series of selected "snowball" factory strikes in 10 key industrial areas is scheduled to continue to April 6, when the mass strike is to begin.

BIG WAGE BILL

If the shipyard and factory managements both agree to five-per-cent increases—and their tradition ally act in unison—their wage bill will rise by the combined equivalent of more than £100,000,000 a year.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, which embraces 40 unions, is behind both strikes. Confederation leaders and the two sets of employers are due to negotiate this week a "package deal" on the lines of the railway settlement agreed Friday.

Leaders of the National Union of Railwaymen, who had been talking of strike action, agreed to postpone a decision and promised to give urgent consideration to problems of greater efficiency and rail modernization.

NEVER HAPPY

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two months ago this mountain community was under water three to 10 feet deep. Now it's so dry that health officers say the city needs two or three heavy rains.

PARTS OF 5 STATES STILL PARALYZED BY SPRING STORM

Four Deaths Attributed To Kansas Blizzard

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The choking fury of wind-driven snow subsided today on the U.S. highlands but parts of five states still were paralyzed by the worst spring blizzard in 30 years or more.

Four deaths were attributed to the storm.

The three-day assault of snow and winds up to 80 miles an hour left fantastic drifts as high as 20 feet and stalled trains, buses and automobiles.

Highway crews intensified a search for storm victims in eastern Kansas, southwestern Nebraska, western Kansas and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandle areas. The fringe of the storm nipped the northeast corner of Missouri.

Searchers feared they would find some dead in cars buried under drifts although temperatures were not severe—a little below freezing.

THOUSANDS STRANDED

Estimates of stranded travellers ran as high as 7,500 but most of these had gained shelter when the storm first blocked roads and rail lines. There was no telling how many might still be marooned in stalled cars along the highways.

Two person deaths were counted Sunday in Nebraska, one each in Texas and Kansas.

Thousands of reported livestock losses to be huge. The heavy, wet snow crushed barns, snapped power lines and poles, left many cities without power.

FARMER BURIED

One of the most intense rescue efforts was near Meade, Kan., where Alfred Island Ralphard of eastbound Golden State Limited was rushed Saturday to the aid of 200 passengers.

The wind covered the locomotive and four cars with snowdrifts and some passengers became ill from carbon monoxide fumes. Nine snowplow crews, aided by farmers with tractors and horses, brought through drifts late Sunday and began removing the passengers and a mail shipment to Meade, five miles away.

Rescue efforts by City of St. Louis was stalled 19 miles west of Oakley, Kan., with 400 passengers and two trains since Saturday. Drifts were 18 feet high and efforts to reach the train were fruitless.

In Kansas Governor George Docking appealed to the army for use of helicopters.

Outside the storm zone in Texas and New Mexico dust storms arose on the wind. Texas had severe visibility hurt in part west Texas.

St. Laurent Reaches Bermuda For Parley With Macmillan

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuters)—Prime Minister St. Laurent arrived here by air today for two days of talks with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain.

Macmillan told a Sunday press conference the chief purpose of his talks with Canada's prime minister is to make sure relations between the old and new worlds are kept in working order.

Canada is playing a vital part in these relations, he said. He was indebted to the Canadian leader for his courtesy in coming to Bermuda when he had offered to make the trip to Ottawa.

It would prove valuable for him to tell Prime Minister St. Laurent what had taken place in his conference with President Eisenhower, who flew back to Washington Sunday after a short communique was issued.

Macmillan's report on his talks with Eisenhower "so all these policies get tied up and worked together."

One likely topic will be a possible visit to Queen Elizabeth to Canada this year. Macmillan said he discussed with Eisenhower the possibility of a royal visit to the United States.

He would have to report back to the Queen and a further statement now would be inappropriate.

The Canadian prime minister has made clear he wants particularly to talk about increased Anglo - Canadian trade and the possible effects on Canadian trade if the Commonwealth preference is abolished as a result of the Canadian participation in the European free trade area.

Macmillan said Sunday Britain wants to pursue liberal trade policies and all countries should do the same.

Nationally British spokesmen here said Macmillan will assure the Canadian that the U.K. will keep Commonwealth members fully advised and that Britain has no intention of leaving the traditional Canadian markets in the U.K.

Statesmen of Six Countries Sign 'Common Market' Accord

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—Six statesmen of Western Europe bind their nations today to a common market to knock down customs barriers from the North Sea to the Adriatic.

Treaties providing for the Common market and its allied European atom atomic pool plan were to be signed in the Capitoline, Rome's ancient city hall, by West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The two pacts mark probably the greatest strides toward European unification in the long history of wars and economic rivalries on the old continent.

Parliaments of the six countries have to ratify the pacts. Even enthusiastic supporters estimate it will take 12 to 17 years to reach national economies so that the goods can flow unhindered among the six nations. The plan also calls for a unified tariff system on imports from outside the six-nation area.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was flying in from Bonn to sign the treaties and Chancellor Adenauer will go on Wednesday to Iran and Turkey.

The ministers reached final agreement on the two treaties and initialled them after a 24-hour session at the Palazzo Consulta in Paris six weeks ago. The pacts are to go into operations as soon as the markets and the atomic pool can be started working.

The European Common Market treaty the 160,000,000 people of the six countries will form an economic union gradually eliminating customs barriers and trade quotas.

Euratom is a separate pact to set up a supra-national authority to pool resources for the development and exploitation of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Management Policy Alarms President Labor Federation

TORONTO (CP)—S. S. Hughes, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, said today there is a "growing alarm" at what he termed an increasing tendency of companies to take arbitration cases unfavorable to them to court.

Mr. Hughes also told the 14th annual OFL convention it is "disturbed" over a tendency of companies to demand recertification of unions when a company changes its name.

Recently a company backed employees to get a union decertified are also increasing, he said.

Mr. Addison in his address opening of the one-day convention, carried a strong hint that the OFL will press for support of the CCF as Ontario labor's party at a three-day meeter convention to form a new Ontario Federation of Labor gets under way Wednesday.

His speech was issued to the press before delivery.

The new body, representing 500,000 union members or half the membership of the Canadian Labor Congress, will be formed from the old OFL and the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor, which will hold a one-day meeting Thursday.

The merger is part of a general merger last fall of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress to form the Canadian Labor Congress. The old OFL will be non-existent after the one-day wrapup meeting ends at 4 p.m. today.

Mr. Hughes said the OFL has avoided going to the courts when they get an unfavorable decision.

"The federation president said "we have chosen to be condemned by unions because of costs. Large companies can charge costs to company expenses — "money which should go into the dollars being used to fight a union."

Exhume Second Body in Probe Of Deaths of 7

BLANDFORD, England (AP)— The body of a second old woman was exhumed in an investigation of the deaths of seven persons at Castleman House old folks home.

Gravediggers supervised by detectives exhumed the body of Gertrude Brooks, 86, whose death in October, 1955, was attributed to heart disease. She died two months after a move to the home.

Five days after Lynde estimated damage at £50,000 and said the fire was fed by 400 gallons of oil in two heating systems. The blaze broke out in the apartment of Mrs. Wife and two children who were visiting friends in St. Catharines.

SECRET PACTS SEEN REACHED AT BERMUDA

Policy Directives Go On Key Issues Signed

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower have spelled out secret policy directives on key world issus in Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Following the Big Two's four-day meeting, informants said a "top secret" written understanding lay hidden behind the generalities of the 1,000-word communique issued Sunday.

Macmillan told a press conference he regards the talks as a "great success" because "we've reached a number of conclusions on some large issues. We've tidied up a lot of points, and we've set in motion methods of better co-operation on questions still unresolved."

WHAT DIRECTIVE MEANS

Informants said the guarded reference could be taken to mean:

1. Republican Eisenhower signed understandings on ways of handling delicate certain international problems. These presumably include U.S readiness to give Britain and release missiles to Britain, American willingness to join in consultations on nuclear weapons with Red China and the formulation of an international convention on the freedom of the seas and pipelines.

Also reported included are plans for joint action in case of any sudden worsening of the Middle East situation, possibly even if the wobbly state of Jordan collapses or if fighting flares between Israel and the Arabs.

2. The two statesmen agreed to drop any thought of short-term pressures to force Egypt into a settlement of current Middle East arm disputes. Simultaneously, they undertook to act independently, but inside the United Nations if long-term measures should be needed to isolate and discipline Egypt. And they cleared their ideas about promoting a Middle East peace and encouraging African political and economic development.

3. The two agreed to order their governments to resume cooperation at all levels, to pool military and political information, and to dovetail diplomatic plans.

SEE FREQUENT PARLEYS

In the somber months there likely will be a flurry of consultations to implement this.

Macmillan said the two governments chiefs directly concerned such as Secretary of State Dulles, will spell out and sign the agreements, underlines the personal nature of the Bermuda meeting.

In the years preceding Eisenhower's first term in office, when the U.S opposed, this sort of thing never was necessary.

Macmillan said all the understandings reached, if faithfully carried out, will provide a clear-cut program for tackling the knottiest problems involving Western interests, not only of Britain and the United States but all of the free world.

Last Obstacle To Suez Passage Has Been Moved

Raising of Tug Coincides With Report of Concessions

CAIRO (AP)—A UN salvage team today raised the sunken tug Edgar Bonnet, the last obstacle to passage of 10,000-ton ships through the Suez Canal. But there was no official word yet when Egypt will open the 103-mile waterway to 10,-000-ton ships—about 75 per cent of the canal's normal traffic before it was blocked last fall.

(Reuters news agency quoted Gen. Raymond Wheeler, head of the UN canal clearance operation, as saying the canal will be clear by tonight for ships drawing 30 feet and displacing up to 10,000 tons after the Edgar Bonnet has been towed to Lake Timsah.)

The 1,461-ton Egyptian frigate Abukir still partially blocks the southern entrance to the canal, but the 10,000 tonners can skirt this obstacle. UN officials have said the Abukir should be cleared by April 10.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's mission to Cairo meanwhile neared its end amid indications Egypt will make some concessions on operation of the canal. But the outline of the disputed Gaza Strip remained dark.

WARINESS ADVISED

The Egyptian-Israeli East news agency said Hammarskjold and President Nasser reached an understanding on the canal issue. The canal. A spokesman for the secretary-general said the report should be "treated with caution." He said the UN official is in no position to give any formal agreement with Egypt since he is only the "bearer of good offices" and not a party to the canal dispute.

At the same time, informed Arab sources said Egypt is unwilling to sign any part of the UN Emergency Force on the Gaza Strip demarcation line unless Israel agrees to stationing of UNEF troops on her side of the frontier. Egypt also is demanding that Israel quit the El Auja demilitarized zone, between the Gaza Strip and Israel, and Israeli's Negev, as provided in the 1949 armistice. Israel is expected to refuse both Egyptian conditions.

Unfamiliar With Press Conferences, Macmillan Still Scores Big Success

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan has expressed probably no more than any other man in recent times the purposes of press conferences between friendly countries.

He began a press conference Sunday by asking to be excused if he was not familiar with press conference techniques.

But in 30 minutes he bowled over 18 reporters with his urbane aplomb and courtesy.

The press conference meeting as his with President Eisenhower was like being fellow guests at a country house.

The purpose was, he said, a "get together" to see if there was not necessarily agreement on every point. A certain number of conclusions had been reached on some on larger issues, some on smaller. Methods of future co-operation should be agreed on still-unresolved questions.

From three standpoints the conference had been a "great success" he said. Personally. But he added movingly that the conference will have failed unless peoples of every covering it are able to get across to the countries involved and the whole world what had happened and the fine atmosphere and cordiality

This was most important of all because if the peoples didn't understand each other they would not be safe.

"I don't think you can fake a conference of this character.

"If a conference had failed, the fact couldn't be covered up with the best will in the communique.

NOT NEW

Macmillan sat cool as a cucumber before hot television lights. He smoked leisurely during the press conference.

Asked by an American reporter if he had used the same conferences—Sir Winston Churchill once said in Ottawa he didn't think much of them—Macmillan said with a smile "they're the acme of civilization."

Easy Solution, Queenie Must Be Dodger Fan

NEW YORK (AP) — A Brooklyn watchdog named Queenie is so rattled by mothballs she can't tell friend from foe.

Queenie, a German shepherd, and her four new pups remained on quiet on Church mice Friday night as burglars rifled a cigaret machine in the restaurant operated by her master, Willie Ho.

He didn't expect the pups to be alert, but he thought he could count on Queenie.

She was ready Sunday. When a patrolman came to examine the scene of the crime, Queenie bit him on the ankle.

British Papers Voice Criticisms Of Bermuda Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — Leading British papers today voiced their more critical than other sections of the international press in reaction to results of the Bermuda talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

The Manchester Guardian says: "The declaration on continued testing of nuclear weapons will cause dismay to many already uneasy about the hazards to public health."

"On the Far East," the Liberal paper continues, "it is evident that the two governments are not altogether in harmony with each other and on the Middle East there are differences.

"The most immediate valuable decision for the British government," it says, "is on the supply of guided missiles."

NOT ILLUMINATING

The Times says the re-establishment of friendly relations was "quite evidently the chief achievement of Bermuda."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph is used after the talks was "not very illuminating about the urgent testing ground" in the Middle East.

"What happens if (Egyptian President) Nasser does not play, either on Gaza or Aqaba or Suez?" the newspaper asks. "And as far as it a decision has been deferred to Mr. Hammarskjold now in Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold."

Police Blotter

Two break-ins, one at Pinder Motors on lower Front street, and the other at the Georgia Saloon, also on Front street, occurred in the city over the weekend. Cash was reported missing at both stores.

At the Georgia Saloon the night patrol officer spotted broken windows at the rear. Investigation revealed entrance had been gained and a connecting door between a basement storeroom and the main floor was forced. Only $20 being taken from a cash drawer.

At Pinder Motors a door was found insecure and cash of undetermined amount was said missing.

Damage of approximately $500 to two vehicles was reported at Doreen and Foster. Mayk Hayard, owner, of a car parked on Doreen street when his car was in collision with Earl Thompson's car. Also on Sunday cars driven by Mrs. C. Wale, 30 North Front street, and Glenn T. Hinds, R.R. 1 Harold, were in collision at the corner of North Front and Moira streets.

Bay of Quinte Likely Soon To Be Ice-Free

Gradually rotting under the action of the stronger spring sun, ice in the Bay of Quinte within the next few days is likely to disappear for another year.

Already vast expanses of open water are visible down the bay with the open stretch extending as far as the eye can see eastward from the Bay Bridge. West of the bridge, however, the ice still appears intact although rapidly being softened by the wind and sun.

Picton Bay is still solid ice but the Clenora Ferry is operating in a section free of ice from shore to shore for more than a mile in extent.

Sunday the open highways was a lure for motorists who swarmed over No. 33 highway with the new ferry "The Quinte Loyalist" being taxed to the limit to accommodate the long lines of cars travelling in both directions. The second ferry apparently has not yet been put into use for the busy season.

Body Discovered Near Creek Mouth On Reservation

Missing since last Thursday, the body of Nelson Lorne Scero, 48, of R.R. 1 Deseronto, was found Saturday afternoon at the mouth of Sucker creek on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reservation where it empties into the Bay of Quinte. The body was discovered by Harold Hill, a resident of the Reservation, as he was tending his trap lines on the bay shore. Provincial Police at Belleville said they believed Scero had tried to walk across the creek on the section of ice which apparently had given way under his weight. The body was found about a mile from where he lived with his brother Jim Scero.

Married with seven children, Mr. Scero's wife and family all live in the United States.

Former Convicts Used Midget to Gain Entrance

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Police today blamed a three-month series of safecrackings here on two former convicts and a 16-year-old midget they used to gain access to buildings by slipping through small holes.

Officers said statements admitting the safecrackings were signed Tuesday night by Charles Whitsell Jr., 43-pound, three - foot - three farm youth, and Charles Hale, 39, and Charles Dodell, 20.

Detectives said the midget participated in 25 of the 31 safe-cracking incidents which the two men admitted. He squeezed through small openings cut in ceilings and walls, opened a door for his bigger partners, the officers said.

Montreal Man Guest Speaker At Foremen's Club

Guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club will be Jack Arnold Howlett, manager of personnel in the Canadian Marconi Co. in Montreal. His topic will be "Handling the New Worker".

Mr. Howlett was born in Toronto in 1924 and is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

In 1942 he enlisted in the Canadian Infantry Corps and the following year was transferred to the First Canadian Parachute Battalion. He served in the European theatre of operations and was demobilized in Canada in 1946.

Mr. Howlett joined the Canadian Marconi Co. in 1948. He acted in a programming capacity with the company's radio station, CFCF, and later was appointed personnel director, later program manager for radio station CFCF-FM. In 1954, he was appointed production supervisor for CFCF and then program manager.

Mr. Howlett was transferred to Canadian Marconi's head office in 1954 as personnel development officer in the industrial relations division.

He is married to the former Margaret Beryll of Toronto.

The meeting is scheduled for seven o'clock sharp at the YMCA.

Hitchon Radio And TV Opens New Quarters

Forced by business expansion to find increased space, Hitchon Radio and Television have moved from their store at 4 Bridge St. East, to 340 Front St., formerly occupied by Frost Lewis Industries.

The move to the new location was made by Hitchon's last week and today they are open for business at the new store.

One of the best known radio and television stores in the city, the name Hitchon is also one of the oldest in the radio repair field.

The business was started back in 1934 by Gene Hitchon, who after several years in radio service field decided to go into business on his own. First store operated by Hitchon Radio was on Victoria Ave., directly during the war years, moved to 299 Front Street where the Percival Annex is now located.

Following the war Gene and his brother Sidney formed a partnership and moved to 4 Bridge Street where business was carried on over ten years.

Although radio service was the first consideration, the television vision arrived their sales and service departments only natural evolved in the new medium.

The franchise for Electrohome Television was procured and has since been handled. Other lines in the electronics field were also entered, among them being the communications field.

INSTALL SOUND SYSTEM

Hitchon Radio installed sound and program system in five of the city's public schools as well as in schools in Picton, Cobourg and Kingston.

Hearing aids have developed into big business and following the trend, Hitchon Radio carry a full line of the new Zenith hearing aids, some of which are so small they may be concealed behind the ear.

Now with the move to more roomy quarters, new lines have been added by Hitchon Radio, in addition to Electrohome, RCA Victor, Whirlpool appliances, radio and TV, refrigerators, automatic washers and dryers, as well as stereo and other lines have been added.

The store staff has been increased to ten persons with two separate service departments, one for radio and appliances and one for television.

With the opening of their new store at 340 Front street, Hitchon Radio is giving away five radios each over $200. All visitors to the store are entitled to a free draw with names to be drawn March 30th.

Two Youngsters Lock Selves In Army Tank

BARRIE (CP)—Wayne Harker, 15, and Don Arnold, 13, both of Barrie, locked themselves in an army tank Sunday and had to be released by police.

The tank was on a flatcar on the railway siding at nearby Allandale station, awaiting shipment to Georgia. The youths clambered on, descended into the body of the tank and closed the hatch after them. A chum stayed outside.

When the boys seemed to get out they found they couldn't open the hatch. The boy outside called some men who called police.

More Red Subs Noted in Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — Admiral Harold Wright, chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, says "there has been an increase in recent years of contacts with new Russian submarines."

Wright, also is Supreme Allied Commander for the Atlantic, was interviewed while visiting this American air-sea base for an inspection of the Airborne Early Warning squadron of the U.S. navy calls Barrier Atlantic.

Reporters' questions were based on recent statements by navy officials that the size of the Russian submarine force now may be 450 to 500 vessels, far greater than the submarine force once operated by Germany. Admiral Felix Stump, Pacific Fleet commander, recently reported there was an upsurge of Soviet submarine strength in that ocean.

Wright said that of the last few years there has been "a definite increase in their cruising to deep ocean." Apparently referring to the detection devices of anti-submarine surface and air patrols maintained in the Atlantic, the admiral added that "we pick them up every now and then."

Wife of Witness Threatened in Telephone Call

SEATTLE (AP) — Police are conducting an investigation into a threatening telephone call received by the wife of a witness who testified last week before the Senate rackets investigating committee in Washington.

Howard Sylvester, a Seattle insurance and public relations executive, said Sunday he has given police the name of an employee of the Teamsters Union whom he believes made the call.

Mrs. Sylvester told police Saturday about the anonymous telephone call she received Thursday evening. That was the day her husband told the Senate committee that the teamsters spent nearly $600,000 in the fight to defeat a right-to-work initiative in Washington state last year. The initiative was snowed under in last November's election.

Sylvester also told the committee the union owes him $10,500 for his role in the campaign and that an effort had been made to settle the bill for $1,800.

Mrs. Sylvester delayed telling police about the telephone call until her husband returned from Washington Saturday night.

IN MEMORIAM

RICHMOND — In loving memory of a dear wife, Mary Jane Richmond, who passed away March 25th, 1945.
Deadly dear, now mother has joined you,
Such a short time ago.
I see in my dreams contentment for you,
I know.
As I did a few years ago.
Sadly missed and remembered, daughter Thelma.

BARLOW — In loving memory of Marion, wife of Ernest Barlow, who passed away March 24th, 1945.
Sad, quiet and lonely the day,
His calm almighty voice,
Stronger than death shall say,
Awake arise — rejoice.
—Husband and family.

BELNAP — In loving memory of brother, Ronald Belnap, who passed away on March 24th, 1955.
The home was grief-stricken,
The world was cold and drear,
And only those who have lost a loved one,
The pain of parting without farewell,
Have each day their own heartbreak.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the secret,
That lies in each aching heart.
Sweet remembered by Mildred, Bill and Ron.

FREE — In loving memory of Lottie Greenley Free, who passed away on February 29th, 1956.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Always tender and true;
There is not a day, Lottie,
That we do not think of you.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials, led by utilities and banks, today recorded a moderate advance as a morning trading but the rest of the stock market was mixed to lower.

Premier Trust had the best value gain on the board, adding two points at 88 on a single sale. B.C. Power was up 1¼ to 45¼ while Loblaw Inc. gained a point at 66.

Senior and junior base metals and coppers had twice as many losses as gains while uranians held a slight edge on the upside on the mining list but more moved gains than losses and a one-quarter point index gain. Price changes, however, were narrow in all groups.

Western oils were lower.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 15-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 95 17 - 32 cents. Pound sterling 2.66 ¼, up ¼.

TO REBUILD CLUBHOUSE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Richard L. Turnbull, commodore of the Greater Niagara Boating Club, said today that tenders will be called in 19 days for a $25,000 clubhouse to be built on the site of the boathouse destroyed by fire this week.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Top quality finished steers and heifers were in good demand and sold 25 cents a hundredweight higher today at the Ontario public stockyards. Medium and plain kinds sold steady. Yearlings and cows were firm at last week's prices. Calves reported unchanged.

Receipts: Cattle 3,919; calves 364; hogs 100; sheep and lambs 45.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers mostly 29.50-30, with one load at a hundredweight; good 26.50-29.75; medium 18.50-26; common 16-18; choice heifers 18; good 17-17.75; medium 14-16; common 12-14; choice fed yearlings 21-21.50; good 19-20; medium 16-18; good cows 15.50-16.50; few sales to 17.50; medium 11-12; common 10-11; canners and cutters 7-9.50; good bulls 19-20; few to 21.50-24.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers 18.50-19.50; few to 20.50 a hundredweight; medium and common 15-18.

Calves under pressure with indications of price drops ranging from $1 to $2 a hundredweight.

Hog prices not established. No early sales on sheep and lambs.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quiet with receipts ample for a fair demand.

Country dealers were quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large size, oiled, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 35-36; A medium 34-35; A small 31; B 30; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 40-41; A medium 39-40; A small 36; B 35; C 30.

Butter prices: Canada first grade, Ontario tenderable 58; non-tenderable 58½ (nominal); western 58½ (nominal). The butter market was reported unchanged.

Escape Artist Makes Good Boast Taking Own Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Escape artist Fernand Dube, a habitual criminal serving a life sentence at 29, made good on his boast that St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary "won't hold me for a year."

The body of the man who "couldn't do time" was carried out of the penitentiary after Dube succeeded in his third attempt to take his own life. He was found hanged Friday in his cell.

Dube, a petty thief since the age of 12, broke from Quebec jails six-times in 1950-51. While held at Sorel, he broke nightly from the jail, purchased clothes and then returned to his cell. The warden subsequently was fired and several guards fired. One night Dube didn't return to his cell.

He was picked up in Barrie, Ont., a few months later, broke out overnight, was recaptured and sent to St. Vincent de Paul.

There, the man that Warden Paul Lebel called "a real Houdini," made two abortive escape attempts before succeeding in a few hectic days of freedom and from then till last June made repeated escapes. Last June 29 Governor, he and two companions successfully again.

Dube had replaced door bolts with rubber substitutes and literally strolled out of the week's wild rampage of bank holdups netting $22,000.

He was recaptured near Quebec City and subsequently pronounced a habitual criminal. Police speculated the sentence and last week's escape plunged the prison officer into in the penitentiary broke his spirit.

Home on Carrying Place Road Threatened by Swamp Fire

TRENTON (Special) — A raging swamp fire out of control Saturday night threatened a half a dozen homes on the Carrying Place Road four miles south of here before a volunteer band of volunteer firemen armed with hoses, bags and sticks of wood finally subdued the flames spreading through the little settlement.

One of the fire-fighters reported that the fire was started in the afternoon by a resident clearing dead grass from a plot of land in the north east corner of the village. The wind first carried the fire toward the lake shore and then when it changed fanned the flames into dry cat tails and underbrush south of No. 33 highway. By dusk the flames had spread over a large area wide front and moved steadily toward the row of dwellings on the north side of the Base Line Road. Smoke hung over the area and reddened the reflection from the fire lighted the sky above the swamp.

Watchers in the village became concerned and called for volunteers to help the residents whose homes stood in jeopardy. Two carloads of party-goers stopped and pitched in without regard for their clothing or personal safety. Later they arrived at the scene of the fire with smudged faces and soiled shoes and pants.

At one time the volunteers figured the fire had the best of them. Flames caught in a pile of scrap lumber at the rear of Scotty McFarlane's cottage and moved toward a large quantity of timbers and a heavy hauling truck behind Ray Miller's place. In one spot the fire by-passed the row of houses but did no harm and burned out when it reached the ditch by the side of the highway.

Called but unable to proceed to the scene until the Reeve of Murray authorized the run, Trenton firemen with a hose truck returned to Trenton after making sure the volunteers had the situation well in hand.

Trenton police constable Sid Vickers, Ted Young, Jack Clark, Bill LaTour, Tom Lewis and Vernon Westfall were among the volunteers from the village of Carrying Place. Hooses threatened belonged to Eric Hillier, Scotty McFarlane, Frank Young and Ray Miller.

Fishermen in Prince Edward County expect smelts will start running this week. Perch taken from Lake Ontario provide tasty fillets selling at 40c a pound.

DOGS' DEATHS PROBED

TRENTON (Special) — The mysterious death of four dogs in the Wooler area is under investigation by the Provincial Police of Brighton. Cpl. L. Lyle called the Trenton veterinary Glynn Jones when he removed the stomachs of the dead animals to the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph for examination.

"It looks like strychnine poisoning" reported the veterinary, "but I can be sure until the report comes back from Guelph." He observed that the dogs could have picked up poison set out for skunks.

To date Harold Haggerty, Henry McCall, Jack Austin and Bill Stacey have lost pets.

$80 in Cash Taken From Service Station

TRENTON (Special) — Burglars got away with $80 in cash after breaking into Halloran's Service Station on Front street over the weekend. The money was removed from the safe in the office. A safe in the same room was tampered with but not opened. Police found fingerprints around the dial of the safe and doors of the steel cabinet where it. Entry was gained through a window that was unlocked after the glass in it was removed. A year ago a gang perpetrating a similar crime was surprised and subsequently captured by constable Roy Miller of the local department.

Canada Imports Had Value of $5,710,400,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada imported more merchandise last year than in any year of her history, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The overall value was $5,710,400,000 up more than one-fifth over figures for the year before.

Volume accounted for most of the gain, 18.2 per cent, while 2.3 per cent was attributed to higher prices.

Gratifying increases were in trade with the United Kingdom, United States, Mexico, Australia, Belgium and Luxembourg, France, West Germany and Japan.

United States purchases shot up 21 per cent to a record $4,166,667,000 from $3,433,000,000 while 23 per cent of total imports in both 1956 and 1955.

Imports from the United Kingdom also rose 21 per cent during 1956, hitting a record $484,679,000.

Three Surviving Members of Quads Are 'Doing Fine'

MONTREAL (CP) — Patricia, Alma and Kevin, the three surviving members of Montreal's quads, were reported doing "just fine" today by Montreal Children's Hospital.

The infants, born two months prematurely last Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. William Munro of suburban Pointe Claire, were shifted Saturday from St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lachine. Mrs. Munro died Friday.

The eldest of the quads died Friday night. The female infant, lightest of the four at just over three pounds, had been christened Mary before she died.

Three Teen-agers Killed by Train

OTTAWA (CP) — Three teenagers were killed late Sunday night when their automobile was struck broadside by a CNR passenger train at a level crossing in east-end Ottawa.

The victims were Gilles Methot, 17; Jean-Guy Lenis, 17, and Lysc Carriere, 18, all of Ottawa.

They were the sole occupants of the automobile struck by the train from Montreal. Police said Methot was driving; the other boy and the girl were riding. All have been in the front seat with him.

The impact of the automobile was strewn hundreds of feet along the track.

The youths were students at University of Ottawa and Miss Carriere a high-school student. Denis a native of Timmins, came here in 1950.

Police found no skid marks after the accident. An eyewitness, John Hart, said the car diesel engine horn blew, but the car did not appear to slow down.

Newsmen Given Peek at Barrier Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — The U.S. Navy gave newspaper men a peek Sunday at its secret Barrier Atlantic, a far-flung system of radar-eyed planes and ships.

Ceaselessly, airmen and seamen keep vigil in mild-ocean, watching for hostile H-bombers.

A thousand times since last July when Barrier Atlantic was set up, huge planes have headed out for their patrol stations over the ocean, accumulating about 2,500,000 miles of flying—equivalent to six round trips to the moon.

Admiral Jerauld Wright, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet and supreme Allied commander for the Atlantic, told visiting reporters:

"This is to keep the guy from making an end run."

Wright meant that Barrier Atlantic is a seaward extension of the three land-based early warning lines stretched across North America to sound alarm against nuclear attack on the United States and Canada by Soviet bombers.

NFLD. ANCHOR

The westward anchor line for Barrier Atlantic is this base in Newfoundland. It is the end and what direction the patrol extends, officials here declined to say. However, the official navy map, name, All Hands, has displayed a map showing a "mid-ocean picket" position at approximately the halfway point between the 2,900-mile stretch of sea between Newfoundland and the British Isles.

A floating sea barrier line is beginning operation, with planes and ships operating out of Hawaii and Midway Island and connecting with operations from the Alaskan area.

Italian Actress Makes Peace With Admirers

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida made peace with her Vienna admirers in a little speech at an artists' benefit concert Sunday night.

It was the thunderous applause. It was plain all was forgiven save by the pesky newspapers still grumbled because the glamorous Italian film star stood up her fans by missing a concert Friday night.

The trouble began Friday night when Gina and her husband, Dr. Milko Skofic, arrived here seven hours late. They blamed it on their carrying hotel instead of at one where 800 fans had waited for them in.

When reporters and photographers caught up with the visitors Gina had gone to bed. Her husband spoke gruffly to reporters. Later he and Gina apologized.

The Socialist Arbeiterzeitung said: "Dr. Skofic, her husband and manager of Gina, can be satisfied. A scandal is always the best publicity."

Transatlantic Telephone Cable Laid at Cost of $42,000,000 Has Doubled Overseas Calls

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless a thousand dredges fish up an international spy gives it the axe, the new transatlantic telephone cable should last 20 years without blowing a tube.

The telephone cable system, first under the Atlantic, actually consists of two cables, each about 2,250 land miles long and stretching from Clarenville, Nfld., to Port Lathalcie on the Firth of Lorne near Oban, Scotland. The cables, located 20 miles apart on the ocean floor, carry one-way voice traffic in opposite directions between the continents.

Two cables were used so that the 51 repeaters needed to amplify sounds on the long journey under the sea could be built into the cables and dropped on the stern of the cable-laying ship. Two-way repeaters would have been too bulky to roll around the drum in laying operations.

THREE-WAY CHRISTMAS

Built at a cost of $42,000,000 in a joint venture by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the British post office and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corp., the submarine system already has doubled the number of overseas calls.

In 1955, the then and still existing radio telephone brought 101,769 calls between New York and London. Since it opened last September, the telephone cable has averaged 39,600 calls a month without tapping into the cable, a job for a deep sea diver able to withstand a 4,650-volt jolt.

NO STRAIN ON REFERENCE

Unlike radio telephone, the cables are not affected by storms, atmospheric disturbances, sun spots or other causes of fading. The intricate system of tubes and repeaters, spaced 40 miles apart on the cables, acts like an electronic bucket brigade, picking up the sound and carrying it across the ocean floor to the receiver.

Transatlantic calls are heard as clearly as neighboring calls, and sometimes clearer if the neighborhood happens to be afflicted with an ailing telephone.

Actually, the cable is safest when it is on the ocean floor, affording protection from the rock spilling action of tides, the menacing otter boards of fish trawlers, corrosive marine life, occasional icebergs or the danger of being picked up by a ship's anchor.

For security reasons location of the cable is secret. Cable cutting has been a standard tactic in wartime.

GOOD FOR 20 YEARS

Barring accidents or sabotage, longlines engineers are certain the cables will last at least 20 years because their tubes were invented in the late 1930s and have been performing ever since in laboratory tests.

But if one tube goes, the whole system conks out in one direction. For that reason, elaborate precautions were taken to manufacture tubes and repeaters under dust-free conditions.

Workers at the air conditioned, temperature and humidity controlled plant in Hillside, N.J., were special uniforms of lint-free, closely woven nylon, donned outer smocks while walking from the locker room, and were cautioned against smoking and excessive use of cosmetic powders. The work was first telephoned and slightly to keep out dust laden air currents.

Alliance Claims 30 Businesses Open on Sunday

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Assistant Crown Attorney D. C. Scott says police have almost finished an investigation into a complaint by the Lord's Day Alliance that some 30 businesses are operating here on Sundays.

A report will be forwarded to the attorney-general "some time this week," accompanied by a request for permission to prosecute said Sunday. In 1943 an amendment to the 1906 Lord's Day statute placed responsibility for prosecutions in the hands of provincial attorneys-general alone.

Mr. Scott said most of the businesses listed by the Alliance were grocery stores, and one gift and souvenir store, including one nearby fruit stand. Businesses operated by Niagara Parks Commission and stores in the Rainbow Bridge plaza leased from the department of highways were not investigated.

when the door was opened.

MISS SIXSH AND THE STRANGER

She is just a little miss and she has a long way to to school.

When you are sixish, even short lanes can seem long ones. Seem? Nay, they are. When you are sixish, you are Einstein, you know instinctively about things like relativity and space-time. You have not yet fallen into the smug adult error of judging distances by a standard unit measurement. There is only one realistic measurement for those who walk, and that is the length of the stride. So if your strides are skips, it still takes a lot of them to cover a block — a block is not the "short block" of town-upe, but a long, long way.

This little miss, though, has a long way to go to school even by adult standards, for she is a Catholic and has no school located within a block or so of her home. Because she does not go to the neighborhood school, she does not mingle with the morning bubble-gum crowd, but wends her own way.

A long way is a long way, but a lonely, long way is a larger way. Therefore she is glad of company, even if the company is one of those strange grown-ups, who are not interested in skipping and only mildly delighted to learn that Miss Sixish is really a grown-up, for she has acquired a new pair of glasses, just like Mr. Grown-up has.

School-bound and work-bound journeys can become pleasant, when they are made in congenial company, and crowded crossings a heart is warmed by the feel of a big hand pushed confidingly into a tiny one. The hand clutched away, once the crossing is safely negotiated, and devoted to the more important business of twirling a spring rope.

Man, made young and frisky by a young companion, Miss Sixish, feeling grown-up and important as she sets it is a pleasant combination, perhaps the only completely unmixed relationship between the sexes.

Uncomplicated? No, not quite. Mr. Grown-Up's warring mind remembers reading about similar combinations, with less pleasant associations. He wonders whether any of the other grown-ups on the street know the little girl — and, if so, whether they know him; and if they do not know him whether they, too, have recalled to him the implications given in his particular combination of youth and age. For a moment the pleasant morning is spoiled. But not for long. The young eyes, doubly accustomed to new glasses have found some new wonder on which to comment.

So trips are made, on mornings when chance is kind enough to release Mr. Grown-Up and Miss Sixish from their respective lives for a brief, run-right time for them to meet and journey together. There comes the day when she skips to meet him and the morning is even pleasanter than usual.

Then, one noon, the morning companion is sighted, but from Mr. Grown-Up that this time she is not walking with him but is going to school with the darling of the neighbor. The neighbor, also sixish, appears and eyes Mr. Grown-Up with disapproval. As they cross the road, words admonition are spoken.

"You shouldn't talk to strangers," declares Neighbor Miss.

"Oh, that's all right, he's a friend of my daddy," Miss Sixish says.

Miss Sixish is not quite accurate. Mr. Grown-Up is a friend of Miss Sixish, but he is only a nodding acquaintance of her daddy. Even so, he takes heart of grace at each of the words because there is no joining of hands at busy crossings, no proud exhibition of new glasses.

And even if Miss Sixish's words are right about the degree of intimacy of Mr. Grown-Up and Daddy, Neighbor's cautious approach would still be correct.

For, alas, that warning that little girls get about talking to strangers is right, right, for those who study these things say that the strangers are in the minority among those guilty of the things which cause mothers to use warning.

And suddenly there is something wrong with the world—terribly, terribly, wrong.

What kind of a world is it where parents feel they are to use their children to learn to distrust instead of trust, to brave traffic hazards unaided rather than to trust to hands confident of finding guidance? What kind of a world is it where one is supposed to skip alone to school, skip the whole, long lonely way?

Mr. Grown-Up is glad that Miss Sixish is so sure he is a friend of her daddy.

BRITAIN INVADED

Britain has been successfully invaded—from the air.

The invaders have gone undetected.

That's what BBC listeners learned recently when Michael Blackmore spoke on the program "The Eyewitness."

The invasion started in 1888.

Now the invaders are well established, in a tunnel leading to an old quarry in the south of England.

The invaders — mouse-eared bats from the Continent.

EIGHT TO NINE

I must be an experience glad
To step from eight years old
to nine.
Time was the thrill of it I had
And all the joys of it were
mine;
But oh, that was so long ago
The pride of it I can't recall.
It happened once to me, I know,
But memory has lost it all.

Or time they packed me off to bed
Because the hour was getting late,
And when I woke, no doubt, I said:
"Remember, I'm no longer eight"
Then was when asked my age to say
A newer thrill of joy was mine answered in a boastful way:
"Tomorrow morning I'll be nine!"

I used to think the years were long,
So slowly by they seemed to drift,
That moody gray folks all were wrong
Who said the passing time is swift.
I knew that birthdays come and go,
But grown-up views were never mine;
And I was sure they didn't know
How far it is from eight to nine.

Now comes his birthday once again
And stout and strong of leg is he,
He's on his way to join the men,
As anyone can plainly see.
This morning when he wakes he'll state
With all the pride that once was mine:
"Remember, I'm no longer eight.
That number has been changed to nine!"

Complaining About Dinner

Montreal Gazette

To complain about one's dinner is bad manners, they say. We should give such satisfaction to the compiler that a tag shipped home, rather than complaint, would seem the better sauce. Yet somehow waiting in a few minutes both a habit and an art, satisfying and resourceful.

The great Samuel Johnson was once asked "if he had ever huffed the waiter in a tavern." And the answered her husband so very well that he was ready to admit, even many years later, that she had silenced him.

Despite the efforts of his friends to claim he was always justified in his complaints, the writer, Hilaire Belloc, would seem to have developed the art of complaining to a fine effect that it became painful to forego its indulgence.

"He believed in 'making a scene' if things were wrong in a restaurant," his friend, A. B. Morton writes. "Many of Belloc's friends made a point of avoiding him also, but it was very effective . . . Belloc, when with people who dreaded a row, tried very hard to be patient, but his suppressed irritability made him more uncomfortable for them than a brief outburst, which got things done."

It might seem that the right to complain about dinner should always be extended to the guest who comes to dine at the table of a friend. Yet there have been tremendous practitioners of the art of complaint who have felt their powers unless hindered by such restrictions.

One of these was the poet, Alfred Tennyson. He spared his hostess at a dinner at which he served did not happen to be to his taste.

Professor Max Muller of Oxford University once invited Tennyson to dinner. Something did her very best. Salmon was provided and the poet, Miss Stirling soon at once made his dissatisfaction known. It was not that he complained about the salmon as such; his complaint was directed against the sauce. The sauce was not the particular kind he preferred.

The poor was yet to come, for Tennyson had been invited for breakfast the next morning.

Mullers rather plumed themselves on a dish of cutlets they had prepared. But Tennyson, seeing the dish, flung it neatly off the cover. "Mutton chops!" he exclaimed with disgust. "The staple of every bad inn in England!"

Prof. Muller admits that it was all rather hard on the young wife, who had regarded Tennyson as one of the immortals. But some hostesses might have dealt with so complaining a guest with less tolerance or timidity.

So it was when Mrs. Jefferson Davis once had as her dinner guest General Winfield Scott. This was in the years before the American Civil War, when her husband, later to be the president of the Confederacy, was Secretary of State for War in the cabinet of the United States.

General Winfield Scott had a formidable presence. He was six feet four inches tall and very broad. His manner was pompous and overbearing. "Old Fuss and Feathers" he was known as in the army.

As the wife of the Secretary of War, Mrs. Davis often saw General Scott at dinners. She noticed that at table, if any dish displeased him, he would mutter "tut! tut!" and show his displeasure, without any regard to the feelings of his hostess.

When she first invited him to dine, she privately re-arranged her own cook, for five dollars, to prepare the special kind of soup the General always preferred. General Scott took his spoon, tasted it, and solemnly shown with an air of disgust. "Tut! tut! tut!" he said, to the consternation of the lady who could not hear his displeasure.

"Is there anything wrong with the soup, General?" asked Mrs. Davis. "It is not good," he replied.

It was Mrs. Davis perfect moment. She told him where she made the soup. General Scott said no more. But it was noticed in Washington that evil blood between him and Mrs. Scott remained strained, for each mischievously spreading the story. He could no longer say "tut! tut! tut" at dinner tables in Washington without reminding everybody of Mrs. Davis' story about the soup.

He had, from that day, to suffer the hardship of eating his dinner unseasoned with complaint. Mrs. Jefferson Davis had deprived the old General of one of his chief accomplishments and one of his chief pleasures in life.

Animals Take To Air

By Aubrey Cooke in Canadian Aviation

Many hundreds of birds "migrate" by the easy way in this age of air transportation. They are flown from the mainland to islands and across the Atlantic bound for pet shops of the world. Travelling with them are large numbers of tropical fish. One importer, Ross Allen, of Florida, operates his own fleet of aircraft to fly fish to customers in all parts of the world.

Domestic pets and very much larger animals, from zebras to squirrels to circus elephants, are also carried on the world's airlines. Last year, the American Airways carried 1,500 dogs and 2,000 monkeys across the U.S.A.

The majority of these animals are the pets of servicemen returning to the United States. Popular among the canine travellers are French poodles which are fashionable and expensive in New York. The dogs travel in light but strong and adequately ventilated kennels.

Charges for sending most animals by air is 80 cents a pound. This may be one reason for everywhere-travelling servicemen to their pets rather than boxers!

Horses are well up among the animal air travellers. They fly 10 to a plane in converted DC6A's accompanied by a groom. Special pails of stalls are provided for them, arranged down the length of the aircraft to give them the maximum headroom.

Crossings are made at an altitude of 7,000 feet, and this seems to suit the horses. They make very docile trans-Atlantic flights. During 1956 more than 250 were flown from Europe and Ireland to the U.S. Most of them were racehorses or broodmares sold to American stables.

The horse and pet traffic to Europe is considerably less. 50 horses made the return trip.

Animals make a valuable load weight-wise. Eight of these were flown from Britain to the U.S. last year.

Far more numerous are the monkeys which travel by American airports from India. Flown by BOAC from Calcutta they chatter their way across the Atlantic at the rate of 3,000 a month, 12 in a wire container.

One flight made by Seaboard and Western last year, carried a 3,500-lb. cargo of animals across the Atlantic. It was a mixed bag imported when the Far East and flown to London by BOAC.

What You Want In Want Ads

Brockville Recorder and Times

On April 23, 1914 a young man answered the following want ad in the Daily Journal of Kansas, Michigan. "Wanted — a high grade young man for office work. Inquiring some book-keeping experience. A fine opportunity for the right young man."

The young man who answered the ad got the job and is still working for the same company in 1957. His name is Harlow Hill, he is 64 and he is president of a little company called General Motors. Never underestimate the power of a want ad.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WILL TO LIVE

Each one of us who has reasonable health, an interesting job to engage our day, and other occupations of an inspiring type, like a love of reading or the collection of books that are dear to us, should rejoice in the will to live. How many a shut-in does this give courage and cheer than most of us know. It is because they have discounted all obstacles against their will to live, and to give hope and comfort to others.

I have noted that those who are shut out from the enjoyment of so many things that the normal person enjoys seem to be so vibrant in spirit, their main occupation being to cover up their disappointments and inertia. It carries a saying by Bob Hope recently, as follows: "Laughter can return a sense of proportion to a troubled mind, for it erases self-pity, self-justification, self-importance, but perhaps the most important thing laughter can do is bring back the will to live—and, when the time comes, give us the courage to go with good cheer."

I have never been able to understand those who are forever talking about dying. If they spent as much time in thinking how they are to live they would then have nothing to worry about when it would come their time to die. I have carried this line around with me in my mind: "It is quotation from Isidore of Seville: "Study as if you were to live forever, live as if you were to die tomorrow."

The will to live can be made a part of the working of every one of our days. This is the very best thing in the world. It is a real thing. It is full of beauty, wonders, inspiring creations and wonderful people. Many of these people we can make our friends, and that may result in the happiest possession of all that we have!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1937

Mr. and Mrs. John Wood of Hillier, Prince Edward County, celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding on March 31st. and received the congratulations of many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Woods were pioneers in Dungannon township, Hastings County, and he served for several years as sleeve of the township. In 1923 he resigned the office and removed to Hillier in Prince Edward County where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

Mr. J. B. Walmsley, who has been an official in various capacities of Bowmanville Church for nearly 60 years and since 1907 has been the popular and efficient superintendent of the Sunday School, has resigned, much to the regret of the church members. He became secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School in 1874, when the church choir was at the foot of Church street in the building now occupied by the Coca-Cola Company. He held this office until 1895 when owing to his duties as Mayor of the city he resigned. In 1900 he resumed his duties at the Sunday School and in 1907 he became superintendent of the Sunday School. He will be succeeded by Mr. A. D. Archibald, who has had a long experience in Sunday School work.

30 YEARS AGO

March 25th. 1927

In a contest in which 897 answers were submitted, a composition, the words of which were written by Mrs. W. S. McTavish, Moira Street west, was accepted and will be published by a music company in Chicago. The music for the anthem was composed by Miss Bertha L. Smith, Toronto.

Mr. Fred D. Diamond is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. J. J. Kelly and son, Joseph, of Campbellford, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, in this city.

Belleville Public Income Tax Office is working day and night at present preparing for the 30th when the annual returns for income tax are filed for this year.

40 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1917

Johnson Hamilton of the horse contract for conveying the mails to and from the post office and the Grand Trunk Railway station, have purchased an up-to-date motor truck to use in their work.

The reflection from the burning brush at Shannonville, was plainly seen here last night.

The wedding of the finance and public property committee of the Hastings County Council will take place at the Shire Hall, Church Street, Mr. B. Mallory, County Treasurer, was appointed to act also as County Clerk, from April 1st until a clerk is appointed at the June session of the council.

The St. Julien Chapter of the I.O.D.E. shipped nine cases of hospital supplies overseas recently.

The Moira River from the lower bridge to Corbyville is virtually clear of ice; the ice passed out without doing any damage.

50 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1907

The members of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union will rent tomorrow's Gazetteer at the home of Mrs John Williams, south east corner of St. Charles and St. Quentin Streets.

Messrs. H. E. Fairfield and F. B. Hamm, local grocers and feed merchants, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Fairfield will continue the business.

Mr. F. J. Farley, cashier for the Canadian Northern Railway at Winnipeg, is home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Farley, Canniffton.

Messrs. Alfred Luscombe, Charles Dulmage and Harry Dulmage left today for Western Canada and they may decide to locate there.

Just What Is a Billion?

Financial Post

When Finance Minister Harris threw down his hand, he was not talking in terms of billions. What's a billion?

It's not a billion dollars in $10 bills and decided to lay them end to end, the line would stretch from Montreal to Vancouver more than three times.

It's not a billion dollars and set out to count the money at $100 a minute, working eight hours a day for six days a week, it would take you more than 66 years to finish the job.

If you had a billion dollars in $1 bills and decided to spend it on Toronto street with them, you could paper a wall 14 feet high on both sides of Bloor Street from St. Xoon Queen to Bloor.

Finally, a billion dollars is close to 3 per cent of all the money all Canadians will earn this year by all kinds of economic activity. This is a rich country but a billion is still a lot of money.

Cows Are Not Always Calm

Niagara Falls Review

For generations the cow has been held before us as the symbol of contentment." She has resembled man in having one habit, chewing the cud; but even there she has differed from man chewing gum or tobacco, for she has managed withal to appear intelligent.

Now comes a doctor from the prairies to hold up the cow as a bad example for men. Dr. Lennox Bell, from the Faculty of Medicine in the University of Manitoba, said recently to a gathering of medical men from all over Canada, meeting in Montreal: "We don't want to become bovine. If we don't drive our cows home with a little anxiety we cannot solve them very well." Dr. Bell said that with his fellow practitioners in the field of medicine may be giving their patients too many tranquillizing pills; and that a bit of thought and understanding might be of more help in many cases. Maybe so, but many a housewife in this province would tell him he did not have to malign the cow to prove a point.

It is admitted that the cow seems to have a calm acceptance of her lowly existence. But she can and does act like man sometimes. Let her suspect a lack of feeding and milking be disturbed, and the cow will react to it. The cow is content only when she is left to take care of, and her mode of existence accepted. Some of the kind have been known to develop worse tempers than a man, and that is saying much. Let her get set by a well-aimed kick. She is unlike man when sick, for she banishes all from the herd to be alone in her misery, while man seeks the consolation of company. Mostly, however, she is a placid animal, unhurried and unworried, getting along without the use of tranquilizers.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

No, no, Mommy Don't Cry

A Massachusetts correspondent says my pamphlet, Parkinson's Tremor (sometimes called paralysis agitans or shaking palsy) seemed an answer to her prayer.

"My daughter," she wrote, "has shaking hands, halting walk, body inclined forward, bent elbows, unable to keep her balance, I suppose. Last fall her 9-year old daughter asked: 'Grandma, did Mommy cry a lot when she was a little girl?' I said, 'No, Doris.' She said, 'Well, she does now.' My daughter is probably under a nervous strain because of her husband's illness though she does not show it. One thing in her favor, as your pamphlet says, is that she is very active around her home, never one to sit lying . . . ."

Anyone with Parkinson's tremor should keep very active around the house and never sit idle for any length of time, for just vegetating, so to speak, favors "freezing" the shaky increase of rigidity and consequent disability. Instead of knitting idly, knit, sew, and always have something to do. I have known a number of men with Parkinson's tremor who derived a good deal of enjoyment and improvement of the condition from bowling. Putting, pitching horse-shoes, archery, or croquet might also be good.

If there is a mask-like facial expression, sit before your mirror and practice expressing various emotions for so many minutes twice daily or until your face gets a little tired.

Strength for The Day

RELATIONSHIP OF PRIVILEGE AND DIGNITY

Most Bible readers do not understand the part that the covenant plays in our religion.

A covenant is a promise. The Old Testament is the promise made of old that God would send a Saviour. The New Testament is the promise that God has already sent. God's relationship with us is a covenant relationship. God eternally promises something to us and He requires of us a promise in return. There is no religion on any other basis. God does us the honor of entering into a covenant relationship with us. We are persons with whom God deals. That is an arresting concept—person with whom God deals.

So the thrilling joy of a life of faith arises from the fact that God promises us something and honors us by requiring us to promise him something. God promises us sustenance, guidance, protection, inspiration and assurance. We promise him obedience. He extends to us a great gift; it is up to us to use our honor and our privilege to reach out our hands and take what is a gift. God respects the fact that we are persons, not automatons. He enters into an agreement with us, and it is a very serious agreement.

Worship is a covenant relationship. It is fundamental in religion.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What do you suppose the winds of March are for? At the season of the year in the trees appear to wrench and twist and sway as they do in the March gales. And that, of course, is what the winds of March are for. It is the true feeding mechanism of the tree, can move and reach out, in their miraculous way, into new-broken ground.

The large trees are doing a job of cultivation with the wind's help, for a far larger economy than their own. Do not for a moment suppose that the wind leads itself only to the trees. If you take your eyes off the spectacular March calisthenics of the trees, we can see that every little bush is whipping and flailing and turning in the ground level, as the tree tops a hundred feet in the air are doing. The wind is doing a job of plowing and harrowing and cultivating. It is breaking up the surface and even the dry and apparently dead grass is responding to the March wind and is pulling and tweaking and plucking at every strand and shred of vegetation. It is all part of the agriculture practised by nature in a far more subtle degree than man has ever been able to devise.

Of course, the winds of March have other duties besides agricultural. When the winds are from the south-east or south-west, as they so often are, the wild geese, the wild swans and the ducks find lift up and take the wind for their sails and go sailing northward, without which we would be buried like the fossils under strata of ice and snow for a mile or more, from the geese down to the warbler as far as your thumb. Taking advantage it can of the March winds from the south. Of course, it is all part of the art of nature in a far more subtle degree than man has ever been able to devise.

JESUS LOVED THEM

by Patrick and Garrison

JOHN THE BAPTIST

"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John."

—John 1:6

Tall, solitary, homeless—wrapped in a camel's skin, his hair depending upon his shoulders, his eyes burning with the zeal of evangelism—such was John the Baptist.

Born when both his parents were of advanced age, he went into the wilderness when still very young, to meditate and to purify himself after the manner of the yogis of India.

Like anchorites of all ages, he ate simple food (locusts and wild honey), eschewed alcohol and women, and allowed his beard to grow to prophetic length.

Being of the priestly race by both parents, and owing to his dynamic personality and message, he attracted a great multitude "from every quarter" when he appeared in Betharaba, in the vicinity of the Jordan, urging repentance, and announcing the coming of the Messiah.

"He is the one coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

Jesus, then nearing His 30th year, journeyed from Galilee to the Jordan, where the "wild man," the Baptizer, immersed the penitent in the waters of the river for a symbolical cleansing, even as he told them of the coming Messiah, who would baptize with fire.

When John saw Jesus approaching, he said: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

Jesus, about to embark upon the three brilliant last years of His earthly life, marked the Change with baptism in the Jordan.

John the Baptist understood this. He knew that his prophecy was about to be fulfilled.

A crowd gathered upon the banks as Jesus entered the river, to witness His baptism. It was the last day of harvest, and their spirits were high. To their superficial view, the baptism of Jesus was like that of other "sinners" who had come to have their spiritual stains washed away. But such was not the case with John.

"And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove descending upon him. And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased."

The mission of John the Baptist was fulfilled. The final mission of Jesus had begun.

Scotty Broughton, District Commander, attended the last general meeting. Pat Patterson, vice-president of Brighton branch, was a visitor.

Secretary Len Burfoot read the minutes of the last meeting, after which four new members were initiated.

The District Commander performed this ceremony, assisted by Deputy District Commander Leo Taylor, Past Zone Commander Frank Gardiner, and President Bill Heasman. We welcome the new members to Branch 99, Arthur Wilson, Alfred Francis, Don Orr and Andrew Knott.

Frank Daniels reported that Len Fry, William Sullivan and Thomas Lusk are in hospital. George Elsley and Len Furney were hospitalized but are both home now.

The treasurer, Roy Madden, is still submitting good reports.

April 9th will be the 40th anniversary of Vimy. Frank Gardiner is hoping that every member will attend the banquet and bring veteran friends with them. Tickets can be obtained from any member. Frank also wishes to bring to your notice a dance to be held on March 30th.

TO ISSUE BULLETIN

A monthly bulletin will be issued commencing in April, by L. G. Monteith. Monty will be glad of items of interest to put in this bulletin.

All members are requested to bring one new member this year. Len Taylor is working hard on membership and deserves our full co-operation. We are glad Len is back again after his serious illness.

Ed Smith, house chairman, wishes to thank members who brought magazines.

The poppy campaign, according to Everett Liddle, exceeded expectations and established another record. This is a most worthy cause, keeping our disabled comrades working the year round. To the people who put so much time and work into the poppy fund we offer our respectful admiration and to the citizens whose contributions mean so much we join with Everett in grateful thanks.

Scotty Broughton informed the branch that he would announce his retirement as District Commander at the district meeting at Oshawa on May 26th. He also introduced Cecil Chapman, who now is a member of the Belleville branch. When Scotty was president at Brighton in 1946-47, Cecil was secretary and started the bulletin. The hall needed wiring, so Cecil took two weeks vacation and spent it to wire the building. Looks like Brighton's loss is our gain. Scotty praised Branch 99 for their progress and particularly for their good work with young people.

READYING FOR FAIR

Dolf McFadden has named his committees for the annual Trade Fair and has everything in good shape for another big affair.

Sports chairman Clarence Rose reported the Marmora darts' competition. There were two teams from Belleville: Bill Heasman, Frank Bolduc, Bob Tolford, Pat Philip, Don Campoli, Bert Wells, Bob Blair, Norm Hardwick, Lorne Donaldson and Clarence Reed.

Belleville's No. 2 team won the team play followed by Madoc and Marmora. In the doubles, Marmora took 1st and 2nd place and Madoc came third. The singles were won by Mr. Embury of Marmora, Bob Blair of Belleville and Mr. Rice of Madoc respectively.

The president, Bill Heasman, wants you to keep in mind the Vimy Banquet and the Trade Fair, both important to Branch 99.

Disarmament Conference Makes Progress in First Week

LONDON (Reuters) — A five-power disarmament conference here has completed its first week amid signs that more progress will be achieved than in their previous meeting last May.

For one thing, the delegates of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada have succeeded in keeping secret their discussions. This indicates the conference is not just being used for a propaganda platform.

When the talks of the United Nations disarmament sub-committee began last Monday, Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin made public his comprehensive disarmament plan.

But since Tuesday, he has been as close-mouthed as U.S. delegate Harold Stassen, Britain's Alan Noble, France's Jules Moch and Canada's David Johnson.

Most of the discussions have centred on the general principles of reducing the world's nuclear and conventional arms.

Britain hopes the general discussion will end early next week and permit the establishment of separate committees.

In general, East and West are closer than last year. Both the Americans and Russians seek an initial reduction in armed forces to 2,500,000 men each for the United States, Russia and Communist China and 750,000 each for Britain and France.

Russia also wants a ban on nuclear tests.

The United States has proposed a 10-per-cent cut in military budgets and in conventional armaments.

The United States aims at increasing the Middle East's defence capacity with the Eisenhower doctrine and by joining the military committee of the Baghdad Pact.

Mrs. J. E. Pugh, convener of the May Spring Fair, announced that plans were progressing favorably and volunteers were called upon to assist at the bake table and in the tea room. Mrs. Pugh also stated that TV advertising was under the direction of Mrs. MacKinnon.

Following the brief business meeting, members and guests enjoyed a social period, with refreshments served by Mrs. W. C. Harvey and her assistants.

Gilead F.G. Holds Annual Box Social

GILEAD — The Gilead Friendship Guild held its March meeting and annual box social in the school house on March 21.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. George Clare, who offered prayer.

Business was discussed. A letter of thanks from Mrs. Carman Huffman was read, for flowers and cards sent when she was ill in the hospital.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Clarence Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Treverton, on April 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffman took charge, with Mr. Duane Martin reading the Scripture. Mrs. Harold Pound gave an amusing Irish reading. Mrs. George Clare gave a splendid reading and Miss Irma Embury favored with a piano solo.

After the benediction the boxes were auctioned off by Mr. Earl Rose and all enjoyed a social time.

Is Great Britain Still World Power?' Address at U.W. Club

On Thursday evening, the University Women' Club of Belleville and district held its March meeting in the Kiwanis Centre with a large attendance of members and their guests. The vice-president, Mrs. John Hoig, presided and extended a welcome to all guests.

Mrs. Douglas Burr expressed her pleasure in introducing the guest speaker, Mr. Arnold Edinborough. Mr. Edinborough, editor of the Kingston Whig Standard, received his honors degree in English Literature from St. Catharines College, Cambridge. From 1947 to 1953 he was on the staff of the English department at Queen's University. He went back to Europe in 1953 on a research fellowship and on his return to Kingston he assumed his present position. His topic for the evening was a timely one, "Is Great Britain still a world power".

The present position of Britain is much in question in the daily newspapers. The speaker stated that his purpose was to dissipate it and clarify some of the existing ideas on the subject. He reminded his audience that he was speaking as a Canadian and expressing his personal views on the matter.

Mr. Edinborough stated that it was necessary to understand Britain's past contributions as a world power in order to discuss her present position. He further stated to discuss the subject under three phases — political, economic and moral.

CONTRIBUTION

Britain's greatest contribution has been political, for through Great Britain the concept of parliamentary government has evolved. Briefly, the speaker traced this evolution and pointed out that although the colonies broke away from Britain, they carried with them the idea of representative government. Even the United States clings to the system of two houses in its government. A system for which Britain is responsible as she founded the house of Lords and Commons in 1688.

Britain, to has long been known for her economic greatness and is responsible for the theory of capitalism. She is well known for her adventurous trading, by force of which the empire was held together. Britain held an enormous concentration of the world's wealth and British financiers controlled the finances of the world until the end of the 19th century. By the middle of the 20's this economic empire could no longer sustain and the dominions were autonomous by 1932.

Finally from the moral point of view, it is only necessary to say that Britain was responsible for the building of a great commonwealth and her moral greatness is indicated. The speaker having completed his brief picture of Britain's past proceeded to discuss her present - day position.

NEAT BALANCE OF POWER

Mr. Edinborough humorously pointed out that politics may be considered a form of horse trading at a high level, and here Britain is still a master. In the British government there is a neat balance of power between the two parties, the system is able to cope with the strain put upon it. Diplomatically, in comparison to other countries, Britain may blunder, but not to as great extent as do most other nations. The speaker said that he felt that diplomacy can only be successful in a balanced government, centrally controlled and this for example is not possible in a governmental system such as that of the U.S.

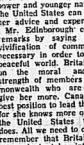
Many people evidently feel that Britain is almost lost economically because of the low value of the pound. This impression is erroneous for the pound was devaluated only once and then it was impossible to do so. The biggest factor in the economic field is still the pounds sterling. This points out that the dollar is not necessarily the dominant factor in the economic system. Britain undoubtedly is in a better position as she is the banker for the sterling area. She must back her special purchase of American dollars and she does not have the resources for this type of banking. In addition, Britain spends more for defence than any other country on a per capita basis. This she can not afford but she can not back out for she feels it is essential to maintain her strength.

MORAL MISTAKES

Mr. Edinborough stated that in his opinion Britain made a mistake morally when she moved into Suez. Regardless of her feelings she should not have made the move without the consent of the United States, and the United Nations. She failed in her aims in Egypt for Nasser and to keep the canal open, for Nasser is still on top and the canal is blocked. In the speaker's opinion, Britain made the same moral mistake with Cyprus.

The speaker went on to say that despite this, Great Britain is still a great power. As to her position in the United Nations, it may be compared to that of an old man who always can run a government most effectively. Britain is an old power and younger nations such as the United States can benefit from her advice and experience.

Mr. Edinborough concluded his remarks by saying that the revivification of commonwealth is necessary in order to arrive at a peaceful world. Britain must rely on the moral and economic strength of members of the commonwealth who are prepared to back the United States than Britain does. All we need to do in order to remember that Britain is a great power is to take into consideration the size of the empire which she founded on which the sun never sets.



Mr. Edinborough graciously consented to answer questions and a lively discussion period dealing with Britain's and Canada's position on foreign policy followed.

Mrs. J. E. McArthur expressed the appreciation of the audience to Mr. Edinborough stating that it was a privilege to hear a topic of this nature handled in such descriptive and colorful English.

A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Haig, the vice-president. The Federation Representative, Mrs. McArthur, stated that nominations for C.F.U.W. executive were open. The club nominated Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon to serve another term as a director of the eastern Ontario region. It was also decided to nominate a member of the Kingston club to a committee position on the C.F.U.W.

Mrs. J. E. Pugh, convener of the May Spring Fair, announced that plans were progressing favorably and volunteers were called upon to assist at the bake table and in the tea room. Mrs. Pugh also stated that TV advertising was under the direction of Mrs. MacKinnon.

Following the brief business meeting, members and guests enjoyed a social period, with refreshments served by Mrs. W. C. Harvey and her assistants.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

FRANKFORD — The W.A. of Frankford United Church was held in the Perkins Room of Rose Lowery Hall, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Morrow played quiet music. Mrs. H. Terry, president of the W.A., opened with an opening hymn, "Thy Rod and Thy Staff, They Comfort Me."

The Scripture reading was taken from the 23rd Psalm and was read in unison. The devotions were based on the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Walter Morrow rendered a vocal solo, "The Lord's Prayer," followed by the secretarial report given by Mrs. S. Osterhout, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. H. Terry in the absence of Mrs. J. Montgomery.

Mrs. Arnold Stickle gave a report on "Our History, Happy Birthday" was sung to several members who celebrated their birthday in March. Roll call showed 20 members and nine visitors and five children present.

The program was as follows: Readings by Mrs. D. Mallory; "St. Patrick's," by Mrs. L. Woodcox; "God's Best," by Mrs. C. D. Powell, and a vocal solo by Mrs. M. Grills, "You May Hear the Voice of Jesus."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Martin and Mrs. W. Morrow.

Vota Vita M.C. Enjoys Slides On Ireland

The March meeting of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church Vota Vita (devoted life) Mission Circle was held recently in the church parlor.

Marjorie Hales led the group in singing. President Joyce Stovell opened the meeting with prayer and extended a warm welcome to the visitors. Irene Girling informed the circle that the White Cross work (sewing of hospital linens) was nearly completed. New books for this year's reading course have arrived and Joan Weigand is again handling the library duties connected with the circulation of these books. Plans are under way to entertain the ladies of the senior circle by taking them out to dinner at the May meeting.

A letter was read by Grace Pearson, corresponding secretary, from Miss Stella Gaverluk asking again for clothing for the New Canadians.

Jean Rigby volunteered to purchase contents, pack and mail a food box to India. A book "Cockle Cove in Angola" is being offered for sale. The author says "it depicts the way in which some people live (the natives of our new mission field) and the transformation wrought in their lives by all-victorious power of redeeming love."

A "Do-It-Yourself" dialogue was acted by Joan Low and Joyce Stovell to promote the sale of "The Link and Visitor," a monthly publication written to keep the Baptist denomination in particular, emphasizing missions.

Arrangements for the remainder of the evening had been made by Helen Hales' group with Grace Pearson conducting. The Scripture consisted of various passages, each stressing the "love thy neighbour" theme, read by Jerry Morrell.

Pauline Dempsey led in a brief worship period and read the "Creed of a Good Neighbor," centering around Leviticus 19:34 — "But the stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt; I am the Lord your God." A poem "What would You do for Jesus if He were Here Today?" was read by Eunice King. It ended with the thought-provoking words, "All you would do for Jesus, will you not do for your neighbor?" Silent prayers were offered.

GIRLS TRIPLE TRIO

It was a pleasure to have a girls Triple Trio visit us from Bernersville school. Dorothy Reilly directed them in the singing of two selections, "The Harp of Erin's Halls," and "Sleep, Baby Sleep." One of the girls, Marsha Dovey, favored with a solo, "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes until the Lord."

Mrs. J. E. Pugh, a prominent social worker in the city, tell of her trip to Ireland last year. Mrs. Pugh's husband was sent to Belfast to oversee the erection, of the aircraft carrier. The girls were happy with her intelligible style of relating incidents, which interest women so much. The small details of housing, schooling, shopping, et cetera. Her description of the various places they toured as the family travelled while stationed in Ireland, was enthralling. Scrapbooks, snapshots and souvenirs enabled all to 'share' the trip.

A Little Bit of Heaven" was sung by Dorothy Reilly.

After the singing of another hymn, Joyce Stovell closed with prayer.

Refreshments, prepared with the thought of keeping in tune with St. Patrick's Day, were served.

MOTHER RELAXES

Mrs. William Munro, 34, who gave birth to quadruplets at Montreal, relaxes in hospital holding a telegram of congratulations. The quads — three girls and a boy — were born two months premature-ly. One of the girls, the first to be born, died. The Munros have five other children. (CP Photo).

MARRIAGE THRIVES ON COURTESY AND CLEANLINESS

Are you pretty in the morning? He'll like a charming little trench coat ever so much better than blue jeans at the table.

THE PROBLEM OF HAVING FRIENDS AND "SR." TO HER NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a serious problem about my name, and I would appreciate your advice. I have one son, who was named after his father. When my son was in his late teens, his father died, and about a year after, my son dropped the "Jr." from his name. When he was in college and in the Service, there was no confusion about our names, nor was there during the several years when I lived in a distant state. But now he is married, and I have returned to live here in this medium-size town where he and his wife live, and there is great confusion in the names, particularly in the delivery of our letters. Lately I have started to use the example "Mrs. John Robinson, Sr." — but I don't seem able to impress this name definitely enough in my friends. They omit the "Sr." and the mailconfusion starts all over again. Any suggestion? M.R

Yes . . . persistence! Your problem is many women have to face, and the only way to deal with it is to "keep on" making it clear about the "Sr." suffix. First, whenever possible, explain the need verbally to your friends, and if they forget to write the "Sr." after your name, graciously but firmly remind them. Perhaps have stickers printed with your name with "Sr." and address, and always attach them to the front or back of the envelopes you mail; or write your return name and address.

Write to all stores where you have charge accounts and type or print Mrs. John Robinson, Sr. Informing them this is the name you wish to have used for your accounts, in the telephone directory list your name: Robinson, Mrs. John, Sr. Use this same method on your general-use letter-paper: Also, in any circumstance when you wish to be doubly sure, I suggest you spell out the suffix: (this with small letter) Mrs. John Robinson, senior." Use the suffix on your visiting-cards or informals. All this persistente ought to solve your problem!

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE FIRM WITH BOTH YOUR HUSBAND AND YOUR GIRL FRIEND

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 and my husband is 22.

My best girl friend, who was my maid of honor, is also 18.

Today she told me that she was very much in love with my husband and that she had been out with him several times until he told her he couldn't go out with her any more because she is getting serious about him and he loves me too much.

Last month when he was home on furlough from the Navy, he went out with her the first night he came home, but I knew about it; in fact, I told him to go out with her because I'm pregnant and was ill that night and couldn't go myself.

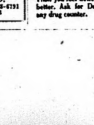
Now she often writes love letters to my husband which he told me about. He also told me there was nothing between them; that when he took her out, they just went to a show and then somewhere to eat and home.

What shall I do about this? My best girl friend and I are like two sisters, and she told me she didn't fall in love with my husband to fall him from me but that she just couldn't help it.

Please tell me what to do, or what to believe, ro I hope you can help me. — V.P.

Dear V.P.:

It's not very clear to me as to when your husband first began to take this girl friend of yours out, nor how often he has done so. Moreover, if the only time you knew about it was the occasion when you suggested it yourself, then it appears that they went out at various other times without your knowledge.



However, since both your husband and the girl have now told you about it, and since your husband has said she means nothing to him despite her feeling for him, then I think it would be a sensible idea to believe him. I do think, though, that you should tell him very definitely that you'll expect him to put an end to taking her out and that it is also up to him to tell her that stop writing him letters or getting in touch with him in any way.

Possibly all the times he took her out were during your pregnancy, when you were not able to go yourself, and while he certainly shouldn't have done so without your knowledge and permission, if you make it quite clear to him that this is never to happen again, it may solve the whole problem.

I think, too, that you should tell your girl friend that unless she can control herself and regard your husband merely as a friend, because you are her friend, it may break up your long-time friendship. Say that you hope she won't make this necessary.

Perhaps the reason she has fallen for your husband is because she doesn't have any boy friend. If so, maybe you can introduce her to some boys who will take her mind off other people's property.

BEDTIME STORY

By VERA WINSTON

No more a fad, but now accepted as a constant fashion, the waist-length nightgown is available at every price level and in many fabrics. Blush pink nylon tricot for this one, ever so pretty with its lace dyed to match. The lace is nicely used on the neckline and geometric banding. The skirt is gathered on elastic at the sides and back with a sash in back only.

As far as I can make out there were no typographical errors but I should have enlarged on the mixing, chilling and rolling techniques. So I hereby do now.

I'm so busy cooking and answering mail that I asked Eleanor to make the cookies again. She did, then phoned and I ran across the street to their house to look at the ingredients in the bowl and feel the ball of dough after she mixed it by spoon, then by hand. She put it in the freezer compartment to chill. I went back home. Thirty minutes later she phoned. I ran back to watch the rolling out process, with a strong assist again from 5-year-old Roddy who, believe it or not, actually knocked himself down in his enthusiasm in getting a portion of the dough!

RODDY'S FAVORITE COOKIES

Repeated (first appearance Jan. 28, 1957). One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 1-4 cups quick-cooking rolled oats, 1-2 cup good quality shortening, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (from 1 while lemon) 1-3 cup plus 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 egg. (Be sure to use measuring cup and measuring spoons —this will not be right if tea cups and silver tea and tablespoons are used as measures.) Sift dry ingredients (except oats); beat egg and oats and egg and remaining ingredients to dry ingredients and mix with spoon, then get your hands into it and mix well and form into a solid mass. Chill until chilled through. Break off half the dough, return remainder to refrigerator-Roll out on lightly floured board until fifteen-sixteenth of an inch thick. Cut with cookie cutter in flour frequently. Dough splits at edges like shortbread dough but persist and be patient, these are worth it. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 deg. Fahr. 10 to 12 minutes. Don't let these burn for they are too precious. Cool on wire rack. Put together with:

DATE FILLING

One and one-quarter cups stoned cut-up dates (well packed), 1 cup water, 1-3 cup brown sugar, juice of 1-2 lemon (my sister Peady prefers these with the lemon omitted in filling). Mix together and boil, then simmer and stir for about 10 minutes. Chill.

This recipe makes 20 double-decker cookies put together with date filling. The cookies stay crisp on both sides of the tangy date filling.

I hope this answers Anne A. R., W. E. H. of Souris, M. B. of Regina and Murial I. G. of Paris.

Nobody's Favorite Cookies Further Details

This time for sure I thought I was in real trouble. I received letters from all over the country on the subject of Roddy's Favorite Cookies (Jan. 28). Most were sweet and kind but puzzled. One was the looking down the nose type, but all of them had me plenty worried for I thought the cookies were foolproof.

ST. PETER'S W.A.

MADOC — The St. Peter's Woman's Missionary Association met at the home of the president, Miss Van Slyke, with 16 present.

A letter was read by the secretary, Mrs. David Blakely, asking for special financial aid to send two more missionaries to the foreign field. A letter from "CARE" was read, telling of its far-reaching work. A $1 contribution will send 22 pounds of food to hungry people, in Korea, India, Jordan, the Gaza Strip, and many other needy countries. This is surplus food, a gift of the United States to CARE. The $1 covers the packing and shipping overseas. The hope is that some day Canadians also will turn over some of their surplus food to CARE.

Mrs. D. Blakely read the Scripture, Malachi 3. A prayer was offered by Mrs. John Bailey. Miss Meslip gave a short talk on "The Victorious Christian Life."

Malaya was the topic for the meeting. Malaya is mostly made up of Malays, Indians and Chinese. It has been called "the melting pot of the races." On August 31, 1957, Malaya is to receive her Independence. Britain has saved her from Communist control.

Tea for Canada Week - March 25th to 30th

Who's For Tea?

Monique Fournier, Miss Canada 1957, was specially designed for the Dominion-wide Tea seen here holding court in the world's largest for Canada Week celebration this year. The giant cup and saucer. This unique cup and saucer, cup holds approximately 1,500 cups of tea. measuring 5 feet in diameter and two feet high.

A Gift of The Gods

No beverage has a more fascinating and interesting history than tea. In the legend-shrouded times of oriental antiquity, tea was referred to as "a gift of the Gods"—but apparently was only available to a few philosophers and princes.

The origin of tea is re-counted in several legends depending upon where they are told. These legends are intriguing in themselves but the story of tea through the ages is no less interesting. Today, we are aware of the fact that tea is a good pick-up — gives a person a lift when most needed. There is nothing new in this idea, however, for over 200 years ago these same attributes of tea were appreciated and understood. Writings in those days indicated that its popularity was largely due to its efficiency against "noxious gases of the body," and as a cure for lethargy. Modern confirmation of this comes from the medical profession who say that tea aids digestion and from sports coaches who assert that it is a good fatigue recovery aid for athletes.

Although tea has long been the favorite drink of people in the Far East, it was only about 400 years ago that it first came to what was then known as the "Western" World. It is said that the first European to write of tea was a Venetian who, although not a traveller himself, discussed travel and experiences with many of the famous voyagers who came to Venice. This man, a Mr. Ramusio, wrote of a Persian merchant who said that if Europe knew about tea, "merchants would cease altogether to buy rhubarb." Apparently in those days rhubarb was a popular health food. From this time on, tea and the therapeutic values claimed for it filtered steadily into Europe —originally through the Dutch merchants who traded with the Far East.

There have, however, been changes in the social status of tea. Originally it was the perogative of the very rich. This no doubt, was due to the premium prices which it fetched. Smuggling was not unknown, even in the most aristocratic quarters. Later however, when tea became more plentiful, it became the drink of the working people. A recent survey taken in England indicates however, the aristocracy have taken to drinking tea to a far greater extent than before the war. This is possibly due to an onset of nerves and uncertainty because of the heavy taxation on land and property.

The first tea drunk in Europe came from China and it wasn't until 1823 that India came into the picture when an English explorer discovered tea plants growing wild in the jungles of northern India. Ten years later a British committee established a plan to start tea culture in that country. After a few years, the Assam Tea Company was founded and the tea industry of India was launched. In May 1838, the first consignment of Indian tea consisting of 8 chests came to Britain. It brought premium prices. By the beginning of the 20th century India was firmly established as a leading exporter of tea. The tea industry of Ceylon had an unusual start. It was one of those cases where the phrase, "it's an ill wind which blows no good" really proved itself. In 1869 a blight destroyed the vast Ceylon coffee plantations. The ruined coffee growers replanted their acres with tea and in a very few years Ceylon quickly became, with India, the largest exporter of tea in the world. These two countries supply most of the tea we drink in Canada.

It's Easy to Make Iced Tea

Iced tea is an ideal thirst quencher and is very easy to prepare. Like hot tea, it can be made equally well in small or large quantities. You simply make a pot of tea in the usual manner, but double strength to allow for the melting ice. After the tea has brewed for five minutes, pour into glasses filled with ice. (Ice cubes from your refrigerator tray serve the purpose admirably). Serve with appetizing wedges of fresh lemon.

THE DRINK OF ETC

According to stories which have filtered through from international sports events, especially the Olympic Games, the indications are that a cup of tea is the most popular drink among the cream of the world's athletes. The Australian, New Zealand and British athletes, of course, would be lost without their "cuppa" and the Canadian Olympiads were regularly seen enjoying a refreshing drink of the "cup that cheers." Other nationalities including the Russians also went for tea in a big way.

Reports indicate that if there was one common denominator among the varying training ideas and theories practised at the Olympic Games it was the value of tea. At the Winter Games held in Cortina, Italy, tea was used before competitions to create body warmth and supply a physical and mental lift. Between the events, tea was used to sustain body heat. Again, after the events had taken place, many athletes called for tea because it hastened their recovery from fatigue.

Tea Leaves As Garden Humus

Left-over tea leaves make excellent humus for your garden. Simply mix equal parts of soil, sand and tea leaves. This mixture, too, is just about perfect as a seed or potting compost.

Placing a handful of wet tea leaves around the base of seedlings and young plants helps protect their delicate root systems and keep them moist. This treatment is particularly helpful in the case of South African violets.

If you are planning a short vacation, there is no need to worry about your potted plants drying out. Place a handful of wet tea leaves around their base and they will have sufficient moisture for days. This has the effect of not only supplying moisture to the plant, but keeps the moisture in the earth from evaporating.

TEA FOR TIRED EYES

Here is a trick used by many top models when they get that itchy tired feeling in their eyes. They place a moist tea bag over each eye for fifteen or twenty minutes. This not only relaxes the eye muscles but banishes the fatigue and leaves their eyes sparkling. Try it yourself.

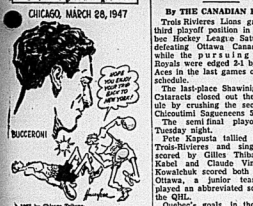
Connie Smythe

Says Armstrong New Captain Meeker, Clancy to Hold Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, president and managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, announced Saturday night that centre George Armstrong will be captain of the National Hockey League team next season.



Smythe told a nationwide radio and television audience between periods of the NHL game here between Detroit Red Wings and Leafs that next week he will recommend to the Leaf board of directors that coach Howie Meeker and assistant general manager King Clancy be rehired for the 1957-58 season.

Smythe said general manager Hap Day has asked until Monday to consider his personal plans for next season. Smythe said he will talk to Day and if the general manager is interested in returning to the team he (Smythe) will decide whether or not to recommend Day to the board.

Armstrong signed his 1957-58 contract earlier Saturday and told Smythe he would give 100 per cent of his time and effort to the Leaf team. Smythe in turn told Armstrong he would be captain and then told the listeners that "Armstrong will probably be the team captain for a long time."

Armstrong, 26-year-old native of Skead, Ont., is in his fifth full season with Toronto. His 18 goals this term are the most he has ever scored in any one campaign. Last year he had 16 goals and 22 assists for 48 points, compared with 44 points this season.

Balding Wins Miami Open

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP)—Most people go to Florida to spend their money. But Al Balding, Toronto golf pro, is one of those rare individuals who usually leaves with more than he took in.

The Canadian PGA champ added $1,200 to his pro circuit earnings Sunday when he struggled through an erratic back nine after a brilliant start to win the $5-hole Miami Beach Open tournament with a seven-under-par 137.

Balding, who shot a 68 on the first 18 holes here, got hot on the outgoing nine Sunday with a brilliant 31, reeling off five birdies with deadly chip shots which required putts of four, eight, two, one and six feet.

At that point he held a six-stroke lead over Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., who had shared the opening-round lead on a 67 with Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.

FALTERS ON LAST NINE

Balding's lead began to melt as he went over par on the 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th holes. With one hole left, he was even with Harbert but managed a birdie four on the 488-yard 18th where Harbert had a par and won by a stroke. Harbert earned $800 for second.

Gerry Kesseling of Kitchener was out of the money with 70-74—144.

Tied for third at 139—receiving $78.50 each—were Marty Furgol, Bob Hamilton, Dick Mayer and Gardner Dickinson, Jr., the defending champion, Hawkins slipped to a 73.

Balding's game seemed on the verge of falling apart when, after birdieing the 12th on a 10-foot putt he fired his approach shot to the 14th 40 feet over the green, then chipped back 50 feet past the cup.

He overshot the 15th, went into a trap on the 17th and was also in trouble on the last hole when he overdrove the green at the Bayshore course by 35 feet. However, he chipped back four feet past the cup and sank it for a birdie four to win.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trois Rivieres Lions gained the third playoff position in the Quebec Hockey League Saturday by defeating Ottawa Canadiens 5-3 while the pursuing Montreal Royals were edged 2-1 by Quebec Aces in the last games of regular schedule.

The last-place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts closed out their schedule by crushing the second-place Chicoutimi Sagueneens 5-1.

The semi-final playoffs start Tuesday night.

Pete Kapusta tallied twice for Trois-Rivieres and singles were scored by Gilles Thibault, Bob Kabel and Claude Vinet. John Kowalchuk scored both goals for Ottawa, a junior team which played an abbreviated schedule in the QHL.

Quebec's goals, in their rough-and-tumble game at Montreal, were scored by Stan Maxwell and Marcel Bonin. John Soychak narrowed the margin in the third period.

Erwin Grosse starred for Shawinigan Falls in their victory over Chicoutimi by providing three goals and two assists. Dick Bouchard added the Cataracts' other two tallies.

The Chicoutimi goal was scored by Marius Groleau.

The semi-final playoffs begin Tuesday night with Trois-Rivieres playing at Quebec City and Montreal at Chicoutimi.

Hail Tigers as Yank Threat But Holes Have to Be Patched

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Around the Detroit camp there is talk that this is the best Tiger team since the war. Around the rest of the American League there is a suspicion that Tigers may be the only club with a real chance to upset New York Yankees.

With a few minor changes, this is the same ball club that finished fifth 17 games back, under Bucky Harris last September. Now the same players, plus some rookies and men like Jim Finigan and Ed Mathinson, are being hailed as a second place team without ever playing a game for Jack Tighe, their freshman manager.

It might be well for Tiger fans to temper their enthusiasm with the sobering thought that first base and third base still are question marks and the catching is only fair. Although the Detroit club did play better ball than the Yankees in the last half of the season they still finished on the second division. Still, they were the only club to take the season series from New York, 12-10.

"I'm not predicting a pennant," manager Tighe said. "Everybody else is doing that in the newspapers. But I know we're going to have a little fun."

ONE TWO PUNCH

Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn provide the solid batting punch that gave Tigers a team average of .279, best in the league by nine points.

Tighe loves to talk about his pitching staff, especially the 1-2-3 punch of Billy Hoeft (16-14), Frank Lary (21-13) and Paul Foytack (15-13).

"Our trouble last year was that after the first three men, the top winner was Steve Gromek with only eight," said Tighe. "Somebody has to win more than eight this year from the staff we have."

Lary, who won 17 of his last 20 and worked the fifteenth the top winner in the league. Hoeft, long a lefty with great promise, finally hit the 20-win circle. Foytack, a strikeout whiz who once fanned 15 and lost the game, came with a rush.

Tighe has been making a "grand experiment" this spring, shifting veteran Ray Boone (.308) from third to first base. It all depends on the play of the third base candidates, Jim Finigan (.216 at Kansas City) and Reno Bertoia (.289 at Charleston).

BOLLING SET

Kuenn (.332) at short and Frank Bolling (.281) at second are set. Jack Dittner (.265 at Milwaukee) and Ron Samford (.271 at Charleston) will be the reserves.

Kaline (.316) has been troubled by a sore arm, as usual, in the spring. The right fielder hit 27 homers and had 128 runs batted in, last season. Charley Maxwell (.326) is set in left with either Bill Tuttle (.233) or 20-year-old Jim Small (.319), a bonus player of great promise, in centre. J. W. Porter (.095), Bob Kennedy (.221) and Mel Clark, ex-Pill on the Charleston roster, are fighting for the extra jobs.

The catching is just fair with Frank House (.240), Red Wilson (.269) and possibly Charles Lau (.258 at Charleston).

Summing up, Tigers have a solid punch, good first line pitching and a questionable infield defence.

ALL OVER!

The McFarlands passed out of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey picture in Wallby Saturday night, but they went down with all guns firing and their colors flying. For two periods it looked as if the Macs would pull a victory out of the fourth clash between them and the smooth-working Wallby Dunlops, but as on the three previous occasions, the vaunted power of the new champions again asserted itself in the third chukker and they put the coup-de-grace on the Goldoiln-lad crew.

For the first two periods the Macs rammed home a lone goal and then in one of their most sensational defensive displays of the season hurled back the fast-charging Wallby attackers in individual and collective attempts to tie the count.

Gordie Bell, the Macs goalie who played sparkling hockey in both the Cornwall semi-finals and the series with Wallby, never looked better than on Saturday night. His net wizardry was a sensation especially in the first two frames and how he held out the barrage of Wallby rubber will cause noggin-scratching wherever hockey is talked about. The Macs attack was again thrown "out-of-kilter" through forced juggling of lines, and it was this that eventually led to ultimate defeat.

Moe Benoit, who has played the entire series on sheer guts and a frozen leg due to a serious slash on a foot, was finally forced to retire from the game and Coach Guidolin had to move back to the defence to aid Floyd Crawford and Lionel Bottey. Both these defencemen played terrific heartbreaking hockey but they could not hold the fort alone. Davy Jones was unable to make the trip, and that did not help matters.

However in defeating the McFarlands in four straight games to win the group title for the first time in senior "A" history in Eastern Ontario, the Dunlops proved they are of championship calibre.

Just how they will stack up against the western Ontario division champions will be proven this week when they tangle with the Kitchener Dutchmen who eliminated the Windsor Bulldogs over the weekend.

The Dutchmen are proven veterans of many a senior "A" campaign but the Dunlops have a chance to write hockey history. It will definitely be one for the record should the "upstart" Easterners take the measure of the Dutchies and go on to battle the northern champions.

Pre-playoffs records do not mean a thing when the chips are down and it might be interesting to recall that the Dunlops were the highest scoring senior "A" club in the province, with their ace sniper Bobby Attersley topping all scorers during the schedule play. Attersley scored 103 points, just six short of the Ontario record of 111 held by Mickey Roth of the Stratford Indians.

It has been said that the Whitby Dunlops manager Wren Blair has lofty ambitions for his first venture into senior "A" hockey ranks and it has been loudly whispered, especially around Whitby that he has Allan Cup ambitions. Whew! He made no bones at the first of the season about going all-out to secure a prop championship and his acquisition of Long John Henderson from the pro ranks, and Ted O'Connor and Bob Armstrong from the Windsor Bulldogs roster backed up his early season statements. Henderson and O'Connor were definitely two of the big reasons why the Dunlops won the eastern title and they will play a big part in the upcoming series with the western Ontario champs.

The Dunlops boast one of the best defences in the eastern group with Sinden, Trees, McBeth and O'Connor backed by lengthy Jonathan, but it must be remembered the Windsor Bulldogs had the best rearguard in the western group and the high-flying Dutchies punctured it full of holes on two or three occasions. However, it's a "new league" and the eyes of the province's senior "A" hockey will be centred on this series.

Gordie, Ted Hit Scoring Spree To Leave Beliveau in Third; Jacques' Shutout Beats Hall

By KENNEDY WELLS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gordie Howe . . . Jacques Plante . . . Detroit Red Wings . . . those are the names that the 1956-57 National Hockey League schedule will be remembered by.

Wings put their name in the record book last week when they won their eighth NHL title in nine years, but Howe and Plante were forced to their peaks in weekend games before their places were assured.

Howe, Wings' superlative right winger, pulled out all the stops Saturday night against Toronto Maple Leafs as he staved off a late season drive by Montreal's Jean Beliveau to cop his ninth himself of his fifth NHL scoring championship.

SECOND IN HISTORY

Gordie scored two goals and assisted on one other Saturday and added two more assists Sunday against Leafs to finish with 41 goals and 45 assists for 89 points—the second-highest total in history.

Plante went into the Canadiens' game with Chicago Black Hawks Saturday two goals down to Detroit's Glenn Hall in their race for the Vezina Trophy. He proceeded to shut Hawks out as Canadiens won 3-0 while Hall was allowing three in Detroit's 5-3 victory over Leafs.

Beliveau, only a point behind Howe before the games, was held to an assist Saturday as he dropped to third place in the final standings as Bentley went on a bit of a spree himself, scoring twice and getting two assists to finish with 39 goals and 55 assists, a point ahead of Beliveau.

Canadiens' victory Saturday assured them of second place as Boston finished fourth and Leafs fourth place. New York Rangers finished fifth, Chicago Hawks third, two points back of Montreal.

Sunday, while Wings were beating Toronto 4-1 in Detroit, New York and Chicago played to a 4-4 tie in New York.

Howe's sparkling play Saturday brought cries of astonishment from 12,940 Toronto fans and moved Jack Adams, Detroit general manager, to say: "He's never played better—this is what he can do any time he wants."

The 27-year-old scored once in the second period and again in the third. Bill Dineen, Lindsay and Metro Prystai got the others for Detroit. It was the 150th goal of Prystai's 10-year NHL career.

Barry Cullen scored after 30 seconds of the first to give Toronto a 1-0 lead on the first shot of the game but Detroit ahead Tim Horton tied it in the second and Dick Duff's 20th goal of the season put them ahead 3-2 early in the third period.

Then Detroit scored three consecutive goals.

Sunday Leafs went ahead again 1-0 in the first period as Junior Peter Frank Mahovlich, up for three games with Leafs, scored his first NHL goal.

Then Detroit scored twice in the second and twice in the third to end their scoreless streak in front of Montreal. Dineen, Marty Pavelich, Bill Dea and Lindsay, big 30th—were the Detroit marksmen.

Lindsay scored his at 3:27 of the third and left the ice immediately after to rest until the playoffs. He and Howe—who was presented with the team's most valuable player award—divide $1,500 between them as a result of their one-two standing in the scoring race.

Though Plante's shut out won him the Vezina and $1,000 Saturday the evening's goal tending honors all went to Hawks' Al Rollins. The lanky goaltender put on an incredible display, stopping 50 shots as Habs poured on the goals.

It was the highest number of shots fired at a single goalie in a single game this season.

Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion, Dickie Moore and Maurice Richard scored—one in each period —for Montreal. It was Boom-Boom's 30th as an injury-ridden season and the great Richard's 323rd, to make his lifetime total 493, seven away from the 500-mark he will undoubtedly pass next season.

Rangers continued to hold a spell over Boston Saturday as they won their eighth in 14 games this season with Brains. They are the only team to have a winning margin against Bruins over the schedule. New York scored two in the first, one in the second and third—Andy Bathgate, Andy Bathgate and Danny Lewicki with two. It was Hebenton's 21st, Bathgate's 27th and Lewicki's 17th and 18th. Vic Stasiuk scored his 23rd and 24th for Boston. Their totals were the lifetime highs for Bathgate and Stasiuk.

Sunday New York needed a three - goal third period to tie Hawks who burst out with four in the second after a scoreless opening period.

For Chicago it was John Wilson, John McIntyre, Eddie Kachur and Eddie Litzenberger—his 32nd the highest any Black Hawk player has gone since Doug Bentley scored 33 in the 1942-43 season.

Guy Gendron, Dave Creighton, Dean Prentice and Gerry Ehman scored for New York. Foley's at 17:43 gave them the 5-4 victory. The playoffs begin Tuesday in Detroit and New York. Rangers face Montreal, the Bruins are against the Wings.

Reds' Player Arrested After Ice Brawl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Providence Reds player was arrested on an assault charge, Cleveland Barons' Gerry Ehman place and one of its players won an American Hockey League scoring crown as the regular schedule wound up on a spirited note during the weekend.

At Springfield, Mass., the last-place Indians finished with their first home-ice victory of the season over the league-leading Reds with an 11-4 romp Saturday night.

However, the result was overshadowed by a near riot and the arrest of Jim Bartlett, 24-year-old Reds' left-winger from Sherbrooke, Que., on an assault charge after he allegedly hit Richard Van Orman, 28, a Springfield fan, several times on the head, face and back with his stick.

Van Orman was taken to hospital for treatment and released after six stitches were taken in his scalp. Bartlett said Van Orman hit him first after he had passed the fan's front-row seat. was released on $500 bail. He said he intended to bring a countercharge of assault against Van Orman.

Police were called after the incident, fans threw eggs and other objects at the players on the ice, but order was finally restored. Reds' defence team's bus and smashed windows in the dressing and locker rooms. The police provided an escort for the Reds' bus as it was pursued by about a dozen carloads of angry fans.

Fred Glover, general manager of Toronto born right-winger, picked up two goals and three assists to finish the season with 99 points—42 goals and 57 assists — for the league scoring title.

Cleveland whipped the fourth-place Hershey Bears in Sunday night after blasting the fifth-place Buffalo Bisons Saturday to beat out Rochester Americans for second place.

WIN BIDDY BALL

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J (AP)—New Orleans staved off a second-half drive by defending champion Atlantic City Saturday to win the sixth annual international Biddy basketball tournament 45-42. The four-day tournament attracted 14 teams, including one from Kingston.

Red Wings Win Bantam Title in Minor Windup

The Red Wings captured the bantam minor hockey championship at Memorial Gardens Saturday morning by tying the Canadiens 4-4 in the second game of their goals-to-count series.

Wings take the title on the strength of their previous 5-3 victory, thus winning the round 9-7.

The Canadiens had at least half of the play Saturday and at one point held a 3-1 lead in the game to tie the series at six goals a side. The Wings fought back however to maintain their two-goal margin.

Doug Dafoe scored the game's tallest goal for the Wings. Pete Weston, John Graham and Sonny McGrimmon then tallied for the Canadiens to knot the round. Ted Hock scored a pair for the Wings but McGrimmon cut the margin with his second Hsh tally. Dafoe's final marker closed out the scoring.

Ted Hock's two goals and one assist topped the Wings' point-getter while Doug Dafoe fired the other two markers, Gravston Scott earned a brace of assists and Terry McCabe one.

Sonny McGrimmon led the Canadien attack with two goals and one helper while Peter Weston had a goal and two assists. John Graham also scored while Jim Hall and Bradley Lee picked up assists.

This completes the minor hockey loop for the season.

The Red Wings won the squirt and bantam titles, Canadiens the peewee crown and Team Five the midget championship.

Tiger Jones Meets King Tonight

NEW YORK (CP)—Three boxing bouts featuring Vern Savoie are on the docket for this week in three cities.

Tiger Darrelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B, Canadian light heavyweight champion, meets Brooklyn's Angelo DeFendis, who has been on a winning streak, in New York's 8th Avenue Arena Monday night.

DeFredis, trying for his seventh straight victory, is favored to beat Durelle, whose record is 36-15-2, including 15 knockouts.

Savoie, who is in mid - season meets Davey Walden, Houston, Texas, welterweight in Eastwick Hall Tuesday night.

Ralph (Tiger) Jones, third ranking middleweight from Yonkers, N.Y., journeys to Toronto to meet Gerry Hamilton of Brooklyn with Arthur King, Toronto welterweight, in the main event. Jones is a fight contender not so long ago. He'll be conceding eight to 10 pounds to the 150-pound Hamilton.

Jones has a record of 40 wins and three draws in his 62 staffs, including one over Sugar Ray Robinson, and has never been knocked out. He is a former British Empire lightweight champion.

In the co-feature heavyweight bout, George Chuvalo of Toronto meets Jim Grahan of Buffalo.

TORONTO TAKES SARNIA

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto McMurrich defeated Sarnia YMCA 81-56 Sunday in the first game of a two-game total-point series to decide the Ontario juvenile basketball champions. Coben led Toronto with 32 points, backed up by E. Cuban's 22 point effort. B. Langden collected 26 points for Sarnia.

Italian Car Wins Grand Prix; One Driver Dead

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Juan Fangio, the "Little Tiger" from Argentina zoomed his Italian Maserati to an easy 20-mile victory Sunday in the 12-hour Grand Prix of Endurance.

The race was marred by the fiery death in the six-year history of the event, Bob Goldich, a 33-year-old Chicago pilot, lost control of his car on the 17th lap, flicked turns and was injured fatally.

Others in the race belonged to Fangio, the 46-year-old racing master and his Maserati teammates, Sterling Moss of England, who flashed over the finish line second in this most gruelling of North American sports car races.

Two Toronto drivers, Ed Leavens and Al Millar, driving a much smaller MG, placed 21st.

HIT VICTORY

It was a tremendous victory for Maserati over the Ferrari factory of Italy, which has won the 1956 world championship and taken the lead in this year's competition by winning the 1,000-mile Grand Prix in Buenos Aires, first of seven races on the world calendar.

Fangio and his co-driver, Jean Behra of France, broke all speed records on the brutal Sebring sports car test.

Spurred by the American Chevrolet company to challenge the European cars, Goldich set out for the first time on a Grand Prix race course ended in failure.

A last - minute mechanical experimental Corvette built by Chevrolet let in a new hour, which he set Sebring, broke down once on the course, stopped twice in its pit for refueling and tire and burned parts and finally was withdrawn by Vancouver Monday at the start.

Fangio broke two records—total mileage and average speed. Until he hit the 1,000 mile total mileage mark was 1,008.8 and 84.07 miles an hour, which he set last year with Eugenio Castellotti of Italy in the winning Ferrari.

Dutchies Down Windsor 5-4 Meet Whitby in Senior Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It will be Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Whitby Dunlops both high-scoring teams, in the finals for the senior A championship of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Dutchies won OHA western division honors Saturday by downing Windsor Bulldogs 5-4 to win the best-of-seven series 4-1. One game was tied.

Dunlops rallied for four goals in the last period to defeat Belleville McFarlands 4-1 and win their best-of-seven eastern division set in straight games.

Whitby won the regular season championship in the eastern division. Dutchmen were second to Bulldogs in the western section.

PORKIES WIN

South Porcupine Porkies won the championship of the Porcupine Mines Senior League, dumping Timmins Flyers 8-3 to win the series 4-2, with one game tied. Porkies will meet the Sudbury Wolves-North Bay Trappers winner in the N. and S. Ontario southern group.

Wolves and Trappers played a Wolves and Trappers played a 3-3 tie in that best-of-seven series Saturday, leaving North Bay with a 1-0 lead. The next game will be played tonight at North Bay, with the fourth at Sudbury Wednesday.

At Kitchener, Dutchies built up a 5-2 lead, then held on as Bulldogs rattled in two goals late in the third period.

Guelph Bowler Wins Title

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Williams of Guelph Saturday night won the Eastern Canada men's singles bowling championships, last year's champion in the week-long roll-off at the Sportsmen's Show, Williams, a 24-year-old ex-pin boy, edged out 16-year veteran Lodge Nazwaski of Thorold by 99 pins, posting a 10-game total of 2,582. Nazwaski had Williams 2,573 to 1,196 after the first five-game block, but a 371 sixth game put Williams in the lead to stay.

Whitby Defeats McFarlands 4-1 To Win First Eastern Senior A Title

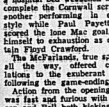
Gordie Bell Is Magnificent In Last Game of Lost Cause; Dunnies Win in Third Period

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville's first year of senior "A" hockey came to an end in Whitby on Saturday night when an injury-riddled McFarland crew bowed 4-1 to the powerful Whitby Dunlops in by far the best game of the series.

Were Blair's Dunnies are OHA Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey champions by virtue of their four-game triumph over the Mc-Farlands, an aggregation that doesn't know the meaning of "quit." Whitby will meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Western group for the OHA senior crown.

While Whitby captured the group championship, the McFarlands sprinkled themselves with glory, even in the Whitby fans, with their never-say-die effort. They scored the only goal of the first period, hung on during a terrific Whitby siege in the second, and battled just as gamely when the winners finally broke through for all of their goals in the third.



The entire Belleville team gave its best but the outstanding man on the ice for either team was Gordie Bell. The ex-NHL custodian put on one of the most magnificent displays of net-minding for ten minutes in the second period that this reporter has ever witnessed.

But Bell was not the only man in a Belleville uniform by far. Coach Dave Guiddon, playing with a shoulder injury that would have sidelined most, Moe Benoit, who played the entire series with his ankle frozen until finally forced to leave the game late Saturday night and Boko Bobenie, who also took part in every game while suffering pain from a groin injury, gave all they had.

Lionel Bolger, who came from a hospital bed weakened by flu to complete the Dunnies' scoring, was another performing in excellent style while Floyd Crawford, who scored the lone Mac goal, played himself to exhaustion as did Captain Floyd Crawford.

The McFarlands, true sportsmen all the way, offered explanations to the exuberant Dunlops following the game-ending buzzer. Action in the opening whistle was fast and furious with Hender-son and Bell both getting sad labelled drives. Sandy Air had a clean breakaway early but Gordie rose to the occasion while the Muretich and Payette lines tested "Long" John with more than one hot drive.

The teams were playing five aside when the McFarlands opened the scoring at 9.33 on a beautiful three-man effort. Crawford fed Minnie Menard the disc at centre ice and Minnie stickhandled his way through the defenders to the goalmouth. Crawford came up with a brilliant save but Payette, training Menard, pounced on the loose rebound and fired it by the sprawling goalie.

GORDIE BELL

Both pilots continued to play great hockey and on one occasion Bell was obliged to tie the ice by his "Punchy" Gagnon when clearing a puck to the corner of his net. No penalty was given.

The losers missed a pair of good chances to widen their lead. A pass up centre ice skipped over Bobenie's stick when the big wing-er was in the clear while another time Minnie Menard raced in alone on goal and shot wide of the net.

Belleville drew four of the six penalties in the first period. A holding sentence to Willie Menard at 18.25 and one to St. Hilaire for cross checking at 1923 left the Mac two man short for part of first and second periods. Bell kicked out three with "goal" written in red ink.

While Bell was great for the entire sixty minutes, his ten - minute stint of work in the second was beyond description. Beginning at the ten minute mark Whitby kept the rubber in the Belleville zone for the remainder of the period. While no official count was kept of shots on goal, Gordie booted out at least twenty during the rest of the period and the figure must have reached 50 by the game's end.

The Dunlops shot from all angles, on his doorstep, through masses of players, long shots and short ones and at other times tried to carry the puck behind him but still Bell held on, getting a toe or glove on some, batting others away with the stick, blocking with every inch of his body. He Hildebrand drew the only penalty of the period for high sticking during the siege but the Dunnies were held off the score sheet.

FLOYD CRAWFORD
. . . Workhorse

As fate would have it, Whitby broke the spell while playing a man short at 2.25 of the third. Gagnon was off for elbowing and the Macs were trying to organize a power play in their own end. Guiddolin, in one of the defence spots, attempted to pass across ice, Frank Bonello intercepted and walked in alone to tie the score.

The win - hungry Dunnies continued the attack on the tiring Belleville squad and the Bonello line struck again. Sandy Air took a corner passout standing alone in front of Bell, waited, and rattled the disc high in the corner for a 3-1 lead. The big Whitby crowd roared and the Dunlops, sensing victory, never slacked.

Benoit was forced to leave the game and Guiddolin used forwards to rest the Bentley - Crawford defence. Bonello and Air got behind the defence for a two-pip breakaway, Air scoring for a 3-1 lead while Bell still booted out more than his share of shots.

The McFarlands just lacked the reserve punch strength of the Dunlops and Fred Etcher closed the scoring at the 15.00 mark. Eddie Redmond was thumbed for high sticking at 16.57 and Belleville carried the play in a last ditch effort only to find Henderson in top form. The losers fought to the final whistle.

The Bonello - Air - Armstrong line accounted for three Whitby goals. Frank Bonello earned the first star with two goals and one assist, Sandy Air the second with a goal and one helper while Jack Armstrong collected a single. Fred Etcher also scored with Gord Myles and Tom O'Connor assisting. The Whitby press voted Bell the third star. He deserved first.

Only two fights were part of the game's eleven minor penalties.

Canuck Teen-Ager Steals Spotlight From US Stars

HAMILTON (CP) — Pettie Gil Bastian, a 15-year-old Montreal schoolgirl, stole the limelight from the United States stars in the Canadian indoor track championships here Saturday.

The four-foot, 10-inch student won the semi-finals of the 60-yard dash for girls under 16 in a record 6.3 seconds and the final in 7.1.

She shared her record-breaking triumph with the University of Toronto's mile-relay team and Lou Scholes of Toronto.

The relay team set a meet record, clocking a time of 3:31.6, against a previous mark of 3:32, while running against Alfred Lindley and Buffalo State Teachers.

Irons, of Toronto's Olympic Club ran a 4:22.5 mile for boys of 18 and under. The previous best time was 4:22.7.

AMERICANS TOPS

But the highlight of the evening went to the Americans.

Arnie Sowell, of Pittsburgh, holder of the world's 1,000 yards indoor record collected his 21st straight victory this winter by defeating Harry Bright of New York's Knickerbocker Club in the only seven-tenths of a second behind the Canadian record posted in 1934.

Irving Petross of Wayne University, Detroit, was just beaten in the final of the open 60, after winning his event in 6.3 seconds. The winner, Dick Williams of the Pioneer Club, went ahead only a step from the tape.

An impressive feature was a 60-yard hurdles exhibition by Olympic decathlon champion Milt Campbell. Campbell beat Steve Dornbach of Notre Dame and Pittsburgh's Paul Thrash in 7.6 seconds.

Teepees Wallop Marlies 4-2 To Enter Junior A Finals

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Rudy Pilous was all for sending Matt Ravlich away from the St. Catharines Teepees' hockey camp last fall but now he is Ravlich's strongest supporter.

Ravlich scored the two goals Sunday night which vaulted Teepees into the Ontario Hockey Association junior A finals at St. Catharines pulled the upset of the season, defeating Toronto Marlboros 4-2 to win the best-of-five semi-finals 3-2.

Teepees, given little chance to knock the defending Memorial Cup winners out of their quest for a third straight Canadian junior title, are scheduled to open the best-of-seven finals against the Guelph against the Biltmores.

Second game of the scheduled for St. Catharines Thursday and the third at Guelph Saturday. Further dates will be announced later.

"I wasn't even going to invite Ravlich to camp last fall," Pilous said after the game. "Last season he got in too many fights and we couldn't afford the penalties he took. But we needed all the players we could get so I decided to give the kid another chance.

"I told him if I caught him in one more fight he would be sent home. Since then, he has sold himself back to the hometown fans by skating away from fights and I'm mighty proud of it."

Ravlich, 19-year-old native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was switched from centre to left wing three games before the end of the regular OHA junior A schedule.

"We didn't want to ruin his chances of playing in the National Hockey League and I think that as a forward he has a better opportunity," Pilous explained.

Playing on a line with centre Ed Hockstra and right winger John McKenzie, Ravlich has produced six goals in eight playoff games. He had seven goals in 33 games during the regular season.

The line was responsible for the four goals against Marlboros, who took a 2-0 lead by the 30-second mark of the second period but couldn't hold Teepees or beat their goaltender, Roy Edwards, after that.

Hockstra and Bob Hull scored Teepees' first two goals in the second while Ravlich scored what proved to be the winner and the fourth, which relieved the pressure, in the third period. He set up the first two goals.

Edwards played a sensational game the winners, limiting Marlboros to 26 in the last two periods. Len Broderick stopped 24 Teepee drives.

Letter To The Sports Editor

Appreciation

I read your Thursday's column in which you chose those "poet-game pip squeaks". I think you made a good point with your story of Leo Durocher. I wonder how these people would feel if the McFarlands should tell people how to do their work.

I have attended all but five games this year and saw not a few on the road. In not one game have I seen anything that the players should feel ashamed of although they did going at the case may be. I realize some things have happened, but a man does these things when he is hot under the collar and he regrets them later.

As for the losses, I feel that criticism is undeserved. After all, they had to go from a losing Senior "B" to a winning Senior "A" club. It seems to me we have done this, although it is regretful that we will win the championship. Drury Deeges and the persons responsible for procuring the players deserve a pat on the back. May they keep up the good work.

I hope the players can forget the fans who have been there in the rough time and remember those who tried to make Belleville a place in which to play hockey. May they all come back.

As Coolidge once said: "It matters not that you won or lost but how you played the game", as far as I can see, every player has given one hundred per cent while on the ice. No one can do more than that?

Bardstown Wins Gulfstream Race Needles Third

NEW YORK (CP) — Calumet Farm's Bardstown sped to a one-length victory in the $126,000 Gulfstream Park handicap at Hallandale, Fla., Saturday.

Although carrying high weight of 130 pounds, Bardstown ran the 1⅛ miles in the excellent time of 2:00 2-5. His stablemate Fallux was second and Needles, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year, was third in the field of seven.

At Bowie, Md., Promised Land, a Kentucky Derby hopeful owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, won the $30,000-added Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie track, a neck in front of Mister Five, owned by John D. Applehorn of Toronto.

Promised Land came out of the pack in the seven-furlong event to take the lead and fight off Mister Five's challenge. Nah Hiss was third.

Fans Brawl In Minor Game

STOUFFVILLE (CP) — Fans battled each other on the ice late here Saturday, delaying for 20 minutes the finish of an Ontario Hockey Association Junior Inter-'B' playoff between Norwich and Stouffville.

The brawl broke out with 22 seconds left when a spectator who grabbed Stouffville captain Ken Hospes' stick was pulled onto the ice when Graham attempted to retrieve the stick.

Another fan followed to mix it up with the spectator and a dozen seconds several others spilled over the boards and the fight was on. By the time police had cleared the rink, several fans needed first aid, one man was cut on the dressing rooms and at nearby doctors' offices.

The game ended in a 5-5 tie, but Norwich took the total-point series 9-7.

Hearn, Jeffcoat Have Trouble Getting Arms in Condition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While it's too early to count them out of the picture entirely indications today were that veterans pitchers Jim Hearn of Philadelphia Phillies and Hal Jeffcoat of Cincinnati Redlegs are having trouble getting their arms in condition.

Hearn is 38 and has been kicking around the big-leagues for a long time. Jeffcoat is 32. When pitchers reach their ages, managers want them to produce or they begin looking around for youngsters to fill the gap.

Both were assigned starting roles in exhibition games Sunday and neither came through.

Hearn was clubbed for five runs by Pittsburgh Pirates before he was taken out in the sixth inning at Ft. Myers, Fla. As it turned out, Bob Miller, his relief, didn't allow a run in the rest of the way and the Pirates won 5-3.

JEFFCOAT WORSE

Jeffcoat's ineffectiveness against Chicago White Sox in Tampa, Fla., was even more pronounced. The Pale Hose slashed 11 hits off Jeffcoat en route to an 8-1 victory. Jeffcoat did help save his team from a shutout when he singled in the third and scored on a double by Don Hurst.

Jeffcoat had an 8-2 record last year, mostly in relief, while Hearn's mark was 5-11.

While Phillies and Redlegs were having their troubles, Cleveland Indians finally appeared to have snapped out of a slump that was beginning to worry rookie manager Kerby Farrell.

After losing five games in a row, the Tribe whipped New York Giants 4-3 in Los Angeles with ace Herb Score yielding just two hits in five innings. Furthermore, relief pitcher Don Mossi put out fire in the ninth and muscular Vic Wertz slammed a three - run homer.

Yanks, meanwhile, suffered a jolt at Miami when their triple crown winner Mickey Mantle, stepped in a hole in the outfield while warming up before a game with Brooklyn Dodgers and severely strained a ligament.

Mantle will be out of uniform at least a week.

BIG BATS BOOM

But his injury didn't silence the Yank bats. The Bombers crushed out 16 hits against four Brooklyn pitchers and coasted to a 14-6 victory. Yogi Berra had four hits and sent home five runs.

Two shutouts were turned in during the day's proceedings. Tom Morgan and Tom Sturman, a couple of Yank castoffs, combined to whitewash Washington Senators 4-0 for Kansas City Athletics at West Palm Beach, Fla. They held the Nats to one hit—a single by Eddie Yost off Morgan.

Sam Jones, Willard Schmidt and Hoyt Wilhelm hung up Milwaukee Braves for St. Louis Cardinals 10-0 at St. Petersburg. Jones went the first seven innings, the longest stretch of the spring for a St. Louis pitcher.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs capitalized on three errors to turn back Baltimore Orioles 8-2, at Ft. Myers, Fla.; Boston Red Sox turned back San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League in San Francisco 5-4, and Detroit Tigers trailed Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League 13-3 in Lakeland, Fla.

WAY TO THEIR HEARTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C Lions will serve buffet suppers in a special room at Empire Stadium to the players and their wives and girl friends after every home game in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season.

Something along the same lines may be arranged after road games as well.

"But nothing quite as fancy," said general manager Herb Capozzi. "Those prairie cities never were any good at shakes and creating crepe suzettes or pate de foi gras."

Capozzi also announced that every Canadian player with Lions will get a raise this year. He didn't say how much.

Training Camp Notes

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Baltimore Orioles, who have patiently plodded along with shopworn material, may come up this season with a bright, fresh star, 19-year-old third baseman Brooks Robinson unquestionably has soon.

Stolen the show in Orioles' spring training camp as a kid destined for big league greatness.

His fielding right now measures up to major league standards.

All this lad has to do to win the Oriole third base job from one of the game's best, George Kell, is to keep up his present batting form. He is batting .348 with 15 hits in 43 trips and has driven across six runs.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP —With opening day a few weeks away, Cincinnati Redlegs manager Birdie Tebbetts says he doesn't yet know who to pick for the team's vacant third base job—Ted or Alex Grammas.

"Both have looked great, not only at third base, but also at short and second, too," Tebbetts said Sunday. "Looks like I'll have to wait until the very end of the exhibition schedule before naming my man."

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Jack Tighe is hopeful his Detroit Tigers have finally found their batting eyes after they pounded out 16 hits in Sunday's 15-3 rout of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. The Tigers trailed 2-0 before Ray Boone got a grand-slam homer in the bottom of the first inning to start the Tigers on their biggest hitting spree of the exhibition season.

LOS ANGELES (CP) — In his most drastic action against a player since becoming manager of New York Giants last year, Bill Rigney has fined outfielder Hank Thompson $150 for missing an exhibition game.

Thompson was fined for failing to appear in San Diego where the Giants defeated Cleveland Indians 8-4 Friday. The disciplinary levy was disclosed Saturday.

Indian Boys End Long Walk

HAMILTON (CP)—Two small Indian boys' 19-mile walk ended Sunday night at the city police station.

The youngsters, aged nine and 11, left the Mohawk Indian home in Brantford in the morning filled with springtime wanderlust. In Hamilton they were befriended by a man who met them in the street. He took them to his home, gave them a meal and called police.

For two hours the pair regaled detectives with the story of the expedition, before their guardians arrived to take them home.

Industrial Hockey League

Ostechout Shells evened their final series for the Industrial League championship over the weekend by whipping National Steel Midgets 4-1.

The two-of-three affair is now tied at one win per team with another fixture ending in a deadlock. The fourth and deciding game is scheduled for Memorial Arena Tuesday night at 7.00 p.m.

Bill Vesterfelt personally looked after the winners' scoring, bagging all four goals. The Shells carried the play and never gave the National crew a chance to get organized.

Buckey Ebner tallied the lone National marker.

SEARCH FOR LOG

PARIS (Reuters)—An advertisement appeared Friday in a French evening newspaper seeking a log book lost by Charles E. Lindberg after his first transatlantic flight 30 years ago. The ad, placed by an admirer of Lindberg, said the log contained a minute-by-minute account of his flight in the Spirit of St. Louis. It was lost, the ad said, when Lindberg was mobbed by 200,000 persons on landing at Paris on May 21, 1927.

Presley Pulls Toy Pistol on Irate Marine

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A janky young U.S Marine says he doesn't plan to file a complaint with police although Elvis Presley pulled a "pistol" on him.

But Pfc. Hershel Nixon, 18, says he feels the Presley 'n' roll singer owes him an apology.

Police said they won't take any action in the Friday night incident unless Nixon files a formal complaint.

Presley said he whipped out the Hollywood prop pistol because Nixon tried to pick a fight while the sinner was signing autographs on a Memphis street.

"BLOW YOUR BRAINS OUT"

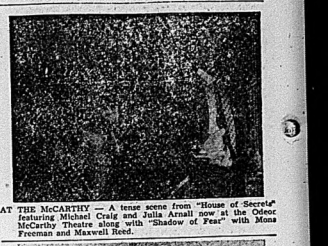
Nixon said "I didn't try to pick a fight and I wasn't drinking. I had no way of knowing the pistol was a toy."

The marine, stationed at the Memphis naval air station, said he left after Presley pulled the prop gun and said "I'll blow your brains out, you punk"

Presley, 22, said the marine asked him of bothering into his wife as she walked out of a restaurant about two months ago.

"She told me all about it," he said. "The marine as saying, "I quoted the marine as saying, "I quoted the marine as saying, "I right now."

THOUGHT ABOUT GUN



Presley, who returned recently from Hollywood, said he edged away but the marine followed.

"I told him I didn't know what he was talking about because I had been in Hollywood." Presley said. "Then I thought about that toy gun and I pulled it out.

"I was smiling when I took it out of my coat. Everybody else standing around there knew it wasn't real."

Alliston Blanks Wellington 6-0 For Second Win

Alliston's arena may prove to be a hockey Waterloo for Wellington's gallant Iron Dukes.

Dutch Ainsworth's hard - battling youngsters strove mightily here Saturday night in their second OHA junior "D" clash with the young neighbors of Barrie's Flyers, but bowed 6-0 to drop their second verdict in a row to the Paul Meger-coached team.

The third game of the best-of-five semi-finals series was scheduled for tomorrow night, but serious injuries sustained by two of the Dukes defencemen Saturday may cause a cancellation of the series. The winners meet Chesley for the title.

Manager "Dutch" Ainsworth of the Dukes said today that Bill McKenzie and Glen McConkey were incapacitated in the second period of Saturday's tilt and were unable to return for the third session. Other injuries have reduced the team's strength considerably.

It was a rough and rugged encounter with the teams hitting one another with everything. The second period saw Referees "Red" Carson and Bill Hurst hand out 12 of the twenty penalties assessed and a rush call was sent for police protection in the penalty box. Six minors were doled out in four minutes.

Alliston drew twelve of the sentences including two majors while the Dukes being tabbed for remainder which included two majors and a misconduct.

Alliston scored two quick goals in the first period to grab an early lead and the clubs battled, less second frame. Lack of defence mainly with one another in scoring power weakened the Dukes in the third chapter and the Alliston club shone home four goals without a reply.

The score did not indicate the difference between the clubs but the Dukes showed a noticeable weakness around the Alliston nets when they were close in while their shooting was mainly off the mark. When they did "get on" Whalen in the Alliston nets kicked out everything thrown at him.

The Alliston youngsters form a well-coached club with a fine pattern of passing plays. They are big and rugged and know how to use their weight.

The Dukes appeared faster afoot and they gave everything they had. They deserved a better fate but they appeared to be unable to get their scoring plays clicking in enemy territory.

Bill Pring, John Milton and Herby Moon each scored two goals for the winners.

THE TEAMS

Alliston: Whalen, Haddock, James, Edgar, Sabourin, St. Pierre, Bartlett, Milton, Moon, Pring, Harshing, Keogh.

Wellington — Halloran, Bryce, McConkey, Lawrence, McKenzie, J. Guernsey, Houlding, Simpson, Aylmer Guernsey, Platt, Foster.

Referees: "Red" Carson, Bill Hurst, Belleville.

'Brum' Bows to Manchester 2-0

LONDON (AP) Manchester United slammed in two goals in two minutes Saturday to defeat Birmingham City 2-0 in the semi-final of the English Soccer Cup competition and keep alive hopes of a unique cup triple.

Manchester now is in the final of the English Cup, semi-final of the European Cup and leads the English League standings with only nine more matches to be played. No team has won those three competitions in one season.

Aston Villa and West Bromwich Albion tied 2-2 in the other English Cup semi-final. Bromwich led 2-1 until seven minutes from the end. Then left winger Peddy Mc-Parland rammed in the equalizer for Villa.

Villa and West Brom will replay their match Thursday to decide who takes the Wembley Stadium final at Wembley Stadium May 4.

SCOTTISH TIE

Both Scottish Cup semi-finals ended in ties. Celtic, 18-time winners of the Scottish Cup, forced a 1-1 tie against Kilmarnock with a goal five minutes from time and Raith Rovers and Falkirk finished all square 2-2. Both games will be replayed this week.

Preston North End defeated Luton Town 2-0 in the first division of the English League and clipped Manchester United's lead to three points. Tottenham, in third place with 45 points, tied 2-2 at Newcastle.

Leicester lost ground in the second division when beaten 3-1 by Fulham, but still holds a seven-point lead over second-place Nottingham Forest.

Colchester United continued at the head of the third division south with a 2-1 victory over Gillingham to maintain a three-point lead over second-place Reading.

Rangers beat Aberdeen 2-1 to get within two points of Scottish first division leader Hearts, who were idle.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, March 26, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Influences are on the friendly side. Be your most genial self and thus gain all the possible benefits to be had now. Constructive matters, occupational tasks favored. Keep emotions calm.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Listen to intelligent advice and carry through due orders or instructions for bettering your position, your holdings, and advancing generally in everyday affairs. Keep up with schedule.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Skilled workers, those in the professions, clerks, secretaries, promoters and bookkeepers are under stimulating aspect. Much depends upon calm, reasonable plans and action. Think!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This could be a flourishing day for unique ideas, promotional stunts, advertising little known but valuable products, for consultations, handling weighty matters.

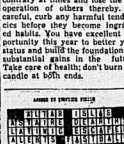
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Some daring may be profitable now but it must be supported by sound judgment. Give special delight to problems requiring immediate solution. You can advance in personal and business affairs. Be alert.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Your keen mental and physical attributes can prove of great value this stimulating and, for the most part, favorable day. Concentrate first on urgent matters, then slow up tackle lesser ones.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Many diversified matters under stimulating influences now. If you get behind things with your cleverness, they will advance.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You may suffer a little inconvenience now but you can still make progress. Be motivated by good resolutions, firm determination. Your work, all lines of useful endeavor favored.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This day is neither too restrictive nor too generous. You will have to be a wise judge and calculate according to your program and its needs. Solid, practical matters, home interests highly favored.



December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Good Saturn and Mercury aspects. Work for high achievement in your specific interests, personal and domestic matters. Strengthen your ambitions and aim high. Only your best will do this day.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Search for opportunities, work with those who are smart, ambitious and honorable. You can gain unlimited advantages, fresh leads to success now if you put forth your best efforts.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — This should be an opportune period for study, teaching, acquiring worthwhile knowledge. Benefits of lasting value are indicated. Be ambitious, determined to use your know-how profitably.

You born today are of a bright nature, highly talented, ambitious, willing to work hard for achievement. You may be a bit contrary at times and lose the cooperation of others thereby. Be careful, curb any harmful tendencies before they become ingrained habits. You have excellent opportunity this year to better your status and build the foundation for substantial gains in the future. Take care of health; don't burn the candle at both ends.

Prime Minister Nehru Believes Problem Solved

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today there are "indications" a satisfactory solution may be reached on the Suez Canal problem.

Such a solution would safeguard Egypt's rights and also be satisfactory to the interests of the international community, Nehru told the House of the People.

The prime minister repeated his call for the United States and Soviet leaders to meet face to face to discuss their respective plans for peace in the Middle East.

He also proposed that President Eisenhower and the Russian leadership should discuss directly the problem of disarmament. Russian and U.S. disarmament proposals "thrown out from a distance are not enough," he said.

Nehru said that despite the "painful shocks" experienced by India over the attitude of some Commonwealth countries in the Middle East and Kashmir issues, it is desirable for India to continue in the Commonwealth association, although, he added, no other "it may require further consideration."

"But in fact, as in other matters, we are not going to act in a huff or spirit of anger because we dislike something that has happened.'

Two Freighters Collide, One Leaking Badly

FALMOUTH, England (AP) — The 7,200-ton Italian freighter Corsilio and the 5,055-ton Norwegian vessel Nopal Branco collided today about 50 miles southwest of this Cornish port.

A radio message picked up in Brest from the Corsilio said the Italian vessel was leaking badly and was sinking fast. The owners of the Nopal Branco announced their ship was not severely damaged and hoped probably would continue her voyage.

Traffic Mishaps Claim 24 Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Of 26 accidental deaths reported in Canada over the weekend, 24 were the result of traffic mishaps.

Ontario led with nine deaths—all traffic. Three were teenagers whose car was struck by a train Sunday at a level crossing in Ottawa.

Quebec had seven highway deaths, a survey made by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Sunday showed.

Traffic also caused the single deaths in Alberta and Nova Scotia. In British Columbia five died in traffic and one man was drowned.

Manitoba had two deaths, one in traffic.

Ontario deaths:

Carolyn Bruyn, 1½, of Hespeler when a fuel-oil truck ran over her.

Miss Margaret Black, 84, of Guelph in a two-car crash.

Dietrich Pirch, 22, of Bradford when a car went out of control, hitting the rear of a truck.

Miss Mary Elizabeth White, 64, of Oak Ridges when struck by a car while walking on highway.

Mrs. Clayton Jackson, 35 , of Kingston when car hit a cement well.

James McIntosh, 39, of Belle River in a two-car collision.

Gilles Methot, 17, Jean Guy Denis, 17, and Lyse Carriere, all of Ottawa when their car struck by a train at a level crossing.

Four Masked Men Take $18,300

MONTREAL (CP)—Four armed masked men escaped with $18,300 in cash and $1,560 in cheques in a daring Saturday night robbery at Elmhurst Dairy in the city's west end.

Detective - Sergeant Raymond Clark said the four wore khaki-colored material over their heads when they walked into the cashier's office.

"I'll blow your head off if you make a false move," one of them said in broken English to cashier Ronald Nadeau.

Papers Raise Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's morning tabloid newspapers, The Daily News and Daily Mirror, have increased their city prices from four to five cents a copy, effective today.

Both newspapers blamed inflation for the price increases.

The World-Telegram and The Journal-American, both afternoon newspapers, raised their prices from five to 10 cents earlier this week. The New York Post, the city's third major afternoon daily, is still at five cents.

The Times and Herald-Tribune, both morning papers, sell for five cents daily.

English Police Probe Deaths at Old Folks Home

SHERBORNE, England (AP)—Gravediggers Sat. exhumed the body of 89-year old Rosa Darley, one of seven elderly persons whose deaths at an old folks home is under police investigation.

Detectives watched as the diggers opened the unmarked grave at dawn behind seven-foot-high canvas screens in a corner of the parish cemetery at Milborne Port, Somerset, near here.

The coffin of Miss Darby, a former wigmaker who died 13 months ago, was then removed to a mortuary for a postmortem. Her death was certified as due to heart disease.

Samples of earth from the grave also were taken away in jars for analysis.

Police said they had permission to exhume the body of a second woman next week. They have been investigating the deaths at Castleman House, a home for the aged, for four months.

Makarios Sets Conditions for Plea for Peace

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios is reported to have conditionally accepted Britain's demand that he denounce violence in Cyprus as a condition of his release from detention in the Seychelles Islands.

His reply, said to have reached London, was believed to make two demands:

1. That he would "recommend the pacification of Cyprus" only after he had been released, and

2. That all military operations against anti-British EOKA terrorists should be called off, otherwise he could not vouch for a permanent peace.

Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding was scheduled to return here from London Saturday. The postponement of his return is believed to be the result of Makarios' reply.

Harding flew to London soon after EOKA circulated leaflets here 11 days ago pledging suspension of their activity on condition Makarios was freed by the British.

SEEKS NOMINATION

HAMILTON (CP) — Bobby McDonald, whose career as a halfback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football union was ended by polio in 1953, said Friday he will be a candidate next Thursday for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Hamilton South federal riding. McDonald is an insurance salesman. The seat is held by Liberal Russell Reinke.

LAST

Diplomatic sources believe Nasser may have convinced Hammarskjold Egypt's still-secret plan for operating the canal is consistent with the six principles endorsed by the UN Security Council last October.

These principles include unrestricted transit through the canal for ships of all nations, respect for Egypt's sovereignty, isolation of the canal from national politics, agreement between Egypt and Canal users on tolls and charges, a fair portion of revenue for canal development and arbitration of disputes.

Informants in Cairo said Egypt will issue a detailed memorandum concerning Suez navigation next week.

The best available information indicates the Nasser plan will fall short of what the Western user nations want, but that it will contain enough concessions to ease tension and get the waterway in full operation again.

Hammarskjold planned to fly to the canal today with Undersecretary Ralph Bunche and UNEF commander Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns.

Nasser talked again during the weekend with Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who shares Egypt's view that the Straits of Tiran at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba are territorial waters of Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Consultations also went on in Israel, which has threatened resumption of war if Arab raids are resumed from Gaza or Israeli shipping is barred from Aqaba.

Meanwhile, another Israeli-chartered vessel entered Tiran Straits without Arab interference.

MANAGEMENT

There also is a growing tendency of companies changing their status to demand that unions be recertified with some "anti-union" lawyers even suggesting "that if you have a checkoff from the successor company, this is company support and you are not entitled to certification."

He called for provincial legislation on the matter.

RAPS "APPLE POLISHERS"

Also, "it is almost impossible to have a certification hearing without some apple polisher coming in with a petition purporting to represent employees who are opposed to the union."

Such company - backed employees mysteriously had enough money to carry their cases through expensive court hearings. A collection, "sometimes among a handful of employees," would run to hundreds or thousands of dollars.

Other "shortcomings" of the labor act were covered, Mr. Hughes said, in the report of the OFL committee on labor relations legislation. The report, made public several weeks ago, was officially tabled.

"Possibly, Premier Frost will see the writing on the wall and will pay a little more attention to the demands and need of labor when representations are made on their behalf by such a large body of organized labor. . . ."

He hinted the new labor group may back the CCF. He said the new labor body should increase its political activity.

"Labor must be on guard, he said to see that the national health insurance scheme "does not continue to be a political football as it has for years."

Cleve Kidd of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the OFL, and likely candidate to be president of the new group, said in presenting his annual report the merger agreement gives equity between the two groups "and at the same time enough leeway is left for the new federation to chart a course of its own. . . ."

Attorney-General Of Switzerland Takes Own Life

BERN (AP)—Switzerland's attorney-general, Rene Dubois, committed suicide with his army revolver Saturday night after coming under suspicion of spying for France.

Dubois, 48, the federal government's chief legal officer, became involved in a police investigation of espionage at the Egyptian Embassy in Bern.

A government announcement stressed he was not suspected of espionage against Switzerland. Under Switzerland's neutrality laws, however, espionage directed against a foreign nation is also a criminal offence.

Dubois was a member of Switzerland's Social Democratic party. He acted as state prosecutor in many famous trials, including that last year of the four Romanian exiles who invaded the Romanian legation in Bern.

EUROPE WARMS UP

LONDON (Reuters) — Most of Europe basked in warm spring sunshine Friday. Paris boulevards were crowded with girls in light dresses and men in shirt sleeves. It was 59 degrees. London had it one degree warmer.

GENERATORS TAKE SHAPE ON ST. LAWRENCE

The hulfway mark has been passed with the concrete placing at the Ontario Hydro powerhouse of the St. Lawrence seaway project. The eventual outline of the powerhouse is beginning to take shape, particularly in the elevation, which is approximately 162 feet above the foundation. One million tons of concrete have been poured and by the end of the year 1,800,000 tons will have been put into the structure. Here men are working on the foreding for a generating unit and are dwarfed by its size. The generators are scheduled to provide power by 1958.

Multi-Million Dollar Sales of Uranium By Canada to Britain Come up for Study

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Multi-million dollar Canadian uranium sales to Britain are expected to be a prime topic today as Prime Ministers St. Laurent and Macmillan continue their conference.

The meeting opened Monday with what was officially described as a "friendly session." Subjects discussed included nuclear tests, other atomic questions of common concern to Canada and Britain—this presumably referred to uranium sales—and defence.

Other questions still to be discussed include Anglo - Canadian trade, the Middle East situation, attitudes toward the United Nations, European security and the prospects of a visit to Canada by the Queen.

An important sidelight on the conference was a statement by Canadian sources that the United States will make guided missiles available to Canada. They said this would be a logical development from the U.S. decision, announced Sunday after Macmillan concluded talks with President Eisenhower, to supply British forces with "ground guided missiles."

Canada presumably would have no use for the 1,500-mile Intermediate Range Ballistic missiles covered by the Anglo-U.S. agreement but might be interested in anti-aircraft rockets and other types of missiles.

In Washington Monday night a military spokesman said it remained to be seen, however, when the U.S. might be able to deploy Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles to Britain, France or anywhere else.

"We have a lot to do before we are ready to put our IRBMs to our friends," the spokesman said. Missile experts estimated it would be a year or more before they can be put into operation even by forces in the U.S.

Plan Will Cover All Costs Except Doctor's Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's proposed hospital-insurance plan will cover just about every medical cost to be incurred in hospital, except the doctor's bill.

This was made clear Monday night in the text of a bill introduced in the Commons entitled The Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act.

Coverage will extend to inpatient and out-patient facilities in general hospitals, but not to tuberculosis sanatoria, mental institutions or nursing homes, infirmaries or homes for the aged.

SERVICES COVERED

All in- and out-patients will be insured for necessary nursing services; laboratory, radiological and other diagnostic services; use of operating and case rooms and anaesthetic services and supplies; routine surgical supplies; radiotherapy and physiotherapy facilities where available; services by hospital employees, and such other services specified in federal-provincial agreements.

In addition, in-patients will be insured for standard ward accommodation and meals and for drugs and similar preparations mentioned in an agreement.

The bill makes no specific provisions on how the participating provinces must finance their share of the plan. The federal share will come out of general tax revenues.

Federal - provincial agreements must last at last 10 years. An agreement could be terminated five years' notice by the federal government, but such notice can only be given after five years from the start of the agreement.

Shipyard Workers in Britain Undecided on Ending Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — Leaders of 200,000 shipyard workers held a two-hour meeting today which ended undecided to call off their strike.

The union chiefs agreed to meet again late today after their six principal negotiators talked once again to Labor Ministry officials.

Meantime, the government arranged to hold an immediate court of inquiry in a new effort to break the union-management stalemate.

It was understood the union leaders were prepared to accept conditionally a five-per-cent wage increase for both shipyard men and 1,000,000 striking industrial workers, allied with them in a labor confederation, as an interim settlement pending the inquiry. The 40-union confederation, however, insists that this must not prejudice future wage claims.

High hopes of settling Britain's mounting industrial crisis were shattered Monday night when the shipyard workers' chiefs rejected a pay offer which government and management had said it had

Had to Make 1,000 Spitballs As Punishment

CHICAGO (AP) — Terry Hunter, 8, went to school Monday carrying a show box bulging with 1,000 spitballs—the number of his Grade III teacher.

That was the weekend assignment Mrs. Mary Handrigan gave Terry when she caught him throwing a spitball at another pupil Friday.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The cloud which accompanies the storm in the United States finally moved into Southern Ontario Monday afternoon. Light snow began to fall in the southwestern sections during the night and it should spread northeastward during the day. Fortunately for Ontario residents the storm has diminished markedly in intensity, so that only light snowfalls are expected.

FEDERAL HELP OFFERED B.C. IN POWER PROJECT

Columbia River Plan Likened to Seaway

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fisheries Minister Sinclair offered federal government aid Monday in developing a public power project on the Columbia River in British Columbia.

B.C. government reaction was cool. Attorney-General Bonner described the offer as "a peculiar election statement."

Premier Bennett, leader of the province's Social Credit government, said:

"I will not discuss Mr. Sinclair's election campaign. We will discuss the offer with the prime minister."

NEED U.S. AGREEMENT

Mr. Sinclair, who represents the B.C. constituency of Coast-Capilano in Parliament, made the announcement at a press conference here.

He said the federal government is willing to help in construction of the big power project on the Columbia—third largest river system in North America—but that as Canada and the United States agree on division of downstream benefits.

The Columbia flows into the Pacific out of the Rocky Mountains in Washington state. Several huge power projects, already have been developed on the river by the U.S.

MENTIONS NO AMOUNT

The proposed Canadian development would be located at Mica Creek, a natural dam site 300 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The amount the federal government is willing to contribute to the development, providing it is a public venture, was not disclosed by Mr. Sinclair, but he indicated the outlay would be the $300,000,000 Canada invested in the navigation section of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Cost of the total scheme has been estimated as high as $1,- 907,060,000.

Beck Invokes 5th Amendment Against Self-Incrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union boss Dave Beck today challenged jurisdiction of the Senate rackets committee to investigate his affairs, and invoked the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination in refusing to turn over his personal financial records.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.), who had told the committee's inquiries indicated Beck may have "misused" Teamsters Union funds, asked whether Beck "honestly believed" that the records he recently might "tend to incriminate you."

"Definitely," Beck replied.

The fifth amendment's protection that no U.S. constitutional right can be forced to give evidence which might tend to be self-incriminating.

In addition to invoking the Fifth Amendment, Beck said the committee its investigation of his and Teamsters Union affairs violated the first, second and third articles of the constitution.

The first article sets up the powers of Congress. The second defines the powers of the executive branch of government, the third article deals with the judicial powers.

The fourth amendment requires the right of search and seizure.

McClellan's assertion that it appeared Beck "may have misappropriated $320,000" of union funds was at the outset of the hearing.

Beck later read a letter he had sent to McClellan Monday in which he challenged the jurisdiction of the committee and said he would not "waive or give up" any rights of any constitutional privileges.

McClellan said Beck if he had brought his personal financial records as requested by the committee.

"No, Mr. Chairman, I am not prepared to release the records," Beck replied.

McClellan directed then that a subpoena be served on Beck, demanding the records.

FIND WOMAN DEAD

HEPWORTH, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Laura Schwartz, 56, missing since March 21, was found dead Monday by a volunteer search party about half a mile west of here. Hepworth is about 20 miles north west of Owen Sound. An investigation has been started.

Bid Rejected Because Firm 'Not Anglo-Saxon'

OSHAWA (CP)—The representative of a Peterborough construction company said he was told that Oshawa board of education turned down the lowest bid to construction of a new collegiate because the construction company was "not Anglo-Saxon."

A. J. Gamble, counsel for the Miller Construction Company of Peterborough, said members of the board of education here because the construction company was "not Anglo-Saxon."

Mr. Gamble is carrying on "obviously poor business practices" by not awarding a contract to the lowest bidder.

The contract for building the Dr. C. F. Cannon Public School was awarded to the Redpath Construction Company.

Niagara Falls Asks Revision Lord's Day Act

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Niagara Falls city council Monday night unanimously voted to demand revision of the Lord's Day Act.

Mayor Ernest M. Hawkins said the city would lose a fortune if everything is closed down.

"Last year 3,000,000 people came to Niagara Falls as tourists and half of these were here on Sunday."

Alderman Franklin J. Miller said the Lord's Day Alliance has never protested Sunday operations of concessions under Niagara Parks Commission jurisdiction as long as he has been a member of the commission.

Picture in Paper Looked Familiar To Policemen

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The day's question for the inquiring reporter — photographer was whether he has enough policemen to cope with local crime.

"Every time you look around," said one man, "there's a cop sitting in a squad car or on a motorcycle or in a restaurant. It seems to me there are too many policemen."

Police thought his picture in the paper looked familiar. It was. Records showed that the name he used was an alias and that, since 1942, he had been arrested twice for assault, twice for being AWOL from the army, twice for auto theft, once for breaking and entering and once for robbery.

First Conscripts Join German Army Next Week

BONN (Reuters)—Nearly 10,000 youths report for duty Monday as the West German army's first conscripts—nearly a year after the last German prisoners of the Second World War returned back from camps in Siberia.

Youths born in the last quarter of 1937 will arrive at barracks all over the country for their 12 months service and exchange their civilian clothes for grey uniforms and jackboots reminiscent of the old German Wehrmacht.

The reamblance ends there. In the first few days, recruits were marched off to their quarters and ordered to sing "It's nice to be a soldier."

There will be no unnecessary spit-and-polish for the 9,753 recruits for the new army. Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss has a well-equipped mobile defence force in place at the date for the first parade—a parade ground army of drill sergeants.

PAY $6.00

The new recruits were chosen from about 60,000 men available for conscription, Strauss said, because they expressed preference for April 1 as their draft date.

GOVTS. TO SHARE HOSPITAL BILLS IN NEAR FUTURE

Federal Concession Given by Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and provincial governments may be sharing Canadians' hospital bills —at least in some provinces—sooner than previously expected.

Health Minister Martin disclosed Monday night that the federal government is willing to share half the cost of standard ward hospital care and diagnostic services once the provinces have signed agreements with Ottawa and passed enabling legislation.

This was seen as a major federal concession, although Martin said minister was not to be forthcoming until at least six provinces representing at least half Canada's population had plans in operation.

The latest federal move was uncovered at the end of a day of Commons debate on a government resolution introducing a bill to enable federal participation in the plan. The resolution was approved and the bill introduced pending formal House approval.

SUGGEST CHANGES

But both the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF first criticized the government's plan and suggested changes in it.

Mr. William Blair (Peace—Lanark) leading off for his party, proposed an amendment to the resolution that would forward sharing of the scheme's cost with any province that accepted.

A hospital insurance scheme was necessary now, "but not just a little here and there as soon as it can be done in an orderly way. Surely much of the $40 per person month when we permit discrepancies to exist."

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said his party supports the Conservative plan. But he added that the CCF believes there should be a complete health plan. The government's hospital plan did not go far enough. He said the $40 per person by Ottawa and include costs of treatment of mental and tuberculosis hospitals.

House Chairman W. A. Robinson ruled out any Conservative amendment out of order, however, under the rules allowing only the government to propose use of public funds.

So far five provinces—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Newfoundland have accepted the federal offer in principle. But until Monday, no province had put the scheme could not go into operation before at least Jan. 1, 1958.

That is the date Ontario proposes to put its plan into operation.

In other Commons developments Transport Minister Marler introduced a bill to encourage shipbuilding in Canada by easing the tax on sales of ships owned by Canadian operators.

Boy Will Likely Collect Bounty

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Thirteen-year-old Doug Lalonde aims to collect nine fox bounties, over the present week-end, if possible.

He found an unusually large litter of 10 pups in a hollow tree near Lambeth, and one died later.

Lalrich Township officials told him he would have to produce fox tails to collect $10 bounties, so he has started to raise the pups in a box in the kitchen. He feeds them with an eyedropper.

If family objections grow too strong, Doug says he plans to sell the pups. A radio station story about his venture already brought an offer to buy four of them.

Canada Geese Coming 'Home' But Cost to Farmer Unbearable

AMHERSTBURG (CP) — The Canada geese are coming "home" after a winter down south and for the next 10 days their loud honking has shattered the early morning stillness as they dip low over farmlands in Southwestern Ontario looking for food.

Here in Essex County they find food and rest at two bird sanctuaries.

One, the famous Jack Miner sanctuary, is at Kingsville. The other, not as well known except to the geese, is found on the outskirts of this Detroit river town.

Henry Bridekirk started his sanctuary as a hobby 20 years ago but it's getting a little out of hand now.

Mr. Rebidoux hurriedly adds "not from the standpoint of the geese—there are 4,000 here at the moment—but financially."

Since the geese first arrived about two weeks ago the turnout for the free meals has been steadily increasing.

"Already I've gone through about $3,000 corn crop. We first started with a few bushels of corn and two pair of wing-clipped geese 20 years ago has grown in wagon loads of corn and now my whole crop.

"We've just about reached the peak of the migration and that means there will be about 7,000 geese around for the next two weeks. It cost me $5,000 above the corn last year and it will cost every bit as much this year. I'll but it's getting a little out of hand

Drifts Roof High, U.S. Blizzard Toll Already Up To 33

Fear Many More Have Died; Hundreds of Cars Stranded

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The United States great plains area today still was digging out of snowdrifts as high as house tops as deaths in a weekend blizzard climbed to 33.

The fatalities were spread over eight states with seven in both Texas and Illinois, five in Oklahoma, four in Kansas, three each in Nebraska and Indiana, two in Missouri and one each in New Mexico and Iowa.

Rescue operations began Monday as skies cleared behind the storm. Hundreds veered northward toward the Great Lakes, partially open.

Hundreds of small communities had been isolated since Saturday. Despite their own plight, inhabitants threw open their doors to refugees of the storm.

COUNT CARS

Snowbound cars by the hundreds were counted from the air Monday over the six-state high plains area—eastern New Mexico and Colorado, the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, western Kansas and Nebraska.

Rescuers feared more dead would be uncovered as the heavy snow began to melt.

Food and supplies were dropped from the air and carried to disaster victims. Volunteer Red Cross workers in the Texas panhandle used snow shoes and skis. Military helicopters picked up the sick and the dying and flew them to the nearest town or hospital.

School buses removed approximately 500 persons from two cross-country streamline trains stuck in the snow in western Kansas.

Russia Seeks Pact to End Nuclear Tests

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet foreign ministry announced today that Russia is prepared to come to an agreement with the Western atomic powers for the immediate and temporary cessation of atomic and nuclear tests.

Foreign minister spokesman Leonid Ilyichev told a press conference that the Soviet Union already has proposed an agreement for the total abolition of atomic and nuclear tests.

Today's new proposal was made in view of the fact that the Western powers had not yet responded to this proposal for test elimination.

Blizzard Leaves 8 Inches of Snow In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO (AP) — The spring blizzard that buried the U.S. great plains area during the weekend edged into western New York state today and left up to eight inches of snow in some areas.

Cattaraugus County was hit hardest. Ellicottville reported eight inches of snow, Highway crews plow and sanding the slippery roads.

Hammarskjold Fails to Budge Nasser on Gaza Strip Stand

CAIRO (AP) — UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today was winding up his Cairo mission with no sign of any major change in the Egyptian stand on Middle East deadlocks.

President Nasser's government may make some slight concessions to big Western users of the Suez Canal. But Egyptian informants said Hammarskjold ran into a dead end in his efforts to get formal agreement from Nasser that UN troops stay indefinitely in the Gaza Strip.

The secretary-general Monday night had what was expected to be his last talk with Nasser. He was to return to Europe direct from Egypt on Minister Mahmoud Fawzi Monday and was reported to be planning to leave for New York Wednesday.

Egypt sought to give the impression a general agreement was imminent on the Suez Canal dispute, with Hammarskjold acting as mediator.

Nasser is expected to announce next week his plan for the future operation of the waterway—the issue which touched off the crisis. It was not expected to satisfy Western maritime nations.

Part of Hammarskjold's proposals for keeping a UN buffer force in the Gaza Strip and other tense border areas, Egypt was reported to be maintaining two general demands. These called for stationing of UN Emergency Force troops on the Israeli as well as the Egyptian side of the 1949 armistice line and for Israeli withdrawal from the El Auja demilitarized zone between the Sinai and Negev deserts.

Unless Israel agrees to these terms, Egypt is reported determined not to call off the technical state of war that has existed since Israel was stopped in the 1948 Palestine war. This state of war cuts provided Egypt's basis for barring Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal.

In other Middle East developments, the Egyptian government announced it had frozen Barclays Bank and all its branches in Egypt, including property of "Egyptianize" all foreign banks and insurance companies.

'Almost Insane Sex Preoccupation' Said Disturbing, Confusing Children

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Almost insane sex preoccupation" in the U.S. is confusing and disturbing children, Dr. Goodrich Schauffler, psychiatrist, gynecologist, said today.

He called on parents, doctors and others to change "our distorted all-American sex perspective."

Speaking about sex education to the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Schauffler said:

"Our young girls today, at the age of first perception, are confronted with the whole tree in bud at the tips of the roots.

"It was not like this in our childhood. The sex stimulation due to the delinquency of parents or educators, but is the direct result of our present-day almost insane sex preoccupation."

Children develop bizarre ideas about sex because of so much stress upon sex and symbols, he said, adding:

"Many know more about sex than their parents, but they are mixed up on it."

COLBORNE ROTARIANS TO RETURN VISIT

Ernest G. Gurnett, president of the Rotary Club of Belleville, announced yesterday that the Rotary Club of Colborne is planning an international visit to the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh, some time in the spring. Rotarians from Picton, Belleville, Trenton and Stirling were certainly treated well by the Colborne Rotarians in the flying visit.

Last spring the Rotary Club of Pittsburgh was the guest of the Colborne and Trenton clubs.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN MISSING FROM HOME

Belleville and provincial police have been asked to assist in locating Mrs. William Mowers, 28 of 17 West Bridge street, who has been missing from her home since 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 24th.

Mrs. Mowers is described as being five feet tall and weighing 95 pounds with medium complexion and brown hair. She is said to have been in ill health as a result of surgery. Five small children were left at home while a sixth is in hospital.

Police have contacted relatives of the missing woman without result.

ROTARIANS OBSERVE MINUTE OF SILENCE

Members of the Rotary Club of Belleville observed one minute of silence in memory of the late Charles B. McGuire, who died suddenly last week.

President Ernest G. Gurnett, on behalf of the club, expressed sympathy to Rotarian Pierce C. McGuire, son of the deceased, and other members of the family.

MRS. H. S. ROBBINS PAINTS PORTRAIT UNVEILED IN HALL

A fine portrait of the late Reverend Michael Brennan, first pastor of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was recently unveiled in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Front Street, the work of one of the city's local artists, Mrs. H. S. Robbins.

Mrs. Robbins, who is well known for her delineation of character and delicacy of workmanship, began her art training early in life. She attended the Ontario College of Art, and up until quite recently was prominent in art at the Collegiate Institute.

Mrs. Robbins specializes in oil portraits, but also indulges her talent in scenery and still life. Among the portraits painted are those of Yvonne Keeler, Peggy Ann and Jane McCutcheon, children of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon, Maxine Rose, Elaine Macdonald, Mrs. Mc. and Mrs. Robert Lucy, and others.

FIFTY RESIDENTS OF COUNTY HOME TO ENJOY FILMS

Fifty residents of the Hastings County Home will be the guests of Kiwanian George Forhan, manager of the Belle Theatre, this afternoon to view the showings of Walt Disney's "Westward Ho the Wagons!" and "Disneyland in the U.S.A." Both pictures are in color. Kiwanian Ken Box will be in charge of the arrangements for the visit while Kiwanian Fred Rawson will provide transportation to and from the County Home. The residents always look forward to this outing.

SLATE OF OFFICERS NAMED FOR ROTARY

The 1957-58 slate of officers named to posts in the Rotary Club of Belleville was announced at yesterday's Rotary meeting by the 1956-57 president, E. G. Gurnett.

Mr. Gurnett will be succeeded as president by 1950 Jaycee Dennis Wagoner and "Disneyland in the U.S.A." Both pictures are in color. Kiwanian Ken Box will be in charge of the arrangements for the visit while Kiwanian Fred Rawson will provide transportation to and from the County Home. The residents always look forward to this outing.

Ice Show Will Be Headlined By Many Stars

The 1957 edition of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club Ice Show appears to be the best ever produced. The show is headlined with such stars as Miss Barbara Jean Jacques, gold medallist, junior dance champion of Canada 1955 from Toronto Skating Club; Mr. Dave Lowery, silver medallist, junior pair champion of Canada 1955, member North American Team 1955, senior men's champion, Toronto Skating Club 1956; Mr. Rod McDonald, brilliant free style skater from Toronto Skating Club; Miss Jean Shippam, junior ladies champion of Canada 1954 from Peterborough Skating Club; Miss Patsy Kerr, outstanding skater of Cobourg Skating Club and ballet group of seventeen members, Cobourg Skating Club, with prima donna Diana Tait and ballerinas Linda Casey and Mary Ann Macobrey.

Mr. John Rodway, professional of Quinte Skating Club and choreographer for the show, has completed training of the entire programme in the local club in the many specialized numbers which make up the programme. A new approach has been taken in the production with special emphasis being put on the continuous action which will give the spectator continuity of interest.

Costumes this year are the best, having been designed by Mrs. Phil Jeffrey and made up by their members themselves with the co-operation of every parent. The results are indeed astonishing.

Dr. William McCutcheon, president of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club, is co-ordinator of the production with Mrs. Blake Weese in charge of scenerial production and rendering valuable assistance in the training of the children.

Bill Holloway and his stage crew will handle the scenery changes with Bob Smith and company taking care of the lighting and spotlighting duties. Mrs. Dawson has taken on the task of making up the assistance of the mothers.

The Quinte Skating and Tennis Club is also sponsoring a carnival skating at the outdoor rink, corner of Queen Street and Dufferin Avenue, for over 450 children. The figure skating section of the club which confines its activities to the arena under supervision of Mr. Rodway, has provided interesting events, free skating and dancing. Tests are to be held in the course of the skating season for approximately 30 members of the club at which time they will be judged by a team of three judges on school figures and dancing.

Yacht Club Buys Five New Snipe Class Sailboats

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club has announced the purchase of a fleet of five one design sailboats for junior club activities. These sailboats are of the Snipe International Yacht class. They are 16 feet, length overall, with sloop rig.

The purchase of this fleet of five yachts is the Yacht Club's first step in this year's Junior Club program which will cover sailing instruction by a competent sailing instructor. A club racing program for Junior Members and inter-club racing competitions. It will also include recreational sailing for both junior and senior members. This fleet should provide a great deal of enjoyment for Yacht Club members this summer.

Poultry Farming Outlined To Rotary Club Members

Kenneth Gartley, general manager of a large turkey farm near Brockville, yesterday addressed members of the Rotary Club of Belleville on the subject of raising poultry. But he did not try to solve the age-old puzzle of which came first, the chicken or the egg.

It is Mr. Gartley's professional opinion that it is much easier for a man to break into poultry farming than into any other type of farming. "This," he said, "is because fewer machines are required at the start and operating costs are considerably less."

But poultry farmers are up against stiff competition from the United States. Last year Canada imported from the U.S. 17 million pounds of fowl, as against 103 million chickens hatched north of the border and 8,600,000 turkeys brought into the world. The U.S. market is so competitive, he asserted, that the American poultry farmer actually lays down the prices of Canadian poultry offered for sale.

Poultry farms in the States are generally farther advanced than those in Canada. In comparison to Canada, fowl processing plants are capable of handling from 3,000 to 4,000 chickens an hour as well as 600 turkeys each hour. Notably in California poultry farming plants can accommodate numbers of fowl ranging into the millions.

In the United States, many poultry raisers place more emphasis on breeding stock for their eggs, which they sell to Canadian breeders at 39 cents each. The turkey farm of which Mr. Gartley is general manager, annually imports 160,000 eggs from the States for breeding purposes.

Many chicken farms in the U.S. are run on family business lines. Some places won't allow less than one square foot of space for each bird. Automatic egg collectors reduce the work of the farmer and some places even have electrically operated stamping machines that delicately tap each egg as it is laid with a distinctive marking. This helps the farmer to judge which hens are doing their keep and those that are standing up on the job.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

Chicken farming in many parts of Ontario is serious business. Some farms contain 100,000 units

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT S. VESTERFELT (Milltown)

In ill health for some time, Mrs. Sadie Marie Vesterfelt, Milltown, died in the Kingston General Hospital on Monday evening.

She was born at Millstown 40 years ago, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Fitzgerald and had resided in that community her entire life. She was a member of the well highly respected in her community and took an active part in the work of Holy Trinity Anglican Church at Shannonville, being a member of the W.A. Besides her, she was a good and kind neighbor and made a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are her husband, Robert S. The bearers were: James Way, Francis Way, Joseph Oneil, Jas. Oneil Jr., Thomas Hinch and George Hinch.

Dozen Dogs In City Pound

Dogs from a considerable distance are apparently making Belleville a temporary home.

In city pound at the present time are no less than a dozen dogs of all breeds and ages, one of them a black spaniel wearing a 1956 dog tag.

Spaniels are in the majority for dogs in pound, but there are terriers, retrievers, spitz and poms, and almost any combination of the breeds that are desired.

They are awaiting owners or some other interested party to rescue them from custody.

Edouard Herriott, 3 Times Premier Of France, Dies

LYON, France (AP) — Edouard Herriot, three times premier of France and honorary president of the National Assembly, died today after a long illness. He was 85 years old.

Herriot died with his wife at his bedside. He was suffering from serious heart and lung ailments and been in an oxygen tent since Monday night.

Herriot, mayor of Lyon for 50 years, was one of the outstanding French statesmen of the period between the two world wars.

An army officer's son, he joined the Radical Socialist (moderate) party early in life. At the age of 33 he was elected mayor of Lyon. At 40 he became France's youngest senator.

When France surrendered in June, 1940, Herriot strongly advocated that the French government should continue the war from the colonies. He was imprisoned by the Germans during part of the German occupation of France.

After the war, by reason of the dignity and firmness with which he directed the often unruly debates in the French Assembly, by his never-failing patriotism, humanity and breadth of view, he became something of a symbol of what was best in his country.

He retired from the presidency of the National Assembly in 1955.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough has joined the list of communities who have extended daylight time one month to Oct. 27. City council decided Monday night to make the switch with the period beginning April 28.

G. Allen Morton Celebrates 90th Birthday

A former "smithy" who recalls shoeing horses at 25 cents per shoe and getting only a dime for a "set," Mr. G. Allen Morton, 126 West Bridge street in Belleville is today celebrating his 90th birthday.

Still active and in comparatively good health despite his advanced age, Mr. Morton has frequently seen on the city's main business street while he visits as part of a walk which he takes as often as possible.

A native of Thomasburg, Mr Morton early in life learned the trade of a blacksmith and for 15 years following his marriage to Mary Geen, a childhood sweetheart, he followed the trade of a "smithy" at that village.

In 1911 the family moved to Belleville where, until 1926, Mr. Morton operated a blacksmith shop on West Bridge street where the A. C. Hubbard memorial works are now located. Because of failing eyesight, Mr. Morton was forced to give up work as a blacksmith and he purchased a small farm on the Trenton Road in 1926.

Ten years ago he retired from the farm and has been living in Belleville. He is a staunch supporter of the Loyal Orange Lodge. This evening a birthday party will be held for Mr. Morton at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Bishop.

There are three daughters, Miss Luella, who resides with Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Charles (Laura) Bishop and Mrs. James (Lela) Cooke of East Pakistan.

IN MEMORIAM

SAGER.—In loving memory of a dear father, Cora Ray Sager, who passed away on March 26th, 1953.

The time that heals wounds severe, We little thought the end was near; Sad was the hour we had to part, But memory keeps you near the heart. More each day we miss you, father, Dear as memory, sacred as the dead; Sealed

But they little know the sorrow, That lies within our hearts concealed. —Ever lovingly remembered by Edith and Aletha.

CARD OF THANKS

Mere words are inadequate to express our gratitude to each and everyone for the kindness shown during these days of sorrow, with beautiful flowers, words, sympathy and deeds of infinite kindness. We can only say "thank you" sincerely.

SELECT WORST ACTING

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The humor magazine, has "cited" Jennifer Jones and Gregory Peck for the worst movie acting performances of 1956. The Lampoon named Miss Jones for her role in The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit and described Peck as "the worst actor in the world" in Moby Dick.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased in all sections today during heavier morning trading. Mines and western oils had the widest range of losses or gains but industrials moved in a broader price range.

Regioning oils, pipelines and steels were the heavier industrial losers. Page-Hersey was off two points at 113 and Trans Mountain Pipe Line 1½ to 178. All other price changes were fractional.

Heaviest loss among lower-priced mines was recorded by Lamaque Gold, down 19 cents to $2.26. Falconbridge gained ½ to 35¾ but other senior base metals were fractionally easier.

Uraniums were lower. Gunnar lost ⅜ to 20 and Pronto and Stanleigh 15 cents each. Milliken Lake gained 13 cents to $3.25. Opemiska was off ⅛ to 10¾ among coppers.

Gridoil lost 65 cents to $9.60 among key western oil issues.

Money Orders Worth $35,000, $40 Cash Taken

HAMILTON (CP) —Safecracking men made off with $35,000 worth of negotiable money orders and stamps from the post office in nearby Aldershot early today. About $40 in cash was also taken.

The job was believed to be the work of the same gang that has cracked several vaults in Toronto and Hamilton in recent months.

Corporal Larry Reid of the East Flamboro police department said there was scarcely a mark on the safe to indicate it had been forced open. The robbers entered the building by breaking a rear window.

Postal employees discovered the robbery when they reported for work this morning. The premises had been secure when checked by police at 3 a.m.

BELLEVILLE, ONT. DIAL WO 8-6775

Miss Barbara Bunton of the Coca-Cola Company business staff shows sports editor Geo. H. Carver the old "ginger beer" type bottle formerly used by the company while he holds the type that "would not lie down." Branch manager Aubrey Coe holds another "oldtimer" bottle that contains the original fluid placed in it over forty years ago. In the display are the old-style "pop" bottle, the original paper-label type and the modern "brothers, King and Reg."

Miss Barbara Bunton proudly displays the new type ten-ounce King-size Coca-Cola bottle which was offered on the Belleville market this week for the first time. In the foreground are a number of the old-style bottles formerly used by the company. The large one on the extreme right is the "pop" type which was corked by a marble and had to be struck by the hand to open. Next are the first paper-label bottle, a 1908 bottle with original fluid, the present regular size and the old "ginger beer" stone container.

New King-Size Bottle Formally Introduced by Coca-Cola Ltd.

"Give me another penny, pop — I can get the big bottle for eight cents".

That was the cry of Belleville's thirsty younger fry this week when the Coca-Cola Company's new ten-ounce bottle went on the market here for the first time.

The oldsters, too, took advantage of the new King size bottle purchasing it in colorful cartons of six bottles for 41 cents.

Soft – drink coolers in the city were stocked with the new kingsize bottles as well as the regular size on Monday morning.

Mr. J. H. Singlehurst, Rideau regional manager for Coca – Cola Ltd. said his company is moving to meet the changing habits of the people. More than over soft drinks are being used in the home. He said that a recent market survey revealed that a great number of people had a desire for Coca-Cola in a larger bottle. Hence the introduction of the new King – size bottle.

Mr. Aubrey Coe, branch manager of the company here, said the history of the soft drink industry in Belleville and the surrounding areas has taken a big step forward in the introduction of the new bottle. He pointed out that the new bottle has not, by any means supplanted the regular size. "In fact they will be brothers in the home and cartons". The same quality of coke is used in both size bottles.

Mr. Coe added that the new bottle represents the first major change in Coca-Cola's package in over forty years. It's reception wherever it has been introduced has been very gratifying, and is proving extremely popular with many people, especially those who like to relax in their homes with a soft drink.

It is a far cry from the first soft-drink bottle of 75 years ago to the modern regal container that bears a royal name.

Beyond the three-quarters of a century ago used soft-drink bottle that tilted like the Leaning Tower of Pizza. This, because the bottle was stoppered with a cork, and had a round bottom so it would tilt and keep the cork moist.

Fifty years ago the bottles were still using a cork but were made to stand upright.

Messrs. Singlehurst and Coe had types of three old-time bottles on display. Of more than passing interest was the one which gave the name of "pop" to soft drinks.

This bottle had a marble ingeniously inserted into the neck to keep it airtight. On opening it was necessary to push the marble into the bottle with the palm of the hand to dislodge the marble. This resulted in a distinct "pop". Hence the name.

Then there was a bottle which originated in New Liskeard between 1906 and 1910 and had the first "crown" top which is used today. This bottle contained the original liquid and still showed signs of carbonization.

The regular size "coke" bottle came into being in 1915 and has been in continuous use until the arrival of brother "King – size".

The modern plants of Coca-Cola Limited on Sidney Street was a busy place over the weekend bottling its product in the new King – size containers which were introduced to the city and a large surrounding district on Monday.

New York Central Strike Is Called

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Six thousand New York Central railroad employees will strike at 6:30 a.m. Thursday in the road's eastern division, an official of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today.

H. A. Johnson, general chairman of the brotherhood, said his organization has called the strike on the grounds the railway violated working agreements and the Railway Labor Act.

Johnson said the strike will affect employees in the eastern division, excluding the Boston division of the road. The eastern division encompasses traffic from Buffalo to New York City and from Clearfield, Pa., to Massena, N.Y.

The brotherhood membership includes assistant conductors, ticket collectors, baggage men, passenger and freight brakemen, retarder operators, yard foremen, and helpers and switch tenders.

Member Claims Socialism in PC Government

TORONTO (CP)—Socialism has crept into Ontario's Progressive Conservative government, a Liberal-Labor member told the legislature Monday night.

Albert Wren, member for Kenora, said "there seems to be an underlying fear in the government here that if the people of Ontario really want socialism the place to get it is through the Front government and not through the CCF."

He said it appears that the government in order to remain in office, is embarking on a program that is more confiscatory than the CCF could devise.

"It is indeed a strange matrage. We have yet to learn who is holding the shotgun," Mr. Wren said.

INCREASED STATUTES

It appeared that the government and the CCF were in complete agreement on the CCF theory—that the product of man's efforts and the productivity of Ontario's resources in the first place belong to the people through the state.

The Liberal party, Mr. Wren said, stands for free enterprise and will fight socialism.

Turning to liquor laws, the Northwestern member said he is said the government tries to extract every possible penny from promotion and sale of liquor while causing every possible annoyance to the public.

As for liquor permits, he said, the Liberal party believes that should be subjected to the continuing indignity of juvenile judgment. It is "considered a great sin that the old sweats from the First World War who are not able up to the active relations cannot have a bottle of beer on the table while they play bingo in the Legion Saturday night."

Ontario Labor Groups Likely Will Form One Federation

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor meets today to approve formation of a single organization for 500,000 members of labor unions in the province.

The meeting followed one Monday of the Ontario Federation of Labor which approved in principle the establishment of a body to represent union membership. The unified group is also to be known as the Ontario Federation of Labor.

By agreement the OFL took the right to name the president of the unified labor body. The OPFL names the secretary – treasurer. Each group names four vice-presidents.

Monday, the OFL chose Clave Kidd of Toronto as president. Five men were nominated for vice-presidential posts.

MUST APPROVE

Each group must approve the principles of amalgamation recommended by a unity committee of the two labor organizations. The principles were approved by the OFL Monday night.

Approval by the OPFL today was regarded as automatic.

The only area of disagreement was considered likely to be on the question of affiliation with the CCF in politics. The OFL favors backing the CCF. The OPFL has followed a policy of not affiliating with any political party. Observers thought the final agreement would probably be for support of the CCF on an individual basis—with unions voting formal support at their membership desires it.

The amalgamation is part of a province-by-province merger of organizations formerly affiliated with either the Trades and Labor Congress or the Canadian Congress of Labor. Themselves now joined in the Canadian Labor Congress. The OPFL was connected with the TLC, the OFL with the CCL.

The two groups are reported agreed on expressing dissatisfaction with the right of management to appeal awards of arbitration committees when they are unsatisfactory to the companies.

The OPFL also wants colored margarine, similar to other increased hospital rates through government – controlled sweepstakes, and amendments to the Ontario Liquor Act.

Two Brothers Die in Hospital

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C (CP)—Two young brothers died in hospital here Monday after drinking a cup each of anti-freeze that had been drained from their father's car.

Police said Mr. Gerald Davey had drained the old anti-freeze from his car radiator and left the container near the auto. The children drank the mixture and their parents didn't discover it until hours later when Stewart, 2, and William, 3, were found lying side and groggy on the lawn.

Detective Tells Of First Talk With Dr. Adams

LONDON (CP)—The defence in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams today challenged a Scotland Yard detective about a "remarkable coincidence" of the Crown witness described as a chance meeting with Adams.

Superintendent Herbert Inman, known to the underworld as "The Count" because of his immaculate dress, arrested Adams in the death of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old rich widow was cremated after her death and her ashes scattered in the English Channel.

Adams is charged with poisoning Mrs. Morrell six years ago with overdoses of drugs at the staid channel coast resort of Eastbourne. The Crown says he removed Mrs. Morrell to benefit from her will.

SAYS CHANCE MEETING

Inman said he "happened to be passing" the mansion when the 58-year-old bachelor died. It was when he first talked to him one evening.

"It was a rather remarkable incidence if that was an entirely unplanned and chance meeting," snapped defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence.

"I don't think so," replied the detective.

Q. The truth of the matter that you were waylaying the man, isn't it?

A. Indeed, I was not.

WANTED TO DIE

Hannam repeated testimony first given at Adams' preliminary hearing—that the doctor told Mrs. Morrell "wanted to die."

He told the jury that Adams spoke thus of Mrs. Morrell:

"Easing the passing of a dying person isn't all that wicked. She wanted to die. That can't be murder. It is impossible to accuse doctors."

Adams is accused of killing Mrs. Morrell to get a chest of antique silver and a Rolls-Royce car from her estate.

"CAN YOU PROVE IT?"

Hannam said he first discussed Mrs. Morrell's death last year during his long investigation of the deaths of several wealthy old people the doctor attended in Eastbourne, Victorian haven for retired gentry.

The hawk-faced, 48-year-old detective said when he went later to arrest the doctor and told him he was being charged with murder, "Dr. Adams replied, "Murder? Then pause for a few seconds and, said, 'Murder, can you prove it was murder?'"

Hannam testified the doctor also said: "I did not think you could prove murder—she was dying in any event."

In a brief left the house, the detective said Adams remarked to the constabulist, "I will see you in heaven."

NOVEL IDEA

Misery loves company.
All editors have miseries.
Ergo—editors are looking for company.
We thought we had found it the other day when, rumbling through the Sudbury Star, our roving eyeballs landed to a halt at the sight of a picture upside down.
Aha — somebody else makes mistakes, too.
The eyeballs got back into low, then halted with a wailing of mental brakes and swung into reverse for a second take.
Why it was not only the picture that was upside down, but the type, too. In fact the whole top half of the page was upside down.
Then we noticed something else.
Midway across the page was this instruction:
"Fold from top to bottom of page, then cut along this line."
Careful inspection revealed that this page, and the reverse sheet, consisted of hockey statistics and a lineup. Designed as the page could be cut out and folded, providing every Sudbury Star subscriber with a program.
Suddenly that nice sociable feeling we were having for the Sudbury Star vanished and was replaced by envy.
No company there for our miseries. Why, instead of being wrong the Star was brilliantly right.

CURSES

Most of us curse too much.
There are some who will vigorously deny that this picture applies to them. They will assert that they never blaspheme.
Many who make such a statement are mistaken. Their mistake is of the same kind as that made in Quebec the other day, where a man complained that what was needed as a variety of innocent expressions to take the place of those words commonly used by French Canadians.
Cursing is not the product of the tongue but of the heart. There is no innocent curse.
That truth was borne home on the writer on his first venture into the high, cold world.
In the last year of high school, he had the opportunity to spend a month with a government survey party.
He was under the illusion that his cursing vocabulary was fairly extensive, but the survey gang, composed largely of university students, soon convinced him of the advantages of college training.
The champion curser was a senior student who was the chief assistant to the professional engineer in charge of the party. His tirades against his comment, when unfavorable, reflected its delicate constitution, were things if not of beauty certainly of power.
On occasions, though, things would go really wrong. One was never left long in doubt of the arrival of such a crisis.
There was a long intake of breath, a pursing of the lips, a puffing of the chest — and then, not an explosion but a long-drawn, awful muttering.
"Holy, dirty dying Dora —".
There followed a string of conventional curse words which would, for discredit, to a drunken Hallowe'en rule-skinner remembering his previous incarnation as a drunken sailor.
But the curse was in those four first words, that "indecent exposition" — "holy, dirty, dying Dora."
Dora must have been some gal.

WILL TOMORROW'S MALES SWOON?

Will males in the twenty-first century blush and swoon, as females did in the Victorian age?
Drawing a long deductive bow after reading a pronouncement by Dr. J. R. Bingham of Toronto Western Hospital, we would say that it is a possibility.
Dr. Bingham says that, until this century, the peptic ulcer was the personal property of women. Now, of course, men have acquired equal rights in this affliction. The reason seems to us that we hear of many more men than women suffering from ulcers.
The ulcer switch is caused by the changing role of men and women and twentieth century life, says Dr. Bingham.
There are as yet no signs that these changes in the place of men and women in our civilization are over.
If the trend continues unchecked, shall we reach the day when mother is the head of the house, in name as well as in fact; when sons are sheltered and chaperoned by father when they're out on dates; when Junior is expected to blush at a risque joke and when he demonstrates his masculinity by fainting at the sight of blood or the prickings of a needle?
Ridiculous? Granted, but then, a couple of centuries ago, the male of the species would have scoffed at the suggestion that he might fall victim to a woman's ailment like an ulcer.

FIRST RAILROAD TRAIN

March 17 was the 100th anniversary of the operation of the first locomotive out of Saint John over part of the Saint John and Shediac Railway. It was a gala day in the old Loyalist City as a large assemblage of citizens gathered to witness the event.
This historic trip was made in 12 minutes. The fares were advertised as sixpence for single passage with 50 tickets for 20 shillings. —Saint John Telegraph Journal.

AWAKENING

There must be rumbling underground
And action known as "stirring 'round."
And every living thing below
Must to each other now admit
The time has come again to grow.
And climb above the earth a bit.

If flowers can talk (perhaps they can)
Then this excitedly is said:
"Get up to work, you lazy man
It's time that you were out of bed.
Get up at once and outside run
In time to see the morning sun.

"It's no use longer lying here,

Get out and feel the falling rain;
This is the season of the year
When you must start to bloom again;
And keep in mind what'er you do,
The weary world has need of you.

"Get out of here and feel the rain
The summer's task is just ahead.
Get up and go to work again
Or passers-by will think you dead.
Get up with bud and leaf and stem,
And give your blossoms gay to them."

Behind Dollar Curtain

Nicholas Monsarrat in the London Daily Express

Canada is the unapproachable corner of the Empire, the country behind the Dollar Curtain.
Unless you are an important business man, or a diplomat, none of you has ever been there—not for 17 years.
When travel to Canada is concerned, the curtain came down in 1939, and it has stayed there ever since. Business men got dollar allocations. Diplomats fly in and out from the high-strung hotel. But ordinary people can't go there at all.
You can go to Spain, and bob-bob with France. You can have a holiday with those nice people in Scandinavia, you can cut a caper in Paris, or break your leg in Switzerland, but you can't go to Canada — and Canada, to us, is now the most important country in the world.
Think of what this ban means to Canadians themselves. It means that they never talk to people from other countries as they are like, or hear their point of view.
It means a whole Canadian generation growing up to whom the English are foreigners and as incomprehensible as Patagonians or Chinese. It means that our two countries are slowly parting —tragically, wastefully and finally.

Canada is a wonderful country, with a fabulous future. It has everything: gold, oil, uranium, timber, fisheries, water power. It has mineral deposits up to the North Pole. In 100 years it is going to be one of the most powerful nations in the world; in 200, maybe the top nation.
Now it has only 16,000,000 people in an area larger than the United States which has 150,000,000).
Until just watch it grow, watch it expand, watch it drive its way to the top. And above all, unless in the meantime you die, watch it disappear out of the commonwealth.

To Stop Fires, Chew 'Baccy

Ottawa Journal

In the office of a woods operator in the Ontario area they were talking about forest fires when a misanthropic old lumberjack entered the discussion. Mr. Frank E. Sidey, district forester for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, reports the lumberjack's contribution.
"If it wasn't for women we would not have these fires. When I was a young fellow, men chewed tobacco and did not go around burning up the woods. It only started during the last 40 odd years that these cigaret smokers started to set the forests on fire.
"Nearly every home had a spittoon near the kitchen stove and then — the woman got refined and that is getting back to original. This is the beginning of the end, the old man was soon told that tobacco chewing was a filthy habit and finally he had to slip off to the barn where he could spit on the floor. They enlisted their daughters in the crusade and have made a man walk for miles to find a store that stocks good chewing.
That is getting back to original causes, and really the situation is more serious than the forests. Many a fire in an easy year or in a moist season would have happened if the occupants of those living quarters had chewed the greatly increased savings of those who are selling more papers and a carelessly - tossed cigaret end can make a dangerous combination. The spittoon and a fire full of chewing tobacco may win an election in Manitoba sometimes but they are calculated to put out fires rather than start them.
But the wheel has turned, the women have had enough of the cuspidor in home or office is as extinct as the dodo, and while old-timers like our friendly lumberjacks may sing a lament for the passing of the old days of the shiny brass spittoon the clock cannot be turned back.

Will Use TV To End Thefts

Electric Eye

In Paris' elegant Printemps department store, an invisible 1,000 shoplifters stole over $220,000 worth of goods last year. Five-thousand of the petty thieves were caught and with them $18,750 worth of property appropriated from Printemps' counters.
But this year the management hopes the story will be different, with no more unsolved whodunits. On the theory that a wink is quicker than the human eye or hand, they had ordered six TV cameras (worth $8,571 each) at strategic observation points in the store.
The cameras flash their pictures on a screen in a guards' room. Monitoring it are detectives who, when they see something suspicious communicate by phone to detectives carrying hidden radio receivers in their pockets.

New Car Carrier

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Competing for the business of carrying automobiles, the Canadian National Railways started with a new car 74 feet long, 16 feet, 4 inches high, designed for loading on two tiers. At this height it is a good thing it runs on railways and it is only because the CNR doesn't make mistakes of that kind that we don't wonder about how it will get under some bridges and through some tunnels.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FORTIFYING FOR EMERGENCIES

The happy and least disturbed are those who look ahead, planning for days that might bring forth difficult emergencies. It is encouraging to read of the greatly increased savings of those who are setting aside something, all the time in the savings banks of the country. This is a most wise plan — far better than being in debt to those who glory in the cash customer.
If we are wise we will save, and conserve our strength and health, and be prepared for what the happier days ahead. Our bodies need to be fortified against ill health and prepared for all emergencies. It is pleasant to experience the satisfaction and security that a savings account affords.
The healthy are not only the happiest but the healthier, for they waste none of the forces that add to contentment of mind. If you harbor worry you harbor a destroying force that may crumble all the forces of security and leave you insecure and confused. Here it is that faith comes in as the great antidote. Have faith and you will have courage.
Believe in yourself. —Believe in God. Believe in a life triumphant. Take all life as good. Purify your faith with deeds. Do not fear emergencies, but be prepared to face them. Never be afraid. Think of those who have mastered all privations and who have fought against the pressure of circumstances.
I like that line from Browning: "Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's Heaven for?" All the days of our life we should be fortifying ourselves against the former days, and the expected emergencies. "Down but not out" is a Salvation Army motto, but one that can be well taken to heart.

Colonialism Many Sided

The Times of London

Foreign bases are a good stick to beat governments with, and Italy when they can carry the charge of colonialism. It's rare for a country to find the base it needs without some embarrassing strings to its hands whose sympathies may be turned against it. For some years this possibility has been present in the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, where the Americans have built their biggest airfields in the Far East.
The status of the Ryukyu Islands—of which Okinawa is the largest — was left somewhat vague by the Peace Treaty with Japan. While Japanese sovereignty was recognized, the islands were put under American military administration. For some years this was accepted without demur by all except by the extreme left, but the campaign carried on by the Socialists was given a fillip last July when the American authorities proposed to substitute a lump sum payment instead of the annual rental they had been paying for land occupied by their bases. This, it was argued in Japan, might open the way for a permanent American occupation. The position of Okinawa has been further complicated by the recent negotiations with the Russians. Would the Russians be more likely to return the southern Kuriles if Japan regained full control over Okinawa?
The parallel with Cyprus is sufficiently close to be an unpleasant reminder of how the problem could develop. It is never easy to safeguard a base without civil jurisdiction. Even in the Philippines there is a deadlock over the negotiation of a 99-year lease for American bases. In Japan itself anti-American feeling has been whipped up wherever American bases exist, and the population of Okinawa may be finding their present

The Common Cold Prevails Among The Unenlightened

In the C R I book (coined word: it stands for Common Respiratory Infections; rhymes with "ski". or "gee" in "gee whiz."), I quote the eminent British physiologist, Dr. Leonard Hill:
"It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk. It is good to go out and be braced by feeling cold and to be impelled to take vigorous exercise."
Long before Dr. Hill sanctioned it, I had believed it is always better to wear too little clothing than it is to wear too much clothing for comfort.
In the past quarter of a century numerous investigations of "the common cold" have been launched in America. Each project has a public relations department complete with "science writers" who inform the public here and there 'colds' the average person has per annum, how much absence from work due to "colds" may per annum and how "promising" the expedition is that will lead to the cure and cure of the "common cold." Then the ship sails — and is never heard from again.
There's no great mystery about it. The investigation is halted when the sponsor decides to spend no more money on it. The working members realize, after a few months, that they are pursuing a will-o'-the-wisp and drop out one after another.
If a study of the "cold" question carried on for several years, using human subjects (who volunteered) by British Medical Research Council found:
(1) Ordinary everyday "exposure" to cold, dampness, wet feet, drafts, etc., has no ill effect. It may cause some discomfort for the moments, but that's all.
(2) Persons so "exposed" are no more susceptible to respiratory infection than persons who have carefully avoided "exposure." The unexposed group were as easily inoculated with material from a case of the cet as the exposed.
Apparently the medical and health authorities in America do not intend to recognize these British findings. "What's understanding-findings." To acknowledge the truth about "exposure" now would be almost tantamount to admitting they have been handing the public a lot of hooey in the last 50 years.

Strength for The Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOCRATES ON EDUCATION

Here are some great words which Socrates uttered centuries ago on the subject of education. In a day when we are selling and thinking so much about education, they have in them a quality of wisdom which we may well ponder.
"Whom then, do I call educated?" asks Socrates.
"First, those who control circumstances instead of being mastered by them; those who meet all occasions manfully and who deal with intelligent thinking; those who are honorable in their dealings; those who are tuneful in their pleasures and discreet in their sorrows; those who are temperate; and furthermore those who keep their pleasures under control and are not overcome by intoxication. Finally, those who are not spoiled by success."
One marvels at times over the wisdom that comes out of antiquity. This man Socrates had very little in the way of background. He was born, he lived in an age characterized by the emergence of great thinkers. Neither he nor his comrades had the vast background of information that we have today. And yet he, and many who were associated with him, had the capacity to pierce into the very center of truth and to reveal it to others.
We have no books today, no committee reports, which discuss education as wisely or plumb the depths of the truth more deeply.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my country friends who quite accidentally made himself a millionaire by lending a friend a few hundred dollars to file some mining claims, quit school at 14 boy, before he had tried his entrance. Some people with a million dollars would be a bit awed or harassed by their educational or cultural shortcomings. But not my country friend.
He calls them as he sees them. "Say, canapes is a funny name," he him. He threw a small party for some of his business friends recently, and when the floor waiter arrived at the hotel room, very correctly, with the menu, my rough-dowdy country friend said:
"We'll start off with some canapes."
The waiter, who I think was Czech or possibly Ukrainian, never turned a hair.
"Canapes, sir!" said he, correctly, making a notation on his pad.
Not canapays. The world is full of people with not fifty dollars to their name who get a great solace out of the fact that they can pronounce canape with the true, the Gallic accent. Each to his solace.
"Why," enquired my friend, "do they call them little doo-dads canapes? One-bite sandwiches! Wouldn't that name do as well?"
I didn't know, so we sent for the dictionary, down in the hotel library, I said: "Canape: a thin piece of bread, toast, etc., spread or topped with anchovies, caviar, anchovies or other appetizing foods. See Canopy."
We looked up Canopy, and it said: "A covering suspended or supported over a throne, bed, etc., or held over a person, sacred object etc. etc. An overhanging projection or shelter. Archit., an ornamental roofike projection or covering. The sky."
My seventh grade millionaire friend said: "Let's eat 'em raw!"
The more you investigate some things, the dimmer they get. So we looked in French dictionary. And all it said was:
"Canapes—adv."
"Aha—that's it!" my friend cried, illumined. "Things you eat sitting on a sofa."
And that's the way we et 'em.

For a little Hampshire lamb named Kim the beautiful blanket of snow presented by Mrs. Anderson's cattle ranch near Carson City, Nev., meant only cold wet discomfort wherever she went. But when Kim's mother lay down Kim found a way to escape the snow. She hopped on her mother's back and snuggled there warm and dry.
Her master had never seen a lamb bed down that way and even the Basque sheepherders in the sheep and country around in sheepherding, were surprised. But it wasn't long before the other lambs, in sheepskin coats of their own, were hopping on their mothers' backs too.

JESUS LOVED THEM

by Patrick and Garrison

MATTHEW

...And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. . .

—Matthew IX:9

Matthew, originally called Levi, was a native of Galilee, but Scripture does not say of which city, nor of which tribe of Israel.

Although a Jew, he apparently enjoyed the confidence of the Romans, whom he served as a publican or tax collector. His job was that of collecting custom duties and fees from persons and commodities that passed over the Sea of Galilee, or along the portion of the Damascus road that skirted it.

After Jesus called him to be an apostle, Matthew, who was evidently a man of means, gave a feast at his home. In addition to Jesus, who was probably guest of honor, he invited others of the disciples as well as several publicans and friends.

His idea in giving such a banquet would appear to be twofold: to mark the end of one way of life and the beginning of a new way as a disciple of Jesus; and to give his former companions an opportunity to know something of the new Gospel that had changed his life.

Matthew's personal stature grows when seen in the perspective of his personal life and environment prior to his meeting Jesus: a man of education and wealth, the handler of money—that symbol of materialism and wordly greed—he had only to be bidden, "Follow me," and he turned his back resolutely and finally upon the past.

After the Ascension, Matthew remained in Jerusalem with the other Apostles. On the day of Pentecost, according to the Scriptural account, he received the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Christians are greatly indebted to Matthew for his version of the Gospel, in which he carefully preserved the words and parables of Jesus.

The Bible does not tell how long Matthew remained in Judea after the Ascension, but a fifth-century church historian relates that he was martyred in Ethiopia, where he had gone as a Christian missionary.

SIMON The Zealc

. . .and Simon, called Zelotes.

—Luke VI:15

Aside from this brief reference (and similar references in the other Gospels), the New Testament tells us very little of Simon, except that he was called by Jesus to be one of the twelve disciples.

Luke indicates that he was a member of the Zealots, a Jewish sect which adhered strictly to Mosaic ritual, and advocated the assertion of religious liberty by force of arms.

Elsewhere he is called the Canaanite, referring not to the place of his birth, but to the Hebrew word signifying "to be zealous." Luke, who wrote his Gospel in Greek, merely used the Greek term meaning the same thing.

The sect of Zealots is believed to have been organized by a fierce patriot known as Judas the Galilean who, when Judea was made a Roman province, publicly urged the people to resist Roman rule, and to refuse to pay taxes.

The Jewish historian, Josephus, paints a very derogatory picture of the Zealots in their later history during the siege of Jerusalem under Vespasian.

According to his account, they assassinated many of the most eminent citizens of the Holy City, and created such internecine conflicts among the Jews that they fell easy prey to the Roman stackers.

Even the Zealots themselves were divided into two factions, the historian relates, whose struggles among themselves hastened the fall of Jerusalem.

It may well be that Simon the Zealot was one of the followers of Jesus who believed that He might be a political deliverer who would overthrow the hated rule of Rome.

In one of his most widely quoted poems, the American poet, Ezra Pound, tried to imagine the thoughts of Simon the Zealot, following the Crucifixion. The work is called, "Ballad of the Goodly Fere," and one of the stanzas quotes the disciple as saying:

"A master of men was the Goodly Fere
A mate of the wind and sea.
If they think they ha' slain our Goodly Fere
They are fools eternally."

Record Budget Is Presented In Manitoba

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A record budget of $76,924,000 for the fiscal year 1957-58 has been introduced in the Manitoba legislature.

A government amendment to the Elections Act calling for an increase in the number of provincial constituencies was proposed Monday in the Alberta legislature.

Provincial Treasurer C. E. Greenlay Monday brought down the Manitoba budget which estimates a surplus of $137,000. He said an amusement tax or recession to the motion picture theatre industry will be effective May 1 with tickets not exceeding 50 cents in price being tax exempt. Previously the maximum non-taxable ticket price was 30 cents.

Only other tax change is the taking over from the federal government of a tax on the premium income earned in Manitoba by insurance corporations. Mr. Greenlay estimated the tax would amount to about $1,200,000 during the current fiscal year.

CALLS FOR INCREASE

The bill before the Alberta legislature calls for an increase in provincial seats to 65 from 61. The extra seats would not go into effect until the general election of 1959 or 1960 and would raise Calgary representation by one to seven, Edmonton to nine from seven and would split the Peace River constituency into two seats.

The opposition criticized the move, saying redistribution now is premature and based on outdated census figures.

Approval in principle was given in the Saskatchewan legislature to a new federal-provincial tax rental agreement under which the province will receive an additional $2,600,000 this year. The province now will receive $34,000,000.

The report of the Walker commission investigating fruit cold storage plants in the Annapolis Valley was tabled in the Nova Scotia legislature. It recommends a general rehabilitation of the province's apple industry to ensure an adequate supply of top-quality fruit and fair returns to growers.

CCF Leader Calls Galt Training School for Girls 'Juvenile Bastille'

TORONTO (CP) — CCF Leader MacDonald has made it clear he intends to keep hammering away at the primitive policies in Ontario reform institutions.

Shouting and desk - thumping broke out in the legislature Monday night when the 42-year-old Socialist ignored a plea for restrained debate by Reforms Minister Foote and labelled the new Galt Training School for incorrigible Girls a "juvenile Bastille" and a "penal monstrosity."

"Detention cells, to house girls as young as 10, had no natural light, open toilets and cots attached to the walls by chains, he said.

Mr. MacDonald said the record of Ontario reform institutions 'is use of corporal punishment is the worst in the civilized world.

"Guelph has one of the most shameful records this side of the Iron Curtain."

URGES CHANGES

He urged the government to reorganize "this century" thinking in the department and make changes in the top personnel of a "hopelessly inadequate" professional staff.

Earlier Reforms Minister Foote had warned that if in debate over his estimates Mr. MacDonald repeated his harsh criticism of last year it would weaken discipline in the institutions and make it difficult to hire qualified staff.

Mr. Foote asked for restraint during debate over his estimates and warned that "everything that is said here which is rash and without foundation will only lead to trouble. Any unjust or distorted criticism of my staff will weaken their ability to handle the inmates."

Mr. Foote singled out Mr. MacDonald as one of those who urge all discipline be abolished and "refuse to pay any attention to those who have had many years of practical service in dealing with the people we get in our institutions."

He described Mr. MacDonald's criticism of last year as a "dismal brook." Afterward, he said, "we couldn't retain some of the fine people we already had working for us.

NOT GOING TO STAY

"They are not going to stay when they are bitterly and unfairly attacked. I have complete confidence in my staff."

In introducing his estimates later Mr. Foote said he has been advised by the Elizabeth Fry Society that what he had taken last week as being an apology for comments by society members on the new school at Galt was not really an apology.

"I apologize to the society president for accepting her apology as an apology," he said. "I apologize for taking her at her word. It is a mistake I will never repeat."

The reforms minister said Galt possessed the most up-to-date occupational therapy and the cells referred to by Mr. MacDonald were used for sleeping only. Premier Frost said the surroundings are quite good but calculated to do something about incorrigibles who are sent to the department as a last resort.

Mr. Frost said he thinks the great majority of the people feel the reforms institutions are well run.

CALLS REMARKS DRIVEL

James Maloney (PC—Renfrew South) accused Mr. MacDonald of seeking headlines by distorting facts. He described the CCF leader's remarks as irresponsible, unadulterated drivel with only one motive—to tear down something which is known as good.

Mr. MacDonald said the department had "hopelessly inadequate" professional staff to fit treatment to the offender.

Statistics given him by the government showed corporal punishment was administered 651 times during 1952 to 1955 while other countries had abolished the punishment years ago. He said the government did not give him a breakdown of the figures by institutions because it knows the record is shameful.

Mr. Frost said it is a modern record covering 50,000 inmates. He said the CCF leader was given all the information relevant because nothing could be gained by a breakdown.

Mr. MacDonald said the department did not have sufficient professional staff to call the Galt school a training school.

LIKE "ANIMAL"

He told the House that when he visited the Galt school he found the detention cells full and saw one girl huddled "like a defiant little animal" in the hall. One girl had been in detention 23 days. The problem of detention was abused.

Mr. Foote said approximately 73 per cent of the government's wards have adjusted satisfactorily in normal life.

He said the new Galt institution was built because of pressure from women's groups to take the girls from Mercer Reformatory. The reformatory was doing a good job of rehabilitation.

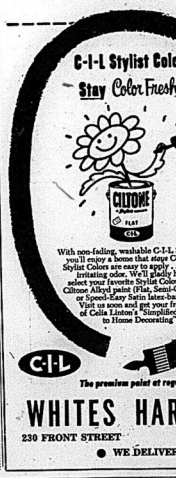
Mr. Foote defended the layout of the new institution which provided the latest in occupational therapy.

EFFORTS EXHAUSTED

Mr. Maloney said the minister did not have to apologize for the new building which is known as a maximum security institute for incorrigible girls. Every effort had been exhausted to help them.

He told the House that Mr. MacDonald's statements were conceived in ignorance and the CCF leader should apologize to the Galt school administrator.

Considering its purpose, the building is one of the most modern and best-equipped, Mr. Maloney said. Each room was radiant heated, air-conditioned and had drinking fountains.



George Wardrope (PC — Port Arthur) said the Galt institution is "one we can be proud of." He said he was disgusted with the "maulesding" statements of Mr. MacDonald.

Children's Operetta Has Final Showing

On Monday evening the final performance of the children's Operetta "Fairies are Really Truly" was held in Queen Elizabeth school.

The curtain opened upon evening in the misty field, Heidi and Dotty, who have run away from their playmates, and are spending the night here, are asleep among the daisies.

Dotty dreams that she joins the Evening Breezes in a dance and that the Runaway Fairy dances for her. Morning brings her dream true, since the fairy who had hidden among the daisies comes out to speak to her.

Teddy's doubts about fairies are easily swept away and the fairy takes them in a chariot to Fairyland.

ACT II

Act II opens in Fairyland. The fairies are in deep distress because of a village of children who do not believe in them. They spend a delightful day in Fairyland. They are appointed King and Queen of a village of unbelieving children. In due time they return to Fairyland with a message from unbelieving children asking forgiveness of the fairies. Teddy and Dotty are crowned King and Queen forever of the children who need and love fairies.

The entire story was depicted by the singing of the choirs, dancing and drama.

Much credit is due Miss Lillian Hoag for the scenery painting which, as mentioned depicted a scene in the woods in daisy time. Miss Hart also designed many of the costumes. The making of these costumes was supervised by Miss Young, Miss Gilmour, Miss Weddell, Miss Gaylord, Miss Gilmour, Miss Tonkin and Miss Blue.

Property manager was Mr. George Wallace, while the lighting was capably handled by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thompson.

Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Steenburg were in charge of make-up.

The choirs were under the direction of Mrs. J. Sarzetti; drama, Miss O. Elson; choreography, Miss R. Simcock.

Mrs. V. Nearing Defeated on Twenty-One

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, television's quiz show giant killer, was defeated on Twenty One Monday night by Hank Bloomgarden, a young New York administrative consultant in medical research.

Mrs. Nearing two weeks ago defeated Charles Van Doren, Columbia University teacher who had amassed the largest fortune of any winner in a single quiz show —$129,000.

Bloomgarden became the new champion of the NBC show when Mrs. Nearing failed to place the correct island group. It's in the Canary Islands.

The young research consultant correctly placed five islands and won $10,500 of the $16,000 she had earned. She left with $5,500.

Bloomgarden then went on to defeat Dr. Henry Noble Mac-cracken, 76, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., president emeritus of Vassar College and the author or editor of 15 books.

At the end of the show, Bloomgarden had $21,000 to his credit.

Young Couple Honored by Gift Shower

A miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cummings, 354 Foster Avenue, in honor of their niece, Mrs. Jim Fox, the former Doreen Cornell, a bride of the month.

Mrs. Cummings, who made the presentations on behalf of his wife, friends and relatives, wished the bride and bridegroom many years of happily married life.

The young couple received many lovely gifts for which they graciously thanked their friends.

A candle-lit buffet luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Stewart DeRushie, of Point Anne.

The table, lovely with a hand made Madeira cloth, was centred with snapdragons and tall pink candles.

The bride and bridegroom's mothers poured tea and coffee.

Relatives and friends attended from Oshawa, Redneresville, Point Anne, Corbyville and Belleville

Victoria W.A. Presents Travelling Case

CARRYING PLACE

Mrs. Harmon Montgomery was hostess for the March meeting of Victoria W.A. on Wednesday evening when there was a good attendance.

Mrs. F. Townsend, first vice - president, was in charge and opened with a "call to worship" poem, "Praise the Lord for He is Kind" was sung with Mrs. Hubert Townsend at the piano. A prayer hymn was read in unison.

The minutes were read by secretary, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery and approved. Roll was called and some dues paid. An invitation was read from Wellington W. A. to meet with them on April 23.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Waterhouse for the plant the W.A. had sent Mr. Waterhouse in the hospital was read. Two convalescing members were welcomed to the meeting, Mrs. Henry Montgomery, and Mrs. Sidney Fox.

Mrs. McIntyre was in charge of the devotional with hymn "Fight the Good Fight."

Mrs. Clifford Calnan read the Scripture lesson on "Faith" and Mrs. Dempsey read "Thoughts on the Lesson", and readings were given on "Faith" by Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Elson Adams.

PROGRAM

For the program Mrs. W. Knox read a Negro story "The Ship of Faith", Mrs. Hubert Townsend gave a reading and Mrs. Melvin Pulver led in a contest "Place in Prince Edward."

Following the closing of the meeting, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery presented a cleverly arranged "Who Am I?" contest in verse in which each took part. The guesses went wide of the mark until the final verses were reached when all knew that the "Who Am I" was a valued W. A. member, Mrs. McIntyre who sails in May for a visit to her home in Scotland after 25 years absence.

On behalf of the members she was presented with a wardrobe case by Mrs. Faulkner for which she feelingly replied.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Montgomery and committee and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

The April meeting is to be held at the home of Miss Audra Brickman.

Surprise Party Marks 25th Anniversary

A delightful surprise party was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cleaver, 38 Graham Street, when relatives and friends gathered together to wish Mr. and Mrs. Cleaver best wishes on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The evening was spent playing progressive euchre. Later, delicious refreshments were served, including a beautiful anniversary cake decorated in pink and white rosebuds and bells, and in writing, "Congratulations on your 25th anniversary to Herbie and Stella."

Mr. and Mrs. Cleaver were the recipients of some lovely and useful gifts.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LET HIM RUN AFTER YOU!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is a boy I've known for about seven years and we have liked each other a lot. Lately, though, I've been in the hospital and he seems to have lost interest in me. He's 15 and I'm 14.

How can I get him to pay attention to me again? I've gone with lots of other boys, but even though they are lots of fun, they are not like him. — R.E.B.

Dear R.E.B:

Don't let yourself get the idea that you can get this boy to pay attention to you again by running after him in any way. If there is any running after to be done, you prefer to be the ones to do it.

What you should do is to keep on going out with the other boys and really enjoying it. Also, take part in as many of the school and community activities as you can. Boys get to know that the girls who have lots of friends, and lots of things they are interested in are always a lot more fun to be with, and this boy won't be any exception to this rule. Remember if it should happen that he gets interested in you, that many people, the girl instead of yourself, you will find some other boy will soon take his place in your affections. Naturally, the second boy would not be just like the first, since each one of us has an individual personality. But, he might be even more attractive!

HE'S IN LOVE WITH YOU! NONSENSE!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

For some weeks now, a man who works down the street from me has been asking me to ride home with him.

Because this man is married, I refused the offer, but he tells me he's in love with me. Another reason for refusing it is because he is 30 years old and I'm 17, although everyone tells me that I act very much older than my age.

I've explained that I have no interest in him, and told him that a love which is not returned must die. But he just laughs and tells me that his love for me will never die. I've reminded him about he is just being silly and telling me about his "forced marriage."

How can I reject him without hurting him? — O.

Dear O.:

The last thing you need to worry about is hurting this two-timing husband. Do you really believe that "nonsense about his being in love with you? Because if you do, you're a very foolish girl. Even a girl of 17 should have the sense to realize that a normal man of 30 doesn't fall in love with an adolescent.

I won't go so far as to say this man means you any real harm, but he certainly doesn't mean you any good, and if you're as much older for your age as you think you are, prove it by stopping the dramatics — the love which is not returned must die" forsooth! — and telling him in no uncertain terms to keep away from you.

WHEN IS a bib not a bib? When it's a bandana, of course! Your boy may resent the baby type of bib, but won't mind wearing a real cowboy neckerchief. Sew strings to two corners, tie as usual. Dribble problems will be solved without injury to masculine ego.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A BEAUTY PICTURE IN LILAC AND LAVENDER

A tiny bunch of violets accents the color tones which the woman of fashion is sporting this spring.

Every few years a color trend sweeps through the fashion and beauty world with the force of a tidal wave . . . a tidal wave of which no woman can possibly be unaware and few can resist. This is what has happened to the lilac, lavender, pink violet and hyacinth tones this season. The spectrum spun from the deep purples which were popular during the winter months and came to rest upon the softer shades of the same color . . . to stay there, shining brilliantly through every top fashion collection in suits, coats, dresses, chiffon scarves, jewelry—and new cosmetics!

One well known manufacturer has produced a luscious lipstick with matching nail polish to wear with these fresh-flower shades of lavender, called "lilac champagne" it's a slightly intoxicating lilac, pink-tinged and unusually flattering in that it seems to be becoming to almost every complexion. Where your costume is violet, mauve, wistaria or lilac, this new lip and nail color seems to make you prettier. Further, it seems to complement perfectly the soft, misty delightful, for instance, with a muted wistaria tweed suit at luncheon, a lovely orchid or amethyst cashmere country coat, a shade that harmonizes flatteringly with a violent chiffon dinner dress.

The cosmeticians, however, have not stopped with lipstick and nail polish. To complement the new fashions, there are pinky powders, blue-cast lipsticks, as well as the lilac one mentioned above, and shades of mascara and eyeshadow in eye-awakening shades ranging all the way from deepest purple to softly luminous orchid. To wear them well, however, you will have to experiment and see just which shade is most flattering to your own special type of beauty. And, while you're at it, you may want to experiment with a harmonizing shade of hair. Yes, that's what we said . . . lavender hair! As one noted hair coloring expert puts it.

"To be truly in fashion this Spring, your hair, as well as your clothes and cosmetics, will reflect the return of the 'mauve decade.' And, since every fashion-fold your cosmetics will reflect the lilac or lavender trend, why not lavender-toned hair to complete the pretty picture?"

As he explains, it's easy to rinse delightful lavender casts into to your hair right at home. Using either a colorinse or colorlint, blondes and gray-haired gals can achieve a delightful new look by pouring the platinum shade over their tresses. And, for a light blue cast, blue-gray will turn the trick. To be still more exciting, they can get deep purple overtones by combining 2-parts blue-gray with 1-part auburn. Brunettes and girls with jet black hair will find that a blue-gray gives them wonderful lavender-blue highlights. And for the brown-haired lassies, advice is to go as auburn as possible because this shade will act as a delightful foil for the pinky, purply clothes.

What happens when Milady tires of lavender tresses? Well, she rinses it right out. Colorinse is a temporary coloring, disappearing with your next shampoo. Colorlint lasts through three shampoos. And since both are very moderate in price, they're a most inexpensive way to have fun with fashion.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT: ABOUT KIND WORDS

"Kind words are benedictions." — Frederick Saunders, "Stray Leaves."

WEDDING GUEST AND RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When attending a wedding reception should one shake hands with everyone in the receiving-line? If so, in what order? — Ann.

Yes, the wedding guest should shake hands with every member of the receiving-line . . . in the order in which they are standing. Customarily first in the line is the bride's mother, the hostess of the wedding. Next to her may be the bride's father, the host of the wedding, although sometimes he prefers to mingle with the guests. The groom's mother and father may be next, for they are the parents of honor of the wedding; or the groom's father may prefer to mingle with the guests. Bride and bridegroom stand together, the rule being that the bride stands to the right of the groom. Then the maid (or matron) of honor; and then the bridesmaids.

There are no fixed rules about the bridesmaids' line standing-line, but this is a general suggestion. You greet and shake hands with the members of the line, and make a few pleasant comments about the wedding and/or the bride, and so forth. And this is a guest's procedure whether or not she is to receive the one being greeted. If the name is not announced, it is the considerate guest at once (and very distinctly) introduces herself to himself).

ENGAGED WEDDING INVITATIONS WHEN BRIDE IS NOT LEGALLY ADOPTED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We really very much need your help in a delicate matter concerning the wording of a wedding invitation that is most important to us. We have adopted a girl, and now she is about to be married. We have never legally adopted her, but many of our friends and new acquaintances think of her own. That's the way she wants it, and of course, her wish about it makes us very happy. Her own parents wouldn't let us adopt her legally, but neither did they want her, and for years they have completely forgotten her. So we must find our own words and thought of her as ours, our daughter. Now comes the problem of whether or not we should use "daughter" in our invitations to her wedding. She wishes us to use "at the wedding of their daughter Margaret," omitting any last name for her. Of course we'd love to say "daughter" because that is what we all feel about her. Please advise me, for I just don't know what to do. — Reader

What wonderful human beings you all are in your home, with hearts so full of "the milk of human kindness"! A kind Providence has always seen to it that your girl to give her, and so bountifully, the love and security of you and your family. My deep salutations to your goodness, dear lady.

Now about those invitations. One excellent solution to your problem, and in correct form, would be for you, as hostess of the wedding, to write notes of invitation. This would be proper, if you wish, even though the wedding is to be more or less on the side of formality: for example, a large church wedding, bride dressed in wedding dress and bridal veil, all other details also on the idea of a formal wedding. A note of invitation to a wedding is an especially friendly gesture. And in the notes you would have the advantage of not having to mention a relationship or a last name.

Your notes might read somewhat like this:

Dear Elizabeth,

Margaret and Peter Hill are to be married on Saturday, June 1st, at four o'clock, in the——Church, and it would make us all happy if you and Donald will come to the ceremony and afterward to the reception here in our house for this, wherever the reception is to be).

Do tell us you two dear friends will be with us on this important occasion!

Devotedly,
Ruth Blake

But if you and the bride-to-be still prefer to send formal invitations, I think that under the circumstances, it would not be wise or even safe to use "daughter," even though your loving hearts are inclined to this dear word. She isn't legally your daughter, and let's face it her parents are, I infer, still living, and might, most unfortunately, question your right.

However, you may properly omit mentioning any relationship, but give her last name, Lile for IVANHOE — The March meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Sidmer Reid, where a delightful dinner was served to 27 guests.

The meeting was opened with quiet music by Mrs. George Wood at the piano, and the call to worship given by Mrs. Don McFadden reading a passage of Scripture.

Mrs. Donald Reid had charge of the program and led in prayer for the Missionary for prayer.

Mrs. Teskey gave a reading "My Creed for Today". Mrs. Goldie McInroy contributed a lovely solo, "I Have a Saviour", accompanied by Mrs. Keith Bray at the piano.

The study book was given by Mrs. George Wood on "The Isle of Formosa"; Scripture reading was from Luke 18: 9-18 which was read by Mrs. M. MacMillan, with Mrs. Bray giving the explanation on these verses.

Mrs. Arthur Wood gave a paper on "The Six Conditions for Prayer", written by Mrs. William Shaw.

Mrs. Bray, the president, had charge of the business and session with seventeen members present.

Final arrangements were made for an open meeting to be held in April. A letter was read thanking the society for fruit, also a letter from Deseronto WMS extending an invitation to their meeting to be held on April the 9th.

Mrs. Bray expressed thanks to Mrs. Reid for opening her home.

The customer — or reader in this case — is always right. You want "more Chinese dishes" and since I have them and they would be a "welcome change from common Canadian fare get down the rice and soy sauce, sharpen up your sliecing knife, sensalize your left touch and let's go. I hope Tena W. and Mrs. Haddon P. catch sight of this.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Braised Liver Creole, Buttered Noodles, Broccoli or Sprouts, Raw Carrot Curls, Jellied Canned Cherries, Rodgy's Favorite Cookies (see Monday) ,Coffee.

Cooks who boil the living daylights out of vegetables have to change their ways if they are going to cook Chinese style. Vegetables are never cooked by Chinese until they are soft. If they do retain some of the original crispness the dish as a failure. Enough said!

FRIED RICE

is given here first because it is so commonly served with Chinese dishes. Its stew wash 1 cup raw rice (long grain is best) under running water 1 minute. Drain. Add rice to 1½ cups boiling water, bring to quick boil covered, lower heat as much as possible, cook 35 minutes. Turn off heat let stand covered 15 minutes. Heat ¼ cup peanut oil in large frying pan, add 1 slightly beaten egg, stir immediately until it firms up and then add the cooked rice, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup finely chopped green onion, 1½ tablespoons soy sauce. Blend and cook gently 7 minutes. May be cooked in advance and reheated in double boiler. This is also moulded in custard cups. Serves four.

TENDER BEEF WITH STRING BEANS

Four cups string beans cut in 2-in. pieces (2-ft. long Chinese string beans are purchasable in Chinatown but are not necessary); steam these in small amount of water or chicken stock covered for 8 minutes. Drain, save liquid; pour cold water over, to set color. Cut 1½ lbs. tender steak or tenderloin of beef into thin strips 1 x 2 inches. Fry ½ cup hot peanut oil in pan add 1 teaspoon salt and 2 garlic cloves slivered and saute the meat in it 5 minutes, turning often. Add drained string beans and saute 2 minutes longer. To 1 cup cold bean liquid add 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon white seasoning (MSG), pepper and 1 teaspoon Chinese molasses. Stir this into the meat and beans until it thickens and clears. Serve immediately on attractive dish, with Fried Rice. Serves 4 to 5 people.

FOO CHOW SCRAMBLE

One-half lb. each mushrooms and fresh bean sprouts (or 8-oz can all sliced mushrooms and 1 20-oz. tin canned bean sprouts); butter, 6 eggs, ½ cup cream, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Saute cleaned and sliced mushrooms in 2 tbsps. butter until lump, then add the washed and drained bean sprouts (see these in Chinese store), and gently saute until barely limp. Beat cream, mushrooms and sprouts are used drain well before sauteing and sqz liquid for some other purpose.) Beat the eggs with cream and seasonings beaten well. Melt remaining butter in pan with butter melted to golden, stirring constantly. Place vegetable mixture in mound on hot platter, serve scrambled eggs over it. Serves 6 people. Pass soya sauce and rice.

MAYOR AND FRIEND

Calgary's Mayor Don Mackay, wearing his familiar white cowboy hat, stands beside an Indian in full tribal regalia. An honorary chief of four Indian tribes and a deputy sheriff of Texas, the colorful mayor has given many cowboy hats away but considers the one he watches the flavor of growing Calgary's cowboy days. Expect Calgary to Outgrow Edmonton Due to Terrific Gas Boom of Last Few Years

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — A dangling title, swinging north and south for nearly 200 miles, has kept Alberta's two thriving cities locked in a friendly feud for the last 10 years.

Calgary has long felt that no other city dare claim to be the oil capital of Canada. Edmonton, fastest growing city in Canada, has answered the challenge with the like own volley of claims to the title.

But already on the horizon are the rumblings of a natural gas flurry which would edge out the oil boasts.

SEES ANOTHER BOOM

To Calgary's Mayor Don Mackay "natural gas development will echo the oil boom of a decade ago." It will, he says, soundly establish Calgary as the financial and commercial centre of the industry.

Skyscraper headquarters of oil companies here give weight to the city's slogan: "The skyline that enterprise built." Squat buildings which once served the cattle trade have given way to six and 19-storey offices.

On such count Mayor Mackay dice told an oil company meeting in Edmonton: "I bring you greetings from your head office."

Increasing concentration of oil exploration to the north of Edmonton doesn't seem to bother the breezy, cowboy-hatted mayor.

"The development of the north for oil will echo down the British Columbia interior to Vancouver and not into Edmonton," he says.

Beneath the "sodin" dust-jacket, however, Calgary is still reeling under the effects of the oil boom sparked by its discovery at Leduc in 1947.

RAPID EXPANSION

Expanding at a rate second only to Edmonton, Calgary in the last five years has increased its population 40 per cent. The latest population figure for metropolitan Calgary is 181,000, compared with 177,309 in 1955. Edmonton had a population of 360,000 in 1956.

Industrialization has become the byword of civic officials. In the last three years $15,000,000 worth of industry moved into the Calgary area.

Cost of natural gas here is a favorable factor for industry. It is 90 per cent of the Edmonton rate, 4.8 times lower than in Toronto and 8.2 times lower than the Toronto rate.

Planning has gone along with expansion. Industrial sites have been set aside and residential building, hemmed in on the north and east by factories and warehouses, has had to fan out to the southwest.

A total of 5,423 building permits were issued in 1956 for construction worth $61,079,219. In the previous year 5,315 permits were let out for $58,898,870.

To make Calgary more attractive to diversified and secondary industries, the city established two municipally owned 50-acre industrial districts. One land is made available at $5,000 an acre, including all utilities, a deep base road and spur railway facilities.

Calgary is also thinking of installing storm sewers at a cost of $5,000,000, sewage disposal units for $1,000,000 and residential paving projects worth $2,500,000.

New industries or additions to existing plant in 1956 totalled $7,285,000 and $2,246,900 of this was done on land purchased from the city.

The year, according to practically all business indicators, was one of the most prosperous in the city's history.

Bank clearings climbed steeply to $4,310,704,922 from $3,160,275,728 in 1955. Post office receipts rose to $2,831,845 from $2,600,579 and customs receipts to $22,720,163 from $19,019,451. Permits for business construction increased to $5,416,125 to $24,193,902. Retail sales were up 10 to 15 per cent over 1955.

The Alberta Stock Yards Ltd., second largest in Western Canada, handled 381,299 cattle and 178,034 hogs during 1956 compared with 310,122 cattle and 208,789 hogs the previous year.

Middle East Being Crossroads Of Earth, World Has Stake in Solution of Palestine Issue

Editor's note: A firm resolve by the Jews that they will hold onto Palestine and an equal determination by the Arabs that they will not have precipitated a world crisis. What are the interests that lie in their claim to the land they call Zion? Here is a report that traces the path its people from their origins in the mists of history.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Israel has set her life on peace in a land that has known little peace for 3,000 years.

By withdrawing from territories she conquered in November, Israel gambled that Western statesmanship can turn her Arab neighbors instead to their own problems and prevent a holocaust which would imperil the future of the world.

The Middle East being what it is, a crossroads of the earth, the whole world has a stake in solution of the Palestine question.

On the 10th day of the month of Tyar in the year 5708 by the Hebrew calendar — May 14, 1948 — the state of Israel was reborn.

Was this ultimate justice for a people who suffered centuries of oppression? Was it the end of interminable exile for people who wandered like gypsies?

Or was it an act of injustice to Arab people who lived for centuries in Palestine?

JEWS NOT AGREED

Even Jews disagreed on the wisdom of creating a political state. Many contend Judaism is solely a religion and Jews are not a nation.

Who are the Israelites? What is their claim to the land?

About 18 centuries ago, the Jews were driven by Rome from Palestine and destined to roam the earth.

The Israelites' origins are clouded by mists of history. They sprang from ancient tribes practicing a primitive religion. The children of Israel were descended of the patriarch Jacob, grandson of Abraham, suffered oppression and slavery in Egypt.

Israel's first kings appeared about 1,000 years before the Christian era — Saul, David, and Solomon, under whom the kingdom reached a peak of its glory.

In 721 BC Israel fell to the Assyrians. In 597 BC, Nebuchadnezzar captured Jerusalem and carried off many Jews to captivity in Babylon for a half century.

PALESTINE CHANGED HANDS

Judaism persisted stubbornly in exile and Jerusalem rebuilt, which reached a furious peak in the ghettos of medieval Europe. Then other powers battered home rule, meanwhile, to the followers of the prophet Mohammed, the European crusaders and finally to the Ottoman Turks, who held it four centuries until the end of the First World War.

Dreadful pogroms erupted in Russia and Poland. For many the Biblical memory of Zion was the only hope — belief a Messiah would restore them to their ancient home.

A lawyer - journalist named Theodore Herzl, began 60 years ago this summer to assemble the first world- Zionist congress in Basle, Switzerland. Its aim: A Jewish state in Palestine.

Herzl died in 1904. But immigration into Palestine and land purchase there by Jews already had begun. By 1918 about 30,000 made their way from Russia and Polish ghettos to settlements in Palestine. Among them was David Ben-Gurion, today's Israeli premier.

BALFOUR DECLARATION

Then came fateful development. Lord Balfour, British foreign secretary, wrote Lord Rothschild, a leading Zionist, that Britain sympathized with Zionist hopes. Chaim Weizmann, chemist and ardent Zionist, helped gain this support by his wartime scientific aid to Britain.

The 1917 Balfour Declaration was a great boost for Zionism. But simultaneously Arab nationalism was rising with the fall of the Ottoman empire. Arabs rose repeatedly against the Jewish settlements.

After the First World War, Britain assumed control of Palestine. Jews poured in from middle Europe. By 1923, the Jewish population in Palestine reached 108,000.

Then came Hitler, the Second World War and the annihilation of 6,000,000 Jews. As British mandates of Nations mandate in Palestine neared its end, spillage of the Jewish state were visible.

UN VOTED PARTITION

Britain tossed the problem to the United Nations. In November, 1947, the UN voted to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab states linked in economic union, with the shrine cities of Jerusalem and Bethlehem under UN trusteeship.

The Arabs rejected the plan. Disorders multiplied. One day before the deadline, Britain ended mandate. By then Israel had driven through all the Negev desert and built a small coastal strip near Gaza, held by Egyptians, Israelis held a large section of Jerusalem.

Israel emerged as a state of 8,000 square miles. Of the territory, 978,000 Arabs fled, to become refugees in surrounding Arab countries.

ISRAEL HAS FLOURISHED

By 1956 a flood of immigrants and natural increase had brought Israel's population close to 2,000,000. In a monumental nine-year effort, Israel has brought desert areas to flower, built thriving, healthy settlements, established industries. But she is far from self - sufficient, never much removed from crisis.

Israel's budget has depended on hand - outs in the United States, American surplus commodities, technical aid and dollar bonds.

What happens now? Israel needs decades of peace to develop into the self-sustaining nation she hopes to be. The Arabs need decades of peace, too.

Moderate statesmen, both in Israel and the Arab countries, say it is the only solution. Persuade the Arabs to accept generous collective help to build their internal economies and lift themselves from centuries of poverty and backwardness. While there is no economic stability, there can be no real peace.

Richards Says

Oriole Fledglings Will Help Club to a Better Position

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Baltimore Orioles, who finished sixth in the American League last season, will seek an improved fielding defence for a more impressive 1957 showing.

Paul Richards' Orioles won 18 more games last year than in the inaugural Baltimore season of 1954. A similar improvement this year would further move them up the first division which they missed by 11 games last season.

Richards believes the Orioles have some defensive slithering in new outfielder Al Pilarcik and a fine young third base prospect, Brooks Robinson, who turns 20 on May 18.

The lean pilot, regarded as one of the best handlers of pitchers in the majors, thinks rookies Charles Beamon and Bill O'Dell, $40,000 beer player, will perk up a mound staff some observers deem patch-quilt.

BIG TWO

Asked to name his pitching "big four," Richards finally said: "I don't have a big four. I have a big two—Ray Moore and Connie Johnson." Moore was 12-7 and Johnson 9-11 last season.

From among Beamon, O'Dell, Don Ferrarese, Hector Brown, Bill Wight, Dick Fowlkes and Ervy Pallea he hopes to pluck "spot starters" with Billy Loes and Gene Conley as handling relief.

Robinson, a special protege of veteran third sacker George Kell, has been Baltimore's spring training star, and powerful fielder. Robinson could be an Orioles starter if he can establish himself as reason hitting pace.

In that event, Kell would alternate between third and first where Bob Boyd, a left-handed hitter, is running No. 1.

The late-reporting Willie Miranda is in camp at shortstop, backed by seasoned Jim Brideweser, while Willie Gardner is expected to improve at second base.

OUTFIELD KEY

Pilarcik, acquired after last season from Kansas City Athletics, is a key man in Richards' outfield plans. If he provides the defensive strength expected of him in right field, the Oriole outfield could be much improved. Speedy centrefielder Dick Williams, who batted .286 last year, and left fielder Bob Nieman, Baltimore's big plate man with a .320 mark, can offset any hitting weakness by Pilarcik.

However, Pilarcik batted .251 for Athletics last season despite a heel injury, Richards thinking he could come from Tito Francona, Joe Durham, Carl Powis and Jim Pyburn.

Richards regards big Gus Triandos, a .276 hitter with 93 RBIs last year, as good as any American League catcher except New York's Yogi Berra.

ASK WAIVERS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — New York Giants have asked for waivers on catcher Bill Sarni, 29, with the idea of making him a coach after granting him his unconditional release.

Sarni's active career was ended on the opening day of spring training this year when he suffered a heart attack. He has been in hospital here.

NOMINATIONS DATE

TORONTO (CP) — Nominations for three $5,000 stakes at Fort Erie's 20-day horse racing meet must be submitted by midnight of April 2, the Ontario Jockey Club announced Monday.

The races, Bold Venture Handicap, Vigil Handicap and Queenston Stakes, will be the feature events during the 20-day meet which opens the Canadian racing season April 12.

Club officials said more than 900 horses have been training at New Woodbine track here in preparation for the meet and are being shipped to Fort Erie this week.

Durelle Stops Clarence Floyd In 7th Round

NEW YORK (AP)—Yvon Durelle, 175, veteran of nearly seven years of pro fighting, says he is a fisherman first and a boxer second.

He owns four fishing boats now and a fish will join his fleet soon.

The solidly built native of Baie Ste. Ann, N.B., once held the Canadian middleweight championship and he now is the Canadian light heavyweight king. His main ring ambition now is to win the world title from Archie Moore. James J. Parker of Barrie this fall and become the first ever to win the three Canadian crowns.

"To me boxing is just a sport," said Yvon after he stopped substitute Clarence Floyd, 167, an untested New Yorker, in 2:14 of the seventh round at a telecast bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Floyd, a 6-to-5 underdog, substituted on the day's notice for injured Angelo DeFendis. It wasn't much of a contest. Durelle, 175, gave Floyd a good shellacking and dropped him in the seventh round. Referee Joe LoBianco stopped it a half minute after the knockdown.

Stampeders Nip Edmonton 4-2

EDMONTON (CP) — Calgary Stampeders took advantage of every Edmonton Flyer mistake Monday night to come from behind for a 4-2 victory over Flyers in the first game of the best-of-three Western Canada League Prairie division semi-final.

Edie Skiblisky got credit for two Stampeders goals. Doc Couture and Dave Duke were the other Calgary scorers.

Flyer captain Tony Leswick and Jerry Melnyk, who was awarded the Gordon McDonald Trophy as the club's highest scorer for the season with 65 points, got the Edmonton goals.

In other Canadian finals-

ers in the Prairie division, will carry the one-game advantage into the second game at Calgary Thursday night.

Trappers Snap Win on Wolves; Lead by Pair

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers turned back a belated drive by Sudbury Wolves in the third game of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group final Monday night to win 7-5 and take a two-game lead in the best-of-seven set. One game was tied.

A capacity crowd of 3,748 saw Trappers completely demoralize the Sudbury crew for more than half the game to pile up a 6-2 lead before the Wolves came to life.

Three unanswered goals by Vacker Flynn, Alf Baccari and Mick Mashuda sliced the North Bay lead to a single goal halfway through the third period but Trappers hung on grimly and Chez Kenecomp added an insurance marker in the dying minutes.

Captain Stan Maxwell fired his fifth and sixth playoff goals to spearhead the Trappers' attack. Playing for the Wolves for the last time were Jack Reigle, Doc Hogan, Bob Barlow and Frank Arnett were the other Trapper goaltenders.

Bolton Upsets Manchester 2-0

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United, riding high for the league championship and the Football Association Cup, suffered a shock when they were beaten 2-0 at home by Bolton Wanderers.

Bolton is the first team this season to beat United twice in league games. They won the first game in November by the same score.

A capacity crowd of 60,862 saw a sluggish United squad in the first half. They improved after the break and were unlucky not to score.

Manchester United now hold a three-point lead with one game in hand over their nearest rivals, Preston North End.

By beating Bradford 5-0, Accrington Stanley share top place with Derby in Third Division North.

Taken into Meade, Kan., were 225 passengers of the Rock Island's streamlined Golden State Limited. They were housed in a high school gymnasium and given their first hot meal since Sunday night. The passengers said they had only coffee and crackers until their rescue Monday night. There was no heat aboard the train.

Two of the passengers suffered heart attacks. One diabetic was reported in serious condition. She had run out of insulin. Most passengers were just hungry and tired.

Another 215 aboard the westbound City of St. Louis, snowbound near Winona, Kan., were moved to Oakley, Kan., by the Union Pacific.

More than 200 passengers aboard 20 buses were stranded on routes out of Kansas City.

Farmers and stockmen surveyed the heavy snow with mixed feelings. The moisture content was sure to replenish dried up sub-soil and stock ponds, but heavy losses were reported to grazing herds.

Pete Knight, King of Cowboys, Killed 20 Years Ago, May 8th

By LORNE BRUCH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CROSSFIELD, Alta. (CP)—It's the 30th anniversary, next May 8, of the sudden death of Pete Knight, world champion cowboy.

A song written and sung by folk singer Wilf Carter on a old recording calls Pete Knight "the king of the cowboys" and he truly was in the late 1920s and early 1930s.

He went from his ranch in this central Alberta district to win the world's bucking-horse championship four times.

FATAL RIDE

Pete was killed at 33 years of age, trampled by a horse at a rodeo in Hayward, Calif., in 1937.

Knight had ridden the outlaw horse named Blowdown several times in previous rodeos. But this time, as 5,000 fans watched, he suddenly went over the horse's head. As it plunged, a hoof dug deep into his chest.

Born in Philadelphia, Knight moved with his parents to Brooks, Alta., and eight years later in 1914 came with the family to a ranch near Crossfield.

The boy "busted" his first bronco when he was only 16 and entered his first rodeo at Crossfield in 1918 and he took second prize on two successive days.

Knight remained at the ranch from 1918 to 1922 perfecting his bronco technique and entering small rodeos in this area.

Then the Crossfield cowboy entered the Calgary Stampede in 1923 but in the pre - stampede parade, his horse slipped on the wet street, Knight fell to the ground and was forced to miss the rodeo.

But the following year, he entered again and won first prize for championship honors. From 1924 to 1927 inclusive, he won the ridding championships at the Edmonton, Winnipeg and Moose Jaw rodeos.

His first world championship came at Winnipeg in 1925. He rode six bucking horses in one day to win $1,800 and a silver-mounted bridle from Tom Mix. The championship goes to the cowboy who rides the most horses in an event.

In a Monitor stampede, Knight won on Midnight, the famous outlaw horse that had not been ridden in two years. Knight won first prize for his performance on Midnight—he stayed on although his hands were shaken off.

In 1928 he retired to the Crossfield ranch, but returned to the rodeos in 1929. Knight took the reserve championship of the American Rodeo Association in 1930.

The association in 1932 matched four leading riders on horses they had never encountered before. The riders were Gene Byrne of Oklahoma, Eard Thode of Belvedere, B.D., Frank Sugnick of Pendleton, Ore., and Knight. The Alberta cowboy was the only one to stay on his mount. Cannonball, and Knight was declared world champion.

In 1934 Knight went on a world tour and did not defend his title. He visited England, Australia, New Zealand and several islands of the South Pacific, a long way from the western plains.

But he came back to regain the world title in 1935 and 1936.

And in 1937 he was trying to win the championship for the third year in a row when he met his death—the end of a man known from the ranches of Canada to the grasslands of Mexico as a great rider.

There was no indication here that the plane is ready to amend legislation which prohibits its supplying allies with atomic warheads for guided missiles.

MIGHT BE STORED

Informants suggested atomic warheads for such missiles might be stored in Canada on bases in Canada or near the border for immediate use in the event of an emergency. It is understood that current planning calls for installation of anti-aircraft missile batteries in northern Canada.

There have been reports that the U.S. already has atomic and hydrogen bombs at its bases in Canada. One has been denied in Ottawa.

The Canadian prime minister and Macmillan originally were not scheduled to take part in today's discussions but officials said something has come up which made their presence necessary. They did not disclose what it was but there was speculation that it concerned defence plans.

Britain now has in progress a big program to build atomic power stations. This program will run until around 1965 and Canada would like to supply the necessary uranium—the fuel for reactors.

Canada wants assurance or a long-term market in the United Kingdom so it can go ahead with its great and its uranium production. Most Canadian uranium now is sold to the United States.

FULL ATTENDANCE

Full British and Canadian delegations were present Monday for the talks on nuclear tests and other atomic questions but the defence discussion was restricted to six officials from each side.

The first ministers of the two hour and 20 minute session were taken up with Macmillan briefing the Canadian leader on his talks with Eisenhower.

The discussions on nuclear tests apparently dealt with Canadian concerns on hazards to the world population from radioactive fallout. However, Canada has no intention of asking Britain to halt its nuclear tests, feeling they are necessary in improving the free world's deterrent power.

Britain and the U.S. announced Sunday they will exercise restraint in nuclear tests to reduce fallout hazards and that they will permit limited peaceful observation of tests.

PARTICIPANTS FEW

The defence talks were limited to the Canadian prime minister, Macmillan, Defence Production Minister Howe, External Affairs Minister Pearson, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and a few of their senior aides. Officials declined to disclose specific subjects discussed.

The general discussions went on through dinner with the two heads of state attended by a reception given by Lt.-Gen. Sir John Woodall, governor of Bermuda.

But he flatly rejected a CCF suggestion that the government should study the transportation conditions on the Prairies.

In the budget-debate debate, Mr. Knowles said the government still is not implementing a resolution passed 24 years ago at a Liberal national convention in 1919 proposing national health insurance.

Hospital insurance was "a mere portion" of the original Liberal proposal. Canadians still waited for a comprehensive health insurance program.

HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Mr. Knowles suggested the insurance plan should include treatment of patients in TB and mental hospitals. He also urged the government to include in costs it will share with provinces the depreciation of hospital buildings and equipment and the interest on capital invested in hospitals. These costs should be "clearly recognized" in a hospital plan.

Mr. Martin noted the government proposal included provisions for sharing costs of treating TB and mental patients in general hospitals but said he preferred the federal position by stating that he doesn't see much difference as these diseases are considered incurable.

He added that provinces already provide almost 100 per cent of treatment costs for such patients and that the federal share is almost all assisting individual Canadians and is subsidizing provincial governments.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) said he was not "into medicine," a fact that medical associations in the country would not interfere with doctors and their relationship with their patients.

Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) said if the government's sincere it should start immediately to pay assistance to B.C. and Saskatchewan which now have their hospital insurance plans in operation.

He criticized Ontario's proposed hospital insurance plan, which would not be compulsory, as "frosty Frost plan" designed to attract "cheap" insurance companies to gain more money from the public.

Harry C. White (PC—Middlesex East) disagreed with Mr. Regier. It is bad not because Premier Frost's action there might make it difficult to get Mr. Frost "forced the hand of the federal government."

He said he questions an assertion by Mr. Knowles that some of the money should be passed on to corporations in taxes. It would only be passed on to consumers, Mr. White said, pointing out it would not be as fair as other plans.

just have to get some financial aid," Mr. Hodgson says.

His neighbors, once a little annoyed at a hobby that expanded beyond all proportion, are gathering around Mr. Hodgson and along with the merchants of the town are backing a petition that will be forwarded to government wildlife officials asking that assistance be given.

FOOD NEEDED

"Heck, it's not money I want, if I can be supplied with food for the birds, I can't keep this up much longer, but what else can I do? You just can't turn the geese into the 45-cent dollar," farmer says. "Why, corn used to be one of my big crops. Now it all goes to the geese."

The sanctuary has developed into a year-round venture with ducks and swans moving in with the geese. There now are more than 100 clipped-wing geese on the 150-acre farm, all of them raised in captivity.

The birds drop in twice a day. At dawn, a regular parading of a meal, they fly out to the islands and bays of Lake Erie but back they come again for supper.

THE BIG SERIES

Kitchener fans will have to hit the broad highways if they want to see their champion Dutchmen tangle with the eastern senior "A" champs from Whitby before the Dutchies hit home ice — if they do.

There is a mathematical possibility that the Dutchmen can win the title without flipping a puck in their own beautiful arena. For a big ice show has moved into Dutchieville and the western champions are forced to play their first two home games on friendly faraway ice.

The first clash between the east-west champions occurs tomorrow night in Guelph and next Saturday (Ah, that Bislvian touch) in Whitby. The teams tangle again in Maple Leaf Gardens, Sunday March 31 at 2.30 p.m. with the fourth game in Whitby April 2. April 3 they play their first game in Kitchener and the sixth tussle will take place April 5 in Whitby. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played in Kitchener or Toronto.

The eyes of the eastern Ontario senior "A" circuit will be focused on the Dunlops when they meet the champions of the western senior "A" loop for the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" championship. It will be mighty interesting to see how the eastern champions stack up against the veteran campaigners of the western circuit.

There has been much talk going the rounds as to the calibres of the eastern-western groups and the matter will be settled once and for all during the next week or so. A western Ontario referee who witnessed one of the McFarlands-Cornwall senior "A" series quickly put forward the opinion that he was surprised at the type of play exhibited by the eastern squads and "the western teams had better look to their laurels."

Exhibition games especially pre-season affairs do not amount to much but it is doubtful if the Dunlops defeated the Kitchener Dutchmen while our side played them to an 8-7 verdict on Kitchener ice.

To get back to the McFarlands. It is not brutal nor too frank to say that they were beaten by a better team for one group title. They gave the best they had despite injuries but they could not cope with the all round power and hockey "savvy" of the group champions. They were minus the services of Real Lamoureux through both series while one or two players did not come up to their par for the course.

The sane-thinking fans will admit the Macs gave the city and district the best hockey it has seen in many a year while not a few veteran observers state it was the best in the city's sports history. That the senior "A" brand met with the general approval of fandom in general in this city goes without saying. The large crowds, some of them near-record gatherings, testify to that.

The McFarlands, while not a dream team, rather one that has made improvements in spots, did an excellent job in their first year of operation. The fact they reached the group finals speaks volumes for an outstanding first-year effort. They reached peak performance in their series with the Cornwall Chevies, a squad that was rated championship calibre in some parts of the circuit. They placed two players on the league all-star squad and another on the second team, a fine record in any man's league.

In this corner's opinion, the Macs had two of the best defencemen in the league in Moe Benoit and Floyd Crawford. Lionel Bolley was one of the most improved players on the squad, but the blueliner corps badly needed another head. Only Bep Guidolin strove mightily to fill this breach at times, but he was out of place behind the blueline. He more than proved his worth up front with the shock troops. Bep will give city fandom his impressions of the league and the McFarlands within the next few days.

We are not aware at this writing how many of the current edition of the McFarlands will be available next season. But we do know the management is not losing any time in building the foundations of the 1957-58 squad. Coach Guidolin will make a week's tour of the senior "A" centres starting today on a talent search with emphasis on defencemen. Another defence stalwart like Benoit or Crawford would have made a whale of a difference to the Macs during the season just ended.

KNOCKING ON THE DOOR

Incidentally the Whitby Dunlops are not too far away from Allan Cup competition. All they have to do is take out the Kitchener Dutchmen, then knock off the Northern Ontario Association senior champions and they're all set to go. For the winner of the all-Ontario title will represent Eastern Canada in the Allan Cup finals. It appears there are no other cup contenders east of this neck of the woods.

"Y" Swimming

Sixty one boys competed in the annual Belleville Y.M.C.A. swimming championships Saturday morning. Floating and distance events were competed in by preps (9 and 10 years old) and juveniles (11 and 12 years old) beginners while all other swimmers competed in backstroke, breast stroke, crawl stroke, free style and diving events.

A mark of improvement was shown by the boys as even the preliminary's events were close and in some cases dead heats for first and second place. Perhaps the most outstanding event of the meeting was the perfect score of 25 points which was accomplished by 14 year old John Peoples who won first in every junior event. The meet was very efficiently handled by Judges C. Flindall, R. Williamson, H. Murray, A. Muir, head, starter D. Dalrymple, and scorers J. Heffernan and P. Bennett.

Results (on a point basis) —

Preps Beginners — 1st D. Pugh 10 pts. 2nd A. Armstrong 6 pts. 3rd B. Fullerton 2 pts. 3rd G. Michaud 2pts.

Juvenile Swimmers — 1st J. Tikker 15 pts. 2nd B. Farrow 7 pts. 3rd B. Athey 6pts, 3rd T. Flindall 6 pts.

Juvenile Beginners — 1st C. Waterbury 8 points 1st. D. McAlpine 8 points.

Juvenile Swimmers — 1st H. MacDonald 21 pts. 2nd P. Lewis 12pts, 3rd R. Bailey 9 pts.

Junior Swimmers — 1st J. Peoples 25 pts. 2nd R. Frid 9 pts, 3rd C. Rondell 5 pts.

"How do you like that new lure I lent you, Ed?"

Beaneaters Had Victory Edge Over Detroit During Season; Canadiens Rated Over Blues

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers, well rested but decidedly the underdogs, go into tonight's opening Stanley Cup playoff game against Montreal Canadiens in Madison Square Garden.

A quick recovery from a lacerated cheekbone by centre Larry Popein brought the blueshirts to full strength. The injury, sustained in Sunday night's game against Chicago, was previously thought to be more severe.

But x-rays showed no fracture and Popein now is expected to be the middleman between Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice on the team's No. 1 line.

"And we'll need every man in top form to beat the Canadiens," said coach Phil Watson. "We're as ready as we'll ever be.

CLICKING BETTER

"I liked the way the club played against Boston during the weekend, and we're clicking better now than we did at this time a year ago. The important thing is to get the jump in our two home games."

The first two games in the best-of-seven semi-final series will be played in New York. The remainder, barring the circus will play the Garden starting April 3, will take place in the Montreal Forum.

Watson concedes that Canadiens who finished in first place in the regular National Hockey League season, are better manned than the fourth-place blueshirts.

LIKES PLANTE

"They have a swell goalie in Jacques Plante. He won the Vezina Trophy, didn't he? Maurice Richard doesn't look like he's slipping and with guys like Jean Beliveau, Boom Boom Geoffrion and Doug Harvey they'll be tough.

"But my club is determined. We know we have a big job ahead of us. It's going to be mighty tough in Montreal, it always is. The referees don't always give the visiting team the better of things up there. But those Canadiens will have to earn every goal they get."

Rangers' record against Canadiens at home is 4-2-1. In Montreal, they lost six and won only one in the regular season.

Rangers expect sellout crowds of 15,925 for both Garden games.

St. Louis Hawks Oust Lakers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — In a game which required two overtime periods, St. Louis Hawks defeated Minneapolis Lakers 143-135 Monday to complete a three-game sweep of the best-of-five western division finals in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Hawks meet Boston Celtics, eastern division winners, in the best-of-seven championship final.

Glorious Twelfth 10-1 Favorite in Grand National

LONDON (AP) — Glorious Twelfth, a young gelding who finished second in three straight races, remains the favorite to win the 111th Grand National Steeplechase.

The big eight-year-old grey—a youngster among steeplechasers—was a firm 10-to-1 choice Monday night for the world's toughest horse race to run Friday at Aintree course just north of Liverpool.

Hart Royal shortened slightly during a betting odds callover at London's Victoria Club, ending the night at 100 to 9 instead of 100 to 8.

Much Obliged and Sundew were listed at 100 to 8.

Glorious Twelfth will carry 155 pounds in the 4½-mile race.

Hart Royal will carry only 150 pounds over the 30 obstacles of brush, burns, hurdles, and water which litter the course.

Much Obliged was assigned 158 pounds and Sundew 161.

E. S. B., 1956 Grand National winner and bracketed with Goonsander at 100 to 7 and Tutto, one of Ireland's top entries, was 18 to 1.

Other odds:

20 to 1 — Gentle Moya and Sydney Jones; 28 to 1—Royal Tan; 33 to 1—Rendezvous III, Red Syndburg; 40 to 1—Fellas; 50 to 1 — Athenian, Sandy Jane II, Carey's Cottage, Clearing; 66 to 1—Four Ten, Icelough, Morrcator.

They Got the Naked Truth

LONDON (AP) — Can a swimmer be declared the winner of a race if he loses his trunks and finishes in the nude?

The Amateur Swimming Association will consider the weighty question at a meeting Saturday.

The Northumberland and Durham branch of the association can hardly wait to get the official decision because that is exactly what happened to a young boy recently in Newcastle.

The youngster finished first but some people maintained that despite the embarrassment, losing your trunks has its advantages—you can swim much faster.

ANNOUNCES TV PLANS

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC Monday announced its plans for radio and television coverage of the National Hockey League play-offs:

TV—The English language network will carry all Saturday games of the New York-Montreal semi-final series and any mid-week games that might decide the series. The French language network and station CBMT will also telecast all semi-final games played in Montreal.

Radio—The CBC trans-Canada network and the French language network will carry the same games as the television network. The CBC says it plans to carry all Stanley Cup finals, providing facilities and network connections are available.

Yankee Blood Transfusions May Give Kansas Needed Jolt

By JACK HAND

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The latest transfusion of Yankee blood may be enough to lift Kansas City Athletics out of the American League cellar.

With Tom Morgan, Rip Coleman, Billy Hunter, Irv Noren, Milt Graff, Bob Cerv and Maury McDermott on the roster, the Athletics now have 12 men who once wore the Yankee or New York farm club uniform...

Although some called Kansas City a "Yankee farm club" after their most recent deal, manager Lou Boudreau bristles at the suggestion. "All the other clubs were approached with the same men but not many clubs can give you as much as I have," said Boudreau. "Even if it turns out to help the champions, it was a good deal because it will help us even more."

MAY END SIXTH

"I think we can finish sixth and maybe as high as fifth if somebody up front stubbles." Boudreau says. "We have a stronger lineup on paper. Now I can make a move at shortstop, outfield or pitching without hurting myself.

"If we get phenomenal years I don't see why we can't climb up higher than you think."

Boudreau counts on improved pitching as his most important new asset, plus depth in infield and outfield. He acknowledges weakness in defence and lack of speed in the outfield.

The Athletics flopped badly last season to finish eighth, 45 games back.

In addition to the deal with the Yankees, the Athletics obtained Virgil Trucks, Ned Garver and Gene Host from Detroit and drafted Eddie Blake from Toronto where he had a 17-11 record.

Boudreau expects to pick his starters from this seven-man brigade: McDermott (2-6), Morgan (6-7) and Coleman (3-5), all ex-Yanks; Garver (6-2) and holdovers Alex Kellner (7-6), Tom Gorman (9-10) and Wally Burnette (6-8).

In the infield, Boudreau says he is "set at the corners" with Vic Power (.309) back on first and Hector Lopez (.273) at third. Hunter (.286) is only 29 games with the Yankees so he made a slow recovery from a broken ankle) is fighting with Joe Dimaestri (.233) for the shortstop job. Graff (.314 at Birmingham) a former Yankee farmhand, has been doing a good job at second. If he can hit, the job probably will go to him over Curt Roberts (.320 at Columbus).

Hunter has been working out at second and could shift over if Boudreau has serious trouble. Rance Pless (.271) is the general utility man. Noren, who was able to play only 29 games with New York last year for a .216 average after operations on both knees, remains a doubtful factor.

PULLED TENDON

The Athletics got a tough break when Harry Simpson (.293), the club's top power with 21 homers and 105 runs batted in, pulled a tendon in an ankle recently. He will be out of action until the month and may miss the opener.

In the absence of Simpson, Lou Skizas (.314) will play right with Gus Zernial (.224) in left and Jim Pisoni (.265 at Vancouver) or Cerv (.303 with the Yanks) in centre. Boudreau is high on Pisoni's defensive ability and he may get the job if he can hit.

The catching is set with Hal Smith (.267) the No. 1 man, backed up by Tim Thompson (.272) and Bill Shantz (.243 at Columbus).

Day Wasn't Fired, He Didn't Quit-But He's Not With The Leafs Any More

'Hap Says He's Not Available And That's That' Snaps Smythe And the Publicity Rolls on

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence (Hap) Day wasn't fired from the Toronto Maple Leafs head office; he apparently had the feeling he wasn't wanted any more.

The 56-year-old former general manager ended 29 years of close association with the team and its president Conn Smythe in a three-minute conference Monday and though details were scarce, Day's few terse comments left the impression the break was the result of accumulated self-doubts and unhappiness rather than a definite disagreement.

Smythe said simply: "Mr. Day says he's not available for the season. That's, that." Then he swept out of the office, while Day busily cleared the desk he had used for two years as general manager.

He posed for pictures, but told reporters, "I have no comment to make at this time." Smythe will tell you about it." Then he left, returning only to turn in his office key.

CRIMP IN THE PLANS

Questioned again, Smythe said "This has a crimp in my plans. I thought Hap and King (Clancy, assistant general manager) and Howie (Meeker, coach) and I could do a good job next season."

Asked for his version of the break, he said:

"Hap asked me if there was any significance about my saying I'm whether he was available for next year. Then—you'd better get that from Hap. He'll tell you."

Day did. he said:

"I asked what he meant by asking me if he was open would I be available? I told him I didn't understand that. He told me there was no use discussing next year's plans if I weren't available. I said if that's the case then I'm not available."

THOMSON SOURED

Day's departure came only a few hours after Jimmy Thomson, a veteran of, 18 years on the Leaf defence, announced he was quitting the team because Smythe had accused him of disloyalty over his part in forming the new NHL Players' Association.

Thomson, a captain until Ted Kennedy's return last Christmas, was Toronto's representative on the new organization, whose formation shocked Smythe and other NHL executives.

Day's announcement came after a week ripe with rumors that Smythe was planning a thorough house-cleaning of the Leaf organization after a dismal season during which they never were higher than fourth after the first month and finished fifth.

Injuries and a green team were partial reasons for the failure, but Smythe also laid some blame on himself and Day.

BONE OF CONTENTION

The particular bone of contention seemed to be that Day favored emphasizing defensive, close-checking play instead of the free-wheeling high-scoring style used successfully by the rest of the league.

It was natural that he would, since with it he won five Stanley Cups as a coach, three of them in consecutive seasons—a record.

Day joined the Toronto club than the St. Pats, in 1924, stayed on when Smythe purchased the franchise and became first captain of the new Maple Leafs in 1926.

He was with them as a defenceman until the 1937-38 season when he was traded to the New York Americans for Wally Stanowski, then ruining coach. In the 1941-42 season, after one with Americans and another as referee, he returned as Leafs' coach and led them to the Stanley Cup. He won it again in the 1944-45, 46-47 and 48-49 seasons.

He became assistant general manager in the 1950-51 season and moved up to general manager two years ago.

BUSINESS PARTNERS

Day and Smythe had had a close, if sometimes prickly relationship and Hap was with his president in Smythe's successful sand and gravel business.

Smythe said he didn't know whether he would replace Day. He said say "anything good about a man can be said about Day."

Thomson's departure was almost as big a surprise.

"I will never again play for Leafs," he said, adding he would like to play with another NHL club, but "it would be impossible for me to play for a team that questioned my loyalty."

Smythe said he never thought of Thomson as being disloyal in the least but he felt the ex-captain exerted pressure on other players to join the breakaway league.

Thomson denied it absolutely. He said he told the teammates of the association and its aims and asked them to decide for themselves.

"It's tough to leave . . . they've made it obvious they don't want me," Thomson said. And told about Day's resignation, he commented "I couldn't go out with a better man than Hap."

Two Records

You Can Collect the Wagers Howe, Plante Were Top Dogs

MONTREAL (CP) — It's all official now. Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings won the National Hockey League scoring championship, Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens won top award among the goalies and a couple of records were set in the flurry of the final week's play in the regular schedule.

The league's official statistics, released today, show six players were in the select class of 30 goals or more for the season.

Howe easily led the goal parade with 44. With his 45 assists he wound up the season with 89 points four more than his teammate Ted Lindsay. Jean Beliveau of Montreal was another point back at 84.

Howe came through in the clutch, posting two goals and three assists in the final week. Lindsay had two goals and one assist and Beliveau, last year's champion, failed to get a goal but bagged three assists in the last two games in a desperate effort to keep pace.

Only Howe scored more than 40 goals. Closest were Bert Olmstead of Montreal (39) brilliant Maurice (Rocket) Richard, each with 33. The 35-year-old Rocket, who missed seven games, bettered 30 for the eighth time in his 15 seasons and set an NHL career total to 433.

Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks scored 33 goals, Real Chevrefils of Boston Bruins 31 and Lindsay 30.

In the 1955-56 season only four players had 30 goals or more. They were Beliveau 47, Howe and Richard 38 each and Ted Kinan of Toronto Maple Leafs with 37. Kinan missed eight games this season and his goal production dropped to 14.

The record breakers were Lindsay and Montreal's Doug Harvey. Lindsay's 85 points was three higher than the former record for a left-winger. The old mark of 82 was also since the 1943-44 season and was made by Herbie Cain of Boston.

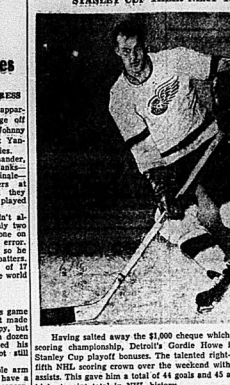
Harvey counted an assist in his last game, running his season's string to 44, highest ever made by a defenceman. He broke his old record of 43 made two seasons ago. Lindsay's 85 assists were one short of the record 86 assists for any player, held by Bert Olmstead of Montreal.

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers was a bang-up fourth in the scoring race with 27 goals and 50 assists for a total of 77 points. Litzenberger was next with 63 and Rocket Richard sixth with 62.

Don McKenney of Boston moved out Dickie Moore of Montreal in the final week for seventh place. McKenney counted two assists to finish with 60 points. Moore failed to get a point and wound up with a 58 total, made up of 29 goals and 29 assists. Henri Richard of Montreal followed with 54 points, and Norm Ullman of Detroit with 53.

The six teams scored an aggregate of 1,130 goals during the season, 66 more than in the 1955-56 season.

Montreal Canadiens, who finished second, led the goal production with 210. They were 12 under the previous season's total. The first-place Detroit Red Wings upped their total to 198 from 181. Boston Bruins had the biggest increase. They scored 195 goals compared with 147 in 1955-56. New York had 186, against 204 the previous season; Toronto 174, against 135, and Chicago 169 against 155.



TO PLAY IN FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An exhibition Canadian football game between the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos and B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union was proposed Monday for the night of Aug. 9 in Kezar Stadium here. The two teams meet in Portland Aug. 7.

A. Jay Crawford of Vancouver has asked permission of the San Francisco park and recreation department to stage the exhibition game.

Podres Magic Still Potent Against Yankees

STANLEY CUP THEIR NEXT TARGET

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hitch in the U.S. Navy apparently hasn't taken the edge off that old black magic that Johnny Podres threw at New York Yankees in the 1955 world series.

The slim Brooklyn lefthander, who won two games from Yankees including a shutout in the finals, faced the Bronx Bombers at Vero Beach Monday and they promptly rolled over and played dead.

He went six innings, didn't allow a hit and permitted only two men to reach first base, one on a walk and another on an error. But both were wiped out, so he scored up facing only 18 batters. Podres now has a string of 17 scoreless innings against the world champions.

ALTON HAPPY

The Brooks won Monday's game 1-0 in the 11th inning. That made Manager Walter Alston happy, but Yanks could have scored a dozen runs after Podres' fabulous hitless stint and the Brook pilot still would have been content.

He needs Podres' valuable arm badly. The Dodgers didn't have a reliable lefthander all last season, and they've been looking forward to Podres' return. Don Bessent finished up for Brooks, incidentally, and they, too, got a Yogi Berra homer. Mickey Mantle-less, Moose Skowron-less Yanks at bats.

Don (no-hit) Larsen went five innings and yielded four hits. He didn't look very hard stuff.

OTHER GAMES

Four other games were played. At Orlando, Fla., Washington defeated Detroit 4-3 in 10 innings. Chicago Cubs turned back Cleveland 11-6, at Phoenix Ariz., New York Giants defeated Boston Braves 6-4, and Boston whipped Cincinnati Reds of the Pacific Coast League 3-0 at Hollywood.

Both Senators and Cubs had big innings. Washington connected on veteran Ned Garver for seven runs in the eighth inning—including a two-run homer by Herb Plews—to wrap it up, and Cubs made four but he fifth ex-captain exerted pressure on other players to join the breakaway league.

Thomson denied it absolutely. He said he told the teammates of the association and its aims and asked them to decide for themselves.

"It's tough to leave . . . they've made it obvious they don't want me," Thomson said. And told about Day's resignation, he commented "I couldn't go out with a better man than Hap."

'Tiger' Mauls Arthur King; Chuvalo Wins

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's Arthur King ran into a tiger from New York Monday night and escaped alive but badly mauled.

The tiger was Ralph Jones, an experienced 29-year-old ranked third among the middleweight contenders, who took a unanimous 10-round decision from King before a disappointed audience of 1,500 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Jones, weighing in at 157½, had a six-pound advantage over his welterweight opponent and more than still and punching power than L'll Arthur could cope with.

Oddly, King scored the only knockdown—in the fifth—but Jones was up at the count of one, protesting hotly that he had been pushed, not punched and pursued King eagerly after taking a contemptuous eight-count to feel.

King's best rounds were the second and third as he kept Jones off balance with a flicking left hand and countered sharply with right.

In the fourth, Jones took command and the fight was never in doubt from then on.

King staved off the inevitable with specialling and counter-punching, but with 40 seconds to go Jones had King in the corner, pinned him on the ropes and belabored him to the head and body with rights and left. King was groggy at the bell, but managed to keep away in the final rounds.

George Chuvalo, Toronto's promising young heavyweight, provided the only bright spot on the card for the hometown fans. The 19-year-old, who turned professional only last year, scored the latest in a series of easy wins over indifferent opponents when he knocked Moses Graham of Buffalo, N.Y., down twice in the early moments of their bout and finally put him away for good at 2:49 of the first of a scheduled eight rounds.

Chuvalo, a bull-chested 208-pounder, flailed away at his 200-pound foe with both hands from bell and was so eager to finish it that he almost fell to the canvas with Graham.

Y Floor Hockey

Captained by B. McMartin who scored 9 goals the 'Y' Hotshots won their game Tuesday night 11-5 defeating the "Rockets" 13 to 5 in a penalty filled game. Ken Moore, Ken Hall and Doug Turner banded out 26 penalties, 19 to the Rockets 7 to make it interesting for the referee for the losers were Yome 2 goals, 1 assist, Avery 2 goals, Moore 1 goal, Claire 1 goal, 3 assists, McMartin led his team scoring 9 goals followed by Blaker with 3 goals and 4 assists, Rutlan with 2 goals, Chapp 2 assists, Robidard 1 goal and Green one assist.

Campbell and Miller the two goal keepers played in a terrific game with Miller stopping 36 shots and Campbell turning away 28 shots. The second game was an up and down battle with the 'Y' Knots finally emerging the runs 12 to 8 over the "Grubs". Again the passing plays and combinations of the 'Y' Knots three stars, J Peoples, D. Skinner and D. Blakely proved their worth to the team. In the senior house three, scored 12 beautiful goals.

For the Grubs, Wardle scored 2 goals Doogan scored 3 goals and 2 assists and Angus 3 goals and 2 assists. Marksmen for the 'Y' Knots were Skinner with 5 goals 2 assists, Peoples 3 goals 3 assists, Blakely 4 goals and 2 assists and C. Rendell with one assist.

Quebec Hockey

MONTREAL (CP)—Orval Tessier, Quebec Ace's all-star right wing, has won the Quebec Hockey League's scoring championship by a single point over linemate Marcel Bonin, 81-80. The schedule closed Sunday.

Bonin cut the edge to a single-ton by scoring two points in the final week, running his total to 29 goals and 60 assists. Tessier got a point for 23 goals and 58 assists. The league's most valuable player, Dick Wray of last-place Shawinigan, finished third with 68 points—33 goals and 35 assists. Centre Skip Teeter of Aces' big line was fourth with 64.

Erwin Grosenick of Shawinigan made a spectacular climb from 10th to 10th, firing six goals and six assists in his last four games.

Junior Habs Dump Ottawa 9-3

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Junior Canadiens humbled Ottawa Shamrocks 9-3 Monday night in the opening game of their Memorial Cup quarter-final series before about 2,500 fans.

Winner of the best-of-five series, which resumes tonight, tangles with either St. Catharines Teepees or Guelph Biltmores in the Eastern Canada final.

Ralph Backstrom and Dick Duhamel paced the winners with three goals each, while singles went to Claude Richard, Jean Tremblay and ahn Annable. Mike Lawless and Bob Joyce, two of five players picked up by Shamrocks from Buckingham, Que., and Ron Denihan scored for the losers.

TEE PEES OUST MEMORIAL CUP CHAMPS

By concentrating on scoring instead of fisticuffs, Matt Ravlich emerged as the hero of St. Catharines TeePees' 4-2 victory over Toronto Marlboros. Known as a "bad guy" last season, Ravlich controlled his temper this season and sparked St. Kitts to a three-games-to-two victory over Memorial Cup defending Marlies in OHA Junior "A" semi-finals. The left-winger scored five goals in the series, two of them in the final game in Toronto. Ravlich is shown, rear right, with Kitts' goalie Roy Edwards and, in front, Ed Hoekstra and Bobby Hull. The underdog TeePees now take on Guelph Biltmores for the OHA junior "A" title.

Gabby Charlie Dresser Hopes To Lift Nats Out of Cellar

By JOE REICHLER

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Charlie Dressen, the fire little manager who used to win pennants in Brooklyn but now struggles to keep the Senators from the cellar, is early moments of their bout and finally put him away for good at 2:49 of the first of a scheduled eight rounds.

Chuvalo, a bull-chested 208-pounder, flailed away at his 200-pound foe with both hands from bell and was so eager to finish it that he almost fell to the canvas with Graham.

"We've better than we were last year," was the way Dressen began as he was asked about his Senators. "Well, I think we are anyway."

"I think we can win more games," he said, "but I don't know if we can improve our position. (Last year Washington finished seventh).

"We're starting off with the resemblance of a major league team, with promising pitching, a potential home run hitting set and Jim Lemon, three real good catchers, a sound Eddie Yost who was handicapped all last year with infected tonsils, and a confident Roy Sievers who should hit 30 home runs.

"We've got Ted Abernathy, Dick Hyde and Bud Byerly to help on pitching. Jose Valdivielso will be better at short. Jose is 15 pounds heavier this spring. Young Herb Plews just started clicking as second baseman when he was hurt last July. The boy will live up his potential this summer."

Dressen's tentative starting lineup is Pete Runnels, the converted shortstop who hit .310 last season, at first base, Plews at second; Valdivielso or Jerry Snyder at shortstop; Yost, third baseman Sievers, right field; Whitey Herzog or Karl Olson in center; Lemon in right; Lou Berberet or Clint Courtney or Ed FitzGerald, catcher.

Chuck Stobbs (15-15), Pedro Ramos (15-10); Camilo Pascual (8-16), Abernathy (12-16 at Louisville) and Dean Stone (5-7) complete the starting five. Byerly, Hyde and Bob Chakales will handle the relief chores. The other pitching assignments are wide open.

PREFERS BONNET WITHOUT FRILLS

When a young lady has to outfit her dog as well as herself with an Easter bonnet, she has a problem. Take this perky number Eileen Sue Cornelia of Brooklyn, N.Y., chose for her pet boxer, Brandy. Sue thought it was cute, but obviously Brandy didn't like it at all.

Brandy obviously is settling for the best of a bunch of bad choices. The hat at least looks a bit like a masculine derby, and that's better than the frilly chapeau. So while Eileen shows him how nice he looks for the Easter parade, Brandy just lookes resigned to it all.

Writer Predicts Ingrid Bergman, Kirk Douglas Along With Film Around World Will Win Oscars

Editor's note: Who will win the 1956 Academy Awards? Experts say the Oscar races are the hottest in recent years. But that hasn't deterred a veteran Hollywood reporter from risking a crystal ball out on a limb and making his annual predictions.

By BO BTHOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will Hollywood again give its highest prize to Ingrid Bergman, who exiled herself from the film capital amid scandal eight years ago?

The answer will be announced on the Academy Award telecast next Wednesday night and it will probably be "yes."

At least that's the way it looks in one of the hottest Oscar races in recent years. The cinch winner looms in any category, and that makes it tough on the predictors, including this one. But limbs must be climbed upon, so here goes: BEST ACTRESS

Once a shining light in Hollywood, Miss Bergman left behind a husband and a daughter and mothered a child by Italian director Roberto Rossellini, whom she later married. The outcry against her reached far and wide. Last year she returned in her first film since 1949 in an American production, Anastasia, which was made in Europe.

It wasn't her best film. She was more impressive in Gaslight, which won her the Oscar in 1944.

The effects of the scandal do not weigh too heavily in the voting of a group of 1,770 members. In fact, they are notably sentimental about comebacks and have gratefully bestow the honor on the Swedish actress.

Or it could be Carroll Baker. The voters often reward newcomers, and Miss Baker was impressive in Baby Doll. More remote possibilities include Katharine Hepburn as the spinster of The Rainmaker and Nancy Kelly, the lillywhite mother in The Bad Seed.

Choice: Bergman.

BEST ACTOR

Here's another tough one. By any acting standards, Sir Laurence Olivier should win for his classic Richard III. But the film first played on TV and that's against it.

Rock Hudson was a tower of strength in Giant, but the role gave him no award - winning pyrotechnics.

The race narrows down to Kirk Douglas vs. Yul Brynner. Douglas had some spectacuiar emoting as Van Gogh in Lust for Life and has a backlog of six performances. Drawback: The film wasn't a big hit. Brynner has the advantage of newness and The King and I was a great favorite. Drawbacks: Musical roles are seldom rewarded.

Choice: Douglas.

BEST PICTURE

Everyone likes Around the World in 80 Days. But will the voters consider it a film &chievement or merely a clever show? The King and I was also immensely enjoyed, but again it has the drawback of being a musical.

Giant is a stunning film, but not George Stevens' best. The Ten Commandments could win on size alone, but not artistic merit; Cecil B. Demille wasn't even nominated for best director. Dark horse: Friendly Persuasion, a real heart-warmer.

Choice: Around the World.

AT THE McCARTHY — Beautiful Mona Freeman and handsome, 6 feet four Maxwell Reed in a scene from "Shadow of Fear", one of the most blood-chilling murder thrillers ever shown on the screen, is now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd thriller on the same-program is "House of Secrets", in Technicolor and VistaVision featuring Michael Craig and Julia Arnall.

Production Costs of Pilot Film Generally Run About $40,000

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—If you have an idea for a regular television program you must make a "pilot film" in order for anyone to take your idea seriously. But that doesn't mean, of course, that anyone will buy it.

It is estimated that of every 29 pilot films made, only one reaches the home screen as a regular TV program. It's a big gamble—and an expensive one.

Production of a pilot film usually is about $40,000.

That is the approximate cost of a pilot recently completed in New York by the producing team of Norman Prank and Stanley Ilies. Tentatively entitled "U.F. 61," it will be they hope) a series about the activities of a fictitious New York detective squad. The word is that ABC-TV is interested in the series.

LONG IN PLANNING

Prank and Ilies pondered and planned the series on and off for four years before taking the big gamble of actually producing a pilot. Because a successful pilot theoretically must be better than 19 other pilots, they collected a first-rate production staff and cast.

In many ways it's easier to make a film in the California desert than in New York. There are more people in New York, which means more inconvenience. And, believe it or not, it's often difficult to find things in New York.

The pilot script for "U.F. 61" had a sequence, for example, in which a burglar was chased into a narrow courtyard, scrambled up a tree, confronted police on a roof —and then fell to the ground. The obvious physical requirements of courtyard, a tree suitable for climbing and a roof suitable for police took four days of intensive search.

NOT FROM FILES

The projected series does not seek to take stories from New York police files (which have been sealed as a source to TV programs anyway). It did hire a police consultant for the pilot film to ensure authenticity of detail.

Shooting was proceeding smoothly on the first day on location when sirens wailed and three authentic police cars pulled up. No, nothing was wrong. The real cops were just baffled by the cast being used by the fictitious cops. Since when, they wanted to know, did New York had a 12th precinct?

The precinct was invented for the show.

Marlon Brando Favorite Target For So-Called Exposes of Mags

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What can Hollywood do about the scandal magazines?

Nothing, says Marlon Brando, a favorite target for the so-called exposes.

The scandal mags have been a worry for the film industry ever since their appearance. The problem was pointed up at the recent state legislative hearings. I asked Brando whether he thought the publicity concerning the scandal mags' methods would help Hollywood's battle against them.

"No," he replied. "The publicity only adds to the magazines' allure. People read the news like this." He pantomimed a reader voicing disapproval but licking his lips.

VICARIOUS THRILL

"These magazines are read by 5,000,000 or 10,000,000 people — maybe more by the time the issues are passed around. The popularity of the magazines shows that there is a demand for this kind of material. There are people derive a vicarious thrill from prying on the private lives of famous people."

"The only solution would come if these readers could be persuaded not to read such cheap smut."

Several million dollars' worth of suits have been filed by stars against the scandal magazines. I asked Brando if he has considered similar action.

"No," he replied. "Filing a suit would only give them the publicity they want. By the time the suit was tried, they'd get more in publicity than the judgment could ever cost them. And maybe I'd get an award of eight cents."

No Fundamental Changes in Banking--Harris

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris says no fundamental changes are planned in Canada's banking system, and has indicated that any changes will be made only after full discussion.

"... No radical, fundamental or precipitate actions relating to the structure of Canadian banking have been suggested, nor are they contemplated by the government," he said in a statement issued here Monday night.

Mr. Harris was replying to a weekend statement by President Gordon R. Ball of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Harris was replying to a proposal in the annual report of James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, that personal savings deposits held by chartered banks be channelled into mortgage loans and other long-term securities.

ASKS FOR STATEMENT

Mr. Ball asked for a public announcement by the government "that no fundamental changes in the Canadian banking structure are contemplated without the fullest possible investigation of what might be involved."

Mr. Harris, absent Monday to attend a political meeting at Welland, found no reason from his office here.

He said the annual report of Governor Coyne had referred to "the wide fluctuations in the rate of tered banks' general loans as well as in their investments in longer-term securities and in insured housing mortgages."

The central bank governor had "expressed the view that it would be desirable to explore means of encouraging a greater degree of stability and continuity in these forms of investment."

NOT CONTEMPLATED

Mr. Coyne had made it plain "that no radical, fundamental or early changes in the banking structure were contemplated." The governor's report had said "the possibility of a gradual approach" toward making some distinction between personal savings and commercial lendings "would seem to be worthy of study and discussion."

Mr. Harris added:

"The approach suggested for discussion, as I understand it, would retain, rather than increase the central bank's present influence over savings deposits which are at present of necessity treated in the same way as commercial deposits."

APPROVE POSTPONEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved an agreement Monday permitting Britain to postpone several annual payments on billions of dollars of loans from the United States. It now goes to the House of Representatives.

OPENS FAIR

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost Monday night opened the Israel Trade Fair, which includes exhibits of Jewish craftsmanship and modern production efficiency. The fair is the first organized display of Israeli products to be shown in Ontario.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Masters who play in a' title match need more than a hall in which to hold their tournament. They should also be assigned a room for improvement.

Here is world championship deal number 63:

	NORTH
	♠ A J 10
	♥ A K Q 7 3
	♣ Q 9 3
WEST		EAST
♠ K 9 8 6 3		♠ 7 5
♥ 4 2		♥ 10 9 6
♦ A K		♦ Q J 9
♣ A 8 7		♣ K J 10 6 4
	SOUTH
	♠ Q 4 2
	♥ J 8 5
	♦ 10 8 7 5 3

Room one bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	2 S	2 H	Pass
Pass	1 S	All Pass

The bidding in room two went like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	Dbl	Pass
2 D	Pass	2 H	All Pass

At two spades, west went down one; a fate such a second bid is certainly headed for. At two hearts, north took eight tricks with his five trumps and the spade finesse.

The correct bidding is:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	Dbl	Pass
2 D	Pass	2 H	3 C
All Pass

By ruffing a third heart and pulling trumps, east also gets his three diamonds to make his nine tricks at three clubs. But the result is only incidental. Rules take it to three clubs.

If north does not intervene, rules tell east to respond at once to the west opening. But wisdom tells him not to make an immediate free bid. He can back-in with club later, if necessary.

He should not permit west to play it in spades until after he had shown his clubs. Nor permit north to play it in hearts until he has backed in with his club showing.

Two wrong masters do not make a right pair.

FLEW TO GAME

TIMMINS (CP)—A team from the Indian residential school at Moose Factory, Ont., lost an exhibition hockey game 6-4 Monday night to Timmins Dynamoe, the local hantam champions.

It was the first time any of the 16 members of the team had been away from their home, 180 miles north of here on the Moose River near James Bay. They flew here for the game.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Wednesday, March 27, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A great day for taking the initiative, for concentrating on your highest and most worthwhile goals and working toward them. Others have excellent aspects, too, so try to be kinder than usual.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Think and act within reason, and don't just think of your own problems. You may need assistance, advice, even help today, but so will others. Stress a friendly attitude.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may have to maintain one of those stepped-up tempos in which you usually thrive best, but don't forget to relax completely for a few minutes two or three times during the heavy schedule. Smile!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't chide over what is not available or to your exact liking. You can improve matters more than you think by your own — and today maybe solely your own — efforts. Do your best but don't strain.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This is no time for looking backwards and having regrets. What's over went wrong in the past can be altered, rectified, improved, if you try for it now. Determination, courage will help to get the day off to a good start.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Good humor has prevented many a "rough spot" from becoming rougher. It can brighten hopes, bring about good will among co-workers, family members, etc. A day for good will and steady effort.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Certain planetary aspects suggest a general need for tolerance and understanding toward others. Protect your principles, but don't fret. Some fine rays!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — If you don't take yourself and your activities too seriously you can put the day over with satisfactory results. Brighten your outlet; try something new.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius — Excellent planetary configurations which are not confined to the charts of a few. All have an equal chance to better their standing now. Start early, but not over-excitedly.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Tend to important matters first, but don't neglect small details. You have a level head; be ready to make "right" decisions.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Don't let any grass grow under your feet. Others may be trying to upset or take away your opportunities. You can stop this by using your common sense. A great day for advancement.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Like Aquarius, don't let anything sway you from the achievement possible now. And though results may not come until later, the work you do today is what will really count. Up and doing!

You Born Today: Your ambition is usually tempered with a steady gait, a most valuable two-some for marked success when properly applied. With originality of thought and enough caution to restrain undue changeability and restlessness, you can hurdle real obstacles to top achievement. You are suited to a position of trust but are often too modest to show your true worth. You can be relied upon in difficult situations. Don't be gullible, especially where boastful, domineering people are concerned. Curb worry, self-pity. Give your innate cleverness a chance.

YEGG TAKES EGG

HAMILTON, N.Y (AP)—Police pounded a 13-state alarm Monday following the theft Friday of a 70,000,000-year-old dinosaur egg from Colgate University. The petrified reptile egg, purchased by Austin Colgate for $5,000 was discovered in the Great Gobi Desert, Mongolia, in 1923 by explorer Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews. It was one of the three in existence.

FLAT RACING OPENED

LINCOLN, England (CP)—Britain's 1957 flat racing season opened Monday on a minor key at Lincolnshire Racecourse.

The feature race, a £600 event, the country's second richest, saw the successful comeback of the smart sprinter Drum Beat, an odds-on favorite who had been beaten. Drum Beat broke down last year while leading the field in the Two Thousand Guineas, one of the five classic races.

WAIT FOR RESULTS

MONTREAL (CP) — Doctors at St. Justine Hospital have decided to wait for another two or three days before removing bandages from the right eye of nine-year-old Kenneth Leblanc, threatened with the loss of his sight. Earlier doctors had hoped that they might be able to remove the bandages Monday.

Housing Agency Points to Heavy Demands for Units

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's housing agency, reporting a drop late last year in the pace of house building, has pointed to heavy new demands for housing in the future.

The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, in its annual report, said Monday the expansion of industries and utilities has caused a "temporary shortage" of housing funds.

"Meanwhile immigration may put new pressure upon the existing stock of housing and in a few years there will be a major increase in the population of marriageable age," the report said.

"To provide the Canadian people with a sufficient supply of well-designed, economical housing will place new demands upon all who contribute to the housebuilding industry."

CMHC reported a record 135,700 housing units completed in 1956, compared with the previous record of 127,924. But at the end of the year 68,579 uncompleted homes were carried over into the new year compared with 79,100 a year earlier.

STARTS FALL OFF

Housing starts, at a record 138,276 in 1955, dropped to 127,111 and in the last three months of 1956 fell off to 22,874 from 32,089 a year earlier.

There was "a significant reduction" during the fourth quarter of housing financed under the National Housing Act, down 2,000 starts from the three months were one-fifth of what they had been a year earlier and NHA loans from other sources were one-third of the previous year.

Expenditures on new housing totalled $1,576,000,000 in 1956, up five per cent from 1955. But three per cent of the increase reflected higher costs.

The chartered banks, which entered the low-cost housing field late in 1955, financed 14,765 NHA units during the year compared with 32,301 the year before.

Ontario had 48,712 units started in 1956, compared with 53,456 the previous year. Completions in 1956 were 51,201, compared with 51,612.

Bank Clerk Dies After Revolver Discharges

TILLSONBURG (CP) — An 18-year-old bank clerk here died after he was shot and fatally injured with a bank revolver late Monday as bandits escaped with loot from the bank and lock up security fire-arms in the vault.

Malcolm Dydall died in hospital two hours after a .38-calibre revolver he was using to clean it discharged and wounded him in the head.

Police believe the shooting was accidental. Dydall and two other bank employees were near the main counter and Dydall was picking up the gun to take it to the safe. He was said to have "casually" swung the weapon around, when it discharged.

The shooting occurred about 5:30 p.m., and all the bank's seven or eight employees still in the building, Dydall, Mrs. Wilma Dodgson and an unnamed woman employee at the front counter. They verified that the gun discharged accidentally.

Dydall was taken to hospital and Dr. C. C. Lee performed emergency surgery. The bullet entered near one eye.

Only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dydall of Wellandport, the youth had lived in Tillsonburg for about a year.

Forced to Impose New Taxes Says Harry C. Lyons

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Government was forced to impose new taxes to find a substitute for fiscal reforms refused by the federal government, Harry C. Lyons (Lib., Lambton East) said Monday night in the legislature.

He said the province's debt is increasing more rapidly than revenue and the province's rightful share of revenue being returned to us by Ottawa "there was no alternative but to increase certain taxes."

The bulk of adjustments in repayments to the Province, Ottawa was not making adequate to the share of all revenues from fields formerly occupied by the province, also we was absorbing a disproportionate share of the annual increase in financial settling from industrial expansion services by the province and its municipalities.

Mr. Lyons said Ontario is increasing its contribution to the municipalities each year at a more accelerated pace than the municipalities are increasing their own tax levies.

He said that, despite opposition claims, the average municipal taxpayer is not carrying the tax burden he is represented as carrying and is paying proportionately less than he was in 1939. In terms of constant dollars the municipal tax payers paid $33.49 in 1939 compared with $32.25 in 1956.

hoped would bring general labor peace.

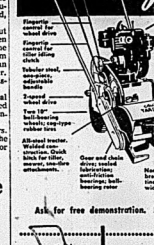
Labor Minister Iain Macleod appealed to the unions Monday night to call off the 11-day strike while the court of inquiry examines the dispute.

WANT MORE PAY

Immediate hopes of ending the strike crashed when the union leaders—members of the 40-union Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions — rejected a five-per-cent pay increase. They said a 7½-per-cent increase is the least they could accept.

It had been hoped earlier that settlement of the shipyard dispute could lead to an end of an even bigger walkout—a strike of 1,000 dry factory workers which went into full swing Monday.

Both strikes were called by the union confederation in support of the 10-per-cent pay claim.



The court of inquiry set up by Macleod will be a fact-finding body with the power to recommend, but not enforce, settlement.

The shipyard management have agreed to co-operate with the court but union delegates said Monday night no decisions could be made until a meeting of the full executive of the confederation.

GLIDER PILOT

Norman Cary Smuhur, 18, (left) of Transcona, Man., recently named Canada's top teen-aged pilot, chats with a friend, Peter Kapko who holds the W. F. Tudhope Memorial Trophy awarded to Norman in Ottawa by the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association. Norman is the eldest son of a Canadian National Railways carman. His hobby is building model airplanes. (CP Photo).

18-Year-Old Transcona Youth Canada's Top Teen-age Pilot

TRANSCONA, Man. (CP) — An 18-year-old Transcona youth who started building model airplanes when he was 10 recently was named Canada's top teen-age pilot. Now he is setting his sights on a career as an aeronautical engineer.

Norman Gary Smhur, awarded the W. F. Tudhope Memorial Trophy at Ottawa for his flying achievements, is the eldest son of a CNR carman in the railway town, 10 miles east of Winnipeg. His parents, both of Ukrainian descent, have four other children. They came here from Espanola, Ont.

While his early interest in flying started with model planes, Norman said in an interview a 10-minute flight in a barnstorming plane that took off from a field a mile from his home was the "clincher that made me want to become a pilot." The trip cost $4.

BECAME AIR CADET

"After that flight I joined the No. 6 (Lisa White Cross) Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets at Winnipeg," he said. "I knew the air cadets sponsored some of their members in flying lessons and I worked hard to make the qualifications."

Four years later he made his first solo flight and passed with an average of more than 80 per cent. In department of transport examinations he had the highest average among teen-agers in the Winnipeg Flying Club and was entered as candidate for the Tudhope award presented annually by the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

He then topped all candidates in RCFCA tests, and on Jan. 29, when he was still 17, he received the trophy from Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, Chief of the Air Staff, at the association's annual meeting.

Norman has completed more than 30 model airplanes. These range from small, two-inch wood carvings to scale models with wingspans of more than four feet.

Norman's interest in flying is almost an obsession. In six months flying.

"I can't leave flying for more than two weeks at a time since I get my pilot's licence," he said. "I get more of a thrill from flying than anything else."

PREPARES FOR FUTURE

He still is planning for his future education. This may take him to either the University of Toronto or the University of Manitoba or first class.

the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont.

After completing Grade XII at Transcona Collegiate this year, he plans to work a year in the aircraft industry at Winnipeg while getting language courses needed for entrance to university where he will study aeronautical engineering.

Norman has already designed several planes and made adaptations on other models.

He said he hopes to work for a few years as a commercial and bush pilot in northern Manitoba or British Columbia.

At school he competes in basketball and curling. He attends weekly air cadet meetings and holds the rank of warrant officer

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reeding her new murder mistery book, saying to pop, William, I'm glad to see Fellrey Brown. This is the last of his Inspecter Fox stories he'll ever trap me into reeding. This is abolute cheeting, she said.

What did he do, make Inspecter Fox himself term out to be the murderer? pop said, and ma said, Well hardly, although even that might be forgiveable under extenuating circumstances. From the very first he pointed the finger of sispicion at the spenthrift son in law, but obviously that was a red herring that wouldn't fool a babe in arms. But I really pricked up my ears when he made hidden incinations against the apparently angelic grandmother.

I dont blame you, pop, said, and ma said, But the grandmother terned out as pure as she was painted.

That must of been a releef, pop said, and ma said, Anyway, that left the lawyer and the docter as the only possible murderers. The lawyer had no conscience and the docter was without a scruple. And then came the inexcitable mity climax, she said.

Inspecter Fox did it after all, pop said, and ma said, Certainly not I told you. As a silly matter of fact, the fish ant wasn't even dead. She had meerly taken so many sleeping pills she slopped all viable breething. I was never so dissapointed, and if Fellrey Brown thinks it was a smart trick to make his reeders waist time on a merder mistery without a merder, it's the last time he'll have a chance to try it on me, she said.

The man must of been drunk, pop said.

Saying it behind his paper and staying there.

New Mayflower, Duplicate Of Original Ship, Will Be Presented to New England

PLYMOUTH, England (A)— A replica of the sailing ship Mayflower, in which the Pilgrim Fathers made their hazardous journey to America in 1620, is poised on Britain's south coast, ready to repeat the historic voyage.

A new Mayflower, in size and appearance a duplicate of the original ship, has been built by British shipwrights using 17th-century tools.

Like its illustrious predecessor, the new Mayflower is made of wood. It is a 90-foot three-masted square-rigged barque of 180 tons and it is suspected that, like its predecessor, it may not sail very well against the wind.

SYMBOL OF FRIENDSHIP

But about 30 British seamen and romanticists who prefer sails to turbines, are determined to take it out into the Atlantic against the prevailing wind, and deliver it safely to New England.

There, the stout little ship will be presented officially to the American people, a gift from the people of Great Britain. It will remain permanently on New England's rock-bound coast, maintained as a museum which British sponsors hope will be a symbol, lasting centuries, of Anglo-American friendship and co-operation in the affairs of the world.

The cost of the project was met by British business firms and a number of donors who are staying in the background. It is not a government enterprise and there is no government money in the venture. But the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Collum Welch, is chairman of the civic board encouraging the undertaking.

The cost of buildings, provisioning, sailing and paying the crew of Mayflower II is expected to exceed £250,000 ($280,000).

The ship is to be given to Plimoth Plantation, Inc., of Plymouth, Mass., a patriotic society which is building a replica of the original Pilgrim settlement in Massachusetts. Plimoth Plantation, which has already constructed some houses in primitive colonial design, has agreed to provide a permanent berth for Mayflower II.

Mayflower II will start its voyage from Plymouth, England, April 2, or as soon thereafter as winds permit. Getting out into the English Channel from this port may be a bit of a problem if weather is capricious.

So the precise time of the departure is left to the discretion of its master, Cmdr. Alan J. Villiers, 53-year-old Australian who is one of the world's most thoroughly experienced men with sails. In 1934-1936 he made a spectacular 58,000-mile cruise around the world in the famed sailing ship Joseph Conrad.

The original Mayflower crossed in two months. It is expected this new ship will take about the same length of time.

History will be followed closely on the voyage. Sailors of Mayflower II will even wear Pilgrim costumes.

MODERN TOUCHES

But history is out when it comes to food on the ship, because you sailing with her, said Stuart Upham of Brinxham, builder of the Mayflower II. "I don't fancy two months of salt pork."

A few other modern touches have been added to the ship.

For instance, there will be a radio. One had to be installed to comply with British Board of Trade regulations, which are designed to make voyages safe rather than adventuresome.

A radio requires a reliable source of electricity, so Mayflower II has a marine generator, driven by an 18-horsepower diesel engine. With electricity available, it seemed to be sensible to install modern signal lights, so that this ship with the 17th-century appearance does not become a hazard, to itself and others, in Atlantic shipping lanes.

On board Mayflower II there is a complete set of the primitive navigational instruments on which ships relied in the early 17th century, and they will be used on the 20th century crossing. But there will be modern navigational gear aboard. If the obliterating vary too much, the modern instruments will bring the ship back to its true course.

"We don't know the route of the first Mayflower, and it's an odd bet her captain didn't," said Villiers. "Precise knowledge of his ship's position was not his concern. It was enough to make the voyage at all."

4th Sidney

4TH SIDNEY — The Rev. and Mrs. R. McMullen were "At Home" on Wednesday afternoon and evening to the congregations of the Sidney circuit.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen met their guests at the door and made everyone welcome. Mrs. McMullen wore a navy dress with white corsage, while her mother, Mrs. Smith, who is in her 90th year, wore black velvet with matching stole. Although blind, Mrs. Smith enjoyed visiting with the guests.

In the afternoon Mrs. Ed Phillips and Mrs. S. W. Lloyd presided at the tea table with its lace cloth and silver services, while Mrs. K. Twiddy, Mrs. Rydman, Mrs. E. B. Phillips and Mrs. G. Evans served.

In the evening Mrs. F. Jeffrey and Mrs. H. Gray presided at the silver services and the Misses Isabelle Burnside, Marlene and Jeannette Twiddy served. Mrs. Rydman and Mrs. K. Twiddy replenished the plates of dainty sandwiches and cookies.

Everyone enjoyed the social visit and thanked Mr. and Mrs. McMullen for a pleasant time.

This Is Hot One, Smell of Smoke Was Pipe Dream

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP) — Gerry Stevens found his face as red as the fire truck when the fire department arrived at the Stevens home in answer to an alarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were sitting down to lunch when they smelled smoke. While Mrs. Stevens phoned in an alarm, her husband went outside to close off the main electrical switch.

While outside, the smell of smoke became stronger. Suddenly Stevens found his jacket pocket smoldering. The pipe he had dropped into the pocket before sitting down to lunch was the culprit.

Defence Annoyed As Crown Changes Testimony Plan

LONDON (CP)—The jury trying Dr. John Bodkin Adams for murder was sent out of court Monday while his defence counsel made a submission to the judge about the evidence of a detective.

Detective Inspector Bryniey Pugh of the Eastbourne police had just started to testify about a search for dangerous drugs in the portly little physician's house when the defence request was made.

Earlier, defence lawyer Geoffrey Lawrence complained that the decision to call the detective at this stage was "an embarrassment" to him.

SAYS NOT PREPARED

A list of witnesses prepared by the Crown had led him to prepare to deal with medical and lay police witnesses as the trial in Old Bailey entered its second week.

Adams, 58, is charged with the murder by an overdose of drugs in the death 18 years ago of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81, at her mansion in Eastbourne.

Before the jury was sent from court, Pugh said that last November he went to Adams' home with Superintendent Herbert Hannan of Scotland Yard, who was in charge of investigations.

Told that the detectives had a search warrant under the Dangerous Drugs Act," Adams said: "There are no dangerous drugs here."

He then walked to a cupboard, opened it and said: "There is quite a bit of barbiturate here, is that what you want?"

Earlier, Mrs. Morrell's chauffeur, Thomas Price, said she was a rich and generous old woman who had left him £1,000.

He said after death he took her Rolls - Royce limousine to Adams. A former removal foreman also gave evidence of another of Mrs. Morrell's possessions delivered to Adams after her death. This was an oak cabinet containing silver.

Two Women Die In St, John Fire

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Two women died Monday as fire gutted Summerville as flames ripped through their home while city firemen were dousing another outbreak which drove six families, including at least 12 children, from two north-end tenements.

Dead are Mrs. Robert Greer, about 50 and her mother Mrs. Annie Fraser, about 80. They were operators of the Kingston Peninsula Telephone Co.

The company's switchboard was also destroyed by the flames but an emergency switchboard was set up to handle priority calls.

Parts of 5 States Still Paralyzed By Spring Storm

Four Deaths Attributed To Kansas Blizzard

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The choking fury of wind-driven snow subsided Monday on the U.S. high plains but parts of five states still were paralyzed by the worst spring blizzard in 30 years or more.

Four deaths were attributed to the storm.

The three-day assault of snow and winds up to 80 miles an hour left fantastic drifts as high as 20 feet and stalled hundreds of cars and automobiles.

Highway crews intensified efforts to free storm victims in eastern Colorado, southwestern Nebraska, western Kansas, parts of Texas and Oklahoma panhandle areas. The fringe of the storm dropped the northeast corner of New Mexico.

Searchers feared they would find some dead in cars buried under drifts although temperatures were not severe—a little below freezing.

THOUSANDS STRANDED

Estimates of stranded travellers ran as high as 7,500 but most of these had gained shelter when the swirling snow blocked roads early Sunday. Kansas Gov. Hall was keeping how many might still be marooned in stalled cars along highways.

Two storm deaths were counted in Nebraska, one each in Texas and Kansas.

Ranchers expected livestock losses to be high. The heavy, wet snow and powerful wind snapped many fences and poles, left many cities without power.

TWO TRAINS BURIED

One of the most intense rescue efforts was near Meade, Kan., where the Rock Island Railroad reported Golden Rocket Limited was stalled Saturday night with 200 passengers.

The wind covered the locomotive and four cars with snowdrifts and rescue emergency became ill of carbon monoxide fumes. Mine rescue crews, with 35 trucks, workers with tractors and horses, fought through the drifts Sunday and began removing the passengers to farm houses and to Meade, Kan., jailhouse.

The Union Pacific's City of St. Louis was stalled for miles west of Oakley, Kan., with 400 passengers and was running low on food and fuel. Crews dug by high and efforts to reach the train were hampered.

In Kansas Governor George Docking appealed to the army for use of helicopters.

Outside the snow zone in Texas Gulf Coast fishing fleets were arose on the wind. There was no visibility in part of west Texas.

Paris Bustles With Preparations In Anticipation of Queen's Visit

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris is bustling with excitement as preparations are speeded ahead for the state visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip from April 4 to 11.

The visit will be the first by a reigning British sovereign since the Queen's parents, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, now the Queen Mother, came here 19 years ago.

And neither have passed since the Queen, as Princess Elizabeth, came to Paris on her first journey abroad since her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. Her last words to the then French premier, Vincent Auriol, before she left for London, were: "I can't tell you how happy I am."

The French government is spending 500,000,000 francs (about $1,429,000) to make the royal couple's return memorable.

The biggest striking event in four days and three nights of entertainment will be a spectacular fireworks display on the banks of the Seine during an evening cruise by the Queen and Philip dressed in uniforms representing four centuries of French history and choirboys will be massed against the background of the Notre Dame Cathedral to cheer and chant a welcome.

Scores will display portraits of the Queen and Prince Philip in their windows. Many are preparing imaginative designs based on the theme of the 19-year-old heir to a tente cordiale between Britain and France.

Banners in red, white and blue, the national colors of both countries, will be hung from lamp posts, and large crowns will be suspended over the Champs Elysees, Paris' best-known throughfare.

Master craftsmen are completing four years of painstaking work to restore the gilt coach of the Versailles Palace, home of French kings, where the Queen and Philip will attend a performance by the Paris Opera Company of Les Indes Galantes by the 18th-century composer Jean-Philippe Rameau. The restoration job, which will cost 1,000,000,000 francs (=$2,800,000).

The palace's Hall of Mirrors, where the Treaty of Versailles was signed in 1919, will be scene of a banquet in honor of the royal guests. Invitations have been sent to 1,000 people, 300 of them French personalities, who will be served by 130 liveried footmen. Louis XV's bedroom will be used as a pantry.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will stay at the Elysee Palace, built by Louis XV for his mistress, Madame de Pompadour, and now the official Paris residence of the president of the French republic.

St. Laurent Reaches Bermuda For Parley With Macmillan

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuters)—Prime Minister St. Laurent arrived here by air Mon. for two days of talks with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain.

Macmillan held a Sunday press conference the chief purpose of his talks with Canada's prime minister is to make sure relations between the old, and new worlds are kept in working order.

Canada is playing a vital part in these relations, he said. He was indebted to the Canadian leader for his courtesy in coming to Bermuda when he had offered to make the trip to Ottawa.

It would prove valuable for him to tell Prime Minister St. Laurent what had taken place in his conference with President Eisenhower, who flew back to Washington Sunday after a joint communique was issued.

Macmillan will report on his talks with Eisenhower "on all these policies get tied up and worked together."

One likely topic will be a possible visit by Queen Elizabeth to Canada this year. Macmillan said he discussed with Eisenhower the possibility of a royal visit to the United States.

He would have to report back to the Queen and a further statement now would be inappropriate.

The Canadian prime minister has made clear he wants parties early to talk about increased Canada-U.S. trade and the possible effects on Canadian trade of the proposed British" participation in the European free trade area.

Macmillan said Sunday Britain wants to pursue liberal trade policies and all countries should do the same.

Previously British spokesmen have said Macmillan will discuss the Canadian that the U.K. will keep Commonwealth in member preferential trade and that Britain has no intention of harming the traditional Canadian markets in the U.K.

Statesmen of Six Countries Sign 'Common Market' Accord

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—Six statesmen of Western Europe signed a basic treaties Mon. to a common market to break down customs barriers that have kept them apart.

Treaties providing for the Common market and its allied European atomic energy pact were signed in the Capidoglio, Rome's ancient city hall, by West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The signing, in fact, probably the greatest stride toward European unification in the long history of political and economic rivalries on this old continent.

Parliaments of the six countries will have to ratify the pacts. Even enthusiastic supporters estimate it will take 12 to 17 years to readjust national economies so the goods can flow freely unhindered among the six nations. The plan also calls for a unified tariff system on imports from outside the six-nation area.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flew in from Bonn to represent his government. Leaders were on Wednesday to Iran and Turkey.

The ministers reached final agreement on the two treaties and supplementary documents at Paris six weeks ago. The pacts are to go into operations as soon as the market and the atomic pool are fully working.

Under the Common Market treaty the 160,000,000 people of the six countries will form an economic union gradually eliminating customs barriers and trade quotas.

Euratom is a separate pact to set up a supra-national authority to pool resources for the development and peaceful exploitation of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Management Policy Alarms President Labor Federation

TORONTO (CP)—S. S. Hughes, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, Monday expressed "growing alarm" at what he termed an increasing tendency of companies to take retaliation courts unfavorable to them to court.

Mr. Hughes also told the 14th annual OFL convention he is "disturbed" at the tendency of companies to demand recertification of unions after a company changes its name.

Attempts by company - backed unions to get a union decertification drive also are increasing, he said. The address, made at the opening of the three-day convention, carried a strong hint that the OFL will press for passage of a bill such as Ontario labor's party when a three-day meeting of Ontario Federation of Labor gets under way Wednesday.

His speech was issued to the press before delivery.

The new body, representing 500,000 union members or half the membership of the new Canadian Labor Congress, was formed from the old OFL and the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor. The union will hold a one-day meeting Tuesday.

The merger is part of a general merger last fall of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Canadian Labor Congress to form the Canadian Labor Congress. The old OFL and POFL conventions had a one-day windup meeting ends at 5 p.m.

Mr. Hughes said the OFL has "watched with growing alarm the tendency of employers, by management to rush to the courts when they get an unfavorable decision."

The federation president said "many cases" have to be abandoned because of legal costs while companies can charge costs "to management," money which should go into tax dollars being used to fight a union."

Exhume Second Body in Probe Of Deaths of 7

BLANDFORD, England (AP)—The body of a second old woman was exhumed in an investigation of the deaths of seven persons at a Dorsetshire hospital, it was learned Monday.

Gravediggers supervised by detectives exhumed the body of Gertrude Brooks, 86, whose death in October, 1955, was attributed to heart disease. She died two months after entering the home and was buried in the churchyard of the outskirts of this Dorset County town.

Two days ago the body of Rose Darby, 88, was dug up. Her death 13 months ago also was blamed on heart disease.

Two employees of the home have been charged in the disposal of the belongings of many old women who died in the home during the last two years. Detectives investigating the deaths have demanded new inquests.

Toronto Woman Nearly Trapped In Burning Home

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs Blanche Murphy, 63, escaped with minor injuries in a fire which gutted the nearby Rouge Hills early Monday only a few seconds before the roof collapsed.

She and Mrs. Lorraine Mcnally, 33, occupant of an apartment in the 15-room house, ran from the blazing building as fire hit Mrs. Murphy returned. She wanted to get her car keys to move it from the garage. The blaze broke out in the apartment occupied by Mrs. Mcnally, her wife and two children who were visiting friends in St. Catharines.

Secret Pacts Seen Reached At Bermuda

Policy Directives On Key Issues Signed

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower Monday were reported to have spelled out secret policy directives on key world issue in Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Following the Big Two's fourday meeting, informants said a number of written understandings have been signed by specialists of the joint 800-word communique issued Sunday.

Macmillan told a press conference the talks had been a "great success" but no agreement reached a number of conclusions on some large issues have been tidied up a lot of points, and we've set in motion methods of further co-operation on questions still unresolved."

WHAT DIRECTIVE MEANS

Informants said the guarded reference could be taken to mean:

1. Macmillan and Eisenhower agreed underlying ways of handling jointly certain international problems. These persuade the British U.S reaction to any give or lend-lease missiles to Britain, and the possibility of joint U.S. and Canadian bases on non-strategic trade and transport routes. The latter is a formation of an international convention to safeguard freedom of oil pipelines.

Also reported included are plans for joint action in the event of sudden worsening of the Middle East situation—for instance, if the Israel and Arab states go to war—or if new fighting flares between Israel and the Arab states.

2. The two statesmen agreed to drop all thought of short-term measures to bee Egypt into a settlement of current Middle East area dispute. Simultaneously, they undertook to act independently outside the United Nations if long-term measures should be needed to isolate an uncooperative Egypt. They agreed that long-term plans for promoting European unity and economic development, and

3. The two decided to order their governments to resume cooperation at all levels, to pool military and political information, and to dovetail diplomatic planning.

SEE FREQUENT PARLEYS

In the coming months there likely will be a flurry of consultations to implement this.

The need for the two governments to keep in touch to meet such a renewal of co-operation, even to spell out and sign understandings, underlines the revamped nature of the British-American alliance. It is largely prompted by Britain's intervention in Egypt, which the U.S. opposed, but which it never was necessary.

Taken together, all the understandings reached are faithfully carried out, will amount to a substantial revision of Britain's knottiest problems affecting vital interests not only of Britain and the United States but all of the free world.

COMPOSER DIES

PARIS (AP)—Camille Robert, composer of the famous "Song of World War marching song Maldeon, died here Sunday night. He was 85.

Unfamiliar With Press Conferences, Macmillan Still Scores Big

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan has expressed probably better than anyone else in recent times the purposes of "summit" meetings between friendly countries.

He began a press conference Sunday by asking: "I am curious if he was not familiar with press conferences. Unfortunately not."

But in 30 minutes he bowled over 15 reporters with finesse, humor and charm.

He said such a meeting as his with President Eisenhower was like being fellow guests at a country house.

"The purpose was, he said, "a bringing together of points of view. Six Winston Churchill made the key point. A certain number of conclusions should be reached, some on larger issues, some on smaller. Methods of future co-operation should be agreed on still-unresolved questions.

From these standpoints the conference had been a "great success," Macmillan said. But he added: "I regret that the audience will have failed unless reporters covering it are able to get across to the countries involved and the whole world what had happened and the fine atmosphere of Bermuda."

Macmillan sat cool as a cucumber under the television lights. He smoked leisurely during the question period.

Asked by a television reporter what he thought of press conferences, Sir Winston replied: "I was said in Ottawa he didn't think much of them—Macmillan came with a smile—"they're the acme of democratic civilization."

Asked by another American if the system would be adopted in the United Kingdom Macmillan said Britain has had the institution for years.

It occurred five times a week and was known as the question period in the House of Commons.

Easy Solution, Queenie Must Be Dodger Fan

NEW YORK (AP) — A Brooklyn watchdog named Queenie is so rattled by motherhood she can't tell friend from foe.

Queenie, a German shepherd, and her four new pups remained as quiet as church mice Friday night as burglars rifled a cigaret machine in the restaurant operated by her master, William Wise.

He didn't expect the pups to be alert, but he thought he could count on Queenie.

She was ready Sunday. When a patrolman came to examine the scene of the crime, Queenie bit him on the ankle.

Last Obstacle To Suez Passage Has Been Moved

Raising of Tug Coincides With Report of Concessions

CAIRO (AP)—A UN salvage team Mon. raised the sunken tug Egyptian Bonnet, the last obstacle to passage of 10,000-ton ships through the Suez Canal. But there was no official word yet when Egypt will open the 103-mile waterway to 10,000-ton ships—about 75 per cent of the canal's normal traffic before it was blocked last fall.

The 1,461-ton Egyptian frigate Abukir still partially blocks the southern entrance to the canal, but the 10,000 tonners can skirt this obstacle. UN officials have said the Abukir should be cleared by April 10.

UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's mission to Cairo meanwhile neared its end as bargaining rifled a cigaret machine in the restaurant operated by her master, William Wise.

He didn't expect, the pups to be alert, but he thought he could count on Queenie.

She was ready Sunday. When a patrolman came to examine the scene of the crime, Queenie bit him on the ankle.

British Papers Voice Criticisms Of Bermuda Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — Leading British newspapers Mon. tended to be more critical than other sections of the international press in reaction to results of the Bermuda talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

The Manchester Guardian says: "The decision on the continued testing of nuclear weapons will cause dismay to people already uneasy about the hazards to public health."

"On the Far East," the Liberal paper continues, "it is evident that the two governments are not altogether in harmony with each other and on the Middle East there are obscurities.

"The most immediate valuable decision for the British government," it says, "is on the supply of guided missiles."

NOT ILLUMINATING

The Times says the re-establishment of friendly relations was "quite evident at the biggest achievement of Bermuda."

But, it adds, the communique issued after the talks "is not very illuminating" about "the urgent meeting ground" of the Middle East.

"What happens if (Egyptian President) Nasser goes to war, either on Gaza or Aqaba or Suez? Communiques are silent. It looks as if a decision has been deferred pending news from UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold."

British Labor Federation Backs Nuclear Disarmament

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—The British Labor Federation Monday backed nuclear disarmament by a majority of more than 2,000,000 votes.

The vote was taken on a resolution calling for the abandonment of nuclear weapons by Britain and the United States.

The resolution was carried by 3,282,000 votes to 1,262,000.

Delegates to the annual conference of the federation, which is the trade union section of the Labor party, also voted to support the Labor party's policy of opposing the manufacture of hydrogen bombs by Britain.

Vancouver Man Held as Killer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Joseph McKenna, 21, has been charged with murder and attempted murder in the shooting of a Vancouver family Saturday in a crowded Chinatown eatery.

John Donaldson, 25, was killed, apparently by a man he had never seen before. He died comatose in hospital with a bullet wound in the upper leg in Larry Brown, 26.

HITS OTTAWA

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Thursday the provincial government will not let municipalities as much as it would like as long as the federal government continues to take large slice of tax revenues. Addressing a delegation from the Union of County Councils of the Province of Quebec which presented a brief to the provincial cabinet, he said he wants to help the municipalities but finds taxes 77 cents from every tax dollar.

Police Blotter

Two break-ins, one at Pinder Motors on lower Front street, and the other at the Georgia Salon, also on Front street, on Queen the city over the weekend. Cash was reported missing at both places.

At the Georgia Salon the night patrol noticed a broken window pane at the rear. Investigation revealed entrance had been gained and a connecting door between a basement storeroom and the main floor was forced open with $30 being taken from a cash drawer.

At Pinder Motors a door was found insecure and cash of an undetermined amount was said missing.

Damage of approximately $500 to two vehicles was reported at Queen and Foster. Mark Howard Madoc, was westbound on Queen street when his car was in collision with local taxi. Damage to the Howard car was about $200, the vehicle ending up on the lawn of a nearby house, while the taxi was damaged to the extent of about $300.

Sunday evening a hydro pole was broken on Station street near the Presbyterian church. The car involved was owned by Daniel Reilly, R.R. 3 Belleville.

Also on Sunday cars driven by Fred C. Waite, 262 North Front street, and Thomas T. Hinds, R.R. 2 Harold, were in collision at the corner of North Front and Moira streets.

Bay of Quinte Likely Soon To Be Ice-Free

Gradually rolling under the action of the stronger spring winds in the Bay of Quinte within the next few days is likely to disappear for another year.

Already vast expanses of open water are visible down the bay with the open stretch extending as far as the eye can see eastward from the Bay Bridge. West of the bridge, however, the ice still appears intact although rapidly being softened by the wind and sun.

Picton Bay is still solid ice but the Clenora Ferry is operating in a section free of ice—from shore to shore for more than a mile in extent.

Sunday the open highways was a lure for motorists who swarmed over No. 33 highway with the new ferry "The Quinte Loyalist" being taxed to the limit to accommodate the long lines of cars travelling in both directions. The second ferry apparently has not yet been put into use for the busy season.

Body Discovered Near Creek Mouth On Reservation

Missing since last Thursday, the body of Nelson Lorne Scero, 48, of R.R. 1 Deseronto, was found Saturday afternoon at the mouth of Sucker creek on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reservation where it empties into the Bay of Quinte. The body was discovered by Harold Hill, a resident of the Reservation, as he was tending his trap lines on the bay shore.

Provincial Police at Belleville said they believed Scero had tried to walk across the creek on a section of ice which apparently had given way under his weight. The body was found about a mile from where he lived with his brother Jim Scero.

Married with seven children, Mr. Scero's wife and family all live in the United States.

Montreal Man Guest Speaker At Foremen's Club

Guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club will be Jack Arnold Hewlett, manager of personnel at the Canadian Marconi Co. in Montreal. His topic will be "Handling the New Worker".

Mr. Howlett was born in Toronto in 1924 and is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

In 1943 he enlisted in the Canadian Infantry Corps and the following year was transferred to the First Canadian Parachute Battalion. He served in the European theatre of operations and was demobilized in Canada in 1946.

Mr. Howlett joined the Canadian Marconi Co. in 1948. He acted in a programming capacity with the company's radio station, CFCF, and later was appointed press director and later program manager for radio station CFCF-FM. In turn, he was appointed production supervisor for CFCF and then program manager.

Mr. Howlett was transferred to Canadian Marconi's head office in 1954 as personnel development officer in the industrial relations division.

He is married to the former Margaret Revill of Toronto.

The meeting is scheduled for seven o'clock sharp at the YMCA.

Former Convicts Used Midget to Gain Entrance

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Police today blamed a three-month series of safecrackings here on two former convicts who used a 5-foot midget they used to gain access to buildings by slipping through small windows.

Officers said statements admitting the safecrackings were signed Sunday night by Charles Whitsell Jr., 43-pound, three-foot three youth, and Charles Hale, 36, and Charles Bodell, 30.

Detectives said the midget participated in 25 of the 60 safecrackings which the two men admitted. He squeezed through small openings in ceilings and then opened a door for his bigger partners, the officers said.

Hitchon Radio And TV Opens New Quarters

Forced by business expansion to find increased space, Hitchon Radio and Television have moved from their store at 4 Bridge St. East, to 340 Front St., formerly occupied by Fred Lewis Industries.

The move to the new location was made by Hitchon's last week and today they are open for business at the new store.

One of the best known radio and television stores in the city, the name Hitchon is also one of the oldest in the radio repair field.

The business was started back in 1924 by Gene Hitchon, who after several years in radio service field decided to go into business on his own. First store operated by Hitchon Radio was on Victoria Ave., then Dundas St. He was years, moved to 339 Front Street where the Percival Arcade is now located.

Following the war Gene and his brother Harry formed a partnership and moved to 4 Bridge East where business was carried on over ten years.

Although radio service was the first consideration, when television arrived their sales and service department was fully naturally expanded to include the new medium.

The franchise for Electrohome Television was procured and has since been handled. Other lines in the electronics field were also entered, among them being the communications field.

INSTALL SOUND SYSTEM

Hitchon Radio has installed sound and program systems in five of the city public schools as well as in schools in Picton, Napanee and Kingston.

Hearing aids have developed into a big business and following the trend, Hitchon Radio carry a full line of the new Zenith hearing aids, some of which are so small they may be concealed behind the ear.

Now with the move to more roomy quarters a line of baby carriages will be added by Hitchon Radio. In addition to Electrohome, RCA Victor, Whirlpool appliances, including TV, refrigerators, automatic washers and dryers, five radio ranges and other lines have been added.

The store staff has been increased to ten persons with two separate service departments, one for radio and appliances and one for television.

With the opening of their new store at 340 Front street, Hitchon Radio is giving away five radios worth over $200. All visitors to the store are entitled to a free draw with names to be drawn March 30th.

Two Youngsters Lock Selves In Army Tank

BARRIE (CP)—Wayne Harker, 15, and Don Arnold, 14, both of Barrie, locked themselves in an army tank Sunday and had to be released by police.

The tank was on a flatcar on the railway siding at Allandale, Allandale station, awaiting shipment to Georgia. The youths clambered on, descended into the body of the tank and closed the hatch after them. A chum stayed outside, some men who called police.

When the boys wanted to get out they found they couldn't open the hatch. Police released them.

CUNARD INVADES LAKES

DETROIT (AP) — Cunard Steamship Lines, Ltd., will inaugurate cargo service into Detroit this spring in anticipation of the 1959 opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Sir John Brocklebank, deputy chairman of the line, did not reveal whether Cunard plans to stop at other Great Lakes ports. He said the operation will be experimental.

More Red Subs Noted in Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — Admiral Jerauld Wright, chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, says "there has been an increase in recent years of contacts we think are Russian submarines."

Wright, who also is Supreme Allied Commander for the Atlantic, was interviewed while visiting this American air-sea base for an inspection of the Argentia Naval Warning system which the U.S. navy calls Early Barrier Atlantic.

Reporters' questions were based on recent statements by navy officials that the size of the Russian undersea fleet now may be 450 to 500 vessels, far greater than the German fleet force once operated by Germany. Admiral Felix Stump, Pacific fleet commander, recently reported evidents of an upsurge of Soviet submarine growth in that ocean.

Wright said that in the last few years there has been "a definite increase in their cruising to deep water." Apparently referring to the detection devices of the anti-submarine surface and air controls maintained in the Atlantic, the admiral added that "we pick them up every now and then."

IN MEMORIAM

RICHMOND. — In loving memory of our dear father, Alfred Richmond, who passed away March 25th, 1956.
Daddy dear, how mother has joined you.
Such a short time ago.
I see in my dreams contentment for you.
As I did a few years ago.
—Ever Remembered, daughter Thelma.

BARLOW. — In loving memory of Jessie, wife of James Barlow, who passed away March 25th, 1956.
Gone, but not forgotten.
Always in our thoughts.
Her calm silent smile we see.
Stronger than death shall say.
A sister — remembered.
—Husband and family.

BELNAP. — In loving memory of brother, Ernest Belnap who passed away on March 24th, 1956.
We little thought the hour was near
When we should have to part from you
Or how long the pain would be
Still in our hearts we treasure you
Safe in God's keeping we leave you
Until the day we miss our brother.
—Sister Mrs. Wood and family.

But their little know the sorrow
That lies in our hearts concealed
Though unseen and unheard by Mildred, Bill and family.

FREE. — In loving memory of Lottie Gertrude Free, who passed away on February 29th, 1956.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Always tender and dear
There is not a day, Lottie,
That we do not think of you.
—Always remembered by husband and family, Oliver Free.

Wife of Witness Threatened in Telephone Call
SEATTLE (AP) — Police are conducting an investigation into a threatening telephone call received by the wife of a witness who testified last week before the Senate rackets investigating committee in Washington.
Howard Sylvester, a Seattle insurance and public relations executive, said Sunday he has given police the name of an employee of the Teamsters Union whom he believes made the call.
Mrs. Sylvester told police Saturday about the anonymous telephone call she received Thursday evening. That was the day her husband told the Senate committee that the teamsters spent nearly $600,000 in the fight in the past a right-to-work initiative in Washington state last year. The initiative was snowed under in last November's election.
Sylvester also told the committee he has given him $10,000 for his work in the campaign and that an effort had been made to settle the bill for $1,800.
Mrs. Sylvester delayed telling police about the telephone call until her husband returned from Washington Saturday night.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials, led by utilities and banks, today recorded a moderate advance after morning trading but the rest of the stock market was mixed to lower.

Premier Trust had the best value gain on the board, adding two points at 88 on a single sale. B.C. Power was up 1¼ to 45¾ while Loblaw's Inc. gained a point at 63.

Pete-Hersey Tubes lost 1½ points at 119 among losing industrials.

Senior and junior base metals and coppers had twice as many losses as gains and golds and uranlums held a slight edge on the upside on the mining list. Golds had more gains than losses and a one-quarter point Index gain. Price changes, however, were narrowed in all groups.

Western oils were lower.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 15-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at today, Friday's noon rate was 95 17 - 32 cents. Pound sterling $2.66 ⅜, up ¼.

TO REBUILD CLUBHOUSE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Richard L. Turnbull, commodore of the Greater Niagara Boating Club, said Friday that tenders will be called in 10 days for a $25,000 clubhouse to be built on the site of the boathouse destroyed by fire this week.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quiet with receipts ample for a fair demand.

Country dealers were quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large size, oiled, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 29 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 35-36; A medium 34-35; A small 31; B 30; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 40-41; A medium 39-40; A small 36; B 35; C 32.

Butter prices: Canada first grade, Ontario: tenderable 58; non-tenderable 58½ (nominal); western 58½ (nominal). The butter market was reported unchanged.

Escape Artist Makes Good Boast Taking Own Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Escape artist Fernand Dube, a habitual criminal serving a life sentence at 29, made good on a boast that Dr. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary "won't last me for ever."

The body of the man who "couldn't do time" was carried out of the penitentiary after Dube succeeded in his third attempt to take his own life. He was found hanged Saturday night in his cell.

Dube, 51, thrice thief since the age of 20, broke from Quebec jails six times in 1950-51. While held at Sorel, he escaped nightly from the jail, pulled robberies and then returned to his cell. The warden subsequently was fined and several guards fired. One night Dube didn't return to his cell.

He was picked up in Barrie, Ont., a few months later, and without overnight in was recaptured and sent to St. Vincent de Paul.

There, the warden that Warden Paul Lebel called "a real Houdini," made two abortive escape attempts before success. He won a few hectic days of freedom and then shot his last plate made repeated escape attempts. Last summer, he and two companions succeeded again.

Dube had replaced door bolts with rubber suction cups and liberally strolled out for a week's wild rampage of bank holdups netting $22,000.

He was recaptured near Quebec City and subsequently pronounced a habitual criminal. Police speculated the sentence and last week's escape failure by three other men in the penitentiary broke his spirit.

Home on Carrying Place Road Threatened by Swamp Fire

TRENTON (Special) — A raging swamp fire out of control Saturday night threatened a half a dozen homes on the Carrying Place Road four miles south of here before a stubborn band of volunteer firemen armed with brooms, bags and sticks of wood finally subdued the flames spreading through the little settlement.

One of the fire-fighters reported that the fire was started in the afternoon by a resident clearing dead grass from a plot of land in the north east corner of the village. The wind first carried the fire toward the bayshore and then when it changed it fanned the flames to the east tails and undergrowth south of the No. 33 highway. By dusk the flames had developed along a wide front and moved steadily toward the row of dwellings on the main road. By the time darkness had fallen the men were tired from the fire lighted the sky above the swamp.

Watchers in the village became concerned and called for volunteers when the residents whose homes were in jeopardy. Two carloads of party-goers stopped here and pitched in without regard for their clothing or personal safety. Later they arrived at the house party with smudged faces and soiled shoes and pants.

At one time the volunteers figured the fire had the best of them. Flames caught in a pile of scrap lumber at the rear of Scotty McFarlane's cottage and moved toward a large quantity of timbers and a heavy hauling truck behind Ray Miller's place. In one spot the fire by-passed the row of houses but did no harm and burned out when it reached the ditch by the side of the highway.

Called but unable to proceed to the scene until the Reeve of Murray authorized the run, Trenton firemen with a hose truck returned to Trenton after making sure the volunteers had the situation well in hand.

Trenton police constable Sid Vickers, Ted Young, Jack Clark, Bill LaTour, Tommy Lewis and Vernon Westfall were among the volunteers from the village of Carrying Place. Houses threatened belonged to Eric Hillier, Scotty McFarlane, Frank Young and Ray Miller.

SMELTS STARTING

Fishermen in Prince Edward County expect smelts will start running this week. Perch taken from Lake Ontario provide tasty fillets selling at 40c a pound.

DOGS' DEATHS PROBED

TRENTON (Special) — The mysterious death of four dogs in the Wooler area is under investigation by the Provincial Police of Brighton. Cpl. L. Lyle called in provincial veterinary Glynn Jones who forwarded the stomachs of the dead animals to the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph for examination.

"It looks like strychnine poisoning" reported the veterinary, "but I won't be sure until the report comes back from Guelph." He observed that the dogs could have picked up poison set out for skunks.

To date Harold Haggerty, Henry McCall, Jack Austin and Bill Stacey have lost pets.

$80 in Cash Taken From Service Station

TRENTON (Special) — Burglars got away with $80 in cash after breaking into Halloran's Service Station on Front street over the week-end. The money was removed from the till inside the office. A safe in the same room was tampered with but not opened. Police found fingerprints around the dial of the safe and doors of the steel cabinet around it. Entry was gained through a window that was unlocked after the glass in it was smashed. A year ago a similar crime involving a similar crime was surprised and subsequently captured by constable Roy Miller of the local department.

Canada Imports Had Value of $5,710,400,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada imported more merchandise this year than in any year of her history, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The overall value was $5,710,400,000 up more than one-fifth over figures for the year before.

Volume accounted for most of the gain, 18.5 per cent, while 2.2 per cent was attributed to higher prices.

Chief increases were in trade with the United Kingdom, United States, Mexico, Venezuela, Belgium and Luxembourg, France, West Germany and Japan.

United States purchases shot up 21 per cent to a record $4,166,667,000, accounting for 73 per cent of total imports in both 1956 and 1955.

Imports from the United Kingdom also broke all past records during 1956, hitting a record $484,679,000.

Three Surviving Members of Quads Are 'Doing Fine'

MONTREAL (CP) — Patricia, Alma and Kevin, the three surviving members of Montreal's quads, were reported doing "just fine" today by Montreal Children's Hospital.

The infants, born two months prematurely last Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. William Munro of suburban Pointe Claire, were shifted Saturday from St. Joseph's Hospital to nearby Lachine. Mrs. Munro stayed behind.

The eldest of the quads died Friday night. The female infant, lightest of the four at just over three pounds, had been christened Mary before she died.

Three Teen-agers Killed by Train

OTTAWA (CP) — Three teenagers were killed late Sunday night when their automobile was hit broadside by a CNR passenger train at a level crossing in east-end Ottawa.

The victims were Gilles Methot, 17; Jean-Guy Denis, 17, and Lyse Carriere, 16, all of Ottawa.

They were the sole occupants of the automobile struck by the train from Montreal. Police said Methot was driving; the other boy and the girl were believed to have been in the front seat with him.

Wreckage of the automobile was strewn through a 50-foot along the tracks.

The youths were students at University of Ottawa and Miss Carriere a high-school student. Denis, a native of Timmins, came here in 1950.

Police found no skid marks after the accident. An eyewitness, John Foubert, said the diesel engine horn blew, but the car did not appear to slow down.

Newsmen Given Peek at Barrier Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP) — The U.S. Navy gave newspaper men a peek Sunday at its secret Barrier Atlantic, a far-flung system of radar-eyed planes and ships.

Ceaselessly, airmen and seamen keep vigil in mid-ocean, watching for hostile B-bombers.

A thousand times since last July when Barrier Atlantic was set up, huge planes have headed out for their patrol stations over the ocean, accumulating about 2,500,000 miles of flying—equivalent to six round trips to the moon.

Admiral Jerauld Wright, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet and supreme Allied commander for the Atlantic, told visiting reporters:

"What it is to keep the guy from making an end run."

Wright meant that Barrier Atlantic is a seaward extension of the three land-based early warning lines stretched across North America to sound alarm against attack across the Arctic by United States and Canada by Soviet bombers.

NFLD. ANCHOR

The westward anchor line for Barrier Atlantic is this base in Newfoundland. It is out and in, what direction the patrol extends, officials here declined to say. However, the Argentia naval examine. All Hands, has displayed a map showing a "mid-ocean" position at approximately the halfway point along the 2,000-mile stretch of sea between Newfoundland and the British Isles.

A Portuguese base now is beginning operation, with planes and ships operating out of Hawaii and Midway Island and connecting with operations from the Alaskan area.

Italian Actress Makes Peace With Admirers

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida made peace with her Vienna admirers in a little speech at an artists' ball concert Sunday night.

From the thunderous applause, it was plain all was forgiven save in the press. Newspapers still grumbled about the glamorous Italian film star stood up her fans by arriving recently Friday night.

The trouble began Friday night when Gina and her husband, Dr. Mirko Skofic, arrived at the hour hours late. They checked in at an outlying hotel instead of at one where 800 fans had waited for hours.

When reporters and photographers caught up with the visitors Gina had gone to bed. Her husband spoke gruffly to reporters. Later he said Gina explained:

The Socialist Arbeiterzeitung says: "Dr. Skofic, the husband and manager of Gina, can be satisfied. A scandal is always the best publicity."

Transatlantic Telephone Cable Laid at Cost of $42,000,000 Has Doubled Overseas Calls

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless a fisherman dredges it up or an international spy gives it the axe, its new transatlantic telephone cable should last 20 years without blowing a tube.

The telephone cable system, first under the Atlantic, actually consists of two cables, each about 2,250 land miles long and stretching from Clarenville, Nfld., to Port Rabelais on the Firth of Lorne near Oban, Scotland. The cables, located 20 miles apart on the ocean floor, carry one-way voice traffic in opposite directions between the continents.

Two cables were used so that the 51 repeaters needed to amplify sounds on the long journey under the sea could be built into the cables and spun out from the stern of the cable-laying ship. Two-way repeaters would have been too bulky to fit around the drum in laying operations.

THREE-WAY MESSAGES

Built at a cost of $42,000,000 in a joint venture by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the British post office and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp., the transatlantic cable has already doubled the number of overseas calls.

In 1955, the then and still existing radio telephone logged 101,000 calls between New York and London. Since it opened last September, the telephone cable has averaged 30,000 calls a month without taxing the capacity of its 36 separate voice circuits.

Three-minute calls cost about $12 weekdays and evenings and Sunday, compared with $75 for three minutes when radio telephones were introduced in 1927.

Voices are not "scrambled" on the undersea system since it is impossible to monitor calls without tapping into the cable. As for a diver, one diver able to withstand a 4,450-volt jolt.

NO INTERFERENCE

Unlike radio telephone, the cables are not affected by storms, atmospheric disturbances, sun spots or other causes of fading. The intricate system of tubes and repeaters, spaced 40 miles apart on the cables, acts like an electronic bucket brigade, picking up the sound and carrying it across without spilling an audio drop.

Transmissions are heard as clearly as neighboring calls, and sometimes clearer if the neighborhood happens to be afflicted with an antique telephone.

Actually, the cable is safest where the ocean is deepest, reasoning that because of the neck spilling action of tides, the mean cing otter boards of fish trawlers, corrosive marine life, occasional icebergs or the danger of being picked up by a ship's anchor.

For security reasons location of the cable is secret. Cable cutting has been a standard tactic in wartime.

GOOD FOR 20 YEARS

Barring accidents or sabotage, longlines engineers are certain the cables will last at least 20 years because their tubes were invented in the late 1930s and have been performing ever since in laboratory tests.

But if one tube goes, the whole system conks out in one direction. For that reason, elaborate precautions were taken to manufacture tubes and repeaters under dust-free conditions.

Workers at the air conditioned, temperature and humidity controlled plant in Hillside, N.J., wore special uniforms of lint-free, closely woven nylon, donned outer smocks while walking from the locker room, and were cautioned against smoking and excessive use of cosmetic powders. The work room was pressurized slightly to keep out dust laden air

Alliance Claims 30 Businesses Open on Sunday

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Assistant Crown Attorney Don Scott says police have almost finished an investigation into a complaint by the Lord's Day Alliance that some 30 businesses are operating here on Sundays.

A report will be forwarded to the attorney-general "sometime this week," accompanied by a quest for permission to prosecute, he said Sunday. In 1943 an amendment to the 1906 federal statute placed responsibility for prosecutions in the hands of provincial attorney-general alone.

Mr. Scott said most of the businesses listed by the alliance were grocery stores, and many were souvenir stores, including one run by Stanford, Connecticut-born Governor Averell Harriman of New York.

The Niagara Parks Commission and stores in the Rainbow Bridge plaza leased from the department of highways were not investigated.

MISS SIXISH AND THE STRANGER

She is just a little miss and she has a long way to go to school.

When you are sixish, even short lanes can seem long. Is. Seem? Nay, they are. When you are sixish, you are Einstein, you know instinctively about things like relativity and space-time. You have not yet fallen into the rigid adult error of judging distance by a standard unit of measurement. There is only one realistic measurement: those who walk, and that is the length of the stride. So if your strides are skips, it still takes a lot of them to cover a block — a block is not the "short block" of grown-ups, but a long, long way.

This little miss, though, has a long way to go to school by adult standards, for she is a Catholic and has not been allowed within a block or so of her home. Because does not go to the neighborhood school, she does not ogle with the morning bubble-gum crowd, but wends her own way.

A long way is a long way, but a lonely, long way is a queer way. Therefore she is glad of company, even if the company is one of those strange grownups who are interested in skipping and only mildly delighted to learn that Miss Sixish is really quite grown-up, for she has figured a new pair of glasses, just like Mr. Grown-up's.

School-bound and work-bound journeys can become pleasant, when they are made in congenial company, and sometimes a friendship of a heart is warmed by the feel of a hand pushed confidently into a larger one. That hand matched away, once the crossing is safely negotiated, has developed to the more important business of twirling a spring rope.

Man, made young and frisky by a young companion. Miss Sixish, feeling grown-up and important at six — it is a pleasant combination, perhaps the only completely uncomplicated relationship between the sexes.

Uncomplicated? Well, not quite. Mr. Grown-Up's wandering mind remembers reading about similar combinations, with less pleasant associations. He wonders whether any of the other grown-ups on the street know the little girl — and, if so, whether they know him; and if they do not know him whether they, too, have recalled the sinister implications sometimes given to this particular combination of child and adult. For a moment the pleasant evening is spoiled. But not for long. The young eyes, gaily ensconced behind the new glasses have found some thing to wonder on which to comment.

Such brief encounterings when chance is kind ought to release Mr. Grown-Up and Miss Sixish from their respective homes at just the right time for them to share the journey together. Sometimes they do. Sometimes she skips ahead of him and the morning is even pleasanter than usual.

Then, one noon, the morning companion is sighted, but turns Mr. Grown-Up that this time she is not walking home with him but is going to ride to school with the daddy of a neighbor. The neighbor, also sixish, appears and eyes Mr. Grown-Up coldly. As they cross the road, words of admonition are spoken.

"You shouldn't talk to strangers," declares Neighbor Billy.

"Oh, that's all right, he's a friend of my daddy," Miss Sixish says.

Miss Sixish is not quite accurate. Mr. Grown-Up is a friend of Miss Sixish, but he is only a nodding acquaintance of her daddy. Grown-ups take longer to warm up to each other, perhaps because there is no lying of hands at busy settings, no exhibition of new glasses.

And even if Miss Sixish were right about the degree of intimacy between Mr. Grown-Up and Daddy, Neighbor's dubious approval is not to be overlooked.

For, alas, that warning that little girls get about talking to strangers is only half right, for those who study these things say that the attitude of the individual to the strange lonely human is more telling than guilty of the things which cause mothers to sue warning.

And suddenly there is something wrong with the bright, friendly, terribly, wrong.

What kind of a world is it where parents feel they have to urge their children to learn to distrust human nature, to treat their friends unaided instinct rather than to trust out hands confident of finding guidance? What kind of a world is it where one is supposed to skip alone to school, skip the whole lonely long way?

Mr. Grown-Up is glad that Miss Sixish is so sure he is a friend of her daddy.

BRITAIN INVADED

Britain has been successfully invaded—from the air.

The invaders have gone underground.

That's what BBC listeners learned recently when Michael Blackmore spoke on the program "The Eyewitness."

The invasion started in 1868.

Now the invaders are well established, in a tunnel leading to an old quarry in the south of England.

The invaders — mouse-eared bats from the Continent.

EIGHT TO NINE

must be an experience glad
To step from eight years old
to nine.
me via the thrill of it I had
And all the joys of it were mine.
at oh, that was so long ago
The pride of it I can't recall.
happened once to me, I know.
But memory has lost it all.

e time they packed me off to bed
Because the hour was getting late,
nd when I woke, no doubt, I said:
"Remember, I'm no longer eight!"
hen was when asked my age to say?
"Tomorrow morning I'll be nine!"

I used to think the years were long,
So slowly by they seemed to drift,
That moody gray folks all were wrong
Who said the passing time is swift.
I knew that birthdays come and go,
But grown-up views were never
mine,
And I was sure they didn't know
How far it is from eight to nine.

Now comes his birthday once again
And stout and strong of leg
is he.
He's on his way to join the men,
As anyone can plainly see.
This morning when he wakes
he'll state
With all the pride that once was mine:
"Remember, I'm no longer eight
That number has been changed
Flown to London by BOAC.

Complaining About Dinner

Montreal Gazette

To complain about one's dinner is an old indulgence. Why it should give such satisfaction to the complainer, is hard to say. Hunger, rather than complaint, would seem the better sauce. Yet complaining at meals can become such a habit and as not entirely soothing and resourceful.

Mrs. Johnson, quite evidently, had come to the limit of her patient endurance. And she had answered her husband in very well that he was ready to admit, even several hours later, that she had silenced him.

Despite the efforts of his friends to claim he was always justified in his complaints, the late William Bellow, himself, seem to have developed the art of complaining to such effect that it became almost a savage indulgence.

"He declined in 'making a scene' if things went wrong in a restaurant," his friend, Saul Bellow, wrote. Some of Bellow's friends used to dread the explosions that were likely to follow. Bellow, when with people who dreaded a row, had very hard to be patient, but his suppressed anger made things such more unpleasant when it finally broke outburst, which got things done."

It might seem that the right to complain about the dinner cannot be considered as a right when one comes to the home of a friend. Yet Mrs. Johnson's tremendous reaction to practitioners of the art of complaint who have never felt themselves under the slightest restrictions.

Most of these was the poet, Alfred Tennyson. He spared his hostess not at all, if the dishes were not to his taste.

Professor Max Muller of Oxford University once invited Tennyson to dinner. Mrs. Muller was not well, so Salmon was placed before him. But Tennyson was of once made his displeasure known. It was not that he complained about the salmon as that his complaint was directed against the source. The source was the gentleman who had the gall to be considered.

Worse was yet to come for Tennyson had been invited for breakfast the next morning. The Mullers rather plumed themselves on a dish of cutlets they had prepared. But Tennyson, seeing the dish, himself whipped off the cover. "Mutton chops!" exclaimed with disgust. "The staple of every bad inn in England."

Prof. Muller admits that it was all rather hard on his young wife, who had regarded Tennyson as one of the immortals. But some hostesses might have dealt with the complaining a guest with less tolerance or timidity.

So it was when Mrs. Jefferson Davis once had as her dinner guest General Winfield Scott. This was in the years before the American Civil War, when her husband, later to be the president of the Confederacy, was secretary of State for War in the cabinet of the United States.

General Winfield Scott had a formidable presence. He was six feet four inches tall and very broad. His manner was pompous and overbearing. "Old Fuss and Feathers" he was called in the army.

As the wife of the Secretary of War, Mrs. Davis often saw General Scott at dinners. She noticed that at table, if any dish disatisfied him he would exclaim "Disgustful" and show his displeasure, without any regard to the feelings of his hostess.

When she first invited him to dine, she privately engaged the General's own cook, Aunt Chloe Hart, to prepare the special kind of soup the General always preferred. Mrs. Jefferson Scott, however, tasted it, put the spoon down with an air of disgust, and "Disgustful!" he said, so that everyone at the table could see and hear his displeasure.

"Is there anything wrong with the soup, General?" asked Mrs. Davis. "It is not good," he replied.

It was Mrs. Davis perfect moment. She told him who had made the soup, General Scott said no more. But it was noticed in Washington that relations between him and Mrs. Scott remained strained, for she was Washington without reminding everybody of Mrs. Davis' story about the soup.

He had, from that da, to suffer the hardship of eating his dinner unseasoned with complaint. Mrs. Jefferson Davis had deprived the General of one of his chief accomplishments and one of his chief pleasures in life.

Animals Take To Air

By Aubrey Cooke in Canadian Aviation

Many hundreds of birds "migrate" by air every year, but only a few animals do transportation. They are flown from their tropical native haunts to zoos all over the world, or bound for pet shops of the world.

Travelling with them are numbers of tropical fish. One large importer in Tampa, Florida, ships about forty feet of aircraft to fly fish to customers in all parts of America.

Domestic pets and very much larger animals, anything from squirrels to elephants, also are also carried on the world's airlines. Last year 100,000 dogs and cats, averaging 1,500 dogs and 250 cats from London to the U. S.

The most valuable air passengers are the pets of servicemen returning to the States. Popular among the canine travellers are French poodles, which are fashionable pets in Paris and New York. The dogs travel in light but strong and adequately ventilated crates.

Charge for sending most animals by air is about the same as express. This may be one reason for servicemen choosing poodles as their pets rather than boxers!

Horses are well up among the animal air travellers. From 1919 to a plane in converted DC6A's accompanied by a groom. Five pairs of stalls are provided for them, arranged down the centre of the aircraft to give them the maximum headroom.

Crossings are made at an altitude of 10,000 feet, and this seems to suit the horses. They make very docile travellers. During 1956 more than 250 were flown from England and Ireland to the U.S. Most of them were racehorses or broodmares sold to American stables.

The horse and pet traffic mostly westbound. Only 50 animals made the return trip.

Bulls make a valuable and weighty passenger. Eight of these were flown from Britain to the U.S. last year.

Far from as numerous are the monkeys which alight at American airports from India. Flown by BOAC from Calcutta they chatter their way across the Atlantic at the rate of 10,000 a month, 12 to a wire basket.

One flight made by Seaboard and Western last year, carried a 1,500-lb. cargo of animals across the Atlantic. It was a mixed bag imported from the Far East and flown to London by BOAC.

The passenger list included a Himalayan panda, two orangutans from Sumatra, a leopard, a leopard and five cages of temple birds from Java; an anteater (Gilant), two cages of Malabar squirrels, 239 rhesus monkeys, and a miscellany of other birds and two silver gibbons (Singapore).

Also aboard were four French poodles, three pekinese, two dachshunds, two boxers, a beagle, a German shepherd dog and a Siamese cat — all the property of American servicemen returning from Europe.

What You Want In Want Ads

Brockville Recorder and Times

On April 23, 1914, a young man answered the following want ad in The Daily Journal of Ottawa: It also ran: "Wanted — a high grade young man for office position requiring some book-keeping experience. A fine opportunity for the right young man."

The young man who answered the ad got that job and he is still working for the same company in 1957. His name is Harlow H. Curtice and he is president of the company called General Motors. Never underestimate the power of a want ad.

GLEANINGS FROM OLD FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 26th., 1937

Mr. and Mrs. John Wood of Hillier, Prince Edward County, celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding on March 21st, and received the congratulations of many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Wood were pioneers in Dundgannon township, Hastings County, and served for several years as Reeve of the township. In 1922 he resigned the office and removed to Hillier in Prince Edward County where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

Mr. J. C. Walmsley, who has been an official in various capacities of Tabernacle Church and Sunday School for over 1907 has been the popular and efficient superintendent of the Sunday School, has resigned, much to the regret of the church members. He became secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School in 1874 when the original church was at the foot of Church street in the building now occupied by the Belleville Business College. He held this office until 1896 when owing to his duties as Mayor of the city he resigned. In 1900 he resumed his duties at the Sunday School and in 1907 he became superintendent of the Sunday School. He will be succeeded by Mr. A. D. Archibald who has had a long experience in Sunday School work.

30 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1927

In a contest in which 897 anthems were submitted, a composition, the words of which were written by Mrs. W. S. McTavish, Moira Street west, was accepted and will be published by a music company in Chicago. The music for the anthem was composed by Miss Bertha L. Pamlyn, Toronto.

Mr. Fred D. Hammond is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. F. A. Bird and son, Joseph, of Campbellford, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, in this city.

Belleville District Income Tax Office is working day and night at present preparing for the rush when the annual returns for income tax are filed for this year.

40 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1917

Johnson Bros., who have the contract for conveying the mails to and from the post office and the Grand Trunk Railway station, have purchased an up-to-date motor truck to use in this work.

The reflection from the burning marsh at Shannonville, was plainly seen here last night.

At a meeting of the finance committee of the executive committee of the Hastings County Council, which was held at the Shire Hall, Church Street, Mr. B. Mallory, County Treasurer, was appointed to act as County Clerk, from April 1st until a clerk is appointed at the June session of the council.

The St. Julien Chapter of the I.O.D.E. shipped nine cases of hospital supplies overseas recently.

The Moira River from the lower bridge to Corbyville is virtually clear of ice; the same cannot be said without doing any damage.

50 YEARS AGO

March 25th., 1907

The members of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Williams, south east corner of Charles and Queen streets.

Messrs. R. R. Fairfield and F. B. Hamm, local grocers and feed merchants, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Fairfield will continue the business.

Mr. F. J. Farley, cashier for the Dominion Express Company at Winnipeg, is home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farley, Canniffton.

Messrs. Alfred Luscombe, Charles Dolinage and Harry Dulmage left today for Western Canada and they may decide to locate there.

Just What Is a Billion?

Financial Post

When Finance Minister Harris brought down his budget, he was talking in terms of billions. What's a billion?

If you had a billion dollars in $10 bills and decided to lay them end to end, the line would stretch from Montreal to Toronto.

Finally, a billion dollars is close to 2 per cent of the total money all Canadians will earn this year by all kinds of economic activity. This is a rich country; but a billion is still a lot of money.

Cows Are Not Always Calm

Niagara Falls Review

For generations the cow has been held before us as the symbol of contentment. She has resembled man in only one habit, chewing the cud; but even there she has differed from man chewing gum or tobacco, for she has managed without to appear intelligent.

Now comes a doctor from the prairies to hold up the cow as a bad example for man. Dr. Lee Bell, from the Faculty of Medicine in the University of Manitoba, said recently to a gathering of medical men from all over Canada, meeting in Montreal that "We don't want to become bovine. If we don't face our problems with a little anxiety we cannot solve them very well."

Dr. Bell's point was that the pharmaceutical houses in the field of medicine may be giving their patients too many tranquilizing pills; and that a bit of thought and understanding might be of more help in many cases. Maybe so, but many a sodbuster out in Saskatchewan province would tell him he did not have to malign the cow to prove a point.

It is admitted that the cow

No, no, Mammy Don't Cry

A Massachusetts correspondent says my pamphlet "Parkinson's" (common denominal called paralysis agitans or shaking palsy) reminded an answer to her prayer.

"My daughter," she wrote, "has shaking hands, halting walk, body inclined forward, bent elbows, all to keep her balance, I suppose. Last fall her 9-year old daughter visited Grandma. They had a lot when she was a little girl?' I said, 'No Doris,' She said, 'Well, she does now.' My daughter is inprobably under a nervous strain because of her husband's illness though she does not show it. One thing in her favor, as your pamphlet says, is that she is very active around her home, never one to sit lidng . . . .

Anyone with Parkinson's trembling should be very active around the house and never sit idle for long periods. Constant activity, vegetating, so to speak, favors "fidgets." The steady increase in rigidity, the awful impediment in speech, the constant drooling, the shuffling gait, all are helped by activity. I have known a number of men and women with Parkinson's improved greatly by activity, to the enjoyment and improvement of the twosome. Knitting, crocheting, tatting, plaiting horse-shoes, archery, or croquet might also be good.

If there is a mask-like facial expression, sit before your mirror and practice expressing various emotions for as many minutes twice daily or until your face gets a little tired.

RELATIONSHIP OF PRIVILEGE AND DIGNITY

Most Bible readers do not understand the part that the covenant plays in our religion.

A covenant is a promise. The Old Testament is the promise made of old that God would send a Saviour. The New Testament is God's fulfilling of that promise. God's relationship with His people is a covenant relationship. He solemnly promises goodness, love, guidance, protection, inspiration and salvation. We promise faith and obedience. He extends to us a great gift; it is both our honor and our responsibility to reach out our hands and take that gift. God respects us enough to let us make real, not automatons. He enters into an agreement with us, and it is a relationship of mutual respect.

The covenant relationship is fundamental in religion.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What do you suppose the winds of March are for? At no other season of the year do they blow so variously and twist and sway as they do in the March gales. And what, of course, is behind the winds of March are for: to carry from those topmost branches, where they, a really big tree, twenty and thirty feet in their spreading, down through the main branches and into the trunk itself, the torque, the twisting motion of the gales, into the earth itself. For the motion you see in the topmost branches is being conveyed far deeper than the trunk, down into the roots which hold and till the soil upon which the tree feeds. Winter's grip, right at the frost line, is being loosened. The soil for yards around is being shaken. The moisture is being allowed to penetrate to depths; the sodden earth is being broken up and aired, and the tiny threadlike rootlets, which are the true feeding mechanism of the tree, can move and reach out, in their miraculous way, into richer feeding grounds.

The large trees are doing a job of cultivating, with the winds to help, as far larger economy than their own. Do not fear a rotting of the roots, that the wind lends itself only to the trees. If we take our eyes off the mysterious and symbolic activities of the trees, we can see that every little bush is whipping and lashing as furiously, at ground-level as the tree-crest, in a hundred feet in the air. And each for its size is doing a job of planting and harrowing and cultivating. Lower your eyes still farther and even the dry and apparently dead grass is responding to the tumult. The seeds of grass are threshing and plucking at every strand and shred of vegetation. If at that level of activities practised by nature in a far more subtle fashion than man has ever been able to devise.

Of course, the winds of March have other uses besides agricultural. When the winds are from the north-east or south-west, as they so often are, the wild geese, half a thousand miles to the south, are flying with the wind for their sails. And the entire bird world, migrating or not, is flying with the wind, like the fossils under strata of insect carcasses half a mile deep, in the geese driven by the warber as big as your thumb, takes that advantage it can of the March winds from the south. Of course, the warblers won't be seen for months.

But there are March gales in which even the geese are driven by this magic moment of the year, for us, everything is the same, but it has been Spring for four days!

Smacking the ball right back at Ottawa, the Regina branch of the Disabled Veterans Association asks the Federal Government to give all Commonwealth veterans immigration privileges similar to those accorded Hungarians — free passage to Canada and government assistance for those who wish to settle here. The point is well taken. In two World Wars, Canadians fought alongside all British Commonwealth nations were at least on our side.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WILL TO LIVE

Each one of us who has reasonable health, an interesting job to engage our days, and a few ambitions of an inspiring type, like a love of reading or the collection of books that are favorites, should rejoice in the will to live. How many a shut-in displays more courage and cheer than most of us know. It is because they have discovered all earthly things but their will to live, and to give hope and comfort to others.

I have noted that those who are shut out from the enjoyment of so many things that some of us consider enjoyments and losses, I came across a saying by Bob Burdette recently, as follows: "Laughter can return a sense of proportion to a troubled mind, for it relieves self-pity, self-justification, self-importance, but perhaps the most important thing laughter can do is to bring back the will to live. And so, when the time comes, give us the courage to go with good cheer.

I have never been able to understand those who are always talking about dying. If they spend the same time cultivating the will to live they would then have nothing to worry about when it would come time to die. I have carried this line around with me in my mind. It is a quotation from Horace of Seville: "Study as if you were to live forever. Live as if you were to die tomorrow."

The will to live can be made a part of the working of every good order, inspiring creations and wonderful people. Many of them people can make our friends, and that may result in the happiest possession of all that we have!

JESUS LOVED THEM

JOHN THE BAPTIST

"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John."

—John 1:6

Tall, solitary, homeless—wrapped in a camel's skin, his hair depending upon his shoulders, his eyes burning with the zeal of evangelism—such was John the Baptist.

Born when both his parents were of advanced age, he went into the wilderness when still very young, to meditate and to purify himself after the manner of the yogis of India.

Like anchorites of all ages, he ate simple food (locusts and wild honey), eschewed alcohol and women, and allowed his beard to grow to prophetic length.

Being of the priestly race by both parents, and owing to his dynamic personality and message, he attracted a great multitude "from every quarter" when he appeared in Bethsraba, in the vicinity of the Jordan, urging repentance, and announcing the coming of the Messiah.

"He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

Jesus, then nearing His 30th year, journeyed from Galilee to the Jordan, where the 'wild man,' the Baptizer, immersed the penitent in the waters of the river for a symbolical cleansing, even as he told them of the coming Messiah, who would baptize with fire.

When John saw Jesus approaching, he said: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

Jesus, about to embark upon the three brilliant last years of His earthly life, marked the Change with baptism in the Jordan.

John the Baptist understood this. He knew that his prophecy was about to be fulfilled.

A crowd gathered upon the banks as Jesus entered the river, to witness His baptism. It was the last day of harvest, and their spirits were high. To their superficial view, the baptism of Jesus was like that of other "sinners" who had come to have their spiritual stains washed away. But such was not the case with John.

"And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove descending upon him. And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased."

The mission of John the Baptist was fulfilled. The final mission of Jesus had begun.

Disarmament Conference Makes Progress in First Week

LONDON (Reuters) — A five-power disarmament conference here has completed its first week amid signs that more progress will be achieved than in their previous meeting last May.

For one thing, the delegates of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada have succeeded in keeping secret their discussions. This indicates the conference is not just being used for a propaganda platform.

When the talks of the United Nations disarmament sub-committee began last Monday, Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin made public his comprehensive, disarmament plan.

But since Tuesday, he has been as close-mouthed as U.S. delegate Harold Stassen, Britain's Alan Noble, France's Jules Moch and Canada's David Johnson

Most of the discussions have centred on the general principles of reducing the world's nuclear and conventional arms.

Britain hopes the general discussion will end early next week and permit the establishment of separate committees.

In general, East and West are closer than last year. Both the Americans and Russians seek an initial reduction in armed forces to 2,500,000 men each for the United States, Russia and Communist China and 750,000 each for Britain and France.

Russia also wants a ban on nuclear tests.

The United States has proposed a 10-per-cent cut in military budgets and in conventional armaments.

The United States aims at increasing the Middle East's defence capacity with the Eisenhower doctrine and by joining the military committee of the Baghdad Pact.

BY CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Scotty Broughton, District Commander, attended the last general meeting. Pat Patterson, vice-president of Brighton branch, was a visitor.

Secretary Len Burfoot read the minutes of the last meeting, after which four new members were initiated.

The District Commander performed this ceremony, assisted by Deputy District Commander Len Taylor, Past Zone Commander Frank Gardiner, and President Bill Heasman. We welcome the new members to Branch 99, Arthur Wilson, Alfred Francis, Don Orr and Andrew Knott.

Frank Daniels reported that Len Fry, William Sullivan and Thomas Lusk are in hospital. George Elerby and Len Furney were hospitalized but are both home now.

The treasurer, Roy Madden, is still submitting good reports.

April 9th will be the 40th anniversary of Vimy. Frank Gardiner is hoping that every member will attend the banquet and bring veteran friends with them. Tickets can be obtained from any member. Frank also wishes to bring to your notice a dance to be held on March 30th.

TO ISSUE BULLETIN

A monthly bulletin will be issued commencing in April, by L. G. Monteith. Monty will be glad of items of interest to put in this bulletin.

All members are requested to bring one new member this year. Len Taylor is working hard on membership and deserves our full co-operation. We are glad Len is back again after his serious illness.

Ed Smith, house chairman, wishes to thank members who brought magazines.

The poppy campaign, according to Everett Liddle, exceeded expectations and established another record. This is a most worthy cause, keeping our disabled comrades working the year round. To the people who put so much time and work into the poppy fund we offer our respectful admiration and to the citizens whose contributions mean so much we join with Everett in grateful thanks.

Scotty Broughton informed the branch that he would announce his retirement as District Commander at the district meeting at Oshawa on May 26th. He also introduced Cecil Chapman, who now is a member of the Belleville branch. When Scotty was president at Brighton in 1946-47, Cecil was secretary and started the bulletin. The ball needed wiring, so Cecil took two weeks vacation and spent it to wire the building. Looks like Brighton's loss is our gain. Scotty praised Branch 99 for their progress and particularly for their good work with young people.

READYING FOR FAIR

Dolf McFadden has been named his sports chairman Clarence Reed reported the Marmora darts competition. There were two teams from Belleville: Bill Heasman, Frank Bolduc, Bob Tolford, Pat Philip, Don Campoll, Bert Wells, Bob Blair, Norm Hardwick, Lorne Donaldson and Clarence Reed.

Belleville's No. 2 team won the team play followed by Madoc and Marmora. In the doubles, Madora took 1st and 2nd place Madoc came third. The singles were won by Mr. Embury of Marmora, Bob Blair of Belleville and Mr. Rice of Madoc respectively.

The president, Bill Heasman wants you to keep in mind the Vimy banquet and the Trade Fair, both important to Branch 99.

LADIES' AUX.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion was held last Thursday evening, with the president, Mrs. Jeffs, presiding.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. A. Hefer, Cranford Road, is going back to the hospital in Kingston for an operation.

The kitchen is finished, and the 'phone installed.

There will be a rummage sale in April, also a pot-luck supper early in the month. Firm date and details are invited. The auxiliary would like all members to turn out and help as they would meet the zone commander who will be here.

The St. Patrick party on Saturday night was most successful.

The weekly euchre was held in the Canadian Legion on Pinnacle street, Wednesday night, with a good attendance. The prizes were won by Mrs. — Mc-Collyer; Mrs. Keegan and Mrs. Thorn. Lone Hand, Bert Hodge. Men: Mrs. Jean Spence, playing as a man, C. Champaign, W. Clare.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD

The members of St. Margaret's Guild Afternoon Branch met at the home of Mrs. Putman. The president presided with a large attendance present.

After the business was concluded, a quilt was finished and plans made for the Men's Club dinner in the near future.

Flannelette has been received to make baby gowns for the Children's Aid Society.

Tea was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. I. Smith, Herkimer Ave.

Halloway WMS, WA Hold Joint Meeting

Mrs. Harry McMullen was hostess on Wednesday evening for March meeting of Halloway WMS-WA with 11 members present. Mrs. Roscoe Robson presided with secretarial report given by Mrs. McMullen.

The worship service was prepared and conducted by Mrs. R. F. Darke. Mrs. E. Emerson read the Scripture from Romans 12: 1-21 and Mrs. Darke read a selection from "Channels of Devotion," based on the theme, "Little things are so important."

Mrs. Grant Coulter is to be the guest speaker at the Easter meeting.

Mrs. J. Wilson presided for the WA session with Mrs. Harry Morgan reading minutes. A supply quilting and pot-luck dinner is to be held at the church on March 27.

The "Hobo Tea" were a decided success in enjoyment as well as financially with over $18 made so far. They are to continue until Easter, or until every home has been "invaded".

The hostess served refreshments.

'Is Great Britain Still World Power?' Address at U.W. Club

On Thursday evening, the University Womens' Club of Belleville and district held its March meeting in the Bridge Street Church with a large attendance of members and their guests. The vice-president Mrs. Wm. Hoig, presided and extended a welcome to all guests.

Mrs. Douglas Burr expressed her pleasure in introducing the guest speaker, Mr. Arnold Edinborough. Mr. Edinborough, editor of the Kingston Whig Standard, received his honors degree in English Literature from St. Catharines College, Cambridge. From 1947 to 1953 he was on the staff of the English department at Queen's University. He went back to England in 1953 on a research fellowship and on his return to Kingston he assumed his present position. His topic for the evening was a timely one, "Is Great Britain still a world power."

The present position of Britain is much in question in the daily newspapers. The speaker stated that his purpose was to dissipate any clouds of the existing false ideas on the subject. He reminded his audience that he was speaking as a Canadian and expressing his personal views on the matter.

Mr. Edinborough stated that it was necessary to understand Britain's past contributions as a world power in order to assess her present position. He proposed to discuss the subject under three phases — political, economic and moral.

CONTRIBUTION

Britain's greatest contribution has been political, for through Great Britain the concept of parliamentary government has evolved. Briefly, the speaker traced this evolution and pointed out that although the colonies broke away from Britain, they carried with them the idea of representative government. Even the United States clings to the system of two houses in its government, a system for which Britain is responsible as she founded the house of Lords and Commons in 1688.

Britain, to has long been known for her economic greatness and is responsible for the theory of capitalism. She is well known for her adventurous trading, by force of which the empire was held together. Britain held an enormous concentration of the world's wealth and British financiers controlled the finances of the world until the end of the 19th century. By the middle of the 20's this economic empire could no longer exist and all the dominions were autonomous by 1932.

Finally from the moral point of view, it is only necessary to say that Britain was responsible for the building of a great commonwealth and her moral greatness is illustrated. The speaker having completed his brief review of Britain's past proceeded to discuss her present — day position.

NEAT BALANCE OF POWER

Mr. Edinborough humprously pointed out that politics may be considered a form of horse-trading at a high level, and here Britain is still a master. In the British go vernment there is a neat balance of power between the two parties. The present Labour, but not to a great extent as do most other nations. The speaker said that he felt that diplomacy can only be handled in a balanced government controlled and this for example is not possible in a government system such as that of the U.S.

Many people evidently feel that Britain is almost lost economically because of the low value of the pound. This impression is erroneous for the pound was devaluated only once and then it was imperative to do so. The biggest percentage of world trade is still in the pound sterling. This means that the dollar is not necessarily the dominant factor in the economic system. Britain undoubtedly is in a bad position as she is the creditor of the sterling area. She must back her clients' purchase of American dollars, and she does not have the resources for this type of banking. In addition, Britain spends more for defense than any other country on a per capita basis. This she can not afford if she can not back out for she feels it is essential to maintain her strength.

MORAL MISTAKES

Mr. Edinborough stated that in his opinion Britain made a mistake morally when she moved into Suez. Her action of her feelings she should not have made the move without the consent of the United States, and the United Nations. She failed in her aims to topple Nasser and to keep the canal open, for Nasser is still on top and the canal is blocked. In the speaker's opinion, Britain made the same moral mistake with Cyprus.

The speaker went on to say that despite this, Great Britain is still a great power. As to her position in the United Nations. It may be compared to that of an old man who always can run a government most effectively. Britain is an old power and younger nations such as the United States can benefit from her advice and experience.

Mr. Edinborough concluded his remarks by saying that the revivification of commonwealth is necessary in order to arrive at a peaceful world. Britain must rely on the moral and economic strength of members of the commonwealth who are prepared to give her moral support in the best position to lead this movement for she knows more of the ways of the United States than Britain does. All we need to do in order to remember that Britain is great the power is to take into cognizance the area of the empire which she founded on which the sun never sets.

Mr. Edinborough graciously consented to answer questions and a lively discussion period dealing with Britain's and Canada's positions on foreign policy followed.

Mrs. J. E. McArthur expressed the appreciation of the audience to Mr. Edinborough stating that it was a privilege to hear a topic of this nature handled in such descriptive and colorful English.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president. The Federation Representative, Mrs. McArthur, stated that nominations for C.F.U.W. offices were open. The club re-nominated Mrs. J. L. MacKinnon to serve another term as director of the eastern Ontario region. It was also decided to nominate a member of the Kingston club to a committee position on the C.F.U.W.

Mrs. J.E. Pugh, convener of the May Spring Fair, announced that plans were progressing favorably and volunteers were being asked for to assist at the bake table and in the tea room. Mrs. Pugh also stated that TV advertising was under the direction of Mrs. MacKinnon.

Following the brief business meeting, members and guests enjoyed a social period, with refreshments served by Mrs. W. C. Harvey and her assistants.

Gilead F.G. Holds Annual Box Social

GILEAD — The Gilead Friendship Guild held its March meeting and annual box social in the school house on March 21.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. George Clare, who offered prayer.

Business was discussed. A letter of thanks from Mrs. Carman Huffman was read, for flowers and cards sent when she was ill in the hospital.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Clarence Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Treverton, on April 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffman took charge, with Mr. Duane Martin reading the Scripture. Mrs. Harold Pound gave an amusing Irish reading. Mrs. George Clare gave a splendid reading and Miss Irma Embury favored with a piano solo.

After the benediction the boxes were auctioned by Mr. Earl Ross and all enjoyed a social time.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

FRANKFORD — The W.A. of Frankford United Church was held in the Perkins Room of Rose Lawn Hall, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. Morrow played quiet music. Mrs. H. Terry, president of the W.A., opened with an opening thought, "Thy Rod and Thy Staff, They Comfort Me."

The Scripture reading was taken from the 23rd Psalm and was read in unison. The devotions were based on the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Walter Morrow rendered a vocal solo, "The Lord's Prayer," followed by the mission study report given by Mrs. S. Osterhout, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. H. Terry in the absence of Mrs. J. Montgomery.

Mrs. Arnold Sickle gave a report on W.A. History. "Happy Birthday" was sung to several members who celebrated their birthday in March. Roll call showed 30 members and nine visitors and five children present.

The program was as follows: readings by Mrs. D. Mallory; "St. Patrick," by Mrs. R. Woodcox; "God's Best," by Mrs. C. D. Ross and vocal solo by Mrs. M. Grills, "You May Hear the Joy Bells."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Martin and Mrs. W. Morrow.

Vota Vita M.C. Enjoys Slides On Ireland

The March meeting of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church Vota Vita (devoted life) Mission Circle was held recently in the church parlor.

Marjorie Hales led the group in singing. President Joyce Stovell opened the meeting with prayer and gave the theme, "Devotion to the visitors. Irene Girling informed the circle that the White Cross work (covering of hospital linens) was nearly completed. New books for this year's reading course have arrived and Jean Walgrave is again handling the Christian duties connecting with the circulation of these books. Plans are under way to entertain the ladies of the senior circle by taking them out to dinner at the May meeting.

A letter was read by Grace Pearson, corresponding secretary, from Miss Stella Gaverjuk asking again for clothing for the New Canadians.

Joan Rigby volunteered to purchase contests, pack and mail a food box to India. A book "Cock-Crow in Angola" is being offered for sale. The author says "It depicts the way in which our people first established a new mission field) and the transformation wrought in their lives by allcircumfluous power of redeeming love."

"Do-It-Yourself" dialogue was acted by Joan Low and Joyce Stovell to promote the sale of missionary literature. A monthly publication written to keep the circle informed on all phases of mission work.

"LIGHTHOUSE FLASHES"

Each meeting has a place in the program for "Lighthouse Flashes," these being prepared and read by Mildred Fox. They are bulletins of high interest about the Baptist denomination in particular, emphasizing missions.

Arrangements for the remainder of the evening had been made by Irene Girling with Grace Pearson conducting. The Scripture consisted of various passages, each straining the hope thy neighbor" theme, read by Jerry Morrell.

Pauline Dempsey led in a brief worship period and read the "Creed of a Good Neighbor," centering around Leviticus 19:34 — "But the stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God." A poem "What would You do for Jesus if He were Here Today?" was read by Eunice King. It ended with the thought-provoking words: "All you would do for Jesus, will you not do for these?" Silent prayers were offered.

GIRLS TRIPLE TRIO

It was a pleasure to have a Girls Triple Trio visit us from Belleville school. Dorothy Reilly directed them in the singing of two selections, "Tarry Awhile" and "Tara's Halls," and "Steal Away." One of the girls, Marsha Bovey, favored with a solo, "I Will Lift

The circle was delighted to have Mrs. J. E. Pugh, a prominent social worker in the city, tell of her trip to Ireland last year. Mrs. Pugh's account was sent to Belfast to work on MMCS "Bonaventure" the aircraft carrier. The girls were happy with her intimitable style of relating incidents which interest women so much. The small details of housing, schooling, shopping, et cetera. Her description of the various places they toured as the family travelled while stationed in Ireland, was enthralling. Scrapbooks, snapshots and souvenirs enabled all to 'share' the trip.

"A Little Bit of Heaven" was sung by Dorothy Reilly.

After the singing of another hymn, Joyce Stovell closed with prayer.

Refreshments, prepared with the thought of keeping in touch with St. Patrick's Day, were served.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

THE PROBLEM OF HAVING FRIENDS ADD "SR." TO HER NAME

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have a serious problem about my name and I would appreciate your advice. I have one son, who was named after his father. When my son was in his late teens, his father died, and about a year after, my son dropped the "Jr." from his name. When he was in college and in the Service, there was no confusion about our names, nor was there during the several years when I lived in a distant state. But now he is married, and I have returned to live here in this medium-size town where he and his wife live, and there is great confusion in the names, particularly in the delivery of our letters. Lately I have started to use (for example) "Mrs. John Robinson, Sr." — but I don't seem able to impress this name definitely enough on my friends. They omit the "Sr." and the mail confusion starts all over again. Any suggestions? — M.R.

Yes . . . persistence! Your problem is one many women have to face, and the only way to deal with it is to "keep on" making it clear about the "Sr." right. First, whenever possible, explain the need verbally to your friends, and if they forget to write the "Sr." after your name, graciously but firmly remind them. Perhaps have stickers printed with your name (with "Sr." of course) and address, and always attach them to the front or back of the envelopes you mail: or write your return name and address.

Write to all stores where you have charge accounts and type or print Mrs. John Robinson, Sr., informing them this is the name you wish to have used for your accounts, in the telephone directory list your name: Robinson, Mrs. John, Sr. Use this name printed on your general-use letter-paper: Also, in any circumstance when you wish to be doubly sure, I suggest you spell out the suffix: (this will small letter) "Mrs. John Robinson, senior." Use the suffix on your visiting-cards or informal. All this persistence ought to solve your problem!

MARRIAGE THRIVES ON COURTESY AND CLEANLINESS

Are you pretty in the morning? He'll like a charming little freshfast once-over so much better than blue jeans at the table.

How in the world women can forget that marriage thrives on manners is hard to understand. But since all women are human, we need a good sound piece of advice every so often. New brides couldn't do better, therefore, than to read a book entitled Marriage Manners. — The authors are Marjorie Binford Woods and Helen Flynn. While they dedicate their book on etiquette to newly married, their good advice shouldn't stop there. Any wife or husband can benefit by any paragraph in the volume.

Assuming you are new at this business of making a man happy, hold onto the magic you started with! Manners in marriage really consist of such little things, but how big those trivial little things can loom. When you analyze the art of getting along gracefully with another human being, you'll find how important are such things as cleanliness, neatness, and recognition of the fact that there are two people to consider —which means plain, common courtesy.

Don't sit down at the breakfast table in bluejeans and pin curls. Don't leave your personal laundry hanging over the shower rod. Don't decide to give yourself a shampoo just when he wants you to come out and help him plant the petunias. Do wear something becoming and clean in the mornings. Do pitch in help with the dishes when you visit his friends and family. Do arrange your daily bath so it doesn't conflict with his singing in the tub. And do tidy up the bathroom before you leave it.

The authors of this very readable exposition on marriage etiquette point out how important a wife's appearance is to her husband's career. Pretty features aren't the answer. But good grooming goes a whole of a long way—and that doesn't mean just when you're supposed to be a party. Never let his friends and business acquaintances see you "out of uniform." And that means get the habit of being neat and fresh and fragrant. That's a successful wife's uniform!

All in all, whether the pointers included in this very comprehensive volume constitute news or reminders, you can afford to spend some time with it!

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE FIRM WITH BOTH YOUR HUSBAND AND YOUR GIRL FRIEND

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 and my husband is 22. My best girl friend, who was my maid of honor, is also 18.

Today she told me that she was very much in love with my husband and that she had been out with him several times until he told her he couldn't go out with her any more because she is getting serious about him and he loves me too much.

Last month when he was home on furlough from the Navy, he went out with her the first night he came home, but I knew about it; in fact, I told him to go out with her because I'm pregnant and was ill that night and couldn't go myself.

Now she often writes love letters to my husband which he told me about. He also told me these was nothing between them; that when he took her out, they just went to a show and then home where to eat and home.

What shall I do about this? My best girl friend and I are like two sisters and I hold me in debt; I fall in love with my husband to take him from me but that she just couldn't help it.

I don't know what to do, or what to believe, so I hope you can help me. — V.P

Dear V.P.:

It's not very clear to me as to when your husband first began to take this girl friend of yours out, nor how often he has done so. Moreover, if the only time you knew about it was the occasion when you suggested it yourself, then it appears that they went out at various other times without your knowledge.

However, since both your husband and the girl have now told you about it, and since your husband has said she meant nothing to him despite her feeling for him, then I think it would be a sensible idea to believe him. I do think, though, that you should tell him very definitely that you'll expect him to put an end to taking her out and that it is also up to him to tell her she must stop writing him letters or getting in touch with him in any way.

Possibly all the times he took her out were during your pregnancy, when you were not able to go yourself, and while he certainly shouldn't have done so without your knowledge and permission, if you make it quite clear to him that this is never to happen again, it may solve the whole problem.

I think, too, that you should tell your girl friend that unless she can control herself and regard your husband merely as a friend, because you are her friend, it may break up your long-time friendship. Say that you hope she won't make this necessary.

Perhaps the reason she has fallen for your husband is because she doesn't have any boy friends. If so, maybe you can introduce her to some boys who will take her mind off other people's property.

BEDTIME STORY

By VERA WINSTON

No more a fad, but now accepted as a constant fashion, the waltz-length nightgown is available at every price level and in many fabrics. Blush pink nylon tricot for this one, ever so pretty with its lace dyed to match. The lace is nicely used on the bodice and geometric banding. The skirt is gathered on elastic at the sides and back with a sash in back only.

As far as I can make out there were no typographical errors but I should have enlarged on the mixing, chilling and rolling techniques. So I hereby do so.

I'm so busy cooking and answering mail that I asked Eleanor to make the cookies again. She did, then phoned and I ran across the street to their house to look at the ingredients in the bowl and feel the ball of dough after she mixed it by spoon, then by hand. She put it in the freezer compartment to chill. I went back home. Thirty minutes later she phoned. I ran back to watch the rolling out process, with a strong assist again from 5-year-old Roddy who, believes it or not, actually knocked himself down in his enthusiasm in cutting out his portion of the dough!

RODDY'S FAVORITE COOKIES

Repeated (first appearance Jan. 28, 1957). One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 1-4 cups quick-cooking rolled oats, 1-2 cup good quality shortening, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (from 1 while lemon), 1-3 cup plus 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 egg. (Be sure to use measuring cup and measuring spoons —this will not be right if tea cups and silver tea and tablespoons are used as measures.) Sift dry ingredients (except oats); beat egg; add oats and egg and remaining ingredients to dry ingredients and mix with spoon, then get your hands into it and mix well and form into a solid mass. Chill until chilled through. Break off half the dough, return remainder to refrigerator Roll out on lightly floured board with floured rolling pin, very thin. Cut with floured 2 1-2-inch cookies. Dip cutter in flour frequently. Dough splits at edges like shortbread dough but persist and be patient, these are worth it. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 deg. Fahr. 10 to 12 minutes. Don't let these burn for they are too precious. Cool on cake rack. Put together with:

DATE FILLING

One and one-quarter cups stoned cut-up dates (well packed), 1 cup water, 1-3 cup brown sugar, juice of 1-2 lemon (my sister Peady prefers these with the lemon omitted in filling). Mix together and boil, then simmer until stir for about 10 minutes. Chill.

To assemble: Put cookie double-decker cookies put together with date filling. The cookies stay fresh and moist in tins for days after filling.

I hope this answers Anne A. R., W. E. R. of Souris, M. B. of Regina and Murial J. G. of Paris.

Nobody's Favorite Cookies Further Details

By Mary Moore

This time for sure I thought I was in real trouble. I received letters from all over the country on the subject of Roddy's Favorite Cookies (Jan. 28). Most were sweet and kind but puzzled. One was the looking down the nose type, but all of them had me plenty worried for I thought the cookies were foolproof.

You can't go ALL-OUT If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Doan's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 23

ST. PETER'S W.A.

MADOC — The St. Peter's Woman's Missionary Association met at the home of president, Miss Van Kleek, with 16 present.

A letter was read by the secretary, Mrs. David Blakely, asking for special financial aid to send two more missionaries to the foreign field. A letter from 'CARE' was read, telling of its far-reaching work. A $1 contribution will send 22 pounds of food to hungry people in Korea, India, Jordan, the Gaza Strip, and many other needy countries. This is surplus food, a gift of the United States to CARE. The $1 covers the packing and shipping overseas. The hope is that some day Canadians also will turn over some of their surplus food to CARE.

Mrs. D. Blakely read the Scripture, Malachi 3. A prayer was offered by Mrs. John Bailey. Miss Heslip gave a short talk on "The Victorious Christian Life."

Malaya was the topic for the meeting. Malaya is mostly made up of Malays, Indians and Chinese. It has been called "the melting pot of the races." On August 31, 1957, Malaya is to receive her independence. Britain has saved her from Communist control.

The Christian gospel was first brought to Malaya in 1545 by Francis Xavier. The official religion is Islam. The church in Malaya has great opportunities and privileges in this land.

The Easter thankofferings was arranged for Thursday evening, April 4, in the church. Mrs. Allan Wright, Tweed, is to be the guest speaker of the evening with the Young Women's Club participating.

A happy social hour was spent with refreshments served by the hostess and her helpers.

Tea for Canada Week - March 25th to 30th

Who's For Tea?

Monique Fournier, Miss Tea for Canada 1957, is here holding court in the world's largest cup and saucer. This unique cup and saucer, measuring 5 feet in diameter and two feet high, was specially designed for the Dominion-wide Tea for Canada Week celebration this year. The giant cup holds approximately 1,500 cups of tea.

A Gift of The Gods

No beverage has a more fascinating and interesting history than tea. In the legend-shrouded times of original antiquity, tea was reputed to be "a gift of the Gods"—but apparently was only available to a few philosophers and princes.

The origin of tea is re-counted in several legends depending upon where they are told. These legends are intriguing in themselves, but the story of tea through the ages is no less interesting. Today, we are aware of the fact that tea is a good pick-up. Given a dash a lift when most needed. There is nothing new in this idea, however, for over 700 years ago these same attributes of tea were appreciated and understood. Writings in those days indicated that its popularity was largely due to its effectiveness against "noxious gases of the body," and as a cure for lethargy. Modern confirmation of this comes from the medical profession who say that tea aids digestion and from sports coaches who assert that it is a good fatigue recovery aid for athletes.

Although tea has long been the favorite drink of people in the Far East, it was only about 400 years ago that it first came to what was then known as the "Western" World. It is said that the first European to write of tea was a Venetian although not a traveler himself, discussed tea with experienced men who had been to Venice. This man, a Mr. Ramusio, wrote of a Persian merchant who said that if Europe knew about tea, "merchants would cease altogether to buy rhubarb." Apparently in those days rhubarb was a popular health food. From this time on, tea and the therapeutic values claimed for it filtered steadily into Europe—originally through the Dutch merchants who traded with the Far East.

There have, however, been changes in the early stages of the popularity of the "cup that cheers." This no doubt, was due in the main to the system which it reached. Smuggling was not unknown, even in the good old aristocratic days. Later however, when tea became more plentiful it became the drink of the industrial working people. A recent survey taken in England indicates how-ever, the pendulum has taken a swing, the pendulum has taken a swing, the pendulum has taken a swing

Says Armstrong New Captain Meeker, Clancy to Hold Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, president and managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, announced Saturday night that centre George Armstrong will be captain of the National Hockey League team next season.

Smythe told a nationwide radio and television audience between periods of the NHL game here between Detroit Red Wings and Leafs that next week he will recommend to the Leaf board of directors that coach Howie Meeker and assistant general manager King Clancy be retained for the 1947-48 season.

Smythe said general manager Hap Day has asked until Monday to consider his personal plans for next season. Smythe said he will talk to Day and if the general manager is interested in returning to the team he (Smythe) will decide whether or not to recommend Day to the board.

Armstrong signed his 1937-38 contract earlier Saturday and told Smythe he would give 100 per cent of his time and effort to the Leaf team. Smythe in turn told Armstrong he would be captain and then told the listening that "Armstrong will probably be the team captain for a long time."

Armstrong, 20-year-old native of Skead, Ont., is in his fifth full season with Toronto. His 18 goals this term are the most he has ever scored in any one campaign. Last year he had 16 goals and 22 assists for 48 points, compared with 44 points this season.

Trois Rivieres Lions gained the third playoff position in the Quebec Hockey League Saturday by defeating Ottawa Canadiens 5-3 while the pursuing Montreal Royals were edged 2-1 by Quebec Aces in the last games of regular schedule.

The last-place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts closed out their schedules by crushing the second-place Chicoutimi Saguenens 5-1.

The semi-final playoffs start Tuesday night.

Pete Kapusta tallied twice for Trois-Rivieres and singles were scored by Gilles Thibault, Bob Kabel and Claude Vinet. John Kowalchuk scored both goals for Ottawa, a junior team which played an abbreviated schedule in the QHL.

Quebec's goals, in their rough-and-tumble game at Montreal, were scored by Stan Maxwell and Marcel Bonin. John Szydiak narrowed the margin in the third period.

Erwin Grosse starred for Shawinigan Falls in their victory over Chicoutimi by providing three goals and two assists. Dick Bouchard added the Cataracts' other.

Balding Wins Miami Open

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP)—Most people go to Florida to spend their money. But Al Balding, Toronto golf pro, is one of those rare individuals who usually leaves with more than he took in.

The Canadian PGA champ added $1,200 to his pro circuit earnings Sunday when he struggled through an erratic back nine after a brilliant start to win the 36-hole Miami Beach Open tournament with a seven-under-par 137.

Balding, who shot a 68 on the first 18 holes here, got hot on the outgoing nine Sunday with a birdie 31, reeling off five birdies with deadly chip shots which required putts of four, eight, two, one and six feet.

At that point he held a six-stroke lead over Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., who had shared the opening-round lead on a 67 with Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.

FALTERS ON LAST NINE

Balding's lead began to melt as he went over par on the 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th holes. With one hole left, he was even with Harbert but managed a birdie four on the 498-yard 18th where Harbert had a par and won by a stroke. Harbert earned $800 for second.

Sherry Kendelbut of Kitchener was out of the money with 70-74—144.

Tied for third at 139—receiving $78.50 each—were Marty Furgol, Bob Hamilton, Jack Mayer and Gardner Dickinson, Jr., the defending champion. Hawkins slipped to a 72.

Balding's game seemed on the verge of falling apart when, after birdieing the 12th on a 10-foot putt he fired his approach shot to the 14th 40 feet over the green, then chipped back 50 feet past the cup.

He overshot the 15th, went into a trap on the 17th and was also in trouble on the last hole when he overdrove the green at the Bayshore course by 40 feet. However, he chipped back four feet past the cup and sank it for a birdie four to win.

Hail Tigers as Yank Threat But Holes Have to Be Patched

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Around the Detroit camp there still is that talk in the best Tiger team since the war. Around the rest of the American League there is a suspicion that Tigers may be the only club with a real chance to whet New York clubs hitting.

With a few minor changes, this is the same club that finished fifth, 17 games back, under Bucky Harris last September. Now the same players, plus some rookies and men like Jim Finigan and Ed Robinson, are being hailed as a second place team without even playing a game for Jack Tighe, their freshman manager.

It might be well for Tiger fans to temper their enthusiasm with the sobering thought that first base and third base still are question marks and the catching is only fair. Although the Detroit club did give Rudy Hall than the Yankees in the last half of the season they still finished on the second division. Still, they were the only club to take the season series from New York, 12-10.

"I'm not predicting a pennant," manager Tighe said. "Every body else is doing that in the newspapers. But I know we're going to have a little fun."

ONE TWO PUNCH

Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn provide the solid batting punch that gave Tigers a team average of .279, best in the league by nine points.

Tighe loves to talk about his pitching staff, especially the 1-2 punch of Hoeft (20-14), Frank Lary (21-13) and Paul Foytack (15-13).

"Our trouble last year was that after the first three men, the opposing winner was Al Cronek with only eight," said Tighe. "Somebody has to be more than eight this year from the staff we have."

Lary, who won 17 of his last 20 and worked 294 innings was the top winner in the league. Hoeft, long a lefty with great promise, finally hit the 20-win circle. Foytack, a strikeout whiz who once fanned 13 and lost the game, came with a rush.

Tighe has been making a "grand experiment" this spring, shifting veteran Ray Boone (.308) from third to first base. It all depends on the play of the third base candidates, Jim Finigan (.316 at Kansas City) and Hepo Bertoia (.269 at Charleston).

ROLLING SET

Kuenn (.332) at short and Frank Bolling (.281) at second are yet. Jack Dittmer (.244) at Milwaukee and Ron Samford (.271 at Charleston) will be the reserves.

Kaline (.314) has been troubled by a sore arm, as usual, in the spring. The right fielder hit 27 homers and had 128 runs batted in, last season. Charley Maxwell (.326) is set in left with either Hal Puttis (.253) or 19-year-old Jim Small (.319), a bonus player of great promise, in centre. J. W. Porter (.063), Bob Kennedy (.221) and Mel Clark, ex-Phil on the Charleston roster, are fighting for the extra job.

The catching is just fair with Frank House (.240), Red Wilson (.289) and possibly Charles Lau (.338 at Charleston).

Rumming up, Tigers have a solid punch, good first line pitching and a questionable infield defence.

HERE ARE 5 OF THE MANY REASONS WHY

MORE FARGO TRUCKS

are being used than ever before

1. The Chrysler engineering know-how that is built into every Fargo truck makes them outstandingly dependable. The soundness of Fargo design—and ruggedness of construction—help make your business more profitable. Remember, Chrysler Corporation has long been recognized for its engineering leadership. So be sure to investigate Fargo before you buy!

2. Fargo delivers better gas mileage. Fargo trucks have the industry's most advanced V-8 engines. Exclusive Power-Dome design means fuel burns far more efficiently. And Fargo V-8's—Sixes, too—give full power on regular gas!

3. Extra power cuts costs. And in its wide range of models, Fargo truly leads all competitive trucks in advanced-design valve power (up to 235 h.p.).

4. Driving is easier. Fargo's smoother steering and shorter turning radius save driving effort. In all D300 (½-ton) models you can have the added benefit of push-button automatic drive.

5. You get a truck that's built for the very kind of hauling. For example, Fargo engineers offer a choice of three box sizes, three wheelbases, to suit your payload requirements.

You'll get more in a FARGO built right, priced right

TRY a FARGO AND YOU'LL KNOW WHY... THERE ARE MORE IN USE THAN EVER BEFORE!

ALL OVER!

The McFarlands passed out of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey picture in Whitby Saturday night, but they went down with all guns firing and their colors flying. For two periods it looked as if the Macs would pull a victory out of the fourth clash between them and the smooth-working Whitby Dunlops, but as on the three previous occasions, the vaunted power of the new champions again asserted itself in the third chapter and they put the coup-de-grace on the Guidolin-led crew.

For the first two periods the Macs rammed home a long goal and then in one of their most sensational defensive displays of the season hurled back the fast-charging Whitby attackers in individual and collective attempts to tie the count.

Gordie Bell, the Macs goalie who played sparkling hockey in both the Cornwall semi-finals and the series with Whitby, never looked better than on Saturday night. His net wizardry was a sensation especially in the first two frames and how he held out the barrage of Whitby rubber will cause nogirding-scratching wherever hockey is talked about. The Macs attack was also thrown "out-of-kilter" through forced jugaling of lines, and it was this that eventually led to ultimate defeat.

Moe Benoit, who has played the entire series on sheer guts and a desire to lay due to a serious slash on a foot, was finally forced to retire from the game and Coach Guidolin had to move back to the defence to aid Floyd Crawford and Lionel Bolton. Both these defencemen played sterling heartbreaking hockey but they could not hold the fort alone. Davy Jones was unable to make the trip, and that did not help matters.

However in defeating the McFarlands in four straight games to win the coveted title for the first time in the senior "A" history in Eastern Ontario, the Dunlops proved they are of championship calibre.

Just how they will stack up against the western Ontario division champions will be proven this week when they tangle with the Kitchener Dutchmen who eliminated the Windsor Bulldogs over the weekend.

The Dutchmen are proven veterans of many a senior "A" campaign but the Dunlops have a chance to write hockey history. It will definitely be one for the record should the "upstarts" Easterners take the measure of the Dutchies and go on to battle the northern champions.

Pre-playdown records do not mean a thing when the chips are down but it might be interesting to recall that the Dunlops were the highest scoring senior "A" club in the province with their ace sniper Bobby Attersley topping all others during the schedule play. Attersley scored 105 points, just six short of the Ontario record of 111 held by Mickey Roth of the Stratford Indians.

It has been said that the Whitby Dunlops manager Wren Blair has lofty ambitions for his first venture into senior "A" hockey circles and it has been loudly whispered, especially around Whitby that he has Allan Cup ambitions. Whew! He made no bones at the first of the season about going all-out to secure a group championship and his acquisition of Long John Henderson from the pro ranks, and Ted O'Connor from Bob Armstrong from the Senior Bulldogs roster backed up his early season statements. Henderson and O'Connor were definitely two of the big reasons why the Dunlops won the western title and will be big guns for part in the upcoming series with the western Ontario champs.

The Dunlops boast one of the best defences in the eastern group with Sinden, Treen, McBeth and O'Connor backed by lengthy Jonathan, but it must be remembered the Windsor Bulldogs had the best rearguard in the western group and the high-flying Dutchies punctured it full of holes on two or three occasions. However, it's a "new league" and the eyes of the province's senior "A" hockey will be centred on this series.

Gordie, Ted Hit Scoring Spree To Leave Beliveau in Third; Jacques' Shutout Beats Hall

By KENNEDY WELLS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gordie Howe, Jacques Plante . . . Detroit Red Wings . . . those are the names that the 1956-57 National Hockey League schedule will be remembered by.

Wings put their name in the record book last week when they won their eighth NHL title in nine years, but Howe and Plante were forced to their peaks in weekend games before their places were assured.

Howe, Wings' superlative right winger, pulled out all the stops Saturday night against Toronto Maple Leafs as he staved off a late season drive by Montreal's Jean Beliveau and ensured himself of his fifth NHL scoring championship.

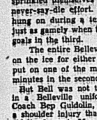
SECOND IN HISTORY

Gordie scored two goals and assisted on another Saturday and added two more assists Sunday against Leafs to finish with 44 goals and 45 assists for 89 points—the second-highest total in history. Plante went into the Canadiens' game with Chicago Black Hawks Saturday two goals down to Detroit's Glenn Hall in their race for the Vezina Trophy. He proceeded to shut Hawks out as Canadiens won 3-0 while Hall was allowing three in Detroit's 5-3 victory over Leafs.

Beliveau, only a point behind Howe before the games, failed to add to an assist Saturday and dropped to third place with 87 points. Jennings as Wings' left winger Ted Lindsay went on a bit of a spree himself, scoring four

Whitby Defeats McFarlands 4-1 To Win First Eastern Senior A Title

Gordie Bell Is Magnificent In Last Game of Lost Cause; Dunnies Win in Third Period



By GARRY ALEXANDER

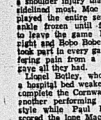
Belleville's first year of senior "A" hockey came to an end in Whitby on Saturday night when an injury-riddled McFarland crew bowed 4-1 to the powerful Whitby Dunlops in by far the best game of the series.

Wren Blair's Dunnies are OHA Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey champions by virtue of their four-game triumph over the McFarlands, an aggregation that doesn't know the meaning of "quit." Whitby will meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Western group for the OHA senior crown.

While Whitby captured the group championship, the McFarlands sprinkled themselves with glory, even to the Whitby fans, with their never-say-die effort. They scored the only goal of the first period, hung on during a terrific Whitby siege in the second, and battled just as gamely when the winners finally broke through for all of their goals in the third.

The entire Belleville team gave its best but the outstanding man on the ice for either team was Gordie Bell. The ex-NHLi custodian put on one of the most magnificent displays of netminding for ten minutes in the second period that this reporter has ever witnessed.

GORDIE BELL
. . . Magnificent Effort



But Bell was not the only man in a Belleville uniform by far. Coach Bep Guidolin, playing with a shoulder injury that would have sidelined most, Moe Benoit, who played the entire series with his ankle frozen until finally forced to leave the game late Saturday night and Hobo Bobenic, who also took part in every game while suffering pain from a groin injury, gave all they had.

Lionel Bolley, who came from a hospital bed weakened by flu to complete the Dunnie roll series, was another performing in excellent style while Paul Payette, who scored the lone Mac goal, played himself to exhaustion as did Captain Floyd Ashford.

The McFarlands, true sportsmen all the way, offered congratulations to the exuberant Dunlops following the game-ending buzzer.

Action from the opening whistle was fast and furious with Henderson and Bell both finding plenty of belled drives. Sandy Air had a clean breakaway early but Gordie rose to the occasion while the Murelich and Payette lines tested "Goal" John with more than one hot drive.

The teams were playing five aside when the McFarlands opened the scoring at 0.33 on a beautiful three-man effort. Crawford fed Minnie Menard the disc at centre ice and Minnie stickhandled his way through the defenders to the goalmouth. Henderson came up with a brilliant save but Payette, training Menard, scored on the loose rebound and fired it by the sprawling goalie.

Both goalies continued to play great hockey and on one occasion Bell was dragged to the ice by the "Punchy" Gagnon when clearing a puck to the corner of his net. No penalty was given.

The losers missed a pair of good chances to widen their lead. A pass up centre ice skipped over Bobenic's stick when the big winger was in the clear while another time Minnie Menard raced in alone on goal and shot wide of the net.

Belleville drew four of the six penalties in the first period. A tripping sentence to Willie Menard at 19.58 gave to Sil Murelich for cross checking at 19.25 left the Macs two men short for part of first and second periods. Bell kicked and threw with "goal" written in red ink.

While Bell was great for the entire sixty minutes, his ten - minute effort in the second was beyond description. Beginning at the ten minute mark Whitby threw at rubber in the Belleville zone for the remainder of the period. While no official count was kept of shots on goal, Gordie booted out at least twenty-five during the rest of the period and his figure must have reached 50 by the game's end.

The Dunnies shot from all angles, on his doorstep, through masses of players, long shots and short ones and at other times tried to carry the puck behind him but still Bell held on, getting a toe or glove on some, batting others away with the stick, blocking with every inch of his body. Ike Hildebrand drew the only penalty of the period for high sticking during the siege but the Dunnies were helled with off the score sheet.

Canuck Teen-Ager Steals Spotlight From US Stars

HAMILTON (CP) — Petite Gil Bastian, 15-year-old Montreal schoolgirl, stole the limelight from the United States stars in the Canadian indoor track championships here Saturday.

The four-foot, 10-inch student won the semi-finals of the 60-yard dash for girls under 16 in a record 6.9 seconds and the final in 7.1.

She shared her record-breaking triumph with the University of Toronto's mile-relay team and Sandra Post, of Toronto.

The relay team set a meet record, clocking a time of 3:31.4, against a previous mark of 3:32, while running against Buffalo University and Buffalo State Teachers.

Irons, of Toronto's Olympic Club ran a 4:22.5 mile for boys of 19 and under. The previous best time was 4:22.8

AMERICANS TOPS

But top honors of the evening went to the Americans.

Armin Scholl, Pittsburgh, holder of the world's 1,000 yards indoor record established his 21st straight victory this winter by defeating Harry Bright of New York's Pioneer Club, in 2:21.6, only seven-tenths of a second behind the Canadian record posted in 1934.

Irving Petrons of Wayne University, Detroit, was just beaten in the final of the open 60, after winning his semi-final in 6.8 seconds. The winner, Dick Williams of the Pioneer Club, went ahead in the last few feet.

An impressive feature was a 60-yard hurdles exhibition by Olympic decathlon champion Milt Campbell. Campbell beat Steve Dornback of Notre Dame and Pittsburgh's Paul Thrash in 7.6 seconds.

Teepees Wallop Marlies 4-2 To Enter Junior A Finals

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Rudy Pilous was out for sending Matt Ravlich away from the St. Catharines Teepees' hockey camp last fall but now he is Ravlich's strongest supporter.

Ravlich scored the two goals Sunday which vaulted Teepees into the Ontario Hockey Association junior A finals as St. Catharines pulled the upset of the season, defeating Toronto Marlboros 4-2 to win the best-of-five semi-finals 3-2.

Teepees, given little chance to knock the defending Memorial Cup winners out of their quest for a third straight Canadian junior title, are scheduled to open the best-of-seven finals Tuesday at Guelph against the Biltmores.

Pilous was unavailable for St. Catharines Thursday and the third at Guelph Saturday. Another coach will be announced later.

"I wasn't even going to invite Ravlich to camp last fall," Pilous said after the game. "Last season he got in too many fights and we couldn't afford the penalties he took. But we needed all the players we could get to open the year and give the kid another chance.

"I told him if I caught him once more fight, he would be sent home. Since then, he has sold himself back to the hometown fans by skating away from fights and I'm mighty proud of it."

Ravlich, English native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was switched from defence to left wing before games before the end of the regular OHA junior A schedule.

"We didn't want to ruin his chances of playing in the National Hockey League and I think that as a forward he has a better opportunity," Pilous explained.

Playing on a line with centre Ed Hoekstra and right winger John McKenzie, Ravlich has produced six goals in eight playoff games. He had seven goals in 52 games during the regular season.

The line was responsible for the four goals against Marlboros, who took a 2-0 lead by the 30-second mark of the second period but couldn't hold Teepees or beat their goaltender, Roy Edwards, after that.

Hoekstra and Bob Hull scored Teepees' first two goals in the second while Ravlich scored what proved to be the winner and the fourth, which relieved the pressure, in the third period. He set up Hull's first goal.

Left winger Gord Haughton and defenceman Carl Brewer scored for Marlboros.

Edwards played a sensational game for the winners. He turned aside 37 Marlboro shots, including 26 in the last two periods. Len Broderick stopped 24 Teepee drives.

Bardstown Wins Gulfstream Race Needles Third

NEW YORK (CP) — Calumet Farm's Bardstown sped to a one-half length victory in the $26,600 Gulfstream Park handicap at Hallandale, Fla., Saturday.

Although carrying high weight of 130 pounds, Bardstown ran the 1⅛ miles in the excellent time of 2:00 2-5. His stablemate Fabius was second and Needles, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year, was third in the field of seven.

At Bowie, Md., Promised Land, a Kentucky Derby hopeful owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, won the $25,000-added Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie track, a neck in front of Mister Jive, owned by John L. Applebaum of Toronto.

Promised Land came out of the pack in the seven-furlong event to take the lead and fight off Mister Jive's challenge. Nth Hits was third.

Fans Brawl In Minor Game

STOUFFVILLE (CP) — Fans battled each other on the ice and in the stands Saturday for 30 minutes the finish of an Ontario Minor Hockey Association juvenile C playoff between Norwich and Stouffville.

The brawl broke out with 22 seconds left when a spectator who grabbed Stouffville coach Don Haynes' stick was pulled onto the ice when Graham attempted to retrieve the stick.

Another fan followed to mix it up with the spectator and within seconds several others spilled over the boards and the fight was on. By the time police had cleared the rink several fans needed first aid for cuts and the fight was the dressing rooms and at nearby doctors' offices.

The game ended in a 5-5 tie, but Norwich took the total-point series 9-7.

Letter To The Sports Editor

Appreciation

I read your Thursday's column in which you wrote those "post-game pip squeaks". I think you made a good point with your story of Leo Durocher. I wonder how these people would feel if the McFarlands should tell people how to do their work.

I have attended all but five games every year and saw not a few on the road. In not one game have I seen anything that the players should feel ashamed of during or not doing as the case may be. I realize some things have happened, but a man does these things when he is hot under the collar and he regrets them later.

As for the losses, I feel that criticism is undeserved. After all, we had to go from a losing Senior "B" to a winning Senior "A" club. It seems to me we have done this although it is doubtful that we will win the championship. Drury Denyes and the present crop responsible for procuring the players deserve a pat on the back. May they keep up the good work.

I hope the players can forget those few fans who have given them a rough time and remember those who tried to make Belleville a nicer place in which to play hockey. May they all come back.

As Jimmy Rice once said: "It matters not that you won or lost but how you played the game." As far as I can see, every player has given one hundred per cent while on the ice. Can we ask more than that?

PAUL RUSSELL.

Hearn, Jeffcoat Have Trouble Getting Arms in Condition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While it's too early to count them out of the pitching picture, indications today were that veteran pitchers Jim Hearn of Philadelphia Phillies and Hal Jeffcoat of Cincinnati Redlegs are having trouble getting their arms in condition.

Hearn is 33 and has been kicking around the big leagues for a long time. Jeffcoat is 32. When pitchers reach their ages, managers want them to produce or they begin looking around for youngsters to fill the gap.

Both were assigned starting roles in exhibition games Sunday, and neither came through.

Hearn was clubbed for five runs by Pittsburgh Pirates before he was taken out in the sixth inning at Ft. Myers, Fla. As it turned out, Bob Millrr, his relief, didn't allow a run the rest of the way and the Pirates won 5-3.

JEFFCOAT WORSE

Jeffcoat's ineffectiveness against Chicago White Sox in Tampa, Fla. was even more pronounced. The Pale Hose slashed 11 hits off Jeffcoat en route to an 8-1 victory.

Jeffcoat did help save his team from a shutout when he singled in the third and scored on a double by Don Hoak.

Jeffcoat had an 8-2 record last year, mostly in relief, while Hearn's mark was 5-11.

While Phillies and Redlegs were having their troubles, Cleveland Indians finally appeared to have snapped out of a slump that was beginning to worry rookie manager Kerby Farrell.

After losing five games in a row, the Tribe whipped New York Giants 4-3 in Los Angeles and Lee Herb Score yielding just two hits in five innings. Furthermore, top reliefer Don Mossi put out a fire in the ninth and muscular Vic Wertz slammed a three - run homer.

Yanks, meanwhile, suffered a jolt at Miami when their triple crown winner Mickey Mantle, stepped in a hole in the outfield while warming up before a game with Brooklyn Dodgers and severely strained a ligament.

Mantle will be out of uniform at least a week.

BIG BATS BOOM

But his injury didn't silence the Yank bats. The Bombers crashed out 16 hits against four Brooklyn pitchers and coasted to a 14-4 victory. Bob Kuzava had four hits and sent home five runs.

Two shutouts were turned in during the day's proceedings. Tom Morgan and Tom Gorman, a couple of Yank castoffs, combined to whitewash Washington Senators 4-0 for Kansas City Athletics at West Palm Beach, Fla. They held the Nats to only nine singles by Eddie Yost off Morgan.

Sam Jones, Willard Schmidt and Hoyt Wilhelm hung up Milwaukee Braves for St. Louis Cardinals 5-0 at St. Petersburg. Jones went the first seven innings, the longest stretch of the spring for a Cards pitcher.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs capitalized on three errors to turn back Baltimore Orioles 8-2, at Ft. Myers, Fla.; Boston Red Sox turned back St. Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League in San Francisco 6-4, and Detroit Tigers trimmed Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League 13-3 in Lakeland, Fla.

WAY TO THEIR HEARTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C Lions will serve buffet suppers in a special room at Empire Stadium for the players and their wives and girl friends after every home game in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season.

Something along the same line may be arranged after road games as well.

"But nothing quite as fancy," said general manager Herb Capozzi. "Those prairie cities never were any great shakes at creating fancy suzettes or pate de foie gras."

Capozzi also announced that every Canadian player with Lions will get a raise this year, "I didn't say how much.

Training Camp Notes

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Baltimore Orioles, who have patiently plodded along with shopworn material, may come up this season with a bright, fresh star, 19-year-old third baseman Brooks Robinson unquestionably has son.

stolen the show in Orioles' spring training camp as a kid destined for big league greatness.

His fielding right now measures up to major league standards.

All this lad has to do is win the Oriole third base job from one of the game's best, George Kell, is to keep up his present batting form. He is batting .346 with 25 hits in 43 trips and has driven across six runs.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP —With opening day a few weeks away, Cincinnati Redlegs manager Birdie Tebbetts says he doesn't yet know who to pick for the team's vacant third base job. Don Hoak or Alex Grammas.

"Both have looked great, not only at third base, but also at short and second, too," Tebbetts said Sunday. "Looks like I'll have to wait until the very end of the exhibition schedule before naming my man."

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Jack Tighe is hopeful his Detroit Tigers have finally found their batting eyes after they pounded out 16 hits in Sunday's 15-5 rout of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. The Tigers trailed 2-0 before Ray Boone got a grand-slam homer in the bottom of the first inning to start the Tigers on their biggest hitting spree of the exhibition season.

LOS ANGELES (CP) — In his most drastic action against a player since becoming manager of New York Giants last year, Bill Rigney has fined outfielder Hank Thompson $150 for missing an exhibition game.

Thompson was fined for failing to appear in San Diego where the Giants defeated Cleveland Indians 8-4 Friday. The disciplinary levy was disclosed Saturday.

Indian Boys End Long Walk

HAMILTON (CP)—Two small Indian boys' 19-mile walk ended Sunday night at the city police station.

The youngsters, aged nine and 11, left the Mohawk Indian home in Brantford in the morning filled with springtime wanderlust. In Hamilton they were befriended by a man who met them in the street. He took them to his home, gave them a meal and called police.

For two hours the pair regaled detectives with the story of the expedition, before their guardians arrived to take them home.

Industrial Hockey League

Osterhout Shells evened their final series for the Industrial League championship over the weekend by whipping National Steel Midgets 4-1.

The two-out-three affair is now tied at one win per team with another fixture ending in a deadlock. The fourth and deciding game is scheduled for Memorial Arena Tuesday night at 7.00 p.m.

Bill Vesterfelt personally looked after the winners' scoring, bagging all four goals. The Shells carried the play and never gave the National crew a chance to get organized.

Buckey Esther tallied the lone National marker.

SEARCH FOR LOG

PARIS (Reuters)—An advertisement appeared Friday in a French evening newspaper seeking a log book lost by Charles E. Lindberg, after his first transatlantic flight 30 years ago. The ad, placed by an admirer of Lindberg, said the log contained a minute-by-minute account of his flight in the Spirit of St. Louis. It was lost, the ad said, when Lindberg was mobbed by 200,000 persons on landing at Paris on May 21, 1927.

Presley Pulls Toy Pistol on Irate Marine

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A lanky young U.S Marine says he doesn't plan to file a complaint with police although Elvis Presley pulled a "pistol" on him.

But Pte. Hershel Nixon, 18, says he feels the rock 'n' roll singer owes him an apology.

Police said they won't take any action in the Friday night incident unless Nixon files a formal complaint.

Presley said he whipped out the Hollywood prop pistol because Nixon tried to pick a fight while the singer was signing autographs on a Memphis street.

"BLOW YOUR BRAINS OUT"

Nixon said "I didn't try to pick a fight and I wasn't drinking. I had no way of knowing the pistol was a toy."

The marine, stationed at the Memphis naval air station, said he left after Presley pulled the prop gun and said "I'll blow your brains out, you punk"

Presley, 22, said the marine accused him of bumping into his wife as she walked out of a restaurant about two months ago.

"She told me all about it," he quoted the marine as saying. "I want to get it straightened out right now."

THOUGHT ABOUT GUN

Presley, who returned recently from Hollywood, said he edged away but the marine followed.

"I told him I didn't know what he was talking about because I had been in Hollywood." Presley said. "Then I thought about that gun and I pulled it out.

"I was smiling when I took it out of my coat. Everybody else standing around there knew it wasn't real."

Alliston Blanks Wellington 6-0 For Second Win

Alliston's arena may prove to be a hockey Waterloo for Wellington's gallant Iron Dukes.

Dutch Ainsworth's hard - hitting youngsters stormed the mighty here Saturday night in their second OHA Junior "D" clash with the young neighbors of Barrie's Flyers, but bowed 6-0 to drop their second verdict in a row to the Paul Meger-coached team.

The third game of the best-of-five semi-finals series was scheduled for tomorrow night, but serious injuries sustained by two of the Dukes defencemen Saturday may cause a cancellation of the series. The winners meet Chesley for the title.

Manager "Dutch" Ainsworth of the Dukes said today that Bill McKenzie and Glen McConkey were incapacitated in the second period of Saturday's tilt and were unable to return for the third session. Other injuries have reduced the team's strength considerably.

It was a rough and rugged encounter with the teams hitting one another with everything. The second period saw Referees "Red" Carson and Bill Hurst hand out all 12 of the twenty penalties assessed and a rush call was sent for police protection in the penalty box. Six minors were doled out in four minutes.

Alliston drew twelve of the sentences including two majors with the Dukes being labbed the remainder which included two majors and a misconduct.

Alliston scored two quick goals in the first period to grab an early lead and the clubs battled less second frame. Lack of defence mainly with one another in scorepower weakened the Dukes in the third chapter and the Alliston club slung home four goals without a reply.

The score did not indicate the difference between the clubs but the Dukes showed a noticeable weakness around the Alliston nets when they were close in while their shooting was mainly off the mark. When they did "get on" Whalen in the Alliston nets kicked out everything thrown at him.

The Alliston youngsters form a well-coached club with a fine pattern of passing plays. They are big and rugged and know how to use their weight.

The Dukes appeared faster afoot and they gave everything they had, they deserved a better fate but they appeared to be unable to get their scoring plays clicking in enemy territory.

Bill Pring, John Milton and Herby Moon each scored two goals for the winners.

THE TEAMS

Alliston: Whalen, Haddock, James, Edger, Bourrin, St. Pierre, Bartlett, Milton, Moon, Pring, Marshing, Keogh.

Wellington — Halloran, Bryant, McConkey, Carson, Denard, McKenzie, Guerney, Hourihan, Simpson, Aylmer Guernsey, Platt, Foster.

Referees: "Red" Carson, Bill Hurst, Belleville.

'Brum' Bows to Manchester 2-0

LONDON (AP) — Manchester United slammed the two goals in two minutes Saturday to defeat Birmingham City 2-0 in the semi-final of the English Soccer Cup competition and keep alive hopes of a unique soccer triple.

Manchester now is in the final of the English Cup, semi-final of the European Cup and leads the English League standings with only nine more matches to be played. No team has won those three competitions in one season.

Aston Villa and West Bromwich Albion tied 2-2 in the other English Cup semi-final. Brownich led 2-1 until seven minutes from the end. Then left winger Paddy McParland rammed in the equalizer for Villa.

Villa and West Brom will replay their match Thursday to decide who tackles Manchester in the final at Wembley Stadium May 4.

SCOTTISH TIE

Both Scottish Cup semi-finals ended in ties. Celtic, 18-time winners of the Scottish Cup, forced a 1-1 tie against Kilmarnock with a goal five minutes from time and Raith Rovers and Falkirk battled all square 2-2. Both games will be replayed this week.

Preston North End defeated Luton Town 2-0 in the first division of the English League and clipped Manchester United's lead to three points. Brownich led third-place with 45 points, tied 2-2 at Newcastle.

Leicester lost ground in the second-division when beaten 3-1 by Fulham, but still holds a seven-point lead over second-place Nottingham Forest.

Colchester United continued at the head of third division south with a 2-1 victory over Southend to maintain a three-point lead over second-place Torquay.

Rangers beat Aberdeen 2-1 to get within two points of Scottish first division leader Hearts who were idle.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, March 26, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Influences are on the friendly side. Be your most genial self and thus gain all the possible benefits to be had now. Constructive matters, occupational tasks favored. Keep emotions calm.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Listen to intelligent advice and carry through due orders or directions for bettering your position, your holdings, and advancing generally in everday affairs. Keep up with schedule.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Skilled workers, those in the professions, clerks, secretaries, promoters and bookkeepers are under stimulating aspects. Much depends upon calm, reasonable plans and action. Think!

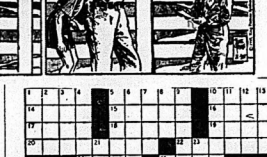
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This could be a flourishing day for unique ideas, promotional stunts, advertising little known but valuable products, for consultations, handling weighty matters.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Some daring may be profitable now but it must be supported by sound judgment. Give special thought to problems requiring immediate solution. You can advance in personal and business affairs. Be alert.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Your keen mental and physical attributes can prove of great value this stimulating and, for the most part, favorable day. Concentrate first on urgent matters, then slow up tempo and tackle lesser ones.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Many diversified matters are under stimulating influences now. If you get behind things with your cleverness, they will advance.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You may suffer a little inconvenience now but you can still make progress. Be motivated by good resolutions, firm determination. Your work, all lines of useful endeavor favored.



November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This day is neither too restrictive nor too generous. You will have to be a wise judge and calculate according to your program and its needs. Solid, practical matters, home interests highly favored.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Good Saturn and Mercury aspects. Work for high achievement in your specific interests, personal and domestic matters. Strengthen your ambitions and aim high. Only your best will do this day.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Search for opportunities, work with those who are smart, ambitious and honorable. You can attain unlimited advantages, fresh leads to success now if you put forth your best efforts.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — This should be an opportune period for study, teaching, acquiring worthwhile knowledge. Benefits of lasting value are indicated. Be ambitious, determined to use your know-how profitably.

You born today are of a bright nature, highly talented, ambitious, willing to work hard for achievement. You may be a bit contrary at times and lose the co-operation of others thereby. Be careful, curb any harmful tendencies before they become ingrained habits. You have excellent opportunity this year to better your status and build the foundation for substantial gains in the future. Take care of health; don't burn the candle at both ends.

Prime Minister Nehru Believes Problem Solved

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today there are "indications" a satisfactory solution may be reached on the Gulf of Aqaba problem.

Such a solution would safeguard Egypt's rights and also be satisfactory to the interests of the international community, he told the House of the People.

The prime minister repeated his call for the United States and Soviet leaders to meet face to face to discuss the respective plans for peace in the Middle East.

He also proposed that President Eisenhower and the Russian leaders meet directly to tackle the problem of disarmament. Russian and U.S disarmament proposals "thrown out from a distance are not enough," he said.

Nehru said that despite the "painful shocks" experienced by India over the attitude of some Commonwealth countries in the Middle East and Kashmir issues, it is desirable for India to continue in the Commonwealth association, although some time or other "it may require further consideration."

"But in this, as in other matters, we are not going to act in a huff or spirit of anger because we dislike something that has happened."

Two Freighters Collide, One Leaking Badly

FALMOUTH, England (AP) — The 7,200-ton Italian freighter Coralio and the 5,055-ton Norwegian vessel Nogal Balance collided today about 50 miles southwest of this Cornish port.

A radio message picked up in Brest from the Coralio said the Italian vessel was leaking badly and was asking for help. The owners of the Nogal Balance announced their ship was not severely damaged and probably would continue her voyage.

MARMORA

Marmora Drops Second Game To Port Elgin

MARMORA (Special)—A tired and battered Marmora crew returned home from Port Elgin where the games in their three-of-five OMHA midget "C" final series on Sunday after dropping decisions on Friday and Saturday nights.

They lost 7-4 on Friday but suffered several injuries which proved costly as Port Elgin won on Saturday by an 11-3 score. The third game is scheduled for Marmora next Friday night at 8.00 p.m. with the fourth also in Marmora Saturday night if necessary.

The injury list lengthened on Saturday for the fighting Marmora club. Harold Maloney is suffering from an undetermined leg injury, Peewee Holland sports a three-stitch cut on his forehead, Bev Osborne was cut Saturday but completed the game before receiving seven stitches while Don Bedore is ill. Bedore passed out following the Friday contest but after medical attention during Friday night, returned to play Saturday.

The Port Elgin club played it rough and ready Saturday and drew six of the ten penalties, including a major to Harper for drawing blood.

R. Dudgeon came up with a terrific performance to account for no less than eight of the winners' goals. Harper had two and Reid one as the homesters led 3-2 after one period and 6-3 after the second.

Bev Osborne tallied Marmora's first goal at 1.12 of the first period while Wayne Holland from Mike Doyle was their second scoring play at 8.02. Dean Lavender netted the third Marmora marker and unassisted at 15.37 of the second.

Marmora must now win all three remaining games to win the Ontario Midget "C" championship.

Albury

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Allan Weese have returned from Florida after enjoying a month's holiday.

Mrs. Harold Bonter entertained several ladies to a quilting with a number of men attending the dinner. Proceeds over $13.

A number of ladies attended the Niagara Brand Spray meeting at Morton's Garage on Wednesday evening. The Albury Ladies' Aid served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Benford Peck, Mrs.36 C. Peck, Mrs. Don Dempsey attended the Quinte Chapter of Eastern Star Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter attended the Sportsmen Show in Toronto over the weekend.

Mrs. Ed Smith spent a few days visiting in Belleville.

Mr. Will Peck spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peck.

Marmora

I.O.D.E. CATERS

MARMORA — Marmora chapter I.O.D.E. catered recently to the Chamber of Commerce annual in Marmora-Deloro Kiwanis Club with a chicken pie supper which was served in the town hall. A large number was present and all enjoyed the meal.

On Tuesday evening, the members of Marmora I.O.D.E. enjoyed a dinner at the Royal Hotel with their guests from the Campbellford, Stirling and Norwood chapters.

Mrs. M. E. Clarke, Regent of Municipal Chapter of Peterborough, was guest speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. Allen, educational secretary of the same chapter.

A short program followed with Mrs. R. Frost as accompanist. Mrs. Shuttford and Mrs. R. Fleming delighted the gathering with a medley of Irish songs.

The presentation of a new standard, which was dedicated by the Rev. R. Fleming, closed the meeting.

MARMORA

'Grandmothers' Night' Held By C.W.L.

MARMORA — The annual grandmothers' meeting of the CWL was held in the Sacred Heart parish hall with more than 60 members present.

Mrs. Charles Cook presided. The meeting was opened by the director, the Rev. W. P. Healey.

The social welfare and missionary convenors reported much charitable work done. It was decided to purchase uniforms for the girls of the separate school and a committee was appointed to contact supply houses.

This was the 13th annual grandmothers' night, and a special program for grandmothers was enjoyed. Eighteen grandmothers answered the roll call and prizes were won by the following: new grandmother, Mrs. L. Hughes; grandmothers attending all the meetings, Mrs. B. Gaffney, Mrs. L. Hughes; grandmothers' lucky draw, Mrs. Ed. O'Connor; eighty years, Mrs. B. Gaffney.

Program included "Grandma's Music" by Mrs. James Black; Mrs. Fred Kloppenburg gave an interesting talk on her life in Pakistan and customs of the country and the natives.

The grandma and grandpa costumes, Miss Mary Hughes and Mrs. John Crawford "when I was a little girl"; Mrs. B. Gaffney and "Last Night on the Back Porch." Mrs. Fred Power gave a piano solo. Vocal solos, "Mother," and "Little Old Lady," by Mrs. H. Brady; a reading, "Appreciation by Grandma O'Toole," by Miss Mary Hughes.

Refreshments were served by group 9 and a delightful evening was brought to a close.

JOHNSTOWN

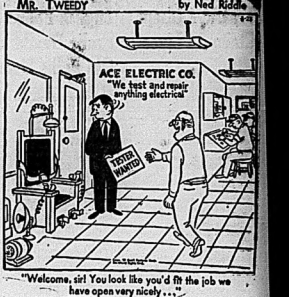
Public School Sponsors Box Social

JOHNSTOWN — Johnstown school held a St. Patrick's box social on Monday evening, with Robert Hamilton reading an address of welcome to the parents.

A puppet show was put on, by grade 4, the play is called "The Serenade." The school sang three selections, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Moonlight," "The Shades of Evening" and "The Wearing of the Green."

Grade 4 presented choral speaking called, "The Woodpecker's Breakfast," with grades 4, 5 and 6 giving, "The Airplane."

The girls' chorus presented three musical selections, "I'm A little Teapot," "Where Can I Find A March."



A lovely violin solo was given by Jimmy Cormac, "Oh Where and Oh Where Is He?" Highland Laddie Gone." Robert Hamilton followed with a cornet solo, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus."

The seniors sang, "That's An Irish Lullaby" and "My Wild Irish Rose," with the audience joining in the last verse.

An auction of the lunch boxes was held with Mr. Will Harry as auctioneer. This caused much merriment. The proceeds of this sale were $15.35.

Lunch was served with the lunches and the evening ended with everyone singing the National Anthem.

Traffic Mishaps Claim 24 Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Of 26 accidental deaths reported in Canada over the weekend, 24 were the result of traffic mishaps.

Ontario led with nine deaths—all traffic. Three were teenagers whose car was struck by a train Sunday at a level crossing in Ottawa.

Quebec had seven highway deaths, a survey made by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Sunday showed.

Traffic also caused the single deaths in Alberta and Nova Scotia. In British Columbia five died in traffic and one man was drowned.

Manitoba had two deaths, one in a traffic.

Ontario deaths:

Carolyn Bruyn, 1½, of Hespeler when a fuel-oil truck ran over her.

Miss Margaret Black, 84, of Guelph in a two-car crash.

Dietrich Pirch, 22, of Bradford when a car went out of control, hitting the rear of a truck.

Miss Mary Elizabeth White, 64, of Oak Ridges when struck by a car while walking on highway.

Mrs. Clayton Jackson, 35 , of Kingston when car hit a cement wall.

James McIntosh, 39, of Belle River in a two-car collision.

Gilles Methot, 17, Jean Guy Denis, 17, and Lyne Carriere, all of Ottawa when their car struck by a train at a level crossing.

Four Masked Men Take $18,300

MONTREAL (CP)—Four armed masked men escaped with $18,300 in cash and $1,500 in cheques in a daring Saturday night robbery at Elmhurst Dairy in the city's west end.

Detective Sergeant Raymond Clark said the four wore khaki-colored material over their heads when they walked into the bank cashier's office.

"I'll blow your head off if you make a false move," one of them said in broken English to cashier Ronald Nadeau.

Papers Raise Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's morning tabloid newspapers, The Daily News and Daily Mirror, have increased their city prices from four to five cents a copy, effective today.

Both newspapers blamed inflation for the price increases.

The World-Telegram and The Journal-American, both afternoon newspapers, raised their prices from five to 10 cents earlier this week. The New York Post, the city's third major afternoon daily, is still at five cents.

The Times and Herald-Tribune, both morning papers, sell for five cents daily.

English Police Probe Deaths at Old Folks Home

SHERBORNE, England (AP)—Gravediggers Sat. exhumed the body of 88-year old Rosa Darby, one of seven elderly persons whose deaths at an old folks home is under police investigation.

Detectives watched as the diggers opened the unmarked grave at dawn behind seven-foot-high canvas screens in a corner of the parish cemetery at Milborne Port, Somerset, near here.

The coffin of Miss Darby, a former wigmaker who died 13 months ago, was then removed to a mortuary for a postmortem. Her death was certified as due to heart disease.

Samples of earth from the grave also were taken away in jars for analysis.

Police said they had permission to exhume the body of a second woman next week. They have been investigating the deaths at Castlemead House, a home for the aged, for four months.

Makarios Set Conditions for Plea for Peace

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Archbishop Makarios is reported to have conditionally accepted Britain's demand that he denounce violence in Cyprus as a condition of his release from detention in the Seychelles Islands.

His reply, said to have reached London, was believed to make two demands:

1. That he would "recommend the pacification of Cyprus" only after he had been released, and

2. That all military operations against anti-British EOKA terrorists should be called off, otherwise he could not vouch for a permanent peace.

Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding was scheduled to return here from London Saturday. The postponement of his return is believed to be the result of Makarios' reply.

Harding flew to London soon after EOKA circulated leaflets here 21 days ago pledging suspension of their activity on conditions Makarios was freed by the British.

SEEKS NOMINATION

HAMILTON (CP) — Bobby McDonald, whose career as a halfback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football union was ended by polio in 1953, said Friday he will be a candidate next Thursday for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Hamilton South federal riding. McDonald is an insurance salesman. The seat is held by Liberal Russell Reinke.

LAST

Diplomatic sources believe Nasser may have convinced Hammarskjold Egypt's still-secret plan for operating the canal is consistent with the six principles endorsed by the UN Security Council last October.

These principles include unrestricted transit through the canal for ships of all nations, respect for Egypt's sovereignty, insulation of the canal from national politics, agreement between Egypt and Canal users on tolls and charges, a fair portion of revenue for canal development and arbitration of disputes.

Informants in Cairo said Egypt will issue a detailed memorandum concerning Suez navigation next week.

The best available information indicates the Nasser plan will fall short of what the Western user nations want, but that it will contain enough concessions to ease tension and get the waterway in full operation again.

Hammarskjold planned to fly to the canal today with Undersecretary Ralph Bunche and UNEF commander Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns.

Nasser talked again during the weekend with Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who shares Egypt's view that the Straits of Tiran at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba are territorial waters of Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Consultations also went on in Israel, which has threatened resumption of war if Arab raids are resumed from Gaza or Israeli shipping is barred from Aqaba.

Meanwhile, another Israeli-chartered vessel entered Tiran Straits without Arab interference.

There also is a growing tendency of companies changing their status to demand that unions be recertified with some "anti-union" lawyers even suggesting that if you have a checkoff from the successor company, this is enough support and you are not entitled to certification."

He called for provincial legislation on the matter.

RAPS "APPLE POLISHERS"

Also, "it is almost impossible to have a certification hearing without some apple polisher coming in with a petition purporting to represent employees who are opposed to the union."

Such company - backed employees mysteriously had enough money to carry their cases through expensive court hearings. A collection, "sometimes among a handful of employees," would run to hundreds or thousands of dollars.

Other "shortcomings" of the labor act were covered. Mr. Hughes said, in the report of the OFL committee on labor relations legislation. The report, made public several weeks ago, was officially tabled.

"Possibly, Premier Frost will see the writing on the wall and will pay a little more attention to the demands and need of labor when representations are made on their behalf by such a large body of organized labor. . . ."

He hinted the new labor group may back the CCF. He said the new labor body should increase its political activity.

Labor must be on guard, he said to see that the national health insurance scheme "does not continue to be a political football as it has for years."

Cleve Kidd of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the OFL, and likely candidate to be president of the new group, said in presenting his annual report the merger agreement gives equity between the two groups "and at the same time enough leeway is left for the new federation to chart a course of its own. . . ."

Attorney-General Of Switzerland Takes Own Life

BERN (AP)—Switzerland's attorney-general, Rene Dubois, committed suicide with his army revolver Saturday night after coming under suspicion of spying for France.

Dubois, 48, the federal government's chief legal officer, became involved in a police investigation of espionage at the Egyptian Embassy in Bern.

A government announcement stressed he was not suspected of espionage against Switzerland. Under Switzerland's neutrality laws, however, espionage directed against a foreign nation is also a criminal offence.

Dubois was a member of Switzerland's Social Democratic party. He acted as state prosecutor in many famous trials, including that last year of the four Romanian exiles who invaded the Romanian legation in Bern.

Montreal Couple And 4 Children Burned To Death

Indian Navigator, Aged 74, Wife 45, Among Victims

MONTREAL (CP)—A father, a mother and their four children were burned to death today when fire destroyed an old two-storey tenement building in an area where a slum clearance program is contemplated.

The victims were identified as J. Leboeuf, 74, an old Indian river navigator, his 45-year-old wife and their four children ranging in age from five months to 10 years.

Aboudad Hamel, son of the owner of the building, said Leboeuf paid the rent with his old-age pension cheque. Hamel said he believes the family has survived on family allowances since Mr. Leboeuf became unemployed a few months after the war.

The family was believed to have come here from the St. Regis Indian reserve, which straddles the Quebec-New York state border.

They rented their third-storey Street home in February.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in a stove on the ground floor. They speculated that the occupants started the fire to prepare breakfast and that it spread to the wooden walls of the ground floor.

All taps were running when firemen arrived and Deputy Chief Mr. Leboeuf may have tried to extinguish the fire before calling for help.

He was found near a door leading outside, which apparently collapsed.

A spokesman for the city's arson squad said a preliminary check indicated the fire may have been the result of spontaneous combustion in some rags near a coal and wood stove.

Mrs. Leboeuf and the children were found in second storey bedrooms and apparently died of suffocation.

Mr. Leboeuf was found dead from asphyxiation.

The fire started at 8:45 a.m. and was extinguished within an hour. The building was gutted, with only the walls left standing.

Firemen said that when they reached the scene the building was a mass of flames. All windows and doors had battered down the doors and literally poured tons of water at the flaming wooden walls that they succeeded in getting inside.

Two Canadians Drew Tickets On Favorite

DUBLIN (CP)—Two Canadians drew tickets Tuesday on Glorious Twelfth, a big eight-year-old grey gelding favored at 10 to 1 to win the 1½-mile running of the Grand National Steeplechase Friday.

A person with the Nom de Plume of E E E-E-E of Mission B.C., had his ticket drawn on Glorious Twelfth, as did Hal Dent of Toronto.

Four Canadians, all from Ontario, drew tickets on Hart Royal, second favorite at 100 to 9; Red Rock Junction; Stroller, Lucky 13, Ayton; and Mrs. Cris Upper, Cookstown.

Much Obliged, rated third with Sundew at 100 to 8, drew eight Canadian ticket holders, all from Ontario. Five Canadians hold tickets on Sundew.

In all, 207 Canadians drew tickets on the 27 horses that will compete in the race Friday at Aintree in England.

Prize money this year is £2,483,877 which will be split into 20 starters of £50,000 each. 20 of £20,000 and the same number of £10,000.

EGYPTIAN PLAN FOR RUNNING SUEZ ON WAY TO UN

Hammarskjold Appears To Be Satisfied

CAIRO (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold left for his United Nations headquarters with Egypt's plan for running the Suez Canal.

The plan was not made public but informants said Hammarskjold had "ameliorated" President Nasser's original views during talks that began here last week.

Hammarskjold had to get the best possible plan out of a bad situation," one source said. "Now he will carry the plan to interested parties at the United Nations."

GIVE PROVISIONS

Diplomatic sources said main provisions of the plan call for:

All canal tolls to be collected by Egyptian authorities, as previously emphasized by Egypt.

Placing of a fixed percentage of tolls in a separate account for use by a UN technical assistance agency for maintenance and development of the canal. One Cairo press report said this would be 10 per cent.

Another percentage to be placed in escrow for settlement of compensation claims by stockholders of the old Suez Canal Company. Egypt has accepted responsibility for the 1888 Constantinople convention guaranteeing freedom of shipping through the canal.

FEELS ADEQUATE

Hammarskjold was said to feel that the 1888 convention guaranteed unhindered access to the canal adequate in its present form, although it might be revised later.

Informants said any country believing the convention was not being carried out could appeal to the World Court.

The 1888 convention calls for freedom of shipping for all nations. Egypt has barred Israeli ships on grounds that a technical state of war still exists between Egypt and Israel. The Israelis have provides for refusal of passage to enemy ships in the interest of security.

Hammarskjold was said to expect that Egypt ultimately will accept some kind of canal users' group to help fix canal rates, canal improvements and similar problems, but the present plan was reported to have that point unanswered.

Ingrid Bergman and Yul Brynner Betting Favorites to Win Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Academy awards will be announced Friday night, but as usual the safe prediction is that the male stars will wear tuxes and women will wear mink.

But Hollywood being the betting town it is, there is a morning line here that gives odds in this census:

Best actress—Ingrid Bergman.

Best actor—Yul Brynner.

Best picture—Around the World in 80 days.

Best supporting actress—Dorothy Malone.

Best supporting actor—Robert Stack.

Best director—George Stevens.

Best song—True Love.

However, most of the industry will concede that this is the closest race in years—and anything can happen.

Only Miss Bergman and Stevens could be classed as odds-on favorites. Miss Bergman for Director's Guild award for Giant and in the last five years has won every time she's come to and gone on to win the Oscar.

Brynner is another from town since she took up with Roberto Rossellini in 1949, faces her stiffest competition from the popular Deborah Kerr. Others in the male race are Kirk Douglas, Carroll Baker and Nancy Kelly.

Brynner is the only one of the men who combs their hair. And he has three of the year's best performances working for him in The King and I, Anastasia and The Ten Commandments.

His main competition will come from Kirk Douglas and the late James Dean. Giant was Dean's last picture and, of course, the last chance for the academy to honor the young actor. Others are Rock Hudson and Sir Laurence Olivier.

Frost Says Federal Minister Ignorant of Ontario Problems

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost has attacked a speech made by Justice Minister Garson last week in the House of Commons as showing "abysmal ignorance" of Ontario's fiscal problems and a disregard for them.

The premier said Mr. Garson's statement that Ontario passed on hundreds of millions of dollars in tax rental payments "is incorrect and so absurd that it really needs no answer."

During the years 1947 to 1952, the premier told the legislature Tuesday, Ontario collected $18,000,000 more than it would have received under a tax rental agreement.

Had Ontario imposed a personal income tax during that time, which would have been deductible from the federal personal income tax, it would have received another $72,000,000, Mr. Frost said.

He said the federal government cheated Ontario out of that amount, and still owes it to the province.

Mr. Garson's statement that the agreement because it was the only way the province could get a return from the personal income tax field as the federal government would give no rental for this field if Ontario was not prepared to rent the corporation tax field.

He described the 1957 tax-rental offer as niggardly and said it fell at least $1,000,000,000 short of what the province needed from the tax fields covered.

The tax fields retained were capable of producing at least $91,000,000 more revenue in the five-year period than the rental agreement provided for.

"Even without the personal income tax it was in Ontario's interest to remain out of the rental agreement as offered to Ontario at that time," Mr. Frost said.

"Mr. Garson's statement that Ontario passed up hundreds of millions of dollars in rental payments is completely misleading."

He spoke during debate on second reading of a bill which would increase taxes on mining companies yielding annual profit of more than $1,000,000. It was carried 73-to-11 with only the Liberals voting against it.

John Wintermeyer (L—Waterloo East) said the new federal-provincial fiscal agreement provides Ontario with 42 per cent of its revenue which is "not so bad."

Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver said the government failed to prove the extra tax money is needed.

Conflicting Voices on Question Of CCF Election Support Heard

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario labor spoke with one voice today, if only figuratively.

In actual fact conflicting voices on the question of CCF support are heard in the movement despite a vote for merger Tuesday by the second of its two main bodies.

The conflict appeared in the open during the merger convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor's industrial unions and the craft unions of the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor, part of a province-by-province amalgamation on the heels of formation of the unified Canadian Labor Congress last September.

President Alistair F. MacArthur of the OPFL urged political realignment in a farewell address given at the same time OPL delegates were unanimously voting for support of the CCF in a closed meeting.

Terms-of-merger meetings were to start today and the OFL resolutions demanding political action and affiliation are high on the agenda. They will be discussed Thursday at the latest, said OFL officials.

Some delegates said at least one member of the OFFL executive is for principles of the CCF as an effective CCF support by his organization.

The resolutions by the former affiliate with the old Canadian Congress of Labor and the new "all affiliated unions, and their members have the right to do as well as labor councils, to give all possible support to the CCF and its candidates in the forthcoming 1957 election."

The OFL delegates voted for organization of a "political action committee" which would meet with representatives of farm organizations and the CCF to "explore the possibility of co-ordinated action." Some delegates wanted to call it an "education" committee rather than an "action" committee, but they were out-voted.

Tuesday's approval of merger by the OPFL was not unanimous, unlike that of the OFL Monday. A large number of delegates objected to the fact that their nominations for executive offices in the new organization would be voted on by OFL delegates.

They nominated six men as vice-presidents: H. H. Gilbert, Hamilton, Firefighters' Union; I. M. (Casey) Dodds, Windsor, Teamsters; Joseph Morris, Toronto; Mike Nicholls, Toronto, Asbestos Workers; Al Hay, Toronto, Building Service Employees; R. W. Ostling, Port Arthur, and Norm Vanderburgh, secretary of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Union.

Nominated for secretary-treasurer were Doug Thurlow, Toronto, Carpenters' Union, and Peter Podger, Toronto, International Association of Machinists. Under terms of the merger agreement the OFL names the president and OPFL the secretary-treasurer. Each group gets four vice-presidents.

Mr. MacArthur, for a decade president of the previous affiliate of the old Trades and Labor Congress, in his farewell speech said he and other trade union members "cannot place ourselves in pawn" through political subservience.

"We are what we are," he said, "a movement pledged to protect the industrial interests of our organized membership."

TRADE MINISTER ABSENT AS HOUSE DEBATES WHEAT

Argue Attacks Howe But Well Defended

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe, generally a central figure in any Commons wheat debate, was absent but two members of prairie ridings debated their favorite topic again Tuesday.

Hazen Argue, CCF farm spokesman, said the 71-year-old minister is a man powerful enough to get his way when he wants it, even against the desires of a majority.

Mr. Howe could better himself in little match for the right honorable minister of trade and commerce if he wants something," Mr. Argue said.

Rene Jutras (L — Provencher) countered: "He is one of the greatest Canadians who ever lived."

Mr. Jutras said Mr. Howe has made "one of the greatest contributions to the grain growers of the western provinces and an amount of misrepresentation can take that away from him."

IS IN BERMUDA

Mr. Howe, who is in charge of the Canadian wheat board's grain marketing, and Mr. Diefenbaker, heading Anglo-Canadian talks as the House debated his bill to authorize federal guarantees on bank loans for farm - stored prairie grain.

Mr. Argue's attack on Mr. Howe centred on the minister's consistent opposition to counter proposals that the problem of farm-stored grain production be met through cash advances from the wheat board at low interest or no interest. The CCF member said 98 per cent of prairie people want cash advances.

Before the House throughout its debate Tuesday was a CCF motion (which if passed would have killed the bill and, in effect, forced the government to consider introducing permanent legislation for cash advances. Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members backed the motion.

RULED ON MOTION

However, just before adjournment Acting Speaker E. T. Applewhaite ruled the motion out of order. His ruling, appealed by the CCF, was upheld 87-to-50.

The ruling was sustained by the Liberal majority and two Quebec independents, Real Caouette of Beauce, and Fernand Girard, Lapointe. It was opposed by all three opposition parties and Paul E. Gagnon (Ind—Chicoutimi).

Debate on the bill itself was not concluded.

Mr. Jutras, chairman of the Commons agriculture committee, said the government now is considering the question of cash advances for farm-stored prairie grain.

Fred G. Zapilloni (L — Fraserhighland) said Mr. Howe had stated he would never consider cash advances. Now while Mr. Howe was away, Liberal backbenchers from the Prairies were "running with the fraces and making pronouncements of policy."

Who's telling the truth?" he asked.

PROVIDED EXCUSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Police thought they had a gang shooting on their hands Tuesday when 19-year-old Thomas Callow was taken to hospital with a bullet wound in the arm. But Callow's pal, John Acuri, also 15, said he shot his accidental wound himself and police as a favor so Callow would have an excuse to stay away from school. Both boys were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Britain Will Buy About Tenth Of Canada's Uranium

Believe Britain and U.S. Approach Canada's UN View

VANCOUVER (CP) — Christian George Hanna's obscure background, which subjected him to more than a year of lonely exile on the high seas, helped him get haven in Canada Tuesday, How long it will last was uncertain.

The small, 23-year-old stowaway was granted at least a temporary stay in Canada when Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan of the British Columbia Supreme Court threw out an immigration department deportation order against him.

Mr. Justice Sullivan, handing down his decision on an appeal which Hanna made to him early this month, held that the deportation order sentenced Hanna to an indetermined sentence aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudvelg.

Hanna spent 15 months aboard the Gudvelg after slowing away at Beirut, Lebanon, in October, 1955. At least six countries refused him permission to land because he had no passport or papers or any kind. He says he was born at sea of a French Somali mother, who died when he was six, and a Siberian father, whom he never has seen.

Mr. Justice Sullivan observing that his decision had to be "directed entirely" from humanitarian considerations said: "The inescapable fact is that Hanna is a bona fide refugee and the (immigration) department to prove otherwise have not been impressive."

He emphasized that his decision does not establish Hanna's right to live in Canada. "It is for immigration officials and those above to be guided or without that privilege."

Ottawa, a spokesman said Immigration Minister Pickerssgill would make a statement in the Commons in the near future, after studying the jurist's decision.

Deportation Order Against Hanna Tossed Out

Canada Feels UNEF Doomed Unless Admitted to Israel

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—Canada feels UNEF doomed unless Israel agrees to accept—at least in principle—the Soviet-Egypt Gaza Emergency Force on its territory, its force can no longer operate, it was learned Tuesday.

At the same time, Canada believes that UNEF must maintain effective control in the Gaza Strip if it is to be effective.

The Canadian view is that it is unreasonable to expect Israel to allow the force to operate on Egyptian territory while Israel remains denied the use of the Israeli side of the demarcation line.

Israel would not necessarily have to accept as many UNEF soldiers as Egypt has, but at least enough to save face for Egypt and Egypt could not be calling for withdrawal of the entire force from this Middle East area.

There is a feeling here that despite Egyptian verbal sniping at the force, Egypt really wants the UNEF to remain along its eastern borders as a buffer against Israel. Egypt likely could not withstand a new attack by Israeli forces.

It can be said authoritatively that Canada is not looking for a way out of the United Nations force or escape from its responsibilities in the Middle East.

Half Million More Will Quit Jobs

LONDON (AP)—Union leaders have predicted 500,000 more factory workers to walk off their jobs Saturday in the second day of a nation-wide series of British industry's key dollar-earning industries.

The strike began last weekend with 1,000,000 engineering and allied workers in selected aviation, electrical and machine tool factories.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions said more than 200,000 have responded to the London area to stop work March 30 because "of the continuing refusal of the employers' employers to negotiate" over increased pay for a 10-per-cent rise in crease.

The action ruled out hopes of early agreement either in the factory strike or in another walkout involving 200,000 shipyard workers, also being masterminded by the CSEU.

'Queen Certainly Our Worst Enemy' Opponents of 'Cruel Sports' Told

LONDON (Reuters) — The League Against Cruel Sports defended its annual meeting Tuesday to send a delegation to Buckingham Palace to ask the Queen to discourage royal interest in sports.

During discussion on stag hunting, which has caused a nationwide controversy recently, the league's president, Lord Ruthyn, said the Queen's "unswerving allegiance to this terrible, bloody business is the bedrock of the whole concern."

"We have now reached a crisis and it is time we at least gave her a chance to say that she, as a woman, is indefatigably averse to the horrors that have recently taken place."

Explaining that she was "not so much criticizing Her Majesty," Mrs. Dudley Ward said the Queen "encouraged the cruelty and mercy" which should be extended to "these hopeless animals."

The league's motion to send a delegation to see the Queen, scheduled for 11 a.m. today at Horsfall said: "We know who our chief enemies are. The Queen certainly our worst enemy."

Lord Grey de Ruthyn, the league's president, said the abolition by law of stag hunting and probably all other forms of hunting as well now has reached the realm of practical politics.

The meeting decided to appoint a committee to promote a parliamentary bill to make stag hunting an offence.

The guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the Y's Men's Club at the YMCA on Campbell Street, will be Clifford A. Schell, provincial secretary for administration and finance of the national council of YMCA's in Canada. The club will observe president's night.

He will address a special meeting of the Y's board of directors tomorrow at noon at the Queen's Hotel.

Mr. Schell became YMCA secretary in 1942 and since then has served the "Y" except for a period during the First World War when he went overseas as a captain with the Canadian Expeditionary Force. After recovering from wounds sustained in France, he became adjutant of Shaw College and later a YMCA war services secretary.

Since 1937 Mr. Schell has been active on the staff of the national council and during the Second World War was assistant senior secretary for war services.

It's "Conversation Piece" Daily at 9.30 a.m. on CJBQ.

Elite Credit Jewellers Mark 25th Anniversary

Today marks the 25th anniversary of Belleville's oldest independent credit jewellery store—Elite Credit Jewellers, located at 301½ Front Street.

The general public is invited to join Irving Lindenberg in celebrating the occasion beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow, when a money-saving sale will be put into operation. Here is the chance to get get tremendous bargains to fit any pocket book. For each purchase of over $5 value, customers will be given a sparkling silver dollar.

Since its inception, the store has been operated by Mr. Lindenberg, who came to Belleville in January 1932 and bought a number of accounts owned by the H. Rose Ltd. (a Toronto jewellery concern) in territories between Kingston and Peterborough. Belleville was the headquarters for his business and on March 27, 1932, he adopted the name of Elite Credit Jewellers. A short time later Mr. Lindenberg moved his shop to 140 Front Street and about 12 years ago moved to his present location just north of Victoria Park.

Mr. Lindenberg is an experienced jeweller, having started in the business in 1919 at Trenton as credit and collection manager for the Canadian Shoe Supply Co. and H. Rose Ltd., a combined concern. Six years later he company sent him to Buffalo to open a branch and until 1927 Mr. Lindenberg managed the business. During the first four months of operation in Buffalo Mr. Lindenberg's branch shop sold about a quarter of a million dollars worth of merchandise (wristwatch clocks).

In 1929 he was recalled to the Toronto office where he resumed work as credit and collection manager until he came to Belleville.

When business gets too heavy for one man to handle, Mr. Lindenberg calls on his wife, Gertrude, and his daughter, Vera (Mrs. Michael Levine), to drop in and help serve customers.

Mr. Lindenberg says he will never forget an incident which happened about 25 years ago, when thieves broke into his shop and made off with $500 worth of stock and negotiables. That robbery is believed to be among the city's biggest robberies.

Mr. Lindenberg is an active member in the Sons of Jacob Synagogue here and has never known a time in my life when I wasn't getting in two or three activities at the same time.

He is a member of the Canadian Jewellers' Association and has been practically since its inception.

With spring fever in the air and an anticipated increase in the number of weddings, Mrs. Lindenberg is stocking up on Royal Diamond bridal rings. She is the exclusive Belleville dealer for Royal Diamond. Rings are not the only articles that can be purchased at Elite Credit Jewellers. The store has a good supply of all kinds of jewellery and sundry items, enough, in fact, to tickle the fancies of all connoisseurs of fine jewellery.

Iranian Bandits Kill 2 Americans

TEHRAN (AP)—Two American aid officials were murdered and the wife of one was kidnapped when bandits attacked their cars Sunday night, Gen. Alinaghi Golpiri, commander in chief of the Iranian police, announced today.

Golpiri said the Americans were killed.

The U.S. Embassy withheld identification of the Americans but one source said the victims were:

Kevin M. Carroll, 37, of Issaquah, Wash., a development adviser for Kerman, Iran, since 1954, and Brewster A. Wilson, 35, Portland, Ore., block development specialist of the Near East Foundation and contractor for the International Co-operation Administration in Iran.

Federal and provincial department of agriculture are going all out in their efforts to eliminate unclean cheese from the domestic market.

It was indicated Tuesday afternoon at the annual spring conference for Central Ontario cheesemakers held here when they were told that after July 1 when the grading scoring cheese, if showing a No. 3 else, would automatically be graded second grade.

And if the same cheese showed a No. 4 else it will be graded third grade.

At the same time cheese makers and producers were told that the Ontario government this year would institute a program of daily inspections in a further effort to clean up all milk supplies. Also by 1960 all trucks delivering raw vital hauling of milk to cheese factories or other milk plants must be closed cream.

Under current grading regulations a total scoring cheese with Ontario government this year would be allowed in effect for these made on and after July first of this year.

EXCEPTIONAL GAINS MADE

Mr. Beattie noted that there were exceptional gains in the percentage of cheese manufactured under Grade A and Grade B since Premium loss for producers on cheese showing No. 3 else. Mr. Beattie said Ontario farmers nearly $98,000 in 1956, he stated.

Thrifty and quality were important factors in dealing with and for those producers and quality cheese starts on the farm with clean milk, he said.

W. R. Lackner, chairman of Milk Products Board of Ontario, told the conference that a campaign would be started this year in a small way. The importance of the need for producing milk for all dairy products and not only for cheese production.

He noted also that by 1960 all trucks doing commercial cheese factories or other milk plants, would have to be covered vans. From the present date new trucks being put into operation hauling milk would have to be covered.

All-Out Effort Will Be Made To Eliminate Unclean Cheese From Market Conference Told

"This," he said, "would give present truck owners the opportunity to change equipment without undue hardship."

Mr. Lackner also reviewed factory regulations noting that special attention would be given to the selection or rejection of milk. Each plant would be responsible for taking of sediment tests and the milk grading "D" would be automatically rejected.

MARKERS CONGRATULATED

Mr. Jack M. Bain, chief dairy instructor for Central and Western Ontario, said that 90.4 per cent first grade cheese had been made in Central Ontario last year and congratulated makers on the high quality of finish.

He noted that inspectors this would pay more attention to those factories which last year showed most low scoring cheese.

Mr. Bain regretted the falling off in the number of dairy fairs and exhibitions. The Ottawa Central Fair discontinued its cheese show last year and that at the Western Fair was likely to be discontinued this year.

A panel discussion headed up by Mr. Bain, Belleville, with panel members C. N. Heath, W. Ellis, Campbellford, and G. M. E. Brennan, Kemptville, Mr. Bain, Lansdowne, and Mrs. Quickert, Belleville, saw several problems relating to the industry keenly discussed.

One of the problems was "collars" appearing on the rinds of some cheese which, according to Mr. Quickert, occurred when the curd would of up to three or four pounds of cheese on a 80-lb. block.

COULD LOWER GRADE

Mr. Brennan said that in severe cases the condition could result in lowering of the grade with resultant loss to the maker.

The amount of time to be consumed in the taking of sediment tests on producers milk was a point of contention on the part of some cheesemakers but Mr. Lackner said tests did not necessarily have to be taken all at the same time.

The evening session of the conference saw addresses given by Dr. Hall of the Kemptville Agricultural School; Prof. Osburn, of O.A.C., Guelph; John Fraser of Vankleek Hill, who spoke on the activities of the Holstein Breeders Association, and J. F. Robinson, chief cheese instructor, Belleville.

The conference sessions were presided over by Murray Heath, president of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

Per Capita Fire Loss Last Year Lowest for Any Year Since '49

The city of Belleville during 1956 had the lowest per capita fire loss for any year since 1949 the Belleville Fire Department answered a total of 462 alarms with the total fire loss for the year being $76,378.46.

These among other facts are included in the annual report of Fire Chief Gerald Vance which was released this week.

At 463 the number of alarms for the year was down from the 1955 total of 483 were day alarms and 179 were night alarms.

Biggest fire loss of the year was at the J. J. McNabb store on Front street last April with loss to the building and contents being $45,-519. Other fires listed as major were at 191 Front street, 24 East George street, with loss of $6,355, the J. Yeates apartments on Front street with loss of $6,221, and the Garn Dobbs store and apartment on Victoria Ave. with loss of $7,355.

Oil burners were the biggest single offenders in the cause of alarms with 62 alarms under this heading. There were 53 flues fires, 39 grass fires; 25 calls for cars and trucks, 32 calls for blazing chimneys and 14 for stovepipes.

There were 16 calls to the city dump and the same number of false alarms.

April and May were the high months for the number of calls received with May seeing 65 runs. February and March were low with 30 runs each.

Firemen answered seven emergency calls; three for suffocation, and one each for drowning, carbon monoxide poisoning, heart attack and burning. In four instances the victims were revived.

A total of 1,000 inspections were carried out in the interests of fire protection, while throughout the year lectures were given on fire safety and the use of first aid and fire extinguishers to nurses in training and also at industrial plants which have their own fire safety departments.

During Fire Prevention Week an extensive week-long program was carried out with poster and essay contests being conducted in schools.

General fire fighting training and pumper training is given to department members.

There were 14 fire fighting townships with a total of 96 out-of-town calls being answered last year. Of the 33 calls were to Thurlow, 24 to Sidney, 10 to Tyendinaga, and 9 to Ameliasburg.

Just by way of comparison the heaviest individual fire loss in the city since 1912 was back in 1917 when the Graham-Found Evaporator burned with a loss of $285,000. In 1924 the Belleville Dried Foods plant burned with a loss of $136,000, while costly and heavy losses were in 1935, when the business block at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets burned with a loss of $235,504, and in 1954 when the Penguin Fish and Chip building burned with a loss of $142,853.

Until 1916 the city operated only with a volunteer fire department, the first permanent force consisting of 11 men.

The force remained at that figure until 1921 when it was increased to 16, and in 1928 was increased to 20. The department strength is now 38.

Busiest year in the number of alarms answered was in 1953 with 666 calls. Back in 1914 there were but 34 calls.

Fire Destroys Barn, Hay Crop

DESERONTO — Fire destroyed the barn on the farm of Mrs. B. Kelley, Boundary Road, about one mile north of town on Monday afternoon.

The fire originated in the town dump from burning refuse and spread through the grass across the fields to burn on Mrs. Kelley's property.

Mrs. Kelley didn't notice the fire until almost an hour later when she was going to the barn with some food for her stock. By that time the east end of the barn was ablaze.

The Deseronto Fire Department responded to the call for assistance but could only stand by to prevent the spread of fire to the house. As the barn was filled with hay it burned for a considerable time. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Police said that Mr. Holland was southbound on Bridge Street when, in attempting to make a left turn onto Bridge street, his car was struck by a westbound

Job of Foreman to Make New Employee Feel at Home

"Perhaps the first time during his first day on a job that a new employee feels distinctly alone during his first rest period," said J. A. Howlett, personnel manager for the Canadian Marconi Co., Montreal, to members of the Quinte District Foremen's Club at a meeting held in Belleville last night at the YMCA.

Mr. Howlett asserted that it is the job of the foreman and every other employee in the department to make a new man feel at home and, in general, show him that he is welcomed and accepted. He senses during his initial moments the prevalent climate in the department and will conduct himself in accordance with that atmosphere. If a department has a few trouble makers, it is not the thing to do to shift them around, or even dismiss the trouble makers, rather the whole department must undergo a change or else the climate will remain the same.

The new employee will rapidly adapt himself to the prevalent tempo of the department," said Mr. Howlett. It is absolutely necessary to create an atmosphere that is conducive to employment, rather than one that makes work a drudgery.

Prior to making a new worker feel accepted and important to the department he is going to be doing he gets. A man new at a job learns his work by the example of his fellow workers, said the speaker, "the employer must realize that he will have to put up with a few mistakes before he catches on to his job." A good procedure in breaking in a new man is to follow the method used by parents when they teach their child to walk. Scolding or violence will not make him learn. They only cause him to lose self-confidence, caution and patience. When this occurs the individual is likely to make a blunder. By gaining experience a man makes fewer mistakes.

URGED TO TAKE INTEREST

Mr. Howlett urged employers to take an interest in new employees from the start — not only in their work, but also in their hobbies, likes and dislikes. When an applicant faces the employment office he is tense and is apt to be apprehensive. Therefore, it is up to the interviewer to make him at ease.

New employees should be informed as to what is expected of them and must be told how much they will earn and let in on some of the benefits they will receive while working for the company.

Every man wants to be important. It is unwise to tell an employee who is doing some menial task that he plays a vital role in the plant. If such an employee is told he is a king-pin he is likely to turn around and say, "Look, don't try to pull the wool over my eyes. You know that putting a few bolts in this buggy does not make me important. If you could get a machine to do it instead of me as many bolts at twice the speed, you would. So don't kid me."

"Sometimes we become exasperated with a new employee. We often lose patience with him, but we must let him know he is free to make a few mistakes, thereby creating in him self-confidence and ability. He will then do better and eventually may become a key man in the company," Mr. Howlett said.

RETIREMENT AGE ANTIQUATED

"Age 65 compulsory retirement is as antiquated as the once-held 40-year life expectancy of this generation," he said. The opportunities are there for a man at 65 years are good. Just because a man reaches the age of 65 doesn't mean he is incapable of doing some job. Many companies need men to do some particular job and none of the younger generation wants to do it. A man at the age of 65 has a full life behind him, during which time he received training in many fields.

"We are facing a time, because of the advance of automation, when we won't be able to keep pace with the demand unless these workers are used. We must be labor the notions and prejudices concerning this that were handed down. He concluded Mr. Howlett.

The speaker was introduced by past-president Hugh Jones and thanked by Jim Dalgleish.

Installation of president Paul Cleary claimed the major portion of the meeting when President Cleary's successor stepped down for the evening.

Mr. Cleary, on behalf of the club, extended thanks to the Comrade Club for preparing and serving the evening meal.

The Rev. R. D. MacLean gave the sermonette.

IN MEMORIAM

BOURETTE. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Bourette, who passed away on March 27th, 1955.

Sadly missed, sweet and happy memories linger around his name

Treasured memories of a dear husband

Time hearts that loved you with deepest affection who love you in death just the same

You left behind a broken home

To always remember you and never forget

And who always thinks of you and loves you best

Is God, who took you to His content.

Gone is the face I loved so dear and silent is the voice I used to hear,

Sad but true we wonder why, that the best are always first to die,

Dear Joe, you left us no word, we know not when,

To close your eyes in the better land, never to part again.

Always remembered by wife and family.

CAMPOLI. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Violet Rosetta Campoli, who passed away March 27th, 1954.

Of all gave me a wonderful wife,

Her memory is dear as life itself,

Her memories of her smile out of sight,

He molded her heart of pure gold.

Sad but true we wonder why,

A beautiful light to shine;

To always remember and never forget

He chose that dear wife of mine.

Lovingly remembered by husband Rocco and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved ahead in all sections today during active morning trading. Uraniums were ahead in almost a solid line but gains were limited to 25 cents in lower-priced issues and in most cases did not exceed 10 cents.

Industrials gained one-half point on their index, mainly because of a 4¾-point jump to a 1957 high of 125 by Algoma Steel.

The high-priced uranium issues made the first upward move following the news that Britain will buy $115,000,000 worth of Canadian uranium during the next five years. Gunnar, Consolidated Denison and Algom each gained ½.

Copper Rand jumped 12 cents at $3.65 among coppers and Belcher added 15 cents at $1.95 in golds. Among seniors International Nickel lost ⅛ at 100.

Rev. H. B. Neal Leaves Lindsay End of June

LINDSAY—Many citizens of this community and district heard with considerable regret of the recent decision of Rev. H. B. Neal, D.D., minister of Cambridge Street United Church, who officially notified the Official Board and congregation that he had decided to make a change of pastoral relations at the end of June.

Because of the fact that Dr. Neal is so widely and favorably known throughout Trent Bay Quinte conference and to church officials in the province his decision has been received with much interest.

Following a very active ministry in various parts of Eastern Ontario and in the Ottawa Valley Rev. Dr. Neal was inducted in Cambridge Street United Church in Lindsay some 5 years ago and his ministry has been crowned with success. The church has experienced remarkable growth numerically, financially and spiritually and he has been untiring in his leadership and efforts in connection with the forthcoming erection of a large church hall, tenders for which will be received shortly.

As a community-minded citizen Rev. Dr. Neal has been identified with practically all worthwhile organizations, including Red Cross, the Ross Memorial Hospital, the schools, the Rotary Club, the Twenty Club (one of the oldest literary clubs in the province), the Curling Club, of which he is chaplain and a playing member, the Canadian Club, the Lindsay Ministerial Association and other institutions.

Rev. Dr. Neal has been active in presbytery and conference work. He is at present chairman of the Lindsay presbytery.

It is understood that Dr. Neal has signified his intention to leave his present pastorate and that he has been approached regarding attractive opportunities to serve the church, which he is seriously considering.

Note: Mr. Neal was pastor of Bethany United Church (Bethany) for some years.

'Barriers' Preventing Couples From Adopting Children Can Be Surmounted Kiwanians Told

There are 18 children, under the age of 12 years, available for adoption at the Belleville Children's Aid Society on West Moira St. All of these kiddies are normal in every respect, except that they do not have mothers and fathers.

Bruce M. Kerr, director of the Belleville CAS, told members of the Kiwanis Club yesterday that four "barriers" prevent couples from adopting, but, when viewed logically, these invisible hurdles are easily surmounted.

"One of the most insurmountable 'barriers' is the political boundary between countries and, to a certain extent, between provinces. A second is religion. A child born to wedlock is either Roman Catholic, Protestant or Jew, according to the religious designation of his parents. If born out of wedlock, a child takes on the religion of his mother. The third 'barrier' is poverty, which, our failure to accept racial groups is

CHANGING WORLD

This changing world — now there is a familiar phrase. Not all the changes, though, are in customs and in man's machines.

The U.S. National Geographic Society, which reports on customs past and present in its monthly magazine, also has some changes to record in its maps.

Ah, yes, one says, political boundaries alter.

That they do, as any whose school-days were of pre-war vintage will speedily recognize if they look at a mid-century map of the world.

These changes, though, are not the only ones which must be recorded on maps.

Besides plotting out little countries like Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and recording the birth of new nations like Pakistan and India, the National Geographic maps must show some alterations in such physical features as the height of mountains and the depth of the oceans.

Mountains have not grown, nor seas deepened, but it has been learned that previous estimates were inaccurate. Mount Everest, for example, is now shown as 29,028 feet high, a 26-foot jump.

Incidentally, although Everest soars highest into the clouds, Mauna Kea is the greatest difference between the altitude of its base and that of its peak is Mauna Kea, a Hawaiian landmark. It stands only 13,796 feet above the sea, but extends from the surface of the waves 30,000.

Deepest hole in the earth, though, is Challenger Depth, southwest of Guam. Located only six years ago, in 1951, by the British ship Challenger, it has a depth of 35,640 feet. Mount Everest could be dropped in it and its peak would still be a mile and a quarter below the surface. Even Mauna Kea would be buried by almost half a mile of water.

MOVE OVER, MR. POLICEMAN

When it comes to traffic problems, editorial writers for the Ontario Intelligencer have a one-track mind.

It is concentrated on cars which turn right on green lights at the intersection of Bridge and Front streets.

In the past couple of years, three people have shared editorial writing here. One at a time, shortly after they started their chores, they produced an editorial on this subject. Each attacked it in his own way, but all, in editorials, handed in his first. You guessed it — it was on turning traffic. Asked to suggest the subject for an editorial, a deskman produced an instantaneous suggestion — and got the expected right.

All opinions are the same. Something should be done about it.

One thing that might be done about it, the editorial room agrees, is to persuade the policeman on the beat that the best place to stand is the south-west corner of the intersection. This is where the 2 traffic regulations right instead of continuing to Pinnacle Street.

Maybe, just maybe, some extra-timid motorist will hesitate to run down a pedestrian when he is looking right into the eyes of the law.

COAL DUST AIDS NAVIGATION

Because their climates are similar, and because they are both huge countries rich in natural resources, Canada and Russia have much in common despite the differences in their political systems and in the outlook of their people.

So it is many of the problems with which Russian scientists are grappling are also problems for Canadians, and any solutions the Russians discover may be applicable here.

Latest proof of this is provided by a UNESCO report that the Russians have discovered an ingenious and inexpensive method of speeding up the spring thaw on ice-bound shipping routes.

They just applied the principle that white surfaces reflect most of the sun's rays, whereas black surfaces absorb them.

In experiments on an inland lake 200 miles north of Moscow, they covered the ice on certain parts of the lake with coal dust. The covered ice melted eight or ten days in advance of the ice in areas which were not treated.

The cost of this exnerirment, it is said, was considerably less than conventional methods of ice-breakers or explosives normally used for this work.

Here is a possible method of hastening the opening of navigation on narrow waterways, such as the new St. Lawrence seaway. Proximity to great coal-mining areas in the U.S. should make the necessary coal-dust available at a reasonable cost.

MOTORIST'S PARADISE

Dutch treat.

That's what we need this summer, Dutch treat, complimentary.

The Netherlands National Tourist Office announces that "the Sunday driving ban in the Netherlands does not apply to motor vehicles which according to their number plate belong to foreigners."

Now there's a real tourist attraction. Imagine having the highway practically to oneself on Sunday's Sunday drive?

Well, not quite to oneself. "Autocycles" — motorcycles to us — are exempted from the ban which is, of course, the result of the oil shortage following the closing of the Suez Canal.

It has its needs for all instead."

Hero of Today, TV Style

By William F. McDermott in the Cleveland Plain Dealer

By courtesy of the television machine, I have seen hundreds of drama in the last few months. Out of this indigestible and phantasmagoric experience a few impressions remain clear. One of them is that the young heroes of the televised plays are cast in a mold which can not be distinguished as a model of human life.

They are all much the same. Their common denominator is complete polse, unfailing decisiveness and superb physical bravery.

Though a gun is pointed at their hearts they do not lose their aplomb, their readiness or their quickness of tongue. Indeed, they are sometimes rash enough to try to disarm the villain with their bare hands and they are often miraculously successful in this highly hazardous enterprise.

Although they are essentially calm they nearly always manage to get into a fight. These pugilistic encounters are not of the slugging and mauling variety, as a matter of routine, the hero knocks down his enemy with a single blow.

The fist fight lasts for an immoderately long time. First the hero is knocked down, then the person who knocks down his opponent. They slug and kick, clinch and wrestle, roll over the floor or fall down cliffs, throw lamps and chairs at any other article of household furniture at each other until one of them is laid to the count. Sometimes after they roll, down from the table, down from the hill, though the valley and up the mountains. No rules are stated no holds barred, no place respected.

The television plays, which are often old movies, suggest that free-for-all fist-fighting is an ordinary American avocation, and the impression they give in respect must be misleading to our foreign friends. I get around in a number of way among normal people and I haven't seen a real fist-fight since I was a young boy.

I suppose they are still going on, but certainly not as frequently as they are pictured in television plays or, for that matter, in a certain type of printed detective fiction, where they are so emphasized that they represent either an absurdity or a perversity.

But the addiction to fisticuffs is only incidental in the character of the television heroic hero. What really distinguishes him is his imperturbability, his unruffled approach to the direct danger, his complete command of himself.

If the representative television hero does not exist in real life—and he is certainly most uncommon there—then he is an idealization of what people most admire and esteem and would choose to resemble.

If that is true, our model of manly worth is a man who revels in fist-fighting, who is a sure-shot and always quick on the draw, who has enormous poise and utter self-possession, who is quite oblivious to any personal danger.

He is our modern knight, our Lochinvar come from the West, or the "verray parfit gentil knight" of Chaucer, though he is not at all gentle.

How Winnie Made Sure

Montreal Gazette

Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke's diaries as revealed in the television series "War of the Tide", have been received by some as evidence that Sir Winston Churchill was a great trial as well as a great inspiration to his subordinates. They point to Alanbrooke's records of innumerable violent arguments over British military policy and British military plans which occurred between Prime Minister and the Chief of Imperial General Staff and between Prime Minister and the Joint Chiefs which the CIGS headed.

The diaries record attacks on the plans of his military experts seem to have been a deliberate part of his executive methods. Bryant himself hints at this in his preface when he says "important the plan put forward for decision, the more violent, the argument and lengthy would be the attack, often reducing the Saint Cabels to a condition of helpless exasperation.

Next day, in many cases Churchill would announce his decision; he would enthusiastically support the plan that the Chiefs had proposed, and which he had attacked.

This process proves that this was Churchill's intentional method of exposing the weaknesses and flaws in the proposal; by arousing tempers, he sought to make his colleagues expose themselves had any lingering doubts. When satisfied on these points, he gave his approval.

It must have been extremely wearing for a man under him; they had to be strong men as well as competent. Sir John Dill, with his wife's fatal illness haunting him, could not take the strain and Alanbrooke was summoned to succeed him.

In Britain's position, such harsh methods were excusable, if they worked. Churchill was not just "letting off steam" under the strain of political struggle. He was testing the work and the men who was better than she, kept making her a better pianist. She are always influenced by good advice though we are not always willing to accept it.

We are so influenced by those that there is hardly an article in our homes that doesn't show the influence of some manufacturer. We keep looking back to those influences and as we grow older their memory blesses us. How wonderful is the influence of a great man upon his time and age. Men of a rare mold like Lincoln, for example, whose influence is greater today than nearly a hundred years ago.

Radio May Be Driving Aid

St. Catharine's Standard

It may soon be possible to drive a car in a busy fog aided by tone signals emitted from the car radio. And the same electronic devices could also be used in warning motorists of dangerous inclines ahead.

The source of information relative to these coming events is an official of the United States Public Roads Bureau. He reports that a tone radio system could be installed along highways to warn cars of accidents ahead. By means of the electronic devices, messages would be delivered by cutting in on the auto radios, and also would give the road bearings to drivers in a fog.

Signals from the road also warn of the approach of a drunken or a sleeping driver! And that, thought brings to mind another forecast, that of a leading traffic engineer, who says that in 25 years radio beams, directed from a control plant, will be used to halt cars at a red light—whether the driver is alert, drunk or just dreaming of his wasted youth."

And it would seem that in view of the ever increasing and increasing numbers continue to kill and maim thousands and others, some such drastic action is necessary. We could hope, however, that the driver element in the forecast might be reduced, or if the rate of highway deaths continues to mount as it has in recent years motorists may be too few to need the drastic action suggested.

Beer Barrel Polka O.K.?

Leithridge Herald

The liquor report reveals that the control board has been receiving with its background music in beer, parlors, and recommends that such music be permitted.

What kind of music will the liquor board deem fit for the ears of beer parlor patrons? The Drinking Song from "The Student Prince" will of course be out, along with that more plebeian ballad in which the drinker is asked to drink to he is. "All day I faced the barren waste without the taste of water cool, clear water" might be harmless enough, though its effect on prohibitionists is not predictable. But "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" would give every man number a chance to get alone stronger beverages.

Yet it strikes us the Liquor Board is creating a thorny problem for itself.

The Propagation of Respiratory Infections

How does one catch smallpox? Measles? Scarlet fever? Influenza (grip, flu)? Diphtheria? Meningitis (cerebrospinal fever)? Poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis)? Mumps? Colds (ing) tuberculosis? Tonsilitis? Pharyngitis (sore throat)? Laryngitis?

These diseases (there are others) are all respiratory infections. In all of these diseases the entrance of the infective agent (germ or virus) into the body is usually via the nose and mouth.

This does not mean that you catch the disease by breathing air in which the germ or virus is afloat. Probably most of us breathe in some germs of the respiratory infections every day, with impunity, for two reasons: first the natural mucus covering the lining of nose, throat, larynx, bronchial tubes and lungs entraps such germs and the wandering cells, popytes in the mucus destroy them; second, disease germs are extremely delicate little things and they cannot survive exposure to room temperature and air for any very dry environment. If they are to live, grow, multiply and produce disease they require food, warmth, darkness, and moisture. So that germs floating in the air or on dust particles are killed or rendered harmless by drying, cold, light. Were this not true we'd all perish.

The mucus, covering healthy mucous membranes lining the linings soft, lubricates and protects the mucous membranes much better than can any gargle or spray. The morbid habit of using "antiseptic" and "deodorant" "throat vent" respiratory infection more likely favors colds because the washing away for a while the natural protective mucus.

The germs you inhale in the air are comparatively harmless, whereas the germs coughed, sneezed or sprayed on you in ordinary conversation are very warm, moist and protected by light — a vigorous working sample of what's over the distributor has.

Some of the respiratory infections you catch in the spray of cough, sneeze or conversation are specific, that is, the virus of small pox or the virus of measles, spread in this way, causes only smallpox or measles. But the germs of scarlet fever or the germ of pneumonia, spread in mouth or nose discharges, may cause sore throat or bronchitis respectively. The pneumococcus is especially dangerous in this respect. As it is transferred from person to person by coughing, sneezing, conversation spray it may cause such things as quinsy or pneumonia.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Visiting some friends recently, I was sitting listening to the afternoon symphony while one of the women of the house was quietly reading a paperback novel, with intense concentration.

Shortly before the Brahms symphony ended, she closed the book with a snap and tossed it aside. She had finished it.

She sat dreaming with the music, and when it concluded, I asked her casually:

"What were you reading?"

She looked a little puzzled, glanced over at the table where the paperback lay, pondered a brief moment and then looked with a laugh at me.

"Do you know," she exclaimed, "I can't know!"

"What nonsense!"

"No, it's a fact," she declared. "I couldn't tell you for the life of me what it was about. . . ."

And I realized she could not. There are countless readers of light literature, as we may call paperback books, who live in the same predicament. It is a weird age we live in. They read a paperback as they might go for a walk from which they come home unable to recall a single thing they might have seen on their walk. Our minds are elsewhere, especially when we read.

"Well, sir," said a friend I met down town, "I got a great kick out of your Packsack yesterday. Or was it the day before?"

"What was it about?" I enquired.

"Well, uh . . ." and he couldn't remember. But it gave him a great kick.

"You should remember what it was about," he accused hotly. "I mentioned it yesterday! You know!"

But we both got a great kick out of it, whatever it was.

Love Letter By a Robot

BBC London Letter

"Dear Jewel, you are my impatient ardour, my seductive picture. You are my unsatisfied fondness, my avid rapture. My yearning fervently aches for your garden fellow feeling. Yours wistfully, MUC." Any young woman who had received such a passionate avowal of love would probably have some difficulty trying to identify the sender from his initials. She would be inclined to find that the letter had, in fact, been composed by the Manchester Automatic Computer — a nimble fellow who would just as soon let himself go on a love letter as on a game of chess.

It was not surprising that a flood of enquiries followed a talk broadcast recently in the BBC's Pacific Program in which 26-year-old writer Jeremy Sandford quoted some of MUC's more pourings and illustrated also the feats of electronic computers and computers of music. Ardent young men with little gift for expression must have felt a new hope dawn when they heard that not only can a computer be taught to spell and obey the laws of harmony, but "it will produce fifty love letters while the humble lover is still sucking his pen." Also interviewed after the broadcast, Mr. Sandford admitted that MUC is far too expensive for the man in the street; although it can write a love letter in a few minutes, it takes about a shilling a second to operate, and frankly it was designed in the first place for a six-day week on business problems more urgent than love letters. MUC, of course, can only do what it has been taught to do and we must assume that it will be would be useless to try to switch it from one subject to another in mid-sentence. MUC, like a gentleman, would simply stop writing.

Mr. Sandford disclosed, "something it gets out of hand and starts writing love letters. And when they were married in London on February 14 (St. Valentine's Day) a robot composed and no hand in providing the music. It had been composed by the bridegroom and two friends.

OTHERS' INFLUENCE

We have no idea how greatly influenced we are by others.

Every person we meet influences us in some way. And we are not only influenced by people but by what they perform. Like creating evidence that "may look terrible on us, but which are the styles!" We feel "out of date" if we don't follow the ways of others.

Being influenced by another human being, however, is an everyday affair. And, we are influenced by what we read in our newspapers and in books. I had a classmate in college that told me that his reading of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" changed his entire life. A writer has a powerful weapon in the book that he, or she, writes. Many a book has influenced millions.

EXHILARATING EXPERIENCE

In a book published recently on juvenile delinquency, there appeared the story of a chap sent to prison before he was twenty-one and kept there for about twenty-five years. At last, he was paroled. Almost immediately he was in trouble again and returned to the institution. He told the officers that he had found it absolutely impossible to adjust himself to the outside world and expressed great relief at being behind prison walls again. "I can't tell you," he said, "how glad I am to be back."

This is the story of an inverted kind of happiness. It is the happiness of the person who wants to avoid responsibility and who desired security and protection from the events of life since experience has taught him that he was perfectly happy behind prison bars. To him, nothing was so dreadful in real life as-it must be faced by most of us.

The weakness which this man manifested is more widespread than we are sometimes aware. Many people cannot face life as it is. Sometimes they just step aside and let life sweep by them. There are others who try to anesthetize themselves to life by the use of alcohol or dope. Probably the great majority of number crawl down into the recesses of their own lives and there live timidly and quietly. Such is not life. It is an exhilarating experience.

Ontario Marketing Problems May Need Law Amendments

OTTAWA (CP)—Some federal authorities have raised serious doubts that Ontario's farm marketing schemes can be granted full fund-raising powers without far-reaching amendments to federal laws.

These authorities feel that even amendments now being considered in the Ontario legislature may no more than cover the surface, and not the roots, of the multitude of legal entanglements raised by the Supreme Court of Canada.

There that appears to be a question of whether the federal government will proceed with amendments to marketing laws at the current session of Parliament as requested by national and provincial farm bodies.

CRITICIZED SCHEMES

The producer marketing schemes came under Supreme ... grounds that their plans to provide a pool of money by levying a fee on the sale of their products was unconstitutional and that some of their sales were penetrating into interprovincial trade —a sphere which could be controlled only by the federal government.

Recently a delegation of farm representatives called on the federal government to arm these marketing boards with sufficient fund-raising powers so that they might build up pools to help equalize farm earnings.

But legal officials here consider this proposal no more than a request for endowment of federal powers to raise indirect taxes. They say it would be unusual for an elective body to hand over such powers to a non-elective organization, including marketing boards.

Meanwhile, the Ontario government moved to amend its farm marketing laws in an attempt to overcome the legal breaches opened by the Supreme Court in January. The province and farmers asked the federal government to pass complementary legislation so that the amendments might apply on provincial as well as interprovincial trade.

But among some federal officials there is a feeling that the Ontario amendments are not satisfactory.

ONUS SAID WRONG

One amendment, it is said here, would make a farmer accused of not complying with the marketing schemes responsible for proving that his product did not properly fall under the scheme. In other words, the onus of proof would be on the accused and not on the accuser.

Another amendment would allow a judge to find an accused guilty without prior charge or notice. A farmer or other person could be charged with failing to comply with the Ontario act and ... stand up the judge could find him guilty under the ... act without giving the accused notice of a switch in charges.

There are doubts in federal quarters that the central administration would support such an amendment. And there is doubt, too, that such an amendment would stand up before the courts.

A prominent view is that the entire ambit of provincial farm marketing schemes will have to come under long and searching scrutiny, and that an entirely new approach may have to be undertaken. One view is that the boards should be reshaped and reconstituted primarily under federal jurisdiction with the provinces later arming them with local powers.

However, that kind of review may involve months of work. Not much, if anything, is expected to take place at the current session of Parliament which may be dissolved on or before April 12 for a June general election.

'JESUS LOVED THEM'

by Patrick and Garrison

MOTHER OF JOHN

"And many women were there beholding afar off, which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him: Among which was . . . the mother of Zebedee's children."

—Matthew XXVII:55-56

Bible scholars agree that the name of the Beloved Disciple's mother was probably Salome.

They base this belief on the fact that the passage in Mark XV:40, parallel to that quoted above, refers to her by that name.

It is further conjectured on reliable grounds that she was probably the sister of Mary, the mother of Jesus.

From the scanty account given of her in the Gospel narrative, it is evident that she, like her sons John and James, was a devoted follower of Jesus, who was present at the Crucifixion and assisted at His entombment.

Matthew, in his Gospel (XX:20) relates that on one occasion she came to Jesus with her two sons, "desiring a certain thing of him."

"And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom."

But Jesus told her:

"Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?"

Both John and James, says Matthew, assured Jesus that they were able to drink of His bitter cup. And Jesus agreed that "ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand and on my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father."

Mrs. Huff was the recipient of several fine gifts and pretty cards bearing good wishes for the occasion, and a prettily decorated birthday cake.

Weddings

KEMP — FORGE

Beneath an archway of evergreens, tulips, pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells, a lovely house wedding was solemnized on Saturday, March 16, at 2.30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Forge, Trenton R.R. 3, when their daughter, Shirley Beverley, became the bride of Vernon D. R. Kemp, of Carrying Place, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kemp. The Reverend C. E. Clarke officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in a pink ensemble with white feathered hat, white accessories and corsage of red roses.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Marilyn Christopher, as bridesmaid, who wore a blue ensemble with pink accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Allan Forge, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held at the bride's parents' home, where the immediate family guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing green figured gown with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in navy with pink accessories, and corsage of deep pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore her wedding suit. Upon their return, Mr and Mrs. Kemp will reside at Carrying Place, Ontario.

Don Cameron Addresses AOTS On 'Christian Living'

The regular pot-luck supper meeting of the Bridge Street Unit of Church A.O.T.S. club was held recently with the ladies of Mrs. Fuke's and Mrs. Cathers' groups serving an excellent meal piping hot to a large attendance of members and visitors.

Considerable success was noted in a drive to provide the church with a tape recorder, ingenious methods are being devised by members to increase their talent money. Recognition is being offered for the most novel idea as well as the best money making idea.

Bill Blatherwick conducted this month's short inspirational devotional period.

GUEST SPEAKER

The highlight of the evening was an address by Don Cameron, the president of the Toronto Conference Men's Council. Mr. Cameron pointed out in his address that many laymen are only lukewarm Christians.

To explain his philosophy, Mr. Cameron used the example of his own life. He was born and reared in a Christian church-going environment, at an early age, he taught Sunday School and worked in many church organizations. His own home is based on Christian standards.

Mr. Cameron stated, however, that his Christian training received a shock when he was in his 30's. He was faced with teaching an Adult Sunday School class with no special course to follow. He began then, and only then, to form a Christian philosophy of his own. He admitted that his success has only been partial.

Mr. Cameron thinks that there are many laymen who have not yet sought God's help and formulated their own philosophy of Christian life, and their Sacrificial living as half Christian.

The speaker concluded by pointing out that God's power is open to all if they want it.

GOING SHOPPING?

Monday when T & T went about its weekly shopping routine it was sunny and fairly mild, but still with a promise of spring in the air. It was very refreshing, after seeing picnic hampers all ready for sale, to come home to learn that a terrific blizzard with snow was in the making. Throughout many parts of the United States the housewife was not paying any attention to picnic equipment. As we type, we had have been warned that the blizzard, although blowing itself out, is headed our way. Our altruism prompts us to feel understandably for our southern cousins while our self-interest prompts us to hope that we will be spared the terrible disruption to the south. But that is spring for you — especially the part of spring that is in the month of March, the unpredictable.

Not quite so incongrous as the picnic hampers are the building and gardening tools that are sprouting on shelves and counters all over town. We can still plan gardens and spring alterations in the midst of a blizzard. Piles of shiny hammers and trowels are tempting to the doer and the dreamer alike. And those little bags of seed bed material can be held in readiness for just the right time.

Fanciful as they may sometimes seem, women's clothes are not rushing this thing too fast; "this thing" is intended to mean "women's clothes are not rushing spring too fast." Wool is every bit as much in evidence as ever and seems to retain its exclusive position in the realm of fabrics.

Very new for Spring are three-piece 100 percent wool ensembles from Scotland made up of skirt blouse and jacket all of one material. These can be used as a dress unit as well as a suit; or favorite sweaters may be worn with skirt and jacket. These are also imported in a blend of wool and silk material.

Cashmere coats always give off an aura of luxury and perfection. Some of these are styled with beautifully yoked backs and soft flares below. The colors are especially lovely —one in particular looked as if a bit of lemon-lime had been mixed with champagne.

Another woollen item is noteworthy; this is the heavier-weight casual sweater for over the shoulder wear. There are indications that the heavier sweaters in this style may be more popular than the finer knit.

Man-made fibre sweaters — especially the embroidered orlon with the cashmere finish, have proven themselves very much in demand.

A sure fire hit for a spring is the glorified car coat made of wide wale corduroy, cut so that the wale runs horizontally. You can find these in attractive and practical shades of black and beige.

Sure fire to please, too, is the drop in price of tea and coffee. The price of some of our finest frozen fish has also been reduced. These reductions, along with the continuing bargain values in eggs, give us excellent supplies of protein food at economical prices. It is a welcome change to report modest decreases in food products, but whether it can be compared to a silver lining in the dark cloud of a rising index, we do not know. T & T is unconvinced.

Pineapples are very good this spring, large and sweet; there also continues to be good values in bananas, and the most nutritious of fruits. Good shopping!

We have observed comment both extolling and criticizing the practical values, as well as the less practical sportsmanship worth, of having Olympic games. One thing seems certain about the recent games in Australia — the financial losses were considerable. The Federal government came to the aid of the State of Victoria.

Women were admitted to the Bar of the province of Nova Scotia forty years ago. They did not achieve professional equality without a fight. Forty barristers entered a petition asking that women be denied this equality and right.

LACK VACATIONS

QUEBEC (CP) — The central committee of the Quebec diocese welfare council says a survey shows 26 per cent of the city's children never leave the city during summer holidays. About 44 per cent spend a week or more in the country, and the remainder share in group activities and spend some time at holiday camps.

Fine Easter Message Heard By Holloway W.A.

The Junor Woman's Association of Holloway Street Unitied Church recently entertained the senior group in the church parlors. There was a large representation from both groups.

The ladies were given a hearty welcome by both presidents, Mrs Brown and Mrs. Hutt.

After a bright opening and short business period conducted by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hutt presided for an excellent program. Mrs. McCauley presided at the piano for quiet music and the hymns, which were chosen with the Easter message.

The call to worship was also based on Easter, given by Mrs Hutt. The theme of the program was "The Lord's Supper." The passage of Scripture pertaining to this was read by Mrs. Richardson from St. Matthew's gospel.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Helen Joblin introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Hill, of Trenton, who gave a lovely Easter message in prose and verse. In a unique way in imagination back to the Messiah on the Jerusalem road. The important events in Jesus' life were recorded climaxing in the giving of His life for the sins of the world. Here on the cross, He accepted with willingness and strength, the tortures, for man's redemption.

Mrs. Slack gave a fine commentary on the colored picture by De Vince, of the Last Supper. This was thrown on a large screen and a study of the picture in detail was much enjoyed.

The whole theme was climaxed when Mrs. Ann Davidson sang, "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mr. Templer.

Mrs. Digby expressed the pleasure of the audience for this inspiring Easter program.

A Bible questionaire was conducted by Mrs. Moore.

Refreshments were served by the members of the Junior W.A.

The treasurer, Mrs. Campbell was complimented on the efficient way in which the books were kept, by Mrs. Scott, one of the auditors. A most successful year was reported.

"Galloping Tess" are becoming popular among the Junior W.A.

The Rev. A. McDowell of Eastminster, will show and comment on illustrated slides on Banff at the April meeting. Mrs. Sinfield's group will be in charge.

The committee on the apron booth for the bazaar announced a fine donation of print from two local department stores and solicited assistance in making this print into aprons.

Mrs. Brown thanked the W.A. on behalf of the senior group for a fine evening.

Mrs. Coleman closed the meeting with prayer.

Women's S.G. Views Film On 'Conformity'

The Women's Study Guild met at the home of Mrs. George Wishart for the regular March meeting.

Miss Tickell presided at a short business session and the coming film festival was announced. The topic of the April meeting will be "Big Business."

Mrs. Arnold Orr led the worship service based on the Easter theme. The celebration of Easter coincides with the spring season, and there are still traces of the pre-Christian festivities in some of the present customs. "Easter should revive faith as nature revives. Remembering all growth is by God's plan. Our inward revival should show in our outward behavior."

Mrs. Orr illustrated her theme with poems, customs of various lands and times, and thoughts of renewed faith and a better attitude to life.

A film, produced by the National Film Board, was shown. It was entitled "Conformity, Are People Sheep?" and questioned the conformity of customs to popular opinion. The problem of the adult or adolescent conforming in dress, manner or colour to the popular form was depicted and was commented upon by two Canadian students of human behavior, Dr. Everett Bovard of Toronto University and Dr. Brock Chisholm, recently head of the World Health organization.

Discussion, led by Mrs. Elmer Risto, followed the showing and was lively and helpful.

Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Genels were hostesses and served tea.

During this social hour, a shower of gifts and good wishes was given to a member who has recently come from Hungary to establish a new life and home in Belleville.

Winning Ottawa's civil service beauty contest, Marilyn Walker, 22, has a choice of several prizes but she finds it hard to decide which to accept. She can go on a trip to Europe; or a trip to New York; or go on a Caribbean cruise; or take $225 cash.

Women's Activities

HOLY TRINITY W.A.

The regular meeting of Holy Trinity Women's Guild, Shannonville, was held recently at the home of Mrs. T. Whittle with the president, Mrs. S. Fitzgerald, presiding.

Roll call was answered by ten members.

Mrs. Kincaid thanked the ladies for valentines and presented the guild with a lovely box of candy.

A presentation was made to Mrs. K. Stewart in appreciation of eight years as secretary of the guild. After the meeting was closed by the president, the program, by Mrs. B. Cooke, was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Whittle, and her daughters, Mary and Joy, and a social hour spent.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. Wilson on Thursday.

Bringing Up Baby

MINUTE CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Jean Baker (NURSED AT 3)

A baby can judge the world only by the gentleness and punctuality with which his wants are met. When you make your baby's world comfortable and friendly you help him develop security that will stand him in good stead throughout his lifetime.

Equal rights. I heard a doctor once say that the only trouble with bottle-feeding is that the mother can see the amount left in the bottle and her natural instinct is to try to make baby finish it. Surely a bottle-fed baby should have the same right as the breast-fed baby—the right to stop feeding when he's had enough.

Nutritionally, sound thinking. Vitamin C, so necessary for sound gums, teeth and body tissues, is usually added to baby's diet in the early months. Gerber Strained Orange Juice provides baby with this important vitamin in a pleasant, refreshing way. It's made from tree-ripened oranges, specially selected for mild flavor, pleasing color and a high vitamin C content. Most of the seed oil is removed for easy digestibility.

Clever, these mothers. I'm thinking about the one who slips large-size plastic bowl covers over baby's carriage wheels after each outing. Claims they really spare the rims when she rolls the carriage into the house.

Five for your adorable one. Gerber Cereal—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal make it easy to give baby the variety he'll soon learn to want. They're all precooked and have a wonderfully smooth texture when mixed with milk or formula. For a nutritional "plus" they're fortified with iron, chicken and B-vitamins.

Isn't it reassuring to know that when you start your baby with Gerber you can depend on the name brand throughout babyhood? Gerber has a type of food for every baby need. Over 75 varieties of Cereals, Strained and Junior Foods. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

ADVICE to The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NEXT TIME SHE'LL KNOW WHAT TO SAY

There's a whole lot of difference between being cynical—that is, believing everybody is out to fool you—and being smart enough to realize when one specific person is trying to fool you, and it's never too early to begin learning to be that kind of smart.

One of the relatively common situations to which this applies is the one described in the following letter:

"There is a man who works in the same office I do who keeps asking me to go out to dinner with him. For a long time I refused, because I knew he was married and I'm not a girl who go.s in for that sort of thing.

"Recently, however, he told me that, while he understood and respected me for my principles, he did have a problem that he wanted to talk over with someone and he felt I would be understanding and give him some good advice. So I consented to have dinner with him.

"What he told me was that he is not happy with his wife because she has never really understood him or given him the affection a man wants from his wife. He said that as soon as their two children are a little older, he intends to a divorce. Then he gave me the greatest surprise of my life by saying that he had come to love me during our association in the office and that he wanted to ask me to wait until he was free to marry and in the meantime to be his friend. He is probably in his late thirties and I am 18.

"I felt very sorry for him, and thought perhaps I've been too timid about spending an evening with him now and then. If it will help him to have me for a friend, I'd like to do it, and yet I hesitate, because, as I said, I've never gone out with a married man."

Right now is the time for this girl to know—since she apparently doesn't yet—that the story of the man whose wife doesn't understand him is one of the oldest gags in history and one of the most frequently used by husbands out looking for adventure. There is probably no woman living who hasn't heard it at one time or another in her life.

The trouble is, as seems to be the case here, that the inexperienced girl is apt to believe what this type of man tells her. She not only believes it, but she is flattered to think that an older man will confide his troubles to her. Usually he is able to build up quite a story about his unhappiness and make her feel very sorry for him and maternal toward him.

So far, this particular case history runs true to form. Let's hope that our girl will be one to think twice before letting it run true to form any further.

For once the misunderstood husband has got a girl feeling sorry for him, she is ripe for the next step, which is for him subtly to convey the impression that she and she alone, can make up to him for his unhappiness. From then on, she is usually easy game.

The next thing she knows, and all too often for most unfortunate reasons, she begins to get anxious and wonder just how long it's going to be before that divorce comes through. At that moment, the beautiful, understanding friendship comes to a sudden end, the girl is left alone and the man goes on to tell the sad story of his marital unhappiness to his next victim.

It's too bad that this girl wasn't ready with the only answer to the tale of the misunderstood husband. If she had been, she would have said: "You can stop right there. I've heard that one before." But when the next invitation to dinner comes along it still won't be too late to say: "Now that we heard the story, let's stop here."

STERN VIEWS

PRINCETOWN, England (CP)—Seeking a stand-in for movie star Jean Simmons, a team making location films here on Dartmoor for the film Until They Sail asked an attractive young woman in a milk bag her name. It was Mrs. Gary Cooper, wife of a New Zealander. She got the job.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY — STOP THINKING AND RELAX

To "Think" may be the order of the busy hours, but when it's time to relax body, give your mind a rest, too.

Maybe those big executives who put up signs around the office saying "Think," are outsmarting themselves. Comes word from an expert in management affairs, who points out that insomnia is sometimes a real occupational hazard in the lives of busy executives. They think so hard all day that they can't stop at night, when they need to sleep. Well, it's difficult to train your mind to have an idea here and there — and then tell it to stop all of a sudden! However, there is a real aid to mental and physical relaxation that anybody can resort to. And it's simply this: a warm bath.

Take it before getting to bed or before sitting down to dinner after a trying day. Actually, the warm water pulls the blood away from the overworked brain. And the nice foamy lather soothes the skin and muscles, taking out the kinks. A leisurely, sit-down bath, of course, is recommended for the greatest degree of relaxation. If this isn't practicable at the moment, a warm shower is next best.

But why are we confining this conversation to office executives? The woman who stays home and manages a family is an executive, too. She probably thinks so herself as her husband does all day. The cost of food, the children's school problems, the sprigs that are sagging out of the sofa, the community drive that needs her attention—all these things can add up to one big worry. So remember about that warm bath cure, and don't stay awake nights thinking.

As a matter of fact, if you're a homemaker, you have a better break than the executive in this connection. You don't really have to wait until bedtime to stop thinking. You can freeze!l a mid-afternoon slump before the youngsters burst in full of school chatter. A ten minute soaking and scoping in the bathtub is just "what the doctor ordered" to pick up drooping spirits. While you're running the warm water into the tub, pin your hair out of the way and give yourself a soothing soap facial. Gently massage your face with generous handfuls of suds. Rinse well, first with warm water and then with a dash of cold to close the pores again. Next, stretch out in the bathtub—relax completely and let the irritations and annoyances of the day drift from your mind. Don't even think about dinner preparations for these few minutes.

With rest period over, soap yourself well to remove oil and perspiration that have accumulated during the day. You may want to rinse under the shower. Finally, to stimulate your blood circulation, towel dry with vigorous rubbing until your skin tingles. Put on clean underwear, fresh dress, and your brightest smile. When your family comes home, you'll be ready to greet them enthusiastically, and what could please them more?

CHILD EXPERTS

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Catholic Child Bureau, a worldwide technical organization devoted to the problems of childhood, will hold its sixth world congress here Sept. 2-6. About 100 delegates from 72 countries will attend at the University of Montreal with the conference theme this year being "the Church and the Child."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: TACT IN CONVERSATION

Here's a revealing check-up for you . . . watch your conversation for a week or so and see if you use "I" oftener than you use "you." How many times oftener do you use "I" . . . or don't you care to confess?

SHOULD THEY GIVE SECOND-WEDDING PARTY AND GIFT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our office it is the custom to give a party and a very nice present to a co-workers when she is married several years ago one of the girls in the office left to be married and as is customary we gave a party in her honor and gave her also a handsome electric clock, which several of us knew she wanted. Two years ago she was divorced, returned to work in our office, and now tells us that she is to be married for the second time. Several of the girls in our office think we should "skip" our usual plan to give a party and a present in this circumstance. Do you agree, or should we give a party for her and a wedding present? —Adele E.

It certainly isn't at all necessary to give her either a party or a present, and I shouldn't think she would expect it. However, if you all agree some gesture should be made, you might settle for 'skipping" the party, and each contribute a half-dollar, say to buy her a simple, little present (perhaps a pair of fingr-tip towels) to express your good wishes.

FIANCE'S FAMILY'S WELCOMING PROCEDURE TOO INDIRECT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Dear friends of ours have a son, 31 years old, who lives with them. He is engaged to a girl, and the engagement has already been announced. But his parents haven't met her parents. She comes to their house quite a bit, and his father told her that he and his wife would like to meet her parents, and has also told his son that. She doesn't agree.

A few weeks ago the young man's father asked him to invite her parents to come to see them, and they refused to come. We and all of their friends think it's a shame that they refused. The girl's parents are old-fashioned, and they are of a religion different from the religion of the fiance and his family. The marriage will be soon, so please advise us as soon as possible. — A Friend

Since it is the responsibility of the engaged man's parents to make the first social move to the girl's family, I advise the fiance's parents to try to establish this important relationship between the two families as soon as possible, even though at this late date. Apparently the fiance's father is aware that this important and significant meeting-of-the-two-families should be brought about, but he hasn't used direct means to bring it about. He tells his son his wishes and he tells the girl his wishes, but this round-about way of doing it is futile.

My advice is that he and his wife now telephone to the girl's parents, telling them how happy they are about the engagement, how devoted they are to their son's fiancee, how happy and proud they are to welcome her into their family, and other warm-hearted parents-to-parents comments to bring the families together. Also, if possible, they should most cordially invite the girl's parents to come to visit them. If these friendly gestures don't get a friendly response, at least the young man's family have done their social duty.

HAVE YOU done every stitch you can think of, to help buttons withstand Junior's activities? How about a dab of colorless nail polish over the thread at the button side? It will protect the top threads from friction wear. Let it harden before it's used, of course.

Are Fish Moulds Too Realistic

By Mary Moore

In our family we swap moulds. I have a ring mould that is very popular, Peady has a large curved copper - finished fish mould I covet and borrow.

In it I moulded such a realistic-looking skinned salmon with sliced stuffed olives for eyes that it made small children giggle and old ladies quiver!

Wanta mouldia fish?

This is my sister Peady's recipe and actually it is summer stuff but this is such a fishy time of year, and come Easter you will be entertaining more, so clip this won't you? If you do not own a fish mould you can have it for 89c, or mould this in a loaf pan or round bowl or anything else you have handy. It will taste just as good.

PEADY'S SALMON (or tuna) MOULD

Two tablespoons gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, shake of cayenne, 4 egg yolks slightly beaten, 1½ cups milk, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups flaked salmon (or tuna), and, if desired, ½ teaspoon orange coloring and ½ teaspoon red coloring. (If you use the coloring you can buy the less expensive pink salmon.) Soften gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Combine seasonings, egg yolks and milk in top of double boiler and cook over hot water 6 to 8 minutes, stirring constantly. Add butter, lemon juice and gelatine stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and fold in salmon. Turn into fish mould and chill until firm. Unmould on bed of crisp lettuce or endive, garnish with radish roses, lemon and tomato wedges and serve with

CUCUMBER CREAM DRESSING

Dice finely enough pared cucumber to make 1 cup, removing most of the seeds. To it add 2 tablespoons each vinegar and sugar. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until stiff and fold it in. Prepare this just before serving time.

Note: For special occasions in the above recipe for salmon mould you may substitute flaked lobster. It is sensational, and if you want to do a professional chef's trick make

GELATINE MAYONNAISE

Combine 1¼ teaspoons plain gelatine with 2 tablespoons cold water. Let stand until thick then melt over boiling water, stirring. Add this warm melted gelatine mixture to 1 cup genuine thick mayonnaise and blend well. Use to pipe through icing tube to make a border around the fish mould and a stripe down centre of mould. Border this stripe of mayonnaise with rows of well-drained capers.

Note 2: This gelatine mayonnaise is good to use as the mayonnaise in salads and fillings that contain celery or other moist vegetables.

TASTY PIES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alderman A. E. Bennett, amateur chef who had been challenged to prove his cooking skills, whipped by placing three succulent, beautifully-browned steak and onion pies on the desk of city hall reporters. Their verdict: delicious.

Jeweled Beauty

By ALICE ALDEN

The right accent is very important in fashion. Chiffon, for instance, is the big fabric favorite of the season and to set off its filmy beauty to good advantage the jewelry should be delicate, dainty, and finite. Trifari has the answer in fine pieces composed of white, turquoise or coral beads each daintily set in textured gold tone, the bits artistically joined.

W.I. Conducts Meeting, Enjoys Jumping Jills' Fashion Show

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held recently in the town hall. There were about 50 members and visitors present, including the county president, Mrs. Smith, and several members of the "Jumping Jills" girls' club of Wellington and Glenford. The meeting was opened by Mrs. R. Ellis, president, who welcomed the members and visitors. It was decided that all outstanding fees be paid. A Thank you letter was read by Dr. Turpel (of the Health Clinic), thanking the W.I. for sending a lady to help them on clinic days in Wellington. Mrs. Jackson also moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Sam Yourt, who has attended most of these meetings.

Thank-you cards were also received from Mrs. William Yandle, Mrs. Ed Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Newton, Mrs. Ellis Durante, Mr. and Mrs. William Wannamaker and baby; Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Viola Vallean. An invitation to attend a short course in Hillier town hall April 1st was also read. It was decided to enter the Salada Tea contest again this year. The exhibit is to be a layette.

Mrs. Ellis brought up the subject of buying a gas stove for the kitchen; this was left for a committee of all the officers to decide upon. Two quilts are to be quilted in the near future. Be sure and come and help when the day is set.

Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Yourt were appointed a nominating committee to appoint a slate of officers at the next meeting.

Four ladies contributed to the birthday box, Mrs. R. Wight, Mrs. W. Foster, Mrs. E. Parliament and Mrs. S. Yourt.

Hostesses for the next meeting will be Mrs. William Adams, and Mrs. Welbanks.

PROGRAM

The following program was presented by the hostesses for the evening: Mrs. William Callow and Miss Edie Ward. Community singing of "Coming Through the Rye", with Mrs. F. Foster at the piano.

Dr. R. A. Thompson addressed the ladies on "Fats, Vitamins and Proteins", which proved most interesting to all. Several asked the doctor questions which he ably answered.

At the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Thompson told the ladies that the medical association was organizing for civil defence and as Prince Edward County would be a receiving area, everybody would have to help all they could. The president replied, stating that the W. I. would do anything to help out.

Mrs. J. Callow gave a poem of the month "Cold", which was amusing.

Miss Mary Cronk, assistant leader of the girls' club, gave a vivid account of her trip to the conference held in Vineland, in which she explained the various times spent in both work and recreation.

DESCRIBES WORK

Mrs. B. Cronk, leader of the girls' club, and Miss Mary Cronk, described the work done at the meeting held by the "Jumping Jills". They had on display dresses they had made this past year as their motto was "Cottons May be Smart."

While the girls were getting ready to put on a fashion show, the county president, Mrs. Smith, addressed the ladies, bringing greetings from the district. She also invited all to attend the district annual to be held in Hillier, June 5th, and suggested that an alternate delegate be selected to attend this event. Mrs. Smith was proud of the girls and their work which was on display. She finished with a reading, "Friendship", which started with the words, "True friends should see the best in each other."

The girls by this time were ready for their fashion show. With Mrs. Cronk as narrator — Miss Barbara Dick dressed in chocolate denim street dress with green and sand accessories; Mary Cronk, in charcoal and pink gingham; Sheila Dick in satin finished floral cotton with white accessories; Diana Dick in turquoise printed cotton, white accessories; June Carey in a floral blue print; Rhonda Cleave, geometrical printed dress with brown accessories; Sheila Cronk, in turquoise and tangerine gingham; Beverly Everall in green broadcloth; Patsy Shannon in pink sanforized broadcloth, and Beverly Hicks in full skirted blue broadcloth.

Each girl modelled her dress like a real professional.

Much credit is due their leaders. The girls also had their record books on display.

Mrs. Bush, who had accompanied Mrs. Smith, thanked the W. I. for its hospitality and closed with a poem, "It Pays to Advertise." This concluded the program.

Miss Edie Ward thanked everyone who had helped to make this interesting evening possible.

Mrs. Callow and Miss Ward, assisted by members of the W. I., served refreshments.

Tickets were sold on a lovely dolly which had been donated to the W.I. by Mrs. G. Whitney, with Mrs. Beatrice Smith holding the lucky ticket.

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

Cannas deserve an important place in the garden picture. Hybridizers have glorified the once rather common and harsh colored flower. Varieties are from two to eight feet in height, with green or dark scarlet, foliage, and bright or pastel flowers. Eureka is lovely white with bronze foliage, Rose Queen a salmon - pink with green leaves. They need rich soil, good drainage, full sun, protection from cold.

Bill Could Put Foster Home Out of Business

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, evangelistic grandmother whose children's home on her farm nine miles east of Oshawa now houses more than 100 children, said today a bill introduced in the Ontario legislature Monday will cost her $100,000.

The bill, given first reading, would require the registration and licensing of homes where more than five children not of common parentage are lodged, boarded or cared for. The bill, which if passed will become effective in July as the Children's Boarding Home Act, also gives provincial authorities the power to inspect the homes.

Mrs. Whyte said she was "struck dumb" by the proposed act.

MAY HAVE TO MOVE

"We have fought the harassment of petty officials here and everywhere to do for our homeless and unloved children of bad parents what no other home could do," she said. "If we find it impossible to carry on, why we will just pack up and move to another country, where democracy still lives."

Mrs. Whyte returned recently from a long lecture tour. En route, she said, "I found there are other countries where dedicated efforts like ours are appreciated. If the Lord wants us to close here, we will. But we will begin again in another country."

WIDE POWERS

Provincial welfare department officials denied the bill was aimed specifically at the haven for children of broken homes formed by Mrs. Whyte and her auto worker husband, Bert, eight years ago.

"But it will include Mrs. Whyte's home, and two or three others in Ontario so far not affected by any provincial law," they said.

The proposed legislation would give the welfare department power to cancel a licence for breach of sanitary, fire or other regulations.

Women Need Training Says YWCA Seminar

NEW YORK (CP)—Society discriminates against itself when it limits working opportunities for women, says Mrs. Adga Rossel of Sweden, chairman of the United Nations status of women commission.

Addressing a YWCA seminar meeting here Tuesday, Mrs. Rossel said economic discrimination not only deprives women of a fundamental human right. It also robs society of a valuable and available labor reserve.

Political rights and access of women and girls to education are the basis of economic opportunity she told delegates to the weeklong seminar jointly sponsored by the Canadian, United States and world YWCAs.

Twelve Canadians are among the 60 YWCA delegates attending the commission's sessions. The seminar is designed to relate YWCA work and action to the commission's work in the fields of women's political, civil, legal, social and educational status.

The YWCA seminar ends Friday, while the three-week meeting of the commission continues another week.

Mrs. Rossel told the group thinking about women's education must be more "radical."

Women now need training in Industrial fields, and it should begin with compulsory manual arts training for girls as well as boys, she said.

Women must learn to "handle tools and utilize the economic opportunities," she said. They need good vocational pr professional training to stay in, or return to, the labor market.

Departing Pastor, Family Honored By Congregation

Following a recent prayer meeting at Spry Settlement, held at the home of. and Mrs. Percy McCann, 70 members and friends assembled to honor the departing minister, the Reverend Albert Smith and his family, who were leaving for their new home in Belleville, with a farewell presentation, and to wish him God's best in his new work.

The address, which was read by Mrs. Jack Smith, of Madoc, expressed the deepest regret at their departure, and sincere appreciation for Mr. Smith's fearlessness and faithfulness in breaking the "Bread of Life" to his congregation in all its purity and truth, and for the wealth of spirituality and helpfulness in the stories told to the girls and boys by Mrs. Smith, "the best story teller ever." Also to Gail for her willingness as pianist and leader of the choruses, and to Lloyd for his splendid work in the song services, and the duets with his mother, and, that whenever time afforded, they would always find a "welcome" mat awaiting them.

Following the address, the presentation of a beautiful chenille bedspread was made to Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and to Gail and Lloyd —Bibles, for which the recipients graciously expressed their thanks and appreciation, as well as for the kind wishes which accompanied them.

Refreshments were served by the young matrons of the community.

Shannonville H-S Assoc. Discusses Playground Needs

The regular meeting of the Shannonville Home and School Association was held recently with 22 members present, with Mrs. McKenzie in the president's chair.

One minute of silence was held in tribute of a deceased member, Mrs. Nellie Howard.

Treasurer reported a bank balance of $294.06.

Membership convener reported 51 members to date, and the card convener reported one card sent out.

The parents' attendance went to Mrs. Gallahore and Mr. Sherry, a tie of nine parent's each.

Social convener for April is Mrs. Sero and new vice-president is Mr. H. Fuller.

There was an open discussion on playground equipment which is to be brought up at a later date.

The members spent a pleasant half hour in general discussions of Home and School topics.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the conveners of the month.

Wife Preservers

Gutters and downspouts should be checked frequently, whether wood or metal. They are sometimes sources of moisture penetration, and should be kept clean and well painted.

Women's Activities

BAYSIDE W.M.S.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The ladies of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society convened in the home of Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, with several visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Leonard Young as leader, assisted by the treasurer, Mrs. Lorne Hunt, held a quiz on facts pertinent to W.M.S. and W.A.

It was announced that the Belleville Presbyterial had reached its allocation with $700 surplus to be used for gifts for building advances. Part of this is to be used for a new mission hospital at Burns Lake, B.C. The present hospital at Burns Lake, which was built in 1929, will not accomodate the growing population of Burns Lake, and vicinity. Miss Elsie Hunt, Rec. N., is the superintendent at the present time.

Mrs. Walter Jones gave a chapter of the Study Book "East from Burma." Mrs. Everett Nicolson offered to continue the study at the April meeting.

One member paid dues.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ketcheson and a social time was enjoyed .

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson opened her home for the March meeting of White's Women's Association on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance of members, two visitors and several children.

The president, Mrs. R. Ketcheson presided opening with a reading "The World is Mine", followed by prayer.

Mrs. Everett Nicolson was devotional leader, opening with the singing of "There is a Green Hill Far Away", and prayer by the Rev. A. C. McCallum.

Mrs. William Yeteman read the Scripture John 3:14-17 and 19:11-20, giving the Easter story. Mrs. Nicolson gave the story of the lesson explaining the meaning of the cross for Jesus and His two fellow sufferers. "The cross should mean for us, love one for the other. Jesus went to the cross through devine love for us."

Mrs. Albert Hockaday gave an Easter reading "O'er the Wrecks of Time." Mrs. George Bilham rendered a solo "Up Calvary's Hill", which was much enjoyed by all. Mrs. Casey Ketcheson gave a reading "With the Cross Close By".

Mrs. Nicolson closed the worship service with prayer.

Mrs. Yeteman, Mrs. A. Ketcheson and Mrs. Young made donations to the birthday box and a "Happy Birthday" was sung.

Mrs. W. Jones was in charge of the program. Mrs. O. Ghent received a jar of candies for guessing the closest to the correct number. Several ladies made fancy hats, and Mrs. L. Hunt and Mrs. O. Ghent tied with Mrs. Hunt receiving the prize.

After the Mizpah benediction, refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. A. Hockaday moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for hospitality.

Home cooking was sold as well as plastic bags made by Mrs. R. Curtis.

nding Foreign nvestment Road o Depression

WELLAND (CP)—Finance Minister Harris said Monday slight tax attempt to halt foreign investment in Canada would bring about a depression.

He spoke at a Liberal meeting at which Dr. W. H. McMinn was nominated to seek re-election in Welland riding.

Mr. Harris criticized those who supported restrictions on foreign investment. Canada's growth has been based upon foreign investment, he said.

"We must get money from abroad to finance our continuing expansion as an industrial nation."

Almost Hanged in Freak Mishap

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur McGillis, 38, of Toronto was almost hanged in what police said was one of the most freakish traffic accidents they have investigated.

McGillis said he was standing on the curb Monday waiting to cross downtown Fleet Street when a rope flicked around his neck and yanked him into the road.

For 20 seconds the tow rope dangling from the back of a transport truck pulled him along the street face down on the road. Then it jerked him to his feet, unwrapped itself and left him standing dazed and in pain.

He was treated for rope burns on his face and neck and head cuts. The truck disappeared.

McGillis said that the rope caught him when the truck hit a bump in the road.

LIBERAL NOMINEE

PEMBROKE (CP)—James M. Forgie, Liberal member of Parliament for North Renfrew, was nominated Saturday night to contest the riding for the party again. Finance Minister Harris and Revenue Minister McCann were guest speakers.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey spent several days last week in Toronto. While there, they were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Elmer Osterhout, and her family. They also attended the Sportsmen Show at the Coliseum.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wannamaker and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Durant spent Thursday in Toronto.

Quite a number from Wellington enjoyed the turkey supper at Allisonville Hall, on Wednesday of Burrs' W. A.

Mr. John Cornick, of Milton, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lavender. Miss Ordene Mollard, of Belleville, was also a guest at the same home.

A nice crowd attended the W.C.S. dance on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lavender were chairmens for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and family, of Pressels, were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Archard, and Miss Joan Archard.

Miss Gladys Lumb entertained about 20 neighbors at her home on Friday evening in honor of her aunt, Miss Mary Lumb, who was celebrating her 90th birthday. Miss Lumb received many pretty cards, flowers and gifts on this occasion. She enjoys good health. Congratulations.

The Lakeside Chapter 81 is planning to hold a euchre and bridge party on April 3rd. The lovely prizes for this party are on display in Mrs. J. B. Down's store window, all are welcomed.

Mr. Allan Marvin, of Kapuskasing, was the weekend guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marvin, Carol and Mary.

Wellington was almost like a ghost town on Saturday evening. It seemed that every one had gone to Belleville to see the hockey match with Wellington Juniors and Alliston. Sorry to say the home team lost 5-0.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bishop, and Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bishop, and family were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Elliott, Napanee.

Hillier South

HILLIER SOUTH — March weather continues pleasant. Some farmers have begun to work on the land.

Congratulations to Mrs. C. MacDonald who accompanied her daughter, Mrs. W. St. Pierre, to celebrate her birthday on Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. H. MacDonald and family. Mrs. N. Tice was also a guest.

Sorry to report Mrs. Burton Tice not having fully recovered from an attack of "flu.

There was a splendid turnout on Sunday morning to enjoy the Sunday school hour at Rose Hall church.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Young were in Picton, on Saturday morning last.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Dafoe were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wanamaker, on Sunday. Later in the day, they entertained all the members of their family.

Glad to report Mrs. Earl Munroe much improved in health of late.

Mr. Raymond Vandusen, Toronto, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Vandusen over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin White and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer White, attended the funeral of their uncle, Mr. Frank Somers on Sunday, at Hermon Church, east of Bancroft. Friends extend sympathy to the bereaved families. Mr. Somers was fatally injured in the motor accident which occurred two weeks ago.

A successful quilting was held at the Rose Hall Sunday school hall last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Jackson was a visitor in Picton and Belleville, on Saturday last.

Mrs. C. McCartney has not been enjoying the best of health of late and friends hope she may be improved soon.

Fleet of Snow-Going Vehicles Works Night and Day Taking In Supplies to Thicket Portage

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — A rugged group of men including farmers hired for the winter have traversed ice-covered lakes and portages in Manitoba's northern wilderness to take more than 25,000 tons of supplies to a mining development 400 miles north of here.

They are the crews of a fleet of snow-going vehicles that night and day shuttled between Thicket Portage on the CNR's Hudson Bay railway and the new town of Thompson, laying in supplies for the start of the $175,000,000 nickel development at Moak Lake of the International Nickel Company of Canada.

Their tractor-hauled sled trains or "cat-sleighs" resemble a landgoing tanker convoy. A cat-swing is a convoy of three tractors and four sleds. A bunkhouse for the men is among the cargo-laden sleds.

EXPERIENCED WORK

The firm that undertook the contract to supply the mine development's needs was the Patricia Tansportation Company Ltd., a pioneer among northern transport companies. For the last three years the company has used its swings over ice-covered lakes and snowcovered portages in temperatures often well below zero. By 1958 a new railway line will take over the job.

But while its Moak Lake job is almost completed, others are waiting. The company has already started to clear the right-of-way of a winter road in northwestern Ontario, later to be used for the natural gas pipeline.

"There's little continuity in our job," says Bert Wilson, managing director of Patricia.

"When one job is finished, we are directed where will start and we move to that site."

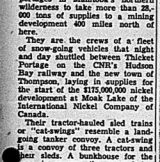
The cat-swings have worked in every northern section of Ontario and in the Northwest Territories, Patricia, one of Canada radar line sites, gold mines in northwestern Ontario and northern B.C., and often formed the sole ground-supply link.

TOUGH IN B.C.

One of its toughest jobs was supplying the Granby Miners in northwestern B. C. Starting at Stewart, B.C., the "cats" climbed from sea level to 6,500 feet over the Salmon Glacier, and then down to the Granduc Mines on the other side.

So rugged was the trail that sank houses were left at key points and tractors hauled only sleds. Ice crevasses, avalanches and freak storms created most of the problems.

Patricia's men are masters at "cat blazing. Near the end of December bombardiers from the proposed route making sure the ice will support sidewings. Holes are drilled to measure the thickness of the ice.



To assist nature in thickening the ice, the bombardiers pack the snow over the holes. The packed snow allows the frost to penetrate to the ice and build it up.

REGULAR PATTERN

Loads carried by cat-swings are gradually increased as the season progresses so that the greatest loads are carried near the end of a season when ice is safest and conditions allow sleds to slide easily. An average eastward transports about 200,000 pounds or approximately 20,000 to 25,000 gallons of fuel oil when operating at maximum loads.

The first supplies hauled into any new development during the initial year, are those needed by men setting up the camp. These include tents, axes, wire and food. Construction supplies are then shuttled in and when construction has been completed, the machinery follows.

"The nature of the work has limited the routine followed by the company and this routine has changed little over the last 20 years," said Mr. Wilson. "It is possible that the development of a new type tractor will radically change present routines but so far the standard crawler tractor has proven itself the best suited to winter transportation."

"Jest a Second"

"We're having my mother-in-law for Christmas."

PROUD MAMA

"Zemba," lioness at the Copenhagen, Denmark, zoo, carries one of her latest litter of cubs to her mouth, apparently wanting the public to get a close look at her latest bundle of bliss. The lioness is now the happy mother of more than 30 cubs.

Trent Waterway Markers Black On Port Side

OTTAWA (CP)—The port-hand buoys and markers buoys on Canadian waterways are supposed to be black, not white, Transport Minister Marcier said Tuesday.

Furthermore, he added in a Commons reply to Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East), the white spars on buoys in the Trent canal system through Central Ontario were painted black 10 years ago.

Mr. Winch Monday said accidents have occurred on certain Canadian waterways because of a transport department decision to change the color of marker buoys from white to black.

"The Trenton waterways in Ontario are a prime example," he said, as he asked why the change had been made.

PREVIOUS INSPECTION

Mr. Marier said a 1947 inspection of channel markers on the Trent waterway, which starts at Trenton, showed port-hand spars on the buoys were white while rules governing buoys and day beacons adopted uniformly throughout Canada required use of black spars on the port hand.

The necessary changes were made and marked on canal charts "and ever since port-hand spars have been painted black."

Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) said reflectors were put on these black buoys at his request so they could be seen at night.

HUK RAIDERS BUSY

MANILA (AP)—Twenty Communist Huk rebels raided a village north of Manila Monday night in the first new action of this year and the first outbreak since President Ramon Magsaysay died in a plane crash March 17. The armed raiders shot and wounded a guard and ransacked two homes at San Clemente in Tarlac province.

Most Daring Allied Mission Was Sinking of Nazi Battleship

VICTORIA (CP) — A forestry department employee here can be prompted to talk now and again of his role in one of the most daring Allied missions of the Second World War, the sinking of the fugitive Nazi battleship Tirpitz in the Norwegian fjord where she skulked for months.

Richard Kendall, now 37, was a sub-lieutenant in the little task force of midget submarines that stole away from their mother-sub 60 miles from the Tirpitz's berth and crept up the fjord Sept. 22, 1943.

Four of the 50-foot pocket subs never reached their goal. They fell victim to mechanical breakdowns, gunfire and sub nets during the nerve-wracking passage.

SLIPPED THROUGH NETS

Two of the tiny craft, including Kendall's, finally gained the anchorage and discovered two protective underwater nets barring the way. Kendall's sub found an enemy trawler through a gate before it could be closed. His companion followed.

The Allied subs deposited two tons of explosives each under the German warship and the British crews hastily abandoned the clandestine craft. A timing mechanism was attached to the explosives, eyling the Britons a chance to reach the surface where they were quickly taken aboard the doomed Tirpitz.

German officers treated the captives to tea on the deck of the battleship.

TORE BOTTOM OUT..

Then the charges went off, ripping the bottom from the North Sea monster and sinking Kendall with a wry grin—spilling the tea.

"Their attitude certainly changed when the last took place," he said. The Tirpitz sank in 40 minutes, thus ending a big threat to Allied merchant convoy routes.

Of the 24 men who began the mission, only nine returned. The survivors, including Kendall were prisoners of war in Germany for 18 months. They were freed eventually when the advancing British Army took Luebeck.

ASKS MILLION—IN PENNIES

NEW YORK (AP)—A bank confirmed today that one of its customers has asked for $1,000,000 in pennies. But the bank, the Chemical Corn Exchange, is mum on just who the mysterious customer is or to what use the pennies will be put.

IN CUSTODY BATTLE

Hildy McCoy Ellis, the 5½-year-old girl who is the centre of a bitter custody fight, kisses her foster mother, Mrs. Melvin Ellis, as she leaves her home in Miami, Fla., for school. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have raised Hildy since she was turned over to them by her mother, at the age of 10 days, in Massachusetts. But Massachusetts law prohibits adoption of a child by foster parents of another faith. The Elisses are Jewish, Hildy's mother is a Roman Catholic. The state of Massachusetts is now preparing to extradite the Elisses from Florida.

Police Smash Ring

TORONTO (CP) — Police Tuesday claimed to have smashed a ring that stole late-model cars and then broke them up to sell the parts.

Four said stolen cars were taken to a west-end garage, dismantled, and the usable parts then sold to legitimate spare-part dealers for about $150.

Charged with conspiracy to defraud are Edward Lyons, 48; his son, Ronald, 20, and William Gordon Smith, 25. The younger Lyons, Smith and Wallace Lorenz, 21, also were charged with car theft. Their cases are to be heard March 28.

UNCHARITABLE TRIO

NEW YORK (AP)—Three thugs posing as blood donors beat the manager of the Brooklyn donor centre into unconsciousness Monday. They robbed him of $130 cash and a $100 wrist watch.

New Approach To Cancer Relief Is Described

TORONTO (CP) — A new approach to cancer therapy symptoms was described Tuesday by Dr. James F. Mustard, clinical instructor in medicine at University of Toronto.

Dr. Watt told the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons here that 20 to 60 per cent of cancer patients who cannot be helped by surgery or radiation can receive relief of symptoms such as pain through chemotherapy—the use of chemicals.

Cancers of the lung, breast, oesophagus and ovary are most likely to benefit from chemotherapy, he said.

A panel of surgeons heard Monday that arterial grafting, a surgical attack on hardening of the arteries, is one of the most exciting developments in modern surgery.

The panel said grafting sections of blood vessels made from human tissue, nylon or some other plastic has enabled many persons formerly crippled by arterial sclerosis to lead near - normal lives.

Artery banks in hospitals are hard pressed to keep up with demands for materials which can rehabilitate persons who could hardly work because of pain in the arms and legs for poor circulation.

Pilot Found Dead

TORONTO (CP) — George C. McCullough, 26-year-old TCA pilot was found dead in his car here Tuesday on a suburban Don Mills street. Assistant coroner Dr. D. K. McAtee said he had died from coronary thrombosis. He had just completed a flight from Montreal and was still in uniform.

He was married a month ago.

AID INDIANS

BARRIE (CP)—Services of the Children's Aid Society of Simcoe County to be extended to include Indians on Christian Island Reserve in Georgian Bay near Penetanguishene, Premier Earnest Cumberland of nearby Alliston said Monday.

Hansard Shorthand Reporters In House and Senate Take 35,000 Words Each Sitting Day

OTTAWA (CP) — Among the busiest "invisible" workers in Canada are the Hansard shorthand reporters in the House of Commons and Senate.

While taking down what's said in Parliament, "technically speaking, we're invisible," says W. W. Buskard, 53-year-old assistant editor of the Commons' debates-reporting staff. But at 10 o'clock every morning during the session comes printed evidence that they've been there.

Hansard provides the public its chance to read all that is said in the Commons—at the rate of between 32,000 and 35,000 words each sitting day.

It uses seven English-language reporters and two editors and operates a separate service in French with two reporters and two editors. Senate Hansard has five reporters and one editor.

EXPERTS AT TASK

Reporters must be able to take down words at speeds that exceed that in bursts. They take 10 minutes of dictation at a time, then hurry out and dictate their notes to a typist. A day's debate is printed verbatim the following morning complete with translation of French into English and vice versa.

But by tradition the Hansard reporter working at the desk in the centre aisle of the Commons is the man who isn't there. He is not supposed to speak, ever, while in the Commons. There have been times when he has refused to read back his notes, even when requested by House officials to do so.

And what goes into Hansard stays there, especially since the unsuccessful attempt last year by Agriculture Minister Gardiner to revise a statement he made about margarine sales in Quebec, which publishes such sales.

Mr. Buskard, who takes over as editor when T. R. Hubbard retires at age 65 on March 31, said he corrects only definite errors in figures, occasionally improves grammar and eliminates minor repetition. Members can do likewise with typed copies of their speeches, "but they can't change the meaning."

DEFINED RESPONSIBILITY

When Mr. Gardiner went to the Hansard office and tried to change his remarks, Mr. Buskard refused. Mr. Gardiner went to Speaker Rene Beaudoin about it, but eventually the remarks were left unchanged.

And, said Mr. Buskard, "as a matter of fact I was kind of glad it happened because it sort of cleared the air." The Speaker ruled that the responsibility for what goes into Hansard is entirely the Hansard editor's. Previously there was no record of the extent of the editor's responsibility.

Hansard's realism has grown during the recent years, too. A few years ago, for example, if a member used a word like "damn" it appeared in Hansard's pages as "d. . ." Now it's spelled out.

"I believe if a man wants to use the odd cuss word he should have the right to use it," said Mr. Buskard, a native of Brantford, Ont., who started in a Hansard reporter in 1923 when he was 19.

We report as nearly as possible in the tongue that's used."

Biggest headache in the seven years Mr. Buskard has held his present job has been getting qualified shorthand reporters. They earn a start of $6,600 a year with Hansard, but in courts and other similar jobs around the country, Mr. Buskard said the lowest salary is about $7,000.

He wishes more people would take it up.

WELLINGTON

1st Cubs, Scouts Hold Father, Son Banquet

WELLINGTON — The 1st Wellington Cubs and Scouts "Father and Son" annual banquet was held Friday evening in the United Church school rooms with about 150 sitting down to tables loaded with all the good things boys and men like.

The Rev. Alfred Poulter gave the invocation after which "The Queen" was sung and the toast given.

A toast to the fathers was also proposed by Scout Bob McIntyre to which Mr. Poulter responded.

Queen's Scout Bill Mathews thanked the ladies of the Wellington Women's Institute for the delicious meal served by them. This was responded to by Mrs Relph Ellis, W.I. president.

BADGES PRESENTED

Scout badges were presented to Scouts Jimmie Moore, Wade Cleave and David Dick by assistant Scoutmasters Bill Sanders and Eugene Snider.

Cubmaster Claire Stoneburg presented 2nd year stars to Terry Wannamaker, Ross Stoneburg, Tom MacDonald, Roger Preston, Brian Sayers and Donnie McNeill.

A short sing-song, with Miss Carol Marvin at the piano, and Cubmaster Claire Stoneburg leading, was enjoyed by all.

The guests at the head table were introduced by Don Morden, chairman of group committee. They were: the Rev. and Mrs. A. Poulter, whose church is always open to the boys; Mr. and Mrs Milton Snider, Mr. Snider was for many years Scout master of the Wellington Scouts; Field Commissioner Art Jackson of Brighton, who needed no introduction as he has attended quite a number of banquets here; Capt. Doug Gowland of Picton, who is chairman of the local association in Picton; Daryl and Gary Morden, Don Morden's two boys, who are Cubs; Cubmaster Claire Stoneburg; A.C.M. Jeane Hamil; Cubmaster Aleta Ogilvy; Scoutmaster Tom Nash; A.S.M. Bill Gassira and A.S.M. Eugene Snider.

Then came the big moment when Milton Snider came forward to present the Gordon Dorland Trophy for the best all-round Scout of the past year. This year it was given not to one, but to two Scouts, and brothers at that, Donald and Elmer Watt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Watt, were the proud Scouts to receive this honor.

Mr. Art Jackson, Field Commissioner, gave a splendid talk to the boys.

To end a delightful evening Mr. Poulter showed films on Scouting which the boys and men enjoyed.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. Ross McVaught, Minnie Street, has been ill the past week with the mumps.

Mr. Frank Foster, Arthur Street, has been hospitalized in Belleville since Thursday last. His condition is not very good.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parker (nee Ellenore Gehan of Tweed) on Sunday, March 24th, a son, in Toronto.

The Rev. Mr. Pace was in Kingston and Belleville on Thursday where he visited Mrs. Price Sr. in Kingston General Hospital, and Mr. Carmen Alton, in Belleville General. Both patients are still quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Baker and Mrs. Jack McLean were in Toronto on Thursday to be on hand when the former's daughter was spilling the pins in the five pin bowling semi- finals at the Sportsmen's show in Toronto.

Mrs. Reeves, North Victoria Street, was a richer lady on Saturday by $84.80 and $5 when her name was drawn at the weekly draw here in Tweed, she had a 20 per cent ticket and since she had made her purchases at the business place of Quinn and Quinn she receives an additional $5 which is in order with them. These draws are becoming popular and one of the largest crowds ever at the corner of Spring and Victoria was on Saturday last.

Mr. Henry Genereau has been on the sick list and expects to enter the hospital as soon as a bed is available.

The W.A. met in the United Church parlors on Thursday and a good crowd was present. A nice program enjoyed by all.

The Red Cross canvassers are on their rounds this week and are meeting with good success so far.

The "Club 125" had a successful baking sale on Saturday in Ed. Way's show room. All with them every success in their enterprise.

Mr. Robert Hunter was visiting friends in town on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Halpenny's new spacious home on Victoria Street South is nearing completion. These new, well planned and built dwellings are an asset to the town.

Mrs. eronica Cadwell was in charge of the meeting.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — The weather being Ideal, a number of farmers are busy making syrup.

Quite a number of friends and neighbors from this community attended the funeral of Mr. John Hogg at the Thompson Funeral Chapel. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones in the loss of a loving father.

Mrs. Edith Tucker, of Belleville, spent the weekend with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound and children, Dale and Cheryl, spent Saturday evening at the same home.

"AT HOME"

A large number of ladies from this appointment attended the "At Home" at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. and Mrs. R. McMullen invited all from the circuit to visit with them in their home. A happy gathering from each appointment met and, while chatting, some of the ladies from the Stone appointment served refreshments. Thanks Mr. and Mrs. McMullen for their hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris spent the dinner hour recently with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langabeer, of Belleville.

The W.A. of Wallbridge catered to Scott's barn last week and report a good day.

Mr. Douglas Ketcheson has returned home having spent several weeks at the Laurention mountains.

HARD TIMES

This study of an aged Indian woman was taken by Villy Svarre of the Vancouver Province which has been one of a series of articles on living conditions of Indians in northeastern British Columbia. The woman is Mrs. Melanie, about 80. Now rheumatic, she passes most of the winter in bed under this ragged pile of bed clothes and spends part of her pension on liniment. She recalls the days when the people on the Sugarcane reserve where she lives, owned more cattle and were better dressed than they are today. Mrs. Melanie hopes to be able to walk again when the weather warms up. (CP Photo).

Little Benny's Notebook

After dinner I was looking at the comics in the paper, and Soapy Sam and a bewty looking gerl were looking at each other, and there was a row of hearts between their eyes to prove they were falling in love with each other, and I said, Hay, ma, hay, pop, is there such a thing as love at first site?

Why yes, it happened to your mother, pop said. The first time she met me was at a big party, but I was the only man in the room as far as she was concerned, although she was very careful not to say anything to me except that she was pleased to meet me. But I knew what was going on in her little head. Well, when she saw me again at the next party, somebody asked her if she had met me yet, and she said, Why no, I don't believe so. That really gave her away, because no gerl could meet me and not remember it, pop said.

How true, ma said, and pop said, Well, naturally I knew how the poor gerl was suffering, so I called her up so she could enjoy the sound of my voice. Of course at first she pretended she didn't even know who I was, but I humbored her by keeping on telefoning to her, until at last she couldn't hold herself in any longer and hinted that she would be in if I called at her home on sutch and sutch an evening. Of course that put me on a spot, but I was too mutch of a gentleman to slide off of it, and that was the beginning of the end of my batchelor career, pop said.

G, ma, is that all true? I said, and ma said, Every werd of it, with reservations.

Not saying what they were.

PRIME MINISTERS DISCUSS FUTURE OF CANADIAN URANIUM

Arriving in Bermuda to confer with Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain, Prime Minister St. Laurent inspects a guard of honor on parade to mark his visit. The two ministers started their talks soon after St. Laurent's arrival.

Fowler Broadcasting Report Will Be Released Thursday

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians will get an idea of the future of broadcasting in this country Thursday.

At that time, the 150,000-word report of the royal commission on broadcasting will be made public, the fruit of a year's study that has poked into just about every aspect of radio and television in every part of Canada.

While findings of the three-man body under newsprint executive R. M. Fowler of Montreal have no binding effect, they are regarded as sure to exert a considerable influence on the government's outlook, in the fields of both publicly-owned and private broadcasting in TV and sound.

The findings are still a closely-kept secret, in advance of a planned release for publication at 12 noon EST Thursday.

About all that appears sure—under the commission's terms of reference—is that there will be no upset in basic policy that broadcasting and distribution of Canadian programs by a public agency (now the CBC) will continue as a central feature of Canada's radio-TV setup.

MAY MAKE CHANGES

But outside that area the commission has had wide latitude to propose changes on a great variety of practices ranging from the knotty question of financing the mushrooming CBC to the program makeup of local radio stations.

In its study of these, the commission went from coast to coast during five months last year, listened to about 2,500,000 words of oral testimony and received 272 briefs aggregating some 1,000,000 words more.

Besides the 50-year-old Mr. Fowler, the commissioners are Edmond Turcotte, 58, Canadian ambassador to Colombia and former Montreal newspaper editor, and James Stewart, 62, board chairman of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Mr. Fowler is chairman of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

FEW MAJOR ISSUES

The three have had to cope with as sweeping a variety of proposals as has ever been put before a royal commission. But the major points at issue boil down into relatively few.

The one that gave the commission the steadiest controversy across the country was a proposal of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters that there should be an independent tribunal to govern all broadcasting in Canada.

This function now is exercised by the CBC board of governors. The CARTB contended that the board, with the CBC exercising broadcasting functions supposedly in competition with private stations, could not be entirely impartial.

The CBC argued it needs direct control over private stations so it can have them distribute its Canadian - tinged "national service." It said the CBC does not compete with the private operators but that they are interdependent with each other.

The CARTB, representing the majority of private radio and TV stations, got support from such groups as the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. Other groups such as the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress rejected the separate regulatory board idea.

TV POLICY

Second top proposal of the private broadcasters was the elimination of the federal government's "single-station" television policy, which reserves six major cities for exclusive CBC TV operation while allowing only one private station in viewing areas elsewhere. The six cities are Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The CARTB said competitive stations should be licensed in any area, a policy that would transfer part of the costs of television from the taxpayer to industry.

As the hearings drew to a close in October, the CBC expressed the view that the time has come for second stations, though Chairman A. D. Dunton held that one TV station in each viewing area should be a CBC outlet.

One of the chief points the commission was called upon for a recommendation is the way the CBC is to be financed in the future, particularly to handle the snowballing growth of its television services.

TAX NOT ANSWER

There was a fairly general view that the present method of raising CBC funds by a 5-per-cent excise tax on radio and TV receivers is not the answer to the problem. Returns from this tax have been falling off, lately, with the CBC going into the red and needing special parliamentary grants.

The CBC itself said its national TV service could be continued at its present level at a cost of $15 a year for each home with a TV set. However, it did not suggest this as a specific fee but rather as a sum to come from the treasury. On the basis of 2'000,000 "TV households," this would be about $30,000,000 a year. TV costs now run at about that rate.

Whether the CBC should be financed on a year-to-year basis as now or for five terms came in for controversy. The private broadcasters proposed annual grants to protect the principle of close parliamentary check on an agency of Parliament.

Commissioner Says Politics Left Alone

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP's security responsibilities are confined to protecting Canada against espionage, sabotage and subversion, says Commissioner L. H. Nicholson.

Tuesday, before the Commons estimates committee, he rejected suggestions that the force interests itself in political affairs.

During a lengthy exchange with Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) while the committee was considering RCMP appropriations, the commissioner said that its responsibilities cause the force to keep dossiers on members of the Communist party of Canada, certain fringe groups and a number of individuals.

Mr. Winch said the force may be going beyond its entitlement in some of its investigations. He knew, he said, that it has a file on him. Why, he wanted to know.

Both Commissioner Nicholson and Justice Minister Garson, to whom the force answers, said that if that is so Mr. Winch knows more about it than they do.

ASKS FOR FILE

When Mr. Winch asked to see the file the commissioner said he would find out whether one exists and read it.

Mr. Winch asked whether the RCMP's anti-subversives branch is used to investigate members of other political parties apart from the Communists.

"You are not using that section in any way whatsoever having to do with political matters—excluding Communists, of course?" he asked.

Commissioner Nicholson said: "In the ordinary sense that the man on the street uses the words 'political matters' the RCMP is not used."

When Mr. Winch pressed his question, Mr. Garson observed: "I don't think you should be asking these questions."

INSISTS ON DISCUSSION

But Mr. Winch insisted. "This is the kind of meeting at which it should be discussed." The expenditure of public money was under discussion and he wanted to be sure the RCMP was not being used for political purposes.

Mr. Garson: "I can tell my honorable friend that during the eight years I've been minister of justice I've not heard or seen of an RCMP file on any member of Parliament."

Other questioning elicited that the force this spring is to increase its rate to communities for which it is the law-enforcement agency. The RCMP has such contracts with about 130 communities in eight provinces—all but Ontario and Quebec.

A long-range program of sale of Canadian uranium to the U.K. was a subject of discussion between Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Macmillan in Bermuda. With Britian's industrial demands for nuclear power now taking shape, Canada hopes to have a guaranteed market for uranium after 1962 when U.S. contracts come to an end.

Osterhouts Edge National Steel 7-6 Win Industrial Hockey League Title

Bill Muirhead's goal after five minutes of the second overtime period gave Osterhout Shells a 7-6 victory over National Steel and the Industrial Hockey League championship last night.

Osterhout's took the series two games to one with one tied, by coming back for victories in the final two games. They also topped the league during regular schedule play by winning fourteen of the fifteen games. National was the only team to beat them, winning once in schedule play and once in the playoffs.

Last night's titular game was a real thriller all the way. The Shells grabbed an early 2-0 lead only to have the National crew fire four consecutive goals to go ahead. Osterhouts roared back to knot the score at 4-4. National went in front again 5-4 but the champs evened the count with only ten seconds left in regulation time.

National Steel took the lead for the third time after about four minutes of the ten minute overtime period. They held the margin until the final minute again when Don Dolan left the Osterhout nets in favor of an extra forward and it paid off. Bill Vesterfelt, the Shells leading scorer in the series, blasted home the disc for a 6-6 score.

It was decided to play sudden-death at this point. The midgets ran into a brace of penalties within seconds of each other then Osterhouts drew a minor and misconduct. The teams were playing five aside when Bill Muirhead completed a three - way passing play with Cam McKenna and John McCrory to win the title after 75 minutes of hockey.

Bill Vesterfelt, who scored four goals on Sunday to celebrate his Saturday marriage, added a pair last night to spark the winners. John McCrory, George Calbury and Leroy McKrien tallied singletons and Don Atkins fired their fifth goal in the dying seconds of regulation time. Muirhead then had his million-dollar marker.

Jack Boulter paced the National boys, scoring a pair. Earl MacDonald bagged his club's goal in the first overtime session while the others were divided among Larry Mavety, 'Moe Hunter and Pat Asselstine.

The game was rugged and fast with referees Don Ashley and Bill Hurst handing out a number of penalties including a pair of misconducts to Osterhouts. Each team tallied once with the other club shorthanded.

The Shells reached the finals by ousting Bakelite while National defeated Holway's in their semi-final set.

INVITE ISRAEL, BRAZIL

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has invited Brazil and Israel to play their Davis Cup matches in Montreal this summer, President H. G. Marpole said Tuesday.

If they accept, Brazil would probably meet Canada at the Mount Royal Tennis Club July 19-21. Israel would play the winner July 26-28.

The winner would then meet either the U.S. the British West Indies, Cuba or Venezuela, depending on the outcome of the matches in the other half of the cup bracket. Any Canada - U.S. match would be played in the U.S., Mr. Marpole added.

Hopes to Design Jet Speedboat To Go 300 MPH

SEATTLE (AP)—With the paint hardly dry on his radically new, untested Thriftway Too, Ted Jones is turning his genius to the design of a jet-powered speedboat with a 300-miles-per-hour potential.

He hopes to have it ready for the water late this summer.

"We'll shoot for 300," Ted said Tuesday, "but I'm a racing man and this will be a racing boat."

Britain's Donald Campbell whipped his Bluebird, the first jet-propelled water craft, to a world speed mark of 225.36 mph last year. The Bluebird hit 286 on one leg of the mile trial.

"Once we get a racing jet in the water," Jones predicted, "others will be built and we'll have competition."

Jones put his imprint on the speedboat picture when he designed the Slo-Mo-Shun IV in the late 1940s. The Slo-Mo in 1952 set a world speed mark of 178.497 miles per hour, which still survives as the record for propeller-driven water craft.

FORD LEAVES ENGLAND

LONDON (CP)—Trevor Ford, the stormy petrel of British soccer is to display his football artistry in European soccer circles.

The 23-year-old Cardiff and Wales centre forward announced Tuesday that he has signed with the Philips Soccer Club of Eindhoven, Holland. The transfer fee was £5,000.

Ford, who has represented Wales more than 20 times in international matches, is one of soccer's most expensive players. In all, it is estimated that some £75,000 has changed hands in transfer fees in his moves from Swansea Town to Aston Villa, Sunderland, Cardiff and Eindhoven.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

The records say they are two of the highest scoring squads in current hockey, and they tilt in the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" finals joustings tonight.

Tonight, the eyes of Ontario's senior "A" hockey fandom, especially those of the fan-from-Missie East will be fastened on Guelph's Arena where the Whitby Dunlops, eastern titleholders and the Kitchener Dutchmen, western champions, clash in the first of a best-of-seven series for the OHA senior title.

Other eyes will be in focus, too. Those of professional scouts who will glimpse the centre-ice calisthenics of two of the best pivotmen in senior circles, Bobby Attersley, finest-looking goal-getting star of the Dunlops and Kenny Laufman, clever senior of the Dutchmen.

If former reports coming out of Whitby can be judged a criterion, the pro bird-men are wasting their time on Attersley. Last year he reportedly turned down pro offers from the Chicago Black Hawks and stated he would never enter the professional ranks. Laufman may be a prospect of a different hue.

Attersley was the Eastern group points-getting title with 56 goals and 70 assists. He finished second to Belleville's Minnie Menard (50) in the goal-scoring department but he wasn't second to anyone, topping the mark set by Tommy Burlington of the Owen Sound Mercurys (63). He missed a new points mark for senior hockey with a total of 126, one short of the record set by Mickey Keith of the Stratford Indians two years ago.

The Whitby star's scoring record is far more impressive than his Kitchener counterpart. His 35-70 mark far exceeds that of the Dutchman ace, Laufman compiling 21 goals and 51 assists. However they're hurling Laufman to the skies after his somewhat sensational efforts in the Windsor-Kitchener finals when he scored nine goals and set up eight. His over-all playoff record in eleven games was 11 goals and 16 assists for 27 points.

Attersley was not far behind. In the nine games the Dunlops played he scored nine goals and assisted in 10 for a points total of 19. With time-mates Gagnon and Samolenko, he accounted for 30 of the 44 goals scored in the playoffs by the Dunnies.

Kitchener's ace front line like that of the Dunlops topped the team's goingetting race with Laufman finishing on top with 21-54-75, left winger George Scholes next with 30-44-73 and rightwinger Jerry Theberge, 40-38-68. Theberge was the ace goal-getter with 40.

The Dunnies ace-line of Attersley, Bus Gagnon and George Samolenko record is far better. Attersley led the trio and team with his 35-70-105; Gagnon was next with 33-48-83 and Samolenko third with 37-39-76 or a line record of 107-157-264 as against 90-126-216 for the Dutchmen's top trio. While the records are not available here, it would be the hundred to one shot it will reach a senior "A" mark of its type.

However this department was never a great believer in records of past deeds, albeit they make interesting reading. Tonight in Guelph, they're water under the bridge, and a "new league" starts from scratch.

And while a lot of hockey eyes will be centred on these two crack entrants, it will be a nostalgic setting for both when they face each other in the Guelph arena. The last time they crossed sticks was in practice grinds. For both were members of the Guelph Biltmore's junior "A" squad not so many years ago.

While the teams' play and competitive strength are unknown factors to each other, the Dutchies, apparently, are not scheming the Eastern champions short. They have been working out in the same arena and have called up several St. Michael's junior "A" stars for the practice grinds. The Irish are affiliated with the Dutch in a hockey agreement. Among those working out with the Kitchener squad is the sensational youngster Frank Mahovlich, who recently finished a three-game stint with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Dutchmen have been forced to play the first two home games on "foreign ice" hence the opening tilt in Guelph tonight and the third game in Maple Leaf Gardens on Sunday starting at 2.30 p.m. Seems there's an ice show in Kitchener this week. Saturday night the teams tangle in Whitby and what Kitchener fans are hoping the Dutchies are not allergic to phoble. They're back in Whitby next Tuesday and play the first game in Kitchener on Wednesday, April 3. The sixth is slated for Whitby Friday, April 5. If the seventh is needed it will be played in Kitchener, Saturday, April 6, or Toronto on Sunday, April 7.

Things have been strangely quiet up around Whitby, and it is presumed Manager Wren Blair has been readying his charges, but hard, for the coming series. He was a shortstop of his hockey career in Belleville during the last game played here. We asked him what he thought his chances were against the western winners. It was one of the best "talk-casts" he ever made. "I'm not talking." That was it.

And there is no truth in the persistent rumor that the ebullient Whitby manager is learning to talk Russian.

Golden Bears Sign Zaleski As Head Coach

SARNIA (CP)—The reorganized Golden Bears of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union signed Joe Zaleski Tuesday to a two-year contract as non-playing head coach. Zaleski was head coach and quarterback of the team last season.

Claude Irvine was named president of the Golden Bears Ltd. Other officers are Jim Macpherson, Joe Cohen, Jim Smith, Fred Williams, John McCutcheon, Harold Zierler and Bert Watson.

The club is sending three scouting teams through Eastern Canada and the United States in search of 15 new Canadian players and 12 imports.

The executive announced it is counting on gate receipts to cover 75 per cent of the team's operating cost and has set a season ticket minimum of 2,000 at a goal.

THINGS BROOKS STAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City says he is confident the city will be able to keep Brooklyn Dodgers in Brooklyn despite their apparent preparations to move to Los Angeles.

"I am confident we will be able to keep them. We want to make sure that they don't leave," he said Tuesday.

Habs Boom-Boom Rangers 4-1 As Big Guns Hog Spotlight; Beaneaters Down Wings 3-1

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Montreal's big guns—Boom Boom Geoffrion, Rocket Richard, Jean Beliveau and Jacques Plante—who hogged the spotlight as Canadiens successfully launched defence of the Stanley Cup with a 4-1 victory over New York Rangers.

But it might have been different in the opener of the best-of-seven semi-final series if Donnie Marshall, a relatively obscure penalty killer, hadn't provided a key defensive manoeuvre.

As far as Montreal coach Toe Blake is concerned, Marshall's play in the third period Tuesday night was the turning point in the game. Canadiens scored three times in the third period.

Here was the situation: Richard had deflected Geoffrion's 35-foot shot into the corner of the cage in the last period of the second at 7:02 of the last period.

Canadiens' Tom Johnson then was sent off for a five-minute major penalty for high-sticking and drawing blood at 13:02. This gave Rangers an extra man for the five minutes.

They put on the pressure and apparently had the tiring goal a rebound pulled through the goal mouth, but behind the net open. Dean Prentice of New York picked up the disc, carefully let go with a soft shot that seemed headed for the unguarded cage. But along came Marshall from behind the net. The 25-year-old forward, exhibiting a burst of speed to get to the puck, prevented it from entering the net.

"I was lucky that I happened to go by at that time," Marshall said after the game. "When I saw the shot, I tried to either block it or kick it. It was just an accident that I got to it in time."

Plante, meanwhile, had given up the shot for a goal. "When it turned around," the agile goalie said, "I figured it was in the net. I was the most surprised guy to see Marshall stop the shot."

Canadiens then wrapped up the game with a pair of goals within nine seconds in the final minute. Rangers pulled goalie Gump Worsley in an attempt to gain the equalizer, but the strategy backfired when Geoffrion drilled the puck into the empty net from 120 feet. With Worsley back, Belliveau stickhanded the final goal past the New York goalie.

Geoffrion's backhander gave the Habs' first-string defence lead at 15:07 of the first period before Camille Henry scored for the New York less than two minutes later.

Geoffrion figured in the four Montreal goals, scoring twice and assisting on the others. Richard, who scored his 540th goal in a deflection, said, "It was one of the luckiest goals I've ever got." The 35-year-old Rocket has produced 493 goals in regular NHL play and 63 in playoff competition.

Blake said, "the win certainly gives us a big lift. We're in the driver's seat now—it was a big one to win. I thought the team fought a hard game. They played as a unit."

100,000 to See Grand National

LONDON (AP) — Sentiment increased Tuesday for Hart Royal, 100-to-9 second choice, as a probable field of 40 prepared to start in Friday's Grand National Steeplechase.

Up to 250,000 persons, including Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family, are expected to turn out at Aintree near Liverpool for the world's toughest horse race.

Confidence in Hart Royal, former Hunter, is shared by many British bookmakers, with a result that at Monday night's call over Hart Royal was made second choice to Glorious Twelfth at 9-1bl. Glorious Twelfth is a grey eight-year-old, by Cadenazzo out of Fading Glory, and no horse of this color has won the National since The Lamb in 1871.

Britain's top bookmakers will hold their next callover tonight after the running of the Lincolnshire Handicap, first big race of the British flat season. Many bookmakers write couple runners in the Lincolnshire and the National in what is known as the "spring double."

In the Dressing Rooms

DETROIT (AP)—"Three more to go" came the cry from the Boston Bruins' dressing room.

Coach Milt Schmidt, who played on the Bruins' last Stanley Cup title team in 1941, was highly pleased with his club's 3-1 victory over Detroit in the opener of the Stanley Cup semi-final series.

"But no more pleased than I've been all year," he said. "They've really put out for me all year. This one tonight just means more, that's all."

Doug Mohns was the only casualty of Tuesday night's game. He suffered a gash in his left eyebrow during a second period clash with Detroit's Gordie Howe. About 15 stitches were required to close the cut. Howe drew a penalty for slashing.

Bruins officials accused Howe of deliberately striking Mohns with his stick.

"Doug had cleared the puck and Howe stood right there and brought his stick down over Doug's face," said Dr. Edward Browne, the Bruins' physician. "There was no excuse for it."

Wings dressed quickly, as did their coach, Jim Skinner. General manager Jack Adams stayed around for an hour after the contest.

"It's a funny thing," he said. "After those two games with Toronto last weekend, I thought we were ready to start rolling. Now I don't know. This is the most unpredictable team I've ever seen. Those Bruins just outhustled and outskated us. We didn't deserve to win."

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Toe Blake figures his Montreal Canadiens are "in the driver's seat" with their 4-1 victory Tuesday night over New York Rangers in the opening game of their Stanley Cup semi-final.

But the Montreal coach wasn't making any gloating remarks after one game.

"The win certainly gives us a lift. We're in the driver's seat now —it was a big one to win."

Blake said he plans to stand pat with his lineup for the second game of the series here Thursday night.

"I thought the team fought a hard game. They played as a unit."

General Manager Murray (Muzz) Patrick of the Rangers said the Montreal victory was a major setback for New York's Stanley Cup hopes.

"The odds are against us. It means we have to win four games and three of them will be in Montreal.

"But the score doesn't give a true picture of the game. Our boys played well, and we are far from beaten."

SIGN NEW END

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four announced the signing Tuesday of Tony Hosek, a six-foot-four end who coach Hamp Pool says is noted for his speed. Hosek's two years of college football were split between Miami (Fla.) and West Virginia U. The 24-year-old 220-pounder lives in Pittsburgh.

Tighe Must Twist Tiger Tails To Make Bengals Flag Threat

By JOE REICHLER

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Jack Tighe, Detroit Tigers rookie manager, is the kind of fellow you like at first acquaintance. The same cannot be said of his band of Tigers.

They can't look much worse than they have up to now. Six victories in the first 16 spring exhibition games is not a record to be proud of.

Maybe the players have been reading their press clippings—and believe them. It has been the experts' contention tat if any team seriously challenges the New York Yankees for the top prize it will be Detroit.

STATISTICS GOOD

Don't Tigers possess four .300 hitters in Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell and Ray Boone? Didn't they boast two 20-game winners in Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft? Weren't they the best team in baseball toward the close of the 1956 season, winning 43 of the last 61? And wasn't the stocky, ruddy-faced, 43-year-old Tighe supposed to supply the fire that Bucky Harris, his predecessor, lacked?

Disgusted with the lack-lustre play of his athletes, the blunt-speaking ex-Pipp coach warned the other day:

"There's an explosion coming on this club. There are some guys who have been on this ball club a long time, guys who are getting a lot of money and aren't earning it."

DID BETTER

The team roused itself and won two of the next three games following the manager's blast.

"The fellows don't look good now," Tighe admitted, "but they'll get going. They're too good to continue playing this kind of ball. We have a few problems but we have plenty of time to solve them us—hitting and pitching. Our three front line pitchers—Lary (13-13), Hoeft (20-14) and Paul Foytack (15-13) plus the presence of such proven hitters as Kaline (.314), Kuenn (.333), Maxwell (.326) and Boone (.308)—should give us a good chance as any of the other three contenders, Cleveland, Chicago and Boston, to catch the Yankees.

"But we have to come up with another starting pitcher. We also could use another outfielder and maybe a catcher who can hit the long ball."

TWO GOOD ROOKIES

Tighe is enthusiastic about Don Lee, 23-year-old righthanded son of Thornton Lee, the old pitcher, and Jim Bunning, who seems to have cured the wildness that prevented him from staying up last year.

"Either one could be our fourth starter," he said.

Other pitchers who should stick include Duke Maas, the veteran Steve Gromek, Jerry Casale, Al Aber and Jack Crimlan and Jim Brady whose bonus status runs out in June.

Kaline and Maxwell are fixtures in the outfield but Tighe is undecided about Bill Tuttle in centre field.

Boone, the converted third baseman, is still trying to learn the rudiments of playing first base. He hasn't done too badly but the betting is he'll be back at third when the season opens with Earl Torgeson and Eddie Robinson at first. Jim Finigan, acquired from Kansas City in the Lary deal, imported out of shape and hasn't looked good.

Kuenn, of course, is set at shortstop. So is Frank Bolling at second. Tighe called his catching duo of Frank House and Red Wilson "not outstanding but adequate."

WINS LADIES CROWN

HAMILTON (CP)—St. Cecilia's Shamrocks of Toronto captured the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association junior championship Tuesday night when they defeated Local 1005 Steelworker Juniors 39-32 to take the two-game, total-point round 79-74.

IN OUR BOOK, THERE ARE TWO ANSWERS!

Teepees Wallop Biltmores 8-5 In Junior A Finals Opener

GUELPH (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees are not easily impressed by unfavorable odds, even when quoted by their own coach. When the chips are down, the Teeps have a way of coming up with a hidden punch that confuses the most meticulous of calculations.

Coach Rudy Pilous figured his boy- 40-to-1 longshots going into the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals but they knocked off the formidable Toronto Marlboros regardless.

Tuesday night they trotted out the reserve power again, lighting the favored Guelph Biltmores to a standstill during regulation time of the opening game of the finals and then launching a furious four-goal assault in overtime to whip the Bilts 8-5.

The four goals were found in less than three minutes after Guelph had already built up a one-goal edge in the 10-minute extra session.

OTHER GAMES

The best-of-seven series moves to St. Catharines Thursday night with the third game slated for Guelph Saturday. The winner goes into the Memorial Cup semi-final against Ottawa Canadiens, who were destined winners of their semi-finals Tuesday night after whipping Ottawa Shamrocks by lopsided scores in the first two games of their scheduled best-of-five round.

Ed Hockstra spearheaded the St. Catharines attack with three goals. Bobby Hull had a pair and Matt Ravlich, Stan Mikita and Bob Gerow scored singles.

Eddie Shack had a pair for Guelph with Ted Maki, Bryan Webber and Bill Sweeney counting the others.

NIP AND TUCK

It was nip and tuck for the first 40 minutes. Teeps scored the only goal of the first period but were outscored 3-2 in the second. The teams split two markers in the third, Mikita's tally producing the deadlock.

A sellout crowd of 4,200 found Bilts, after a 10-day layoff, without the hustle and precision that carried them to the top of the league over the regular season.

They were outshot 39-34 by Teepees, the only team to hold the edge over them during the schedule. In their eight encounters, St. Catharines won four and tied one.

Roy Edwards in the nets was a big factor in Teepees' victory holding out what appeared to be sure third-period goals from Don Belisle, Shack and Webber. He also thwarted Sweeney and Maki early in overtime.

Savoie Loses To Walden

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Davey Walden, 134, Youngstown, Ohio, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Armand Savoie, 134, of Montreal Tuesday night before a crowd of 2,000.

Savoie was never able to solve Walden's curious style, and often moved into a clinch where he frequently got the worst of it. There were no knockdowns, but Savoie had slipped and half fell before a Walden right as the bell rang ending the fifth.

Referee Tayler Vetter voted 97-91, judge Bill Cornelius 98-96 and judge Jimmy Webb, 97-94, all for Walden.

Mahovlch Not Assured Player With Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP) — A report that Frank Mahovlich, centre star with St. Michael's Majors of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, will play with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in their senior A best-of-seven final series with Whitby Dunlops was termed "only a possibility!" by Ernie Goman, general manager of the Dutchmen.

Goman said Tuesday night the team was carrying its full roster of 15 players and only injuries would necessitate an appeal for players to St. Michael's, Dutchies' affiliated junior team. He said the affiliation was registered in November.

Frank Buckland, president of the OHA, said there was nothing wrong with a senior club bringing up a player from a property affiliated junior club which had been eliminated from the playoffs. The Majors were eliminated by Guelph Biltmores more than a week ago.

Mahovlich, who scored 47 goals in the regular season with St. Michael's and was named the most valuable player in the league by sports writers, played the final three games of the National Hockey League season with Toronto Maple Leafs. He scored Leafs' only goal as they lost their last game 4-1 to Detroit Red Wings.

Hap Day Will 'Tell All' in Press Conference

TORONTO (CP)—Hap Day, who in 30 years with Toronto Maple Leafs organization had little to say for publication, plans to tell all today.

Day, who quit as general manager of the National Hockey League club Monday, announced he will hold a press conference.

"It might be a very interesting session," he said. "I hope to be able to answer all questions."

There may be quite a few. Neither Day nor Leaf president Conn Smythe had much to say on Day's departure, believed to have stemmed from internal differences over what Smythe has called publicity "a year of failure."

Leafs finished this year in fifth place, out of the Stanley Cup playoffs and not far from the cellar.

Day was asked whether anything of an "inflammatory" nature might be discussed at the press conference.

"I should think so," he replied. "But I'll answer all questions at the conference, not beforehand."

GOOD FRIDAY MEET

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Entries now being accepted for the annual sports car spring rally to be held here on Good Friday, April 19. The event, sponsored by the London Automobile Sport Club, is an open event.

Club Secretary Ross Gillett said that drivers from Southern Ontario and some points in Michigan, are expected to enter.

Bears, Americans Win American League Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears and Rochester Americans won the opening games of the American Hockey League best-of-seven semi-finals Tuesday night and, in contrast to the wide open style of play during the regular season, defensive excellence rates the credit for their victories.

The Bears, who finished fourth during the regular season, whipped the second-place Barons in Cleveland 3-0 with the rearguard producing two of the goals and providing fine protection for goalie Gerry McNamara.

At Providence, the third-place Rochester Americans handed the first-place Reds a 1-0 setback and there again the defence was brilliant, particularly in the final period when Providence was held scoreless despite a man advantage during five of the last 10 minutes.

Defencemen Frank Mathers and Doc Cherry and centre Obie O'Brien scored for Hershey, all in the second period.

Left-winger Ab McDonald got the only goal at Providence, breaking Johnny Bower at 19:39 of the second period on a passing play with Noel Price and Paul Masnick. It was the first shutout of the Reds on home ice in two years.

The game almost developed into a free-for-all near the end when Price and Jim Bartlett of the Reds traded punches.

Terry Reardon, ferry former National Hockey League defenceman and now Providence business manager, was fined $100 for jumping onto the ice and charging at referee Eddie Powers after he had disallowed a goal by Aldo Guidolin in the third period.

Second games of the semi-finals will be in Providence and Cleveland Thursday, the teams then moving to Rochester and Hershey.

Baby Habs Coast Over Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Junior Canadiens needed only two games to sweep their scheduled best-of-five Memorial Cup quarter-final series with Ottawa Shamrocks.

Vice-president Bob LeBel of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association awarded the series to the Baby Habs Tuesday night after they blanked the Irish 14-0, scoring almost at will. They had won the series opener here 9-3 Monday night.

It was the second consecutive year the farm team for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League eliminated Shamrocks in the quarter-finals.

It was also the second consecutive year Shamrocks featured in an abbreviated series, but last year they were on the winning side. They were awarded a scheduled best-of-five first-round series after they overwhelmed South Porcupine in the first two games. But Canadiens, whose hometown then was Montreal, dropped them in the quarter-final.

The CAHA has authority to shorten a series when it becomes obvious it is strictly no contest and the gate will not merit the expense of staging remaining games.

The Baby Habs meet the winner of the St. Catharines Teepees-Guelph Biltmore series in the semi-finals.

SIGN GOLDSTON

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats announced Tuesday Ralph Goldston, 28-year-old halfback who joined the club last year has been signed for the coming Big Four football season. Goldston joined in mid-season last year after playing with Hamilton Trimble for three seasons while the TiCats coach was with Philadelphia of the National League.

Kuenn Holding up Tigers, Casey Dreads 'Squad-Cut' Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may be true, as manager Jack Tighe says, that some of his Detroit Tigers are not earning their keep.

But he couldn't have been referring to Harvey Kuenn, an old reliable at 25. No matter how far the Bengals get, Kuenn, a .332 hitter last year, goes his cool and calm way.

He already has hit three home runs this spring, including one in Tuesday's 8-4 victory over Cincinnati Redlegs at Lakeland, Fla. In fact, if it weren't for Kuenn's efforts against Redlegs, the Tigers would have gone down to another defeat. In addition to his home run, he crashed out a single and two doubles for a perfect day at bat.

Cleveland Indians, who fancy themselves as pretenders to the AL throne, are having troubles. They went down to another defeat—this one a 7-6 decision to Baltimore Orioles at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Orioles won the game in the ninth inning on Wayne Causey's two-run pinch hit and another single by rookie Brooks Robinson.

But the surprise result might be comforting, indeed, to Yanks who have so many players capable of holding down certain positions that manager Casey Stengel dreads the day when he'll have to cut the squad.

Elsewhere, Brooklyn Dodgers defeated Philadelphia Phillies, 8-3 at Clearwater; New York Giants slipped Chicago Cubs 7-6 at Mesa, Ariz.; Pittsburgh Pirates whitewashed St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 at St Petersburg, Washington Senators turned back Kansas City As 8-7, at Orlando, and Boston Red Sox edged Los Angles Angels of the Pacific Coast League 6-5 in Los Angeles.

The Brooks got to lefthander Harvey Haddix for eight straight hits and seven runs in the third inning. That was good enough to win. Don Newcombe went six innings for Dodgers and was touched for all the Phillies' runs.

Don Mueller turned an apparent defeat into victory for the Giants when he hit a grand slam home run off Turk Lown with two out in the ninth.

Dick Hall, Nelson King and Ercy Face divided the Pirate shutout over the Cards. Combined, they allowed only two hits. Bill Mazeroski hit an inside-the-park home run for the winners.

Kansas City had four home runs against Senators, including two by Yank castoff Bob Cerv, who batted in six runs. The Nats had the big one, a grand slammer by Harmon Killebrew.

Training Camp Notes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—John Logan, Milwaukee Braves most consistent hitter last September, is leading the team in spring training with a .394 average. Logan is tied with Henry Aaron for runs-driven-in honors. They each have 10. Aaron, who has missed several games, has a .345 average.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Brooks Robinson, who only draws a rookie's salary, may push the Orioles' highest paid player, George Kell off third base.

Robinson continued his sensational hitting Tuesday driving in four runs—two of them on a ninth inning single to give Orioles a 7-6 win over Indians.

If Robinson opens the season at third base for the Orioles, Kell would probably move to first.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) His sprained left ankle considerably improved, Don Zimmer participated in a light New York Yankees' batting drill while in civilian clothes Tuesday.

The slugging centrefielder sustained a ligament sprain Sunday and Monday was put on crutches. A night's rest apparently helped the healing progress.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston slugger Ted Williams, who prefers casual dress without a tie, plans to go "formal" to help honor his boss—Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey.

Williams agreed Tuesday to be toastmaster at the annual dinner of the Variety Club of New England that when Yawkey will be presented the group's Great Heart Award.

The Great Heart Award is presented annually. Last year it went to Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Catholic Archbishop of Boston.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday reported Tuesday to have offered pitcher Harvey Haddix to Pittsburgh Pirates for Frank Thomas or Dick Groat, or both. Informants said the proposals are:

Lefthander Haddix for shortstop Groat and "somebody else to sweeten up the deal."

Haddix and another Phillies regular—not named but possibly third baseman Willie Jones—for both Groat and Thomas, an outfielder turned third baseman.

Pirates manager, Bobby Bragan was quoted as saying he'd not be interested in certain aspects of such a deal, but that at the moment he just can't see a man-for-man swap," Haddix for Thomas, or Haddix for Groat.

Mayo Smith, Phillies manager, had no comment.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodgers' home run slugger, says he isn't worried about his kind of hits so far this spring.

Manager Walt Alston says the same thing.

But Alston apparently has decided not to use Snider against lefthanded pitchers.

Alston let him out of the lineup against Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday. Yes, a lefty, Harvey Haddix, started for the Phils.

Dark Blues Change Tactics For Big Race

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A slave-driving Australian has whipped his Oxford crewmates into the favorite's role in Saturday's Oxford - Cambridge boat race. Win or lose, his training methods are likely to be the subject of continuing debate.

Rod Carnegie, president of the Oxford Unies Boat Club, graduated from Melbourne University in the same class as John Landy and shares the mile record-holder's intense devotion to athletic techniques.

Losers of 25 of the last 31 races including the last two straight, the Oxonians have departed drastically from traditional methods in their efforts to reverse the trend.

In place of the normal six-week training period, Carnegie substituted a rigorous conditioning program beginning last November which included night training and running as well as conventional gymnastics.

There was controversy—which has some Oxford partisans almost hoping for a Cambridge victory—arose when Carnegie threw overboard the "lie back" strike that has graced the 4½-mile Thames classics for generations.

In its place he substituted the upright posture and increased leg action with which crews from the United States, Canada and Australia showed up Britain's Olympic and European teams as the leading some riverbank prophets predicted Cambridge's 1948 mark of 17:30.0 for the Putney-to-Mortlake distance may fall.

Lizzie Borden Case Brilliantly Told on Omnibus on Sunday

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody has favorite murder mysteries. One of mine is the Lizzie Borden case.

Did this 32-year-old spinster seize a hatchet one hot August day in 1892 and slay her father and stepmother in their Fall River, Mass., home? The burden of circumstantial evidence indicates that she did. But a jury acquitted her.

The fascinating sequence of events was brilliantly retold on Omnibus (ABC-TV, Sundays, 4 p.m. EST). First her trial was dramatized, with some sage, dry comments by the noted Boston lawyer, Joseph Welch, who has long been interested in the case. Then Agnes de Mille presented her own interpretation of the case in her beautiful ballet Fall River Legend,

TAUNTED PT BOYS

Personally I've been familiar with the story since childhood because my father's family lived in Fall River for many years. My grandfather knew Andrew Borden and never tired of discussing the case.

My father recalls seeing Lizzie ride out in a carriage when he was a small boy. He remembers, with a grimace at the insensitivity of youth, how he and other boys would run after the carriage of the shunned woman chanting, "Andy Borden, he is dead; Lizzie chopped him on the head."

As he now says, "Surely Lizzie was punished."

The Omnibus dramatization, leaning carefully to the line of court records, indicated Lizzie was guilty—though many lawyers would point out reasonable doubt on the basis of evidence admitted at the trial.

As Welch said, the jury could scarcely do other than find her innocent. But why, for example, did the court find inadmissible the testimony of the clerk from whom Lizzie tried to buy poison?

STIMULATING DRAMA

A measure of the value of the Omnibus dramatization is that it stimulated one to think on a controversial matter.

As drama it was superbly played by an excellent cast. As courtroom drama it naturally lacked the suspense of what would be the outcome. Thus the interjected commentary of Welch was a wise decision, employing interpretation where dramatic suspense was weak.

Miss de Mille's Fall River Legend was a brilliant example of the creative mind stripping an historic event to emotional fundamentals.

AT THE McCARTHY — Martha Hyer is a society girl of dubious morals who falls in love with a big-time gambler in "Alaska Conquest," United International picture to be co-starred with Richard Boone. Also co-starred with Hyer are Claudia Dickford and Kathryn Grant. Opens Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Kirk Douglas has the title role in the Cinemascope and color production "The Indian Fighter," which is also produced. The picture opens Thursday at the Park Theatre through United Artists release. On the same program is the Cinemascope and color "Odongo" starring Rhonda Fleming and Macdonald Carey.

AT THE BELLE — Trouble mounts for the wagon train pioneers as Fess Parker angers the medicine man of the Sioux tribe with the news that the Chief's son is dangerously ill in this suspense filled scene from Walt Disney's "Westward Ho the Wagons!" saga of the Far West in color and CinemaScope, playing tonight for the last times with "Disneyland U.S.A." offering 42 minutes of thrills and wondrous sights in Technicolor, on the huge CinemaScope screen.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma went to the movies last night, and this morning at breakfist ma said, William, I cant forget that scene in the picture.

Which scene was that? pop said, I slept through a good many of them, he said.

Which he usually does at the movies, and ma said, I meen the scene between the son and his mother and father, where de tells them he didn't ask to be born. It seems to me sons and daughters are constantly making that awful statement in books and pictures, she said.

They must of heard it somewhere, pop said, and ma said, But William, the point is, the parents are always at a loss for an answer. The poor dears just seem helpless and overwhelmed by the lavic sons and faces and I polnt to third place the class champion is picked and awarded a victory prest. This year the prest was won by Bonnie Kinkaid in the beginners class and Heather Mills in the swimmers class.

Runners were K. Linacott, S. Skelley, G. Dickey and C. Daniels; Clerks, S. Campbell, M. Vanstone, J. Walsh, T. Brenna and N. Rackham; Starter: Miss J. Muirhead and scorer, W. Heffernan. Results (on point basis):

Senate Probers Aiming Fresh Questions at Beck

WASHINGTON (AP) —Senate investigators aim fresh questions today at Teamsters Union President Dave Beck.

Beck was called back for additional testimony about using union funds for his own business deals and personal bills.

In a stormy, full day's questioning Tuesday the panel's angry and protesting union leader dodged answers to most questions from the Senate rackets investigating committee.

He invoked the Fourth and Fifth Amendments and much of the main body of the U.S. constitution in contending both that the committee had no authority to put the questions and that he was not required to testify against himself. He said his was on advice of his absent chief counsel, former Senator James Duff.

REFUSED TO TALK

Beck refused to talk about his alleged use of more than $200,000 of union funds for his own purposes, including paying bills for $14 neckties, shoes, shirts and a private gardener.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) and other senators said they want to question Beck further in connections with Nathan Shefferman, a Chicago labor relations consultant.

Robert Kennedy, committee counsel, said about $85,000 in Teamsters west coast union dues money was "siphoned" from the union via Shefferman to Beck, Beck's son, and a relative of Beck's wife, Norman Gessert.

Among other things Beck refused to say Tuesday whether or not he told the truth on a television program March 17 when he said he "borrowed" some $300,000 to $400,000 in union funds without interest but has fully repaid the amount.

Beck's ducking of committee questions already has put him in dutch with his AFL-CIO colleagues. He is a member of the AFL-CIO executive council and one of the federation's 29 vice-presidents.

Beck's invoking the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering committee questions runs directly contrary to a new AFL-CIO ethical practices code.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, called an emergency council meeting for Friday morning to consider Beck's case. It was indicated the council may consider bringing charges against Beck and the entire Teamsters Union, the largest AFL-CIO affiliate with 1,500,000 members.

Hollywood Bouncing to Calypso Beat and Producer Cashing In

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood is bouncing to a calypso beat.

The film companies have registered no less than 30 titles containing the word calypso, including the now - shooting dandy, Boy Girl Goes Calypso. Don't be surprised if even Ma and Pa Kettle go calypso, and Tarzan and the Bowery Boys as well.

The producers want to cash in on the calypso craze, but they'll have to go some to catch up with Sam Katzman. The film - making marvel finished Calypso Heat Wave on Monday and plans to have it playing in New York within four weeks. At that, he claims to be a little slow.

"This calypso craze sneaked up on me," he said. "I should have seen it coming much sooner."

The cigar - chewing Katzman is a much richer man for having recognized another musical craze. Last year he strung together Rock Around the Clock for $385,000. Aided by rock and bunnies, the film is adding up a $4,000,000 gross.

He followed this with Don't Knock the Rock at $365,000.

"If it did half the business of the first picture, I'd consider myself lucky," he said. "But it's doing 75 per cent!"

Katzman, who comes from a musical family, keeps his well-tuned ear to the ground. He tours the U.S. twice yearly assessing public tastes, and prowls the musical joints. He said that his 19-year-old son is the best barometer of juvenile tastes.

"Whatever he goes for, I look into," Katzman said.

The producer's speed with Calypso Heat Wave is unmatched by beat the opposition.

"I want to get the picture out in a hurry because this calypso craze won't last long," he said. "The kids don't like to be left behind blow over. They like something with a beat, something they can dance to — and calypso ain't it."

Katzman is supplying Columbia with at least two films — in three or half the company's entire production. As to whether he judge the "rock" films, his pictures are good investments.

Since Katzman is an independent producer, he hasn't spent more than $1,000,000 for a picture. In fact, Fort Ti, at $600,000, was about his most expensive.

Four Youths Charged

BRANTFORD (CP) — Police Tuesday charged four youths with the theft of automobile accessories, alleged to have taken place over the last year in such widespread areas as Niagara Falls, Brantford and Galt.

Police said a theft ring using Brantford as a base of operations dealt in such items as hubcaps, wheel discs and fender skirts.

Charged with theft are Fred Sykes, 19; Kenneth Galloway, 17; Roy Nock, 18; and John W. Gallaty, 20.

"Y" Swimming

42 prep girls competed in the annual Belleville YMCA Prep girls' swimming championships Sunday afternoon.

Floating and distance events provided the beginners group with opportunities to show their aquatic prowess while the swimmers competed in back-stroke, crawl stroke, free style, diving swimming and diving events. On a point basis of 5 points for first place, 3 points for second place and 1 point for third place the class champion is picked and awarded a victory prest. This year the prest was won by Bonnie Kinkaid in the beginners class and Heather Mills in the swimmers class.

Runners were K. Linacott, S. Skelley, G. Dickey and C. Daniels; Clerks, S. Campbell, M. Vanstone, J. Walsh, T. Brenna and N. Rackham; Starter: Miss J. Muirhead and scorer, W. Heffernan. Results (on point basis):

Prep Beginners: 1. B. Kinkaid 8 points; 2. P. Mueller 5; 3. M. Shadden 3; 3. M. Ironside 3; 4. P. McClelland 2; 4. L. Marmer 2.

Prep Swimmers: 1. H. Mills 13 points; 2. E. Corke 9; 3. J. Morane 5; 4. S. Gilt 3.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, March 28, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Avoid negligence, carelessness. They can ruin an otherwise excellent performance. Day stresses an unbiased, analytical approach to essentials in order to attain best results. Humor also important.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't let yourself become enmeshed in a tedious, unproductive program. Your agile mind and money-making ideas should be suitably employed. Make every minute count if you would outstrip competition.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Change your approach so that it will be more effective. Discuss with and ask the advice of reliable associates when necessary. It is not sensible to remain "in the dark" when the "info" is yours for the asking.

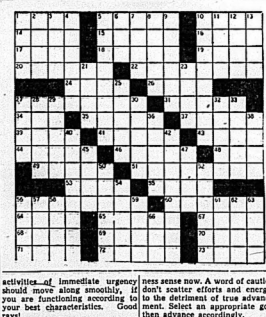
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be careful about important papers, making monetary commitments. Discuss difficult problems with family, those dear to you, co-workers. Don't be obstinate, selfish.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Finish leftover tasks first, then tackle the new ones with vim, fresh incentive. Adopt an attitude of "I will do it" not "I'll try." No one can expect to make progress without effort.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Step up your normal routine by introducing new, saleable methods. Reach for your goal with the confidence backed by sincere knowing effort. Others enjoy your cheery company, share it.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Most familiar matters, activities of immediate urgency should move along smoothly, if you are functioning according to your best characteristics. Good rays!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A period for productive action, gathering knowledge. Don't waste time or energy on non-essentials. Add to the happiness of others by cheery words and deeds. Control emotions.



November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Scorpio advice also applicable to you. There is no advance without legitimate effort, efficiently planned. Arrange to concentrate on duties in the order of their importance. Avoid overexertion.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — If this is one of your slower days, stop to reflect on future plans. If one of your "eager" days, move with alacrity to complete a well planned program. Intelligent effort, analysis needed.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — It is up to you how far you progress now. Don't wait for opportunity to put in an appearance. Be on the lookout; it can pass you by without you recognizing it. Procrastination should be avoided.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Display your fine business sense now. A word of caution: don't scatter efforts and energies to the detriment of true advancement. Select an appropriate goal, then advance accordingly.

You born today: Your leadership is strong. You have many fine qualities, including initiative, courage, vigor and the knack for working hard no matter the odds. You love your family, and always want them to have the best. You probably would travel at a moment's notice. You don't fear opposition but, through aggressiveness, may find yourself in hassles you never intended. Curb impatience, fickleness. Your generosity can be foolish at times.

BRITAIN

Indication that the UN Emergency Forces can no longer operate unless Israel agrees to accept —at least in principle—members of the force on her territory.

4. Canadian fears about the effects on its trade of the European common market and the way its trade area have been allayed but not dissipated.

5. Canada has no immediate intention of withdrawing any forces from Europe but will, together with other NATO members may eventually reduce its manpower.

6. Prospects of a visit by the Queen to Canada were discussed but Britain will not be able to repeat back to the Queen before any announcement can be made.

FOR NUCLEAR POWER

The communique said the British purchase of Canadian uranium will greatly assist the U.K. in carrying out an expanded nuclear power program. Arrangements also were discussed to supply Britain's uranium fuel requirements after the five-year contract period. The two countries agreed that further discussions on the matter should proceed between the agencies concerned.

These agencies are the U.K. Energy Authority and the Canadian government's Atomic Energy Refining Limited, which has entered into purchase contracts with Canadian uranium companies.

Canada will continue to sell the major portion of its uranium production to the U.S., but officials said Canada now can expand production to take care of any and all customers. Maximum production is expected to reach $300,000,000 in the next year.

Trade Minister Howe told a press conference that terms of the contract are "very similar" to those agreed between Canada and the U.S. The three countries had been pioneers in this field since 1942 and always had worked as a group.

Macmillan told the same press conference, which followed the conclusion of his talks with the Canadian prime minister, that the uranium agreement was "very important" for the United Kingdom. Britain was about to embark on a "bold new program" of industrial atomic power plants and it depended largely on Canadian raw material.

EGYPTIAN PLAN

The Cairo sources reported Hammarskjold had made no agreement with Nasser on the Egyptian proposals and did not give them his official approval "because it is not the secretary-general's business to do those things."

Pointing out that the canal may be reopened fully in two weeks, they said Hammarskjold's chief task was preparations of a workable plan to meet immediate problems. Other issues will be dealt with as they arise.

The tug Edgar Bonnet, last barrier in the canal, was moved 50 miles of up to 20,000 tons, was lifted from the channel bottom by tanks and moved to town out of the way today, its removal will leave only one official Egyptian go-ahead necessary for resumption of three-quarters or more of normal traffic.

The Hammarskjold-Nasser talks brought no solid agreement on Egypt's position regarding the Gaza Strip, the informants said, but they reported much ground had been covered. One source hinted that Nasser might have given the secretary-general an oral commitment not to return troops to the Mediterranean coastal strip immediately or to take any other action to disturb the uneasy truce along the Israeli-Gaza frontier. UN troops now are guarding the border.

Work Started On New Factory In North Trenton

TRENTON (Special) — Work started today on a new factory building to the foundation of the industry that will employ 60 women. The Steenburg Construction Co. of Trenton made application on Monday for a permit to build a modern 12,000 square feet plant. The site is on North Murray Street just east of the Queensway Hotel.

Credited with bringing the negotiations to a successful conclusion are ex-mayor Kenneth Couch and A. J. Bourne, manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Mayor Ross Murrit said he was aware something was in the wind with regard to a new industry three weeks ago and extended congratulations to the two negotiators.

Construction will be hurried so that the newest addition to Trenton industry will be in production this year.

Mr. Couch gave no hint as to the name of the company locating here or the product to be manufactured intended to manufacture.

Office Safe Opened and $100 Removed

TRENTON (Special) — Police have another robbery to solve. Sometime over the week-end before or after Halloran's Service Station was entered and $80 was taken from the safe.

Percy Horowitz, a partner in Reliable Iron Company also discovered Monday morning on return from his home in Toronto that the safe in the office there had been opened and $100 in workers' money removed. Thieves or burglars used a chisel and hammer to force the safe door open, but despite the fact that there was a building claim they heard no unusual noise Saturday night or Sunday morning," Mr. Horowitz said.

POLICE BUDGET UP

Mayor Ross Burrit said today that the police budget for the year had submitted a budget of $83,000 for approval by town council. The budget is an increase of $2,000 from last year but the increase was largely due to salary increase was in accordance with the increase in the size of the police force.

12 CANDIDATES

The Trenton Chamber of Commerce is preparing for the annual election of officers. The 12 candidates in the field seven will be elected. Names on the ballot include Peter Lake, Fred Jones, Clarence Gillan, Jack Goldberg, W.J. House, Dean Keeler, Doug Lytle, Alf Molley, Dr. R. Patrick, Paul Tripp, A.J.C. Ward, Alex Wilson.

Scrutineers for the election are W.W. Burt, Alberton, A.J.C. Ward, George Brown and Alex Gilbert, secretary manager of the chamber.

Prime Minister Removes Doubt About Election

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent has removed any doubt that there will be a federal election this year.

He made it in the Commons Wednesday of the "dissolution of Parliament" and indicated this will come within three weeks of next Saturday.

He was replying to Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) as the House approved a resolution sponsored by the prime minister enabling the Commons to sit Saturday, meeting this week. Mr. St. Laurent said it will not sit more than two or three Saturdays after this coming one.

The likeliest election date now is June 10, although June 17 still is a possibility. Elections must be on a Monday. The next Monday days in that month are June 24, Quebec provincial holiday for the feast of St. Jean Baptiste, and June 3, which would require enumeration during Derby Week, the week before Easter.

The six-day enumeration of voters must begin 49 days before polling day and with a June 3 date this would require enumeration April 15-20. By law, general elections must be on a Monday and if the Monday set is a statutory holiday, polling takes place the following Tuesday. With a provincial holiday, this would mean voting in that province would take place on Tuesday, one day after the rest of the country.

Britain, France Refuse to Pay Tolls to Egypt

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France are standing firm on their refusal to pay Suez Canal tolls to the Egyptian canal authority.

But, despite official government "advice" against such payments, a little British cargo vessel under Panamanian registry planned to start through the canal today and already had paid the tolls in Egyptian currency, the bulk of the required toll.

The ship is the 1,592-ton Vergport, formerly Stancia Vittofia, purchased recently by Greek owners and sailed from London from an Italian concern.

As this report was received from the Cairo British announced that British shipowners are being advised to avoid using the waterway until current negotiations clarify the situation.

Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore, replying to a question in the House of Commons, said the tolls question was discussed by United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold with Egyptian leaders in Cairo.

Postpone Vote

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the Commons today that a vote among Ontario flue-cured tobacco growers, scheduled for next Monday, was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. Gardiner said the postponement is to allow more time to study the situation.

POLITICAL STAMPS

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's Communications Minister Moustafa Khalil has approved five new stamps going on sale in April. They depict Egypt historically as "the tomb of aggressors."

Today's Chuckle

For an hour and a half the pastor droned on with his fervent sermon.

Finally he asked: "What more can I say?"

There was a pause. Then from the rear pew: "You might say Amen."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: In Southern Ontario and Quebec skies were partly cloudy and temperatures held above the freezing point. Through Northern Ontario, under clear skies temperatures had dropped to around five or 10 degrees above zero. During the day skies are forecast to be mainly sunny over all the province with temperatures climbing to near 50 in Southern Ontario and to the high 30s in the north. This fine weather is expected to continue on Friday.

QUEEN MAY VISIT CANADA THIS FALL SAYS ST. LAURENT

Would Come Here Before Going to U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen may visit Canada this year.

This possibility was raised by Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday on his return from Bermuda conferences with Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan.

Replying to questions from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and other members in the Commons, Mr. Laurent said the Queen will be asked to visit Canada on any North American trip she may make.

He had been informed of discussions between Mr. Macmillan and President Eisenhower earlier in Bermuda about the possibility of the Queen visiting the United States. It was agreed that an invitation to Canada would be recommended to the Queen by the United Kingdom government if Her Majesty crossed the Atlantic this year.

CONFERENCE IN LONDON

Mr. St. Laurent said a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference is to be held in London that summer. Mr. Macmillan had felt "quite strongly" that the next Commonwealth conference should be held in London.

Finally, the British prime minister had felt "that we should at that meeting arrange for a system of holding these meetings in other countries of the Commonwealth."

Of the Bermuda meetings, Mr. St. Laurent said the possible effects on Canadian trade of the projected European common market had been discussed and Canada's anxieties had been anticipated by the United Kingdom.

The British view was that there is little likelihood of the common market being used to restrict trade to that area. "We found that they shared our view that this question was with us well around it, could be very helpful in promoting multilateral trade throughout the world."

Fowler Highlights

Highlights of recommendations of the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting in its report issued today:

Appointment of a "board of broadcast governors" responsible for supervising all broadcasting in Canada, under Parliament.

Elimination of the present CBC board of governors, which now supervises operations of both the CBC and private stations.

The CBC would retain authority to direct private stations in the use of its "national services."

The federal government's policy of single-station TV operation in viewing areas should soon be abandoned but second stations should meet rigorous performance standards.

Propose new system of regulation would not make any fundamental change in concept of existing system.

Federal treasury would contribute about $470,000,000 over the next six years to finance CBC expansion and operations, largely for TV.

There would be no licence on TV or radio receivers.

Yield from a 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and TV receivers — now going to the CBC for operations — would be used for capital purposes.

The CBC — which now gets its money year-to-year from Parliament — should be financed on a long-term basis founded generally on the amount of national consumer spending.

Canada's system of combining publicity and privately-owned broadcasting should be maintained.

Enforcement of broadcast regulations should be tightened. The regulatory body should not hesitate to cancel station licences for flagrant violations.

Extension of the CBC's French-language radio and TV service is recommended.

Developments of more live Canadian programs should be encouraged, in both radio and TV.

The commission suggested the CBC abandon its Dominion radio network.

Regulations for the program performance of private stations should not be based on a national minimum but on the capabilities of stations.

For the future, there should be a statutory prohibition against more than 20-per-cent non-Canadian ownership in a Canadian broadcasting station.

Licensing of stations should remain basically as now—by the cabinet — but with some variations in procedure.

Half the CBC's television service would be in color by 1963, following a start on color TV two years from now.

RECORD BREAKING ROAD PROGRAM GIVEN BY ALLAN

$231,023,750 Will Be Spent This Season

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan today gave the Ontario legislature details of a record $231,023,750 road program in the fiscal year beginning March 31.

The minister tabled two documents. One set out plans for a $130,700,000 construction program on King's highways and secondary roads. The other listed allotments of $100,323,750 for municipal roads—$57,598,350 for construction and $42,725,400 for maintenance—and $2,000,000 for sharing the cost.

The $130,700,000 for provincial highways compared with $71,700,000 for new construction in the 1956-57 fiscal year and $108,800,000 in the year ending next Sunday.

$65,000,000 EXPENDITURE

Highway plans of the provincial roads program, $93,000,000, represented carry-over from this year and last. The minister estimated that actual expenditure would amount to $65,000,000 with the remainder being carried over again into the 1958-59 fiscal year.

Proposed new mileage was set, estimated at 103,000,000 but "due to the large carry-over, only 75 will be scheduled in such a manner as to effect an expenditure of $35,000,000."

Cost of new construction on Highway 401, a four-lane superway between Windsor and Montreal, was placed at $19,000,000. It called for 38 miles of grading, 32 miles of paving and building of 26 road structures.

Work costing $25,000,000 would be started this year on the Trans-Canada Highway — $6,920,000 to close the gap of about 141 miles between Nipigon River on Lake Superior about 60 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie and Marathon, and another $18,400,000 outside the gap.

Nearly Two Billion Dollars Required Says Road Minister

Would Concentrate on Building in Next 10 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario should spend $183,000,000 a year for the next 10 years to fit its 11,000-mile system of provincial highways to carry the traffic load, the Ontario legislature was told today.

The program was pictured in an illustrated 58-page printed report, containing about 24,000 words of fact, covering highway needs over the next 20 years.

The report, tabled in the legislature by Highways Minister Allan, put the total bill for the next 20 years at $1,500,000,000, enough to habilitate existing roads and to build new ones. It proposed that rehabilitation and construction be concentrated in a 10-year period so car drivers would reap the benefits sooner.

FURTHER STUDY PLANNED

The proposed $183,000,000 annual bill for new construction compares with the present budgets estimate of $108,500,000 in the current fiscal year ending next Sunday and $130,700,000 in the next fiscal year.

The report, covering only provincial highways and secondary roads, emphasized that the needs study should continue in order to keep abreast of changes. Since the provincial system covers only about one-tenth of the total mileage of streets and roads in the province, a study also was planned of the municipality which come under the jurisdiction of cities, towns and townships — toward which the province contributes.

The report was prepared by the department's planning and design division whose first head was W. J. Fulton, recently appointed deputy minister. It contained a letter from Mr. Allan to Premier Frost saying that the department could take action to solve the highways problem only with the understanding and support of the people of Ontario and members of the legislature.

SHORTCOMINGS LISTED

The report listed this background of shortcomings in 1956:

1. Of the 8,60 0miles of King's highways—so designated because they are "city-to-city and/or "province-wide interest" — 3,800 miles "should have immediate improvement."

Hammarskjold Returns Home From Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold returned to headquarters today for conferences with diplomats anxious for news of his talks East talks with Egyptian President Nasser.

The secretary-general was to talk with his seven-nation Middle East advisory committee at an afternoon meeting. Its members are Canada, Brazil, Ceylon, Colombia, India, Norway and Pakistan.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said Hammarskjold had reached a "gentlemen's agreement" with Nasser on UN Emergency Force troops to remain along the Gaza Strip indefinitely for the time being.

The informants said it is believe the agreement included a promise by Nasser not to close Egyptian troops into the Gaza Strip immediately and to defer action regarding Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

EGYPT NOMINALLY

One Egyptian source said UNEF troops are in Gaza "enjoying Egyptian hospitality" and emphasized that more formal arrangements would have to be made regarding their status. But the source also was stressed that for the time being Israel and UN forces along the border diluting the Gaza Strip and Israel.

Hammarskjold has proposed stationing of UN units along both sides of the armistice line to curb border raids and lessen the danger of renewed fighting. Israel has said she will not permit their assignment to Israeli territory.

The secretary - general also brought back word of Egypt's latest proposals for clearing the Suez Canal.

Nasser was said to be insisting still that all canal tolls must be paid to Egypt, but agreeable to setting aside the fees for UN technical assistance in developing and maintaining the waterway and five per cent to compensate shareholders of the old Suez Canal Company.

Archbishop Makarios Freed From Exile by British Govt.

By RONALD WILLIAMS

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today freed exiled Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus and offered her rorist leader, Greek Col. George Grivas safe conduct out of the Mediterranean island colony.

Makarios, leader of the Greek Cypriot movement for union with Greece, was deported a year ago to the Seychelle Islands for refusing to condemn terrorism.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons Makarios will be free to go anywhere he chooses on a valid passport from his Indian island home of exile is being arranged immediately. Three other Greek Orthodox clerics detained with him are also being released, Lennox-Boyd said.

Britain last week offered to release Makarios if he called for cessation of the two-year-old campaign by the terrorist organization, Ethniki Organosis Kyprion Agonliston (National Organization of Cypriot Combatants).

The archbishop's reply, published here today, said it is his sincere desire to see peace restored in Cyprus.

"It appears the EOKA organization and to the British government as well," Makarios said.

"I appeal to EOKA to declare the cessation of all operations, given that the British government will show a spirit of reconciliation by abolishing simultaneously the present state of emergency."

Lennox-Boyd said in his statement that the state of emergency will not be lifted in Cyprus until Governor Sir John Harding feels it is safe to do so.

The colonial secretary said that even though the archbishop's reply is not a clear appeal for an end to violence, as sought by the government, it is considered no longer necessary to detain him.

Makarios was deported from Cyprus shortly after his negotiations with the government for self-determination broke down.

The colonial secretary also announced that Britain is prepared to offer safe conduct out of Cyprus to Col. Grivas, leader of the two-year guerrilla struggle.

The offer of safe conduct is open also to any other foreign nationals who are members of the guerrilla organization and are at large in Cyprus.

Daddy's Money Comes in Handy To Buy Dogs

DETROIT (AP)—A little, blue-eyed blonde of 12 just loved dogs. But her parents wouldn't permit her to own one.

The little girl had lots of friends who had dogs. But they didn't have any either.

One after another seven of them became dog owners. All were registered, pedigreed stock.

Wherever the little 12-year-old went she could play with a friend's dog.

That was part of the story police unraveled from a roll of $20 bills that fell out of the 12-year-old's jacket as she romped with a friend's dog. The friend's mother became suspicious.

Police also found that the 12-year-old's parents didn't believe in banks just as he didn't in dogs. He kept his savings in closet drawers and the little girl had chanced upon the hidden stronghold.

The strongbox financed taxi trips to kennels and purchase of $1,095 worth of dogs, with which a little, blue-eyed blonde of 12 quickly love to romp—at the homes of friends.

Strike Affects 65,000 Daily Commuters

NEW YORK (AP)—Trains of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad stopped operating at 7 a.m. today, signalling the start of a strike affecting some 65,000 daily commuters between New York and New Jersey.

A walkout by five unions of non-operating employees hit commuters in the Hudson, Bergen, Hoboken and Jersey City, N.J. areas involving 1,000 members of telegraphers, electrical workers, signal men, car men and about 100 members of the Transport Workers Union. They have demands were increases of 15 cents an hour over a three-year period.

The company has offered an 8½-cent-an-hour increase in a one-year contract. Wage rates now range from $1.98½ to $2.86 an hour.

State-Controlled Broadcast System Only Way to Keep National Identity

OTTAWA (CP) — The Fowler royal commission on broadcasting said today there is a threat to Canada's national identity from the United States and that only a strong culture carried by American radio and TV programs can preserve it.

A Canadian state - controlled broadcasting system is the only means of preserving national identity, a report published today by the privately-owned system, without support from the public treasury, would be impelled by economic forces to become the outlet for American networks and programs.

Canada faced the problem of costs in transmitting both TV and radio signals over long distances.

The economic problem was "still more difficult" because of the division of the population into about 11,000,000 English-speaking and 5,000,000 French-speaking people.

Canada could have cheaper radio and TV if it used U.S. Canadian stations were tied to U.S. outlets.

That single fact would destroy Canada's history, with respect to its role in the development of broadcasting.

"Canadian answer, irrespective of party or race, has been uniformly the same for nearly a century.

"We are prepared, by measures of assistance, financial aid and a broadcasting system, to compensate for our disabilities of geography, sparse population and vast distances; and we have accepted this as a legitimate role of government in Canada."

Charge Man Starved Two Dogs to Death

KITCHENER (CP) — Campbell Hislop of nearby Blair today was convicted on a charge of cruelty in causing the slow death of two dogs by starvation.

Father of three children, he was given a suspended sentence.

Three photographs of the dead dogs were introduced as evidence. Magistrate A. D. Baron, in sentencing Hislop, described the act as "the most revolting and inhuman act of cruelty I've seen."

Hislop pleaded not guilty. He said he worked nights and instructed his wife to feed the dogs.

Woman Sure Face Seen on Television Was That of Long-Missing Husband

MONTREAL (CP) — For four seconds, Mrs. Alexander Dekan saw a face on a television program—the face she feels was that of her long-missing husband.

The last word she heard of him, was 12 years ago when he was a private in the German army at Dresden, Germany. Since then she emigrated to Canada without ever hearing from her husband.

Last Sunday, she and her married daughter, Janina Dimitrof, were watching a documentary film on the liberation of France and the destruction of the German Seventh Army in early 1945.

"Alexander's face flashed on the screen for about four seconds," Mrs. Dekan said Wednesday. "I screamed and then I reached for him. He was gone. It all happened so fast. But I know it was he."

She said her husband appeared among a large group of German prisoners of war being escorted by U.S troops along a street in a French village.

The camera brought in several close-ups of the captured soldiers and Mrs. Dekan says Mrs. Dekan, her husband.

"I was after the program ended, Janina got in touch with a representative of the insurance firm that sponsored the show. He telegraphed the company's head office in Toronto and asked that a effort to pinpoint the exact date and location of the filmed episode.

Mrs. Dekan said her daughter-in-law are awaiting the answer.

"I'll be very surprised just before the war ended in Europe, there's a good chance that he is still alive."

After the war ended, the family waited in Bruchsal, Germany, for his return. When he did not appear by 1948, Janina and her elder sister, Yenanor, now married and living in Sudbury, emigrated to Canada, and Mrs. Dekan followed them to Montreal the next year.

City Manager Gives Address To Labor Council

At a well attended meeting held in the Odd Fellows hall, Front Street, of the Belleville and District Labor Council the delegates were pleasantly surprised with a short address by city manager Dennis P. Herring, who outlined the city manager form of government. Mr. Herring told of the progress of this form government from its beginning to its present day stage and what it may be in the future. Mr. Herring's address was followed by a short period of questions and answers. Mr. Herring was given a rousing round of applause by the assembled members and was thanked most kindly by the council's president, D. Bushaw.

The council was also addressed by Mr. A. Harris of the Communication Workers of America who are at present engaged in the organizing of the Northern Electric plant. Mr. Harris thanked the council for all its help in the past and asked that it continue until the job at hand is completed. At the end of Mr. Harris' address the council went on record to back Mr. Harris' request for support and all members pledged to do their utmost.

The meeting also had in attendance Mr. Harry Noakes, the Canadian Labor Congress representative for this district, and a large body of workers from the Northern Electric plant headed by Bro. J. Walker and Sis. Dee of the C.W.A.

An election for a Sgt.-at-Arms took place at this time and R. Pope will be Sgt.-at-Arms for 1957.

For the remainder of the meetings were discussed for meetings and the reading of the various letters and the hearing of the reports of the committees, hospital board by Bro. Whitehead, auditor's report by P. DeLeeuw, credentials report by A. Firth. In a letter received from the CLC it was advised that all local councils go on record opposing trading stamps as they claim it has a tendency to increase the cost of living.

DUKE'S PORTRAIT CAUSES STIR IN U.K.

A Briton opens his newspaper in London to study a reproduction of a new, controversial portrait of Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. The picture likeness of the Queen's husband inspired the paper to ask whether the painting was "cruel or realistic." Readers were challenged with, "You can like it or hate it, but you can't ignore it." Amingori painted the portrait.

Department Proposes to Pave 23.6 Miles on 401 Highway East and West of Belleville

Application of granular base and hot mix paving of 23.6 miles of No. 401 highway extending both east and west of Belleville, is listed by the Ontario Department of Highways as a proposed new project of its road construction program for the fiscal year of 1957-58.

The sections listed for the proposed new work are between Trenton and Belleville, and from Belleville east to Napanee.

Also proposed is grading, culverts, granular base and hot mix paving for 2.5 miles on No. 37 Highway from Belleville north to Corbyville.

Under new structures proposed is the Sidney Street interchange on No. 401 at Trenton, and a bridge over Blessington Creek on the north leg of No. 3 Highway east of the Belleville city limits.

Structures on No. 401 on which work is now progressing include the No. 401 interchange north of Belleville; a bridge over the Salmon River in Tyendinaga township; an overhead bridge at the CPR line in Tyendinaga township, and the Sidney township bridge over Trent River and No. 33 Highway north of Trenton.

Grading and culverts on No. 401 west from Trenton 4.6 miles, is also in progress.

In the Bancroft district the following work is proposed for the 1957-58 construction program:

Under grading, culverts and granular base.

Project No. 17-57, Hwy—Sec. Rd. Bicroft, Crowe River to Monck Lake (Bicroft Mine western) 3 miles plus.

Project No. 18-57, Hwy. — Sec. Rd. Bicroft. Monck Lake North to Sec. Rd. 500 (1.25 mi. S. of Deer Lake) 2 miles plus or minus miles.

Project No. 19-57, Hwy.— Sec. Rd. Bicroft. Monck Lake West to Sec. Rd. 500 (2.55 mi E. of Tory Hill) 7 plus or minus miles.

Under Structures.

Project No. 20-57, Hwy. — Sec. Rd. Bicroft. Crowe River (Bicroft Mines).

Project No. 21-57, Hwy. — Sec. Rd. Bicroft. Crowe River (North of Monck Lake).

Project No. 22-57, Hwy. — Sec. Rd. Bicroft, Irondale River (West of Monck Lake).

Provincial Police Seeking Car That Hit Garage

Provincial police are looking for a hit-and-run driver who last night missed a curve on Highway 14 at Foxboro, crashed into a garage at the south end of the village and kept on going.

Damage to the garage owned by Mr. John Reid was about $200. The speeding car barely missed a late model sedan parked outside the garage and showered broken lumber over a car parked in the garage.

Provincial Constable John Fullerton said the car was southbound and missed the curve at the intersection of the 3th concession of Sidney. The car went across the Reid driveway and took the corner out of the garage and then disappeared from the scene.

Ridley Avenue Apartment Suffers $2,500 Damage

A local dry cleaner employee, "Cue" Christopher, 2 Ridley Ave., lost most of his personal belongings Wednesday evening when, during his absence from home fire swept through his two - roomed apartment, doing close to $2,500 damage to building and contents.

Mr. Christopher had been away from his apartment for only a short time when the family living in another section of the house smelled smoke and turned in the alarm.

Belleville firemen confined the blaze mainly to the Christopher apartment but smoke and water damage was heavy in the other part of the house occupied by Mr. Alfred Shanghold. Owner of the house is George Cole.

The blaze was discovered shortly after eight o'clock and brought out four pieces of fire fighting equipment from the Front Street Traffic on North Front street was re-routed while the blaze was brought under control.

A kitchen rangettte which may have accidentally been left turned on was believed the cause of the blaze. It is thought the overheated rangette caused set fire to plastic curtains in an archway and then spread to the woodwork throughout the apartment. Fire damage was mostly to the Christopher bedroom.

Mr. Christopher works at Lloyd's Cleaners on Catherine street and lives alone in his two - roomed apartment which he rented from Mr. Shanghold.

Special Counsel On Annexation Visits Council

Tentative boundaries for the proposed annexation area in Sidney and Thurlow townships were discussed last night by members of city council, school board representatives and public utilities officials, at a special meeting held at city hall.

Attending the meeting was Jack Weir, Toronto, of Mason, Faulds, Murphy and Waitere, special annexation counsel retained by the city to make the official application for annexation to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Although city officials are still talking in terms of taking in an area of approximately 8,000 acres, it appears that the proposed area for annexation will be whittled from the 8,000 acres originally suggested. Present land area of the city is 2,110 acres.

Last night new boundaries outlining the newly proposed area were tentatively drawn with final boundaries for the annexation application to be undoubtedly determined by a survey which will get underway shortly. Areas expected to be chopped from the original area are in the northeast and northwest corners.

Mayor Wills proposed the annexation area would be bounded by the Purdy sideroad on the east, the Bell Telephone road on west and No. 401 highway on the north.

A recommendation covering the new annexation boundaries, together with a proposal to retain an Ontario Land Surveyor to make the necessary survey preparatory to placing the application before the municipal board, was passed.

Evening Classes Of BCIVS Hold Closing Exercises

Closing exercises for the 1956-57 season of evening classes at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School will be held in the school auditorium this Thursday evening.

Last evening 113 certificates were presented to those who had attended the Monday and Wednesday evening classes during the past six months in auto mechanics, building construction, drafting and blueprint reading, English for New Canadians, conversational French, machine shop practice, elementary typewriting, welding and woodworking.

Tonight certificates will be presented to 161 others who attended Tuesday and Thursday sessions in bookkeeping, bricklaying, drawing and painting, electronics, machine shop, junior technical mathematics, grade XIII mathematics, sewing, shorthand, stationary engineering, elementary typewriting, advanced typewriting, V.I.A. home construction and welding.

Total registration for the year was 723 and each class had a minimum of 6 hours of instruction in the classes which began last October. Certificates are awarded to those who attend at least 80 percent of the sessions and attain a standard of excellence satisfactory to the instructor.

The course in advanced technical education is continuing during the Spring and results in this course will be announced at a later date. Arrangements are being made for a graduation dinner on May 9 to honor the first graduating class of this three-year course.

Evening classes are conducted by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board through its Advanced Vocational Institute. Instruction is given by a staff of thirty teachers under the direction of principal Jack Orr and D. C. Stirling as vice-principal.

Registration for the 1957-58 evening classes will take place on September 24 and 26.

Quaker Couple Plan to Enter Radiation Area

LONDON (Reuters) — Ten persons were today reported to be willing to join a Quaker couple who want to serve as "guinea pigs" in Britain's hydrogen bomb test in the pacific next summer.

The 10 are among dozens who have written letters of encouragement to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steele of Malvern, a town in southern England.

Steele, a 63 - year - old retired poultry farmer, and his 49-year-old civil servant wife Sheila, say they will deliberately seek harm in atomic radiation "to point to the world the horrors of this devilish device."

Steele, parents of three children, want to join a small "suicide flotilla" of Japanese fishing boats which is reported heading for the test area.

"It is not our intention, if we can avoid it, to be killed," Steele says. "If we do not prevent the tests, my wife and I are prepared to end our days in pain to prove how horrible the effects can be."

Drove Flaming Oil Truck to Vacant Lot

OTTAWA (CP)—Police credited truck driver Charles Warner, 36, of nearby Deschenes, Que., with preventing a fire that could have flaming fuel oil truck four blocks from a school in Ottawa's southcentral Glebe area.

The trouble started Wednesday night when an 18-inch wheel—the apparatus linking the tank section of the vehicle with the cab—punctured the full, 2,500-gallon tank as Warner backed the tanker into a service station for repairs. Fourace fuel leaked onto the ground.

Warner, alert to the danger of the leaking fuel, phoned police who sent a cruiser and firemen to steer the truck in reverse. As he drove with his escort, a spark from the muffler ignited the leaking fuel. The bottom of the tanker burst into a mass of flames.

Firemen doused the blaze as Warner continued on his way, then stood by while another tanker pumped away the remaining fuel.

About 2,000 gallons were lost. Some of the oil seeped into sewers. Police had sand dumped on the street and lot to bury the rest.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved narrowly higher today in light morning trading, a considerable amount of which was in the form of profit-taking, especially among uraniums.

The indices all recorded minor advances with western oils leading, up nearly three-quarters of a point. Trading was about average for recent sessions.

Uraniums, which pushed ahead Wednesday and sparked a general rally on the market, were the hardest hit by profit-taking but losses were confined to 10 or 15 cents.

Industrials were narrowly higher. Gains held a three-to-two edge.

Advocate climbed 20 cents to $9.40 among mines. Base Gold was up 15 cents to $5.25 and Raycrock 18 cents to $1.52. International Nickel gained ¾ at 101¼ among senior base metals.

Western oils moved in a 15-cent range among lower-priced issues and a fractional range in the higher-priced list.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 13-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today, Wednesday's noon rate was 95¼ cents.

Dublin's Mayor Urges End to Irish Partition

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Briscoe, lord mayor of Dublin, says that relations between Ireland and England can never be perfect or happy "until England undoes the injustice she has done by the partition of Ireland."

Dublin's first Jewish lord mayor, who arrived in Toronto Wednesday to speak at a United Jewish Appeal dinner, told a press conference that the existence of a divided Ireland "is always looming over every scene," but that a free and united Ireland could be a good neighbor to England.

The lord mayor hailed the return to power of Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party, of which he is a member, and said it will put down the activities of the Irish Republican Army "with a firm hand."

Woman and Boy Held at Gunpoint For Half Hour

TORONTO (CP) — A young woman and her nine - year - old nephew were held at gunpoint in an east-end apartment for nearly 30 minutes Wednesday night before the woman's brother returned home and disarmed the man.

Edith Dobbin said a man came to the apartment and threatened her and the boy with a pistol. About half an hour later her brother John and a friend wrested a loaded starting pistol from the man.

Police charged Joseph Cayes, 24, with possession of an offensive weapon and with pointing a loaded firearm. Cayes is Miss Dobbin's brother-in-law.

Private Checking Of Beck's Record Gets Underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators turned today from public to private checking into their charge that Teamster President Dave Beck misappropriated $320,000 in union funds.

While the union leader headed homeward, they dug for the answers which Beck refused to provide on grounds his answers might tend to incriminate him.

"We are not through with Mr. Beck," said John McClellan (Dem., Ark.), chairman of the special Senate committee conducting the inquiry. "He will be a matter of continuing interest to the committee and further testimony may be desired."

McClellan recessed the hearings indefinitely Wednesday after Beck, in a "flagrant . . . disrespect for honest unionism" and "arrogant contempt" for members of his Teamsters Union.

Beck left Washington saying he intended to catch the first plane to his home in Seattle.

WANTS TO TESTIFY

He told the committee "I'll be able to come out of here clean and white 100 per cent" if he gets a chance to testify in court. He said he expects to do so because of indictments by a Seattle grand jury.

Beck said he would not attend a meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council which has been called to meet Friday to consider his request for constitutional protection against anti-incrimination. A code of ethics adopted by the council earlier this year calls for expulsion of any labor official who refuses the Attorney General of the Constitution to avoid answering questions about union affairs.

McClellan announced he expects about a two-week recess. He said the committee will decide later the subject matter of the next hearings.

McClellan raised the possibility of prosecuting Beck for contempt of Congress, a conviction punishable by up to a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

In addition to contempt for the union, he said, Beck had shown "utter disregard of the committee, of congress, of the United States and for his government," Beck's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, contended, the Senator told Beck, will be determined later.

100 Mexicans Hurt By Explosions in Fireworks Plant

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rescue workers dug through rubble today seeking more victims of two explosions in a fireworks factory that left more than 100 Mexicans dead or injured. Police hunted the factory owner for questioning.

Eleven bodies—four of them of firemen—had been recovered late Wednesday night and 100 persons were in hospital. Many of the injured were not expected to live.

Most of the casualties resulted from the second blast, which came as hundreds of curious neighbors watched firemen fighting the fire after the first explosion. Because it was hazardous, the factory—in a poor residential district—apparently was empty.

Police said they wanted to question Antonio Joyas Chavez, owner of the factory. Officers said his adjoining warehouse was filled illegally with dynamite and other explosives.

Abducted by Nomads in Iran, U.S. Woman Sets Paper Trail

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Government officials said today troops and police have picked up a paper trail left by a pretty American woman kidnapped by bandit tribesmen who killed her husband and another U.S. aid official.

Government sources said they believed the band of nomads, about 12 in number, kidnaped Mrs. Anita Carroll, 35, of Issaquah, Wash., to "sell her on the Arab coasts of the Persian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman."

More than 1,000 Iranian troops and police were reported closing in on the bandits, fleeing across the Tangcoochen Desert of southeastern Iran. There was some speculation they might be trying to escape into Pakistan.

Reports reaching the capital here said the search force had "found little pieces of paper thrown away by Mrs. Carroll as she was forcibly taken away."

The slain Americans, Iranian officials said were Mrs. Carroll's husband, Kevin, 37, development advisor for Kerman, Iran, and Brewster Wilson, 35, a regional specialist for the Near East Foundation.

Iranian officials said the Carrolls and Wilson were driving in a two-jeep party when they were ambushed by the bandits Sunday night near the village of Khash. The Americans held off their attackers for a time with pistol fire.

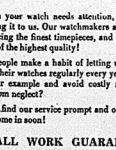
When the Americans' ammunition ran out, the bandits charged in, knifing to death Carroll, Wilson, and two Iranians in their party. No trace was found of Mrs. Carroll.

Drug Injections Started Before Adams Took Case

LONDON (AP) — Counsel for Dr. John Bodkin Adams disclosed today that the rich old lady Adams is accused of drugging to death was given nightly injections of morphia even before he took the case.

Nursing records on the treatment of Mrs. Edith Morrell when she first suffered a stroke in Cheshire in 1948 were offered as evidence at the murder trial of the 58-year-old Adams.

Dr. Arthur Douthwaite, a London specialist, had testified there was "no justification" for such injections and had accused Dr. Adams of "murderous intent" in prescribing them.



KING OF SARCASM

Defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence, asked the Crown expert whether "the field of condemnation that you are spreading from this witness box" included the doctor who treated the aged woman before Dr. Adams took the case.

"If that treatment was for the stroke, yes," replied the specialist, senior physician to London's Guy's Hospital.

"Good gracious me," exclaimed the defence lawyer.

Mrs. Morrell died in November, 1950—2½ years after she suffered a stroke. Adams signed a certificate recording death by cerebral thrombosis.

Ontario Labor Group Assails Dunbar's Remark

TORONTO (CP)—The 600 delegates to the first all-Ontario labor convention here today will vote on whether to formally condemn Provincial Secretary Treasurer Dunbar.

They were also scheduled to discuss the most contentious proposal at the merger meeting of the Ontario Federation of Labor and the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor—whether the new group, also called the Ontario Federation of Labor, should endorse the CCF party.

Delegates Wednesday night heard Claude Jodoin of Montreal, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, charge that statements in the provincial legislature by Mr. Dunbar were "an insult to the Canadian labor movement." He also told them that support of a party would, in the end, be up to Ontario unions.

ACCUSED OFFICIAL

The resolution and Mr. Jodoin's ensuing remarks concerned allegations by Mr. Dunbar Monday in the legislature that Dr. Eugene Forsey, research director for the Canadian Labor Congress and a leading member of the CCF party, had once been a Communist.

The resolution asked that "This convention do now formally condemning as contemptible the allegation of Hon. George Dunbar against the Immunity of Parliament concerning Dr. Eugene Forsey, a highly respected official of the Canadian Labor Congress, and place on record our disapproval of any member of Premier Frost's government using the tactics of the discredited Joseph McCarthy."

The resolution was to be brought before a resolutions committee and will appear in some form today.

The resolution endorsing the CCF party also urges formation of a political action committee to work with the party.

Truck, Transport Collide at Whitby

OSHAWA (CP)—Three persons were injured Wednesday night when a truck and a tractor-trailer transport collided on Highway 2 two miles west of Whitby.

In hospital are Mrs. Frank Nicholson, 27, of Toronto with back injuries, and her brother-in-law Ketelaar, 21, leg injuries, who were in the truck, and Jesse Bird, 31, of Lafayette, Ind., the driver of the transport, with head injuries.

Ketelaar was carrying a small car on his truck for delivery in Arnprior and the transport carried three new farm tractors. After the collision, the vehicles were littered across the highway.

Students Protest Naming Hotel After Queen

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 400 French - Canadian students marched on CNR buildings Wednesday in a noisy demonstration protesting the naming of a new railway hotel after Queen Elizabeth.

Since the name was first announced, student organizations, French nationalist groups and Mayor Jean Drapeau have campaigned strongly to have the 21-storey building, still under construction, named Chateau Maisonneuve after the city's founder.

The Wednesday demonstration, which lasted for three hours until suppertime, apparently was aimed at CNR President Donald Gordon, who announced in Ottawa recently that the railway intends to stick to the name Queen Elizabeth.

The students jeered and taunted the more than 75 police officers who followed them on their march but there were no serious outbreaks. No one was injured or arrested and no property damage was caused, although rush-hour traffic was blocked.

The chanting students, joined by some leather-jacketed youths, carried placards and banners and a straw-filled effigy of Mr. Gordon which they tore to shreds in front of the railway head's McGill Street offices. They shouted unsuccessfully for Mr. Gordon to meet them.

The president viewed the demonstrators from his fifth-st suite and then departed h without instruction. The crowd dispersed a short time later Central Station near the hote Dorchester St.

"We just viewed this thing a lark, and aren't making it a serious reflection of public o ion," said a CNR spokesm "Some of the kids couldn't even shave if they tried."

The demonstration was orgi ized a week ago by Supporters Chateau Maisonneuve, an unc cial group of students from t University of Montreal, L'Ec Polytechnique, Collège No Dame and other French-langu colleges and high schools.

SPRING, IT'S WONDERFUL

Few people greet spring with more eager anticipation than Canadians.

One good reason why spring is a particularly happy time for peoples of northern climes is that it comes as a joy release from winter.

In countries near the equator, with eight or nine months of extended high temperatures, the comparative relief of winter comes almost as a relief from a protracted stay with heat.

Not so in Canada. From coast to coast our summers are delightfully moderate. Granted that we occasionally have a day or two a little too hot for comfort, but these are few and far between. At such times, sunbathing on the shores and ocean beaches is at its best. As the radiant sun retires, the evenings cool off delightfully to encourage refreshing sleep.

Longer hours of daylight, the full-bloom beauty of trees, grass, fields and flowers, the greater variety of outdoor recreations, gardening, motoring and holidaying are some of the reasons why Canadians generally welcome the coming of spring with an overwhelming sense of gladness, young and old, prompting the latter to say, "Spring, it's wonderful."

Almost everybody says: "Spring, it's wonderful."

WRONG REASON

The City Council at Niagara Falls, Ont., has voted unanimously to demand revision of the Lord's Day Act.

It would be interesting to know the geographic report of the delegation they then would it be possible to judge accurately the reasons which moved the council members to take this step.

If, for example, we were to judge from the reasons listed in an abbreviated Canadian Press report, the Niagara Falls Council was certainly not batting more than 50 per cent.

Mayor Joseph M. Dewan said that the city would lose a fortune if everything closed down on Sunday.

Now that, we submit, is not a reason which will impress supporters of the Lord's Day Act. If the Act is right, then its financial cost to the residents of the city arising from its enforcement is immaterial. One might just as well argue that bootleggers would be justified in the Liquor Control Act were properly enforced and advance this as a reason for revising the act.

The Mayor did add, though, that "last year 3,000,000 people came to Niagara Falls as tourists and half of these were here on Sunday."

If this observation was meant to buttress the claim that enforcement of the act would cost the city a fortune, it was no sound argument. But if the Mayor was suggesting that there were a great many people who visited the city on Sundays and required the services offered by hotels, restaurants, then he would be making a point which deserves consideration.

Opponents of the act could argue that man was not made for the Sabbath, but the Sabbath for man.

CANADIAN MEAT CONSUMPTION

Canadians may not be record-breaking meat eaters but on the whole they are doing very well. To supply the domestic market in 1956 it required an average of 36,000 cattle, 106,000 hogs, 17,000 calves and 16,000 sheep and lambs each week. The total consumption for the year was over two billion pounds. —The Farmer's Advocate.

The truth will let you sleep at night
And keep your friendships strong;
They'll come with comfort day and night
To aid when things go wrong.

If friends confide in you their trust,
In all you say and do,
To such great confidence you must
Remember to be true.

If no regret disturbs your mind,
And well you've lived the day,
You can step from your door to find
Good friends along the way.

'Mixed-up Kids' Not New

New York Times

Long before rock 'n' roll we had crazy mixed-up kids. For one amazing example there was a beardstrong peasant girl of 16 who made up her mind to lead the demoralized troops of France to victory and glory. Her elders turned her sternly to forget it. She had no training for such a task—and the work wasn't for girls, anyway. Dedicated statues to teen-agers she retorted that there was plenty to do the wash and the ironing. The forecasts were unanimous that she'd come to a tragic end. So soon and so true! While she was still in her teens, she was burned at the stake. Later generations, however, held her in higher esteem. All over the world they dedicated statues to her; books and plays were written about her; at last (after a slight delay of 489 years) she was canonized as Saint Joan.

Another character, almost as impossible, was a teen-age girl whose memory the British now cherish. Less than a month after she married her sixty-four years old husband the Queen made her a Duchess. Ever since then her country made her a Queen. Victoria's critics were crowds: "self-confident and spirited, the young Queen asserted the importance of her mother." Ladies of her household went into a dither and Prime Ministers, in their tops, but serenely she went her way; and successfully she reigned for sixty-four years. The consensus today is that Queen Victoria was one of the most successful rulers of her era or of any other era.

"Brash" is the only fit word to apply to our next horrible example, an adolescent American artist from the Pennsylvania backwoods whose first show, recently, were wan paintins mixed for him by friendly friends. At 16, with no art experienced, he had the audacity to set up shop in Philadelphia as a portrait painter from living in self-confidence. He moved on to New York City. At 23 he sighed for more worlds to conquer and left for Europe. Now it appeared inevitable that he would quickly conquer it, but not yet awhile. In London the boy from West Philly earned a well-deserved appointment as historical painter to the King; later he was made president of the Royal Academy. A quite implausible fellow, this Benjamin West!

On practically any channel of modern television programs youthful prodigies keep appearing, many of them not even in their teens. Sometimes it is extremely annoying to have these brats putting the rest of us to shame. Yet much worse things have happened than this. There was a young Australian some two hundred years ago who must have irritated his elders beyond belief. He was composing music at 4. He was touring in clavichord recitals at 7. At 11 he was writing an oratorio; then at 13 he was having his first concerts produced and going on a triumphal tour in Italy.

Almost as precocious as this Mozart lad was a certain boy poet in Great Britain. His talent was this young writer that at the early age of 12 he was turning out poems that he successfully passed off as antique manuscripts of the fifteenth century. From his provincial town of Bristol he moved to London and attempted to make a living as a Grub Street free lance. There he failed; there he began to starve to death, he committed suicide. Though he was only 17 when he ended his life, he wrote enough of enduring beauty so that the name of Thomas Chatterton, 187 years later, still lives on in English literature.

What About 'Me' and 'I'?

Toronto Star

Professors of English, though ill paid and unappreciated, have always had one consolation from the fact that they are the architects of and the guardians of the coat from their own ranks, Prof. Barnard of the University of Chicago, has come up with a new doctrine that may bring the whole edifice of academic English to the ground.

In effect, he has stated that since the average man is seldom bound by the rules of grammar and composition, the rules might just as well be dropped.

In Canada the cause of simplicity has been taken in hand by the deputy minister of education of Ontario, Dr. H. H. Smith. He wants to see the word "whom" banished as a starter, on the ground that "who" can also "supercrity over who." Anything "whom" can do "who" can do better, and save a whole letter in the bargain.

If every man is to be his own Webster, what about "I" and "me"? Trying to find the right response when asked for by name on the telephone can be unnerving.

Your first impulse is to declare, with manly forthrightness, "That's me!" But the voice of long dead instructors tug at your sleeve and you pause. You're not quite sure that that is "me" is incorrect, but "this is I" sounds ludicrous. The words stick in your throat.

While you waver between coming right out with "this is he" and stalling for time by demanding "Who do you want for?" your caller hangs up.

He only wanted to tell you to have won an all-expense trip to Coral Gables. And the directory is full of names.

But for all its inconsistencies and difficulties, the English language is worth saving. And to safeguard it we need the professors. They will not only furnish a small but pure flame that can light the road to enlightenment for you and me (or I).

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"The voice of the people is the voice of God."

Is it so? Think about it for a moment. Are the people always right? It was the citizenship of Athens which condemned Socrates to death. It was the rabble which stirred up the crucifixion of Jesus. There is probably no record of a lynching having been perpetrated but that it was done with the mob wholeheartedly.

No, the crowd is just as often wrong as is the individual. Then why do we say that democracy is the proper form of government? Because right or wrong, the group has to decide what its life is going to be. The people by the exercise of democratic procedures, do make many wrong decisions but on the whole, this is the best form of government. If there is no hope here, there is no hope anywhere.

And as a rule, the people, after much thought and discussion, come out generally on the right side of most issues. There is nothing perfect in this world and that does not include democracy, but it is well as for anything else.

The people may not always be right in their judgment but it is this or hopelessness. Democracy is the best approximation of sound and just government.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FEED THE BIRDS

All winter I have been feeding the birds about my home, it has afforded me the greatest of satisfaction. Soon now, with the sun shining, getting warmer, there will be a passing of many varieties of birds returning from the southland looking for their homes in the north and selecting nesting places.

Today, as I write, scores of birds have come to bathe in my water dish and to partake of the scattered food outside my kitchen door. They seem so grateful and happy. I wonder what their thoughts are, if they have any, and I believe they do.

From my window I feed my handsome gray squirrels, who like peanuts from my hand. What beautiful fur coats they have! I have never seen them expensively clothed or so fat and seemingly healthy. It takes but a very short time to gain the confidence of such animals and birds.

Feed the birds about your home and you will get a big return in dividends from those who help in destroying insects and worms about your yard or garden. And don't forget during the winter months! What a world this would be if fears of war never entered anywhere upon this earth! The animals and birds know nothing about war.

Feed the birds and welcome them back from their sunny southland. They will sing for you when you are troubled or discouraged. They will furnish you an orchestra of music at early morn and while the sun sets its glow in the western sky.

Hard to Apply At the Office

The Calgary Herald

Dr. Cleo Dawson — who comes from Kentucky — rocked the deep south lately with her announcement that women need to be bossed and they need to be wisely and firmly explained, applies equally well to women bending over a typewriter or a hot coffee (during the break).

Turning to method, Dr. Dawson advises that when a woman secretary blows her top, don't reason with her. When a woman is mad, she is going to do something and the man in the supervisory capacity has the duty of deciding what it is going to be". She adds that women both in the home and the office need to be wanted and the best method of doing this, as a boss, is to tell them so. Tell them frequently "I love you". She fails to detail exactly what the boss says at the office".

Well, there it is, men. Dr. Dawson doesn't explain what happens if the little woman finds out her husband is working hypothetical love that every day at the office is Valentine's Day. Somehow, shouting "I love you" every time you feel like it doesn't seem to be just the right answer.

Boy Invented Doughnut Hole

St. Catharines Standard

We were interested the other day to read a story of a boy who there happens to be a hole in the centre of the doughnut. . . . The boy was Hanson Gregory, a sea-faring old boy. According to the story he was a young man of 19 years of age when that Hanson Gregory was watching his mother make the delicious doughnuts that she looked like cookies cut too thick. He noticed that the heart of the dough, the cake remained doughy after being fried and he remembered that the centre did not make for tasty eating. His thought, as Hanson Gregory's mother, was that if the centre of the doughnut was cut out it would remove the doughy portion and result in a better doughnut.

Since that fat-off day doughnuts have been made with holes in the centre and children and grown-ups alike have enjoyed their delicious taste . . . Invention is the mother of necessity and if the home can provide the testing ground the result in later life may be astonishing.

Contribution, Sacrifice

Canadian Churchman

A pig and a chicken were walking down a village street. They stopped outside a church to read a notice advertising a bazaar and a tea and a sale of missionary work. At the bottom of the bill was printed: "Ham and Egg Sale."

The chicken said, "See! Even we can help the missionary work of the church." "Yes," said the pig. "But your part is only a contribution; mine is a sacrifice."

Personal Health Talks

Alternative for Isolation

In the foregoing piece we listed some common respiratory infections and said that it is now the belief of authorities in preventive medicine that the infective agent enters the body through the nose or throat in most instances.

The respiratory infections are usually (not always) spread by splattering, splashing or spraying the nose and throat with the mucus droplets from the nose and mouth of one who has a cold, influenza, or is just getting over the disease, when he or she coughs, sneezes or talks unmasked.

Most people at least pretend to cover their coughs and sneezes when in the presence of any one they respect, for they have seen or felt the droplet spray produced by coughing or sneezing. But they have not seen the fine droplet spray produced by ordinary conversation, and they think what you can't see or feel won't hurt you.

The respiratory infections are most readily spread to others in the first hours of the disease, before the crisis, so the character with the cri (common respiratory infection) who comes unmasked to work, to school, to business, to the bridge club, to dinner, to church or to the P.T.A. meeting, assuring everyone that a certain nation spray range that it is nothing, just a little cold, makes a lot of work for the doctors. That person ought to wear a suitable mask to prevent germ spreading.

A suitable mask need not be hideous or uncomfortable. More comfortable, more effective and less ugly is the type of mask designed by Dr. Lowell J. Silliven, primarily for his own use and for other nose and throat specialists, physicians, dentists, optometrists, opticians, barbers, hair dressers, cosmeticians while at work. Such operators are constantly within spray range while treating or serving patients or customers and for their own safety as well as the client's safety they should always wear a mask while at work.

The Silvers mask is transparent, non-inflammable, and may be kept perfectly clean, practically sterile, by washing with soap and water when preparing for the next patient or customer.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man we have known for years has had exactly twenty-two different jobs in his life. Four years is the longest any of them have lasted. The average is ever so much less.

Without exception, each job he has had has been the fault not of his really senior bosses but because of some little pipsqueak who was a so-and-so, a sly, deceitful, double-crossing stinker.

He has done either a fine salesmanship, accounting, research. Within a month of taking a new job, he has unerringly identified the new stinker.

The last job he lost was two years ago. And his wife, a loyal, patient, unsuspecting helpmeet, could stand it no longer.

When her husband had explained the whole situation, from first step by step the process by which the stinker had made it impossible for any one for a man of honor and integrity to stick it out, she said:

"Is there a stinker in every office? Has it ever occurred to you that maybe you are the stinker?"

The shock was so violent that it left our dear, dead-pan artist critics that often occur in the lives of patiently married people. Indeed, for a minute, they hardly spoke. And in due time, he got himself a new job.

He has had it two years. And by a very curious circumstance, there is a stinker in the new organization for which he works.

The stinker has been given a $15 a week raise and was appointed one of the people in the company's parking lot, a very signal honor.

And to me the following details themselves:

When he arrived home to announce the happy news, his wife gave him a big hug, and she simply said, with great relief:

"Well, darling, I guess there is no stinker in your office now."

"Not now," he said.

And they went out and had dinner. Dinner, one of the best restaurants in the city, took in a late movie, and didn't get home until 1 a.m.

Electrical Forecast

Ottawa Journal

Mr. W. Ross Strike, first vice-president of Ontario Hydro, at their convention in Ottawa gave members of the Ontario Good Roads a real eye-opener and a glimpse of the electrical future. "In the future", he says, are such items as electronic cooking and lighting, ultra-sonic dishwashing machines, television sets that hang on the wall like a picture, power-driven gas stoves for the sink, electric toilet systems to eliminate sewage disposal plants (and Ottawa are contemplating spending $40,000,000 on such a project), radiant heating panel suspended above the bed, and other wonders too numerous to mention."

"Possibilities and probabilities" are the keynote half of the address. Mr. Strike calls these things of the beckoning future, but if we don't have the small gas fired electric power had in our lives 40 or 50 years ago we'll face it now today the domestic development he predicts loses its air of fantasy.

All this will create, of course, a tremendous demand for electric power not only in the homes but for industries. Ontario, Mr. Strike reminds us, has the heart of its area with possibly the greatest hydro-electric potential in the world today", and it is the duty of Hydro to make long-term plans that the calls of the future may be met—demands he estimated, by 1980 at four or five times present consumption. And the St. Lawrence power project will be the end of an era—the St. Lawrence "is the last major source of hydro-electric power to be developed in Southern Ontario", so we should look forward soon to another natural resource—uranium will fuel our nuclear-electric power plants of the future".

Thus the picture of the electric age, the mechanical future coming true year by year in surprising ways. And Ontario Hydro, it would seem, is keeping well ahead —one of these days, Mr. Strike, we shall be able to program our breakfast table by remote control an electric cart with coffee-pot, egg-cooker, toaster-rack, sandwich grill, toaster and ice storage.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Declare Britain and France Planned Invasion in August

PARIS (Reuters)—A new book by two French journalists says Britain and France knew in advance that Israel was going to attack Egypt last Oct. 28 and that the Franco - British intervention was planned as long ago as August.

Extracts from the book which appeared today in the Paris newspaper Figaro said Britain rejected a French "lightweight" plan in favor of a "big show" landing.

The book, The Secrets of the Egyptian Expedition, was written by brothers Serge and Merry Bromberger.

Serge, who reported the operation for Figaro, wrote the summary of the account.

There were two plans for the operation, it said.

DASH TO CAIRO

1. Musketeer - A—Put forward by the French, which called for a lightning expedition—48 hours of air attacks to neutralize the Egyptian air force, dropping of paratroops, a light landing with amphibious craft and a rush down the canal.

The plan also envisaged a dash by Cairo to "finish with Nasser" if necessary after the occupation of the canal.

2. Musketeer B — "Reflected both the diplomatic temperament of Sir Anthony (Eden), the conceptions of the traditional general staffs and the influence of the atomic airmen. It was the big landing with a big show."

AFTER INITIAL ATTACK

The lightweight version of Musketeer was rejected by the British. "masters of the operations" Oct. 24, Bromberger said.

"It was known that the Israelis were going to go into action on Oct. 29.

"Musketeer B would land the expeditionary force at Port Said only on Nov. 10."

French light tanks could have covered the area between Port Said and Suez in a few hours, the authors said.

REMAIN CALM

The Brombergers said that on the night of the "Bulganin bomb" —the veiled threat to bombard Paris and London with rockets— "Eden was asleep, or at least resting in his flat. The foreign office had the document (the text of the Bulganin message) but did not consider it important enough to worry the prime minister about."

In Paris, the writers said, Premier Guy Mollet remained calm. His assurance was based on the fact that Russia could not unleash a war in Europe without unleashing it on her own territory.

"American could not abandon her NATO allies on the continent of Europe—even if she opposed their actions in Africa and Asia."

DECIDE ON CEASE-FIRE

Mollet was lunching on Nov. 6 when Eden telephoned from London.

"The prime minister had just decided on a cease-fire. He could no longer hold out against the injunctions of the United Nations —and above all of Washington—and opposition within his own cabinet.

"Sir Anthony Eden had received assurances from Washington. In any case, the Atlantic Alliance covered Europe. A bomb on Paris or London, said it would be the American atomic offensive on Russia. President Eisenhower was making this known to Moscow.

"But all this being said, the United States refused any support to an aggression in Egypt which was being condemned by the United Nations.

"In short, Washington said: 'Cessez-feu. Otherwise, we can no longer remain allies.'"

An eloquent expression is worn by British Prime Minister Macmillan as he talks on British-American-Canadian relations in Bermuda. His words suggested than agreement had been reached on a program in the Middle East which would not leave Britain acting alone.

Horse Drawn By Picton Man Is Non-Starter

PICTON — Dreams of possibly winning $140,000 in the Irish sweepstakes went aglimmering for Douglas Porter of this town, when he was learned that his horse, Cannoble Lee is a nonstarter. However, he will receive 461 pounds sterling or about $1,200, as a result of his name being drawn. Mr. Porter, an employee of the McFarland Construction Co. was notified that he had drawn a horse yesterday morning and later in the day learned it was a non-starter. His room de plume was Little Beeba.

It is the first time that a horse had been drawn by a local resident though several have won consolation prizes.

LIGHTHOUSES OPERATING

PICTON — Lighthouses along Prince Edward County shores are again in operation. Chief ex Jesse man, keeper at Point Petre, reports that an unidentified boat passed the point at three o'clock yesterday morning. Ken McConnell and his son, Jimmie, are at the False Duck Island for the season. Yesterday, Harold Dunn and son Harold Jr., accompanied by two assistants, left for the Main Duck island, which is 15 miles out in Lake Ontario, off Point Traverse.

FELL FROM ESCAPE

PICTON — Two young children fell from a fire escape at the Mary School this week and were admitted to Prince Edward County hospital. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cote, they had climbed the fire escape and were playing when both fell 15 feet to the ground. Dorothy, four, suffered a multiple fracture of the leg, while Donald, three, suffered multiple fractures of the arm.

Athena Degree Team Visits Dosoronto Lodge

Last Friday Dosoronto Lodge No. 102 I.O.O.F. was host to an initiatory degree team from Athena Lodge of Harrowsmith, captained by Bro. Elmer Hughes.

Two candidates were initiated into the host lodge in a colorful committee.

It was also the official visit of the District Deputy Grand Master of District 48, Bro. Garrison of Rapid Lodge, Yarker, Ontario, and his staff officers.

After lodge was closed, about 70 members and visitors sat down to a bountiful luncheon served by Bro. Gordon Burley and his committee.

Visitors were present from Harrowsmith, Kingston, Napanee, and Yarker.

The banquet was followed by a number of educational talks by several visitors and members who were introduced by Bro. Norman Dimmell, Master of ceremonies.

On March 20th, several members of Dosoronto lodge No. 102 I.O.O.F. paid a fraternal visit to Granite Lodge in Kingston where an enjoyable evening was spent. It was the official visit of the District Deputy Grand Master of District 49, Bro. Good, of Cataraqui Lodge, and his staff.

Huckleberry Finn Life Ends For Two Oklahoma City Boys

OKLAHOMA CITY Y(AP)—While their parents thought they were in school every day, two young boys lived a Huckleberry Finn life for 6½ months "exploring and sittin' and watching the sky."

The carefree life they built for themselves was shattered Wednesday and they were to return to school today.

Police discovered Ora Linville, 14, and his brother, Jerry, 13, sitting beside a camp fire in a cave located in a creek bank.

"We spent the mornings exploring," Ora said. "Then we'd build a camp fire and eat lunch. In the afternoons we'd just sit and watch the sky or the creek until school was out and then we'd go back home."

FOOLED PARENTS

Sometimes they would hike into the country—if the day was warm. Their mother thought the boys had enrolled in school last September. They admitted it was a touch - and - go situation keeping Mom and Dad fooled.

"When Mother asked for our report cards we told her we had lost them or that the school wouldn't give them to us until we paid a fee," Ora said.

He said other things also had to be explained, such as not bringing books home or not having any homework.

"We usually could think of something," the freckled - faced younger boy said. Enough school gossip was picked up from acquaintances at the school to tell convincing stories about school activities.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Linville, said the first time they knew the boys had not been at school was when a police car brought them home.

Both boys agreed there was one bright spot in their future—only two more months before vacation time.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

The Union of South Africa listed 16,000 factories in 1956, against 11,800 in 1948.

British Pickets, Police Clash At Two Centres

LONDON (CP) — Pickets clashed with police at two strike centres today as tempers boiled over in Britain's snowballing stoppages of industrial workers.

The clashes broke out in Bristol and Manchester even while manufacturers met in London to study fresh government peace proposals.

In Bristol, two non - striking truck drivers tried to enter the main gate of the aircraft firm which produces the "Whispering Giant" turbo-prop Britannia. Police intervened when pickets swarmed around the drivers and refused to let them through.

TURN UP FOR WORK

Pickets also clashed with police at a nearby pen factory where 300 of the 500 employees turned up for work.

A truckload of plastics for a Bristol firm turned back this morning when women from nearby houses threatened to lie in front of it on the road.

Extra police were called out in Manchester when pickets rushed a truck entering a tractor factory. Police succeeded in clearing a way for the truck.

SUMMONS CABINET

Prime Minister Macmillan summoned his cabinet today to discuss the two major crises threatening the country's hard-won economic recovery.

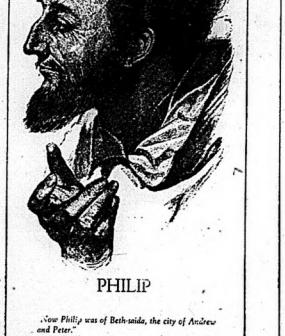
Employers and the striking unions, meanwhile, squared off for what threatened to be a prolonged slugging match, but the employers still were meeting to decide whether to negotiate directly with strike leaders.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions went ahead with plans to call out another 500,000 engineering workers Saturday from London area factories producing aircraft, machine tools, and electrical and atomic equipment.

Some 1,000,000 men already are out in the engineering workers' strike and the union threatens to call out another 1,500,000 by April 8, closing down 4,300 plants which turn out 40 per cent of Britain's exports.

In the other strike, 200,000 shipyard workers—also controlled by the CSEU—have kept Britain's 270 shipyards at a standstill for 12 days and stopped work on 200 ships.

DIG MORE IRON



NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Open-pit iron ore mining at Quatsino Copper-Gold Mines Ltd. property on northern Vancouver Island will begin in May. With a $10,000,000 iron ore contract with Japan, the company will spend $3,000,000 to bring the property into full operation.

Tape in two or three spots down back center. Then place short pieces of tape from center to near leaf edge. Foliage can now be shaped as desired, for a lasting effect.

JESUS LOVED THEM

by Patrick and Garrison

PHILIP

"Now Philip was of Beth-saida, the city of Andrew and Peter."

—John 1:44

The Bible tells very little about this Apostle, save that he was a fellow townsman of Andrew and Peter, and apparently among the first of that little band of Galileans to follow Jesus from the outset of His ministry.

It is clear that Philip had a practical, perhaps even a mathematical turn of mind, for when the hungry multitude that followed Jesus had to be fed, He turned to Philip and asked:

"Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?"

Philip apparently made a quick estimate of the number of persons in the crowd and cold Jesus:

"Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little."

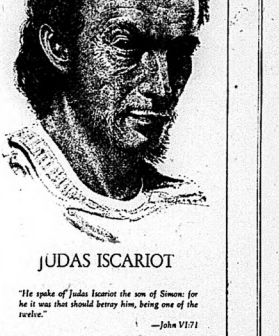
There is another indication also (John XII:20-22) that Philip acted as a kind of informal secretary for Jesus. When a number of Greeks, who had come to the Passover feast at Jerusalem, wished to talk with the Nazarene, they sought out Philip.

"Sir," they told him, "we would see Jesus."

Like others of the Disciples, Philip often found it difficult to understand Jesus' words, and His profound meanings.

Jesus told the little company: "If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him."

But this assurance only confused Philip. He said, "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us."



A little sadly perhaps, Jesus asked Philip then:

"Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?"

Philip was with the other Disciples at Jerusalem after the Ascension. And again on the day of Pentecost he is mentioned.

But following that day, our only account of him is tradition, according to which he went as a missionary to Phrygia and was later martyred and buried at Hierapolis.

JUDAS ISCARIOT

"He spoke of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve."

—John VI:71

Of all the twelve who were called to be disciples, the character of Judas remains the most mysterious.

The Gospel writers tell us nothing of his life or background before he met Jesus, and very little of his association with the Master, except always to identify him as the betrayer.

But, as Dr. Hales observes, "the treachery of Judas Iscariot, his remorse and suicide are occurrences altogether so strange and extraordinary that the motives by which he was actuated require to be developed as far as may be done, where the Evangelists are in a great measure silent concerning them."

It is obvious that Judas had some overwhelming weakness, some ruling passion that made him, when under its influence, powerless to resist evil.

But what was that weakness? Was it covetousness, as the Gospel narratives imply—was it love of money that was so great that he stole even from the disciples themselves?

If that were true, why was Judas made steward and almoner for the group, receiving contributions and overseeing their redistribution? (John XII:6 and XIII:29).

An interesting apocryphal source states that Judas Iscariot's weakness was wine. While this account has no Scriptural support, it is a more rational explanation of his behavior. For, even in our own day, alcoholics and drug addicts often sacrifice everything, even those they love, on the altar of their inverted desire.

The Gospels tell us that, stricken with remorse, Judas tried to undo the betrayal of Jesus, and returned the 30 pieces of silver, which the priests refused, and which were eventually used to buy a potter's field.

In profound despair, Judas went out and hanged himself; but in the act, apparently the rope broke and he fell down a steep precipice at Aceldama where "he burst asunder in the midst." (Acts I:18).

As Papini observes in his "Life of Christ":

"Only two creatures in the world knew the secret of Judas: Christ and the traitor."

Weddings

DERRY—BAPTIE

MARMORA. — A double-ring ceremony was solemnized at Norwood Baptist Church recently when Marguerite Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Baptie, became the bride of Donald Grant Derry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Derry, Marmora.

Preceding the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. T. M. Webb, "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Mrs. Orville Clements. During the signing of the register she sang "Sincerely." Mrs. Roy Nevins provided the wedding music.

The bride wore a strapless gown of white nylon net over taffeta with bolero of French lace. Her finger-tip veil of imported lace was hand embroidered in lily-of-the-valley design and was held in place by a coronet of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of red Betterglow roses.

Miss Shirley Golloher was maid of honor, gowned in pink nylon net over taffeta. She wore a matching headdress and mittens and carried white 'mums.

The bridesmaids were Miss Leona Baptie, sister of the bride, dressed in yellow nylon net taffeta with matching headdress and mittens and carrying mauve 'mums, and Miss Sylvia Derry of Lorne Park College, sister of the bridegroom, gowned in mint green nylon crystalette with matching headdress and mittens and carrying yellow 'mums.

Also attending the bride were two little flower girls Linda Baker and Gail Baptie, in similar gowns of yellow nylon with matching headdresses and carrying nosegays of wine Sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Reginald Chisholm, Marmora, and the ushers were Glen Derry, Marmora, the bridegroom's brother, and Alan Baker of Norwood.

The reception was held in the Sunday School room of the church and guests were received by the bridal party and Mrs. Baptie, attired in a navy ensemble with white trim, and Mrs. Derry, wearing a figured caramel brown dress. Both mothers wore corsages of white 'mums.

For travelling, the bride chose a blue flecked wool suit with pale blue accessories. On their return from the trip to points east, the young couple will reside at 215 Bowie Avenue, Toronto.

NO APPLES

HARLOW, England (CP)—No one takes an apple for the teacher at an infants' school here. The headmistress has banned them "I have heard of a child dropping dead after being thumped on the back while eating," she said. "I don't want that to happen here."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PROPER SALUTATION TO THANK-YOU NOTE TO GROOM'S RELATIVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm stumped! Our wedding invitations are just out, and I've already received several very beautiful presents from relatives of my fiance, relatives I've never met. I am determined to follow your advice and write my thank-you notes promptly—but I have no idea how to begin my notes to these unknown-to-me relatives. Should I always write "Dear Mrs. Brown" or, when I have heard definitely about a relative, may I write "Dear Aunt Katherine"? — Bride-to-be

Your fiance is the authority you should consult about this, dear Bride-to-be. When you meet your bridegroom's relatives, you properly call them what he calls them — "Aunt Katherine," "Cousin Ruth," "Margaret" . . . and I am quite sure he will suggest this same name-procedure when you write your thank-you notes to them.

One bride I knew solved this problem by beginning a thank-you note: Dear Aunt Mary (May I please address you by this name so lovingly used by your devoted Richard?).

THIS YOUNG LADY LIKES TO WEAR GLOVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wear quite often; as a matter of fact almost all the time. Is it considered proper to put on your gloves after you are outside the house and on the way to wherever you are going? I do this a lot on my way to school, and have just begun to wonder if I am doing right. — Eve

My salutations to you . . . for being so enthusiastic about wearing gloves "almost all the time." Gloves add an appearance of humor to a costume, a certain feeling of being well-dressed.

Yesterday's well-dressed lady never stepped forth from her house before putting on her gloves, and although in these informal days this rule is not so often abided by, it's still an excellent rule to observe. And for you this habit will add another grace to your gloves-enthusiasm!

Ice Cream Coat

By TRACY ADRIAN

Just to be ready for April showers here is a smooth-looking rain coat that is in the ice cream parlor tradition because of its lovely creamy vanilla white color.

The topper is made of poplin with striped cotton knit trim at the deep shawl collar and the push-up sleeves are cotton-knit finished at the cuffs. A double row of tiny silvery buttons form the front closing.

WIDOW MAKES PLANS FOR HER SECOND WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am a widow, 33 years old, have two children, and am planning to be married next summer. I am a Protestant, my fiance is Catholic, and if permitted, we hope to be married in church in front of the altar rail. With these plans, what type of dress or gown would you suggest I wear, and what color? And how many attendants would be proper?

2. Should we send wedding invitations or announcement cards? How should they be worded? — H.

1. Your plans should be for a small, informal wedding, and appropriate for you to wear for this would be, for example, a street-length dressmaker-type suit, or an afternoon-type dress (street-length) with the now-so-fashionable brief cape of matching material, the material light-weight and cool for Summer, and of a color (not too light and not too dark) most becoming to you. Wear a small, smart hat, perhaps one made of small flowers.

I suggest one attendant each: matron of honor (or maid of honor) for you; best man for the bridegroom.

2. For the small, informal wedding you should be planning to have, I suggest you invite the guests verbally or by telephone or, when necessary, by notes. Then the formal announcements to be sent to all those not invited to the ceremony may correctly be worded:

Mrs. John Clark and
Mr. Arthur Allen announce their marriage on Tuesday, the sixth of August
Nineteen hundred and fifty-seven
Haven, New York

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TELL HIM THE DECISION IS UP TO HIM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married nine years and have four children.

My husband and I were always happy until we got along well until my last baby was born. Then this woman started to chase him. We talked about it and he said there was nothing between them. Then out of a clear blue sky he walked out and left me nine months ago.

I love my husband very much and I've told him that for the children's sake we should stay together, Twice now, he was going to come home, but he changed his mind. I've thought about going to him and promising to do anything, but I'm afraid that if I did he would hold it over my head. I've thought about divorce, too, but deep down I don't want one.

— Mrs. G

Dear Mrs. G:

Your best plan at this time, I think, is to sit tight and wait to see if your husband won't come back to you, sorry and ashamed. He's more likely to do this, I believe, if you don't keep after him to come home, but simply leave him to work out the problem by himself.

I suggest that you either write him a note, or, if he should get in touch with you, say it to him personally, telling him quietly that you love him; that you want him to come home and be a good husband and father to the children, but that he must make up his mind himself what he really wants most. Say that it will not help toward the solution of the problem for him to run back and forth between you and this other woman, and that you would rather he did not come to see you and the children until he's made the decision. Tell him this quietly and without a big emotional scene so that he will realize it is something you have carefully thought out. After that, keep yourself as busy as you can—and with four children that won't be hard to do—so that you won't have too much time to brood over things.

It very often happens that if a wandering husband is made to feel that he's free to go or stay, as he pleases, he suddenly realizes that he would rather stay than go.

Chicken — The Old Reliable

By Mary Moore

The wisdom of having a frozen boiling fowl in the freezer compartment is not to be overlooked by folks who own folks who invite folks without phoning H. Q. and asking "Will it be okay?"

Do you own one of those glorious extravert people who always have that inviting impulse, obey it, then walk in with their guest (or guests!) in tow and call "Yoo Hoo! Come and see whom I've brought!"

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Barbecued Hamburg Patties, Baked Potatoes, Shredded Carrots, Fruit Cup or Compote, Peanut Butter Cookies, Coffee.

SUNDAY

Chicken Stew with Potato Dumplings (see Thursday), Spinach with Lemon-Nutmeg Butter, Relish Tray: Radish Roses, Cucumber Sticks, Gherkins; Lemon Cake Pudding, Coffee.

I can tell by the tone of the "Hi Mum" before it goes further that someone else is in the hall. Over the years the smile on my face has become one of genuine amusement and anticipation, instead of the stage smile I might wear if that chicken were not waiting to be sacrificed at the emergency stake.

This time it was early on a Sunday afternoon so I put the chicken on to simmer in the slow cooker and ended up with a plateful of such fine food that I thought it was worthy of you — my trusting reader friends, some of whom are food fanciers of the highest order. This could have been cooked three times as quickly in the pressure cooker if time had been short.

STEWED CHICKEN WITH POTATO DUMPLINGS

If yours is a ready-to-cook bird be sure to remove the little paper bag full of giblets from the inside. (I know a bride who put a ready-to-roast duck in the oven frozen solid and gave it the specified time. She proudly bore it to the table for her young husband to carve. Their guests were another young couple. Halfway through his carving stint he said "Oh, I didn't know there was stuffing, dear." She said "Father did it." Then he hauled out the paper bagful of baked giblets on the points of his fork! That was good for laughs for the rest of the evening.) To get back to our bird for boiling, singe off any hairs if necessary. Bird may be tied in floured cloth to hold its shape but I did not. Plunge into boiling water to 2/3 cover and simmer 3½ to 4 hours or until joints soften and droop a bit. Lift the chicken to hot platter and keep hot. Season the broth with salt and pepper and drop into the boiling broth.

POTATO DUMPLINGS

(These are sensational and I hope my fellow gardevelis try them. Do exactly as the recipe says.) To serve 6 to 8 medium large potatoes until tender. Drain. Into mixing bowl put ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cream, 1 egg, 1 cup fine cracker crumbs, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 small eggs. If you have an electric beater add the drained potatoes now and beat to mix all. If not, rice potatoes, add and beat until well mixed. Dip a tablespoon in the boiling chicken broth. Then dip dumpling batter by teaspoonfuls into it shaped like balls. Cover. When all are over surface remove cover and boil 3 minutes longer. Try one before serving — they should be cooked through evenly. Serve in a border around the chicken, and pour over chicken. Garnish with parsley.

STURDY TWINS

EASTVILLE, N.S (CP)—Mrs. Mahala Cox and Mrs. Ruth Archibald, twins who celebrated their 98th birthday on March 19, have lived in this district all their community since their marriages.

Mrs. Cox says four, and Mrs. Archibald, who has two daughters, attribute their longevity to "clean living and hard work."

Ladies!

We're here again to have our say,
About the clothes we received today,
Suits, coats, dresses and blouses too,
The prices are reasonable, the styles are new.

We have a big stock of dresses to show,
Climb the stairs, now don't be slow,
If you want something either full or straight,
Large or small our dresses will rate.

If you want a suit to wear Easter day,
See us first and save your pay,
We've boxed and tailored you'll like our style,
And if you save money you're sure to smile.

Our coats have style, they're flared and smart,
Just right to make an early spring start,
If you take a look you'll know it's true,
Cause what we carry will look good on you.

If it's a bridesmaid you're going to be,
At Winnie's you will find the key,
A lovely formal at a price that's low,
Climb the stairs and see what we have to show

For the bride to be she'll want to wear,
A lovely gown yet have money to spare,
If this is you, then come up and see,
How low priced and lovely our gowns will be.

We have two more little items we want to stress
It's skirts and blouses the nations best,
So no matter what you want to buy,
It's smart shopping if you give Winnie's a try.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

DO YOURSELF "UNDER WRAPS" THIS SPRING

...ished "wraps" this season, sisters go glamorous and, embered or flower-appliqued, are worn on festive occasions.

you feel the need of a change in wearing sweaters all the , just substitute the wool type" and you're off on a ed new fashion start! Though ippers and trend setters will bably never give up sweaters, re willing to call them raps" this season. Thank goodness, whatever you call them, re's still the wonderfully washable knits that dry without ironing and always look their most presentable best.

hese spring and summer ape take some very interesting ns. While the bulky knits still d the fashion honors, the term ilky knits" covers a lot of ity territory. If you like your up washing-ing, the new fine-count cotton sweaters, you can ose it equipped with pink vel- roses and dark green stems. Orlon, in white four-ply yarn, d lovely as a picture. Pure prac- ally any old dress under it, and ll still be new and smart. Or ype it's the wool knit cardigan, ist length, that has no buttons closing up the front that will t you best. This type is being n around with pastel wool em- oidery. Match the dress beneath to one of the pastel tones in the m, and the effect will be excel- indeed.

Some of these new wraps are o length, with exaggerated col- s; some have draw-string ms; some have collars so big ey can serve as hoods. There's touch of the Tyrolean influence season in embroideries, which kes for both pattern interest d appealing color.

Another nice idea for spring is e white or pastel little sweater, at goes over blouses or dresses. r sleeveless, whether cardigan pullover, and is supposed to be legitimate part of your cos- me. Not just something you add d as an after-thought. But the st of the matter is, one of these eeveless sweaters provides just he right amount of cozy comfort hen the weather itself is quite rarmed up.

Whether it's Orlon or cashmere ou like best for sweaters, keep- ng them fresh and pretty is no problem. Orlons, of course, can be achine or hand-washed, and re- ain blocking for a touch more atient with wools. Be careful that he temperature of the suds and rinse ater is just lukewarm. And, if the tag or label doesn't make a oint of it, better block them to be sure they keep their fit. Cash- meres may be safest sudsed by hand in the basin. Warm soap or detergent suds and friction, rather than hot, are always best for col- ors, of course.

TRANSFORMING THE TOPPER

By VERA WINSTON

Sure the shortie is back with us. As has happened with fashions in general, it has undergone quite a transformation. Here it emerges as a combination cape and double-breasted coat. The fabric is camel hair. We think it's an excellent design and is sure to be successful as a topper replacement because it looks so new, so different! It is shown here over a beige, green and yellow plaid tweed. It could be used as well with a black dress or skirt and would also look fine for country use with a camel hair skirt.

Triple-R Ranch Pony Club Teaches Girls Horsemanship

EDMONTON (CP) — Galloping over the prairie like the heroine in a western movie may be just a dream for many Canadian girls but Jackie Sinclair has been doing it for nearly two years.

Jackie, a member of Edmonton's Triple-R Ranch Pony Club, unites fun for girls with riding horsemanship as the highlight in its program to build healthy bodies and minds.

Every Saturday and Sunday Jackie catches the club's bus as it makes its rounds in Edmonton. Among about 100 other teen-age club members she spends weekends, holidays and summer camp periods with her favorite animal, the horse.

MANY INTERESTS

At the ranch, a 300-acre spread overlooking the North Saskatchewan River just north of here, is the horse that Jackie cares for and rides.

Horsemanship is a prime subject at the ranch, run as a non-profit club for girls between 12 and 17 years, but the club members also have square-dancing—on foot and on horseback—and learn such other things as gymnastics and parliamentary procedure.

Riding instructors include Staff Sgt. Richard Mulcaster of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, former RCMP corporal Herbert Simoneau, and Edmonton city police officers. Mr. Simoneau, once connected with the famed RCMP musical ride, has developed a musical ride for the girls.

Jackie, as colonel-in-chief of the club, takes over direction of the "musical ride" this year.

The ranch pony club started six years ago as a boys' pony club, originated by Edmonton businessman Roland Pelletier. It grew to 135 members before interest among the boys waned.

In 1955 the pony club activities switched to girls. And when Mr. Pelletier recently found that keeping 78 horses was more than he could personally handle, the Elks Club accepted sponsorship and they call it Elks Girls' Town.

Like a girls' town, the club is being expanded to include activities other than horse-riding. Jackie shoulders all the responsibility of the commanding officer, since the operation of the club is left in the hands of the girls themselves. Each year they elect their own officers, in military ranks.

When an infraction of club rules occurs, a military-style court-martial follows, punishment ranging from being "grounded" for a week, with stable chores, to expulsion.

But the club is open to all, and so many teen-agers have shown an interest in horses that 100 more palominos will be at the ranch for the coming season.

Memorial Plaque Unveiled At Public School

On March 23 a scene of simple impressiveness took place at Canniton-Corbyville public school when a plaque was unveiled in memory of the late Miss Mary Cowain, teacher of the school for 29 years and 26 years as principal.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick of Belleville, who had been the minister at Canniton, was chairman. In his remarks he told about Miss Cowain's services, not only as a teacher but as a Sunday School teacher and C.G.I.T. leader. He made special mention of the Christmas entertainments she had directed.

Mr. Ronald Putman, a former pupil and now chairman of the school board, paid tribute to the memory of an outstanding teacher and friend.

Mr. Harry Pound, deputy reeve of Thurlow, went back through the years to 1916 when Miss Cowain came to Canniton, a young teacher in her second school. He spoke of her great influence on the lives of her pupils, many of them going to her for aid and advice even after graduating.

Mrs. Harold Campbell, of Trenton, who was one of Miss Cowain's first pupils, and in her first entrance class, also spoke. She said that the plaque would serve as a visible reminder of Miss Cowain and her work at Canniton, but the influence of her teachings upon the characters and lives of all her pupils would be everlasting and living remembrance of a great teacher, friend and counsellor.

The guests went to the main entrance hall of the school where Mrs. Stewart Collins, a long-time friend of Miss Cowain's, unveiled the plaque, which had been presented by Harold Cowain, a nephew.

The Rev. R. J. McRae delivered the dedication prayer.

Mrs. Roy Pound, a former pupil of Miss Cowain, was responsible for the arrangements of the unveiling ceremony.

Women's Activities

RYLSTONE W.A.

RYLSTONE—The March meeting of Rylstone W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Spencer last Thursday with an attendance of seven ladies, the Rev. H. Beare and five children. The meeting opened with the president in the chair.

Scripture reading was John 5: 1-9, given by Mrs. Ray Stewart. The topic was "Co-operating with God."

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Mrs. Sanford Meikle-John's.

Program committee — Mrs. Thomas McKeown and Mrs. Beare. Easter offering to be taken in April. Readings "Looking on Sunny Side," and "Farmer's Heart" by Mrs. Meikle-John; music given by Mrs. Doug Dooher, of Campbellford, and Mrs. Clarence Thomson; reading, "Christmas Present for Jesus," by Mrs. Thomas McKeown.

A "Green" contest which was presented orally by Mrs. Thomas McKeown and was last on the program. The hostess served refreshments.

ndians Want ct Repealed

TORONTO (CP)—The governor chiefs of the Six Nations Indian reserve Tuesday petitioned the legislature to repeal an act dealing with marriages.

The petition, presented by Harry Nixon, Liberal member for Brant, which includes the reserve, said the legislature "should never have passed this act since it is an act specifically applying to Indians and so not within the power of the legislature."

Failing this, the Indian council said the act should be taken to the Supreme Court of Ontario for a ruling.

The Indians maintain the act was passed last year to get Indians to register their marriages with the provincial government. The government said a few weeks ago that it would accept as legal any Indian marriages registered with the federal government.

Premier Frost said that as an honorary chief of the Mohawks he will give attention to the matter.

WELLINGTON

Lakeside Chapter OES Celebrates 36th Birthday

WELLINGTON — On Wednesday evening Lakeside Chapter 81 O.E.S. celebrated its 36th birthday.

Fire Destroys First Legislative Buildings in B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia's first legislative buildings, almost 100 years old, were destroyed by fire early Wednesday.

The blaze, origin unknown, levelled most of the T-shaped buildings which played an important part in the early history of B.C.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

More than two-thirds of the single-storey frame structure, which housed three wings under one roof, was levelled. No one was injured.

The old buildings, called the "bird cages" by historians and long-time Victoria residents, were used for a mines museum and for civil defence headquarters. The analytical branch of the department of mines was also housed there.

A Great New Mocha Flavour!

Make Monarch Sponge Pudding with instant coffee

MONARCH MOCHA SPONGE PUDDING

Pour contents of LARGE bag into an ungreased 8" casserole or baking dish at least 2" in depth. Add ½ cup of triple-strength instant coffee. Mix 1 minute. Batter may be lumpy. Spread batter evenly over bottom of casserole or baking dish. Sprinkle contents of SMALL bag evenly over the batter. DO NOT MIX.

Pour over the top of this mixture 1½-2 cups of triple-strength instant coffee. DO NOT STIR.

Bake 25-30 minutes. 425°F. Makes 4-6 servings.

We've discovered the unique and special flavour of Monarch Caramel Sponge Pudding makes a perfectly delightful combination with instant coffee. You just follow the usual directions on the package, but use triple-strength instant coffee instead of water. The mocha flavour that results is absolutely scrumptious. The children will love it. Surprise your family with this new dessert idea tomorrow.

Will Legalize Fluoridation In Eight Centres

TORONTO (CP)—A bill introduced Tuesday in the legislature would make fluoridation of domestic water supplies legal in the eight municipalities which now are operating fluoridation systems.

Health Minister Phillips, explaining the bill which was given first reading, said the powers of municipalities to fluoridate their water supplies under four acts have been brought into question because of a Supreme Court of Ontario decision.

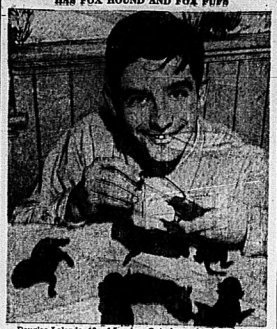
The court granted an injunction by the village of Forest Hill against the fluoridation of water by Metropolitan Toronto. The court's ruling now is being appealed before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Dr. Phillips said the bill would permit the eight municipalities, and no others, to operate fluoridation systems in event of the Supreme Court of Canada sustaining the decision of the Ontario Supreme Court.

PRESERVES STATUS

The bill would preserve the status quo in the eight municipalities, subject to certain safeguards. The council of a municipality may on its discretion terminate the operation of fluoridation or may submit the question of continued operation to a vote of the electors. The electors also may require a vote on a petition of 15 per cent of the electors.

Dr. Phillips said the bill would in no way extend the right to fluoridate water to any other municipality if the decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario is upheld.



The municipalities which have fluoridation systems in operation are Sudbury, Thorold, Fort Erie, Deep River, Tiadale Township, Brockville, Oshawa and Brantford.

Olympic Champs Wed in Prague

PRAGUE (AP)—Olympic champions Harold Connolly and Olga Fikotova were married Wednesday after an East-West romance that began at the Melbourne Games and breached the Iron Curtain.

Handsome Harold, the world's 24-year-old hammer-throw king, and pretty Olga, Czechoslovakia's 24-year-old Olympic discus queen, became Mr. and Mrs. Connolly of Boston, Mass., in a civil ceremony that attracted more than 1,000 Prague citizens to the medieval town hall.

HAS FOX HOUND AND FOX PUPS

Douglas Lalonde, 13, of London, Ont., has a fox hound for a pet and at the same time is raising nine fox pups. He feeds them with an eye dropper and as soon as they are big enough he intends to collect the bounty on them.

Norway Studies Russian Warning

OSLO (Reuters)—The government Wed. considered its reply to Russia's warning that Norway is exposing herself to "dreaded danger" because Atlantic pact bases have been built on her territory.

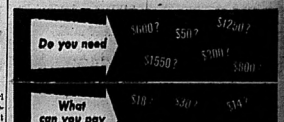
The warning came in a letter, released Tuesday night, from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to Premier Einar Gerhardsen.

Norway's press said almost unanimously that if the letter is intended to frighten Norway out of NATO, then Bulganin has misjudged the Norwegian people.

Bulganin said he was not asking Norway to renounce participation in NATO "today or tomorrow."

But he warned that if the "plans of the NATO-strategists were carried out, the Norwegian people would pay dearly for the bases built with foreign money in Norway."

WINDS UPSET SHIPS



ISTANBUL (AP) — A bitter north wind whipped the Black Sea and Sea of Marmara Tuesday, driving passenger ships to shelter and upsetting small craft. The 20-ton motorship Karamustafa sank in the Marmara with the loss of five crew members.

Girl Triplets At St. Catharines, All Doing Fine

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Girl triplets, a month and a half premature, were born Tuesday night to Mrs. Frank Dwyer, 33, wife of a St. Catharines public utility commission lineman.

Mrs. Dwyer and her three new daughters were reported to be "doing fine." The babies weighed 9 lbs. 9 oz., 3 lbs., 13 oz., and 4 lbs.

The Dwyers have two other children, James, 4, and Janet, 2. The family now lives in a one-bedroom apartment, but expects to move into a new home by the time the triplets leave hospital.

FIVE FEET LONG, TEN TO GO

Just a young fellow is this five-foot boa constrictor which coils its length around the neck of Sheila McCullough. The snake is a pet of pre-divinity student John Winter at McMaster university in Hamilton, Ont. John admits he will have to give his pet away pretty soon as it will reach the length of 15 feet before long and be quite capable of destroying a human being. Told it was not poisonous, Sheila, another student at the university, found the snake friendly.

Music Pupils Present Fine Piano Recital

WELLINGTON — On Saturday afternoon at the United Church, the pupils of Mrs. R. A. Mayhew presented a fine piano recital to a large audience. This is an annual affair and shows what great progress each pupil has made during the year. One can also see that Wellington has unlimited talent to be developed in the years to come.

At the close of the recital, Carol Allison, on behalf of the class, presented Mrs. Mayhew with a pretty piece of jewellery and Mrs. Mayhew gave each pupil a souvenir of the occasion.

The following program was presented: "Robin Hood," played by Dolores Preston; "The Wind," by Kenneth Harrington; "Fairy Waltz," by Betty Wilkes; "Sailor's Hornpipe," by Mrs. E. Stewart; "At School March," by John Hendry; "The Boats Are In," by Donald Ward; "Friendship Waltz," by Carol Closson; "Vacation March," by Brenda Adams; "Boy Scouts," by Ella Hunsinger; "Golden Ferns," by Nancy Lane; "Hungarian Dance," by Gail Kellar; "Britannia," by Sandra Pope; "Last Rose of Summer," by Larry McKenzie; "At Full Tilt," duet by Margaret Wood and Mary K. Few Canadian $25 Notes In Circulation

OTTAWA (CP) — It's seldom that one sees a Canadian $25 note, but there are 1,840 of them around somewhere.

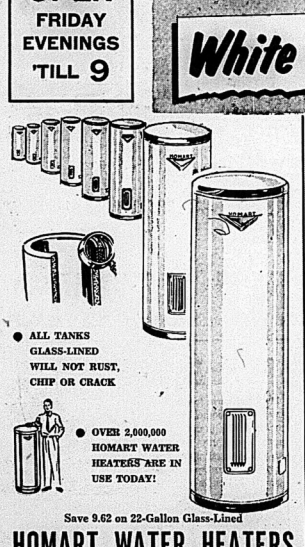
The Bank of Canada reports that it's several years since one turned up at the bank. It suspects that collectors are holding them.

The bills have a total value of $46,000—as currency, not as collectors' items—and that amount is included in the bank's figure of $1,868,704,000 on money in circulation.

The bank printed 160,000 of the $25 bills in 1935, to mark the 25th anniversary of the accession to the throne of King George V and Queen Mary.

Some of these bills however were never issued, and were destroyed, while others were returned to the bank in the course of business and, as happens to all old, worn-out currency, were destroyed.

But the fate of the remainder remains a mystery.



CLAIMS BIGGEST

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia Wednesday claimed to have discovered the world's biggest iron ore deposits near the great Siberian River Ob, north of Tomsk. Tass, Soviet news agency, said the deposits contain "tens of billions of tons of ore" and are bigger than North American deposits in the Lake Superior area, hitherto considered the biggest.

TV-Radio Licence Rejected But CBC May Cost Taxpayers $470,000,000 in Next 6 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian taxpayers may have to kick in about $470,000,000 over the next six years to finance the expansion and operating losses of the publicly-owned CBC.

That's what the Fowler commission estimates in proposing that the federal treasury be used to meet the CBC's capital and operating costs with fixed annual grants. The commission rejected the idea of imposing a licence fee on television and radio viewers as unworkable.

The CBC now finances expansion by government loans and meets operating losses by revenue from the 15-per-cent excise tax on new television and radio sets and parts and by federal grants.

SUGGESTS REVISION

The Fowler commission suggested the CBC financial structure be revised and that the excise tax yields be provided for CBC capital expansion, giving the national broadcasting system a steady flow of revenue.

The CBC's net operating losses, after deducting income from advertising and other commercial sources, were forecast to swell to a total of some $353,000,000 over the six years, climbing from $44,-238,000 in 1957-58 to $73,909,000 in 1962-63.

Thus, total outlays for the six years would amount to about $468,000,000.

The operating losses, rising partly from plans for increasing TV coverage and greater production of color TV, also would be borne by more federal annual grants, fixed at $70,000,000 a quarter and one-third of one per cent of Canadian consumer spending on goods and services.

SEEM "STAGGERING"

To some Canadians, the estimated public sums required to sustain the CBC would seem "staggering" and too great a price to pay for the preservation of a distinctly-Canadian broadcasting system, the commission said.

But on the whole the commission suggested that most Canadians would look on the estimated outlays as providing a co-operative service they really wanted to buy.

The operating loss of the CBC in the current year of $38,000,000 was the equivalent of just 3 1-3 cents a day for each family equipped with television and nineteenths of a cent for each equipped with a radio.

In scrutinizing the CBC's finances, the commission "found evidences of extensive waste and decidedly nothing that even remotely resembled reckless management or mishandlings."

On the other hand, "We cannot say that everything is right with the present financial system of the CBC."

DEBT PROBLEMS

Because of its rapid expansion, the CBC had encountered chief acute administrative problems; it had increased operating costs to accommodate on a "patchwork" basis.

"But the greatest financial weakness of the CBC has been the lack of an assured and definite basis of current financing. . . .

We think it is essential that the CBC have its duties accurately defined, that it be provided with an adequate but not excessive income over a term of years to enable it to discharge those duties and that it then be required to manage its affairs so as to live within that income. This is the central and essential basis of our financial recommendations."

ASKED FOR REPEAL

Canadian radio and TV manufacturers have pleaded for a repeal of the 15-per-cent excise tax, arguing that it discriminates against the electronics industry.

But the commission countered that the tax is levied against a number of products and the rising sales of TV sets in recent years did not indicate that the tax had a depressive effect.

Selling the proceeds of this tax aside for CBC capital needs would free the system from asking the government for any further loans. The commission emphasized that its proposed five-all grants for capital and operating losses would not require complete annual supply of federal money. Revenue from the tax would be an off-setting income.

The capital grants would be provided for the CBC on a annual basis. This would allow parliamentary scrutiny of CBC capital budgets. But a current restriction, whereby the cabinet must approve all CBC expenditures in excess of $25,000, would be removed.

One of the main features of the proposed grants to cover operating losses is that the CBC would be free to adjust the size of the grants projected over a five-year period. This would assist in future planning.

Would Extend French Radio, TV Coverage

OTTAWA (CP) — Extension of the CBC's French radio and television services to areas where a large number of the population speak the language is recommended by the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting.

The commission reported a "gratifying phenomenon of Canadian life" in Ontario, where English- and French-speaking groups recommended French service in the Toronto area and in other parts of the province such as Windsor, Kent, Hamilton and eastern Ontario.

However, there were financial and technical difficulties in the establishment of French outlets there. Low-power relay radio transmitters, despite their technical shortcomings in large centres, might be the most workable solution to the problem. They would be extensions of the CBC French network.

Three top leaders of the nationalists of Algeria that have been making things tough for La Belle France are shown as they held a press conference in Tunis. They visited the country as guests at the first anniversary celebration of Tunisia's independence. From left are: Amar Ouamrane, former French sergeant who is now a nationalist military leader; Dr. Lamine Debbaghine, nationalist leader who called the conference, and Ferhat Abbas, former representative of Algeria in the French national assembly. They said the nationalists will not agree to any cease-fire or free elections or any other form of modern-day trickery that the French France has agreed to complete freedom for Algeria.

CARTB Accused By Commission Of 'Baiting' CBC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Fowler royal commission on broadcasting today accused the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters of "baiting" the CBC.

The commission also said in its report that the CARTB, an association of most privately-owned broadcasting stations, has issued "much one-sided or misleading information" about the nature and functioning of the present system of broadcasting in Canada.

Outcry by the CBC in turn was chided for being "too timid" in telling the Canadian people about its ills. It should have reacted to CARTB propaganda to set the facts back into perspective.

The corporation's reticence, the commission said, probably was due to a tradition that crown corporations should refrain from all argument or controversy.

ESCAPES RULE

But "broadcasting is so intimately related to the daily life and interests of nearly every Canadian that it escapes, by its very nature, the standard rule of silence and restrictions followed by other crown corporations or government agencies."

Private broadcasters should express their views in the forum of public attention on the evolution of broadcasting.

But they should "avoid the falsely doctrinaire, the emotional appeal or the emptiness of mere verbalism."

The CARTB had filed "a forbidding mass of printed or typewritten prose" with the commission, "offering no discernible argumentation, one way or the other and even presenting, at times, contradictions.

"At the end of the hearing we were left not knowing exactly what the CARTB's ought to demonstrate or what it expected us to do with the large part of this great volume of words," the commission said.

Ingrid Bergman, Yul Brynner Take Academy Awards With 'Around World' Best Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movie industry has given its highest honor to Ingrid Bergman, who left Hollywood eight years ago amid scandal and criticism and hasn't returned.

The 42-year-old Swedish star won the Academy Oscar as best second—at its 29th annual awards presentations Wednesday night. The prize was for her sensitive portrayal of the bewildered Russian princess in Anastasia.

Miss Bergman, who is in Paris, was the star in absentia of ceremonies in which Yul Brynner won the top-actor award for The King and I and Around the World in 80 Days was acclaimed the best picture of 1956.

Winners of supporting - player awards were Dorothy Malone, as a sexy Texan heiress in Written on the Wind, and Anthony Quinn, the artist Gauguin of Lust for Life.

Ingrid was the wife of a Hollywood surgeon and the mother of his daughter when she went to Italy and became the mother of a child by Italian director Roberto Rossellini and later his wife.

Anastasia, which marked her return to American films, was filmed in Europe. Miss Bergman had asked Cary Grant to accept her Oscar in case she won.

Doing so gracefully, he sent her a telegram: "Our congratulations, love, admiration and every affectionate thought."

She won an Oscar in 1944 for Gaslight.

Gregory Stevens received the best-director award for his sweeping portrayal of a Texas oil family in Giant. He won the 1956 Oscar for direction for A Place in the Sun.

The $100 gold-plated statuettes voted annually by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences can be worth millions to collectors and box office grosses.

Quotes of the evening included that of dynamic producer Mike Todd who, backstage, mumbled over and over:

"Imagine this . . . and being married to Liz, too."

Todd had just kissed his beautiful bride, Elizabeth Taylor, and then run and walked to the stage to accept the best-picture award for Around the World in 80 Days, his first picture.

"This is especially wonderful for me," he told the audience. "Because it's my first time at bat."

Quinn told reporters he was surprised at his victory that:

"I feel just like Harry Truman."

Like the former U.S. president in his 1948 election, Quinn wasn't favored to win. Most forecasts had tabbed Robert Mack, the alcoholic, psychopathic son in Written on the wind, Quinn, 41, won the supporting Oscar in 1952 for Viva Zapata.

In an acceptance speech which Miss Malone said later she could not recall, the 29-year-actress dedicated her Oscar to her 16-year-old brother, Bill. A lightning bolt killed him in 1954 on a golf course.

Brynner, 41, born on the island of Sakhalin near Siberia of Mongolian and Romanian parents, won his Oscar in his second starring picture. The shaven-headed actor accepted the award from wild-haired Italian star Anna Magnani, who won best-actress honors last year for Rose Tattoo.

Brynner said his Oscar will be displayed in a steel box in place of honor in his house. He won it as royal size of 82 children in the King and I.

The most awards went to The King and I. Besides Brynner's, it scored in five minor categories. Next was Around the World in 80 Days, with five Oscars.

A surprise winner was the song Que Sera, Sera Whatever will be, will be), written by Ray Evans and Jay Livingston. True Love, sung by Bing Crosby and Princess Grace Kelly in High Society, was the favorite.

Quinn, in a sense, also was a second Oscar when La Strada was picked as the best foreign film. He was the star of that picture.

The announcement of the awards closed the Academy Awards sweepstakes contest run by 500 Canadian theatres during the past four weeks. About 40 newspapers printed contest ballots on which contestants matched their choices against those of the Academy judges.

A separate category was for the best British picture released in Canada during 1956. Seventy professional critics selected Richard III.

Press Freedom Cannot Apply In Radio Field

OTTAWA (CP) — Freedom of the press is a basic democratic freedom, says the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting, but it is "not fully available to radio." These were technical limitations.

Freedom of the press "is the right to use, have access to, a pulpit, a press or a soap box," said the commission report, published today.

"The essential freedom is that of the individual citizen to publish, to resort to the written and the spoken word, to communicate his ideas and proposals to his fellow citizens without prohibition or interference so long as the laws of the land are not broken."

Science has not reached the point where every citizen could own a radio or television transmitter. But Canadians would be free to buy a daily newspaper to distribute his ideas might start a weekly, a monthly. He could rent a duplicating machine and circulate his opinions personally in print."

But in Canada there were only 189 radio stations and 38 TV stations.

"There is nothing that any individual Canadian can do to gain access to radio or television," the commission said, except with the permission of this handful of licencees."

The commission added: "The analogy with the press breaks down because this power is given to control the access to broadcasting facilities of the many."

Half of CBC TV Will Be in Color In 6 Years' Time

OTTAWA (CP) — An estimate that approximately one-half the television service will be in color by 1963—at an additional cost of $6,000,000 a year—was made in the report of the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting.

The commission bases this on a calculation that yearly revenue for English stations from the United States and colored films by service French outlets.

By March 31, 1960, it calculated $14,000,000 in color TV equipment would be in color. Color content of CBC programming would increase by the same percentage in each succeeding year.

Installation of color would add $1,000,000 to the level of the CBC's annual capital costs for each of the year ending March 31, 1959, and by 1963 this annual additional cost would reach $6,007,000.

The major portion of the cost of televising in color would be shouldered by the public through purchase of color receivers, which the CBC estimated to be $500.

On the production and transmission side, the commission said it was told the changeover to color would mean a cost of $15,000 to $25,000 for an existing TV station.

Political Groups Should Apportion Broadcast Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Apportionment of time on Canadian radio and television networks for political broadcasts should be decided by political parties, the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting recommended today.

The commission's report, tabled in Parliament, stated the Canadian Broadcasting Act now provides that the CBC must make regulations "to prescribe the proportion of time that may be devoted to political broadcasts by the stations of the corporation and by private stations, and to allocate such time on an equitable basis to all parties and rival candidates."

The commission said the proposed new board of broadcast governors should prescribe the proportion of time that may be devoted to political broadcasts by both CBC and private stations. However, it did not consider the board should "assign such time on an equitable basis to all parties and rival candidates."

This should be delegated to the representatives of the people. The proposed board should prescribe only the over-all time that may be devoted by public and private stations to political broadcasts and the various political parties should agree among themselves on the apportionment of that time.

Regulatory Broadcast Board Divorced From CBC Control Royal Commission's Proposal

OTTAWA (CP)—A new regulatory body which would terminate the CBC's long domination over Canadian broadcasting is proposed by the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting in its report to Parliament today.

While falling short of demands of private broadcasters, the new body — the Board of Broadcast Governors—would mean scrapping of the existing CBC board of governors which for years has ruled over both private and public broadcasting.

Its membership of 15, picked from across the country but excluding CBC officials, would sit for five years only with no chance of immediate reappointment. Sessions would be arranged to be staggered so that there would be no complete changeover of 15 at once.

It would be responsible to Parliament, and both the publicly-owned CBC and the private broadcasters would be answerable to it.

The nature of the concept indicates pretty clearly that the present chairman of the CBC board of governors, A. D. Dunton, would not remain in the job.

The proposal calls for the chairman of the new board to get an annual salary of $10,000. Mr. Dunton, who also is operating director of the CBC, gets $25,000.

The commission added: "The analogy with the press breaks down because this power is given to control the access to broadcasting facilities of the many."

The commission recommended:

1. Foreign ownership of Canadian stations be limited to 20 per cent of each station.

2. Monopolies in the operations of broadcasting and other communications media should be prevented since such monopolies "hold a potential danger." But monopoly in itself might not prove detrimental. If a "monopolist" provided good service there should be no interference.

11-Member Committee Set up To Study Labor Relations Act

TORONTO (CP)—An 11-member select committee was formally set up today to study the Ontario legislature to study the Labor Relations Act.

The committee, consists of eight Progressive Conservatives, two Liberals and one CCF member will meet between sessions of the House. The motion setting up the committee, by Labor minister Dana Porter, was introduced by Premier Frost.

James A. Maloney, Progressive Conservative lawyer from Renfrew South, will chair the committee. Other Conservative members are John Yaremko, Toronto Bellwoods; J. W. Spooner, Toronto South; Ellis F. Morningstar, Victoria; Robert Macaulay, Toronto Riverdale; G. E. Jackson, Toronto South; Leslie Downer, York West and Wm. M. Myers, Waterloo South.

Other members are Albert Wren (L-Lab, — Kenora), Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) and CCF Leader MacDonald.

Mr. Frost said the province's labor legislation has been unbelievably successful although he realized there are times when there has been friction and places where we think there can be improvement.

Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver approved the setting up of the select committee and said nothing but good will flow from the deliberations.

Labor Minister Daley opposed a bill sponsored by Mr. MacDonald which would have permitted certification of a union if 50 per cent of those who voted were in favor.

Under present law, calculations are based on the number eligible to vote.

Mr. Daley said the proposed measure would cause a great many problems. It would allow a small group to organize a plant and win certification without the knowledge of management. Management would know this and would resist the union at the bargaining table.

He said that the 283 certification votes held in the last 22 months there would have been a difference in only two cases under the move suggested by Mr. MacDonald.

The CCF leader said labor was in favor of the bill which was based on normal democratic principles.

Mr. Oliver said he could never see why a simple majority should not suffice for certification by a union. The simple majority principle should also be applied to votes on farm marketing plans, he added.

Mr. Daley suggested Mr. MacDonald's proposal be put to vote, which was up for second reading, and let the select committee study the matter.

Urge CBC Show More Vigor In Hunt for 'Ad' Revenues

OTTAWA (CP)—"Vigorous, active competition" between CBC and privately-owned radio and TV stations for advertising revenue is proposed by the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting.

That view, contained in the commission's report made today was qualified: The CBC should not slant its programs to attract advertising and even if it did it should not apply over the whole of CBC operations.

But the commission said:

"The CBC is engaged in commercial activities it should do so vigorously and with the objective of earning the maximum revenue from those activities."

If that were done commercial revenues—now covering 30 per cent of CBC cash needs, could be increased.

"CBC commercial activities not only helped offset the public treasury costs of radio and TV but were "worthwhile in themselves."

"Advertising is a positive contributor to living standards and economic prosperity and should be regarded as a regrettable and necessary feature of our public broadcasting system."

The commission made these proposals:

1. The CBC should seek local advertising on its radio stations instead of "voluntarily refraining" from accepting such advertising.

2. The same thing should be done by CBC TV stations whenever private stations are allowed to operate in the same centres.

3. The present "local sign" system of discounts for sponsored TV programs, where sponsors cannot recover full production costs, should be reviewed. Either good-quality programs should be produced at a price sponsors could afford, or the CBC should try to sell its programs to the highest bidder.

4. Premium rates should be charged for key spot announcements before and after CBC news broadcasts, without actual sponsorship of the news itself.

West Govts. Finding It Hard To Minimize Suez Importance

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO (AP)—Western governments will find it virtually impossible to turn the Suez Canal into an idle ditch by building more pipelines and super tankers.

Military, diplomatic and economic pressures have shaken Egyptian President Nasser's grip on the waterway. Some Western leaders are advocating a crash development of alternative routes to minimize Nasser's ability to black-mail the world.

So far, three schemes have been proposed:

1. A pipeline through Turkey to the Mediterranean for oil from Iran, Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

2. Pipelines across southern Israel from the Gulf of Aqaba to the Mediterranean.

3. Building more super tankers so large they can take oil around Africa as cheaply as conventional tankers haul it through the Suez.

But the Western world demand for Middle Eastern oil is increasing at such a pace that even with all this competition the Suez Canal will be a busy traffic way for many decades—if Egypt and other energy begins to play a major role in providing power for industry.

Even without the threat of hostile Arab action, some alternative routes must be developed in the next decade to prevent the Suez becoming a bottleneck unable to cope with-heavily increasing traffic.

Oil shipments from the Middle East to the West are expected to double in the next 10 years. In 1955, last full year the canal was in operation, 110,000,000 tons of Middle Eastern oil went to the West. By the late 1960s, this is expected to increase to more than 250,000,000 tons.

Of the 1955 total only 65,000,000 tons went through the Suez Canal. In a decade that means that more than 120,000,000 tons must travel by alternative routes. These routes will have to be developed at high speed to absorb the surplus.

STIRLING

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Season's Last Euchre

STIRLING — Mrs. Phil Conley and Mrs. Keith Kane convened the last euchre party of the season at River Valley school on Monday evening. There were 31 adults in attendance and 21 were visitors, from Trenton, Frankford, Melrose, Wellmans and Stirling.

There were 12 tables in play and Miss Eleanor Bush provided the prizes. The prize winners were ladies' high, Mrs. A. Thomson, Frankford, and low, Mrs. George Green.

Men's high, Glenn Bush; low, Dennis Hesaman.

Mrs. Jack Bush donated the coffee and cakes and Mrs. Dan Donnan Montgomery auctioned off an angel cake that was not needed for lunch.

The total receipts of the evening for the Institute treasury amounted to $15.05. . . .

Institute members served refreshments.

A vote of thanks was given to all those who had made the evening a success. The visitors were invited to return again next autumn and thus enjoy the various parties.

NEARLY

3. Thirty per cent of the 1,284 bridges on this system are too narrow or won't support a big enough load.

3. Sixty per cent of the provincially-controlled secondary mileage of 9,400 is "intolerable for reasons for insufficient width or poor surface condition."

This was the problem in dollars and cents:

The province needed $1,900,000,000 between now and 1975 for highways and the current backlog of work would take $782,000,000 to do. This leaves a total of 2,400 miles of roads. The total did not include maintenance and administration which would boost the figure to $2,700,000,000.

FAVORS 10-YEAR PLAN

In 1955, the per-mile upkeep of a two-lane highway cost $2,210 and it was $7,010 for a four-lane divided highway. Forty-eight per cent of these amounts was spent on just keeping them free of ice and snow.

The minister said at a press conference before he tabled the report that no provision was made for the dollar's declining value. The estimate in the 1975 figure was based on the dollar's 1955 value. Already, he said, the province would have to be increased 20 per cent to bring the picture up to date.

The report said the government could adopt a 10, 15 or 20-year plan for spending the $1,900,000,000. But it favored 10 years.

The over-all total included $1,590,870,000 for rural King's highway construction, $3,230,000 for urban King's highways and $272,000,000 for secondary routes controlled by the province.

NEW CLASSIFICATION

In order to clarify responsibility and settle disputes as to roads where they are most needed, the report proposed a new classification to comprise the King's highway system based on the present 8,600 miles of King's highways.

This is how it would be defined:

1. "Freeway highways" (400 miles) — major international and interprovincial routes connecting metropolitan districts and cities.

2. "Trunking highways"—(4,200 miles) — ones with "relatively large" traffic volume and "completing a network of Ontario to connect all other large cities and important areas of the province.

3. "Feeder highways" (2,580 miles—routes not "essential to the interconnection of the system and that maintain a desirable and consistent level of service to all areas."

The report said "highways should be placed in categories consistent with the services they perform."

IMPROVEMENT PROBLEM

The present road system is adequate in terms of mileage—the real problem lies in improving existing facilities to modern standards.

Urgency of the problem was indicated by:

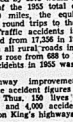
1. Vehicle registrations in Ontario increased 144 per cent between 1945 and 1955, reaching 1,650,000.

2. Industry was becoming more and more diversified. This deepened the need for a sensible traffic pattern.

3. Highways were absorbing more and more punishment. More vehicles were travelling greater distances and there were heavier trucks. The total mileage travelled by 1975 would be 111 per cent of the 1955 total or 20,000,000 miles, the equivalent of 77,600 round trips to the moon.

4. Traffic accidents in Ontario jumped from 17,356 in 1946 to 63,219 on all civil roads in 1955. Fatalities rose from 688 to 1,111. Cost of accidents in 1955 was $110,000,000.

Highway improvement would cut the accident figures by 25 per cent. Thus, 150 lives could be saved and 4,000 accident eliminated on King's highways alone.



MOSTLY TWO-LANE

The report went against the popular concept of highway development by saying that in 1976, some 75 per cent of the King's highways will still be two-lane. However, the existing 310 miles of multi-lane highways would have increased to 2,130 miles.

The projected construction of 10,000 miles of highways in the next 29 years represented almost

Had So Much Trouble With Indigestion, Gas, Headaches

Suffered 2 Years. "Often Afraid to Eat." Nerves on Edge, Always Tired. "Never Found Anything to Help Me Like Syntona Did."

Telling of the results she got by taking Syntona, Mrs. William Vasbinder, 128 Inkerman Street, London, Ontario, said in a recent report:

"After suffering two years with my stomach and being in a nervous, run-down condition I can say I never found anything to help me like Syntona did."

"I am delighted to be able to enjoy meals without suffering from gas, indigestion and sour and rising after words. I am also free of headaches and my nerves which were very bad now calmed down so that I am getting a good night's rest as a result I have more energy and do not always tire out as I was before."

Why not let this grand Herbal Tonic help you as it has so many others? You'll be glad you tried Syntona.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

RECORD BREAKING

The Trans-Canada work was scheduled with the aim of completing the road by March 31, 1961 when the agreement between the provinces and the federal government ends. The Dominion has agreed to pay 50 per cent of the cost of 10 per cent of the province's Trans - Canada Highway mileage, providing this 10 per cent was spent on classes of the job. It was estimated to send $5,317,000 on the four-lane Queen Elizabeth Way between Toronto and Fort Erie, continuing a program to convert the province's most heavily travelled road into a sealed access highway. Work involved projects to eliminate direct access to the highway.

Expected completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway by 1958 made it essential to start further work on relocation of Highway No. 2 between Cornwall and Iroquois. Work this year was estimated at $600,000 for which the department would be fully re-imbursed by the Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

$5,000,000 LEFT ASIDE

Biggest share of the new roads program was $90,000,000 for work on provincial highways and secondary roads, involving 238 miles of grading, 1,000 miles of paving and 57 road structures such as bridges.

Another $5,000,000 was set aside for work likely to be approved during the coming year.

The report listed all new and carry - over projects planned in each of Ontario's 18 road districts.

The report on the municipal roads program called for amounts approved for each organized municipality in the province. The figures covered total costs. The province pays subsidies ranging from 22 1-3 to 85 per cent, depending on nature of municipal organization and type of work.

Three Excellent Bands Stationed In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — The spit, polish and musical excellence of two army bands is posing a threat to the traditional leadership of the navy's Stadacona shore base band in the eyes of this east coast port's ceremony-loving citizens.

The Stadacona band established itself strongly during the Second World War, when Halifax's cobblestones often echoed to the sound of marching feet. It could be counted on for the smartest turn-out for the annual Naval Day parade.

Now, the army is having a turn at stirring the hearts of the people with bands belonging to the Black Watch and Royal Canadian Artillery active units stationed here. And the army has provided a twist by recruiting many of the musicians in Europe.

Thirteen of the 42 members of the Black Watch band are Dutch. The outfit also contains a Pole, a Hungarian, a Welshman, an Scots and six Englishmen. That leaves a scant 115 native-born musicians.

The artillery band, comprising 49 men, has 20 Dutchmen. The musical director is Lieut. Kenneth Ellaway, an Englishman who was a bandsman in the British Army.

The Black Watch band chief is Lieut. D. V. Start, also an Englishman and, like Ellaway, graduate of Kneller Hall, the Royal School of Music which trains British military bandsmen.

The story of Sgt. Marinus Komst is typical of the manner in which the European - born musicians wound up playing for the Canadian Army.

Komst was playing in the Amsterdam police band when he heard of the Canadian Army's recruiting drive. He applied, was auditioned and accepted as a trombonist.

Komst, his wife and son were brought to Canada and the sergeant says he plans to stick with the service. Of the more than 100 military musicians brought to Canada in this way, only five have left, all for compassionate reasons.

TRAIN WELDERS

WINNIPEG (CP)—In an effort to get more Canadians into the highly-specialized job of pipeline welding, the Manitoba Technical Institute is running a series of two-month courses. Pipeline companies select the men from their ranks of young welder helpers.

Marmora

MARMORA — A large number of hockey fans followed the midget team to Port Elgin for Saturday night's game, although the boys were not victorious, they put up a good show despite one of the their players being hospitalized for leg injury in the Friday night's game and unable to play on Saturday. On Saturday night three of the Marmora boys received medical attention. Dave Bedore, the rookie goal-tender, played senior hockey throughout. Marmora meets Port Elgin in the Hamilton Crawford Arena here on Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Mrs. Harrigan, Sr., returned to Kingston after spending a week with Mrs. S. A. Stephens and attending the funeral of her grandson.

Mr. Wayne Gant and Mrs. F. Grant visited Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Slade, of Scarboro, over the weekend.

Mrs. H. D. McManus and children have returned to their home in Scarboro, after spending a week with her parents, here.

Mrs. Lawrence Paquet, of Montreal, spent a few days in Marmora and attended the funeral of her nephew, Garry Harrigan.

Leo Meechan, of Copper Cliff, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Meechan.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex McGregor, of Napanee, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. C. Connor, on Sunday.

A large fan following of the senior hockey team attended the Marmora-Napanee game at Napanee on Monday night. Napanee carried off the honors.

Above-Normal Precipitation For Manitoba and Alberta As Farmers Prepare for Spring

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A dry winter in the central regions of the Prairie Provinces contrasts with above-normal precipitation figures for Manitoba and Alberta as grain farmers prepare for a new growing season.

During the period from last Aug. 1 to the end of February, precipitation averaged 12 per cent below normal for Saskatchewan. But Manitoba had an excess of 11 per cent and Alberta nine per cent above normal.

Statistics prepared for The Canadian Press by the meteorological division of the transport department show the driest region during the winter was south-east Saskatchewan, 26 per cent below normal. It was 24 per cent below normal in the northwest part of the province, 15 per cent below in the southwest and eight per cent under normal totals in the northeast.

Heaviest precipitation was in eastern Manitoba, 19 per cent above normal compared with two per cent above in western Manitoba. The excess was 12 per cent in south Alberta, 11 per cent in north-central Alberta, eight per cent in central Alberta and just one per cent above normal in the Peace River region.

The figures refer only to precipitation, but the summary notes that temperatures averaged near normal over the seven-month period. The biggest departures from average temperatures were in November, which was exceptionally mild, and January, an unusually cold month.

The cool trend through most of last summer on the Prairies continued in August and most of Saskatchewan had less rain than normal, although thunderstorm rainfall was abundant in Alberta and in the Red River Valley of Manitoba.

Except for a part of northeastern Alberta, all regions had only a small amount of precipitation in September. Southern Alberta had above-normal temperatures but other areas were again cool.

Rains continued light and generally below normal in October, except in Manitoba's Red River Valley, with temperatures shading from four degrees above normal in eastern Manitoba to, four degrees under normal in north-west Alberta.

November was a mild and dry month in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and mild with normal or better precipitation in Manitoba. It was an especially warm period in the Peace River district, temperatures averaging more than 10 degrees above normal.

In December, however, precipitation was heavy in all parts of the grain area. The first half was cold and the last half mild, giving a normal temperature average for the whole month.

Then the weather became unusually cold during the second week, and again in the last 10 days, of January. Over the Prairies as a whole that month showed temperatures about six degrees under normal. Precipitation generally was light and below normal, except in southern Alberta.

Alternating cold and mild spells continued during February, the month averaging close to normal temperatures. Snowfall in Saskatchewan was only about half of the normal figure but precipitation averaged close to normal in Alberta and Manitoba.

The first three weeks of March were generally cool on the Prairies, and precipitation was close to normal except in southern Alberta, where it has been light, and northern Manitoba, where it was heavy.

Court Action May Be Taken Against 'Mag'

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann indicated Tuesday that court action may be taken against the Canadian edition of Reader's Digest for non-payment of a special 30-per-cent advertising tax which went into effect Jan. 1.

He told a Commons questioner that the magazine has not paid its assessment and the matter has been referred to the justice department.

The tax was announced last year as a 20-per-cent levy on advertising revenues of special Canadian editions of foreign magazines.

It is likely that any challenge of the tax law would be based on the claim it is an attempt to regulate or discriminate in the field of magazine distribution.

Will Tear Down Old Post Office In Winter Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Winters Tuesday informed several Commons members about public building plans in their areas.

He informed Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) that demolition of the old post office building in Peterborough will be phased to "make the greatest contribution to winter employment."

"While the building is left standing," asked Mr. Fraser, "will it be possible to have the clock running?" Mr. Winters said he would look into it.

He told Hayden Stanton (PC—Leeds) that investigation of the site of a proposed federal building in Brockville is not completed. When it was, the department would have discussions with the town planning board, but that likely would not be for two or three weeks yet.

SET DEADLINE

GAZA (AP) — Egyptian Governor Mohammed Hassan Latif told Gaza civilians they must hand over Egyptian arms and material by March 28. Many Gazans hid Egyptian arms, office equipment and other goods during the Israeli occupation.

Death Toll 36 In U.S. Blizzard

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The death toll stood at 36 Wed. in the spring snow storm which hit the U.S. western plains during the week-end.

The six-state area, which got up to 14 inches of snow and drifts as high as 20 feet, still is digging out. But trains are starting to move again and main roads are open, except in western Kansas.

Thirteen persons in three cars and a truck were freed Tuesday night by a road crew near Garden City, Kan. They had been snowbound three days but all were reported in good condition.

The area where the storm was a full blown blizzard—southwest Nebraska, western Kansas, eastern Colorado, northeast New Mexico and the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles—makes up a large part of the plains area hard hit by five years of drought.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Holloway United Church sponsors the 10th Belleville Cubs and Sea Scouts. A Sea Scout is a Boy Scout who learns boat management and seamanship additional to Boy Scout training. They are not to be confused with Sea Cadets, a very admirable organization entirely separate from the Boy Scout movement. Norm Roberts is Scoutmaster of the 10th Sea Scout Troop and Leo Desaulniers, A.S.M., both very popular and efficient leaders.

On Saturday March 23rd, they were all present at their Father and Son banquet at which over 100 fathers, sons and leaders enjoyed a social evening getting acquainted with each other and learning quite a lot about Scouting.

Head table guests were Rev. C. W. Coleman, Regional Commissioner A. S. Lewis, District Commissioner O. C. Owen, John Ross, chairman and Tony Lepore, Enrsprtin Club. The birthday cake, beautiful with icing and gold, gleaming with many candles, was the centre of attraction, set amid gally decorated tables with replicas of the cake on each table Menus, decorations and jellies were red and yellow, the group colors, all presenting a very gala appearance.

After the excellent dinner served by the Scout mothers, the toast to the Queen was given by the chairman, followed by "the fathers" by Cub Jay Kaufman, responded to by Maurice Martin. Mr. Martin told of the benefits of Scouting to the handicapped boys and how the Cubs themselves help these boys to overcome their difficulties. The 10th Cubs have such a boy and it is pleasant to report that he is accepted as just another Cub and enjoys being a Cub himself. Another instance of Cubs friendly help carrying out the wishes of Baden-Powell.

Phil Allcorn, A.D.C., Cubs, led the singing and by popular request sang "Alouette." Phil does this well and soon had them all singing.

COMMISSIONER HEARD

The guest speaker, Mr. Archie Lewis, complimented Cub Jay Kaufman on his toast to the fathers and Maurice Martin for his kind reply.

Since this in anniversary year, the Regional Commissioner spoke on the life of the Chief, Baden-Powell, and also what this 50th year of Scouting held for Scouts, culminating in the 9th world jamboree in England. Over 35,000 Scouts and leaders will attend. Four Scouts, four leaders and one Rover Scout will be going from Belleville. Canada will fly over 1,000 to the Jamboree in August.

Cubmaster Louis Greatrix and A.C.M. Keith Chambers proudly presented 15 Cubs to District Cubmaster John Townsend to receive hard earned badges.

John Smith was awarded House Orderly, Gardener, Artist, and the only badge a Cub is allowed to retain as a Scout, the Leaping Wolf badge. The D.C.M. presented "Swimmers" badges to Richard Herrington, Roger Scriven, Gary Maker" to Bill Phillips and Bob Phillips; "Teamplayer" to Roger Scriven, Terry Kemp, Gary May and Don MacCormack. Mr. Greatrix thanked the D.C.M. and stressed the responsibility of leaders who are privileged to guide boys to a better way of living. Addressing the fathers he said he was proud of their sons and valued the confidence reposed in him.

Les Boyle, A.D.C. Scouts, mentioned that he intended attending Gilwell in England in conjunction with the jamboree. This will be a unique and thrilling experience. The 8th World Jamboree film was the closing item. Mrs. H. C. Tilker and her ladies deserve highest praise for their part in this very successful banquet. Holloway always puts on a good and this was no exception.

Sunday Sport For Vancouver Dies Officially

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Commercial Sunday sport for Vancouver died officially Wednesday when the legislature defeated by bill seeking an amendment to that city's charter. The private bills committee rejected the bill against the request which asked for commercial sport on Sunday afternoon.

M. A. Gray (CCF — Winnipeg North) suggested in the Manitoba legislature that a government amendment to the Public Health Act which would allow parents to ston inoculations being given to their children should be defeated. He said he feared some parents, for religious reasons, would not allow their children to receive inoculations endangering not only the child's life but also the lives of other children.

Health Minister R. W. Bend of Manitoba indicated the government would not bring legislation this session to enable Manitoba to enter the national hospital insurance plan.

In reply to a question by CCF Leader Lloyd Stinson, Mr. Bend said he did not expect to make any statement on hospital insurance at the present session. He added, however, this did not necessarily mean that the government would not go into the scheme.

At Fredericton, Health Minister J. F. McInerney said Wednesday that an announcement may be made this week as to whether New Brunswick will enter the national health insurance plan proposed by the federal government. Enabling legislation, he pointed out in an interview, was enacted in the N.B. legislature last year.

MORE

But it had a variety of suggestions including these:

1. Enforcement of broadcast regulations should be tightened and a proposed "board of broadcast governors" should not hesitate to cancel station licenses for flagrant violations.

2. Development of more live Canadian programs should be encouraged on radio and TV.

3. The CBC's French-language service should be extended.

4. There should be tougher standards for the program performance of private stations.

5. The CBC might abandon its Dominion radio network—necessary to the trans-Canada—which is made up of about 40 private stations taking programs from a Toronto CBC outlet.

6. The commission said that hair the CBC's television service should be in color by 1958, and it early urged a start on color two years from now.

PROPOSES SHUFFLE

On the more immediate question of how broadcasting is to be regulated — a top issue in commission hearings through five months last year—the commission proposed a shuffling and redefinition of functions now split between the 11-man CBC board of governors and the CBC management.

It proposed to set up a new "board of broadcast governors" distinct from the CBC and having supervisory authority over all broadcasting, including the CBC and private broadcasters.

Under this proposal, the whole 15-man personnel of the new board would be part-time, with the chairman getting $10,000 a year and the vice-chairman $5,000. Present full-time members of the CBC board of governors is A. D. Dunton, at $25,000.

CALLS FOR NEW POST

The commission called for a new post of president of the CBC along with a general manager, which it now has, with their salaries to be set by the cabinet. Evident candidates for the presidency and general managership would be Mr. Dunton and the present general manager, J. A. Ouimet.

Under the commission's proposals, the CBC would retain a strong measure of control over private stations. It could continue to demand that programs considers necessary to national service be carried by private stations.

But the board of broadcast governors would have over-riding authority over both the CBC and the private operators and would be responsible to Parliament—annually—for the results.

NEEDS ITS POWERS

For the CBC board of governors, Chairman Dunton has told the commission that the publicly-owned corporation needs its powers to put over its national service.

Members of the commission, apart from 59-year-old Mr. Dunton, head of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association at Montreal, are Edmond Turcotte, 50, Canadian Ambassador to Colombia and former Montreal newspaper editor, and James Stewart, 62, chairman of the board of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Toronto.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters has been calling for an independent regulatory board separate from the CBC board of governors, and above both the CBC and the private broadcasters.

The commission contended that the CARTB was looking for a more authoritarian type of tribunal and that the one it proposed would be closer to Parliament and its thinking, and therefore closer to the ideas of the public generally.

Dealing with television, it said the time has come or is near at hand when the "single-channel" policy of the federal government should be dropped. At present TV transmission is reserved for the CBC in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. In other areas, single private stations only are allowed.

NOT BELOW CBC

The commission said any second station in a viewing area should be made to provide programs not substantially below that of the national CBC network level.

For the future, the CBC and private broadcasters should plan to increase TV viewing hours and widen network coverage.

It also suggested that TV's present coverage of 85 per cent of Canadians could be broadened to 90 per cent by low-power "repeater" stations at small points.

On the tricky question of financing the CBC — the commission's corps of financial experts came up with three formulas, of which the report favored one based on consumer spending. On an "ability to pay" basis, a so-called "1956 dollar," the CBC would get from the treasury $66,000,000 starting with about $44,000,000 in the fiscal year starting April 1 and some $74,000,000 in the year ending March 31, 1963.

$8 ADDITIONAL

These sums would be in addition to what the CBC gets from other revenue sources such as advertising. They also would not include what the corporation receives from the tax on receivers, which would go into a fund to be used for capital needs of the government agency.

The starting $44,200,000 is roughly what the CBC estimated before the commission as what it could use to provide a service at its equivalent of last year. At that time, the CBC suggested it could do this at a cost of about $29 per TV household—not a fee—and on the basis of 2,000,000 households it would come to $10,000,000.

In dealing with the private broadcasters, the commission suggested regulations should be enforced strictly. The broadcasters board should have no hesitation in taking away a station's licence for flagrant violations. A new department is urged to be created to be brought into court for offences that could call for fines ranging between $50 and $1,000. At present there is no intermediate step between a reprimand and a revocation of licence, the latter not exercised yet.

QUEEN

The prime minister said he never received an appeal from the Liberal party of Great Britain asking him to urge Prime Minister Macmillan to stop H-bomb tests scheduled for Christmas Island next month.

Replying to Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) he said the tests were discussed at the Bermuda conference and that the joint communique issued after the talks referred to them.

"... We felt there was some progress being made in the direction of safeguarding, perhaps in a more specific way, against the dangers to which we might be involved in further experimental explosions."

The prime minister's statements were made during the House question period. The rest of the day was spent debating the budget.

BIGGER EXPENSES

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) said increases of $5 monthly proposed for various pensions in the budget wouldn't provide "even half a loaf."

"In fact, I think it would be stretching the point to say this is a slice of bread."

An accountant, Mrs. Fairclough added that instead of granting all taxpayers a basic $100 reduction from taxable income for medical, charitable and similar purposes, the government should have raised basic exemptions for individuals to $1,500 annually from its present $1,000.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) criticized Revenue Minister McCann for not waiting until the end of the year to decide proposed special payments to Alberta residents by the Social Credit government are taxable. That would have allowed interested parties to make representations on the matter.

Dr. McCann interrupted to say he will be "glad" to receive any representations on the subject.

In other Commons developments:

1. Gerard Legare (L—Rimouski) made a plea for federal icebreaking assistance to keep the lower St. Lawrence River open to navigation the year-round.

2. External affairs minister Pearson said Canada believes Israel should permit United Nations emergency force troops on Israeli territory.

3. Immigration Minister Pickersgill said stateless Christian George Hanna will be left "undisturbed" in Vancouver at least for now following court rejection of the immigration department's deportation order against him.

Trenton Drops Second Decision To Bowmanville

Bowmanville - Orono Comuines took a commanding 5-0 lead in their three-of-five OHA Intermediate "A" playdown series here last night by defeating Trenton Quints 7-4.

They beat the Comets 10-5 the previous night and can wrap it up with a victory in Bowmanville on Friday.

The game was close for two periods as neither team could get a sustained attack organized. Bowmanville led 1-0 at the end of the first and 3-2 after the second period. Trenton tied the score early in the third but the Combines rapped home four consecutive goals for the win.

Dean West paced the victors' attack with two goals and one assist. Ed Hooper had a goal and two helpers and Junior West three assists while Ray West and Wally Samandi each earned one and one. Keith West and Marshall fired the other goals while Berwick and Walker had single assists.

Jack Schmidt topped Trenton's scorers with a goal and a brace of assists while Bob Taylor and Joe Scott each picked up a goal and one assist. B. Scott scored the other goal. Mc. Jones getting two assists and Bill Foster one.

Both Ross Hawe in the Bowmanville - Orono net and Ellie Carter of Trenton came up with good saves but both also looked bad on other occasions.

Referees Vern Goyer and Red Carson assessed Trenton with four minor penalties. The Combines drew four minors and a misconduct to Walker in the third heat.

Goalie Claude Carr was presented with the "Dennis O'Connor Trophy" as Trenton's most valuable player during the year. Mr. O'Connor made the presentation between periods.

LINEUPS

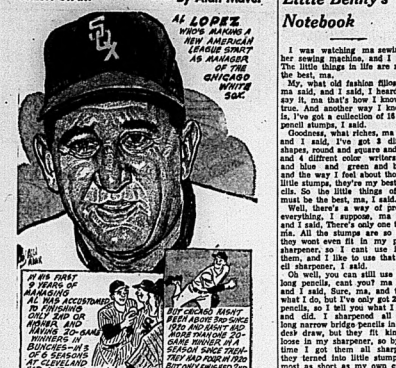
Trenton: Carr, A. Scott, Schmidt, J. Scott, Mc. Jones, B. Scott, Foster, Campney, Taylor, Jones, Istead, H. Scott, Lewis, Austin.

Napanee Downs Marmora 9-6 For Third Win

MARMORA (Special) — Napanee twice overcame two-goal deficits here last night to down Marmora Millionaires 9-6 and take a commanding 3-0 lead in their four-of-seven OHA Intermediate "A" series. The next game is slated for Napanee Arena on Friday night.

Marmora opened the scoring with two goals but Napanee evened the score by the end of the first period. Again in the second the home club tallied a pair but the visitors finally took the lead for keeps by a 5-4 count at the second intermission. Napanee banged home four goals in the third. Marmora closed with a pair.



Veteran playing-coach Walt Gerow of Napanee shared the scoring spotlight with Joe Maracle, each man scoring four goals. Griffin had the other and added two assists while John Green and Jack Brady each helped on one marker.

Earle Gerow netted two goals in a losing cause with Ken Trumble, Jack Lane and one, Lavender, Brooks and Mantle also scored while Darrah had a single assist.

The teams split 12 minor penalties.

Only Corporal's Guard Left Of Brilliant 'Silver Seven'

OTTAWA (CP) — Only a corporal's guard is left today of the brilliant Silver Seven who early this century for three consecutive years ruled the world of hockey.

And only one of them—Harry (Hat) Westwick — survives who was on the team's regular roster during all three years it held the world hockey championship and the Stanley Cup, 1903-05.

Another original Silver Seven man is H. L. (Billy) Gilmour, now of Montreal, a left-wing winger in his day. He played all three years too, but in the last year, 1905, saw action only intermittently while attending McGill University.

Bouse Hutton, still hale and hearty in Ottawa, was the team's goalie in 1903-04. Billy Hague, also goalminder for a time, is still around. So is Dave Finnie, a resident of New York the last 20 years, who minded nets in 1903.

Still alive too are Jack Fraser and Fred White.

CENTRE ACE

Gone is Frank McGee, the Silver Seven's centre ace who spearheaded the team's scoring punch during all three championship seasons. In a 1905 game against the Dawson City, Yukon, Klondikes, after the Klondike manager had commented "McGee isn't so hot," he scored 14 goals, 10 of them in succession.

Harry Westwick, retired in Ottawa and still chain-smoked at 81, was immediately behind McGee in scoring. He played the now-extinct position of rover on the seven-man team.

Flexed into hockey history are Dave and Suddy Gilmour, Billy's brothers. Suddy and Billy for a time formed a famous line combination.

E. H. (Harvey) Pulford saved many a day in his defence spot. He is gone, along with Alf Smith, right wing and 1905 captain; Art Moore, defence; Jim McGee; Hamby Shore; Horace Gaul.

The Silver Seven were the original Ottawa hockey club and adopted their euphonious name in 1903 when team manager Bob Shillington presented each player with a silver nugget.

SIGN QUARTER

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts have announced the signing of quarterback Dave Doane of Missouri University. Incoming for a 12 the number of now imports obtained for the 1957 Big Four football season. The group also includes another quarterback, Bob Reinhart of San Jose State College.

COMPLAIN CUT OFF

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviet sports stars, including Olympic distance running champion Vladimir Kuts, have complained some Western countries are cutting off sports contacts with the Soviet Union for political reasons. This growing movement, they said, violates "ideals of friendship and peace."

Little Benny's Notebook

I was watching me sewing on her sewing machine, and I said, The little things in life are really the best, ma.

My, what old fashion filosophy, ma said, and I said, I heard you say it, ma that's how I know it's true. And another way I know it is, I've got a assortment of 16 little pencil stumps, I said.

Good idea, what riches, ma said, and I said, I've got 3 different shapes, round and square and flat, and 4 different colors, writen, red and blue and green and black, and the way I feel about those 16 little stumps, they're my best pencils. So the little things of life must be the best, ma, I said.

Well, there's a way of proving everything, I suppos, ma said, and I said, There's only one thing, ma. All the stumps are so short they wont even fit in my pencil sharpener, so I cant use it on them, and I like to use that pencil sharpener, I said.

Oh well, you can still use it on long pencils, ma said, you' me said, and I said, Sure, ma, and that's what I do, but I've only got 2 long pencils, so I tell you what I went and did. I sharpened all your long narrow bridge pencils in your desk draw, but they fit kind of loose in my sharpener, so by the time I got them all sharpened they turned into little stumps like the rest of my pencil collection. So G ma, I hope you feel the same way I do about pencil stumps belonging to the best little things of life, I said.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

Quebec Aces Two Games up

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Quebec Aces fired three goals in the final period Wednesday night to edge Trois-Rivieres Lions 5-4 and take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Quebec Hockey League semi-final.

Bob Hackett's second goal of the period, from a scramble in front of the net, put Quebec ahead for the first time in the game with only 46 seconds left in regulation time.

Trois-Rivieres went into the third period leading 4-2 but a backhand shot by Beckett bounced into the Trois-Rivieres net off the shoulder of Lions' defenceman Camille Bedard. Skip Teal then tied the score with a bouncing shot from the centre-ice red line.

Milwaukee Braves

Manager Haney Says Team Has Potential to Go All Way

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Through the long winter months, Milwaukee Braves thought about the world series cheques that went down the drain last September. If they were nonchalant at the time, the mood has changed.

No club has worked harder during spring training. Every time somebody hits a homer or makes an error in a squad game, coach Bob Keely blows a whistle that means one lap around the field for everybody.

"When we got down here I called a meeting and talked over a few of the things that happened last year," said manager Fred Haney. "I said I didn't expect to mention them again. This is a new year and we're starting from scratch."

FOUR SUBSTANDARD

Haney said he thought the "near miss" of last year would help his club. "Four of our men were way below their potential," Haney said. "If we can get them back up to par, we'll be all right.

"Let's start with Del Crandall. He hurt his left arm and couldn't go through with a full swing. He wound up hitting .238. He's not that kind of a hitter. I expect him to give me 30 or 40 more points.

"Danny O'Connell was leading off for the first time. I want him to 20 more points from him.

"Bobby Thomson hit only .253. He's a lot better hitter than that. If he isn't he won't be in there because I'm going to get 50 more points in left field.

"Joe Adcock, Johnny Logan and Bill Bruton will be doing fine if they repeat last year's performances. And Henry Aaron isn't close to his potential."

DEEP IN PITCHING

Haney's pitching staff is deep. Warren Spahn (20-11), Bob Buhl (18-8) Lew Burdette (19-10), Gene Conley (9-9) and Ray Crone (11-10) are sure to start. Then he has two promising youngsters who helped out last season, lefthanded Taylor Phillips (5-5) and righthanded Bob Trowbridge (3-3).

With Adcock (.291) on first, O'Connell (.239) or Felix Mantilla (.293) on second, Logan (.281) at short and Mathews (.272) at third, the infield is set.

In the outfield, Aaron (.328) is in right and Bruton (.272) in centre. Thomson (.256) must improve to stay in left over Wes Covington (.272).

Crandall (.238) is No. 1 catcher with help from the veteran Del Rice (.231) and either Carl Sawatski (.260 at Toronto) who broke a finger in training, or Bob Rosell (.203 at Wichita).

Frankie Thomas Likes to Play At Third Base

PORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Frank Thomas once balked at playing third base because he was afraid he'd be killed by a line drive. Now the reformed outfielder finds it a scrubbed turf corner a breeze compared to fly-chasing.

"A fellow once told me all you have to have to become a good third baseman is a strong arm, a stout stomach and a pair of guts," Pittsburgh's third baseman of exactly 111 games said. "I'm beginning to believe it. All three have come in handy thus far."

Besides a strong arm, he is agile for a big fellow, gets a good jump on the ball, covers the necessary ground and comes in well on a slow hit ball. There never was any question about his hitting.

"I'm getting every chance I get" Thomas explained. "I come out to the park early and have fellows hit to me for a half hour every day. I gained some experience last year but I know I've still got lots to learn. Pie Traynor, the former great Pittsburgh third baseman, has been helping me. Right now he's teaching me how to cross my legs when going for ground balls to either side of me. I don't want to be a good third baseman. I want to be a great one."

Providence Reds File Protest Against Rochester

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Providence Reds filed an official protest Wednesday of their 1-0 defeat by Rochester in the opening game of the American Hockey League's Calder Cup semi-final series Tuesday night.

Terry Reardon, general manager-club, wired the protest to John Chick, AHL president, asking that the Rochester victory be forfeited on the grounds that Rochester used an ineligible player.

The player in question, defenceman Noel Price, was called up from Winnipeg recently under the league's emergency rule to replace the then-injured Benny Wolt. Both Price and Wolt played Tuesday night against Reds.

Reached Wednesday night by phone in St. Catharines Chick said he has not yet received Reardon's protest and could not comment until he reads the telegram.

He said a decision would have to be made before tonight's second game between the two clubs here and that he expects to make one after talking with Reardon today.

The Tuesday night's game, Bob Duncan, another Rochester defenceman, did not dress for action. Coach Billy Reay of the Americans said Duncan was an "extra" man. Reds' officials contended that Price should have been the extra player instead of Duncan.

Most assists in a playoff series (9) is shared by Elmer Lach and Ted Lindsay.

Giardello's Protest Draws More Attention Than Bout

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Middleweight Joey Giardello's anguished bowl of protest at ringside after dropping a 10-round split decision to Willie Vaughn Wednesday night drew more attention than their dull bout.

Giardello did not go unseen, or unheard. Two members of the Missouri athletic commission said a "no decision" would be declared today.

"Unfortunately, the judges were using the correct system of scoring and the referee was using the old system," commissioner Charles W. Pian of St. Louis explained.

He and commissioner O. G. Arnold of Kansas City were to confer with commission chairman Floyd Jones of Springfield, Mo. Jones would make the formal "no decision" announcement, they said.

Their attention was called to the scoring mixup by co-promoters John Antonello and Frankie Gatto who also informed Giardello's corner.

REACTS QUICKLY

The Philadelphian, reacting more quickly to this opening than he had to those presented by Vaughn, touched off a rhubarb over the judges table and soon had the officials on the ropes.

Giardello's manager, Frank Carter, threatened on the spot to take the matter to court. It would be nothing new for Giardello. He went to the courts in 1953 to re-win a decision from Billy Graham. Robert Christenberry, then New York state athletic commission chairman, took over the judges' cards at ringside and alterations were made giving the fight to Graham. Giardello sued and the state Supreme Court upheld him.

Giardello and his seconds Wednesday night challenged referee Ray Sissom's card which scored 52 points for Vaughn to 48 for Giardello. A check disclosed Sissom had not followed the National Boxing Association "five-point-must" scoring system, adopted by Missouri and had, instead, scored five rounds of the fight under the old rule. It awarded up to 10 points per round.

As a result of Giardello's challenge, the referee's card was officially changed to read 47-45 in Vaughn's favor.

Schmidt Feels Team Wiped Out Home-Ice Advantage; Watson Not too Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP)—"You have to be beat Montreal, you have to be good and lucky."

That's what Phil Watson, coach of New York Rangers, says as an afterthought to his team's 4-1 setback at the hands of Canadiens Tuesday night in the opening game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Twelving Watson hopes Rangers "get lucky" when they face Toe Blake's Canadiens here. The remainder of the playoff series then shifts to Montreal Forum with the third game Saturday night.

BLAKE ELATED

Blake, of course, was elated over winning the first game, but feels "the Rangers still have a big kick left." He maintains his club shouldn't have been rated a 5-to-1 favorite by Watson despite the home-ice advantage for possibly five games.

Muzz Patrick, Rangers' general manager, was disappointed in New York's inability to take the first one. He had envisioned a game sweep before the scene swung to Montreal.

"We now have our backs to the wall," Patrick admitted. "The first game, however, could have gone either way. Maybe we'll be more fortunate in the second."

NO PREDICTIONS

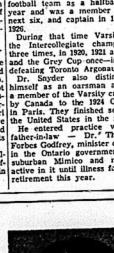
Watson wasn't making any predictions but he emphasized: "We are not going to lose four straight. Never. We're going to stretch this series a bit. The Canadiens have to win three more games and anything can happen."

Terry Pain praised Montreal and especially Canadiens' sturdy defence, notably when they had to play short-handed.

"I know Canadiens were powerful on offence," Watson stated, "but what opened my eyes was the strength of defence. (Jacques) Plante made some great saves in the goal and Bert Olmstead played a whale of a game defensively."

Both clubs are in good shape physically. Montreal's lone absentee Tuesday was rookie Stan Mikita, sidelined with a leg ailment. Rangers' centre Larry Popein missed the opener, but is expected to be ready tonight. Popein suffered a contusion of the right shoulder in Sunday's final season game and was not up to par Tuesday.

HUFFMAN SIGNS



CALGARY (CP)—Ick Huffman 250-pound tackle who has been named all-American, all professional and all Canadian, has signed for his second season with Calgary Stampeders, officials of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club announced Wednesday.

Dr. Snyder was born and educated in Toronto, received his faculty of medicine at the University of Toronto in 1920, graduating in 1927. He made the senior football team as a halfback that year and was a regular for the next six, and captain in 1924 and 1926.

During that time Varsity won the Intercollegiate championship three times, in 1920, 1921 and 1926, and the Grey Cup once—in 1920—defeating Toronto Argonauts.

Dr. Snyder also distinguished himself as an oarsman and was a member of the Varsity crew entered by Canada to the 1924 Olympics in Paris. They finished second to the United States in the final.

He entered practice with his father-in-law — Dr. The Hon. Forbes Godfrey, minister of health in the Ontario government — in suburban Mimico and remained active in it until illness forced his retirement this year.

Allen Does Not Promote Fights At Palace Pier

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley says that boxing promoter Jack Deacon Allen has not promoted any fights at Toronto's Palace Pier for 3½ years since his suspension from boxing for one year for bookmaking.

He was replying Wednesday night to CCF Leader MacDonald who asked two weeks ago why the promoter was suspended for only a year while a Sudbury boxing club was suspended indefinitely for betting.

Mr. Daley, whose department covers athletics, said the Sudbury promoter had been convicted twice and sent to jail the second time for using his boxing club as a gambling den.

Wednesday night, Mr. MacDonald said promoter Allen still held a CHCV contract for boxing matches at the Palace Pier which gave him $1,000 a week.

Mr. Daley said he knew nothing about the TV contract since it had nothing to do with his department.

Hap Day Says

Left Team With No Bitterness, Greatest Respect for Smythe

TORONTO (CP)—Hap Day says he resigned of his own volition from Toronto Maple Leafs, although he had inferred from president Conn Smythe's remarks that "it was nothing by choice, so to speak."

Leafs' former general manager told a press conference Wednesday that he ended 28 years with the National Hockey League team with "no bitterness and with the greatest respect" for Smythe.

He announced his resignation Monday after the stir caused by Leafs' first-place finish. He promised then to "tell all" at the hastily called press conference.

AVOIDS PERSONALITIES

However when asked about personalities Wednesday, he stepped the question with the comment that "this is no place for that."

He did say that since he became "unavailable" to Leafs two "hockey people" had made him offers of a job, but he declined to say what sort of a job, or whether the offers were from the clubs.

Day denied his resignation to a New York press conference had to do with the Sunday, March 17, when Smythe laid part of the blame for Leafs' "year of trouble" on himself and Day.

"The inference I took from (Smythe's) remarks was, as I've said before, that I had been publicly dismembered. I felt that was not the basis for further negotiations," Day said.

He said he had no alibis for his years in the Leaf organization, having thus posted seven one Stanley Cup while he was a defenceman, five when he was coach and one when he was assistant manager.

He also defended what has been described as the Day system of hockey—defensive, close-checking play. "I don't think my system has been outmoded. I can only recommend defensive hockey to any team when the opposition has the puck.

"I am a firm believer in offensive hockey providing you have the manpower. I understand the new Leaf system is to play 100-per-cent offensive hockey. All I hope is that people like Gordie Howe, (Detroit) will let you do it."

He thought the future of Leafs in the NHL was "very good."

"They have the best young players in organized hockey. To win the Stanley Cup they need a No. 1 line and a couple of defencemen."

SIGNS PLAYER

LONON, Ont. (CP) — Owner-manager Frank Colman of London Majors said Wednesday night he has signed the first member of last year's team for the Majors' start in the new Great Lakes-Niagara District Baseball League. He is Don McLennan, 24, a Wallaceburg product who came to the Majors two years ago as an outfielder but whom Colman hopes to convert to a first-string pitcher. McLennan last season won his only two starts as a hurler. He has had two years experience in the St. Louis Cardinals farm chain.

Kitchener Whips Dunlops 6-2 In First Game OHA Finals; Both Teams Play Below Form

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

GUELPH — Over 3500 fans sat in the spacious arena here last night and watched two alleged championship teams go through their paces.

The outcome was the Kitchener Dutchmen, Western Ontario Champions defeated the Whitby Dunlops, Eastern titlists 6-2 to take the first game of the OHA senior "A" finals.

It was senior "A" championship hockey at its worst. Any club in either group would have beaten their respective champions easily Both clubs played mediocre hockey throughout.

Eastern senior "A" fans would not have recognized the powerful Dunlops. Kitchener supporters who filled the fine arena here also had a hockey pace that at times looked like the old fashioned shinny.

Loyal Whitby fans, and there were plenty, echoed the arena with "Git, Dunnies go." They may as well have yelled at Lake Ontario. Nor were the vaunted Dutchmen much better. The four-goal margin was the difference between the smooth power of the two teams. The Dutchmen outshot the Dunlops 38-29.

BOTH AT FULL STRENGTH

Both teams were at full strength. From the press-box it looked as though the Dutchmen were out to toy with their opponents especially after Butch Martin fired the first goal 29 seconds after the game started.

It was wild erratic hockey. Neither the vaunted front lines which were expected to clash in an open scoring duel came through with anything that looked like championship hockey.

Bobby Attersley and Kenny Laufman, centre ices of the teams forged into the general melees that characterized the game. Long John Henderson looked good at times but he was definitely bad on four of the six packs that laced him. This reporter will still take Gordie Bell.

The Whitby defence failed to live up to its playoff style. The, at times, smooth-passing Dutchmen from Hoo Hoo through Treen, O'Connor, Sinden and McBeth, and Henderson, while he pulled off a few good saves, was not in form.

It was rugged hockey. It could not be otherwise with neither team clicking on offensive plays, although the Kitchener front lines definitely displayed better individual ability.

DUNNIES BELOW FORM

The Kitchener press bemoaned the fact their Dutchmen were 'off color'. This reporter can definitely say the Dunlops, either from 'stage fright' or first clash action, were not the club on the night's play that won the Eastern Ontario championship.

From the flashes of championship action that we saw this reporter believes the Dutchmen have too much class and finish. The Dunlops, when they did get in on Bob Senior in the Kitchener goal were weak in shooting and their usual goal-mouth play.

What these clubs will do when they meet on Whitby, Toronto or Kitchener ice is another matter.

It is not fair to judge either team on their play here last night. But we believe the Dutchmen when they regain the stride that swept them to the eastern title will give these fast-skating Dutchies a battle of their lives. Frankly the Dutchmen gave evidence last night that they are a powerful free - wheeling squad that sold their eastern opposition too short.

They fired home three goals in the first period. A rough rugged affair that saw eleven penalties doled out by Referees Hugh McLean of Hamilton and Jim Boddy of Owen Sound. The Dunnies drew five.

SCORES IN MINUTES

The school - teaching Don Rope rapped home the fourth Dutchie marker within a minute after the second period started. A minute later the Dunlops Armstrong batted a loose puck past Senior to break the Whitby scoring tie. Kitchener's top scorer, Jack Theberge, got it back a minute later.

The visitors drew a pair of goals in the third period, Ted O'Connor beating Senior and Laufman getting credit for a batted-in puck with minutes to go.

Kenny Laufman and Jack Theberge sparked the Dutchies with two goals each, Martin and Rope getting the others. Jack Armstrong and Ted O'Connor were the Whitby scorers.

The teams clash in the second game of the best-of-seven series in Whitby on Saturday night and again in Maple Leaf Gardens on Sunday at 2.30.

Kitchener — Goal, Senior; defence, Pautka, Hosking, Howell, Hurst; forwards, Taylor, Theberge, Kurz, Graham, McKenzie, Rope, Scholes, Robertson, Laufman, Martin.

Whitby — Goal, Henderson; defence, Treen, Sinden, McBeth, Ted O'Connor; forwards, Attersley, Gagnon, Samolenko, Myles, Eicher, Tom O'Connor, Bonello, Armstrong, Air.

TORONTO (CP)—A field of 25 has been entered for the $7,000-added Canadian Cup Pace at Woodbine raceway Aug. 17, it was announced Wednesday. Last year the purse was $6,000.

Heading the field is Maynard Hanover, owned by Ted Zornow of Pittsford, N.Y., who has a mark of 1:59.4 for the mile.

Clark Herbert and Richard Hall D, owned by Vern Evans of Brantford, and Argyle Grattan, owned by Dunc Campbell of Alisa Craig, are also entered.

Trappers Need Only One Game To Win Title

SUDBURY (CP) — North Bay Trappers are one win away from the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group championships.

Trappers toppled only a 4-4 tie with Sudbury Wolves here Wednesday night to make themselves heavy favorites to win the title. They lead the best-of-seven series 2-0 now, but two games have been tied to give North Bay a total of six points, two less than the eight they need to take the series.

What could be the last game is scheduled for North Bay tonight. The series winner meets South Porcupine Porkies, champions of the Porcupine Mines Senior League.

The winners rattled in three goals in the first period Wednesday night, and staved off a desperate Sudbury rally to hang on to their lead. Dave Gatherum and Nick Tomlik scored singles.

Trappers drew three of seven minor penalties, and one of two majors.

Sudbury goaltender Johnny Allanni was honored as the league's top netminder in ceremonies between the second and third periods. He edged North Bay's Denis Brodeur for the title. Brodeur won game honors, however, making 42 saves to Allanni's 33.

Cutdowns Work To Advantage Of Minor Leagues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's new regulation requiring big league clubs to cut down to 28 players by opening day is working to the advantage of the minor leagues.

In the first three days, minor league clubs have received more than 30 players from their big brothers, who will have to unload the rest of their excess baggage by April 15. In the past, the big leaguers carried as many as 40 players until May 15, the required 25-player cutdown date.

The new rule means the teams can carry 28 players after April 15 with each club having to reduce its roster to 25 by the middle of May.

More than half of the major league clubs have participated in the paring process, led by St. Louis Cardinals who have sent 10 players to their Omaha farm, including pitcher Lynn Lovenguth to Omaha of the American Association.

The veteran righthander was believed to have nailed down a job in the Cards bullpen. He won 15 games for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League last year.

Chicago Cubs Team Looks Like Ernie Banks And Eight Other Ball Players

By JERRY LISKA

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Even with new manager Lou Scheffing and a parcel of players from their championship Los Angeles team, Chicago Cubs still look pretty much like last year's eighth-place club, to wit:

Ernie Banks and eight other guys.

Here's how important the smooth, clutch-hitting Banks is to the Cubs:

Ernie missed the first 10 games of the spring exhibition season because of a sore throwing shoulder. Cubs struggled to a 5-10 record and one of those victories came on Bank's two-run pinch single.

Then Banks took over his shortstop job March 21 and Cubs won four of their next five games with Ernie slamming 12 hits in his first 20 trips, including four homers, and driving across eight runs.

Scheffing, a stern-visaged, but pleasant-mannered former Cub catcher, knows he has a big job and that, as yet, the tools to handle it haven't been provided.

To his credit, Scheffing didn't take over by announcing that nobody's job was safe. He just pitched right in and proved it by shifting players all over the place.

Of the 10 odd players Scheffing brought from the Los Angeles club which won the Pacific Coast League title by 16 games last season, Casey Wise and outfielder Jim Bolger appear standouts.

Bolger started out in left field this spring, but has been shifted to center and also played right field. With the ability of Morgan, a .285 Cub hitter last year, to first base, the Cub outfield is a whopping question mark.

Gale Wade, Solly Drake, Jim King, Bob Speake and Ted Tappe not to mention a fine rookie, Bob Will, all are listed as outfielders.

But King was the only one of the more or less unproven lot who was with Cubs all last season. Speake could wind up at first.

Drake, have a complete new catching deal with ex-Yankee Charley Silvera, ex-Cardinal Ray Katt and rookie Cal Neeman, Fresno may steal the job.

Cub pitching this season may be an interesting blend of youth and experience. The "ace" is veteran Bob Rush, a 13-game winner last season, flanked by two great young prospects, Moe Drabowsky and Don Kaiser.

Scheffing also hopes to make a starter of Elmer Singleton, an 18-game Seattle winner, while two other newcomers include Tom Poholsky and Jackie Collum from the Cardinals.

MAY LOWER MARK

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Victoria State Amateur Athletic Association is considering asking that John Landy's world record of 3 minutes, 58 seconds for the mile run be lowered to 3:57.9.

Landy was clocked in the faster time when he set the current world mark at Turku, Finland, in June, 1954. Under the International Amateur Athletic Federation rules the 3:57.9 time was changed to the nearest fifth of a second, making it 3:58.

At the Olympic Games here last November and December, the rule was changed to give recognition in tenths.

A's Will Move If Municipal Tax Imposed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Arnold Johnson, principal owner of Kansas City Athletics, has warned the As will move elsewhere or curtail their rebuilding program if Kansas City enacts a five-per-cent municipal admissions tax on professional athletic events.

City councilman Charles C. Shafer Jr., introduced an ordinance for such a tax at a council meeting last Friday.

"This would prevent us from continuing our fast moving program to give Kansas City a winner," Johnson said.

"It would leave us with the alternative of curtailing this program or moving the franchise."

Johnson said imposition of an admissions tax would violate "commitments made to me and my associates by officials."

CLAIMS UNFAIR

Councilman Shafer declared:

"It isn't Mr. Johnson's attitude. In my opinion he had never played fair with the city. He expects it to provide him with a multi - million-dollar stadium so that he may reap the substantial profit at the city's expense.

"The last two years, the city received $50,000 from Johnson while it spent over $450,000."

Robert J. Benson, chairman of the council's baseball committee, said:

"With Los Angeles and San Francisco making bids to become major league cities, I hope nothing is done to cause the Athletics to leave Kansas City."

Milwaukee Braves Win Six Of Last 8 in Grapefruit Belt And Will Be Tough to Beat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Fred Haney has said all along that if his pitchers and hitters ever got hot together the Milwaukee Braves will be mighty hard to beat for the National League pennant.

They missed by only one game last year when they suffered away a solid lead in the closing weeks.

And at the start of this season's exhibition games if appeared as if the Braves were up to their old tricks. But they suddenly caught fire, winning six of their last eight games.

INGREDIENTS COMBINED

Wednesday they combined the ingredients that make a pennant contender as they beat Cincinnati Redlegs 12-6. Warren Spahn allowed only six hits in seven innings, one of them a homer by Bob Thurman.

The Milwaukee hitters backed up his southpaw stints with 14 hits, including two homers by Joe Adcock—one a grand slammer—and another by Hank Aaron. It was Aaron's sixth homer in the last 10 games.

About the only solace for Redlegs, who now have dropped four straight, was Smoky Burgess' grand slam homer in the ninth off Gene Conley.

The Braves were not the only ones who got good pitching.

Mahovlich Will Not Play With K-W Dutchmen

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Mahovlich of St. Michael's College Junior hockey team says he will not play for Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A final series against Whitby Dunlops.

The star centre with the OHA Junior A team said Wednesday: "I'm too busy with my studies." He added he had consulted Rev. John Crowley of St. Michael's physical education department, and Father Crowley did not think he should play with Dutchmen.

Ernie Goman, Dutchmen's general manager, said Tuesday night there was a possibility Mahovlich might play for his team. St. Michael's is affiliated with the Kitchener club.

Principal Themes of Recent TV Drama Become Crime, Western

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The principal themes of recent television drama have become crime and westerns, with the general subject of show business running third, its getting monotonous.

Let's take a look at this current week. Confining ourselves to the 11 regular evening drama programs of an hour or more on the three networks, we find that six this week are concerned with themes of crime.

Of these six, three make use of western backgrounds. (Or, you can say that three westerns make use of crime.) Show business drama is unusually quiet this week, being represented only once (on Aluminum hour, NBC, Tuesday). The themes of the remaining four are not extraordinary, but they're downright refreshing by comparison.

Sunday, TV Playhouse (NBC) presented a romantic love drama — a theme, incidentally, that seldom spills over from day-time soap opera onto the evening screens. Robert Montgomery (NBC, Mondays) presented an excellent "factual" about the ditching of an airliner in the Pacific. Studio one (CBS, Mondays) offered a drama of family relations.

FRESH IN COMPARISON

Tonight Playhouse 90 (CBS) will present the comedy Charley's Aunt. It's surprising if anyone has failed to see this one by this time, but such is the state of TV drama in the current week that even Charley's Aunt looks fresh when compared to the average offering.

It's obviously going to try to judge dramas solely on the basis of themes without regard to performances. So this is not an attempt to pass critical judgment on any of the 11. It is simply the observation of a viewer who has grown tired of crime and westerns—and dramas about show business.

It's difficult to attain variety at any time. But it's especially difficult when your sponsor has definite notions of what is proper entertainment.

Have you noticed, for example, how rare have been dramas about businessmen and methods recently? Most sponsors, as businessmen, don't like to say anything about "b a d" businessmen or "wrong" business methods.

HITCHCOCK HAS RELAPSE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Producer-director Alfred Hitchcock, who underwent surgery March 11 for gallstones, has suffered a setback, his physician reported today. The doctor said Hitchcock now must remain in hospital at least two more weeks. It was anticipated earlier that he would be able to go home this week.

Williams Ready For Long Grind

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —Ted Williams had sharp words Wednesday for those who suspect he intends to play on a part-time basis for Boston Red So this season.

The 36-year-old batting wonder snapped at a group of sports writers:

"I'm going to play a lot more games this season than you (blankety-blank) writers think.

"You forget that when I did start playing last season, I didn't miss a playing day."

He had been asked how many games he thought he might play with a good start.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Friday, March 29, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mixed vibrations — with Mercury favoring mental alertness but Jupiter and the Moon suggesting extra care in money and personal interests. Calmness will aid judgment; graciousness will help all.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You can win co-operation and favor now by just being your kindly, tolerant self. You may have to be more industrious, energetic in some activities, but it will pay. Try to finish incompleted tasks.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stimulating Mercury vibrations will be helpful to personal interests. You may be able to give a hand to others, too. Don't be extravagant or careless making commitments or assuming debts, however.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Carefully check your day's program, and cut needless red tape, pointless chores. Day favors all honorable interests and occupational duties.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Team work with fellow workers, employers and employees will pay sound dividends. But be sensible in spending, assuming debts. Day fine for mental alertness, study, research, new ideas.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Similar to Gemini auspicious vibrations should bring gain in many fields of endeavor. Be careful in buying, making promises, all financial transactions. Day should prove profitable, interesting, comfortable.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Take comfort today in knowing that all worthwhile activities, sound plans and commendable efforts will make headway. Personal affairs are especially honored. Spend wisely; save with equal wisdom.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mechanical ingenuity, domesticity, artistic and skilled work highly favored. Mildly favorable rays for vigorous activities. Don't be overly venturesome; do be wisely consistent.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Caution stressed in financial matters but day, for the most part, is interesting, inviting for clever ideas, well managed affairs. Your best efforts will pay off.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Finish incompleted tasks or projects now, but do things thoroughly; don't rush and cause needless errors. This can be an advantageous period if handled rightly, it's up to you.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Profitable changes, improvements in plans already made are in order. Think things over thoroughly, however, to avoid errors and get on the right track. A good day if managed cleverly.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Avoid tension if you would plan and think ahead now. This is not a wholly generous day but one that will respond to intelligent management.

You born today have many qualifications for real success, are highly talented, enterprising. Learn to take orders as well as give them and be amenable to suggestions and sound advice. You have creative talent, are very active, inclined to be aggressive at times in business. Soften any harsh tendencies but always keep your enthusiasm high. You can contribute much to new projects where keen wit, courage and daring are needed. Be as patient with necessary details as you are eager to accomplish in big undertakings. Pray daily for God's help and guidance. Birthdate: John Tyler, 10th U.S. pres.; Edw. Bellamy, author.

NOTICE

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW

In the matter of The Municipal Act, and in the matter of the proposed By-law of the Corporation of Township of Thurlow to open and close an allowance for highway:

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 273 of The Municipal Act that the Municipal Council of the Township of Thurlow intends to pass a by-law, if deemed advisable, to pass at its regular meeting to be held at the Township Hall in the Village of Canniton on the 6th day of May, 1957, at 1.00 p.m., a By-law to stop-up and close the road allowance between Concession 3 and 4, Lot 29, and which said parcel is described as follows:—

COMMENCING at a survey post has been planted in the northwest corner of Lot 29 Fifteen (15) according to said Plan 891;

THENCE N 89° 29' E being along the continuation northwesterly of the west limit of said Lot Fifteen (15), 3.7 feet;

THENCE N 160° 29' E, 49.2 feet;

THENCE N 210 E, 34.8 feet to a survey post planted at the northwest limit of Symington Drive;

THENCE southwesterly along the said southeast limit of Symington Drive on a curve to the left of radius 1153 feet, 99.24 feet to the place of beginning.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that before passing the said By-law at its meeting to be held at the time and place above mentioned, the Council of the Corporation of Township of Thurlow shall then and there hear in person or by counsel solicitor or agent, any person who claims that his land will be prejudicially affected by the By-law or who desires to appeal to be heard.

Dated at Canniton this 21st day of March, 1957.

E. M. DAFOE,
Clerk, Township of Thurlow

TWINS SENTENCED

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—Twins Donald and Ronald Tracey, 26, of Streetsville, were sentenced Wednesday to three-year terms in penitentiary on charges of theft. They were convicted last week of the March 3 assault on Streetsville police chief Ted Rutledge. A third man, William Dafoe, 26, received 18 months definite and 12 months indefinite on a similar charge.

HONORS TOSCANINI

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A short street alongside Buenos Aires' opera house has been renamed for the late Arturo Toscanini, famed musician who conducted several performances on tour here.

Little Benny's Notebook

Me and Glasses Magee were talking to Flora and Dora the bewly looking twins in front of their house, me being stuck on Flora and Glasses being stuck on Dora, and Flora said, I hope you boys are going to give us a going away present, but we certainly dont intend to ask you for one, do we, Dora?

Certainly not, we wouldn't do anything so unladylike, Dora said, and I said, Well G, do didn't even know you were going anywheres.

When are you going? Glasses said, and Flora said, Next month.

How long are you going to be gone? I said, and Dora said, Forever.

We're going to move, Flora said and I said, G snickers, you haven't lived in this house a year yet.

Oh, that's a long time for us, Dora said. Our father and mother are both restless, so we're always moving, she said, and Flora said, We move more than we stay. Are you boys going to give us a going away present? she said.

Well, we might, I said, and I looked at Glasses doubtfull and he was looking at me just as doubtfull, and Glasses said, Will you send us picture postcards?

Oh yes, you bet we will, Dora said, Oh yes indeed. Do you want us to make suggestions what to give us? she said.

No, we want it to be a serprise, I said. Seemingly safer than expensive suggestions, and Glasses said, Are you going to move far?

Oh no, just down the street to the corner house, Flora said, and Glasses said, Then heck, why should you send us picture postcards?

Because you asked us to, Dora said, and Flora said, We'll keep reminding you about the going away presents you promised us.

Which they probably will.

THIRD MAN DIES

DETROIT (AP)—A third man died of burns suffered in an explosion and fire at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company March 18. Fred Nelson, 59, an inspector, died in hospital Wednesday. Earlier victims were John Goodwin and Victor Taylor. Three coroners remain in critical condition.

Doctor Blamed For Having to Pay $1 Fine

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A man who came in to pay a parking fine said the bare facts were these:

He was in a doctor's office when the office was called out on an emergency.

"What could I do?" he asked in a file clerk Hallie Reynolds.

"I didn't have a stitch of clothing on, the doctor left, and I knew my meter time was up. But I couldn't walk through the reception room. So I sat right until the doctor got back and finished the examination."

He paid a $1 fine.

Human Bomb, Paralyzed, Gets 20 Years in Jail

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Deblois, the 25-year-old human bomb who terrorized Verdun (Que.) in a bizarre attempt to hold up a bank with dynamite, has been sentenced to four concurrent 10-year penitentiary terms as he lay paralyzed on a hospital stretcher.

Deblois, who was taken Thursday to the court house from the Montreal Neurological Institute, pleaded guilty to four charges but only after telling Judge Wilfrid Proulx that "the story of wanting to do harm to someone" was untrue.

The charges were theft of a taxi at gunpoint, attempt to rob a St. Lawrence Boulevard branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank; illegal possession of 39 sticks of dynamite, and placing a fake bomb in a Central Station locker with intent to cause harm."

DEBATE RESUMED

"I must give you an exemplary sentence. But you have no previous record and it is obvious that you have been given a greater punishment than the court. The sentence you to 10 years in each of the cases, the terms to run concurrently."

Deblois has been paralyzed from the neck down since a bullet from the revolver of police constable Joseph Perron ended his reign of terror. It hit him in the neck as he sat in the bank with dynamite tied about him and threatening that "a thousand people" would die if anyone interfered with his escape attempt.

The time bomb in Central Station, which fortunately caused no annoyance against his being captured, failed to go off. After sentence, he was taken to the Montreal Jail hospital in suburban Bordeaux.

Details of injuries of extent of paralysis were reported slight. Police say they have only a few months to live.

LEADS U.S CURLING

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago and Hibbing, Minn., curling clubs remained the ranks to lead as the first United States men's national curling tournament concluded the fourth round of play Thursday night. Each has won four and lost one.

Country boy to his older brother: "Reuben, how would you get a girl to marry you?"

Reuben: "Well, if she don't want to, you can't, but if she does say no to, there ain't hardly no way to prevent it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Over Southern Ontario today and day, skies will be mainly cloudy and there will be a few showers and wet snowflurries. Saturday's weather may be similar to today's as a weak disturbance causing this poor weather approaches slowly from the west.

Northern Ontario, however, should remain clear today and Saturday with afternoon temperatures climbing to 40 degrees.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three men and four children have died in two fires in British Columbia.

In a fire that surged smartly through a Vancouver waterfront hotel in the early evening William H. Ganner, about 48, Jack Stewart, about 50, and Walter Thorne, 75, died of asphyxiation from fire.

Scores of other guests escaped.

In a lonely cardboard home burned near the city garbage dump at Cranbrook, 300 miles east of here, four Indian children were burned to death in and under a steel bed.

Herman Lasalmer, 6, was found beneath his bed, only furniture left after the early-afternoon fire. His sisters, Abelina, 5, Camille, 4, and Marie Thelma, 11 months, were found dead in the bed.

Following the fire in the Vancouver's Butler Hotel, three persons were taken to hospital. One was a fireman. All three are in good condition.

The blaze was believed to have started in a basement office of the six-storey, 92-room brick building.

Charles Mow, owner of the hotel said the building was worth $250,000. The upper storeys were heavily damaged by flames which apparently burned up through the elevator shaft.

Heavy smoke hindered guests as they sought escape down a fire escape, through corridors and down truck ladders to the street.

In Cranbrook, the family of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lasalmer had planned to move from their cardboard home to a Roman Catholic Mission, four miles east of the city.

Jethes Gordon, fire chief in the West Kootenay city, said his fire-fighting unit was unable to reach the blazing house through rubbish and small brush.

"My men threw snow on the fire, which had practically burned itself out," he said.

The city dump occupies several acres of land and is used by the Cranbrook Indians built cardboard houses from discarded boxes and other dump materials.

Last fall, a dump resident died in a similar fire.

Noranda Workers Vote on Strike

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — About 2,000 members of the Canadian Mining and Smelter Company Limited voted on strike Thursday night after rejecting a company offer on wages and other benefits.

The strike vote must be known until today.

In rejecting the company offer, the members of the United Steel Workers of America (CLC) defied a "substantial majority" not to sign an agreement until a new was at Murdochville, Que., is settled, a union spokesman said. About 1,000 men have been striking at the Gaspe Copper mines at Murdochville, a subsidiary of Noranda, since March 20.

The Noranda union may legally strike at midnight tonight if no definite agreement is reached.

IRA Raids Bus Depot

DUNGIVEN, Northern Ireland (AP)—Police said the outlawed Irish Republican Army today fire bombed a bus station, starting a fire that destroyed the building, five buses and a truck.

Police said the raiders apparently escaped across the border into the Irish Republic. The bus terminal belonged to the state-owned Ulster Transport System.

Thursday night's raid was part of a series of incidents blamed on the IRA which sends bands into the six counties of British-ruled Northern Ireland part of the Irish Republic.

Nasser May Let World Court Decide Whether Israel Can Use Suez Canal

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says Egyptian President Nasser's new plan for operation of the Suez Canal indicates Egypt might let the World Court decide whether Israel can use the waterway.

The Times in a dispatch from Cairo says Nasser has drawn up an Egyptian memorandum which the paper says had been sent to the U.S. government.

The memorandum set forth provisions previously made known in Cairo: That Egypt would observe the 1888 convention guaranteeing unrestricted use of the canal by all nations; that the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority would operate and manage the waterway; that all tolls would be paid to Egypt in advance and that 25 per cent of the tolls would be used for development of the canal.

Since the Palestine war Egypt has barred Israeli from the canal on the ground that the two nations

U.S. CONSULTING ALLIES ON REPLY TO SUEZ PROPOSAL

Answer Being Drafted To Egyptian Scheme

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has started consultations with Britain, France and several other friendly governments on Egyptian proposals for operating the Suez Canal.

An American reply is expected to be sent to Egypt in a few days. U.S. officials say tentatively they do not like the plan, but that they see no serious prospect now of winning unanimous agreement to any counter-proposal.

Word of the consultations came in the wake of new tensions in the troubled Middle East. Russia, in a statement broadcast by Moscow Radio Thursday, warned "extremist circles of Israel and France" not to prepare new military adventures in the area.

Israeli Army headquarters said today that Egyptians fired on an Israeli freight train Thursday, made a number of hits but there were no casualties.

PLAN DEBATED

In Washington, it is yet to be decided whether the Egyptian plan will be accepted or rejected, or whether some modification will be sought to make it more palatable to the United States and other nations.

The state department has advised American shippers to go slow in resuming use of the canal. Egypt is to reopened fully by April 10 or a little earlier. In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Thursday night the British government gave similar advice to British shippers two days ago.

The Egyptian proposal, which has not yet been made public officially, is understood to call for collection of tolls by the Egyptian Canal Authority.

SET SOME ASIDE

Egypt would set aside 25 per cent of the tolls for maintenance and operation and five per cent for compensation of shareholders of the old Suez Canal Company.

The major Western shipping nations have been pressing for Egypt's agreement to a plan which would provide for participations of the canal from Egyptian politics.

However, the proposals which Egypt presented to UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in the last few days would keep operation of the canal entirely in the hands of Egyptian authorities.

House May Be Asked to Give Tax Powers to Marketing Board

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament may be asked by the government this session to accord extensive provincial marketing boards with indirect taxing powers.

So far in Canada's history, the field of indirect taxation has been reserved exclusively for the federal government under the British North America Act, Canada's constitution.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced in the Commons Thursday that the government intends to introduce amendments this session to federal farm marketing legislation to erase legal barriers encountered by the provincial boards.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his party will co-operate in facilitating passage of the legislation.

The Supreme Court of Canada in a judgment in January knocked legal props from under the provincial boards. It said their use of licence fees to build up cash reserves was in effect indirect taxation, an exclusive federal field.

The government is expected to be considering two main amendments to the Farm Products Marketing Act.

One would arm the provincial boards with power to levy licence fees, or indirect taxes, on the sale of whole products for the purpose of pooling earnings to equalize returns to farmers. The other would give the boards authority to regulate interprovincial trade in their products.

Experts in Ottawa said the federal government has never before studied such a non-elective body. Some federal officials said they are worried by questions the wisdom of such a step.

The Supreme Court judgment also said provincial boards could only regulate trade in products consumed within the province. It is understood the proposed amendments would give the boards power to regulate trade in products consumed outside the province.

Mr. St. Laurent said the amendments would be introduced "just as soon as the form can be communicated by prompt dispatch to the provincial authorities that are interested in the legislation."

It is not believed here that the federal government will support an Ontario proposal to allow a judge to find a person guilty of not complying with board regulations guilty from mere hearsay.

Officials here feel this is implied in one of three amendments in provincial farm marketing legislation now before the Ontario legislature.

The Ontario amendments propose that a farmer or other person could be charged with failing to comply with the Ontario Act. But this would not be the end unless he could find the person guilty under the federal act, without first informing the accused of a switch in charges.

Legal experts here believe legislation of this type would not stand up before the courts.

AFL-CIO Suspends Dave Beck Orders Probe of Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO executive council today suspended teamsters' boss Dave Beck as an AFL-CIO officer and ordered an inquiry into the entire Teamsters' Union.

Beck's, suspension as an AFL-CIO vice - president and council member is effective immediately and until the outcome of charges being brought against him by the executive council.

The actions were announced by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, after a two-hour council session.

Meany said Beck's suspension is effective immediately while the council considers charges against the teamsters' chief based on what he termed Beck's "actions in bringing the labor movement into disrepute" and his refusal to explain "the many charges against him" concerning use of Teamster Union funds before the Senate rackets investigating committee.

Beck pleaded the constitutional rights, invoking the Fifth Amendment, when questioned by the senators Thursday and Wednesday. The Amendment protects a witness against being forced to give evidence that might be self-incriminating.

The committee told Beck the evidence it had collected indicated he had diverted over $320,000 of union funds to his personal use.

The AFL-CIO executive council's action "to determine whether the teamsters' international union is substantially dominated or controlled by corrupt influences."

This latter investigation—separate from the inquiry into Beck's affairs—could lead to ouster of the teamsters from the federation unless the union moves to rid itself of alleged corrupt leadership.

Such expulsion action is a new probably the most drastic ever taken by any organization in the United States against a union leader of so big a union.

Beck, himself a member of the powerful, 29-man executive council, played at his interests Thursday.

He flew there Thursday after Meany had announced the council answering questions by Senate investigators who said he converted his personal income tax to Union funds.

Before Meany, AFL-CIO president, called the special council meeting Tuesday within minutes of learning that Beck had claimed the privileges against self-incrimination granted him by the Constitution's Fifth Amendment.

A new AFL-CIO policy says a union leader has no right to invoke the Fifth Amendment but must answer fully in connection with inquiries into their handling of union affairs, they forfeit the right to serve as union officials.

Meany, who has pledged to clean out corrupt influences of unions banks, wrote out the new policy Tuesday after the senate labor council last January over Beck's lone dissenting vote.

The Teamsters Union, with some 1,500,000 members, is the largest AFL-CIO affiliate.

Last Chance To Settle Strike Ends in Failure

LONDON (Reuters) — Direct wage negotiations between employers and leaders of 1,000,000 striking factory workers broke down today within a few hours of their start.

Labor Minister Iain Macleod told Parliament Thursday that the talks were possibly "the last chance of saving the country from a disastrous stoppage."

The union leaders, speaking for 2,000,000 factory workers in the vital export industry, have...or-ered 500,000 other members in the London area to strike Saturday and the remainder by April 6 unless their wage demands are met.

At today's tense negotiations, arranged by government "peacemakers," the employers put forward a wage offer that fell far short of the unions' demands for a 10-per-cent increase.

PROMPT REJECTION

It was promptly rejected and the talks ended. The meeting marked the first meeting between the two sides since the strike began a week ago.

As the abortive talks went on in London, pickets clashed with police in Bristol, one of the chief centres involved in the industrial areas affected. Several policemen in civilian clothes built a wall and hoisted in the air.

It marked the second straight day of clashes at the Bristol aircraft plant.

TO TOUR FAR EAST

Receives Draft Notice From U.S. Army at 61

WINDSOR (CP)—Fred A. Harrison of suburban Riverside received his draft notice from the United States Army Thursday but the former Canadian Army sergeant major thinks somebody's fooling.

He admits the name and address are correct, but the birthdate of April 19 he will be 61 and he served in the First World War.

LIBERALS AND PC'S VOTE TO DEFEAT MOTION BY CCF

Demand $75 Monthly For Old Age Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives have balked at backing a CCF demand for $75-a-month old age pensions.

They voted with the Liberal majority Thursday night in a 145-50 Commons vote which defeated a CCF pon-confidence motion on the pension issue.

When Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, in a budget debate speech hitting the government for continued high spending, said pensioners need more than the increase to $46 from $40 proposed in the March 14 budget. But $75 was "impossible of attainment."

In the vote, which closed the fifth day of the budget debate, the CCF was backed by the Social Credit bloc. The Quebec Independents voted with the majority.

If the budget debate continues, the House will later vote on a Conservative non-confidence motion which criticizes the government for, among other things, not providing adequately for old age pensioners.

TO ASK FOR MONEY

Today the government was to ask the Commons to vote a money supply to the Queen for the month in the new fiscal year beginning next Monday. Before the pre-election session the government expected within about two weeks to ask parliament for interim money supply to run the administration until the next election session.

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech produced an outright rejection by Finance Minister Harris of the proposal by Conservative Prud'homme of the Bank of Canada, that government savings deposits be channelled into long-term lending, such as mortgages.

The proposal, which has been openly criticized by the banks, was described by the opposition leader as a "strange device" which would provide a "field day" for agents of sycophants answerable to the governor" of the central bank.

HAS MORE MONEY

He said Mr. Harris had not yet given a positive assurance that the budget would be carried through "in the unhappy event" of a general election.

Mr. Harris interjected: "I give no assurance to anyone."

He added that the government has not considered Mr. Coyne's proposal and he at least is concerned I am not going to bring it before the government for consideration.

Mr. Diefenbaker concentrated most of his remarks on government spending policies.

He said the government in policy is mandate to draw in their belts to fight inflation but "continuing at a career of spending."

"They have continued their policy of spend and spend and tax and tax . . . The government refuses to accept for itself the medicine it prescribes for others."

Five Canadians Get $130,000 Each In Sunday's Win

Canada Receives Biggest Cut of Record Sweep Prize

AINTREE, England (CP) — Sunday, an 11-year-old chestnut gelding at odds of 20 to 1, raced from start to finish to win the 111th running of the Grand National steeplechase.

Among the winners were John Trafiak of Levack, Ont., who held ticket LCP 20505, and Laurent Lepage of Cote Berdidier, Que., with ticket LAV 63518.

Other winners were from Vancouver, Cranbrook, Elmvale, Ont., and Ritson Rd., Ont. The Vancouver winner used the name of Greenwood and held ticket LAV 43720; the Ritson Rd. winner used the name Dying Slow on ticket LCP 79962. The Elmvale winner held the name Frisky on ticket LCT 6302.

Three Canadians won second-place money — approximately $50,000 each — with Canadian tickets, while two others won third-place prizes — about $25,000 each — with tickets on Tiberetta, the third-place finisher.

Mrs. B. D. Weldon of Montreal was one of the second-prize winners. Others were identified only as Last Chance, Hamilton, and 20 Bob Cons, Windsor, Ont.

Winners of third prize were identified as Mrs. H. Rud, Shreveport, La., and John William Teplosky, Montreal.

SWEEPS FUND

In all, 207 Canadians drew tickets on the 68 horses originally entered in Saturday's 4½-mile chase. The prize fund amounted to $6,846,000, a record for the 31-year history of the Irish Sweepstakes.

Provision was made for 20 first prizes; 20 second prizes and 20 third prizes.

Three hundred tickets drawn on horses not among the first three or those scratched from the race will bring "the owners approximately $1,400 each. Those whose tickets were picked in a draft held in Dublin March 25 will have a chance to share in other prizes, including residual prizes, which will be paid out over several years.

DIVIDE $64,000

In a Quebec Army and Navy sweepstake based on the race, $64,000 is to be divided among 68 Canadian winners.

Winner of first prize of $20,000 was Alec Bateman of Lasalle, Que.

G. Nixon of Willowdale, Ont., won $12,000 with a ticket on the fifth-place finisher, Workhouse.

Pierre Tremblay of Quebec City won third prize of $8,000 with ticket on Tiberetta.

Quebec Army and Navy tickets on 33 non-starters in the race are to divide $12,000. A similar amount will be paid out among the 32 holders of tickets on horses who finished out of the money.

WRITER DIES

Axel Wenner-Gren, Swedish Sphinx, Always Tries to Keep Out of Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — Multi-millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish Sphinx, says it is a mystery to him why he is sometimes called "the mystery man of international finance."

"I spent all my time talking about what I was doing. I wouldn't have time left to do all the things I still want to," he added.

"I am no mystery man. I have tried to keep out of the spotlight, but sometimes you have to throw a little light on what you are attempting to do."

And in his 70th year Dr. Wenner-Gren was getting it cast as host in a New Jersey tractor factory became a 20th-century industrial magnate. Wenner-Gren also doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

"All that is required to make a million dollars is hard work, self-discipline and common sense," he observed drily.

"Many people aren't independent-minded. They don't want to take up the challenge of going into business for themselves. I do. I business very much. I enjoy it still operating all my interests personally, and I feel I have at least 10 more years of business activity."

Wenner-Gren, "because it will help me keep young people."

Associates have estimated Wenner-Gren has given from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 to various scientific and health foundations he has established here and in Sweden.

He is an organization genius, and has a hand in many big business interests in 20 countries. His scores of corporations produce everything from diet pills to rail-road trains.

The real mystery to most people is how this "mystery man" who is said to be getting 75 cents an hour in a New Jersey tractor factory became a 20th-century industrial magnate. Wenner-Gren also doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

"All that is required to make a million dollars is hard work, self-discipline and common sense," he observed drily.

"Many people aren't independent-minded. They don't want to take up the challenge of going into business for themselves. I do. I business very much. I enjoy it still operating all my interests personally, and I feel I have at least 10 more years of business activity."

YOUTH GIVEN ONE YEAR TERM IN REFORMATORY

Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning sentenced 18-year-old Bernard J. Mikael, 40 South George St., to one year definite and six months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory on one conviction of car theft and three of breaking, entering and theft.

Mikael was picked up by Cornwall police on March 23 and held until the arrival of city police detective Jack Kent.

Several days ago Mikael stole a car owned by Paul St. Pierre of Belleville and on other occasions broke into the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club twice and once into Queen Alexandra public school.

Last fall he was picked up by police in connection with a series of break-ins in Belleville and Hastings county and he received two years suspended sentence. Shortly after Hallowe'en he was fined, along with six other lads, for causing a disturbance outside the armories on Bridge street.

FIREMEN CALLED TO TWO GRASS FIRES

Grass fires are continuing to occupy the attention of Belleville firemen with two such alarms being answered since yesterday morning.

Most recent grass blaze was at Donald street where firemen were called this morning. Yesterday the reels were called to the Haig Side-road for a grass fire.

DENNIS J. DOWNES ENLISTS IN NAVY

Dennis Joseph Downes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Downes of 16 Bay Street, Belleville, Ontario, has recently enrolled in the Royal Canadian Navy. He will depart for H.M.C.S. "Cornwallis", the R.C.N. new entry training establishment in Nova Scotia, on Sunday. Upon completion of basic naval training, he will return home for a short period of leave before reporting for further service and training as a seaman.

Police Blotter

Discovery of a car on the CNR railway tracks near the Bleecker Ave. railway siding crossing had police wondering Thursday night until it was discovered it was all unintentional.

CNR police reported the matter to city police who checked out the licence number and found the car was owned by Fred Bellis, Bettes street.

Mr. Bellis told police that he had parked his car on the street outside his home only to have it rolled seventeen down the hill when it stopped on the railway tracks.

A Forin street woman, Mrs. L. B. Fonger reported the theft from her bedroom of a jewellery box containing about $150 worth of costume jewellery. The theft apparently took place Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Fonger said she had been in and out of the house all afternoon.

Tomorrow at 12.45 the "Bob Hope Show" on CJBQ.

W. Scott Denton, Retiring Pres. Of Y's Men's Club, Honored

The auditorium in the YMCA building on Campbell St. was almost filled to capacity Tuesday when the Belleville Y's Men's Club observed its annual Presidents's Night, in honor of retiring president, W. Scott Denton.

Guest speaker at the banquet, which saw the 1956-57 executives and directory retire and the 1957-58 officers inducted, was Clifford A. Schell executive secretary of administration and finance of the national council of YMCAs in Canada.

Members of the club escorted their wives to the affair and, after dinner and the speaker had concluded they enjoyed the remainder of the evening dancing.

The 1956-57 president, Mr. Denton, who now resides at Oshawa, viewed the year in retrospect and congratulated other members of the executive for their unfailing help to the club throughout their term of office. He added that the club enjoyed a successful year and asked members to give the incoming officers the same assistance they gave him.

Among the highlights of the evening was the address by Mr. Schell and the Y's Menette Club as valuable assets to the community. Mr. Schell was high in his praise of the work done by these clubs here in the past.

For the future, the speaker saw a few dangers ahead.

"Some things which are our greatest strength can become our greatest enemies," he declared.

One of the dangers he asked members to take heed of was being too much fun and not doing enough service work. This he remarked, could easily lead to the annihilation of the club by the members themselves.

SEEN IN 'S' SINCE '12

"It is important for each service club to increase its membership, because by doing so they give other people the chance of fraternizing with others who wish to do something of service for their community," said Mr. Schell.

The speaker held office in YMCA since 1912 and has visited several Y's in other parts of the world. He was the first secretary of the first combined YW-YMCA in North America. During the First World War he served in Europe with the Canadian Expeditionary Force and held the rank of captain with the 102nd Battalion.

He advised the Y's Men to avoid forming cliches within the club and warned against discrimination among members. Each activity that the club undertakes reflects on the whole of the sponsoring body, he said, and it is important to the past — upon the YMCA.

The distinguished visitor corroborated Mr. Denton's previously voiced suggestion that the local club make a bid to form new Y's Men's Clubs in other communities. At present the Belleville club is negotiating to form a club at Oshawa and, to date, has given money to other YMCA branches for the establishment of a Y's Men's Club.

"All club projects should inform, help and inspire other people," said Mr. Schell. The Belleville Y's Men's Club has managed nicely to do this in past and expectations are that the club will continue to do so.

"No service club can stand alone. Each must fraternize with the other and build up a common bond of friendship and understanding," concluded the speaker.

Mr. Schell was introduced by Willis G. Hutchinson and thanked by G. H. Trill.

Prior to Mr. Schell's address, Mr. Denton presented 17 members with perfect attendance recognitions. Presented with one year perfect attendance badges were Ronald Cass, Jack Kunize, Maxwell Waddell and Hugh Watson.

Two years: Ross Booth, Di Diamantides, Ronald Elmy and John Lamonthe. Three years: Vern Flindall, Ron Moorman and Jim Pearson. Four years: Bill Hutchinson, Ken Cass, Ernest Hiles and George Wonnacott. Six years, Jack Fletcher. Seven years: Bernie Clarke and C. H. (Bud) Trill.

EIGHT PORTRAITS PRESENTED

Mr. Denton also presented the auditorium with eight portraits of past-presidents, who held office since the re-chartering of the club in 1945.

Will Roberts, international convention chairman, at Lake of Quinte conducted an impressive induction ceremony for the incoming slate of officers. Inducted as the new president of the Belleville Y's Men's Club was Maxford Waddell; Ronald G. Moorman is the 1957-58 vice-president; Hugh M. Watson was returned as secretary for a second term and Jack Kuntze as the new treasurer.

The 1957-58 directors are R. Elmy, J. Fleicher, V. Hiles, Jack Luscombe, J. Schurman and D. G. Diamantides.

Vernon Flindall introduced the guests, and Ron Baird of Kingston Club's executive replied.

Jack Kuntze proposed a toast to the ladies, to which Mrs. Mary Schurman responded.

Maxford Waddell gave a short address on the club's future outlook. Catering was done by Mrs. Ethel Shoemaker and the dinner and dessert were served by members of the Girls' Hi-Y Club.

Ronald Elmy and Linton Reid led a sing-song.

Young People Interested in Easter Seals

The interest of young people of Belleville in the Easter Seal fund for crippled children and their ingenuity in raising money for this worthy cause is shown in the following letter from Miss Florence I. Garrison, a teacher of grade IV, Prince of Wales School, to the Rotary Club of Belleville. The Rotary Club was so pleased with this youthful effort that it referred the letter to the Ontario Intelligencer.

"Enclosed you will find two cheques, one for $2.00 which is my own personal contribution, and one for $1.10 which represents a donation made by three little girls in Grade IV, Prince of Wales School.

"These girls whose names are Linda Yearwood, Lynn Clark and Linda Blakely, raised the money by putting on a show (admission fee 5c), in a local barn.

"The money was handed over to me with the request that I give it to the Crippled Children's Fund.

I feel that these girls have made a gesture and a wonder if when sending the receipt, you might mention their names as being the donors.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Florence I. Garrison."

Injured Men Taken to Air Station Hospital

Two young airforce personnel, George McClelland and Keith Barton, both of the RCAF at Trenton, were injured early this morning when their car went out of control on the Shannonville road about a mile north of Shannonville. The accident occurred about one o'clock with Bush's Ambulance from Belleville being called to take the injured men to the air station hospital. Neither was believed to be seriously injured. Provincial Constable Gordon Oliver investigated.

Thursday afternoon vehicles driven by Smiley Coulter, Roslin, and Grant Parks, Wickett street, Belleville were in collision on Mudcat Lane in Thurlow township. Property damage amounted to about $800, police said.

Provincial police said that Bernard Trent, Napanee, had been charged in connection with Wednesday night's accident at Foxboro in which a car left the highway and damaged a garage owned by Reid and Reid then drove away without stopping.

Postal Clerks Are Required By Department

The Belleville post office requires the services of postal clerks, it is known.

Higher Tax Rate Expected When Budget Given

TRENTON (Special) — If the tax rate is higher this year and speculation is that it will rise at least four points to 70 mills increase in the cost of education and municipal property protection will be the main cause of the latest boost, according to one of the town officials. Ratepayers will be able to hear the official news at the council meeting this Tuesday night when the budget for 1957 expenditures will be set. Last year the tax rate was 66 mills.

A change in the method of taxation this year has been introduced whereby there will be a separate rate for commercial and industrial property and a separate rate for residential property.

While a tax boost is practically a foregone conclusion as one councillor put it "it is the price the ratepayers have to pay for progress."

FINED UNDER LCA

Russell Hill of R.R. 6 Brighton appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in Brighton police court yesterday charged with keeping liquor for sale. He was found guilty on the evidence of provincial police investigators and ordered to pay a substantial fine.

DIRECTORS NAMED

Results of balloting to decide new directors by the Chamber of Commerce were announced by secretary manager Alex Gilbert last night. The seven successful from the field of 12 candidates were: Jon Pfetter, Clarence Gilman, William J. House, Dr. Robert Patrick, Paul Tripp, Albert J. C. Ward and Alex Wilson.

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED

Police feel confident they have solved at least one of the two robberies pulled off here over the weekend.

Two youths, Donald Richard Allored, 26, of Nlwcastle, and Ronald Albert Badgley, 20, of Trenton have been arrested and placed in custody to appear in court on trial in connection with the theft of $100 from a safe in the Belleville Sand and Metal Company. The robbers got to the money by smashing a window in the company office, and then pried open the doors on the safe.

The case of the break-in at Halloran Motors involving the theft of $80 from the office till, is still under investigation.

Local Organist To Give Recital At St. Catharines

An organ recital of particular interest will be given in St. George's Church, St. Catharines on Saturday night. It might be called "Local boy makes good." The St. Catharines Centre of the Canadian College of Organists will present Robert H. Bell, Mus.Bach, ACCO, in a recital in St. George's.

Bob Bell is now organist and choirmaster of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville. St. Catharines can rightfully claim him to be one of its own, still lives there. Bob went to public school there and the St. Catharines Collegiate. He was a pupil of Eric Dowling's, St. George's organist, and secured his ARCT piano teacher's certificate in 1951. He always won many first places and scholarships in the Lincoln Music Festival and other festivals.

While still studying, he was organist of St. James' Church, Merritton in 1950-51. In Toronto in 1953, he became an Associate in the Canadian College of Organists and secured his Mus.Bach. degree in 1953. He was organist of St. Matthias' Church during those years. After in 1953, he went to Lindsay where he was organist at St. Paul's Church. In that year, he married another Mus.Bach., Joan Campbell, Kelowna, B.C. and they have two children now.

Bob Bell teaches in Belleville, has a large class of pupils and is first chairman of the newly-formed Bay of Quinte Centre of the CCO.

'Old Timers' Night Held by Barbershoppers

The annual "Old Timers" night was held in the church hall of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill on Wednesday, March 27th., with a record turnout of 43 including a few visitors.

Chorus rehearsal for Harmony Night on May 4th took place and the songs for presentation on that occasion are really taking shape, with a program and chorus directors' remarks, "don't forget the homework, practise makes perfect."

The visitors were welcomed by Ross Schryver and were severally introduced by their sponsors, "come around any old time and we'll make you feel at home." Program then took over and the chorus sang the "old timers", in, who promptly returned the compliment, nothing bashful about these lads, they "got with it" in fine style, "Bracer" Bradford set up the rotating quartet, which finally finds the basses into the tenor range to-the great amusement of the audience; just a word here from the Quartet promoter, "There's lots of potential quartets in our group, so let's get together and put our backs into it."

One of Belleville's original quartets, "Four Plus Two Lads," Jack Lowe, Spence Wonnacott, Jack MacDonald, Al. Angus, put on a great show, these boys are, as the name implies, all baritones, but their versatility enables them to sing four parts. The "Home-Towners" were next on the show, these lads should keep it up, we all agree; censorship forbids the printing of the name of the latest group, but the instructors for program directors say that "amazing grace" strictly barber-shop, may be used to add variety to the programs, sure did the trick.

The evening rolled merrily along and the chorus was on deck again with two more comedy remarks re our dinner meeting at Trenton "Jim", Brookfield, April 10th, we have 24 names so far, bring a friend if you can, the more the merrier; some interesting suggestions came up re "neckwear" and were voted for the hot-dogs and coffee so expertly served by the W.A. of St. Margaret's.

This over (for some people), the "wood-shed" door was opened for those who still had some work to do.

Don't forget the parade, May 12th, and watch this paper for news of the chapter. Program devised and presented by Bill Gander.

Bus Hurries Pickpockets To Prison

HUELVA, Spain (AP) — The driver and conductor of a bus with a municipal bus Thursday, passengers and all.

They gave no attention to ringing for halts, or to the excited comments of the passengers. At the route the bus was supposed to follow.

In fact, they didn't stop until they drove into the courtyard of prison.

"There are two well - known pickpockets among the passengers," the conductor told a prison guard.

The thieves were arrested and promptly pointed to another aboard as a member in good standing of their fraternity. He too was arrested. The bus went back to its regular route.

Many Enquiry Cards Filed at Cleveland Show

D. W. Kingdon, General Manager of the Lake Ontario Development Association, who is now attending the Cleveland Sportsmen's Show, which is being chaired by S. Shippam, has sent back word that to date it has been a terrific show.

The three delegates who are helping to promote this Region tourist-wise are Reeve Leeson, of Havelock, representing District One, A. Sturrock of Bowmanville, representing Zone Two; and Reeve Ferguson of Wellington representing Zone Three.

It has been reported that the Auditorium will hold approximately 15,000 and during the week-end it was estimated that 10,000 Kingdon was pleased with the interest in the show would be "I wonder what the Six Famous Holiday Lands of Eastern Canada can be", and as a result many people have been encouraged to visit the Canadian booth being seeing the balance of the show.

He stated that they have had a tremendous response with 900 enquiry cards being turned in the first four days and expect an appreciable number by the end of the show. These enquiry cards are also being received in the L. Mrs. office in Peterborough, by direct mail.

Risks His Life To Rescue Dog

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Alderman Henry Lang plunged into the frigid St. Mary's River Thursday when the ice under him broke while he sought to rescue his collie.

The dog had fallen through the ice 90 feet from shore. Mr. Lang crawled to safety before firemen arrived with rough gear to rescue the shivering animal.

"Mighty cold," observed the alderman.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market edged higher today in light morning trading. Industrials and base metals recorded index gains but western oils had a slight loss.

Toronto Iron Works A featured industrial activity, climbing 5¼ points to 25½ amid a turnover of more than 1,500 shares. The company earlier announced, in its annual report, a net profit nearly five times as great as the last one.

The 11 a.m. volume of 1,140,000 shares was the lightest in four sessions and compared with Thursday's 1,260,000 at the same time. Most of the volume was recorded in the mining list.

Uraniums lost ground as profit taking continued to reduce prices. Northspan lost 25 cents at $3.30. Senior base metals were fractionally higher.

Western oils were lower on index mainly because of a 30-cent decline by Triad at $7.25.

REPAYS VISIT

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany plans a seven-day state visit to Iran beginning March 27. He will be repaying a visit by the Shah of Iran to Bonn in 1955.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Heifer and steer prices advanced 50 cents a hundredweight this week, reports the Ontario public stockyards. Calf prices declined Monday but recovered part, finished strong. Hog and wool prices were unchanged throughout the week.

Cattle receipts were about 150 less than last week and down 900 head from the same week in 1956. There were 550 cattle and 150 stock calves reported in from the West. Three loads were shipped to Eastern Canada slaughterers, with no exports to the United States. The beef trade was reported fair.

Prices were generally firm to strong on all classes of livestock this week, with choice quality slaughter cattle in good demand, though scarce. In some cases many of the steers and heifers were lacking in top finish and quality, probably the result of poor harvesting conditions prevalent in Ontario in 1956.

Prices

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers, mostly $20-21, with a few packages $21.25 a hundredweight and a few sales to $21.50; good $19-20; medium $18-19; common $15-17; choice heifers $17.50-18;, a few $18.25; one load of high-yielding heifers $19; good $16.50-17.50; medium $14-16; common $13-14; choice fed yearlings $21-21.50; good $19-20.50; medium $16-18.50; good cows mostly $12.50-13, a few to $13.50; medium $11-12; canners and cutters $7-9.50; good heavy bologna bulls $13.50-14.

Replacement cattle: Good feeders $19; good stockers $18-19; common and medium $15-17.50.

Calves closed at firm prices. Choice vealers were scarce, bolstering the price. Prices: Choice vealers $31; mostly $26-28; medium and common $14-25; boner calves $10-12.

Hogs: Grade A $29.50; sows, on a $1 a hundredweight decline $21 (light sows $26); stags $15 a hundredweight, on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good lambs $22-22.50; common and medium $16-21; good light sheep $7-10; culls $3 a hundredweight.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quiet with offering sufficient for a quiet demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large size, oiled, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 33-36; A medium 35-35; A small 31; B 30; C 27. Wholesale to retail: A large 40-41; A medium 39-40; A small 36; B 35; C 32.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade, Ontario: tenderable 58; non-tenderable 58½ in light trading; western 58½ (nominal).

Will Not Control Price of Natural Gas House Told

TORONTO (CP) — Correspondence between Premier Frost and Trade Minister Howe indicates the federal government does not consider it necessary at present to control the price of natural gas delivered by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines.

The premier read the letters in the Ontario legislature Thursday night after CCF Leader MacDonald raised the matter.

In a letter to the trade minister Mr. Frost said the province could control only consumer prices but these might be excessive unless Trans-Canada's prices to utilities were regulated.

Mr. Howe replied the federal government "is not anxious to institute detailed control over the operation of natural gas pipe line transmission companies" but "if some control appears necessary in the public interest, appropriate legislation will be introduced."

SAYS IT NEEDED

Mr. MacDonald said lack of federal control would be unprecedented. Never before, he said, has a common carrier been given a monopoly franchise without board of transport control.

Highways Minister Allan plans to spend $130,734,000 on new highways construction next year—and a total of more than $1,000,000,000 on improvements during the next 10 years.

He disclosed a long-range plan for improving 5,400 miles of King's highways and secondary roads as he submitted his estimates for the next fiscal year. New construction in 1957-58 would cost $60,000,000 more than last year and the total budget would be $234,315,000 compared to $203,868,000 for 1956-57.

CALLS FOR RESEARCH

Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver called for more research by the highways department and greater co-ordination with municipalities and counties in planning land use and subdivisions.

CCF Leader MacDonald said perhaps too much money is being spent on highways. The government is not meeting other important needs such as education, he said.

Mr. Oliver said the department's 20-year study of highway needs showed that the department now is trying to correct inadequacies which have plagued it for years.

He said the government is obligated to assume some portion of county roads and attach them to the provincial system. The present policy was one of stagnation.

Festival Winner

CORNELIUS OPTHOF

Recent silver trophy and scholarship winner at the Rotary Music Festival at Kingston, Cornelius Opthof, 27-year-old Trenton singer, will further his studies with a three-year scholarship course at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. Cornelius has also been engaged as solo'st with a Toronto church choir for 9 weeks' period. He is a student of Madame Catherina Hendrikse of Belleville, who herself won the silver medal for accompanists at the Kingston festival.

Two other students of Madame Hendrikse won honors at the Kingston festival. They were Beverley Hunter, 25, of Kingston, who won four silver medals, and Marsha Dovey, 13, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. E. G. Dovey of Carrying Place, who won the silver medal for vocalists besting 12 other contestants in her class.

Premier Frost Not Worried About Support

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost says he thinks his government will continue to get the same support from labor in elections that it has had in the past.

He made the statement Thursday after Donald C. MacDonald, leader of a three-man CCF group in the legislature, informed the house that the new Ontario Federation of Labor had voted to support his party.

Albert Wren, Liberal - Labor member from Kenora, challenged Mr. MacDonald and any labor union to debate any labor issues on a public platform.

"The individual member of a trade union is not the lout some people would have us to believe he is," Mr. Wren said.

Doctor Saves Sight of Eye

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. F Croisetiere removed the bandages from nine-year-old Kenneth Leblanc's one good eye today and said the boy's sight has been saved.

Kenneth lost the sight of his left eye nearly a year ago in a playtime accident and it was necessary to remove the eye. Eight days ago the same companion injured Kenneth's right eye.

Dr. Croisetiere said the right eye was injured by glass splinters and that the cornea was perforated but fortunately the injury wasn't severe enough to destroy sight. An operation was performed in which the cornea was sewed.

In the first mishap, a piece of wire was jabbed into Kenneth's eye. After the eye was removed, Kenneth was fitted with an artificial eye.

First Convoy Since November Enters Suez

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — A convoy entered the Suez Canal today, the first since the waterway was blocked last November. All 10 ships, ranging from 7,064 tons to 1,365, paid tolls to Egypt.

The convoy was made up of Italian, Russian, Greek, West German, Romanian and Finnish vessels. It entered the southern end of the 103-mile canal, which Egypt's Suez Canal Authority had announced would be open today to ships of up to 11,000 tons. This includes vessels of a maximum 28½-foot draft.

The authority said two convoys —one from each end—now will be permitted to go through the waterway daily.

An authority spokesman said lighting facilities are not yet in order and night sailing through the canal will not be allowed.

Nurse Enjoys Real Challenge In Northland

CUMBERLAND HOUSE, Sask. (CP)—Nursing in an outpost hospital on Saskatchewan's northern frontier is a real challenge to 47-year-old Anna Marie Pesch.

Nurse Pesch finds the challenge lies in keeping men, women and children healthy in an environment that often is ruthless.

Miss Pesch was born in Vienna, Austria. After the Second World War, she took nursing in Scotland, specializing in obstetrics. She came to Canada two years ago and worked in hospitals in Regina, Moose Jaw and Central Butte before coming to this northern settlement.

Not deluding herself on what conditions would be like at an outpost hospital smack in the middle of nowhere, Nurse Pesch says "I was really surprised to find Cumberland such a neat little place."

Cumberland has 700 Metis, Indian and whites, who live mainly by trapping and fishing.

RUGGED AREA

Miss Pesch learned, however, that the majority of the people in the community live at a lower standard of living than those outside.

"Here are people with big families living day after day in poor conditions with ways so different from my own that I do not believe they consider themselves badly off."

She believes her biggest job is to teach the residents an interest in health.

"I want them to learn to come to the hospital early instead of too late," says Nurse Pesch.

Recalling her first week, Nurse Pesch says she had a real "baptism of fire." There were four maternity cases in four days. Two were within half an hour of each other and required special attention.

One of the major tasks facing Nurse Pesch is to improve nutrition in the community. "Lack of knowledge about the need for an adequate diet seems to be one of the main problems confronting the natives," says Nurse Pesch.

HANNA'S FATE STILL UNCERTAIN

Christian George Hanna, the man without a country, will remain in Canada a little longer, at least.

This much, but nothing more, was assured when Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan of the British Columbia Supreme Court threw out a deportation order against him.

Hanna came ashore at Vancouver after spending 15 months aboard the Norwegian freighter Skjaldbrand and being refused permission to land in at least six countries. He has no passport or papers of any kind, nor, because he is stateless, can he obtain such papers.

Mr. Justice Sullivan's ruling does not mean that Hanna's right to stay in Canada is established. His ruling was based on a flaw in the deportation order, which was so worded that it did not conform to the law. Another deportation order, differently worded, can be issued.

There may have been some Canadians who had hoped that the court would rule that Hanna could remain in Canada. That, however, is not the function of the court. Mr. Justice Sullivan made that plain when he said that "it is for immigration officials, and them alone, to grant or withhold such privileges" of admission into Canada.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said that his decision had to be divorced entirely from humanitarian considerations. We suggest, though, while this is the correct attitude for a judge to take, it is not the correct attiude for the immigration department. Humanitarian considerations ought to play a big role in the final decision by immigration authorities. Nor, when Mr. Justice Sullivan says that these officials alone have the right to make a decision, should this be interpreted too narrowly. The officials derive their authority from the government, the government derives its authority from Parliament and the members of Parliament derive their authority from the voters. The general public cannot make the decision, but it has every right to bring the pressure of its opinions to bear on the officials responsible.

Some better reasons for Hanna's exclusion than any advanced to date will have to be given before many Canadians are convinced that their country would be justified in refusing him a haven and in turning him away to resume his wanderings on the high seas.

SIGNS ABOLISHED

Will wonders never cease?

Toronto once had a reputation for being a drab, business-like city with little to the way of beauty to give attraction to it.

All that has now changed, as a visit to that city will prove to any observer.

Under Toronto's present municipal government giant steps have been taken, with startling results, to give beauty to one of the busiest streets in the city — Yonge Street.

Gone are the gaudy neon signs that once overhung the sidewalks and which gave pedestrians the shivers when they walked under them. These signs have been taken down, in keeping with a city by-law which prohibits signs from overhanging sidewalks.

Instead of looking like at rat-race business section, Yonge Street now gives the impression of being one of the loveliest streets in the whole of Canada, without reservation.

TOO MUCH SEX EDUCATION?

Dr. Goodrich Schauffler, a Portland, Ore., gynecologist, says that "our present-day almost insane sex preoccupation" is confusing and disturbing children in the United States. He was speaking on sex education to the American Academy of General Practice.

His view will receive support from many observers.

Yet we wonder whether there is not a danger here of confusing appearances with facts.

Sex is stressed today in a hundred ways which would have appalled our grandads a few short decades ago.

Yet is this proof that people of today are any more preoccupied with sex than people were a couple of centuries ago?

May not the difference be a readiness to discuss sex, to openly reveal an interest in it?

Just because an interest is concealed does not mean that it does not exist and even in those countries where advertising and other modern means of communication are unknown, high birth rates lead one to suspect that the people have a very healthy — or unhealthy — interest in sex.

In any event, is not disturbance and confusion always associated with the widening of the horizons of human knowledge, with every part of the study of any subject?

SEASON'S PARADE

The sun began to dance about,
The daffodils once came out.
The purple crocus felt it pass
And it came peeping through the grass;
And whereso'er I walked, I'll find
All things below had charms to spare.

Where there had been a silence deep
All living things began to leap
The robins sang a carol gay
That winterness was on its way;
Small shoots of green, as oft they will,
Jumped up to shout: "We're living still!"

Like newly regimented troops,
Some living things came out in groups
And plainly said: "With sun and rain
We'll soon begin to bloom again;
In time, if you will patient be,
We'll give you lovely things to see."

Oh, what a tumult's going on Man's eye may never look upon
Beneath the ground, aroused from sleep,
The children tulips again leap.
Though linger long the winter may,
'Twill never see a summer day

Man sees the seasons come and go
But summer, winter cannot know;
It has to pack and move away
And give its place to gentle May,
And May herself will give her room
So that the rose may bud and bloom.

In nature this is how it goes
The tulips gay precede the rose
And when the summertime has gone
The autumn blossoms follow on.
From spring to fall, in sun or rain
There is a constant gay refrain

Human Brain Not Obsolete

Royal Bank Monthly Letter

Most of us are only just starting to view automation as being outside the "isn't science wonderful" variety of fiction story. Others, carried away by visions, see the extraordinary machines we use and invent, predict the near approach of a time when robots and things like that will do all the work while the man beings recline in cushioned ease. Still others look upon automation as an agent of doom, trampling upon human freedom, genius and grinding the human spirit.

All these are unrealistic ways of receiving a reality. Automation is here, and there is no use blinking the fact. It is still in its infancy, as the automobile was in the 1890's, but after a few years of growing pains it will progress rapidly.

There is no denying that a number of thorny questions are raised by the transition, but often we clear away the utopian speculation and the emotional fearthinking that is present, we can clear away the utopian speculation and the emotional fearblinding and react. It is still in its infancy, as the automobile was in the 1890's, but after a few years of growing pains it will progress rapidly.

There is no denying that a number of thorny questions are raised by the transition, but often we

JESUS LOVED THEM

by Patrick and Garrison

THE ADULTERESS

"And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery . . ."

—John VIII:3

The time is early morning, the place an outer courtyard of the temple. The first shafts of sunlight fall upon the topmost towers, stairways, and royal porch that rise magnificently above the white colonnade of Corinthian columns.

Jesus sits surrounded by perhaps a score of people. They are the curious, the confused, the hopeful. He looks deep into their eyes as He tells them of the Truth that will make them free.

Suddenly, as He is speaking, there is a commotion outside the entrance. Several scribes and Pharisees—those ever-present enemies of Jesus—rudely shove a woman before them into the enclosure.

She holds back, shielding her face with an arm. Her hair and clothes are in sad disarray; she is trembling and frightened.

Her captors push her brutally forward until she stands before Jesus.

"Master," they say, "this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act. Moses in the law commanded us that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?"

They hope He will defy the Mosaic law, so they can accuse Him before the high priest.

But Jesus does not answer them. He stoops down and with His finger traces words upon the dusty earth. If the woman was caught "in the very act," then her partner in sin must be known also. Who is he? Among her accusers?

Angrily, they press Him for an answer. He straightens up and looks them directly in the eye.

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

There is an embarrassed silence. The accusers' own secret sins return to haunt them like evil spirits. One by one, beginning with the eldest, they slip away, "convicted by their own conscience."

Jesus looks at the woman. He asks her: "Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee?"

"No, Lord," she answers, daring to look at Him for the first time.

"Neither do I condemn thee: go and sin no more."

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS P. LEGGAT

Bruce Thompson of the 13th, (Holy Rosary) informs us that three of their Cubs can now wear their 1st stars. Danny Pipersal, Ronny Embury and Steve Smith. Joe Eilard is Cubmaster and Leon Kehoe, A.C.M. They are planning a Father and Son banquet for May 8th.

The Quinte Stamp Club have donated a quantity of stamps to be given to Cubs and Scouts who are trying for their collectors' badge. Mr. J. Hodgson of the 16th, O.S.D., group, has these stamps and will be glad to hear from you. The club also invites Scouts and Cubs who are interested in stamps to their meetings every 2nd and 4th Thursday at 8.00 p.m. in the YMCA.

To bring you up to date on swimming the Water Safety Committee reports as follows: This year 53 boys qualified for badges 5 rescuers, 31 Scouts and 17 Cubs. Recent winners of badges are: "Rescuer," A.C.M. Terry Marson, 2nd. "Scout" — Murray Angus, 9th; Harold Ewins, 1st; Colin Herring, 1st; Jack McMahon 1st; Jim Morton, 1st; Terry Box 2nd; Bill Rushlow, 1st; Bill Stewart, 9th; Graydon Scott, 1st; Erwin Summers, 8th; Garth Stephanson, 9th; Bill Tyron, 8th and Colin Allenby, 6th.

"Cubs" — Jimmie Black, 3rd; David Craig, 10th; George Clement, 3rd; Brian Doyle, 3rd; Dwayne Ellis, 7th; Tony Fox, 12th; Ted Findall, 10th; Bob Farrow 5th; Steve Flindall, 8th; Wayne Gough, 8th; Brian Knutson, 8th; Gary May, 10th; Jim Pickering, 1st; Roger Potter, 11th; Robert Reddick, 8th; Roger Serven, 10th and Larry Trueman, 4th.

We have eleven instructors anxious to teach your Cubs, John Babiak, Austin Gonin, Len Furney, Frank Valentine, Vic Allen, Terry Marson, Jim Churchill, Teddy Blaker, Robbie Blaker, Rocque Sager and Stuart Godden. Cubmasters are urged to encourage their boys to attend classes. They are free, courtesy of the YMCA, and are held every Saturday at 2.00 p.m. Your boys will receive every attention, all you have to do is get them there. Boys who wish to know artificial respiration will be instructed by Robert Fraser, a recent valuable addition to our staff.

Will leaders please check lists for possible errors?

Sunday School Lesson

There Is a Judgment Day

By ROY L. SMITH

Our fathers heard a great many sermons on the subject of the Judgment Day, and our sons hear very few, which is extremely unfortunate.

While it is true, of course, that the doctrine of a final judgment gave rise to some absurdities (just as does the doctrine of freedom, for example) there is a basic truth in it which we dare not lose.

MORAL LAW AND JUDGMENT

The leaning tower of Pisa is world famous for the reason that it leans. It has stood for many years on its unlevel foundation, but there is no engineer in all the world who would not say that there is a point past which it cannot lean and continue to stand.

Every scientist will agree that the law of gravity has not been repealed in the case of this famous tower. And each of them will also agree that this phenomenal structure is far less safe than it would be if it stood entirely upright.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 31: "The Last Judgment," Matthew 24 and 25.

Just as the law of gravity will someday assert itself and bring the Tower of Pisa tumbling to the earth, so the moral law will someday assert itself and bring immoralities to the ground.

Every day, and every occasion when the moral law asserts itself, is a judgment day. And no generation has ever been smart enough to outwit it.

SHARP LINES DRAWN

There is something rarely beautiful in the spirit of tolerance, and broadmindedness in some fields is a choice virtue. But we need to be reminded that there is very little of tolerance or broadmindedness in nature.

One molecule in a million will change the chemical character of many a substance, transforming it from an agent of mercy to a positive pestilence. The addition of only a few molecules, secreted by one of the ductless glands, will change the character of a bloodstream and create havoc or health.

If trifles in bloodstreams are important, then trifles in character will also assume importance.

Greener Thumbs

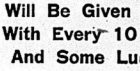
BY JOYCE SMITH

"Living vase" is the designation given some Bromeliads. These handsome and unusual plants, once strictly greenhouse subjects, have been found to be fine house plants, and do well outdoors in warm, humid climates. They must be grown in Osmunda fiber obtainable at florists. The tightly whorled leaves form a receptacle that holds water, and in which fresh flowers can be placed.

Anthony Eden Going to Boston For Examination

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) Former Prime Minister Anthony Eden, who is convalescing in New Zealand, will go to Boston, Mass., for a medical examination, it was learned here today.

Eden was operated on in Boston in June, 1953, for gall bladder disorder by Dr. Richard Cattell, 51-year-old American specialist. He was a patient there of the famed Lahey Clinic.



The 59-year-old statesman resigned as prime minister for health reasons Jan. 9 after holding office only 19 months—one of the shortest terms in recent history.

He and Lady Eden were invited to New Zealand by Prime Minister Sidney Holland. On his arrival in Auckland Feb. 21, Eden said two bouts of fever which he suffered during the voyage from Britain had left him "a little weak."

SEEK MEETING

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London and St. Thomas officials agreed Wednesday night to seek a joint meeting with the Ontario Water Resources Commission on the possibility of piping water from Lake Erie. Decision was made at a closed meeting here with St. Thomas utilities officials.

Quinte Skating Club Ice Show Best Presentation in Years

What bids to be the most colorful presentation in the production history of the club gets under way tonight in Memorial Arena with the 12th annual Ice Show of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club.

The 1957 show offers a distinctly different theme designed to embrace the artistry of not only the Quinte members but the stars from well-known outside figure-skating organizations.

The theme stems from the experiences of a Royal Family and their attendants in the days of long ago. The King and Queen are requested to inspect Tayland but all is quiet on the night of the inspection.

A fairy queen magically brings the toys to life and the fun begins. All is well with the evening climaxed with a royal ball and every body lives happily ever afterward.

This then is a rural fantasy which pictures a farmer going to the country fair with his helpers, and their adventures there after the farmer falls asleep and dreams furnish another brilliant highlight of the show.

The show has been excellently produced, colorfully costumed and has a splendid musical background. The club and show benefited immensely this year through the services of John Rodney, Toronto Skating Club, as the club professional. In his first year with Quinte, Mr. Rodway has proved extremely popular and has gained in the esteem of members of figure-skating group.

Assisting Mr. Rodway in production of the show were [illegible] Williams, J. Lewis, producer-co-ordinator Dr. W. Malcheson; sexual production, H. B. Wesse; costume design, F. O. Jeffrey; scenery design, [illegible] program, D. MacIsaac; F. Maund; lighting R. A. Smith; visiting skaters, Mrs. W. Malcheson; out-of-town tickets, Hy Loder; treasurer, W. Canniff; music and commentary, Doug Hraith.

Also assisting in the production and scintillating in their various roles are Miss Barbara Jean [illegible] ques, Rod McDonald and Dr. Lower of the Toronto Skating Club; Miss Joan Shippam, Peterborough Skating Club, and Miss Patsy Kerr, of the Cobourg Skating Club.

The board of directors of the club includes president, Dr. C. McCutcheon, Mrs. J. E. Dyer, J. Lewis, W. Canniff, J. Dickson, Dr. T. Woodley, D. Pullen, R. Smith, Hy. Loder, W. Shelly, Gordon Davies, E. Whitfield, D. Lacy, F. Maund and Dr. M. Walcott.

The ladies auxiliary consists of president Mrs. P. O. Jeffrey, Mrs. A. MacCallum, Mrs. J. Lewis, W. VanTassel, Mrs. W. Sherry, Mrs. H. Loder, Mrs. W. Shelly and Mrs. Gordon Davies.

The show will be offered tonight and tomorrow night starting at 8.15.

Ontario Govt. Has Surrendered To the Indians

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has surrendered to the Indians.

Premier Frost, who said Thursday he was speaking both as head of the government and as honorary Indian chief, introduced a bill in the legislature which would make clear that Indians are not compelled to register their marriages with the provincial government.

The surrender terms came three day: after the governing chiefs of the Six Nations reserve petitioned the legislature to repeal an act dealing with marriages because it "applies specifically to Indians" and so is not within the power of the legislature."

Mr. Frost, an honorary member of the hereditary council of the Six Nations Indian confederacy, said the bill would make clear that Indians are not compelled to register their marriages but that any Indian citizens could avail themselves of the act if they desired. The act was passed last year.

He said many Indians are registering their marriages but the government has no desire to impose on them any mandatory action which might be against their treaty rights.

Mr. Frost said the government is prepared to give to Indians welfare, educational and other aid but if they prefer to deal with the federal government the provincial government will assist them.

The premier said a couple of weeks ago that Ontario would recognize Indian marriages registered with the federal government.

Harry Nicon (L — Brant), who represents the Six Nations reserve and also is an honorary Indian chief, moved the discharge of a resolution which called for repeal of the Marriage Act dealing with Indians.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONAL

Mr. Herb Peterson has returned to Douglas Lake, B.C., after spending two weeks' holidays with friends at Plainfield.

Rawdon Couple Vacations In Florida

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Clancy are enjoying a holiday in the southern United States. In a letter received Saturday they were at St. Petersburg, Florida, and the temperature was 80 degrees.

They have now visited 44 states on their various ramblings to the United States. They year they visited New York, New Jersey and Delaware, the latter two being new territory for them.

During their stay at New Smyrna Beach they exchanged visits with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hoard and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson.

At Daytona Beach they met Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hoard and a recently married couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Haggerty.

The Clancys have spent the month of March at St. Petersburg and they plan to leave early in April on their homeward trip. They receive the Ontario news by radio every morning from Toronto and this helps to keep them in touch with their homeland.

OPEN-AIR SERVICE

Sunday they attend church services at Pasadena Community Church, seven miles from St. Petersburg. The minister is Dr. Wallace Hamilton, formerly of Pembroke, Ontario. He has been in Florida for the past 27 years.

Erma Clancy writes: "This is sometimes called a garden sanctuary. The seating capacity inside the church is 1,200 people, or you can sit on the benches under the palm trees where there is room for 1500. If you wish you can remain in your car, as there is a loudspeaker system and you can hear the music and sermon anywhere.

"They have 18 acres of parking space and on a recent Sunday there were 2,670 cars there. We went early but the crowd was there ahead of time. However we were able to find seats in the church.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

"March 17 there as a St. Patrick's Day program at the municipal pier, two hours of entertainment. The first part was old sacred hymns, followed by a number of Irish songs used for the community sing-song. This was followed by vocal solos, duets, a piano music, an electric organ, solo on musical saw, mixed quartet, and a musical trio consisting of dulcimer, piano and violin. Some 30 men and women dressed in costumes, took part in the choruses. This was a fine program, but there was just a brief mention of it in the morning newspaper.

"St. Petersburg goes all out to entertain the tourists. The town sponsors programs in the park, bands, musical solos, duets, and community sing-songs for the afternoons. A ball game is played every day. In the morning the Half-Century group (50 years old and over) and "The Kids and Cubs" (those over 30 years) meet. Girls' games and professional games, as well as shuffleboard, card games, checkers and free dancing are enjoyed."

Carl and Erma and Mr. and Mrs. Will Ashby have exchanged visits and they also met Mrs. Frost, Frankford. Their friends in Rawdon are delighted to hear of their wanderings.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ernest Pascoe, Melrose, Wed Fifty Years

Emphasis was on the family Thursday at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pascoe, 3rd concession of Tyendinaga township, as the couple were "at home" to their nine children, a dozen grandchildren, and to district friends on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Strong advocates of a large family, Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe point with pride to their seven children who, in their own words say "have all been good to us."

All but one of the Pascoe children are now married and have homes of their own, but on special occasions such as anniversaries they gather under the parental roof. Yesterday's anniversary gathering clearly testified as to the well-knit Pascoe family.

"We had our hard times," Mr. Pascoe admitted. "Sometimes we had bread with butter on it, and sometimes we just had the crusts."

And Mrs. Pascoe, the former Anne Rose Selke, of Kitchener, added that many a night she had "sat up until one or two in the morning, patching and mending children's clothes."

A native of Belleville, Mr. Pascoe has spent many years as a farmer but he likes to term himself a handyman with more than a smattering of several skills.

A lad he delivered newspapers on Belleville streets; then worked for the C.T.R. in the express department and in the meantime even did a four-year stint as a letter carrier in this city.

MET WIFE IN KITCHENER

Somewhere in between he went to Western Ontario where he worked in a rubber plant and met his future wife. For the past 83 years the family have lived in Tyendinaga township. Sixteen years ago they lost their home by fire and for 15 years have lived on the present farm just west of the Shannonville gravel.

Now Mr. Pascoe, a wiry man of 70, has given up active farming, with William, an unmarried son, working the homestead.

"But I can't stay idle," the bride of 50 years says. "I've got to keep going."

So "to keep going" Mr. Pascoe fills in the time by working as paper hanger and painter, carpenter, plumber, and tinsmith, in the Melrose area.

He does not claim to be a top expert in all of the above jobs but an indication of his "know how" is the fact that many people in the Melrose area who want a job done simply get Mr. Pascoe.

The couple are members of Melrose United Church.

Mrs. Pascoe was two years of age when her family moved from Danzig, Germany, to the Kitchener district in Western Ontario. One of her brothers is none other than Frank Selke of Canadien Hockey Club fame. Her family is of Polish extraction.

Mrs. Pascoe with the Canadiens doesn't make mat a Canadien fan," Mr. Pascoe says. "Me, I'm a Toronto Maple Leaf fan and that makes for hot arguments when Frank comes to visit."

LIKES DAILY PAPER

One of Mr. Pascoe's big pleasures is the reading of The Intelligencer each night.

"If I haven't got the Intell to read after supper I'd just as soon not have supper," he said.

His only regret in this connection is the fact that mail delivery does not coincide with the paper's printing deadline. As result the printed news is a day late before he gets around to reading the details.

In honor of their anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe this week received congratulatory messages from government leaders at Ottawa and Toronto. One was a personally signed letter from Prime Minister St. Laurent, another was from Premier Leslie Frost and from the provincial secretary. A third message was from Frank S. Follwell, local M.P.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe are Mrs. Peter (Dorothy) Murphy, Belleville; William, at home; Mrs. Fred (Marie) Sullivan, Ernest, Vincent, Vernon and Mrs. Dan (Marjorie) MacFarlane, all of Melrose; Morley of Belleville and Eugene "Buck" Pascoe of Corbyville. A son Harold died 13 years ago. There are 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Pascoe is the only member of the Pascoe family, but Mrs. Pascoe has two brothers and two sisters. They are Mrs. E. D. Taylor of Banff, Alta; A. J. Selke, of Hamilton; Frank J. Selke, Montreal, and Mrs. Alf Arnold, Waterloo.

FOR COLLEGE OR CAREER

Friends Gather To Honor Couple Married 50 Years

POINT ANNE — Last Friday evening in the Point Anne Orange hall about 100 relatives and friends gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The evening was pleasant and entertaining. Euchre was played with the favors going to ladies, Mrs. George Botting, Mrs. Keith Mayne; consolation, Mrs. Dorothy Osborne; men, Mr. George Botting, Mr. Ed Fraser; consolation, Mr. Douglas Mayne; ladies' lone hand, Mrs. Kay Botting and men's lone hand, Mr. George Botting. After euchre, dancing was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Akey were escorted to chairs of honor at the table, spread with an anniversary cloth and a three-tier cake, decorated for the occasion, with many good things to eat.

After refreshments, Mr. Fred Mitchell read the address to Mr. and Mrs. Akey which was signed on behalf of all your friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Akey voiced their appreciation of the gift, a television set, and thanked everyone for remembering them at this time. Mr. Mitchell also extended greetings to them. They received many cards of congratulations from friends.

After Mr. Milton Akey, nephew of the bride and bridegroom of 50 years ago, took pictures of the couple, other gifts were given. These went to the couple longest married, Mr. and Mrs. William Juby; to the youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henderson, and to Mr. William Masters, Trenton, who celebrated his birthday anniversary that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Akey were married March 14, 1907, at Actinolite United Church parsonage, by the Rev. John R. Bick. Mr. Percy W Akey was best man and Miss Stella Mayne was bridesmaid. They were both present at the reception. After the marriage the couple went to Shilling by horse and buggy to spend a few days with relatives.

They are the parents of 12 children of whom six are still living. One son, Sgt. Stanley Akey, died overseas in 1944 while on active service with the R.H.L.I. Those living are Gordon of Shannonville; Donald and Billy of Point Anne; Mrs. Reggie (Mabel) Cox and Mrs. Daisy (Florence) Cumming, of Point Anne, and Mrs. Edna Howard, Toronto. They have 23 grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

For several years they lived at Sulphide where Mr. Akey was employed. After leaving, he moved to Redmersville. They now live at Cannifton where they built a small house.

The evening closed with a social period of renewing friendships and with good wishing Annie and "Mab" many more years of health and wedded life together.

Women's Institute

CARMEL W.I.

The annual meeting of the Carmel Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. F. Hicks with 14 members and four visitors present.

Correspondence was read and discussed. The district annual is to be held at Melrose June 4th. Members were asked to keep in mind the extension course to be held April 15-19 with Miss Spencer as leader. The course is to be "Secretary." The yearly reports of the standing committees were read and approved.

Mrs. A. Homan, as convener of the committee, read the list of officers for the year 1957-58. These are: president, Mrs. Amos Whitmore; first vice-president, Mrs. Elmer Urch; second vice-president, Mrs. Carl Thompson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Seldon Homan and district director, Mrs. Allan Gowthorpe.

Other officers are: citizen and education, Mrs. Alex Allison; community activities and public relations, Mrs. Percy Reynolds; historical research, Mrs. Charles Brintnell; home economics and health, Mrs. William Rodberg; plants, Mrs. Brintnell; institute directors, Mrs. G. Moorman, Mrs. M. Sullivan and Mrs. Lorne Wellard and card convener, Mrs. Merle Robinson.

Mrs. Thomson had nine slips and record books on display from the Girls' Homemaking Club.

Mrs. Brintnell gave two humorous readings, "A Home Forum," and "Burning in the Spring." A singsong was enjoyed. The meeting closed by singing and a social half-hour was spent. Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

Lenten Season Good Time To Try New Types of Fish

OTTAWA (CP) — The Lenten season provides plenty of leeway for trying new types of fish and new fish recipes, say experts in the federal fisheries department.

Home economists in the department's office and test kitchen here, directed by Margaret Myer, and others stationed in cities from coast to coast have been keeping their eye on Lenten fish supplies.

The result is a Lenten packet featuring fish and including information about supplies and hints on cooking.

On the fresh fish list, haddock, halibut, herring, sole and flounder were expected to be in good supply in the Atlantic provinces and Quebec.

In Ontario and on the Prairies, there's pickerel, pike, lake trout, smelt and whitefish, while British Columbia has good supplies of grey and ling cod, eulachon, rockfish, sole and flounder.

Frozen fish is also plentiful. Then there's canned fish with many varieties in "good supply," the department says.

When it comes to cooking frozen fish, home economists in the department's test kitchen find many housewives wonder whether "to thaw or not to thaw."

The answer, in most cases, is to cook the fish frozen because this method seems to retain the juices.

However, fish-cooking experts say for some types of cooking, such as pan or deep-fat frying or stuffing, it's necessary to thaw the fish at refrigerator temperature.

Frozen cooked fish can seem like cooked lobster, crab meat and shellfish soups should be good solidly frozen until they are to be used.

Then, when you're ready to cook a fish dinner and find the main course still seems to need perking up, try a tart rhubarb relish with baked fish, for example.

Fried fish steaks can seem like an entirely new dish with tasty toppings such as chili sauce, fried chopped onions or strips of processed Canadian cheese spread on them before they're popped into the oven.

Among hints to housewives, the thin rhyming rule of thumb:

"The secret of serving delicious fish

Is simple, yet easy to overlook;

When you hope for a really splendid dish,

Never, never overcook!"

Women of Moose Plan Trophy Presentations

The Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, recently held a meeting in the Elks Hall with Senior Regent Nellie Scrymgeour presiding.

Three candidates were balloted on and accepted and will be initiated into the defending circle at the next meeting. All co-workers planning to go to Watertown were asked to contact the recorder as soon as possible so reservations can be made for bus and hotel. Dates were given for the next Sea Cadet euchres being held in homes.

The group decided to present a silver cup for the first baby born in Belleville General Hospital on Baby Village Day. Co-worker Mary Peoples is in charge of this. Co-workers were picked to present cups, shields and degrees to a class of Cadets the last meeting in April. Lena Connel, Nora Kaiser, Ida Michael and Clare Seamen were appointed. The Senior Regent will present a large trophy for On-Ta-Ha standard.

The blind banquet was postponed until a suitable hall with no steps is found. Thank-you cards were received from several members for flowers sent while ill or through bereavement. 'Ha' Kellar is reported ill in hospital and Sable Thompson is at home. Brother George Mossman is also ill in hospital.

The draw donated by co-worker, Mrs. Henshall, Trenton, was won by Nellie Bird, escort. This is Mooseheaven month with Chairman Bernice Fryfield and her committee serving refreshments. Euchre was played after the meeting.

Weight Depends On Caloric Intake Says Dairyman

SASKATOON (CP) — Anyone will get fat if he or she eats more calories than is needed, and no one particular food is necessarily fattening.

Dr. D. L. Gibson, head of the dairy department at the University of Saskatchewan, explained in an address here that it's calories that count. "When you put on weight," he said, "don't blame just the fats you eat. Weight depends on caloric intake.

"A person needs approximately 15 calories per pound of body weight to maintain health."

Dr. Gibson had criticism for "fad" diets. No one should attempt to diet unless under medical supervision, he said. "There are too many unfounded conclusions drawn today and published before they are proven."

Milk is one of nature's most perfect foods, Dr. Gibson said. "People who condemn butter fats say there is a higher incidence of circulatory disease rate. However, figures show Canadians consume one-third more fat than the U.S, but have a coronary rate one-half that in the U.S.

"What we should do is stop eating so high of the fats. We should cut down on dried foods, deep-fat frying and thick gravies.

"If milk is decreasing life expectancy, why did the Almighty make it the only food that could be consumed from the cradle to the grave?"

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TRY TO GET HIM TO TALK WITH SOMEONE

Dear Bestrice Fairfax:

There is a boy I think quite a bit of who is planning to go to college and run away from home. He is 18 and I'm 16. He told me he didn't think he could really tell me the reason he feels he has to run away, because he doesn't quit know himself. He said that if anyone in his family could ask me where he went, I could tell them.

Do you think I should tell them, when he wants to get away from them so bad?

He said he would write to me and he wants me to wait two years for him. I told him I would not wait, but deep inside I know I will.

This is the only boy I've ever dated, because my parents won't let me go with boys until this one came along. Then they started to ask me out, so that he does not get jealous.

What can I do about making him stay home, and do you think I should wait for him? And how can I help him overcome what he can't solve anything by running away? — Age 16.

Dear R.G.:

It is not right at all that this young man should put such a serious responsibility on you as to tell you his plans and leave it up to you to inform his family.

Has he told you why he wants to get away from his family?

Whether he has or not, you suggest that he is unfair to leave them, and my opinion is that you should tell him, with all the force you possibly can, that he must do nothing of the kind before he has talked over his problem, whatever it may be, with some responsible person—his priest or pastor, perhaps, or some man at the college he attends.

Moreover, if he refuses to do this, I'd feel it your duty to go to some older person you can trust, preferably a man who knows the boy, and ask that person to find some way of getting to the boy and trying to straighten him out. Naturally, I'm not in favor of "snitching" on anyone, but in a matter as serious as this, it seems to me not only right, but very urgent, for some adult to take hold of the situation.

As for waiting two years for him, I don't think that's anything that requires a decision on your part at this moment. Time will take care of it for you, and you should make no promises of any sort now.

I'M AFRAID IT'S YOU HE'S TIRED OF

Dear Bestrice Fairfax:

For about a year I have been going with a fellow and we have always enjoyed being together.

Lately, though, things seem to have changed, because now he always wants me to call my girl friend, when we are going out, and make it a double date with her and her boy friend. Another thing that happened is that the other evening, when he was supposed to come around and take me out, he called up at the last minute and said he was too tired to go.

I am very fond of this fellow and I thought he returned my feeling, but I am puzzled by the way he has been acting and I'd like to know what you think of it. — Isabel.

Dear Isabel:

There is only one thing anyone could think of the way this young man is acting, and that is, that his interest in you is on the wane. Haven't you thought of this yourself? And do you really believe that, unless he could give you some very understandable reason for being "too tired" to keep a date — which he doesn't seem to have done — he would have broken it if he had been really eager to go you?

What he is actually "too tired" of, I'm afraid, is his association with you, and if he calls you again, you'd be smart to be "too busy" to go out with him. Then see what happens.

FOLLOW HIS LEAD; HE'LL GET THE IDEA

Dear Bestrice Fairfax:

I'm a girl 15 and I'm sure that I've found the one and only boy for me. He's 18, is in the service and doesn't have the least idea that I'm crazy about him.

I've received a letter or two from him, with a promise of more, but my problem is how to get to know him better and to let him know I love him without com-

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FOR SPRING — THE OPALESCENT LOOK!

Opalescent powder provides the finishing touch to a make-up that promises a great deal in the way of Spring glamour.

Comes Spring and it seems that practically every woman in the world is busy trying to achieve a new "look." And, if she isn't, the bright boys and girls in the fashion and beauty line are busy trying to dream up a new one for her—one that she won't be able to resist even if she feels that she's looking pretty well as is. And so, in the last couple of years, we've had the "Oriental look," the "Gainsborough look," the "Grecian look" and the "Edwardian look."

This Spring it's to be the "opalescent look."

And how are we going to look opalescent? Why, through cosmetics, of course. Cosmeticians are going all out in the creation of powders, rouges, lipsticks and eye-shadows designed to give our complexions and eyes a luminous, pearly appearance which is practically guaranteed, they say, to make us glamorous as all get-out and, at the same time, remain in keeping with the "ladylike trend" in makeup that's been with us for, lo, these many months.

One of the most famous experts in the field has created a whole new line to conform to the "opalescent look." It's a romantically beautiful make-up of delicate tones, with special emphasis on the eyes. For the complexion, her new shade is a pale pink, light but luminous, and is being introduced in two foundations—a superfine English complexion powder and a compact powder. The lipstick is a tender pink and there's an opalescent pink nail polish to match. To dramatize the eyes, there are opalescent eyeshadows in several colors and there's also a pink colorshist rinse for the hair.

And speaking of eye make-up, another cosmetician has really gone to town when it comes to opalescence. She's created eye-shadow in five different dreamy colors and the idea is to experiment with combinations of them. There's an opal blue, opal green, opal orchid, opal gray and opal silver with either the blue, green, orchid or gray for a dramatically shimmering effect, but each of the opalescent colors can be used separately, of course—depending on the color of your eyes, complexion and costume.

ing right out and telling him. — L.G.

Dear L.G.:

Don't be in such a hurry to decide that this is the "one and only boy" for you. I'd be willing to make a small bet that before you find the boy who is really the "one and only," you'll go through this same experience several times. Except in very unusual cases, that's the normal routine with teenage boys and girls.

So, if you're a smart girl, you'll simply answer this fellow's letters when they come, give him the news of what you're doing and what is going on, and let things take their own course.

It's a very simple matter to let a boy know you like him without coming right out and saying so. All you have to do is to follow his lead and he'll get the idea.

(From I. W. gives recipe for:

SOUTHERN PINEAPPLE CAKE

I. W. says "This is quite different to the usual upside down cake. In the baking the bits of pineapple go down through the cake taking brown sugar mix with them. I've never come across another recipe of this nature." Mix with fork until like brown bread crumbs: 1 cup light brown sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons soft butter or other shortening. Drain and save juice from 1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple.

Sift then measure 2 cups cake flour, resift with 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cream together until light and fluffy 6 tablespoons soft butter or shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar. Beat vigorously now at a time 3 egg yolks. Add flour mixture alternately with mixture of 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/4 cup pineapple juice. Beat well after each addition. Beginning and ending with flour. Fold into batter 2 egg whites stiffly beaten. Pour into 9 well greased pan 8 x 8 x 2. Sprinkle with brown sugar mix, liberally over top. Dot bits of drained pineapple over top of sugar. Bake 1 hour or until cake shrinks from sides of pan. Invert on cooler 5 minutes before removing. Serve warm or cold, with or without cream. Do not open oven door for at least 1/2 hour.

ANSWER

Thank you again I. W.

QUESTION

Would you know how to make a starch with sugar solution, for crochet, or is there another way to help nylon curtains keep their stiffness, as ordinary starch does not take. Mrs. G. A.

ANSWER

So many crochet experts say the sugar turns nylon yellow — I really don't know. Would expert curtain launderers in this audience please come to the rescue of Mrs. G. A.?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

INVITING "EVERYONE IN TOWN" TO HER DAUGHTER'S WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For about ten years, ever since she was graduated from college, our daughter has worked in a big city some distance from here. Soon she will be coming home to be married in the church to which she (and we) have always belonged, very dear to all of us. This is a small town, everyone knows everyone else, and now quite naturally everyone here is interested in her marriage. She has written us that she wants "everyone in town" to come to the church ceremony. (To the reception following, at our house, we are inviting families, a few older relatives and several very intimate friends, will be invited.) How can we invite everyone all 'round to the ceremony? It would not be feasible to send invitations, I think, and I'd be terrified that we might omit some names. What do you advise? — Mother

First I advise that, when your daughter thinks it timely, you ask the minister of your church to announce (perhaps not only on one Sunday, but on several) that you are invited to the church ceremony and that if you wish, you may ask him to ask the ministers of the other churches in town to make the same cordial announcement. They might be asked too to have the announcement printed on the church bulletin boards. Also you would probably send a special invitation to be printed in your local newspaper, which is doubtless customary in your small community. You would of course personally invite the members of the families and the relatives and intimate friends who are to be invited not only to the ceremony but also to the reception. And it would be graciously welcoming for you to telephone or write any other friends or neighbors to "accept" the public invitation.

CONCERNING EXCHANGE OF ANNIVERSARY PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary recently, and many of the guests at the dinner we gave brought presents, all of them lovely. However, quite a few of them were duplicates, and since none of them were silver, it was quite a problem. In the first place I really didn't want any more silver, and in the second place keeping it polished is quite a chore when one does all one's housework (as I do). Do I dare exchange some of the duplicates, as well as some of the other presents, and I must confess, not always for silver articles, if I really needed them (of several sizes). I guess I shouldn't have told anyone about these exchanges, for my aunt heard about it, and insists this was "inexcusably inconsiderate to the givers." Was it, Mrs. Beeckman? — Reader

It cannot be taken for granted that duplicates may properly be exchanged, and usually the givers want this to be done. I think that as a general rule, a donor wants the one to whom the gift is given to feel free to exchange it for something more desired, more practical to the way-of-living.

TABLE ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When olives, celery, radishes and such are passed at table, should one put them on the dinner plate or on the bread-and-butter plate? — R.H.

On the bread-and-butter plate.

HOME BUILDING SECTION

PAGES 8, 9 and 10

For a LARGE FAMILY

Up to the minute in design, simple lines of the Golding are still reminiscent of the frame houses found up New England way. The Golding's exterior is frame with brick trim. Both the front entry and the door of the two-car garage are sheltered by roof overhangs.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

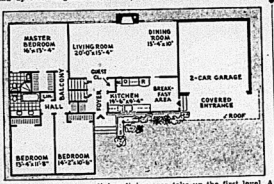
A large family needs lots of space and that's just what the Golding, an 8-room split style, provides.

It's a five-bedroom plan.

There are three bedrooms and two baths on the top level. The master bedroom has a huge walk-in closet and a private bath. Both front bedrooms are smaller. Each is cross-ventilated and has good closet facilities.

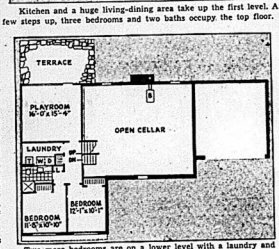
FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

Below them, on the same level with the playroom and laundry, are two more bedrooms and a third bath. These sleeping quarters might well be used by younger members of the family. Since they're close to the playroom, it would almost give the youngsters an apartment of their own. The playroom could serve them as a place to relax, watch TV or entertain friends.



On the main level, a huge living-dining area looks out on the back yard through a wall of picture windows broken only by a fireplace. This open-planning and combining of rooms creates an area 30 feet long. Using folding doors, the dining room could be sectioned off. The current trend, however, is to have one large room rather than two average-size ones.

At front, a kitchen, with appliances arranged corridor style along opposite walls, has a nice breakfast area. A service door, at one side, is convenient to the garage.



HALL CLOSET

In the entry hall, a closet's been provided for guest coats. But this is a home with excellent closets. Count them up! There are eleven in all, including two for linens!

Just off the entry foyer are two staircases — one leading down to the playroom floor, and from there to the cellar, the other going up to the main bedroom level.

Kitchen and a huge living-dining area take up the first level. A few steps up, three bedrooms and two baths occupy the top floor.

Two more bedrooms are on a lower level with a laundry and a playroom that could serve as a living room for the young people.

The Golding comprises 37,920 cubic feet.

Paint Is Good For Brick Houses

Although brick often is used for exterior house walls because int calls for a minimum of upkeep, tests have shown that when such walls are painted they actually become cooler and less humid in summer as well as being sealed against moisture absorption and seepage.

VITAL FORESTS

Forests provide four-fifths of the raw material for Finland's export industries.

Where Fix-it Fans Slip

"When all else fails, read the directions."

Many thousands of fix-it enthusiasts do things the wrong way — even when the right way is clearly outlined on the containers of the products they are using.

Industries spend much money printing folders and labels with easy to follow instructions. Yet a customer who fails to get the full value from a purchase blames the particular product rather than his own failure to use it properly.

Paint offers a good ex-mple.

Paint these days is of a higher quality than it has ever been. Yet paint manufacturers get far more complaints than they ever did. There's rarely anything wrong with the makeup of the paints. It's just that so many so-called handymen are using the paints improperly.

Once paint was used almost exclusively by the professional. Today it is being brushed, rolled and sprayed on by millions of amateurs who never before thought of it except in terms of color.

Somewhere along the line many of these persons pick up bits of information which, perfectly factual in the case of one type of paint, may not apply at all in their particular projects. For a customer in fortunate enough to have a dealer who can guide him in the selection of the right kind of paint for the job, the customer rarely takes advantage of that knowledge.

MEN MAKE MOST ERRORS

Hardware dealers say that men are the worst offenders in this respect. They rather don't hesitate to ask questions, but the men shy away from anything that might indicate they are inexperienced.

To be specific about popular misconceptions: The impression has gotten around that latex or rubber-based paint is an all-purpose paint, that it can be used under any and all circumstances. Yet the manufacturers themselves do not recommend it for kitchens, bathrooms and laundry rooms.

Rubber-base is sensitive to cooking vapors and can be adversely affected by water vapor, especially during the first 30 days after application. It is not as scrub-resistant as a gloss or semi-gloss enamel. But rubber-base paint spreads easier, faster and smoother than most old-style oil-base paints. Also it dries to the touch in less than 30 minutes and eliminates the use of solvents in cleaning brushes. The brush needs only to be rinsed under a faucet.

In short, rubber-base paint is a wonderful, modern product —if used properly.

SPECIAL PURPOSE PAINTS

There are many new paints on the market for special purposes. The synthetic-base paints, such as alkyd resin and polyvinyl acetate, are making great strides. But many persons will continue to buy and use paints which — close to perfection for particular needs — may give unsatisfactory results on surfaces for which they were not intended.

The most frequent misconception about exterior paint involves the use of the self-cleaning or chalking variety of white paint. Such self-cleaning paint stays white longer because the chalky film which forms on the surface slows erosion under the impact of weather. That makes it an ideal paint for frame houses with a complete exterior of wood siding.

But many ill-advised or non-advised amateurs use it on outdoor furniture, porch columns, window trim, or what is worse, on clapboard above brick or stone veneer. The result: Manufacturers get complaints that the paint comes off on clothes, streaks window panes and stains masonry.

PAINT REMOVAL TROUBLES

Here's another case: Many persons who use paint removers are disappointed with the results. There is something about the words "paint remover" that implies magical qualities. The general manager of one of the largest paint-removing companies in the world told us that most disappointments stem from one fact: The users simply will not wait for the remover to do its work.

It is necessary to wait from 30 minutes to four hours for a remover, depending on how many coats must be removed. This requirement is stated clearly in the directions on every can, not to mention the booklets that are available at all paint stores.

But people cannot wait for the remover to penetrate before they begin the scraping process on paint only partially softened.

Fix-it enthusiasts can save themselves a lot of trouble and money just by following instructions to the letter.

Paint Needs 'Tooth' To Get a Bite

When repainting any surface all of the old coating that is glossy in appearance should be sanded to provide a "tooth," they say in the trade. This will allow the new coat to bond firmly.

Stuart Martin Heads Percival's

We often read about the small town boy who makes good in the big city but in the case of Stuart Martin, Belleville branch manager of the Percival Furniture Co., we have a perfect example of the big city man who made good in, shall we say, a smaller city.

STUART MARTIN

Six foot five, 221 pound Stuart Martin who was born and educated in Toronto had a good background to become manager of the two Percival stores which occupy the second largest floor space among furnishing outlets of this district.

The Percival stores for which Mr. Martin is responsible, the main store at 380 Front and the newly decorated annex at 333 Front, stock one of the largest collections of all types of home furnishings in the district.

The first floor of the main building and the annex feature well-known brands of living room furnishings, draperies and appliances; the second floors display bedroom, dining and children's furniture.

A competent staff of 14 give courteous attention at the two stores.

Mr. Martin's maxim is "the merchandise must satisfy the customers". He has found it to be a good one for all concerned.

Mr. Martin joined Eatons in Toronto soon after graduating and received extensive merchandising experience in successive promotions from department to department over an 18 year period.

When the war gong sounded, Mr. Martin left Eatons to join the R.C.A.F. serving in wireless radar and communications from 1941 to 1946. After discharge he decided to try life in a small city transferring to Eatons here in 1946 serving as main floor manager until 1949.

At this time he accepted an offer to manage Percival Furniture Co. and has served in this capacity since then.

In addition to overseeing expanding business operations, Mr. Martin is a past president of the Kinsmen Club and played an active part in the raising of funds for the swimming pool bearing the name of that club. He was also been a leading light in the Woodland Acres Co-operative which has just completed the building of 30 homes in that well planned residential area.

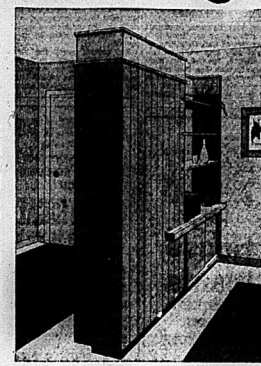
Do It Yourself

Here's How

TO DO IT — TO MAKE IT — TO FIX IT

By PETER WHITTALL

Attractive Divider Has Many Uses



(This is one of a series of columns by Peter Whittall on expertly-designed major projects by which the handyman can add beauty and utility to every room of the house.)

The open planning of homes today makes extensive use of room dividers.

They separate or define the living and play areas of the home, or the study and dining areas, or the living room and entry hall.

Good dividers serve four distinct and desirable functions — they form a division, add a decorative touch, and provide shelves or cupboards for the rooms or areas on each side.

The entrance-living room divider outlined here has many features to recommend it to new home owners and amateur carpenters. It can be built on a strip of flooring only 12" wide and less than seven feet long and its construction consists of a series of simple steps that any careful handyman can tackle with confidence.

This neat and practical room divider adds a decorative touch to both living room and entry hall.

This divider serves the entry or hall as a coat and overshoe closet, and it provides the dining or living room with overhead shelf space and cupboard storage. In spite of its professional appearance, it has been designed especially for the amateur builder.

SIMPLIFIED STEPS

The most complicated step is the installation of the hinges for the folding doors that cover the hall closet, and this has been deliberately simplified by the use of piano hinges.

Other simplifications in this plan includes hingeless, sliding cupboard doors, simple butt-joint construction and the use of fir plywood throughout.

All the joints or seams are covered less than 12 inches wide form the in addition to covering raw edges of plywood and rough saw cuts, this stripping gives a distinctive design motif to the project and permits a greater range of decorative treatments.

Three strips of plywood slightly les sthan 12 inches wide form the ends and partition. A similar strip forms the floor. Two shorter strips are nailed on the top, one with a hole cut in to permit a recessed or indirect lighting installation.

The unit is then sheeted in with two sheets of Trendwall, Sylvacord or any of the other embossed or decorative plywoods. Similar plywood panels can be used for both sides of the divider. If you would prefer a different wall treatment or decorative scheme for the hall and living room, select the patterned panels that will best fit in with your plans.

FLEXIBLE DESIGN

This divider design is flexible. It can be made longer or shorter to suit the space you need to fill or have to spare.

It extends to the ceiling to provide the maximum of shelf, cupboard and closet space while still utilizing a minimum of floor space.

The unit is attached to a simple floor frame made with 2x4's or similar sized strips of ¾" plywood. The frame is six inches wide, half the width of the divider, and it's three inches shorter than the overall length. Thus there is a decorative overhang.

Among many "extra" feaures designer Fred Hollingsworth of Vancouver has included a novel and practical way of accommodating full-sized coat hangers. Because the divider is only 12 inches wide, the coat hangers (and the coats) have to be hung lengthwise instead of crosswise.

To make the fullest possible use of the space, the hangers can be attachd to kitchen cupboard cup hooks, or short pieces of curtain track can be used, permitting the coat hangers to slide back and forth easily on the drapery track rollers or hooks.

TIME REQUIRED

You can build this room divider in your basement workshop in a few evenings.

A table saw or a radcal arm saw will speed up the process, but they are not necessary. The only tools required are a hand saw, hammer, screw driver and combination mitre square, plus a pencil, tape measure or yardstick and a brace and bit to bore the holes for the light fixture.

(For detailed plans of room dividers, see your nearest plywood dealer or write me in care of Box 335, Vancouver, B.C.

Be Smart on a Ladder

It's fun to try to break your neck on roller skates, but don't try it on a ladder. Thousands of disabling injuries result from falls from ladders every year. Here are a few sensible precautions:

Never use a brick to prop a ladder on uneven footing. Use an adjustable leg.

When setting a ladder on soft ground put a strong board under both legs.

If you must use both hands for work, brace yourself by hooking a leg over a rung.

Are you going to repair those loose and leaky gutters, patch the roof, or put up a TV antenna? If you have any "second-storey job" in mind, you'll be getting up on a ladder. So watch your step.

More accidents happen on ladders, say the statisticians, than — well, they have a lot of comparisons including the Suez Canal, but for the sake of your own skin and bones it's worthwhile to learn how to stay on a safe ladder.

It is not a circus stunt. All you have to do is to use your head as well as your hands and feet as you're working on a ladder. Some men in the ladder business recently put their heads together over the number of sad accidents on ladders and came up with some sound advice. They were Walter C. Nash, who makes an adjustable ladder leg, and H. D. Werner, who makes aluminum ladders. Here are their rules:

1. Never stand on the top step of any ladder.

2. Don't prop up one ladder leg on uneven ground. Use an extension leg.

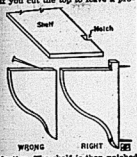
3. Always lock a door and post a warning sign when a ladder is in front of a door.

4. Don't lay tools on the top of a stepladder. Use a paintholder shelf.

5. Never over-reach on either side of a ladder. Keep your body straight.

6. Always face the ladder and hold on with one hand.

7. If you need both hands, hook a leg over a rung for security.



8. Use a board under both legs of a ladder on soft ground.

9. Don't get up on a ladder in a high wind, heavy rain or snow. If necessary in emergency, have an assistant there to hold the ladder.

10. Set a straight ladder or an extension ladder out from the house a distance equal to one fourth the ladder's height.

Self Brackets Hold Best When Properly Made

Sturdy wooden shelf brackets accommodating screws that will drive into wall studs can be made if you cut the top to leave a projection. The shelf is then notched to fit the projection. Practical Builder, trade journal, says this eliminates toenailing at the top of the bracket or the use of an overlong screw for driving at an angle.

Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Grass is just grass to a lot of people but for a good lawn it must be very much more than that. To stay green all summer, to resist drought, crowd out weeds, to stand traffic, to remain fine and velvety, we need not one variety of grass but several. That is why lawn seed comes in mixtures.

In these mixtures there will be some quick growing hardy varieties to make a showing early in the spring. Then there will be later growing sorts to fill in and provide color and fineness after the early varieties have died down and are resting. There is also a percentage of long living or permanent grasses that will take over and continue the color and texture for years. If only one variety of grass was sown then at some season of the year it would start to mature, set seed and lose its color.

For special purposes, there are different mixtures. If the location is very shady it is useless to sow grasses that must have plenty of sunshine. So we use mixtures especially adapted to growing in shade. For bowling and putting greens, for damp-locations or very high, it is also advisable to get mixtures of varieties especially suitable.

SUITABLE FOR CANADA

There may be some argument as to whether or not there is a distinct race of Canadians. But no one will deny that we have distinct climate. In fact, we have several climates. For that reason the flower and vegetable seeds we sow and the nursery stock we plant must be specially selected for Canada. Something that may give wonderful results in England or Virginia or the South Seas could be a terrible flop here. When one selects seed from a Canadian seed catalogue, one can be sure that that seed is suited to Canada, that, in most cases, it has been field tested under actual Canadian conditions.

PROTECTION AGAINST RAIDS

Canada, according to the official estimate, at the beginning of the year, has a total population of 16,344,000. But that does not include rabbits and coons and these too seem to be increasing, especially on the outskirts of our rapidly expanding cities or in the country.

For several years the writer fought a losing battle with these night raiders. They seemed to work in shifts, the rabbits cleaning out the peas and lettuce and sometimes even beans, beets and peppers, and the coons concentrating on the corn. Probably the battle is not over yet, coons especially not being easily outwitted, but last year at least, the person who planted the garden got the biggest share.

The secret was an electric fence. This can be quickly and temporarily set up around any patch of garden that needs protection. The power isn't on all the time, only during periods when there is danger of a raid. Anything that brushes against the wire gets a jolt that teaches respect.

If reasonable care is taken to prevent shorting the wires, a battery should last for several years.

PC Leader Accuses St. Laurent Of Interference With CBC But PM Denies Accusation

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has charged Prime Minister St. Laurent with "very serious interference with the CBC."

He made his charge in the Commons Thursday after Mr. St. Laurent disclosed that he protested to CBC Chairman A. D. Dunton a radio commentator's discussion of "the timidity of the Canadian nation and its fears of getting its little toes burned."

Mr. St. Laurent denied that his two letters to Mr. Dunton could be construed as government interference with the publicly-owned corporation's broadcasting policies. He had simply protested, as a private citizen, over the use of public funds for a broadcast of that nature.

DID NOT IDENTIFY

The prime minister did not identify the commentator at whom his criticism was directed. He said only that it was "a young gentleman from abroad who was presented as a Canadian university professor and who expressed very profound views upon international affairs in a private capacity."

It was learned later, however, that the commentator was Professor John Conway, a professor at the University of Manitoba.

Mr. St. Laurent said he wrote the letters as a private citizen, not in his capacity as prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker retorted: "This is a very serious interference with the CBC."

"I have not attempted to interfere in any manner suggested," Mr. St. Laurent said, referring to a parliamentary correspondent's charge that the prime minister has made "a decisive move in the direction of CBC public affairs programming."

COLUMNIST'S COMMENT

The charge was published last Monday in a column by Arthur Blakely, Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Gazette.

Professor Conway, it was learned, spoke on international affairs in a CBC news commentary last October, at the time of the Anglo-French armed intervention following Israel's invasion of Egypt.

Mr. St. Laurent said the commentator's remarks were "not a proper use of funds appropriated by Parliament to provide fees for broadcasts of that character."

Mr. Dunton had replied that the CBC tries to provide an opportunity for an expression of all views.

Mr. St. Laurent had written back that that aim might be all right if the professor had been introduced in such a way that would make his identity "appreciated."

DECLINES REQUESTS

Mr. St. Laurent declined requests by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) and Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) to make public the letters, on the ground such a step would set a precedent. Correspondence between the prime minister and heads of government agencies should not be tabled in the Commons, he said.

However, he offered to let the two opposition members have a look at the correspondence. Mr. Knowles said outside the House he would not accept the offer.

Pipe Line Bill On Assessment Runs into Storm

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario government bill which would establish a maximum assessment rates for municipalities on oil and gas pipelines has run into a storm of opposition while being studied by the legislature's committee on municipal law.

Thursday, representatives of more than 18 municipalities and members of the committee, including government supporters, protested the action. The matter was still under discussion after three hours of argument and another meeting will be held Monday.

Even a government amendment did not halt the opposition. Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender suggested the maximum apply only to pipelines larger than six inches in diameter, leaving municipalities free to assess smaller distribution lines at their own rate.

TORONTO STAND

Fred Gardiner, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto council, said municipalities should be allowed to subsidize pipelines. Municipalities should not be hamstrung by fixing maximum assessment which was a retrograde step.

Jack Millsberg, solicitor for Niagara Falls and Stamford Township, said the township stood to lose $250,000 in assessment as a result of the bill.

L. G. Comer, representing oil and gas companies, said the bill rallied four companies willing and not for a fixed assessment. Mr. Warrender said that, generally speaking, he would be set in grease in assessment if the bill were passed.

British Papers See Hope for Cyprus Accord

LONDON (Reuters)—Most British newspapers see the release from exile of Archbishop Makarios as a hopeful step in the Greek Orthodox churchman, leader of the movement to unite Cyprus with Greece, was banished to the Indian Ocean islands a year ago.

Makarios was released on condition he does not return to Cyprus. In a statement to the government, released Thursday, Makarios offered to call for a cessation of EOKA terrorist activities if Britain ended the present state of emergency.

Lennox-Boyd said talks on Cyprus' internal problems must await NATO action on the international status of the island.

The Times says the government move, coupled with Makarios' statement, "should open the way to fruitful talks between the British government and Cypriot representatives on the internal problems of the island" and the forms of a future constitution.

The Liberal Manchester Guardian says it still is not clear that the government wishes a settlement in Cyprus.

"The release of Archbishop Makarios is welcome, but it may not achieve much unless the government now will take the initiative to open negotiations with the Greek Cypriots, for whom the archbishop speaks," The Guardian says.

Mr. Green said he had not made up his mind.

Later Mr. Knowles filed two notices of motion requesting the government to table all letters written by Mr. St. Laurent and other cabinet ministers to the CBC since Jan. 1, 1956, about CBC programs.

MacDonald Says 3 PC Members Interested in Watermain Bill

TORONTO (CP)—CCF Leader MacDonald was charged in the legislature that three Progressive Conservative members of the legislature have a direct interest in a private bill which authorizes issuance of $400,000 to sub-dividers for installation of oversize watermains in suburban Scarborough.

Mr. MacDonald's motion to give the bill a six-month holist—in effect kill it—was declared out of order Thursday as the bill was being considered in committee of the whole House.

The committee met with stormy protests and shouts of "liar" from the government benches.

The CCF Leader said Hollis Beckett (PC—York East), Scarborough solicitor, first promoted the idea in the township that the municipality obtain a private bill to validate payment on the watermain construction which had not been authorized by the Ontario municipal board.

He said one of the companies which would receive payment if the bill was approved would be Keystone Realty Co. The company, he said, is owned by Harold Fishleigh (PC—Woodbine). Mr. MacDonald added that H. E. Sutton (PC —York Scarborough), sponsor of the bill, holds a $375,000 mortgage on Green Cedar Development Co. whose financial position would be affected by the bill.

He also said one of the recipient companies under the bill is owned by a parliamentary assistant in the House of Commons. Another company which would benefit, he said, is the R. H. McGregor Company. R. H. McGregor is the federal Progressive Conser ative member for York East.

The payments involved in the bill are for the construction of oversize watermains between 1953 and 1956. The mains were built without the Scarborough public utilities commission having authorization from the municipal board.

Mr. MacDonald read from the minutes of a Scarborough council meeting at which Mr. Beckett had advised the township that the only recourse in the matter was to the legislature. This meant that the sub-dividers had no legal claim since proper authorization had never been obtained from the municipal board he said.

Premier Frost said the legislature frequently validated mistakes in law made by municipalities.

Mr. MacDonald said sub-dividers had no moral claim to reimbursement when municipalities had made inadvertent mistakes which had been corrected by the legislature. But, he said: "This is different. It was a knowing and calculated breach of the regulation."

He also said "There is absolutely no doubt the cost of the mains was charged against the properties" and the sub-dividers now were going to collect twice.

G. F. Lavergne (PC — Russell) said "That's an absolute lie. You're standing there and lying."

Mr. Lavergne interjected later "get out of the gutter" when the CCF leader said another of the claimants was Pew Bros. Construction "which was involved in the so-called Scarborough probe in which a Cadillac was given to a certain municipal official."

Mr. MacDonald said that if the sub-dividers felt they had a moral or legal claim they could seek redress in the courts.

Political Fortunes May Decide Fate of Fowler Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Political fortunes may have something to do with what happens to the Fowler royal commission report on broadcasting.

Recommendations in the report for the future of Canadian radio and television, it appeared today, will not be implemented for some months.

Meantime, there will be a federal general election that could possibly bring in a new administration.

What a new administration would do is a question mark, as much of a puzzle as the thinking of the Liberal government now in power. And government spokesmen in the Commons Thursday left the matter an enigma.

Prime Minister St. Laurent called the report "very interesting." Revenue Minister McCann —through whom the CBC reports to Parliament—said: "I haven't read it but, from what I hear, it's very good."

The prime minister informed the House no legislation to implement the many recommendations of the commission, made public Thursday, will be brought in before the breakup of Parliament, expected within the next fortnight for a June election.

Mr. St. Laurent's non-committal approach gave no encouragement either to those looking for a shrotting of the CBC's powers or for those who want it left alone and perhaps expanded.

Under recommendations of the commission headed by R. M. Fowler of Montreal, there would be some reshuffling of authority. Whether the CBC or private stations got the better break in this appeared debateable.

The CBC board of governors—which now is the top body over the station operations of both the CBC and private stations—would be replaced by a Board of Broadcast Governors also both CBC and private operators in radio and TV.

However, the CBC would retain power in such matters as being able to direct private stations to carry its "national service" programs.

Quebec Liberal Describes Battle With U.S. Mag

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Liberal Romuald Bourque described to the Commons Thursday his battle with United States magazine over an article he claims could cause disunity in Canada.

The member for Outremont-St. Jean read a letter to Esquire magazine complaining about an article it carried in its January issue.

Mr. Bourque, mayor of Outremont, sought, in his correspondence, to have one of his letters published by Esquire as rebuttal to an article by Gerald Kersh entitled The Shooting of Alanna Boole, a satiric piece about an interview with French - speaking members of Montreal Canadiens hockey club.

In the letter Mr. Bourque said at one point:

"To say that the French-Canadian is without culture or good manners is to slander a people who are recognized by their English-speaking compatriots as the main contributors to the culture of Canada."

PROVINCIONALITY

Mr. Bourque said the magazine eventually agreed to publish his letter "with a few short restrictions p ermitting." Then Mr. Bourque wrote another letter including this statement:

"We favor the free exchange of ideas, but not the free exchange, which means proper representation for these sides, is denied by a publisher himself, then the line has come when the airability of general distribution of that publisher's magazine in this country may be seriously questioned."

In a later letter, he added on this point:

"A few publications are banned from entry to Canada either because they are politically subversive or because they are immoral and indecent in character.

"Publications which deliberately seek to create disunity in Canada could come within either of these classifications."

A reply from Esquire Inc., thanked Mr. Bourque for his interest in the magazine. Said the letter would be published in a future issue, time and space permitting.

Everything From Crystal, China To New Buildings Supplied By Unique Ottawa Agency

OTTAWA (CP) — A unique government agency here conducts a $2,000,000-a-year business supplying Canadian government missions abroad with everything from crystal and china to new buildings.

As head of the external affairs department's supplies and properties division, Malcolm Grant supervises Canada's $10,000,000 investment in buildings and furnishings — the department's 57 missions located in 45 countries.

Aided by a staff of architects, interior decorators and technical personnel experienced in mechanical and electrical equipment, the 44-year-old administrative officer coordinates the maintenance and upkeep of 120 properties owned or rented by the department the world over.

EXPERT BUYERS

Experienced personnel of the division buy furniture and furnishings, including rugs, curtains, silverware, crystal, china and bed and table linen. The automotive and electrical section of the division is responsible for the purchase of motor v ehicles, refrigerators, air conditioners and laundry equipment.

Other trained buyers see that chanceries or offices abroad are supplied with suites of office furniture and typewriters and other business equipment.

The division has 126 cars overseas, one for each head of post and the others for office use.

A stores depot in Ottawa stocks about 1,500 items of stationery and supplies for the day-to-day requests for office material.

The departmental architects— one in Ottawa and the other in Paris—advise on the purchase of properties, alterations to buildings, and prepare plans for construction projects. The division's interior decorators develop furnishing schemes for the interiors of embassies and chanceries with emphasis on Canadian furniture and fabrics.

CANADIAN TOUCH

The Canadian motif is also maintained in embassies abroad by supplying them with Eskimo carvings and paintings by Canadian artists. Some $15,000) has been set aside for paintings this year. Paintings for official residences are selected by a committee of experts headed by the director of the National Gallery.

Canada now owns 10 chanceries, the official residences of 10 staff quarters abroad. The remainder of the Canadian-operated properties are rented.

"In the interests of efficiency and long-term economy the department is planning to purchase or build further chanceries and official residences," Mr. Grant said, "particularly in areas where there is a shortage of accommodation and where rentals are exorbitant."

A new $285,000 chancery was recently completed in The Hague and now is being furnished by the division. A new $385,000 chancery is under construction on Avenue Montaigne in Paris and will house the staffs of several Canadian government departments now scattered throughout the French capital.

Other current projects include the recently - purchased official residence in Dublin and the construction of an official residence in Brussels, to cost about $250,000. Sketch plans have also been completed for a new chancery building at Canberra, Australia, on which work will be started this year.

Jockey Pearson's Money All Gone

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Billy Pearson, who won $96,000 on two TV quiz programs last year by answering questions on art, says the money is gone.

Arriving here Thursday to ride at Bay Meadows, Pearson said he won't break but expects a good income from a book and a television series. But the quiz money has all gone before I knew it."

Taxes took about half the winnings, Billy said. He wrote one cheque to the La Jolla Art Museum for $10,000 and another to Scripps College in Claremont, Calif., for $7,000.

Horse track friends hit him for some of the money and more went for several weeks in New York after appearances on the programs, Las Vegas gaming tables took some more.

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings were a team called "desire" Thursday night as they evened their Stanley Cup semi-final series with Boston Bruins.

Coach Jimmy Skinner, beaming over his team's 7-2 win, said it was hustle and desire that was the big difference between Thursday night's performance and the Wings' poor showing Tuesday night.

"If they have the desire," Skinner said, "they'll go all the way. They're playing for themselves."

Although he didn't score any of the seven Detroit goals, Skinner singled out Marty Pavelich as playing a large part in the Wings victory.

"Marty's got the desire," Skinner said. "It was out there 'checking all the time."

Skinner was referring especially to Pavelich's stiff body-check of Bruin defenceman Fern Flaman. Pavelich knocked Flaman flying into the Detroit net early in the first period and Bruins were a demoralized team thereafter.

Bruin coach Milt Schmidt said he thinks his team has a fine chance to capture the series.

"Nobody quits on my team," Schmidt said. "Anybody who quits won't be playing anymore.

"Right now our chances are just as good as Detroit's. The Wings beat us 7-0 before in the first game of a playoff series and we went on to win it."

NEW YORK (CP)—Phil Watson, volcanic coach of New York Rangers, is a hard man to please.

After his team chalked up an overtime win Thursday night over Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, his first comment was:

"We should have won it in the first period.

"This puts us back in the series. But it's going to be a heck of a battle yet."

Andy Hebenton, the brush-cut lightwinger who scored the winning goal at 13:38 of the overtime, was the centre of attention in the jubilant Ranger dressing room after five seasons with Victoria in best-of-seven semi-final series 1-1.

"I thought I was going to be the goat of the game after I got that penalty and (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored the tying goal. I sure felt I redeemed myself when I saw that puck go into the net over (Jacques) Plante's shoulder."

In his second year with Rangers after the game, which tied the Western Hockey League, he scored 21 goals and 23 assists during the regular season.

Canadiens dressed quietly as they prepared to return to Montreal for the remainder of the series.

Coach Toe Blake shoved his hands into his pockets and said it was a tough one to lose.

"Those Rangers certainly were a different team tonight," he said. Montreal won the game Tuesday 4-1.

"Those overtime periods are tough figure," Blake added. "It could be anybody's game."

Reds' Protest Is Tossed Out

NEW YORK (AP)—President John Chick of the American Hockey League has rejected a protest by Providence Reds that Rochester used an ineligible player in the playoff game between the two teams Tuesday night. Rochester won the opener of the best-of-seven semi-final series 1-0.

Chick said Thursday: "After investigation, it has been determined that defenceman Noel Price is eligible to play with Rochester under emergency conditions. Therefore protest by Providence is denied."

According to le gue rules, if a team falls below the strength of five defencemen and 11 forwards, it is allowed a replacement from a lower league.

Price was brought up recently from Winnipeg of the Western Hockey League, which is a lower class than the AHL, to replace injured Benny Woit under the emergency rule. Both Price and Woit participated in Tuesday's game, however, resulting in the protest.

Sault Gunners Seek Hoop Title

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Sault Gunners, Ontario senior basketball champions, were scheduled to leave for Montreal today in quest of the Eastern Canadian championship they won two years ago.

Gunners open their hunt for the title Sunday, playing Montreal YMHA Snowdon Blues in the first game of a best-of-three series.

Coach Clint Robertson said his team is fit and eager and all players will be making the trip.

The team will be banking heavily on its height as centre Dave Creery is six-foot-seven; forward Al Carracaden is six-foot-five and centre Jerry Kahle and forward Bob Edwards are both six-foot-four.

The Gunners defeated Toronto Andy's last week to win the provincial championship.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Ted Williams, 38-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger, is as quick on the verbal draw as he is at bat.

A sports broadcaster, interviewing Ted, asked Williams:

"Do you plan on quitting while still at the top like Joe DiMaggio?"

When DiMag quit, he hit .263," Williams fired back. "I don't ever expect to hit that low."

BRAN MUFFINS

Folks! Here are muffins to really butter up to. The old-fashioned kind, with wonderful All-Bran flavor. Make 'em tonight!

1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
¾ cup milk
1 egg
¼ cup soft shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

• Combine All-Bran and milk. Let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening; beat well.

• Sift together: flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add to the first mixture, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pan ⅔ full.

• Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 9 muffins.

Annual Awards Announced by Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association yesterday announced the names of nine boys to be awarded trophies for league play during the 1956-57 season.

Trophies are given annually to the most improved player and the most sportsmanlike player in each of the squirt, peewee, bantam and midget divisions. The best goalie in the midget section also receives a trophy.

The "Most Improved Player Awards" this season are as follows: Squirt, the Bellevills Minor Hockey Association Trophy, to Larry Stewart of the Maple Leafs; Peewee, the Radio Station CJBQ Trophy, to John Onderdonk of the Barons; Bantam, the Pat Boland Memorial Trophy to Ted Hook of the Whalers; Midget, the Daw Whalen Memorial Trophy to Barry Tillerson of Team Two.

The "Most Sportsmanlike Awards" go to the following: — Squirt, the Jim Ward Trophy to Dave Hurst of the Canadiens; Peewee, the H. G. Jones Trophy to Peter Carver of the Canadiens; Bantam, the H. G. Jones Trophy to Robert Jeffery of the Barons; Midget, the H. G. Jones Trophy to Pat Asselstine of Team Five.

The Hugh Hurst Memorial Trophy, donated in memory of one of the most promising young hockey players in the district, this season goes to Larry Soden as the best goalie of the midget district. Soden is a member of Team Two.

The championship teams and their trophies are: Squirt, Red Wings, the Goodman's Store for Men Trophy; Peewee, Canadiens, the Canadian Legion Trophy; Bantam, Red Wings, the Chicago Black Hawk Trophy; Midget, Team Five, the "Allan Cup".

All trophies will be presented at the annual Belleville Minor Hockey Association presentation banquet.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The fast that Gordie Howe (bless his little pea-pickin' heart) won the National Hockey League scoring championship, and will take home more bushels and bags of prize boodle than you can shake a stick at, has added fuel to the controversial flame of "Howe's the Better. The Rocket or Howe."

The couriers-de-hockey down Montreal way die hard. The Habs fans are as faithful to their Rocket as a burr to a blanket and no danged upstart from Upper Canada is going to take the laurels from the benevolent, kept.

So in rebuttle to the loud raucous cries of exultation from the banks of the Detroit river, and all and sundry fans who root for other NHL clubs, the Habitants offer the Rocket's record. "Tis dat, and be damned" in the wintriest.

Meanwhile Gordie counts his goals and his gold, and casts a wary eye on the shekels that lie in the Stanley Cup acquisition. Sunday is his 29th birthday and the big modest flower from Floral, Saskatchewan would like a bauble, gift that strangely resembles the Stanley jewelerama and the bucks that go with it. It would be such a nice climax to eleven years in the National Hockey League, and with his beloved Red Wings.

Over that period Gordie has harvested 333 goals and 396 assists for a total of 749 points. These are constants of playoffs and 38 games or 28.9 per season. The Rocket in 15 years of National League warfare has fired home 493 goals and 359 assists for an average of 56.80 per season. Richard's total of 852 points for 15 seasons is 32.86 and Howe's 22.9. Gordie's over-all production reads 388 and 438 assists for 826 points including 33 goals and 42 assists in playoffs.

The darling of the Canadiens and all-time king of the sharpshooters has 555 goals and 393 assists for 948 points including Stanley Cup tilts. The Rocket missed the 1943-43 series through injuries and sat on the bench in 1954-55 after the memorable Campbell run-in. He picked up 66 goals and 34 assists in his eleven playoff starts.

Meanwhile Gordie will back up a truck to Olympia in Detroit to pick up his baubles and money-bags for the season. He'll probably need an over-size shoehorn to get the silverware into the missus's living room.

The other night in Olympia he strode off the platform with three big chunks of silverware out of the seven that were tied. For the fourth time in six seasons he was named the most valuable player to his team by press and radio. He was awarded another trophy as the team's leading scorer in the eight years he's been with the club, and picked up another for being the Wings' high pointe man for the seventh time in eight seasons. Another season like that and the Whitby Dunlops will be after him.

And there are more to come. Gordie will pick up the Art Ross Trophy and accompanying boodle as the National Hockey League scoring champion for the fifth time in eleven years and the award for being selected the NHL all-star right-winger for his fifth term.

And in case you want to argue over the matter, the Rocket was selected over Howe at right wing last winter and in 1954-55 with Howe being the choice the four previous seasons, and Richard second place. Maurice was first and Howe second in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

And they're hoisting schupers on Woodward Avenue to another brilliant Red Wing. Ted "The Terrible" Lindsay finished second to line-mate Howe and set a points record for left wingers. That should give Larry Regan and his wonderful crew an opportunity to case through the glass bottoms of their silver tankards. There'll be plenty to talk about on the lush lawns of the Regent's Rosamond estate this summer. And even Mike A. Phillips with get into the conversations, when he is not cooking that palate-tickling "macarona."

Claim Ralph Dupas Is Negro May Touch off Big Explosion

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lightweight boxing contender Ralph Dupas, faced with possible cancellation of a lucrative fight here following charges that he is a Negro, declared today "I'm white and don't know why I have to prove it."

The Louisiana legislature pressed a law last year banning athletic events between Negroes and whites. Vince Martinez, Dupas' scheduled opponent in the April 8 10-rounder, is white.

The Louisiana state athletic commission held a three-hour executive session Thursday night to consider statements by a number of persons that Dupas, 21-year-old strife-marked challenger from New Orleans, was born of Negro parents.

The commission heard several witnesses behind closed doors before agreeing to continue the hearing until next Tuesday because Sam Monk Seldon, manager for Dupas, contended he hadn't had enough time to prepare his case.

Promoter Sidney Hatch has predicted a $50,000 gate for the April 8 fight and Dupas would lose his biggest payday to date if the fight were called off.

Dupas said he couldn't understand "why anybody would want to do this to me." Whitley Exnesuit who has guided Dupas since his amateur days, said: "The whole thing is prompted by jealousy. That's all it could be, damnable jealousy."

Dupas confronted one of his accusers as members of the dark crowd, newspaper men and witnesses waited outside the executive chamber.

Mrs. Lucretia Gravolet, elderly schoolteacher from Plaquemines Parish, La., where the said Dupas was born of Negro parents, shouted at the young fighter:

"You are a Negro. I know you are a Negro. Now put me in jail if you don't like it."

Dupas bristled at her barbs, but reporters hustled him into an adjoining room.

The reasons the charges were made were vague, but one related were vague, but one knew." She confronted Mrs. Gravolet and shaking her finger in the accuser's face, shouted:

"You're nothing but a sadistic monster."

Dupas said he was born in New Orleans Feb. 14, 1936. As opposed to hostile witnesses' contention he was born at Pointe a la Hache on Oct. 14 the same year, Dupas said he was baptized in the Roman Catholic church of St. Peter and Paul here.

Ragas failed to obtain a court order earlier Thursday which would have prevented the committee from holding its meeting. But Civil District Judge Alexander Rainold said he would direct the commission to show cause Monday why it should not be barred from preventing the Dupas-Martinez bout.

Zelden and Bentley Burns, counsel for Ragas, both contended the commission was outside its jurisdiction in conducting such a meeting.

"This whole thing's a farce," said Zelden. "And I'll tell you one thing. If this commission says Ralph Dupas is a Negro and I know I can prove different—there's going to be more damn libel suits than you ever heard of."

Fashion Powerful Offensive In Penalty-Riddled Battle; Hobo to Hero Was Handy Andy

DETROIT (AP)—With a startling style change that surprised even their own bosses, Detroit Red Wings have squared their Stanley Cup hockey series with Boston at games a piece.

Flashing a powerful, many-sided scoring attack and looking nothing like the least-penalized National Hockey League club, Red Wings barreled through Bruins Thursday night for a 7-2 win before 14,564 spectators.

The best-of-seven playoffs now move to Boston for games Sunday and Tuesday and will return to Detroit Thursday.

The two clubs set a record for penalties. Referee Frank Udvari called 23 of them, 12 against the Bruins, who led the league in penalties, and 10 against the Wings.

Seven players scored goals in the slashing attack that finally bewildered Boston's rookie goalie, Don Simmons, who had performed who twice shut out the league champs during the regular season and limited them to one goal in Tuesday's opener, had just about everything go for him.

PAYFELICH THE KEY

Although Red Kelly, Gordie Howe, Marcel Pronovost, Vic Stasiuk, Bill Dineen, Lorne Ferguson and Norm Ullman took part in the scoring splurge, Skinner saved most of the praise for one of the "old pros" who failed to score.

Skinner said the fierce checking by Marty Pavelich, a 34-year veteran on the Detroit club, was the key to the win.

The first Detroit goal in the first period was a 40-foot screened shot by Kelly that Simmons was able to deflect—but right into the nets. Next came Howe's 15-footer that whizzed by Simmons a split second after Wings won a faceoff in the Bruin zone.

Prystal ran it to 3-0 when his club was shorthanded because of a penalty. He stole the puck and slipped in the net behind Sloan that the Bruin goalie apparently never saw. After Detroit built up a 6-1 lead in the third period, Ullman got the easiest goal of the night.

Stealing the puck behind the Boston nets, Ullman turned around and slipped it into the left corner of the nets while Simmons was turned, the victim of Doug Mohns to carry around the other side.

The Bruins didn't score until Wings were relaxing with a 6-0 lead in the third period. Fleming Mackell and Leo Boivin finally scored against Glenn Hall, who made 38 saves and turned in what his coach described as "one of his best games of the year" despite an injury in the first period.

Hall was struck on the upper lip by a hard shot off the stick of Vic Stasiuk. The club physician took 18 stitches to close the cut before Hall could return to the ice.

There were several less serious cuts, and many assorted bumps and bruises. But none of the injuries was expected to keep anyone out of the Sunday contest in Boston Garden.

Manchester U Meets the Villa In Cup Final

LONDON (Reuters) — Aston Villa won the right to meet the tough Manchester United team May 4 in English soccer's world series — the Football Association Cup.

The Villa team won a semi-final match 1-0 Thursday against West Bromwich Albion, after drawing last Saturday.

It will be Villa's ninth appearance in the Cup final, and result of an elimination series which began with amateur and minor league teams entered against the greats of Britain's national sport. Though this will be its first appearance in 33 years, Aston Villa has a lengthy history of Cup victories and shares with two other teams — Blackburn Rovers and Tottenham Hotspur — the record of six Cup victories.

Villa players will be gunning May 4 to score the first team ever to win the coveted trophy seven times. But they will have to produce better form to match Manchester United, which leads the English Soccer League race and is hot on the heels of a third trophy, the European Cup.

Thursday's lone goal came while West Bromwich center Ronnie Allen was off the field with an injury. Villa centre forward Bill Myerscough swooped to catch a pass and hit it home with his head.

In division III south league play Thursday, Shrewsbury Town drew 1-1 with Ipswich Town. The match was postponed from Jan. 5.

'Birdie' Wants a Quick Break, Pushes Pitchers Over Route

By The Associated Press

Birdie Tebbetts, named the National League's manager of the year in 1956 for keeping his Cincinnati Redlegs to third place, is pushing his pitchers over that way other manager in an attempt to break away fast this season.

The red - a Redleg pitcher the full nine innings Thursday for the second time in the opening of exhibition season started earlier this month.

Left hander Joe Nuxhall, eased past Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 at Clearwater, Fla., Nuxhall, a "jet" in Redlegs' plans since he was 15 allowed four hits. Johnny Klippstein pitched a complete game last Friday as Redlegs edged Detroit 5-4.

In other games, Boston Red Sox trounced Chicago Cubs 13-2; the Milwaukee Braves scored two in the 10th to beat Yankees 6-4; Baltimore Orioles edged New York Giants 5-4; St. Louis Cardinals battered Chicago White Sox 7-4; Kansas City Athletics defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3; and Brooklyn Dodgers beat Washington Senators 8-3.

Frank Sullivan hurled seven innings—the longest effort of any Red Sox pitcher—and scattered five hits to earn the victory over Cubs. Gene Stephens homered for the Red Sox.

Red Murff, 35-year-old Milwaukee reliefer, doubled home two runs in the ninth against Yankees to win his own game. Tom Sturdivant gave Yankees something to talk about by shutting out Braves scoreless on six hits in the first seven innings. The righthander has not allowed a run in his last 21 innings.

Bob Nieman hit a two-run homer in the ninth to supply the Orioles with the winning margin against the Giants. Nieman's hit erased a Giant lead built on back-to-back homers by Willie Mays and Hank Sauer in the previous inning.

Cardinals hopped on Billy Pierce in a 20-game winner last year for the White Sox. They scored six runs in the first three innings against him to gain a lead they never lost. Al Dark cracked a three-run homer for St. Louis.

Carl Furillo, Don Zimmer and Duke Snyder provided the home runs as Dodgers handled Senators roughly. Roy Sievers and Ed Yost hit Senator home runs.

Maple Leaf Hockey Story Has Slight Soap-Opera Tinge

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Has anyone detected a soap-opera tinge to the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey story?

Usually a team finishing with the piss-poor steals away into the night like Chicago Black Hawks) but not those off-the-ice bombshells in the National Hockey League Leafs. They pour on the drama and suspense of the day-time radio and television serials that have been keeping housewives on pins and needles many years.

Sports fans in Toronto haven't had as much fun and games, nor have they been so perplexed, since Harry Sonshine's ill-fated venture into the ranks of professional football operators with Toronto Argonauts a couple of years ago. Argonauts got ahold of Frankie Clark, failed to make the Big Four playoffs and Sonshine got the gate.

Things around town were fairly tame until the NHL 1956-57 standings made it clear to everyone that Leafs were not going to miss this year's Stanley Cup playoffs. Then the last serial started.

The first installment came from President and Managing Director Conn Smythe who took time from his Florida vacation to announce he would call a press conference in New York for Toronto sports writers on Sunday, March 17. An important announcement was expected.

But wait. Smythe said no, he wouldn't have much to announce, if anything. It would be just a little pick 'n' Dirt get-together."

Two days later, on March 17, Smythe termed the season a "year of failure" for his Leafs, accepted the blame himself and said that even his job as president of Maple Leaf Gardens "was up for grabs as any other." At no time did he say he was not satisfied with Coach Howie Meeker or General Manager Hap Day.

But was a general shakeup of the club expected? Were Meeker and Day on the way out? Would Smythe's son, Stafford, take over as general manager? Would Turk Broda succeed Meeker as coach? Those were the teasers thrown out for the next instalment by Toronto newspapers.

"Where do those guys get those ideas?" Smythe followed up on his return to Toronto. "I stressed for the last week that nobody would lose their heads." No, sir, there will be no head-chopping.

But stick around. The next day the story took a new twist. Sid Smith announced his retirement. Two days later he signed for the 1957-58 season.

Smythe took up the story from there. He would recommend to his board of directors that Coach Meeker be kept on, was the report. That isn't so, the Leaf boss said later.

Last Saturday night Smythe told a packed house and television and hockey audience that he would resign as president and board of directors that Meeker and Assistant General Manager King Clancy be relieved of their duties. Who's on first?

How about Hap Day? Hap would let Smythe know on Monday if he was available. The script departed from there. It ended somewhere Jim Thomson called a coffee - shop press conference to announce Monday that he would refuse any offer of a contract with the Leafs next season because his loyalty to the team had been questioned.

Day followed up with a two-minute conference with Smythe to announce he was not "available" next year. Cleared his desk and departed.

Will Thomson reconsider his decision? Where will Hap Day go? Who knows.

Will the board of directors find Smythe's job "vulnerable?" Not on your life.

Tic-Tac Men, Phone Owner In Hassle Over Use of 'Blowers'

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With Britain's greatest jumping race in the offing, bookmakers and track operators have their telephone lines snarled in a dispute involving high finance and light comedy.

Among the protagonists are that picturesque turf figure, the Tic-Tac man, and a fetching young woman named Mirabel Topham, whose Fyfield Grand National Steeplechase will be run.

At issue is Mrs. Topham's demand for £500 a day from "blower" agencies using race-course telephones. In Cockney slang, "blower" means telephone.

The blower network links the bookmakers — legal in Britain — with the 67 recognized racetracks. The service is indispensable.

The intermediary between the outside bookie and the odds-layer at the track is the Tic-Tac Man, who relays information from one point to another with rapid, cryptic movements of white-gloved hands.

Mrs. Topham is asking £500 for telephone facilities in an effort to pry some money out of the off-course bookies, who make no financial contribution to racing. Most racecourse executives say they are going to back her up.

So far there is no sign that Mrs. Topham's demand will be met. To beat the Tic-Tac men are installing telephones in the back grandstand of houses adjoining the Liverpool course.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkinson, a housewife who said she is having a telephone installed in the garden as a service to two Tic-Tac men, said: "A man standing in my garden with a pair of binoculars could easily read Tic-Tac signals from someone on top of the grandstand."

Mrs. Topham replies: "If anyone is seen signalling information from the grandstand they will be ejected immediately."

But the Tic-Tac men aren't greatly worried. "We'll have men spotted all over the course," said a spokesman. "Let 'em catch us if they can."

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—put away rest. It's still good advice. But times days you can live fully with more interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backaches and that "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Doan's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Doan's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Doan's. 24

100,000 Will See The Boat Race

LONDON (CP) — More than 100,000 Londoners will flock to the River Thames Saturday for the annual event in the calendar of London spectacles and of British traditional sport, the Boat Race between Oxford and Cambridge.

Interest will centre on a clash in rowing styles.

Oxford, understandably, performed brilliantly only six of the last 51 races, has abandoned the long-striking rowing style usually associated with English crews for the chopper but powerful technique used in Canada and the United States. Cambridge is sticking by the traditional style.

Oxford's decision to go over to the American style has caused a minor furore in English rowing circles.

'Ole Case' Fumes Over Talk Yankees Cinch for 1957 Flag

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If you mention the word "runaway" to Casey Stengel you'd better be prepared to do just that. The manager of the New York Yankees seethes with indignation whenever he is asked how soon he expects to wrap up the American League pennant.

"I'm sick and tired of listening to all this silly talk about the Yankees having a cinch this year," Casey fumed. "It's bad for me, it's bad for my men and it's bad for everybody in baseball. From the way you fellows talk, the only thing left for me to do is go away on a vacation, let the players enjoy themselves this summer and get them in time for the world series.

"All I can say about that is nuts. You think the Cleveland club with Herb Score and all those great pitchers, and Rocky Colavito, Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn and all those hitters, and hitting fools, and Chicago under the fine leadership of Al Lopez, are going to pack their bags and quit? Not on your life.

DON'T LET DOWN

"If my pitchers have any idea they're going to hand them 20 victories apiece, or if my hitters think they're all going to be guaranteed .300 seasons, they'd better forget it. I'll let any of my guys let down for one minute and I'll ship him so far he'll need a visa to get back to this country."

His warning against possible complacency found Lassie Stengel changed character, as is his wont, and settled all doubt, if reasons why his athletes should repeat as American League champions.

"This team of mine is better equipped to win the pennant than we've been in years," he said. "I'm not saying it's the best team I ever managed but it could be. My pitchers have more of age in the world series last fall. And it looks like we picked up a good one from Kansas City (Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz).

"I got the best catcher, short stop and centre fielder in baseball. I've got all of first base, second base and right field. They tell me I'm not so well off at third base and in left field but don't you believe it. I've got five guys who can play in that field de a good job. And I've got four different infields. I have men who can play all positions. In fact, I'm training them to play all nine positions."

Since he began managing Yankees the professor has made numerous changes with baseball reasons. Among other things, he made a center fielder out of shortstop Mickey Mantle, a shortstop out of second baseman Gil McDougald and a first baseman out of outfielder Bill Skowron. His current experiment is making a left fielder out of shortstop Tony Kubek.

Even Mantle's recent injury, a sprained left ankle, failed to dampen Stengel's spirits.

"Everybody's worried but me," Casey said. "He'll be all right when the gong rings, you can bet on that. So will the other guys. They'd better be because we've got some real fine young players just itching to get in the lineup.

Logart Fights Turner Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruby Isaac (Kid) Logart of Cuba risks his chances for a welterweight title fight tonight by taking on ever dangerous Gil Turner of Philadelphia again in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The 25-year-old import racked up a unanimous but close decision over the aggressive Turner in a bristling battle in the Garden 17 months ago and is a 5-1 choice to repeat. Odds don't mean a thing in the ring, especially to Gil who protested the decision after the winner the last time.

Logart is ranked second to former champion Tony DeMarco in the contenders' list and his manager, Eddie Mahn, has offered $50,000 to welterweight champion Carmen Basilio for a champion-ship contest. Since DeMarco already has had two title fights with Basilio, the International Boxing Club is inclined to look for a fresh face.

Even Mantle's recent injury, a sprained left ankle, failed to dampen Stengel's spirits.

"Everybody's worried but me," Casey said. "He'll be all right when the gong rings, you can bet on that. So will the other guys. They'd better be because we've got some real fine young players just itching to get in the lineup.

Do you realise how many good young fellows we have? Kubek, Richardson, Throneberry, Skowron, Lumpe, Terry, Cicotte, Urban, Johnson, Bell . . . they're all between 20 and 25."

Right now the team shapes up this way: Bill Skowron and Joe Collins at first, Bill Martin and Bob Richardson at second, Jerry Dougald and Jerry Coleman at short and Andy Carey at third. The outfield probably will be Mantle, Hank Bauer, Kubek and Slaughter with Elston Howard alternating between the outer garden and behind the plate. The Italian pitching staff figures to consist of Whitey Ford, Johnny Kucks Bob Richardson at second, Jerry Dougald and Jerry Coleman at short and Andy Carey at third. The outfield probably will be Mantle, Hank Bauer, Kubek and Slaughter with Elston Howard alternating between the outer garden and behind the plate. The Italian pitching staff figures to consist of Whitey Ford, Johnny Kucks Bob Larsen, Bob Turley, Tom Sturdivant, Tommy Byrne, Bob Grim, Ditmar, Shantz, Ralph Terry and Al Cicotte.

Rochester Wins Second in Row;

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Bob Perreault, who played part time last season with Providence Reds six years ago, was the hero of Rochester's last old club in the American Hockey League playoffs.

The 24-year - old netminder from Trois-Rivieres, Que., made 31 saves and blanked Providence shutout Thursday night as Rochester Americans defeated the Reds 2-0 to take a big lead in the semi-finals.

Americans, who finished third during the regular season, lead the best-of-seven series 3-0 and can win the team now moving to Rochester after two games in Providence, the Americans are strong bets to turn back the Reds' bid for their second straight Calder Cup.

At Cleveland, Barons tied their series with Hershey Bears at a game apiece with a 4-3 victory.

It wasn't until the third period that the Americans were able to score, Eddie Maur getting the first one on a pass from Bronco Horvath and Gary Aldcorn firing a 12-footer while Rochester was shorthanded at 9:49.

Cleveland, shut out in the first game with Hershey, scored twice in a first-period lead on goals by Horvath and Jerry Toppazzini on Glover. After a scoreless second period, Dune Fisher put Bears within striking distance early in the first of his two goals. Steve Richichi made it 3-1 for Barons, Fisher got his second and then Cal Stearns sewed it up after Horvath made it 4-2.

Toppazzini, last minute, when Sweney scored into an empty net.

Also featured in the last period was a brawl involving all players on the ice. Bob Hull and Gino Robazza of Teepees, and Bobby and Sweney of Guelph all got major penalties.

Win Hoop Title

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto YMHA Whites, probably the most powerful young team ever assembled in this country, are 1957 Canadian junior basketball champions.

The Whites won the title Thursday night as they rolled over Victoria Vikings 85-60 to sweep their best-of-five series in three consecutive games.

The Toronto team won the first two games 76-61 and 78-66 and the nine playoff games scored 826 points to the opposition's 570.

Age and experience were the big factors working for Whites as they ended a highly successful season with a record of 34 wins against five defeats.

Sweeney Scores Three Goals In Biltmores Win Over Teeps

GUELPH (CP) — Centre Bill Sweeney of the Guelph Biltmores was the hero of last season with Providence Reds six years ago, when he scored two goals in old club in the American Hockey League playoffs.

Royals Lose Two in Row To Chicoutimi

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicoutimi Saguenees scored in every period Saturday night to defeat Montreal Royals 3-1 and take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Quebec Junior semi-final.

Jacques Locas scored for the Saguenees on a power play at 3:51 of the first period on a pass from Germain Leger and Gilaude and the Royals couldn't caught up.

Fern Perreault stretched the lead to 2-0 early in the first period. Del Topoll sewed it up in the third.

Montreal's only goal came at 34 seconds left in the game when Laplante scoring while Jacques Pichette of the Saguenees was in the penalty box.

AT THE BELLE — Burt Lancaster teaches lonely ranch girl Katharine Hepburn she can be as beautiful as she is willing to be in Hal Wallis' "The Rainmaker", one of those rare pictures about which everything seems just right — a pleasure on all counts. "The Rainmaker" in Technicolor and VistaVision is now playing at the Belle.

AT THE PARK — African frontier adventure at the Park Theatre Today and Saturday. Columbia Pictures' "Odongo" stars Rhonda Fleming and Macdonald Carey, right, in CinemaScope and color by Technicolor. Juma, left, is featured. On the same program in CinemaScope and Technicolor "Indian Fighter", starring Kirk Douglas. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

Training Camp Notes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — George Sisler, baseball's Hall of Fame first baseman, was back in his office Thursday at Forbes Field after more than a month in a hospital. Sisler, recently named a special field assistant to manager Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh Pirates, underwent an emergency abdominal operation Feb. 16.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Ralph Branca's comeback effort with Brooklyn ended suddenly Thursday.

Offered an opportunity to pitch for Los Angeles, the 31-year-old righthander decided to return to his White Plains, N.Y., home and "try the life insurance business."

Branca was notified the Dodgers couldn't use him only a few hours after manager Walter Alston had slated him for a "last chance" Saturday against Cincinnati Redlegs.

WEST PALM BEACH Fla. (AP) — Kansas City pitchers have been informed by manager Lou Boudreau that they are throwing for keeps now.

"We have too many good pitchers in camp this year to be fooling around with the guys who don't want to work," the A's skipper said.

Last year Boudreau was pressed to find enough pitchers of average ability to fill out his staff.

Josh Logan Will Devote Year To Filming Michener Stories

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the James Michener year for Josh Logan.

The director will devote nearly all of 1957 to filming two Michener subjects — Sayonara and South Pacific.

A big, bustling bear of a man, Logan has temporarily abandoned the creation of stage hits Mister Roberts, Fanny, Middle of the Night for movie hits (Picnic and Bus Stop). He'll get back to the theatre in 1958, after he has filmed two of his pet projects.

Sayonara is the result of his long affection for Japan. His father had been to Japan before Josh was born and filled the house with Japanese mementoes. Logan never got to Japan until a world tour he took after directing South Pacific in London. There he met Author Michener, to whom he suggested a love story between an American soldier and a girl of the Japanese theatre.

"The result was Sayonara, but when he put the book up for sale, they forgot to send me a copy," Logan said.

Michener selected Logan's late offer over those of three major film studios, causing the latter to sue. Somehow the legal arrangements were worked out, and the picture now is being filmed here after locations in Japan.

MAJOR STORY CHANGE

Logan has made a major change in the story — the war ace (Marlon Brando) marries the actress (Miiko Taka) instead of leaving her behind.

I asked the director about a report that the Japanese had been unhappy that a Mexican-American, Ricardo Montalban, was playing the role of a Kabuki dancer. Not true, said Logan. One Japanese actor had publicly denounced the casting.

Most otherwise they seem very happy about it," Logan said. "They seem delighted that a Japanese man is being portrayed as a romantic character. Their women have often been romanced in American pictures, but the men have rarely been shown as villians or comedians."

Jerry Magee Tied for Top In Azalea Open

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Amateur Jerry Magee of Toronto shot a par 72 Thursday in the opening round of the Azalea open golf tournament to tie for the amateur lead.

The day's best round, however, went to professional Dow Finsterwald, playing out of Jupiter, Fla., with a six-under-par 66 for a three-stroke lead.

In second place were Dutch Harrison, veteran pro from St. Louis, and Mike Souchak from Greasinger, N.Y., each with 69.

R. C. Powell of Wilmington tied Magee's 35-37 round.

Other Canadian scores:

Gerry Kesserling, Kitchener, 38-35—75; Al Balding, Toronto, 37-38—75; Bill Kerr, Montreal, 36-38—74; William Rock, St. Catharines 39-36—75; Pat Fletcher, Dorval, Que., 37-38—75; Olin Balle, Calgary, 39-37—76; Murray Tucker, Toronto, 41-36—77; amateur Ronald Capra, Hamilton, 43-36—77.

May Organize New Pro League

BALTIMORE (AP)—A meeting will be held in a Baltimore hotel April 8 in an effort to organize a new professional football league.

Millard T. Lang, who proposed the United States Football League, Inc., said enough representatives would be present to ensure league operations in 1958.

But Lang declined to say who would be present or how many cities would be represented.

While he said the U.S. League wouldn't try to compete with the NFL, Lang's plan included teams in the territory of four National League teams.

The plan called for a northern division composed of New York, Baltimore, Buffalo, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Boston, Cincinnati and Detroit, and a southern division of Miami, New Orleans, Atlanta, Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Houston and Dallas.

"Y" Swimming

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. junior girls swimming championships were held Thursday afternoon with fourteen girls participating.

Events in backstroke, crawl, style swimming, floats and diving were competed in by the girls and points were awarded for first second and third place. Susan Skelly placed first in three of the swimming events and third in diving, collecting 16 points, outscoring all other swimmers. Six members of the Girls Hi-Y were timers and judges while Miss Heather Hall started the races.

RESULTS

Susan Skelly, 16 points; P. Cavers, 7 points; E. Linscott, 6 points; T. Bylsma, 5 points; S. MacKenzie, 3 points; H. Walsh, 3 points (Tie); C. Slavin, 2 points, G. Dickey, 2 points (Tie).

Trappers Win First Northern Hockey Crown

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers have won their first Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group championship.

Trappers ousted Sudbury Wolves Thursday night winning 4-3 to take the best-of-seven finals with three victories and two ties. They led the league through the regular schedule as well.

Next step on the way to Allan Cup play is a series against South Porcupine Porkies, champions of the Pepino Mines Hockey League. First two games are scheduled for South Porcupine Saturday afternoon and Monday night.

A capacity crowd of 4,031 fans watched Trappers rally to overtake captain Stan Maxwell's two goals in the second period and singles by playing - coach Eddie Reigle in the first and George Gosselin in the third.

Jimmy Logan, Yacker Flyn and Lawrie Speck, who scored just three seconds before the end of the game, were the Sudbury marksmen.

American Team Could Win The Allan Cup

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — A hockey team from this western United States city of about 190,000 people has a chance at winning Canada's senior amateur hockey title.

Spokane Flyers are embarked on what might be a precedent-shattering hockey experiment — the winning of the Allan Cup by a U.S. team.

Flyers eliminated last year's Allan Cup champions, Vernon Canadians, in Vernon, B.C., Wednesday night.

The powerful Spokane squad, champions of the Western International Hockey League, whipped Vernon 6-4 to win the best-of-seven series four games to three with one tied.

Spokane now plays Fort William Beavers of the Senior A Ontario Hockey Association. Beavers have been playing exhibition games only this year and didn't have to beat anyone to get into the other half of the Allan Cup Canada final.

The Spokane - Fort William series opens Sunday afternoon with following games Monday, Wednesday and Friday. If necessary best-of-seven series will be played in Fort William.

EXTRA QUALITY

WILLOCK, Alta. (CP) — One of Bilon's chickens is laying jumbo eggs, showed one weighing 3½ ounces, measuring in diameter one way and nine inches the other.

Theodore Nadler With Little Education Confounds Experts

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most fascinating minds which the current television quiz program fad had brought to light is that of Theodore Nadler of St. Louis, who thus far has won $120,000 on The challenge question on Sunday nights on CBS.

He will return Sunday to compete against Mrs. Lowell Thomas Jr. on the subject of geography for $16,000 more. For nine weeks Nadler has been competing against experts in a great variety of fields of knowledge. Who is he?

Well, he's a small, dark-haired, tense man of 47, with a wife and three children, who until recently was working as a civilian for the U.S. Army for take-home pay of $67 a week.

CONFOUNDS EXPERTS

Although he has only a grammar school education, he has surpassed and confounded an amazing array of experts in such diverse fields as history, baseball, music and geography. Dozens of psychologists and physicians were asked to interview him. One obvious question is why a man with scientific and agile a mind has been willing to remain in such a menial job.

"You don't understand what it is to be very poor," Nadler said. "My mother was an invalid and my father could only work part time. I grew up partly in an orphanage. My brothers and sisters and I all had to go to work early. I never even thought of going to high school.

"My parents were good people, but there was no one to guide me. They didn't think of things like education, such as are thought of in even an average American family. So I never evaluated anything."

READ EVERYTHING

Nadler read everything he could find. He discovered, without surprise, that he remembered what he read. It did not seem unusual to him; he presumed that everyone remembered. He still somewhat mystified that they don't.

What is Theodore Nadler going to do with the great gift of his mind? Apparently not much. He won't talk seriously about it this year. He would like a better job in the field of statistics, but he hasn't been offered one in St. Louis—his native city which he hates to leave. He has bought a new home and his family is living better than it ever has.

About two-thirds of his winnings will go in taxes—a subject that makes him greatly regret. The remainder he plans to put in a chequing account. I urged him at least to put it in a savings account and draw interest. He replied there would result in more income which the government would tax.

BOYHOOD "TRAINING" PAYS OFF FOR TONY Current
Tony Curtis' boyhood "training" in New York's Hell's Kitchen paid off for both the actor and Universal-International during filming of "Mister Cory," the U-I picture playing at the Odeon Movie-Carthy theatre, in which he co-stars with Martha Hyer. Charles Bickford and Kathryn Grant.
For a sequence in "Mister Cory," Tony had to demonstrate his pootlable skill to Kathy. The scene called for him to sink three balls with one shot, the stir in the cue ball causing all the same time kissing the 12 into a side pocket, and then make the cue ball caroom off the top cushion and return to down still a third ball, balanced on the edge of a lower corner pocket.
With the entire cast and crew betting against him, Tony surprised everybody by missing only the third ball by a hair's breadth on his first attempt and making it a perfect "take" on his second try.
"Now you can see how I misspent my youth," he quipped as the crowd applauded.

will play the leading roles created by Jerry Paris and Sheila Vand. Juanita Hall of the original cast will repeat her Bloody Mary. Ray Walston is set as the gold-bricking Luther Billis, whom he played in the road company.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, March 30, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Clean up essentials before moving on to new fields. In free time, enjoy your favorite hobby, sport, recreation, the arts, theatre. Don't waste effort on unwanted undertakings.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You can't escape obligations, so face them sensibly. The right attitude will help you expeditiously. Save your energies for worthwhile matters. A ready smile, a cheery disposition are your best "salesmen."

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — When your schedule allows you to pursue extra-curricular activities, be thankful and do so judiciously. Be agreeably cooperative, interested in others' needs. Show your better self.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Use your powers of observation in business as well as in pleasure. Do not be single - tracked mentally. Variety adds spice to your performance, interest to your work.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Review past week's efforts to ascertain the weak spots, areas for further attention. Explore new methods, better procedures.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Interrupted matters? Polish them off with your usual thoroughness. Plan, use this day well. The outcome will depend on your initiative, enthusiasm. Rebuild energy, vitalize marketable ideas.

September 24 to October 22 — (Libra) — This is no time to get excited. Cool, calm thinking can produce an effective program. Use your talents where they will accomplish the most good. There's much to gain or lose; watch trends.

October 24 to November 21 — (Scorpio) — Some years your Sign changes on Oct. 23; other years on 23, 24, 25. We take a mean average. Those of you at both ends of the change of Sign beware of being irked easily today. For all—True knowledge inspires high aims.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Strive to understand others and you will see how differing opinions can work together for a common good. But principles must never be compromised.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — To act in haste is to repent at leisure. This age-old saying should be remembered now. Be also warned against going to extremes. Try to better family relationships.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Freedom from prejudice is one of your strong assets. Let it guide you in determining the sincerity of others and the worth of activities in which you engage. Day asks clear-sightedness, good cheer.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Your influences very similar to Aquarius now. Take good advice but do not become over-serious. Humor plays an important part in every truly successful life. Moderation urged in all things.

You born today are thinkers, brainworkers, eager to be doing, active mentally and physically. But you are on a highly intelligent level where your desires are concerned so only worthwhile activities and interests appeal to you. You could aid charitable causes in wonderful ways; could be a boon to your community. However, you can cause yourself and your family unhappiness if you do not learn to control your emotions and your indulgences. Your idealistic nature usually causes you to back fine reforms. Birthdate of: Paul Verlaine, famous French poet.

LOTS

We are pleased to say that we now have a number of fine lots in the East End of the City.

CITY

THESE LOTS are not in the township but right in Belleville. They have sewer and water, and curb and sidewalks. Also a number being constructed of a good value.

FOR SALE

THESE LOTS ARE FOR SALE OUTRIGHT, or Conditional. Construction will build you a home on one of these lots to your wishes.

REMEMBER - - -

WHEN THESE LOTS ARE ALL SOLD the city lots on the East Hill are all gone. Look these lots over, there are a number with beautiful trees and have had the local improvement paid. Suitable for two or more years, on the weekend drive to Churchill Heights and have a look at these.

FIVE CANADIANS

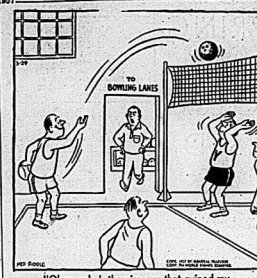
Sundew stumbled once at the 24th hurdle, known as the canal turn, but righted quickly and went on to finish with a burst of power.

Goosander, the 5 to 1 favorite in a race where few favorites have won, finished out of the money—as did the two American-bred entries, Virginius, an eight-year-old chestnut owned by Raymond R. Guest, and Monkey Wrench, owned by Mrs. John F. C. Bryce.

Virginius fell at the first jump. So did Hart Royal, one of the heavily-backed favorites.

The English-owned Sundew took a narrow lead at the second fence and stayed in front.



Running hard, Sundew took the last hurdle—four feet, six inches high—with E. S. B., Wyndburgh and Glorious Twelfth still challenging.

In the race down the flat stretch, Sundew moved away from the field to win easily over Wyndburgh, a seven-year-old.

The Royal Family missed this year's Grand National.

Queen Elizabeth attended a year ago when her mother's horse Devon Loch, was running with a good outside chance of winning but Devon Loch was scratched for this race.

The Queen and the Queen Mother usually come to Aintree for the National only when they have a horse running.

"Okay—who's the wise guy that swiped my bowling ball?"

HISTORIC POST

The first trading post at Isle a la Crosse Lake to northern Saskatchewan was built in 1776.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reeding in her room, and I bunked into the back of her chair again, and she said, How really, Benny how do you expect me to reed?

G, ma, that's the 3rd time I accidently bunked your chair, and you didn't get really mad once, I said. I dont see how you can have so much patience, I said, and ma said, Sometimes it's a mistery to myself, I admit. Still, as long as it was an accident, as you say, and you couldn't help it, it would not be very reasonable of me to lose my temper, she said.

Well gosh, ma, I bet I'd lose mine all right if I was trying to reed and some kid kept bunking into the back of my chair, whether he could help it or not, I said, and ma said, But you dont happen to be just some kid, you're my own child and that makes a difference, as I hope you'll find out for yourself some day.

Meaning when I have my own children and have to take my choice between keeping my temper or losing it, and pritty soon I bunked the back of her chair again, and she said, Now honestly, Benny, I mean really, what is it you're trying to do?

I'm trying to find out how bats can fly without seeing, and still not bunk into anything on account of having a kind of radar attached to their minds, I said. But Jiminies, ma, I guess I haven't got it attached to mine, because as soon as I shut my eyes and pretend I'm flying, I bunk into something, I said.

Being the end of ma's patience and proving there's a limit, even with your own children.

HUMAN BOMB SENTENCED TO 10 YEARS

Paralyzed from the neck down, Andre Deblois heard a 10-year penitentiary sentence passed by a Montreal court for his "human bomb" attempted robbery of March 8. He pleaded guilty to four charges but denied that "he wanted to harm someone." He was paralyzed by a police bullet as he sat in a chair in a Montreal bank after firing two rifle bullets and threatening to blow himself and the bank sky-high with six sticks of dynamite fastened to his coat.

LORD SALISBURY RESIGNS AFTER MAKARIOS FREED

British Cabinet Split, Kingmaker Quits King

LONDON (CP) — Speculation was widespread today that more cabinet ministers may follow Lord Salisbury and resign from Premier Harold Macmillan's government.

Salisbury, one of the senior Conservative party leaders, resigned as Lord President of the Council Friday night in protest against the decision to release Archbishop Makarios from detention in the Seychelles Islands.

Salisbury is head of the House of Lords but also has played a key part in British constitutional affairs for centuries. He is generally considered as the first man to recommend to the Queen that Macmillan succeed Sir Anthony Eden as premier.

In his letter to Macmillan, Salisbury said the release of Makarios is "neither wise nor timely." It made plain his disagreement with position to releasing the leader of the Greek Cypriots while fighting with Greece without an unqualified renunciation from him of violence as a British colony.

EVENTS WILL SHOW

Macmillan in reply said he was convinced today's British act of generous statesmanship will reap its reward "when events from the Macmillan administration or of defections among the Conservative party back-benchers.

The political correspondent of the Liberal London News Chronicle says: "His resignation could plunge Cyprus into chaos and the Tory party. The right wing was already disturbed about the Makarios release.

"The kingmaker has quit the king only three months after the coronation. . . . The loss is the worst single blow Mr. Macmillan has had since he entered office. The resignation of Mr. R. A. Butler will strike at the heart of Commons and home secretary."

IN NEW LIGHT

The correspondent of the right-wing London Daily Mail, a supporter of the government, says: "This shows Salisbury in a new light: As a Conservative who has always been a fighter with his toughest opponents and even with his most fervent admirers in his party.

"The question worrying Tory MP's last night was: How many other members of the cabinet range themselves on the side of Lord Salisbury? So far there is no sign of any more resignations. But the position over Cyprus has been rumored all the week."

From Mahe in the Seychelle Islands where he had been exiled, Archbishop Makarios said he will negotiate with Britain to settle the Cyprus problem but he is still bowed to return to the island.

The Greek - Cypriot majority opposition to Makarios has demanded that British rule be ended and the island united with Greece.

Khrushchev to Decentralize Industrial Control in USSR

Bandits Offered Large Sum to Return Woman

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The shah's imperial government today offered to let the bandit kidnappers of Mrs. Anita Carroll go unpunished if they will return her unharmed.

This was coupled with a U.S. embassy offer of ransom in any amount of money for her safe return. Both indicators are being broadcast hour after hour on the Iranian state radio.

The pretty 35-year-old American woman was captured last Sunday by southeastern desert thugs after they killed her husband and another American aid official and two Iranians travelling with them.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said police have found a witness who said he saw a "foreign lady" travelling on a white with bandits and their families near the Iran-Pakistan border.

The embassy disclosed the police report in denying rumors that Mrs. Carroll had been abandoned by her captors. The report said the searchers were following the trail of paper and clothing, presumably left by Mrs. Carroll when they found her empty suitcase and came across the witness.

The embassy spokesman said the witness reported the woman he saw was not tied and was "not looking sick, adding:

"The blonde white - faced foreigner did not have any difficulty and had no signs of injury."

MOSCOW (AP) — Vowing to eliminate waste in Russia's economy, Nikita Khrushchev announced today the Soviet Union's central industrial ministries will be replaced by regional councils.

The Khrushchev plan, which will mean a shakeup in the Soviet cabinet, grew out of an edict by the powerful Communist party central committee calling for decentralization of the economy.

The report will be presented to the next session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) slated to be held during the first half of 1957. It will place priority on heavy industry in Soviet economic planning.

Khrushchev, Communist party secretary, ruled out any thought of increasing emphasis on consumer goods.

"If we yield to the false conception of emphasizing priority developments of consumer industries," he said, "we will not be able to cover our requirements except for a short time and to the detriment of our future economic development."

Soviet leaders of late have said the practice of having Moscow ministries operate branches in remote parts of Russia has produced undue waste and inefficiency. Under Khrushchev's plan, thousands of ministry officials will be moved from Moscow to centres of production.

23 IRA Suspects Arrested in Raid

BELFAST (AP) — More than 200 police and soldiers swooped on the Londonderry area today and arrested 23 members of the Irish Republican Army extremists.

Police said they seized 300 pounds of gelignite explosive, 150 yards of fuse wire, a dozen detonators, 200 revolvers, more than a hundred rounds of ammunition and 400 detonators.

It was the biggest combined police-army swoop since the start of the present IRA campaign of violence in Northern Ireland last December. The IRA, which is outlawed, seeks to unite by force the six northern counties of Ireland with the Republic of Ireland to the south.

Toronto Boy, 8, Missing 36 Hours

TORONTO (CP) — Eight-year-old Wayne Hosmer was still missing early today more than 36 hours after he left home for school.

An intensive search by police of parked cars, used car lots, ravines and parks failed to turn up any trace of the boy. He is believed to have run away because he feared the consequences after playing hookey from school earlier this week.

He was missing from home once before and was found by police asleep in a parked car.

'Does Me Good' Says Peterborovian Tramping Hilly Woods Although 100

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Charles Morgan of Peterborough celebrates his 100th birthday Sunday but he still likes to tramp over hilly woods and get out into the bush because "it does me good."

Visited recently on a farm 10 miles west of here, Mr. Morgan was looking agile and active. He had an axe in his hand hoping his friend Arnold Lindsay cut logs to build a skidway.

"I'm not working," he said, "just keeping Arnold company. It's no fun for a man to work alone in the woods."

Born on his father's backwoods farm in Hastings, he was the oldest the virgin forest. When he was 15 he got his first job in a lumber camp at $9 a month.

For 20 seasons he toured Ontario and Quebec guiding treachers and log booms down rippling rivers to the pulp mills. He also worked several years for the Ontario Lands and Forests as a railroad man.

"You'll never see the men today there used to be 70 or 80 years ago," he says. "They were great fighters. A man who was top dog in one district, hearing about a great fighter in some other town, would make the trip just to see if he could lick him."

Mr. Morgan and his wife, who keeps house for him at a cottage they built on the edge of the bush, are the oldest married couple in Peterborough and district.

He is 65 and the youngest 31.

Cambridge Scores Upset Win Over Oxford in Historic Race

LONDON (CP)—Cambridge today rowed to an upset victory over Oxford in the 103rd intervarsities boat race over the historic 4¼ - mile River Thames course.

Cambridge, underdogs in pre-race forecasts, took the lead after 1½ miles and then steadily outrowed Oxford.

Cambridge won by two lengths in 19:01.0. Record for the race is 17:50 set by Cambridge in 1948.

The river was mildly calm and the skies overcast.

Cambridge's success was a triumph for the traditional British style of rowing—a smooth stroke with a long lay-back at the end—over North American-style stroke adopted by Oxford this year.

Oxford sat more upright in the boat and wasted little effort with body swing.

It was estimated that about 250,000 people lined the banks of the twisting course. Boys climbed high into riverside trees to get a better view.

A flotilla of small boats followed the two shells. The start, one of the biggest free shows in Britain, got full treatment on television and radio.

The heavyweight Oxford crew—average weight 187 pounds, seven pounds a stone heavier than Cambridge—pulled into a length lead after a mile. That was when Oxford had the advantage of the first turn.

Oxford still led by about a length at Hammersmith bridge—about 2½ miles. Then Cambridge, rowing with great smoothness and power, slowly pulled ahead and stayed out in front for the rest of the race.

Oxford's fifth oar, Peter Bernard, collapsed at the three-mile mark.

Today's victory was Cambridge's 57th in the world-famous race—Oxford leads with 45 times and one was tied.

Although Oxford's new style failed today, there was confidence as to whether their defeat was not caused mainly by the collapse of Barnard, who could barely pull his oar in the final mile.

Experts also felt Oxford might have gone stale after rowing more than 1,000 miles in practice—20 miles farther than any crew had done in previous training.

Await Word Whether Beck's Union Will Back or Dump Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of organized labor today awaited word on whether Dave Beck's Teamsters will back him or dump him in the face of his suspension as an AFL-CIO chieftain.

Beck president of the giant International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, was given a 30-day notice of being determined to fight it out.

His troubles mounted on the heels of the AFL-CIO executive council's action Friday suspending him as one of its members in an AFL-CIO labor-ethics shake-up.

The council—top command of the 15,000,000-member AFL-CIO—ordered a full-scale investigation by the federation's ethical practices committee into charges that Beck has brought the labor movement into disrepute. The investigation also would cover corruption allegations against Beck in several other Teamster officials, some of whom are under federal indictment on those charges.

Meanwhile, Senate rackets committee sources said they are "half through" investigating Beck's complex financial dealings, but not yet to the point for questioning unless he agrees to talk. They said other witnesses and documentary evidence could tell most of the story.

The AFL-CIO council's move against Beck came after he invoked his Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to tell the rackets committee about his finances. The Senate investigators say he turned to his personal use more than $320,000 in Teamster funds.

If it follows past practice, the AFL-CIO executive is likely to give the 1,500,000-member union an opportunity to name a slate of its officers. The penalty for not doing so would be suspension from the giant federation—and a possible later move to create a rival union in the same field.

Beck—who did not attend the AFL-CIO meeting in his first report in Seattle "I have nothing to say" about the action against him. He added he intends to call a special meeting soon of the Teamsters' executive board. He did not say where or when the board would meet.

Beck ran into opposition Friday from a senior official of the Teamsters' Union.

John English, secretary - treasurer of the union and a popular figure with the Teamster rank-and-file membership, said he was against Beck's announced plan for a $1,000,000 publicity campaign.

English said "As long as I am the general secretary-treasurer of the international I will oppose any use of the union's funds for that purpose."

He challenged Beck's statement that the Teamster union executive had already approved the publicity campaign. He said he hadn't been consulted. In St. Louis, Daniel J. Murphy, another member of the Teamsters executive board, said he, too, had never been consulted.

Prisoners Live Like Beasts Says Refugee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Hungarian refugee has told Senate investigators that 10 years' agony in Russian prison camps he saw men and women political prisoners herded together and living like beasts.

The witness, using the assumed name of George Batori lest relatives behind the Iron Curtain suffer retaliation for his testimony, told his story Friday through an interpreter at a Senate internal security sub-committee hearing.

Batori said he served in 60 Russian prison camps during his incarceration as a convicted enemy of communism. Before his sentence, he said, was commuted to service at slave labor.

He said in some camps the ratio was 30 per cent women and 70 per cent men, and that the women were encouraged to bear as many children as possible with fellow prisoners and guards. The object, he said, was "the hope that (population) losses in the war would be replaced."

"Did most of the women have babies?" Senator Olin Johnston (Dem.-S.C.) asked.

"Yes," Batori replied, "and any woman who was good looking could be sure of that. It was public practice was for the government to seize the infants and send them to institutions for ultimate training in communism.

Federal Surplus Continues Rise, Is $544,109,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal surplus continued to rise in February, pushing the total for the first 11 months of the fiscal year to $544,109,000, reports Finance Minister Harris.

However, the government's revenue and expenditures for the month eased slightly from a year ago. Revenues totalled $287,780,000 as against $287,899,000 for the similar 1956-57 period. Mr. Harris cautioned against concluding that the current surplus would remain high.

In his budget March 14, Mr. Harris estimated the surplus for the current year would total about $292,500,000. In the last month of the fiscal year, he said, Friday spending normally exceeds revenue by a substantial amount.

ENDED WITH DEFICIT

For example, while the surplus for the 11 months last year totalled $187,900,000, the government ended the year with a deficit of $5,100,000.

Revenues in February slipped to $350,297,000 from $353,721,000 last year, though the 11-month total was sharply higher than the $3,888,729,000 a year ago.

Expenditures also eased in the month to $343,517,000 from $353,228,000, though again the 11-month total of $3,743,021,000 was an increase over the $3,700,830,000 last year.

PRIME MINISTER IN HOT WATER OVER CBC LETTERS

Opposition Charges Move Interference

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, irritated by the "superficial" tone of a CBC radio commentary on Canada's foreign policy, got into hot water in the Commons Friday because he expressed his feelings to the publicly-owned corporation.

His complaint touched off a round of opposition charges of government interference with the CBC, accompanied by a suggestion that Mr. Harris take chairman from any possible government influence.

Alistair Stewart (CCF — Winnipeg North) suggested that CBC Chairman A. D. Dunton should be made replaceable only by Parliament, instead of by the government.

INTO THE OPEN

"Then if the government does try anything in this matter we will bring it right out into the open and we will know that the situation is not as it is supposed to be—and it has to go away for a rest cure."

Mr. St. Laurent said he wrote Mr. Dunton as a "Canadian citizen" but as prime minister, to protest spending public funds for broadcasts by commentators "who were talking down to the Canadian public" about Canadian foreign policy.

He was referring to radio talks given by the CBC by British-born Dr. John S. Conway, professor of history and political science at John Callege, Winnipeg, who came to Canada two years ago.

TURNING TOES

Mr. St. Laurent said he was shocked by the commentator's statement that "whenever any question arose, the first consideration was to avoid turning Canada's little toes."

This apparently referred to Dr. Conway's concluding remarks in his second commentary:

37,600 Cars Turned Out During March

WINDSOR (CP)—The Canadian automobile industry turned out 37,600 cars for the month of March, surpassing the 1957 March record by 1,000 cars.

Ward's Auto Reports says that the March output gives the manufacturers a total of 105,409 cars in the first quarter this year and makes the quarter second only to the record 1953 January-March period. Truck output also was produced.

The week the manufacturers produced 1,736 trucks as against 1,603 trucks last week.

'Alkilating Agents' Used in Canada To Combat Types of Blood Cancer

NEW YORK (CP)—Do doctors tell a patient when the disease is cancer?

"Yes—maybe," appears to be the consensus of medical M.D.s ending an international conference on cancer here today.

In the words of the patient, "on specialist said.

When a reporter suggested that surely psychological factors or worry could not make cancer grow, Dr. Charles Huggins said: "But there's always the rope," and added that none of these drugs per cures cancer. None of them even stops the growth of malignancies. But they have the capacity to slow down the speedy proliferation of cancer.

The battle against blood cancer and the comparative-lowly interest because the incidence of leukemia appears to be increasing, Dr. Warwick said. Possibly, however, this was because of more extensive diagnosis.

One eminent authority, Dr. Alexander Haddow of the Chester Beatty Research Institute, London, replied "that is true" when a reporter asked whether the chemicals indicated that drugs one day might cure cancer, and only a small percentage of these successes to the diseases that we are talking about, possibly less than five per cent," said Warwick.

Treatments described at the conference, with doctors from several countries participating, included:

Intravenous injections of nitrogen mustard aimed at blood cells. The mixture was a component of the drug, sarcolysin.

"These agents slow down the rate of proliferation of cancerous cancer cells . . . until the normal rate is restored," a spokesman said. "But none of these drugs cures cancer. None of them even stops the growth of malignancies. But they have the capacity to slow down the speedy proliferation of cancer."

Convoy Sailings Mark Major Step In Canal Operations

Five-Nation, Nine-Ship Fleet Pays Egyptian Tolls

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)— Two ship convoys were moving through the Suez Canal today, marking a major step toward resumption of normal operations in the 103-mile waterway.

A five-nation, nine-ship convoy which entered the canal Friday from Suez at the southern end resumed its voyage at dawn after being stalled by a severe sand storm.

Another five-ship convoy entered the canal today at Suez. They were the first to begin passage since the waterway was blocked during the October-November British, French and Israel attacks on Egypt.

Some individual ships have passed through the waterway since limited operation was resumed March 9.

PAID TO EGYPT

Both convoys entered the canal on Egyptian terms, agreeing to pay to the nationalized Suez Canal authority. Of the nine ships the largest was only 7,064 tons. They were Italian, two Russian, one Greek, one West German, one Dutch, one Romanian.

They contrasted with the 25-ship convoys of vessels ranging up to 20,000 tons that were common before the canal was blocked.

A United Nations salvage team planned to resume work to remove obstruction from the canal Monday or Tuesday.

In Cairo, a source close to the Egyptian government said Egypt has no intention of making the canal tolls paid into a bank in some neutral country, probably the federal bank of Switzerland.

With the end of the canal clearance work approaching, attention was concentrated on the Egyptian-Israeli dispute over the Gaza Strip, which Israeli forces quit March 7 under strong UN and U.S. pressure.

HAVENT HEARD

UN officials in Cairo said they had no knowledge of any buildup of Egyptian military police in the strip, as charged by Israel Foreign Minister Golda Meir Thursday in Joseph Tekoah, the Israeli foreign ministry's director of affairs, addressed the 1949 Arab-Israeli armistice.

The UN officials in Gaza and Cairo said that Egypt has reached a "gentlemen's agreement" with the UNEF command in Dag Hammarskjold permitting UNEF to police the Gaza Strip after the armistice line.

A diplomatic source at UN headquarters in New York said Hammarskjold and Nasser agreed that Arab police and UN troops in the Gaza Strip should work together to prevent raids and arrest by anti-Israeli commandos.

Moscow Radio, in a broadcast heard in London, accused the West today of "playing a dangerous game with fire" in pushing Israel "toward new military provocations."

Liberal Leader Challenges CCF To Prove Claims

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Opposition Leader Oliver has challenged CCF Leader Macdonald to prove his accusation that three Progressive Conservative members had a personal interest in a bill—or resign.

He said Friday in the Ontario legislature the CCF leader had slandered the character of the members and a parliamentary assistant in Ottawa. "He is bound by decency to prove his charges or resign," said Mr. Oliver.

The charges were made Thursday night during third reading of a bill which would permit the township of Scarborough to issue debentures for $40,000 if it decides to pay subdividers for having installed oversize water mains.

Mr. MacDonald said the three PC members had a direct personal interest in the bill and that one of the companies concerned was owned by Progressive Conservative assistant in the House of Commons.

Mr. MacDonald said Friday, March 15, he suggested they were dishonest." He said the claims for payment by the subdividers had no legal or moral basis.

Mr. MacDonald said that under the government's tradition, then with a financial interest in a bill do not normally participate in the sponsorship or voting on the measure.

He said the water main work was carried out without first obtaining permission from the Scarboro municipal board and the bill would give them to the power of the municipal board because it would make legal a "calculated breach of regulations."

NOMINATE COL. KIDD

KINGSTON (CP)—Lt.-Col. T.A. Kidd Friday night was nominated by the Progressive-Conservative Association here to contest Kingston Hitting in the next federal election. He represented in the House of Commons from 1945 to 1949 PC and was defeated in the Ontario legislature for five seats since. The seat is held by Liberal W. J. Henderson, elected in 1949 and 1953.

RCEME Squadron Entertains at Armory Dance

Personnel of 27 Technical Squadron RCEME (M) entertained their wives and friends at a dance, a new form of a social evening and dance held in the main lecture room at the Armories last night.

The entertainment committee, under Lt. A. G. (Mike) McAulay and Cpl. Jim Ling, is to be commended for a well organized evening. Rowdyism and spot dancing were dispersed over the evening. Winners of spot dance prizes were Cpl. and Mrs. R. Kirby and one guest couple. The door prize was won by Mr. L. G. Garrison.

Sunday 19 members of the unit spent the day at the rifle range for practice. This practice was in preparation for the 13 Militia Group Annual Safe and Skilful Driving Competition which will be held in April.

The group under Lt. McAulay, travelled to Mountain View airport where a mock convoy of trucks was used in the competition was set up on the course. Instructions were given and each man was able to get several practice runs on the course.

A future day of practice driving for the unit will be arranged Another 14 after which representatives from the unit will be picked for the 13 Militia Group Competition.

Obituary

LEMUEL E. MILLS
(Barrie-Shannonville)

SHANNONVILLE — The funeral of Lemuel E. Mills of Barrie who died in Barrie General Hospital after a short illness on Saturday, March 23rd, in his 105th year, was held Tuesday from Shannonville United Church to Picton Cemetery. The service was conducted by the Rev. T. Hogarth and a large number of relatives and friends were present.

Bearers were Claude Clarke, Frank Hinchey, Robert Little, Elmer Hayes, William White and Alex. Winters.

The deceased was born on Big Island, Prince Edward County, one of a family of six. His father was a farmer and a Methodist lay preacher of Irish descent, who came to Canada as a United Empire Loyalist pioneer from Little Falls, N.Y., and lived to be 94 years old. His mother lived to be 100 years and 6 months old. Longevity seems to be a characteristic of the Mills family.

Mr. Mills worked on the family farm until he was married, and then went to Belleville, where he learned to be a tinsmith. He also took a course at business college. He then opened a general store in Shannonville, and also worked at his trade as well. In religion, he was a Methodist and later a member of the United Church. He took active part in church work, was a member of the church board and sang in the choir for many years.

Shortly after their retirement from business, in August 1950, he and his wife went to Barrie to live with their son. His wife, who was a daughter of the late Rev. Peake, a Methodist minister, died in March 1952 at the age of 84.

The deceased is survived by his son R. E. Mills, of Barrie, and seven grandchildren.

Color, Rhythm and Artistry Feature Annual Presentation Of Quinte Skating Club Show

The Quinte Skating Club can take a deep bow. In fact three or four of them.

Twelfth Annual Ice Show which opened a two-night run in Memorial Arena last night is a glittering extravaganza on steel that never lags among the club's many colorful seasonal presentations.

With a cast of over 100, the show is excellently produced with a delightful theme that is old but ever new. While "name" stars of metropolitan and other skating clubs steal individual and collective performance honors, the show is designed to give plenty of scope to the artistry of the Quinte members with emphasis on the junior section.

The brilliancy of costuming is eye-pleasing and a distinct credit to the designers. At times the show is a moving panorama of color with a tempo that does not tend to "blur" the many figures, in graceful motion, to give them background waves nothing to be desired. The production is good and there is no tendency for performers to mar the brilliance of individual stints.

"FAIRY" THEME

The club official selected a show theme that is simple yet it made a full 2½ hour presentation through the proper arrangement of sequence. Set in three distinct "acts" the show gives ample opportunity to the younger members of the club through its "Toyland" presentation. This is delightfully done by junior members of the club background, using their younger counterparts in various roles.

The story is designed around a royal family and the fairies who live in the "good old days". The King and Queen and their colorfully garbed lords-in-waiting are "stuffy" but previous to this the toys take advantage of the royal absence and with the aid of a fairy queen come to life in rollicking fashion. Later the King and Queen resume their immobility before the toys and peace and quiet descends on the royal castle.

In a more modern background, the action is staged in a rural fantasy that sees a farmer and his friends in a barnyard setting. Then it becomes interested in a dancing girl, but friend wife "puts him in his place" with a well-placed blow, and he dreams he is in Spain.

BRILLIANT ARTISTS

Highlighting the individual performances were the Quinte Skating Club artists Miss Barbara Jean Jacques and Mr. David Lowery, both holders of many championships. To their individual and collective artistry was added that of Miss Joan Shippam, of the Peterborough Figure Skating Club, a champion in her own right. From the Cobourg Skating Club came Miss Diana Tilley who took charge of a ballet prima donna assisted by ballerinas Mary Jane McCoubrey and Linda Casey and a corps-de-ballet of several beautiful young girls.

Miss Jacques received a splendid ovation following her "single" and "doubles" with Mr. Lowery, who himself gave an outstanding performance in his singles act. Consensus of many was that Miss Jacques was the most outstanding figure skating artist to appear here since Barbara Ann Scott. Tall and graceful Mr. Lowery gave ample evidence of why he was named a senior champion. Miss Shippam, a tall statuesque blonde, garbed in a raven-black costume also received a fine ovation after a fine performance. Miss Patsy Kerr, another charming miss from Cobourg, was seen in a colorful "single".

The Quinte Club members all gave fine performances. Jack Dickens as the court jester did a delightful comedy role. Gordon Davies was seen in solo while the recipients of well - deserved applause for the numerous little Misses Pegg and Jane McCutcheon, Judith Ann Hagerman group ample evidence of a brilliant figure - skating future. This precision drill of the junior group was well-executed in military tempo.

The Toyland pageant was a riot of color with the little people doing an excellent job. Principals were Indians, cowboys, rabbits, Mary Jane, Little Miss Muffet, Mouse, dolls, Jack-in-the-box, panda bears, toy soldiers with a Drum Dowman and the Toymaker. Principals were Jack Dickens.

THE COUNTRY FAIR

The farm scene produced a complete change of costume with Jack Dickens playing the farmer and Pamela Skillicorn, the farmer's wife. Included were a sign painter, dairy maids, egg gatherers and other characters which are a part of a country fair. There was a shooting gallery, pitch-ball game, a spin show, candy floss stand, wheel of fortune, a fortune teller, played by Lynn Purchard who gave a top dance performance.

The lights dimmed and flashed again on the Paris nightlife scene complete with an outdoor cafe with guests and waiters, the famous Montmartre: "gas-lamps," a convivial drunk, newspaper boy, ache dancers personified by Gordon Davies and Joan Kells in a well-performed doubles routine; tourists, an artist and his model. Miss Elaine Powell who was seen in a single and a chorus line of "can-can" dancers colorfully costumed, who gave a rhythmic routine of the famous continental dance.

The whole was highlighted by the ballet with Miss Tait in the principal role, assisted by her ballerinas and the corps-de-ballet beautifully costumed in billowy dresses of blue over white.

Then the farmer's dream comes to an end and he finds himself back at the country fair. The show concludes with a club waltz by all the participants.

It was estimated that over 1,200 people saw the first performance of the show which will be presented again tonight starting at 8.15.

A RURAL FANTASY

One upon a time a farmer and his helpers went to the country fair and while away from home a cousin came to a sideshow with a pretty dancing girl. They all wanted to go in, but the farmer's wife was so angry with him she hit him and knocked him unconscious and this is his dream—a typical street scene in "Monte Marte" with glamorous girls and one particular who encourages him to go with her to a cafe where we see night life and a floor show.

It all ends too soon—just as the farmer is enjoying it. They awakens and finds himself back at the fair with his wife.

Following this presentation, silent tribute was paid to the late Colonel R. Vanderwater who served for a number of years as the Red Shield chairman. A report of activities for the year was presented by Captain C. Ivany and plans were made for the forthcoming Red Shield appeal.

After the meeting a dejourned, the members inspected recent renovations to the upstairs auditorium at the Citadel. Prior to the business meeting, a delightful tuckey supper was served by the ladies of the Citadel Home League.

Pupils of O.S.D. Present Three Entertaining Playlets

"Jack and the Beanstalk," as presented by the O.S.D. pupils last night, was a touching and entertaining performance.

Mrs. Bishop ably portrayed the destitute widow prepared to sacrifice everything to feed her son Jack. (James Learmonth) who is the picture of not so intelligent youth caught in the whirlpool of terrifying events.

Mrs. Bishop is away attempting to keep the wolf from the door, Jack becomes the victim of a fast talking stranger (Billy Bates) to buy the beloved family cow for a handful of magic beans.

A bit miffed with losing the cow, Jack pours the beans out the window only to see a giant beanstalk grow there.

Like any normal boy, Jack decides to investigate and of course leads to the den of the Giant (Austin Warlow) and his wife (Diane Warlow). In the convenient absence of the Giant, Jack Gimi, courtesy of the pathetic demeanor of the hungry lad, gives him some food and drink and gives him a box as ominous steps of hen heavy-footed spouse approach the door.

After satisfying his hunger, the domineering Giant calls for his family demands that his well-trained wife fetch his gold, his harp, but it is the ambitious little chick to toy eggs.

As the Giant falls into slumber Jack emerges from his hiding place to abscond with the gold, the harp and the hen in a quick descent down the beanstalk with the aroused Giant in close pursuit.

Mother, who had dispared of ever seeing her little boy again snaps in joy and astonishment, as Jack displays the hen and the gold for her father and took his money." Jack jumps like and hugs her . . . why spoil this happy ending.

Dear Kim, you are in our hearts to stay
Loved and remembered each long, long day.
Forever there will be that sad
Dear Kim, your charm, your dear
Dear Kim, your
Gone from the earth of sorrow and care.
Loved and lonely in life and still living and
In the depths of our hearts we can
Dear Kim, you are
In memory's lane go our thoughts of
Of our dear son who is just awey,
Dear Kim, I'll meet you some day.
When he was small, through happy
Dear Kim, he was
Never mind, sister of your dear
Is part of him, his laughing face,
I feel Dear Kim, he was
Nor hung for all to see,
Dear Kim, he was
Our dear son's memory.
Kim, my dear son, we meet by
No flower can we place on the grave
Dear Kim, he was
The great wide ocean doth keep us
Dear Kim, he was
But your dear smiling face still
Dear Kim, he was
Lonely thoughts remembered by Mom,
Dad, sister Frances, Fred, Nancy and
Dear Kim, he was

Maple Syrup Holds Steady At $5.50 Gallon

Spring has really sprung!

At the Belleville márket today grocer was selling quantities of winter onions, which only yesterday he dug from his outdoor garden. They sell for 10 cents a bunch or three for a quarter.

Smelts sold for a dollar a package and frozen whitefish went for 60 cents a pound. There were a few cauliflowers for sale, but the man who caught them said the fish are not yet biting at present.

Radishes and leaf lettuce sold for three bunches for 25 cents, or 10 cents a bunch.

Maple syrup went for $1.50 a quart and from $5.50 a gallon to $6.00. Maple sugar sold for 40 cents or 75 cents a block.

The market had eleven stalls with the usual other kinds of vegetables and home-made products. Crowds have been prominent all winter.

Which was the physician fought to bring a patient through a siege of pneumonia. Today, with penicillin and the sulfa drugs at a physician's command, pneumonia is no longer the killer it used to be, and it can usually be treated at home. As a result, the average case of pneumonia may cost no more than $100 to $150 . . . including loss of income, the doctor's visits and the "expensive" new medicines!

Today, more than ever before, an investment in prompt and proper medical care may well represent one of the biggest bargains of your life.

A Lift for Living

The Home Is God's Garden Spot

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Soon in this Northern Hemisphere the earth will burst with the life-giving forces of spring. Beauty will cover the scars of winter. Nature will put away the hooded cloak of coldness and don the mantle of grace.

And amid this general beautification of nature, which will be seen in every hedgerow and forest, there are dotted gardens where man is co-worker with God in the creation of loveliness. In these gardens the hard earth is mellowed into soft beds where seeds are laid, there to leave their shells and rise into rich colors and graceful forms.

What the garden is to nature, the home is to human nature. It is the spot where the soil is prepared for life, where the seeds of life take root, and where the roots of life grow into the fruits of the spirit. Let us look at God's Garden Spot, the home.

First of all, the home is the garden where the soil is prepared for life. When we hear an adult say, "The world owes me a living," we decry his doctrine. The world does not owe a living to drones. But it does to infants. The child is brought into the world not at its own behest; and the parent who does not assume responsibility for the care of his child we rightly call inhuman.

PREPARE FOR THE INFANT

No infant could survive more than a few hours unless the soil was prepared for its start. The very elements which make for a child's growth have to be adjusted to it or they would destroy it. The sunlight must be filtered in the right degree lest it impair the vision of the infant's opening eyes. The little one must be guided to its food lest it starve or poison itself. Without a specially prepared soil, the tender plant of childhood would quickly perish.

And we grownups, if we are to have a life worth living, must have some garden spots where the soil is more congenial than the hard street. We need some places where we can get away from the curious, unfeeling stare of the crowd and look into eyes that understand and sympathize. We need some circles where we can unpack our hearts with words, where listening love sifts the wheat from the chaff of our chatter and goes on caring for us in spite of our weaknesses. We need those home spots where we can get away from the cutting edge of competition and allow our better natures to be brought out by cooperation and compassion.

Not all of us find congenial mates and make homes through marriage. But few of us are so alone that we have not ties with the homes of our childhood, our relatives or our friends. And how bravely some persons who live alone make their rooms into homey places, surrounding themselves with tokens and objects of affection. We adults never outgrow the need and longing for a home.

HOME, SWEET HOME

I have visited the place in Paris where John Howard Payne wrote "Home, Sweet Home." In his day it was the center of Paris gaiety and fashion. Yet I can understand how the lonesome traveller even in that sparkling setting could write, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

In my grandfather's home there hung a framed motto, "God is the Head of this House." Framed mottoes have gone out of fashion. But that old-fashioned motto stood for something which we must not let go out of style, for God puts into the soil of the home certain fertilizing elements.

For instance, true godliness transforms the possessiveness of love into a sense of trusteeship. So often we become selfishly possessive of our husbands or wives or children. That attitude makes for jealousy and bitterness. Was it not Prof. George Herbert Palmer who said of his wife Alice Freeman, "I never called her mine." He loved her deeply, but he avoided treating her as his possession.

Also God develops the grace of forgiveness. Into every home misunderstandings come. There are times when our affections freeze up because of some change in the family weather. But when we let in the sunlight of God's presence, the icicled springs of the heart thaw out, and what fun it is to "make up."

We recall Bobby Burns' description of the "Cotter's Saturday Night" — the father reading his Bible to his children. Burns added, "From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs."

Yes, from scenes like this grow the grandeur of America and Canada.

HOW MUCH IS IT WORTH TO BE CANADIAN?

Half a billion dollars is a lot of money — even if it is spread out in "easy payments" over six years, even if the burden of these payments is shared among 15 or 16 million people.

But there are some things which are worth a lot of money. Many Canadians will agree that "a Canadian sense of identity" is one of them.

What one thinks about the report of the Fowler Commission on radio and television broadcasting depends, basically, on the value one puts on being a Canadian, on what one is willing to pay to give Canada a chance to retain its identity.

No reasonable person, we think, could quarrel with the commission's contention that Canadians could receive radio and television broadcasting services at less cost than they are doing through the present system, under which private and state-controlled stations both operate, with the private stations being subject to state regulations.

But, by the same token, no reasonable person could dispute the claim that the most economical form of radio and television broadcasting would involve Canadian stations being tied to U.S. outlets.

The hard facts of geography have already linked this country's economic life with that of the United States. But a man may drive a U.S. car, or a Canadian-built car copied after one designed in the U.S., and still remain distinctively Canadian. Could this distinction between Canadians and U.S. citizens be retained if Canadian radio and television programs were duplicates of those produced in the U.S.? It could, but the preservation of this difference would require effort. For radio and television, if they are to be enjoyed by those who are not morons, must deal with ideas and ideals.

Programming invariably involves no plea for "highbrow" programs. Even soap operas present ideas and ideals—such as they are. Because radio and television are not the only source of ideas and ideals, if Canadian stations carried only programs originating in the U.S. that would not automatically eliminate that sense of identity which Canadians — some Canadians — now possess. But if all the media of communication in Canada were presented the same ideas and ideals as U.S. media, then the survival of any distinctive Canadian outlook would require a miracle. There is no doubt that the great majority of Canadian programs, television shows, newspapers, periodicals, movie shows, stage plays, lectures and concerts offered to the people in the two countries for 6c be safe to conclude that any steps towards greater uniformity — if we wish to preserve that "sense of identity" about which the commission was talking.

But if present Canadian system of broadcasting is preserved, does that guarantee the continuance of "a Canadian sense of identity?" By no means, but it does improve the chances for this distinction.

What Canadians need to do, therefore, is to decide whether they believe that a chance to preserve our national identity is worth some $80,000,000 a year.

The members of the Fowler Commission have decided that it is. They have reached that decision by looking at the record, by noting that, when faced with a similar problem in other countries, they found an answer, irrespective of party or race, has been uniformly the same for nearly a century."

Canadians have been prepared to pay a price to live by their own standards.

The Fowler Commission believes that they are still willing to pay this price.

Whether the Commission is right or wrong will be disclosed by the public reaction to its report.

Here in Belleville, and in other parts of Canada lying close to the U.S. border, the issue may be beclouded by the fact that we already depend heavily on U.S. radio and television stations for our entertainment and instruction by these media. Those parts of Canada which find themselves in this situation are the most heavily populated areas of the country. The scales are thus already weighted, in some degree, against Canada. But, by the same token, residents of these areas have a better opportunity to pass an informed judgment. The question is simply this: Would we be pleased if all our radio and television programs were similar to those now produced in the U.S.?

PONDER THIS

In London, Ont., a man owned a dog which wandered from home and threatened school children.

He decided that the dog should be killed.

So he hanged it.

Appearing in police court on a charge of cruelty to animals, he was fined $50 and costs, or 30 days in jail.

The magistrate gave the accused the option of a fine because he said there was no evidence indicating the man had actually intended to cause the dog pain.

He had just decided that the dog must be killed and had merely selected hanging as the method to be used.

The court, though, ruled that hanging a dog constitutes cruelty.

In light of this decision, would anybody like to defend our retention of hanging as our method of capital punishment?

WISDOM DAYS

At twelve a growing boy knows much.
With everything he keeps in touch
And strange to him this thought appears
Knowing as little as you do,
That you have labored all the years
And had some triumphs fall to you.

At table with you he may sneer,
Disputing everything you say,
And if you try to catch his ear
But slight attention he will pay.
He'll wonder how you've lived so long,
Your judgment always being wrong.

The proper ties you never buy,
Your choice of suits is out of date,
At meals he'll shake his head and sigh;
Your wisdom he will underrate.
He'll look at you in manner grave
And tell you that you need a shave.

Be patient through these wisdom days;
Bo glad he thinks so much he knows.
Remember it is just a phase
That every youngster undergoes;
To manhood he will quickly grow
And know as little as you know.

Thailand's Boxing Style

By Colin Jackson in the Windsor Star

The people in Thailand are great sportsmen. And around the world they have earned the reputation of being particularly fine boxers — boxing, that is, under Queensberry rules. But the sporting people have their own style of boxing, "thai boxing" as in Bangkok I went to one of their boxing matches.

The bouts are Pranom to start at five, but at 4.30 the huge stadium was packed to the rafters, the centre, with thousands cheering and shouting, getting into the mood. The referee took up his post assisted by two judges.

I looked at the program and saw the first fight was between Pranom Narubhai and Klatili Kong Sakulsuk. Pranom Narubhai was described as "the highlight of Narubhai camp, a colorful fist-fighter with elbow smashes, tough, a terrific pounder, with dangerous left hook, marching forward violently." And Klatili Kong Sakulsuk was down as "the terrific star of Sakulsuck camp, plenty of guts and punch, he has a knockout record, loving aggression with a lion's heart."

The boxers stepped into the ring to the deafening applause of their fans and of their rival's camps. Then instead of touching gloves and fighting, they went down on their knees—and prayed. Their arms went forward in a circular sort of swimming motion, their heads touched the floor three times and for a few seconds so they remained perfectly motionless and the crowd shouting a moment ago, fell silent.

Next these two tough fighters danced in the ring—wonderful, exquisit, yet most graceful, stylized dancing. Pranom's corner would swing around with the fist raised and clenched and a knee up. Then the other corner, each posture for a second or two looking for all the world like some old print of a boxer posing.

Each one finished up grabbing the ankle of his foot. Each bandaged his arm a sacred amulet as a symbol or protection.

Then the audience roared and the fight began, the most extraordinary match I have ever seen. That boxers use their arms encased in bandages around their ankles. Their gloves weigh eight ounces, and the rules say a boxer can use any limb to defend himself or attack his opponent with. That means he can use fist, elbow, knee or foot.

Pranom, in red shorts, after a little sparring, brought his foot up and caught Klatili in a resounding clap on the ear. Klatili swung round and very nearly cut Pranom's eye with his elbow. Then they exchanged a few normal boxing blows with their fists.

The good-humored crowd cheered wildly and urged them on. All the time, to add to this extraordinary scene, a band was playing orchestral accompaniment to each round. It wasn't western music but a strange oriental rhythm that worked itself up to a frenzy in the last 30 seconds of each round.

I marvelled how each boxer kept his balance as he kicked high at his opponent's head. Balancing dancers were nothing to them. But there was no doubt that for all the music and grace, pretty and good sportsmanship, that boxing could be a deadly punishing business. The rules say "biting, drawing the hair off, and spitting are not allowed" but it seemed pretty near everything else was.

Pranom had cauliflower Klatili very groggy now. It was the fifth and last round. Pranom's knee up and Klatili swung round. He threw more Queensberry blows and Pranom whirling round caught his opponent on the side of the head with his elbow. That was the end of the fight. Klatili went down for nine.

Following this Thai match there was a round under Queensberry rules, then back to more boxing bouts. After ten bouts I came away at the end, convinced not only that the Thais are great sportsmen, but frankly, after the tornadoes of kicks, elbow-blows and knee-pads, boxing that western boxing was just a little tame.

Letter To The Editor

Appeals for Funds For Consecon Camp

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Citizens of Belleville and of Hastings County:

Dear Fellow Citizens:

An appeal to you on behalf of our youth.

Consecon, a glorious, glamorous, joyous time of life—a time when ideals are being set up, and foundation laid for character and reputation. "As the years to come."

Located on the south shore of Consecon Lake, in one of the picturesque setting is the "Consecon Children's Camp." This camp has been operating under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for over thirty-five years on a non-profit, non-sectarian basis. During these years buildings have been erected to accommodate about sixty girls or boys and their leaders. Unfortunately, owing to a change in ownership of the property, our claim to the land cannot be established. Rather than abandon this worthy project we are purchasing the landsite and planning to enlarge and improve the camp.

Hastings County has an equal claim to consecon with Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington Counties. We appeal to you, as citizens of this County, to support us in this worthy undertaking. Your contribution will be gratefully received and used to build for the health and happiness of our youthful citizens.

Counting on your support on behalf of the youth of our City and Community.

Yours sincerely,
Myrtle Fretburn (secretary),
County Youth Temperance Council (Y.T.C.)

Bright Suns Bring Duties

Montreal Gazette

Housewives have always regarded spring as the time for housecleaning. And it is not hard to understand why. It is those bright spring suns, and the longer days, that are so merciless in showing up the dirt on the windows.

Everytime a housewife looks out, she is not only reminded of the beauties of spring but of the dirt on the glass. And if the windows have to be cleaned at night just as well be a general housecleaning.

At such times husbands had just as well be complacious by their chairs. Otherwise, if they are not commandeered as assistants, they are likely to be more or less swept out of the house by the cleaning process.

And any well-trained husband, coming home at night from the office, had just as well cast an eye about to see whether there has been a spring cleaning day. If it has, he should content himself with scrambled eggs and eat them thankfully, without a word. The end of a spring cleaning day is no time to become selective about the menu.

Nor can a husband expect to escape indefinitely his own share of the spring cleaning ritual. The front lawn and the backyard also display the sad lackadaisy of unraking winter. Old papers have collected the winter's erosion around the hedges. A mysterious bottle or two have melted out of the snowbanks. And always near the road is the odd and solitary rubber boot. There have to be sorted up and disposed of, before the outdoors can match the clean windows.

It's a chore, to be sure, and it should be escaped—by the young man with the rake pauses for a moment, and, leaning on his rake, whistles a little, there is something about the cool springtime air, and the softened sounds from far away, and the clear wide skies of sunset that make springtime seem a rare good season, after all.

Pussy-Willow Season Here

Ottawa Evening Journal

The pussy-willow's grey-fur nose is sniffing at the first rose-petal to test the nearness of spring. Nearly 20 species of willows have been described in Canada, but precious willow that is the pussy, and in most areas it is more likely to be a shrub than a tree.

If one wishes a new and interesting nature study, examining the buds of trees beneath a hand lens. The bud of the black willow, our most common, looks like a pussy willow, is a rich glowing red; the bud of the swamp willow has an orange hue. The bud of the pussy is a deep blue-black, sometimes decorated near the tip with a red-dish-maroon tinge.

Beneath a lens the countryman sees the richly-glowing yellow shades of the pollen-bearing, fuzzy scales and the soft green hues of the seed-bearing catkins. The tiny, pollen-bearing leaves, or anthers, on the stamens, are the life-givers; the pollen travels by wind or insect to the stigma at the top of the pistil, and then travels down a tube to the ovary.

The pussy-willow is not a majestic tree like an oak or a maple; it does not have the supple grace of a white birch nor the calm dignity of a tall evergreen. The pussies choose the low boughs, the humble, everyday shrubs. But when they toss their tassels blossoms to the blue skies of March and hang out their catkins, one knows that winter is over.

Bluenoses Explained

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A short time ago we read in the Toronto Star a correspondent's feature of an American paper that a "Bluenose" was a kind of potato. Now, Nova Scotia, the potato was called, the reply is because one eats all the blue thing.

That only the way we heered it.

In addition we learned from a friend having a thirst for information, we wrote to a native Nova Scotian for details for a first-hand explanation. She replied that when the Germans landed in Normandy they felt the unaccustomed cold very badly, and that is why they are called "Bluenoses." She never heard the potato story or any other version. That's how we heered it also.

In addition we learned from a native Nova Scotian for the benefit of the adjacent province of New Brunswick are known as "lobster ringbarkers." Reason for that is that the early settlers had to live much on herrings that they choked them down.

WATCH THE WHITE LINE

What would we do without the white line in the centre of the road? As I drove through the fog a few nights ago, I was aware of how impossible the trip would be without the white line and how were it not for this centre line, the left hand white line at the right of the road.

But it makes no difference how foggy the night, if we can still see the line we can get where we want to go. We may lose all sense of direction and distance but there is the white line. As long as we can see that, there is no danger—no confusion.

There will be something in everybody's life which corresponds to this white line. The Ten Commandments correspond to the white line. So does a sensitive conscience. They are the good background and sane and continuous voices of childhood. When one going gets rough, when the night is stormy, when we are not sure where the road is leading —right there before us is some line of white line—moral direction, prompting of conscience, home training, wise counsel of dear friends.

The notion that we can disregard the rules of the road constitutes hazard both on the public highways and on the pathway of our everyday living. We always have to watch that white line.

The Pathology of Rheumatiz

I do hope some readers now know that when I say rheumatiz I don't mean rheumatism. When I say rheumatiz I mean physical degeneration of joint tissues, which in most cases of individuals whose joint disability is due to nutritional deficiency through the years from childhood up to the present. Dr. Osler, whom I never saw, but died in 1919 — about the time foundations of the science of nutrition were built, if Osler were living today, I am confident he would not lightly dismiss the concept that joint disability which comes on insidiously and continues indefinitely is, in most instances, degeneration of joint tissues and not inflammation.

For that matter, Osler described degeneration of joint tissues, although he didn't characterize it so — he called it the morbid anatomy or pathology of chronic rheumatism:

"The synovial membranes are inflamed, but there is usually not much effusion. The capsule and ligaments of the joints become thickened, and the sheaths of the tendons in the neighborhood undergo similar alterations, so that the free play of the joint is greatly impaired . . . cartilages also undergo changes, and may ultimately disappear. Important changes take place in the muscles and nerves. . . . muscular atrophy. . . . peripheral neuritis . . .

Not a word about prevention — except, perhaps, the typical Osterian comment that "chronic rheumatism is more common among those whose occupation exposes them to cold and damp."

In the treatment of chronic rheumatism, Dr. Osler had little to offer: internal remedies are of little service. . . . maintain the digestive functions and keep the general health at a high standard . . . residence in Southern California . . . with patients should always winter in the South and in this way avoid the cold, damp weather." One comes upon Osler's psychrophobia and hypsophobia — morbid fear of cold and damp frequently in his Practice and in his Walking Life as Wm. Osler. Of the onset of the respiratory infections he refers to cause his death, Osler wrote:

"At the College Club dinner, sat in a draft and got chilled and all week felt as if a cold had come on. I began to cough and had a high fever . . ."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Just about fow the crow hunters are getting ready for the season, digging up their camouflaged coats and face masks and spending the evenings down cellar practising on their crow calls. Stuffed owls are being mounted on long joints of four-jointed twenty foot poles. The most ardent of the hunters have already been out scouting the farm woodlots to see whether the main lodges in the migration from the south has begun.

Crow shooting is largely an eastern sport, because it is in the east that the crow comes in the worst reputation. We have several kinds of crows in Canada, but the fish crow of the Atlantic coast, the western crow of the Pacific slope, and the northwestern crow of the salt water coast of Puget Sound. But the common crow that inhabits almost the whole of the continent from the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains and the foothills of the Rockies in the north, is the bird that seems to have all men's hands against it. It is the target of the sport of crow shooting.

To gun lovers, it offers shooting in the early autumn when all other shooting is taboo. Crows are early resters and it is when they are travelling in migration bands and during the nesting season, when every woodlot contains a number of nests, that the crow shooters, concealed in blinds at the wood's edge, and dressed in the camouflaged coats, utter their calls to lure their wooden or plastic crow calls, to bring the excited birds in close within gunshot. Sometimes they raise a stuffed owl on a long jointed pole and get excited and using place. As the crows fall, their bodies are flung up into the bare trees as a danger signal and further infuriate the crows, summoning others to the spot. It is the distress cries of a crow captured by owl or fox. It is astonishing how many crows can be blasted in a late afternoon's hour, especially when the day is cold.

They have crow shooting competitions in many parts of the Eastern states, and Canada is not far behind. Literally thousands of crows are slaughtered in particular small areas each spring and autumn, during the gathering of crows in large flocks at roosts. But it makes not the slightest apparent diminution in the crow population. Their number is so vast that they mopy right back into it again, replaced, as naturally it seems, as water reaches its level. Their numbers in April from the club car window of the railway across the Canadian prairies, where a clump of poplar for a thousand miles appears to house two cawing crops.

TODAY'S TALK

THE POWER OF THE SMILE

I love to look upon the smile of a baby, I wonder what has inspired it. That one little thing has the force it has been able to say a single word. Perhaps it is the never knowing. I wonder that is hidden in that smile, but we know it well and favorably known here; for a considerable time he was in the employ of Messrs. Wallbridge and Clarke, the leading grocers here.

Wouldn't you prefer to look upon a smile rather than a frown or a look of contempt? The power of a smile long lingers.

You can look upon an efficient worker when you note him silently smiling as he goes about his work. And I'll wager the smiling clerk in a store every time is the employer who gives a stare and says: "What do you want?" So would anyone. The smile I discern is a top investment.

The power of the smile is attested by every kind publisher of places: It is the clue to pleasantness. Something fine is always going on behind a genuine smile. I have known many a one who taught to witness a smile through all sorts of tests—sorrow, failure, discouragement, trouble and trials. I know a wonderful woman in my early school days who always went out into the multitude, no matter how she felt. You can enter most anywhere—with a smile!

JESUS LOVED THEM

OFFICIAL Whose Daughter Was Healed

". . . Behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live."

—Matthew IX:18

Luke, in his gospel account of this incident, tells us that the ruler's name was Jairus, and that he was governor of one of the synagogues—perhaps at Capernaum.

Moreover, we learn that it was the man's only daughter who was ill and that she was about twelve years of age.

Although the literal phrase in Matthew declares that "my daughter is even now dead," it is clear from Luke's narrative that the official meant that his daughter lay at the point of death when he left home, and probably had died by the time he reached Jesus.

As a matter of fact, a servant from the ruler's house arrived at that moment to declare:

"Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master."

But Jesus reassured the man who had sought Him out, fallen at His feet in humility, and expressed so great a faith ("lay thy hand upon her and she shall live").

"Fear not," He told Jairus, "believe only, and she shall be made whole."

And because Jairus did have faith, Jesus accompanied him to his house. By the time they arrived, the funeral rites were already in progress.

As was the custom, professional mourners were weeping and wailing loudly, accompanied by rude musical instruments. The practice was similar to the traditional Irish wake.

Jesus turned the mourners out of the house, and allowed only Peter, James, and John to go in with Him.

He told the mourners:

"Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth."

But, like skeptical materialists of all ages, "they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead."

Nevertheless, Jesus took the girl by the hand and called to her, saying: "Maid, arise."

"And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway: and he commanded to give her meat.

Once again, faith was the victor over disease and death.

MARY Sister of Martha

"And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word."

—Luke X:39

Mary, the sister of Martha, is sometimes called the Contemplative Mary because of her deep, meditative devotion in the presence of Jesus.

She lived with her sister and her brother Lazarus in Bethany, a village about two miles outside Jerusalem. All three were intimate friends of Jesus who showed a great affection for them, and often visited in their home with His disciples.

When Martha called upon Jesus to rebuke Mary because the latter sat listening to the Master's every word while Martha prepared supper, Jesus explained that Mary had chosen the good part, the "one thing needful."

Six days before the passover, Jesus came to Bethany with His disciples and was, as usual, invited to supper. Present at the table, in addition to Martha and Mary, was Lazarus, whom Jesus had raised from the dead.

Grateful to Jesus for His love, and perhaps sensing that the time of separation was near, Mary expressed her affection and respect in a most dramatic way.

She took "a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment."

Judas Iscariot muttered that this seemed a waste of money that could have been given to the poor. But Jesus silenced him with the words:

"Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this. For the poor always ye have with you; but me you have not always."

Most Catholic authorities hold that the sinner mentioned in Luke VII:36-50, Mary the sister of Martha, and Mary Magdalene are all the same person.

The Greek Fathers and later Protestant scholars do not agree, but distinguish the three.

As in the case of the James', we can only wish that the Gospel writers had been more explicit in identifying the persons around Jesus.

Distilled Water Best for Battery

By EUGENE MILMOE

Whenever you add battery water, don't become overzealous. Fill only to the level indicated in the cells. Overfilling results in some loss of electrolyte, plus corrosion on battery cables and case.

Only distilled water should be used, but in an emergency you may substitute clean rain water if the battery is running dry. When water must be added frequently, overcharging is the reason and it usually means regulator trouble.

Frequent discharging and recharging are battery enemies. So is excessive heat, usually due to high engine temperatures and poor underhood ventilation.

See that all battery connections are free of heavy corrosion, and keep them clean. Otherwise you may damage headlights and points.

If you are storing a spare battery, keep it in a cool place and see that it's recharged every three or four weeks.

I.L. writes: "When new ignition points are installed how is the timing affected if they are not set according to the proper specifications?"

(A) If the point gap is too narrow, ignition timing is retarded. When the gap setting is greater than specified it will cause the timing to be advanced.

N.S. asks: "Some tire experts caution us about high speed driving immediately after the car is first started on a cold morning. Is there really any danger in this?"

(A) You should give the tires, as well as the engine, a fair chance to warm up. Danger is greater when the tires are cold.

From W.A.: "I had been using a very thin oil in my 1952 car and was getting a knocking noise from the engine. A garage said it was a bearing knock and told me to use heavier oil. When I changed over, the heavy oil did cure the noise. I'd like to know if this oil will always cause a bearing knock."

(A) The bearing, not the oil, actually causes the knock. Heavy oil can cushion a slightly loose main or rod bearing that knocks when engine oil is too thin.

R.C. writes: "I have a 1957 V-8 model. I am a rural mail carrier and cover approximately 77 miles with 175 stops. With this type of driving, I average almost 12 miles to the gallon. If I take the car on a trip and drive at 60 m.p.h., I get little better than 13 miles per gallon. The carburetor was checked several times, a new one was even tried, but nothing helped."

(A) This milage isn't at all unusual or as poor as it might seem. Higher speed will always waste more gas. If your average speed on the trips were a moderate 35 or 40 m.p.h., you would probably get a good, three or four more miles to the gallon.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

CANADA GEESE

While travelling between feeding areas in the south and breeding grounds in the north, migrating birds require adequate resting places, equipped with highway restaurants. The type of accommodation needed depends upon the species in question. Many have by now been on the way for some time, and although they have the urge to return home, hundreds of miles cannot be overcome in one long flight.

High flying, honking Canada Geese are moving up in wedge formation from the rice fields of Carolina, the marshes of Georgia, and the beaches of the Gulf of Mexico. U.S. Wildlife Refuges will be depleted. Journeying either by day or by night, the big birds will come down to earth when they reach an area along their route which offers food, water, and protection.

VARIED MENU

There must be plenty of aquatic plants, including eelgrass, tubers, and roots. When new shoots appear in spring, grain fields are favourite lunch counters. Grass that has sprung up after a fire suits them well. Geese are able to feed either on land or under water, and those which travel along the Atlantic coast take certain invertebrates found on the mud flats. If their course lies Westland, stop overs must occur near a lake, a pond, or a marsh. Bulrushes, cat-tails, or sawgrass must prevail as hiding places. Their mealtimes are a very regular affa ours, but there are only two early morning and late afternoon. In between, they congregate in some secluded spot and rest.

MATE FOR LIFE

Clannish to the highest degree, the families of last summer are still together, forming one unit in the big flock which contains all their relatives that are also returning to the same estate. Canada Geese mate for life, and the offspring make their homes as near as possible to their birthplaces. Consequently, the same birds pass over and are given shelter every spring, and stop over at the same restaurants. One of the best stops for those using the Mississippi flyway is the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary, which their ancestors have been using these last 45 years or so. There they know they will be safe from molestation.

The destination of these Geese will be Canada's north, particularly the breeding area of the Hudson Bay district, where they aim to arrive once spring's warm sun has thawed the ice-covered ponds and marshes. On high ground near water, a flat platform of sticks and grasses will be built by each pair, and there a new generation of Canada Geese will be born.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Opinions of Other Retired People May Help You to More Contentment

Whatever you believe about retirement, whatever your prospects for happiness when it comes, there is a kindred soul living around the corner . . . and sometimes he has something important to say.

For example:

To those who oppose compulsory retirement — "I learned many years ago that industry and business make tremendous mistakes when they insist upon compulsory retirement at a certain age. This destroys the individual's freedom of choice and pushes him out in the cold with nothing to do at an age when continuing activity and interests are essential if he is to finish out his life span in usefulness and happiness." That comes from J.H Friedman, board chairman of the National Machinery Company, Tiffin, Ohio.

To those worried over how little money they will have—"Retired people worry too much about finances. We have been retired a year now, and it has been the most relaxing year of my life. My husband and I are just getting acquainted with each other . . . we never had time before. We don't have much money, but the fact that we can live a normal life for the first time in our lives more than makes up for it. Concentrate on enjoying yourself and each other instead of looking for money. In other words, count your blessings." These are the words of Mrs. Fern C. Andrus, now retired with her husband in Ashland, Oreg.

TRAILER PARKS

To those who live in trailer parks—"It'll be mighty nice when you stop writing me indignant letters. All I said was that there was a slight difference between a trailer park and heaven and all retired people ought to know it. It could be! I was wrong. Certainly some trailer parks are splendid; certainly many of the people living in them are among the best people there are. And there's no question they can write mighty indignant letters than anybody." This from the author of this column, who is going to write another column on trailers soon.

To those who don't know what to do about retirement—"When a couple retires, they are starting a new life. They should go to a new place and start new lives, rather than staying among people they know and boring them by continual visits. Pick a spot where life is pleasant, probably in the South. Obtain a house on a virgin tract of land. It will take you a couple of years to develop it, planting grass, shrubs, trees and flowers. You can find churches and clubs if you like. You will find neighbors accept you. You can become a part of the community. A pioneer spirit in entering a new environment pays rich rewards for a retired couple. Don't worry about retirement. Develop a pioneering spirit and you can have the time of your life." This from Ray C. Schroeder, Shreveport, La.

To those who think the boss doesn't care — "When the good Lord created man, He created him for a purpose. And He admonished man that idleness was the Devil's workshop. Thus, retirement to a state of idleness is contrary to life's purpose and cannot, for long, produce either satisfaction or happiness. With this thought in mind I suggest you give consideration to the creation of a Senior Citizens Service Center. Such an organization would serve as a means of bringing together all the retired people of a community, regardless of craft, position or profession, who are interested in using their time and talents. Would it not be a wonderful tribute to have been architect of an organization which helped to bring a greater measure of happiness and economic well-being to your fellow man and to your nation?" This is from a talk that W. G. Vollmer, president of the Texas and Pacific Railways, made to his veteran employees.

"I've wrapped it up so that he won't guess what it is."

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

An old world custom with lovely sentiment is the planting of a tree when a child is born. Usually one is chosen that matures with him, but could equally well be a type that spans his childhood. An important tradition can be established by planting a tree for the child, with his assistance, on any birthday.

The Face on the Stamp

The Gambling Violinist of Poland

By Nicholas Mika

Among musical instruments the violin is a wonder of beauty and simplicity. At the touch of a master's hand it sings a song of rejoicing or weeps in sorrow. Wild and passionate, it stirs the restless blood, tender and charming, it comforts the soul. There is no other instrument that like the violin can give expression to the feelings of the human heart. But only once in a while is a master born to whom it surrenders its magic powers.

One of the greatest violinists the world has known came from Poland. As a child his brilliant playing made his teachers gasp. Rather than study his simple lessons, he played the most difficult pieces with amazing ease. He won prizes and went on concert tours when he was barely twelve years old.

But one day he abruptly ended his career, went back to his studies and did not appear again in public until he felt that his violin-had become a part of himself. His ambition did not allow him to be an artist only, he wanted to be a master. He had a sensitive soul and only played when his impulse told him to. When he felt restless and nervous, he did not hesitate to cancel a concert. The only time he kept up his contract in all details and appeared for every single engagement, was during his tour through America. His finances did not permit him any caprices.

As hard as he tried to economize, money ran through his fingers like water. He was a strange mixture of two great passions. One was his violin, the other the gambling table. On stage he forgot the world around him. A fiery temperament counted with heartbreaking melancholy of his artistry and compositions magically touched his audience wherever he went. To hear him play was an unforgettable experience for thousands all over the world. The bow in his hand seemed to turn his violin into a fairy instrument.

But as soon as he stepped from the stage, his angel left him and the demon in him took over. He gamb[illegible]d until he lost every cent he owned. One night, when he had nothing left but debts, he set his precious violin at stake. With feverish eyes he watched the wheel turn. Only when he realized that he had lost his instrument, did he come to his senses. To get it back he sacrificed one of his compositions, the famous Ballade and Polonaise, and gave his partner the right to publish under his name.

FAILING HEALTH

Gradually, his health began to fail him. In Berlin during a concert he broke down and had to be carried off the stage. After that he could only play while sitting. He went to Russia and since he was too weak to appear in public, he gave violin lessons. But once more he attempted to go back to the stage. The audience cheered before he began to play the Kreutzer Sonata. Suddenly, a few minutes later, his arm dropped and his violin crashed to the floor.

He died in the house of a generous, wealthy lady, leaving behind him not earthly goods, but a lovely memory in those who once heard him play his magic violin. And among the compositions that will live forever, were the famous Legende and the Souvenier de Moscow by Henri Wieniawski.

Henri Wienlawski appeared on Polish stamps in 1952.

Fellowship Club Views Pictures Of Europe

The Fellowship Club of Holloway Street United Church held its March meeting Wednesday night in the church parlors. Mrs. Ken Reid, the president, opened the meeting. After singing a hymn the usual business was conducted.

Mrs. MacFarlane and Mrs. Anderson took charge of the program. Mrs. Anderson offered a Lenten prayer and Mrs. Gilbert Chant sponsored Mr. Robert Turner. The next hour was spent watching colored pictures of Scotland and England. For those who may never visit these countries it was a delightful trip. travel there through the medium of pictures and the interesting commentary of Mr. Turner. The profusion of flowers everywhere was outstanding and the members enjoyed seeing the old historical castles, forts, bridges and other landmarks they have read about. The group expressed thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Turner for a delightful evening.

While guests and members visited, tea was prepared and refreshments served by the two women in charge.

Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan Addresses Club

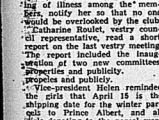
Archdeacon J. Creeggan gave a talk to the Christ Church Parent Club on the subjects of Education in Canada, prayer and religion in the home and the forthcoming mission visit to the Diocese of Ontario this fall.

The Archdeacon accompanied his talk with a picture and chalks to illustrate more clearly to the girls the importance of good Christian living in the home and the wonderful influence it has on small children.

Miss Settle, study group convener, thanked the Archdeacon on behalf of those present and remarked that, since so many of the girls are members of families of small children, his interesting talk would certainly be "food for thought."

A short business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. Helen McCormick, presiding in the absence of the president, Alice Simmons.

Phyllis Hume, sunshine convener, requested the girls knowing of illness among the members, notify her so that no one would be overlooked by the club.



Catharine Roulet, vestry council representative, gave a short report on the last vestry meeting. The report included the inauguration of a committee to promote properties and publicity.

Jessie Bell, publicity.

Vice-president Helen reminded the girls that April 15 is the shipping date for the winter parcel to Prince Albert, and all girls donating to the parcel were requested to do so ahead of this date. Helen also announced that the next meeting would be Monday night for the bazaar to be held in May. All girls will be needed to help prepare for this important project.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Dorothy Kelly, Catherine Rodier and Margaret Cooke, bringing another Contact Club night to a close.

KIENHUIS — KELLETT

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a wedding of wide interest Saturday, February 16, at 2 p.m., when Patricia Emily, daughter of Mrs. Calvin Kellett, and the late Calvin Kellett, of Belleville, became the bride of William Herbert Kienhuis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilhelm Kienhuis, of Edmonton, Alberta. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, officiated.

The altar was adorned with bouquets of giant white gladioli and "mums, interspersed with pale pink snapdragons setting the pink and white theme. Tall candelabra with lighted tapers lent a lovely accent over all. Large white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Harold McNish, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You," while the wedding party was in the vestry.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Stanley E. Kellett, of Crystal Beach, Ontario, was beautiful in her bridal gown of white hand-clipped French imported chantilly lace over tulle illusion, and slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a scalloped sweetheart neckline, and long, tight sleeves, ending in lily points. The full, floor-length skirt cascaded into a chapel train. From a crown of seed pearls fell the fingertip length tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade of shell-pink carnations, stars of bethlehem and stephanotis centred by a large white orchid with heading of necklace of pearls and matching earrings completed her ensemble.

The bride was attended by Mrs. William A. Wesley, Peterborough, Ontario, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Belleville, sister of the bride, Joan Fraser, Trenton, and Barbara Jeanne Wallace, as bridesmaids, were lovely in aquamarine French chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices, having round necklines front and back, and with small rolled cuffs and short, bouffant, crinolined skirts. They wore headbands and mitts of matching velveteen. Their shoes were of matching aquamarine, and they carried cascades of delicate pink carnations and stephanotis with shower bouquets of pink and lavender ribbon. All wore necklaces of pearls and matching earrings, gifts of the bride.

Mr. Glenn Long, Montreal, P.Q., was groomsman. The ushers were Messrs Donald Kellett, of Clarkson, Ontario, brother of the bride, William Kienhuis, Belleville, and Peter Bartman, Montreal, P.Q.

Following the ceremony, a reception for over 100 guests was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Kellett received, in a sheath cocktail dress of pale pink and silver lace brocade, with a corsage of matching chiffon and her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses. A fur necklpiece completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Todd, sister of the bridegroom, assisted, wearing a printed silk jacket dress in turquoise with a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses. Her hat and gloves were of white, and her corsage complemented the dress. In the receiving line were also the bride's brother and bride, and bridegroom, and the bridesmaids. The bride's table was beautifully arranged by a four-tier pedestal wedding cake, resplendent with blue bird's and pink tea roses on each tier, and topped with a white bell centred with lily-of-the-valley. On either side were candelabra, and greenery intertwined with white gladioli and pink snapdragons. The bride's bouquet, flanked with the bridesmaids' flowers, added a lovely nuptial accent. Each of the guest tables was tastefully centred in pink and white alternately, gladioli, tulips and snapdragon, interwined with greenery.

During the reception Mr. Harold McNish sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mr. Gordon at the Alec Gordon.

For travelling to Montreal and the Laurentians, the bride chose a dress of wedgewood-blue wool, with white gloves and shoes, topped by a brown muskrat jacket. Her hat was of wedgewood-blue felt, blue with pale-blue trim. Shoes and purse were of navy blue, and she wore a white orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Kienhuis will reside at Mundo Lake Lodge, RR 663, Alaska Highway. The bride groom's gift to his bride, a beautiful jewel case.

Guests were present from Barrie; Belleville; Clarkson, Ontario; Clarkston, Alberta; Clarkson, Ontario; Concsson; Crystal Beach; Edmonton, Alberta; Gananoque, Ontario; Lindsay; MacDonald, Manitoba; Montreal, P.Q.; Newcastle; Scarborough; Oshawa; Peterborough; Picton; Trenton and Toronto.

Recent Bride Feted By Trousseau Tea, Showers of Gifts

Prior to her marriage to William Herbert Kienhuis, Miss Patricia Kelly was honored by a trousseau tea given by her mother, Mrs. Calvin Kellett.

The tea table was appropriately appointed with floral centre while bouquets of daffodils and tulips decorated the spacious rooms. Mrs. John Kay presided at the silver services, while Mrs. Buchanan poured.

The bride-to-be was also honored by a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. A. Welch, Belleville, with Mrs. W. Wesley, of Peterborough, as co-hostess. The color scheme was gayly decorated in pink and white, and while the bride-elect was busily unwrapping her lovely gifts, showers of confetti rained upon them from suspended balloons.

Mrs. W. Carson kept the evening gay with fortune telling.

Bounteous and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Welch; assisted by the Misses Barbara Jones, Theresa Lucas, Marge Daniels and Laura Tackaberry.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Garbutt, Trenton, by Mrs. Cecil Garbutt and the bride's co-workers.

Previous to the opening of the gifts, slides were shown.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Garbutt, assisted by her daughter.

Winston Churchill School Scene of Lively 'Fun Fair'

A successful crowd turned out Friday night for the "Fun Fair" at Sir Winston Churchill School. Convened by Mrs. A. W. Rump and Mrs. R. Kowal, it was the first fair of this type sponsored by the Home and School Association at the school.

The auditorium, where the home cooking, white elephant and bottle booths were located, was decorated with yellow and green crepe paper and a colorful theme. Mrs. C. Powell was decorating convener for the night.

Daffodils and pussy willows formed centrepieces for the home cooking table. Assortment of cookies, cup cakes, gaily-decorated cakes, and a variety of pies were included in the many items on sale. Mrs. B. M. Kerr convened this table. Assisting her were Mesdames E. D. Alyea, J. Gardiner, A. Coulter, L. Nesbitt and S. Hood.

Homemade fudge was the main attraction for sale at the candy booth. Mrs. T. S. Hay, assisted by Mesdames D. Hanham, L. Beldon and H. Arthurs, convened this booth.

A large variety of items was on display at the white elephant booth. Sale of aprons, baskets, jewellery, glassware, a dainty polka dot apron, clothes, children's books and toys were on sale here. Convener, Mrs. W. M. Fotheringill, assisted by Mesdames R. Grant, T. Riley, A. C. Taylor and A. E. Thompson.

The fish pond was a popular spot for the youngsters. The children held their fishing prizes in anticipation of "landing their catch." Mrs. A. Carlson convened the fish pond, while Mrs. J.P. Connell was in charge of the boys' Their assistants were Mesdames A. Welch, W. Rose, D. A. Mair, A. Cress, W. Lindsay, H. Eacott, W. Williamson, R. Murray, A. B. Boothe, G. Russell and H. W. Hammond.

Movies were shown during the evening. These included cartoon "Chimp's Jamboree", "Eye Witness" and "Snow Man in July" with Stan Laurel. Mr. A. E. Dodge were the movie projectionists.

For the parents wishing a moment of rest while having a cup of coffee, the kindergarten room was turned into a coffee room. Mrs. M. Rigby convened this, assisted by Mesdames A. Johnston, A. McLaughlin, D. Purdy, L. R. Truman and H. Lutton.

Mrs. R. Jones and Mrs. D. Brown were in charge of selling programs. Selling soft drinks and ice cream were Mrs. J. Brown and her committee, consisting of Mesdames J. F. Parnell, G. Mountford, H. G. James, C. Powell and Wilson.

Mrs. J. M. Hunter and her assistants, Mrs. F. L. Jones and Mrs. D. E. Sweitzer, were ticket takers. Convener of the cloak room was Mrs. E. Williston. Aiding her were Mesdames F. H. Wright, W. H. Parks and W. E. Brewster.

Messrs. M. E. Robertson, O. MacMullen, R. Rowe, C. Wilson and Kirkland acted as guards. Treasurer was Mr. B. M. Kerr.

This - and That

The opera is coming to Belleville once more, tonight. No, we are not confused with Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, nor is it TV and T suffering from delusions. The final concert of "The Community Concerts Association, of Belleville" features the de Paur's Opera Gala. At the collegiate auditorium, Belleville citizens will hear three operas, "Porgy and Bess", "Four Saints in Three Acts", and "Carmen Jones". There are 55 in this opera company, with an orchestra of 25. We will be delighted again with the baritone voice of Lawrence Winters who sang in Belleville last season and is now a member of the de Paur Opera. We are looking forward serving and the time appropriate for reference to at least two decades of perseverance by your local association. When we came to Belleville eight years ago this concert association was in its infancy and like any child struggling for survival. We can recall dedicated people spending many hours canvassing and selling tickets, or developing good music available in our city. They wanted to bring to blue with pale-blue trim. Shoes our city the best music and artists and their faith has prevailed through a world war until now we can say 1956-1957 season and April the 6th by bringing dePaur's Opera Gala to the auditorium at BCVS.

There is nothing qualitative about the word community when used as an adjective to describe your Belleville concert association. Music is the universal acknowledging no boundary between race, creed, class or country. We mean of course music in its literal sense which should not be confused with other musical gyrations or sound distortion. The Community Concerts Association of Belleville is deserving of, and entitled to, a bow for a considerable contribution to cultural progress of Belleville at the community level. Mr. and T trust the association will be held between April 12 and 18 from the YMCA receives increased support as a community non-profit effort for next season.

Your Ontario Intelligencer serves a community within which the Women's Institutes are very, very strong. The Committee of Correspondence, New York, records in its February bulletin an interesting story. Friends of the Committee have, from time to time, mentioned the fact that they experience a wide gap between the interests of urban and rural women in their organizations. The following is a report from a Canadian Canadaia.

"The strength of the Women's Institute movement in our country lies in its ability to unite rural and urban opinion on matters of national importance. The 52 Women's Institutes which make up our Federation are divided as follows: 38 in farming and ranching centres; 8 in mining centres; 6 in towns; 3 in industrial centres. Each institute is an independent unit, formed to enable women to take an effective part in life and service in the community; they are non-party political and non-sectarian. A federation constitutes is the co-ordinating body working on the national level. A liaison officer in Ottawa who has access to Ministers and heads of Government departments, able to confer with them, or place before them the views of the members. The Government has recognized the work of its women on many occasions by inviting support of assistance, especially in the field of health. At present women are serving on the Advisory Committee Boards of Southern Rhodesia: broadcasting, grain marketing, tourist advisory, housing and nutrition."

"It can't be feels that the hundreds of members of the W. I. in our district will be proud of this brief but comprehensive report of the magnificent contribution their organization is making to the national life of Southern Rhodesia.

The recent campaigns for funds to assist in research for heart disease and cancer, and the polio drive from Australia. A machine invented by an American doctor is being used in Melbourne, workers in three Melbourne hospitals have developed a machine which they believe will enable surgeons to perform operations not possible at present. Doctors in Australia are expected to be completed within a year. The machine will temporarily expand the scope of heart surgery, and possibly lead to relief of many sufferers from coronary thrombosis age. It would have a "tremendous effect" on the mortality rate from heart disease. The machine has now reached the stage where it could be tested on animals. In the Australian research teams have been formed. Many expect it will be encouraging news to heart sufferers.

The first lighthouse in Canada was established at Louisbourg, N.S., in 1734, or 222 years ago next Monday.

Our thought for this weekend comes from The Samuel Johnson Sentinel, Stanstead, at Prince of Wales College, Charlettetown, P.E.I., in 1855. Dr. Johnson is written delivered the lecture in which she quoted the following words from the Mauritius Indian paphrazing Horace:

"Over all the world says, "first of all get on,

And then get honor if it comes your way;

And, last, when life and strength are gone,

Get honest also when you've had your day."

Dr. Johnson was deploring "the superficial values which obsessed the Canadian people in the heady days of the late 1920's.

Pretty useful to come upon a dress that not only does double for the figure but that can be worn in any climate for late day and evening. Here's one such gem, of sheerest wool jersey knitted black wool buttoned from neck to hem. An enormous pink peau de sole bow comes from the camisole that peeps out at the deep arm holes and from the deep V back.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W. G.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women's Guild held their annual parlors recently for its monthly meeting. Mrs. Shaw, president, opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer.

Reports from group leaders were given with Harmony group announcing a turkey dinner to be catered to in April. Sunshine group announced a rummage sale to be held shortly.

The business meeting closed with a hymn and benediction.

Mrs. Barlow introduced the speaker, Mr. N. Haslam, and his assistant, Mr. Bennett. Mr. Haslam is the head of the Hastings County Conservation Association. He pointed out that in the last seven years great advance has been made in combatting this dread disease but that there still is much to be done. Early detection is most important. He recommended X-ray, early treatment.

Two films were shown — an amusing one entitled What Did You Eat" film "How to Catch a Cold", followed by "The Inside Story of TB."

Mrs. Shaw thanked Mr. Haslam and Mr. Baird for showing their films.

Master Hugh Bondy sang a hymn, and Mrs. Bennett in the Sunshine group held a bake sale. Refreshments were served, closing the meeting.

Inky Fingers Do Not Bother Woman Shorthand Reporter For Parliamentary Committees

OTTAWA (CP) — Fingers perpetually stained with ink are trademarks of Mrs. Joan Blair's profession.

But inky fingers don't bother the first woman shorthand reporter for parliamentary committees. She began her job in the House of Commons committee reporting branch earlier this month.

"I was nervous on the first take but after that it went well. I guess it's like going on stage for the first time," said the former Toronto resident minutes later she finished her precedent - breaking first day.

Sitting in Parliament Hill's west block cafeteria, Mrs. Blair eyed her late lunch—an egg sandwich and tea—and said she's had tougher assignments.

Tht 33-year-old shorthand expert's speed is 200 words a minute. "It's no more than you need."

She said she always carries two ink-filled pens. "Just the thought of having only one with me might dry up my flow and me the jitters."

A housewife and mother of a young daughter, she recently spent three months as court reporter at the United Nations General Assembly.

"I wouldn't have minded it," said the vivacious, brown-haired young woman who has also reported some of the verbatim proceedings of Canadian royal commissions.

Mrs. Blair has the same status as her three male committee-reporting colleagues.

"She's an excellent reporter—we're very happy to have her," said senior reporter C. L. Enright.

Committee reporting demands quick skill and speed of a highly-proficient shorthand writer. It's recognized as an introduction to shorthand reporting for Hansard, official verbatim record of debates in Parliament.

If the trim, blue-eyed native of the Channel Island ring Guernsey prefers a more stable job, she's gained her membership in the Chartered Shorthand Reporters Association and an honorary membership in a British shorthand reporters group.

In Canada, she met and married Scottish-born Douglas Blair, 36, a former salesman now studying shorthand at the same Toronto school where his wife graduated with a gold medal.

Janet, 5, was born in Toronto with her father. But the Blair shorthand reporting team and their daughter plan to settle eventually in Ottawa.

Colorful Touring Tent Circus Now Only a Happy Memory

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Dr. W. C. Hoyt, director of the Circus Hall of Fame in Sarasota, Fla., is a lumberjack at heart. The ringing voice, sparkling eyes, and a bristling personality which refuses to give gives little sign of the many decades of rough circus life behind him.

But his voice falls a little when, during our guided tours he concedes, he says:

"This year, for the first time in 82 years, no one will hear the sounds and see the sights of the tars being unloaded in the morning. For the days of the touring tent circus are over."

As he paces after those words you can almost hear his afterthought that seems it's just as well; many times during his lecture, when he talks about such things as band-concert floats and drag shoes and wagons with 40-horse hitches—recent history, also—he remarks that the circus isn't what it used to be anymore.

So it isn't, in the famed Barnum and Bailey Winter Quarters here in Sarasota, where we recently for a circus grounds. You hear no early morning steam calliope, the elephant stables being hosed down and an occasional chorus of roars from the big cats, and a whinny from one of the graceful white stallions that carried the daring and glamorous bareback riders.

Nor is there is no crack of whips or shouts from trainers or alleyway performers. Instead, performers There is no activity in the yards full of the gay red and green railroad cars. Announcements, now, are the wooden wagons that used to parade around the heart of a village child with the most scintillating of all exciting words, stallions! Let's have a parade, 11 a.m. rain or shine.

In place also is the Hall of Fame the circus lives on a little hill. There are a few acts, mostly animal, which are trained, literally her hands in and a few youngsters hoping for their big breaks. Somewhere fascinating are the mementoes of the old days: the famous Tom Thumb coach, the butterfly tea names like Sells Floto, Robinson, Cole, and Forepaugh—are quietly carved carousel horses which no one would bother to make today; the pictures of the repugnant but fascinating freak of prodigal Barnum call them, and so he did), and the endless costumes, jewels and flavors of another world in another time —before electronics.

Miami is New York down south. Sarasota and Bradenton have the comfortably familiar air of your home town, with perhaps more sunshine and a nodding acquaintance with palm trees.

Miami Beach, Ft. Lauderdale, Palm Beach, glamorous and sometimes stunningly beautiful, are the place else. The west coast cities are a great deal like most of the small communities we came from, which is apparently the reason so many people live. They all seem to be that much happier for it.

What Christian Science Does about "Growing Older"

The tick of time first taunts man with his lack of experience, then haunts him with the fear of creeping shadow of advancing years.

Christian Science teaches in a plain, practical way how to escape the fear of old age in relation to all such mortal measurements.

SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy shows how to find, here and now, the blessed ground of spiritual reality in everything which is ageless. This results in health, and freedom from the fear of declining strength, joy, and usefulness.

Science and Health will be sent postpaid for $1.50.

Bay of Quinte W.M.S. Branch Holds 13th Biennial Meeting

The Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada held its 13th biennial meeting at St. Andrew's United Church, Oshawa, March 19, 20 and 21 with 130 delegates and officers attending.

The W.M.S. of the four United churches of Oshawa combined their forces to provide excellent meals, transportation, comfort and billets for the delegates and officers, with Mrs. L. Pegg, general convener, and Mrs. B. B. Galbraith as billeting convener. Greetings were brought at the dinner hour by Dr. Mellow, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church; Dr Osborne, principal of Ontario Ladies College, Whitby, and Mrs. Ives, president of Conference branch W.A., and the Rev. George Telford of St. Andrew's United Church.

Speakers included the Rev. E. F. Long, secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada; Mrs. L. H. Craig of the Dominion board, Dundas, Ontario and Miss Doris Venthan, business manager of Rullan Hosp:tal, Central India, on furlough. The Rev. E. F. Long brought an uplifting message in his portrayal of Christ as a gardener out to make growth, and not to cut down. He spoke of the need of patience, understanding and loyalty to God and His ultimate purpose when the process of the church seems to be of slow growth. People must make use as gardeners, following His footsteps, as the tools of worship and truth. To exemplify his words he told of his visits to Seoul, Korea, where the church is so vital, due to worship, and in Russia where the church is still alive in spite of deprivations, to the call of the crowd of women gathered in a church in Moscow to hear a woman read the Bible. "They are ready cry for it and it is a business to bring the word of truth to as free people have it in God's world to all people at all times.

Much regret was expressed for the illness of Miss Dorothy Pearson, on furlough from Central India. Miss Dulcie Venthan of Central India, dressed in a beautiful blue and pearl sari, told of the changed methods of missionary work in India to keep pace with economic and political changes. Today Christianity is taught by living and practical means and not as speaking. Where in years past the purely evangelical work may have been stressed, today the evangelistic side is combined with teaching in agriculture, medical work, nursing, as co-workers with the people of India, not as leaders. She enlisted the prayer of every Indian girls for her sisters in India as she told of their work and conditions there. They, in turn, will offer prayers for the Canadian girls as they take up their work here.

Mrs. L. H. Cragg spoke of the new look in women's work in the church, which is being studied in an effort to correlate the work of the church in the total mission of the church.

PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Reports were given by the various secretaries by means of panel discussions. A showing of marked advance in all departments, except mission study which had decreased in number, party due to amalgamation with other organizations. However, mission circles have been active and several new ones have gone from their ranks. Twelve new mission bands were organized and one new baby circle. There was an increase in auxiliaries and membership, with an increase of 76 life members.

Mrs. Craighead reported that all seven specialties exceeded their allocations with a total of $3,776 for 1956. This sum was voted to be used for radio, and television religious programs and scholarships at a girls' high school in Seoul, Korea. Total bequests received was $30,136.47.

Worship services were conducted by Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, president of Belleville Presbyterial; Mrs. Erdei Lean, president of Cobourg Presbyterial; Mrs. A. M. Stewart, president of Renfrew Presbyterial; Westmount United Church C.G.I.T., Mrs. W. F. Young, president of Kingston Presbyterial; Everett Mark, Little Britain and the noon meditation of Mrs. W. Scott, Renfrew centred on the theme "God's Changeless Word." Each treated the theme differently as they spoke of the power, the blessings, and what God's word means to people in their daily living. This theme, too, was enlarged by the film "My Right and My Cause," which pictured the practicalness, the beauty and ingenuity of the Korean people in preserving their heritage from the Communists during the war.

Mrs. C. D. McLellan, candidate secretary, impressed on the audience the urgency of presentation to the youth of today, of the need and opportunity of full-time workers in the church, of all vocations. This choice of life work begins at home where there should be free and full discussions of the different vocations. The idea of service with a wholesome respect for the church must be presented from childhood.

The following list of officers was elected for 1957: past president, Mrs. S. W. Spafford, Belleville; president, Mrs. F. E. McKinney, Brooklin, Ont.; first vice president, Mrs. B. H. Soper, Smiths Falls; second vice president, Mrs. L. M. Somerville, Courtice, Ont.; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Harold Lewis, R. R. 1, Peterborough; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Elton Werry, Bowmanville; and treasurer, Mrs. A. Scriver, Perrycroft.

Secretaries include: Christian Stewardship, Mrs. W. A. Scott, Renfrew; affiliated Explorers groups, Mrs. H. Brayshaw, Kingston; affiliated C.G.I.T. groups, Mrs. A. R. Cooke, Kingston; Mission Bands, Mrs. W. G. Underwood, Grafton; Baby Bands, Mrs. J. Bertrand, Corbyville; Mission Circles, Mrs. A. Hewitt, Belleville; Cobourg; Mrs. Ethel Horton, Belleville; community friendship, Mrs. Delbert Carmen, Madoc; literature, Mrs. H. Langley, Smiths Falls; candidate secretary, Mrs. C. D. McLellan, Napanee; Missionary Education and World Friends, Mrs. Everett Mark, Little Britain; Christian citizenship, Mrs. T. F. Townsend, Belleville; press, Mrs. G. H. Hewitt, Belleville; community and membership, Mrs. James Whyte, Smiths Falls, Ont., and Dean of school for Leaders, Mrs. B. H. Soper, Smiths Falls.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A BOY WHO NEEDS HELP, AND QUICKLY

What kind of man can it be who, having married a woman with a young son, then proceeds to make a nervous wreck of the child by persecuting him?

The particular man I've just been reading about, in a heartbreaking letter written by the boy's mother, persecutes his wife's 12-year-old son in two ways, either by constantly criticizing him or by dynamiting his happiness, security and self-confidence with blasts of cruel disparagement.

To increase the boy's unhappiness and misery, the man in question whose marriage to his mother was annulled, has ever paid any attention to him whatever. Thus, as the mother puts it, "the lad has no father to confide in, or to help him in his life."

This unfortunate mother, her letter says, is exceedingly hostile toward her boy and is "constantly criticizing him or sarcastically mimicking him. If the mother attempts to defend the child or something he has done that is worthy of commendation, the stepfather ridicules it.

"My husband made such scenes on weekends that I left him to be with us when we went for a ride in the country. He refused to have planned his weekends in advance, so the question of his being included won't arise. I love my husband Dad, but it is pathetic how often he refers to eagle as his Dad in conversation with no response. The boy sometimes asks me who his father is, where he is, and if he would be happier if he were with him.

"I thought a dog might ease the tension, since both of them love dogs. I, myself, have one. I had bought a puppy, to whom the boy became attached. I came home after a few months my husband declared that he had to go, causing Tony untold grief.

"At present, Tony is heartbreakingly unhappy, and, at times bites his nails until they bleed. His teachers say he is intelligent and capable, but can't concentrate and always seems distracted.

Then this desperate mother asks if there is "anyone over such a child-liking for children who would take an interest in his conscientious and sensitive boy." She says that "he must have a man whom he likes, trusts and respects, to direct his life himself with; one who would return these same feelings," adding that she is "hoping" I know of just these services." I assume she wants a companion for the child.

How this most tragic situation will eventually end, one cannot predict, of course. Possibly when the boy is a little older, it might be well to send him away to a good school, if there hasn't been any change for the better at home.

For the present, however, I suggest that the mother seek out either the local YMCA director, or unless he is a neighbor to whom she would prefer not to reveal her problem—the leader of the Boy Scout troop in her community, lay the problem before whichever one is preferred and ask specific help and advice. Through such a talk she should be able to find the type of man, in either organization, whose friendship and influence would be most helpful to the boy, and it should also result in helping to fill the boy's life with outside interests that would, to some degree at least, take his mind off his troubles.

The boy needs such help urgently, and I think the plan I have suggested might work out better than trying to find a paid companion for him.

I assume she wants a companion for the child.

How this most tragic situation will eventually end, one cannot predict, of course. Possibly when the boy is a little older, it might be well to send him away to a good school, if there hasn't been any change for the better at home.

For the present, however, I suggest that the mother seek out either the local YMCA director, or unless he is a neighbor to whom she would prefer not to reveal her problem—the leader of the Boy Scout troop in her community, lay the problem before whichever one is preferred and ask specific help and advice. Through such a talk she should be able to find the type of man, in either organization, whose friendship and influence would be most helpful to the boy, and it should also result in helping to fill the boy's life with outside interests that would, to some degree at least, take his mind off his troubles.

The boy needs such help urgently, and I think the plan I have suggested might work out better than trying to find a paid companion for him.

The SOLID ROCK

y hope is built on nothing less
Than Jesus' blood and righteousness;
I dare not trust the sweetest frame,
But wholly lean on Jesus' name.

When darkness seems to hide His face,
I rest on His unchanging grace;
In every high and stormy gale
My anchor holds within the veil.

His oath, His covenant, His blood,
Support me in the whelming flood;
When all around my soul gives way,
He then is all my hope and stay.

When He shall come with trumpet sound,
Oh, may I then in Him be found;
Dressed in His righteousness alone,
Faultless to stand before the throne.

He had to have plenty of hymns at his beck and call to fill the Dwight L. Moody, who preached the revival sermons, called frequently for gospel choruses to lend emphasis to his messages. Usually, Dr. Moody wanted a song bearing on the theme of the hour, whatever it happened to be. And Mr. Sankey, nearly always, found just the right number.

It was on such an occasion that the famous gospel singer introduced the hymn, "The Ninety And Nine", one night at a gospel meeting in Scotland. Dr. Moody had finished a sermon on "The Good Shepherd' and asked Mr. Sankey for an appropriate dismissal hymn. The singing evangelist remembered a poem he had clipped from a newspaper a few days before. He set it to music on the spot. The hymn, "I Have A Saviour, He's Pleading in Glory", introduced at another service, had a similar origin.

Mr. Sankey found the verses of "The Solid Rock" in "The Postman", an English newspaper. Its publication was by W.J Charles's wurth but was never discovered. Like most of the hymn poems which Mr. Sankey set to music, it was taken up by other evangelists and gospel singers and became a singing its way into universal favoritism.

Joseph Smith, Latter-day Saints are popularly called Mormons, because the new church grew directly out of the Book of Mormon, which was discovered by Smith after a series of divine revelations.

The church believes this book was written on golden plates by a prophet named Mormon, who wrote at the dictation of an angel named Moroni. Smith and certain companions of his were directed or enabled to translate the writing on the plates and the new book was published in March, 1830.

According to the book of Mormon, America was originally populated by Israelites who emigrated from Jerusalem in two waves one in 600 B.C. and one in 385 B.C. These settlers, some of whom became the ancestors of the American Indians, were visited here on this continent by Christ after the Resurrection.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

One Great Hour of Sharing'

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, March 31 — On this last Sunday in March it has become the custom of more than 30 Protestant denominations to receive an annual offering for the support of their work in foreign fields. Originally this was a rather the morning service at which the offering is taken, was known as "One Great Hour of Sharing." Because the sharing is a sharing of American Christianity material abundance with the people of less fortunate lands, the day acquired the additional name of World Relief Sunday.

Promotional materials for today are prepared by Church World Service, a division of the National Council of Churches, and distributed to all denominations participating in the observance. This uniformity of material does not mean, however, that the proceeds from today's offering are jointly contributed. Administration of each denomination uses its income for the financing of its own individual program of world relief.

Anyone who is familiar with the way American churches stepped into the Hungarian refugee situation last fall will see in this one impressive example of the purposes to which this money is devoted.

FROM PROTESTITUE TO SAINT

Tuesday, April 2 — On this you may not know it, you have another birthday. Let me say, Mary of Egypt, for it is her surprising story which forms the basis of Massenet's opera of the same name.

There could hardly have been a less likely candidate for sainthood than Mary, unless you count Mary Magdalene, who is supposed to have been a member of the same profession. There is some doubt, though, that the stories about Magdalene are true, for there is no question whatever about Mary of Egypt. From the time she was 12 years old until she was 29 she was a woman of the streets of Alexandria and, being beautiful, she was a very popular one.

The steps that led to her conversion began with a wild and hilarious trip to Jerusalem, on which Mary was the only woman among a shipload of pilgrim men.

In Jerusalem she happened to see a religious festival going on and, with simple tourist curiosity, she thought she would like to follow the procession into the church and watch the ceremonies. But at this point she found herself unable to move. Her feet just would not take her toward the church.

As she stood rooted to the spot there came to her a vision of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and Mary of Egypt perceived somehow it was the kind of life she was leading which kept her out of the holy place. She once promised the Virgin to obey any order given her, whereupon she was set free and moved easily into the church.

Following instructions received in the vision, she left Jerusalem, crossed the Jordan' and for the next 47 years lived as a hermit in the desert, without ever seeing a single human being.

The novel and the opera, of course, introduce romance into the story. Wille Mary, — as Mary is still a prostitute, a young monk trying to convert her, falls in love with her. The story ends dramatically, with Mary converted and lost to piety and devotion, and the young monk wretched in love.

QUESTION

I was given a pressure cooker for my wedding anniversary and I like it so much I do not want to use anything else and am thinking of getting a second one, so I can cook meat and vegetables at the same time, in a short time. However aside from recipes in pressure cooker cookbooks I will have to ask you if you can set the temperature. It is a great comfort to a busy cook. Try this recipe and cook for 10 minutes without pressure then at 10 lbs. pressure for 30 min. I have not but theoretically that should work. Here is one I have tried:

Dinner Menus

SATURDAY

Baked Pork Chops, Spiced Applesauce, Corn Fritters, Creamed Cauliflower, Sliced Lettuce and Tomatoes with Dressing, Chocolate Crumb Dessert (see Friday), Coffee.

CHERRY (or apple) PUDDING

(Pressure cooker) One cup sugar, 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cherries (or apples, frozen stewed or canned drained). Sift dry ingredients together. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and add milk, then add mixture to dry ingredients. Add cherries and mix lightly. Pour into greased pudding dish. Cover with 2 thicknesses of heavy waxed or parchment paper. Tie securely and place on rack in cooker. Add 2 cups water to cooker, and steam 15 minutes without pressure. Bring pressure to 15 lbs. and process 30 minutes. Note: Raw apples chopped may be used instead of cherries.

QUESTION

I have a problem which should not take to you but to an electrician . . . in the meantime what should one do when the oven top element has burned out? . . . I have been heating to required heat and doing baking, roasting, etc. . . but place a pan of water under to prevent burning . . . to complete an enclosing dessert for Mediocre Cooks:

CARAMEL CUSTARD

(Courtesy Gladys O. who says "So easy to make"); 2/3 cup sugar, 4 eggs, 4 cups milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. 1) Gently stir 1/3 cup sugar over low heat in a pot or heavy skillet until sugar melts and is a golden syrup. Immediately pour syrup in bottom of 8 custard cups. 2) Beat the eggs until bubbly. 3) Slowly add the remaining sugar to the beaten eggs and mix in very well. Stir in the salt. Slowly heat the milk until it forms across the top (scalding). Do not boil. 3) Set oven at 325 deg. F. 4) Gradually pour scalded milk into egg and sugar mix, stirring constantly. Add vanilla. 5) Carefully pour custard mixture into cups. Place in baking dish. Add boiling water to depth of half the cup. Bake for 40 minutes or until silver knife inserted comes out clean.

ANSWER

Thank you. Welcome back. You are doing splendid. Have been unwell-it is repaired. A top burner is a relatively new-fangled affair you know. When I was a child my mother's gas oven only had a bottom burner.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FRIENDLY GESTURES SUGGESTED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman;

Some time ago my husband's aunt came to live in this city where we live, and several times each week she calls me up on a midday dinner on Sunday. She is not very well, goes out very seldom, has no girlfriends to visit and she very much enjoys having us come. We certainly enjoy being with her, but we are somewhat embarrassed that she cannot return her hospitality, because she doesn't go out. She is a very generous soul, who is also cook, and my husband is accustomed to such generous tip to this maid, in appreciation of her service when we go there. She is very much aware that his aunt would approve of this, if she could afford it. What do you think? — Anne H.

I agree with you, for it is (and I'm sure you know) impossible and would most definitely think so absolutely incorrect for a guest to tip a maid in a private home except when the guest has been a paying guest in the house for days. The maid might "tell" her mistress, which would most likely spell not be pleasant for you and your husband.

Instead show your appreciation of your hostess' hospitality, I suggest you occasionally send (or bring) her flowers, or a box of Christmas candy. Or send her a book or magazine, or a gift certificate to enjoy, because of a special interest of hers. Or bring her a group of interesting news clippings. Or a box of candy or other sweets, if she is ill. Or perhaps a telephone to inquire how she is; or occasionally send her a particularly attractive greeting card, or write her a friendly little note. There are so many thoughtful little gestures you and your husband can make for this friendly aunt, unfortunately so shut in.

WHEN BRIDE WEARS SUIT TO WEDDING AND RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our informal church wedding will be small, attended only by members of the families, a few close relatives, and a few very intimate friends; but the reception following, although very informal, will be quite large. I have decided to wear a dressmaker suit, in a clear medium shade of blue, which is my most becoming shade; with this a dress that made of small flowers of the same shade of blue. Of course I shall be wearing this costume a few times after the day for our wedding trip. What is the best way to handle the reception in this case, when it would be necessary to leave to change first into travelling costume?

— Sallie R.

No complication about this, since there will be no changing into travelling attire, you and your bridegroom, when it is time for you to leave the reception, go out the door together to the waiting car. Unobserved showered with paper rose-petals!

TIPS FOR SPRING BRIDES

She danced at her wedding. And she'll dance in the same frock again, and again, and again . . . If her selection is a practical one.

Any girl who's planning a Spring wedding will want to keep up with the looks by the time the honeymoon is concerned, but with the latest fashions in lingerie and, yes, make-up, too. For soon-to-be brides, then just a few tips which may prove helpful.

Let's consider make-up first. You'll probably give plenty of thought to your gown but you may not think about your make-up until the very last minute. And, we beseech you, don't do that!

You may want to make some changes in your make-up for the big day since the cosmetic shades you generally wear may not be as flattering when worn with white. Make-up definitely has to be toned down when you wear white. You'll still look hard and garish, and certainly this is not the way you want to look on the day of days. If you don't know how to tone it down yourself, we'd know. When in doubt, consult one of the salons which specialize in make-up. These experts will show you the best blush and eye shades in powder, rouge and lipstick which, incidentally, are especially lovely for brides this spring. And they'll show you how to apply these cosmetics, as well as foundation and mascara, so as to look your loveliest and avoid tone down those which are not quite perfect.

The professors learning how to use these items, you might, at the same time, learn the proper and right colors to wear with the looks by which you're unsure. The experts will be more than willing to help and, if you'll practise faithfully, you'll emerge from the expert by the time honeymoon days roll around.

Now as to your gown. . . .

Sleeves will be shorter. Sometimes they'll be merely the suggestion of a cover-up. And trails tend to be shorter, too. Of course, a bride has a right to design her own gown and "flout" the rules if she chooses to. But if she plans to wear that gown later as a dinner dress, or a dance gown, she sort of likes to keep up with the general fashion trend. Many brides do plan to convert their wedding gowns into dress-up dresses and, this is sensible and even a romantic thing to do because the bride is happy in the dress every time she wears it. There's no reason why a wedding gown can't be a fashion and practical part of a girl's wardrobe. No matter how romantic she wants to look for the ceremony, she can still choose a washable fabric that will look fresh and pretty for months and even years to come.

Let's now a final note about crie—especially that which you'll select for your trousseau. Because the fabrics and trimmings of these fabrics and utmost simplicity, pelticoat emphasis is still on repeated washability.

Women's Activities

PINE GROVE W. I.

MARSH HILL — Pine Grove W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Detlor with 12 members and one visitor present.

The president Mrs. Allyn Fickle opened the meeting with singing. The roll call was answered by giving "A Helpful Suggestion or Beef for our Local School". Several thanks letters were received for the 1957 booklets for home economics sewing. Articles were discussed and read from the extension branch were distributed to the members.

It was decided to send for the C.A.C. bulletin for another year and the secretary was given visitor Woman magazine.

The group voted not to enter the Achievement Days sponsored by a tea company.

The standing committee convenors reported Mrs. Harold Detlor, convener for education, was in charge of the Easter programme.

A panel discussion on "Discipline" was given with Mrs. Harold Detlor, Mrs. Allyn Finkle, Mrs. Harry Coulter and Mrs. Clive Detlor taking part and including the teen-ager, parent and teacher. Discipline should not merely punishment but a means of teaching students self-control. Punishment should be related to discipline, there is no point in it.

The parents felt this was a job that should be started at an early age in the home and carried through life. The students felt this control could be taught best by a teacher who was able to win his student's admiration and respect. The teachers felt this respect could be won by being fair to all students, by setting fair rules and regulations, however strict, were enforced consistently. Barbindale read "Education and Agriculture". Mrs. Detlor read an article on the subject "Should Homework be Abolished", bringing out points for and against discussion.

A quotionnaire on education was discussed.

The members heard Barbara Ann Vardy give her speech "Why I Like School" and Sharon Lee Lindenfield's speech, "Gypsies". Both of these speeches were prize winners and had been given by the girls at the public speaking contest in Picton recently.

The meeting closed with prayer and refreshments were served by the committee.

outh Africa adopts Official nion Flag

By HAIG NICHOLSON

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — South Africa, the only independent country in the world which flies two official flags, now will fly only one.

Under the flag bill, which became law March 26 when it was signed by the governor-general Sir E. G. Jansen, the British Union Jack may be flown from private buildings, at political rallies and at cultural and social gatherings.

But it ceases to flutter from the Houses of Parliament here, from government buildings in provincial capitals, at South African ports and government buildings abroad.

South Africa now has one official flag, the Union flag.

The nationalists, this represents the passing of yet another anomaly in the political structure of this country.

UNITED IN 1910

The four provinces in South Africa first formed a union in 1910 but until 1927 that a compromise was reached between equally the Union Jack and the Union flag as official flags to be flown side by side on all government buildings.

The Union flag has three horizontal bands of equal width—orange at the top, white in the centre and blue at the bottom.

In the centre of the white stripe are miniatures of the old Orange Free State flag, the union flag and the old Boer Vierkleur (meaning four colors).

The flag bill was introduced by A. G. Barlow, an independent member of Parliament, and it was supported by the nationalist government which represents the Afrikaans-speaking section of the white population. Resistance was voiced by the Opposition United party, whose supporters are mainly British descent.

ALSO TWO ANTHEMS

Now that the flag issue is disposed of, there remains the question of the two official national anthems: God Save the Queen and Die Stem Van Suid Afrika (The Call of South Africa).

Dr. T. E. Dönges, minister of the interior, said recently that impolicit in the acceptance of a single national flag for South Africa was the acceptance of a single national anthem.

"All that has been standing in the way of this," the minister said, "has been the existence of two national flags. With only one flag there will no longer be any objection to one national anthem and this one will automatically become law."

Linked with a single flag and a single anthem would be the question of South Africa becoming a republic.

"This is coming, perhaps sooner than you think," declared Eric Louw, minister of external affairs, at a recent public meeting here.

Fish Scientists and Anglers In Quebec Square off on Issue of Minnows as Live Bait

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's fish scientists and a vocal number of the province's 400,000 anglers are squared off on the issue of minnows as live bait.

Ban it before it breaks Quebec's angling, say the scientists, while their opponents argue that a ban is neither practicable nor fair to anglers.

The controversy, common to most Canadian provinces and a majority of the United States cold-water regions, re - emerged here when the provincial game and fisheries department imposed a ban on using live or dead minnows in Gaspe and a big chunk of the North Shore area along the St. Lawrence River gulf.

It remains unlawful to use minnows in trout waters elsewhere in the province unless the minnows come from the waters being fished.

NO ONE PLEASED

The new outright ban appears to have satisfied no one. Scientists regard it as a snippet of progress affording as a result only no minnow-bait angling in a specified area. Anglers call it the thin edge of a wedge to impose a ban province - wide ban in minnow-bait angling.

Vianney Legendre, chief of the Quebec biological bureau, expresses the scientist's view when he says that due to pollution and minnows "no decent angling is left in the inhabited part of Quebec."

Minnows of undesirable species, spread by anglers' baitcans, have spread reds, reduce or wipe out game fish in entire waterway systems, he says. They act two ways.

Carp, suckers, yellow perch, crappies, shiners, chubs and other species of coarse or "trash" fish gobble game fish eggs and fingerlings, disturb breeding waters and crowd out the game fish either in numbers or by devouring their food supplies. They also spread fish diseases, parasites, he says, to cut into an industry worth about $75,000,000 annually to Quebec.

George Carpenter, wildlife columnist for the Montreal Gazette under the pensname Izaak Hunter, takes the anglers' point of view.

"There are periods of the year, he says, when fish aren't interested in anything but minnows. A total ban would penalize the angler who can't afford to travel and choose times for an outing and would adversely affect large areas.

"Nor, says Mr. Carpenter, is there the slightest indication how a ban can be enforced—"they haven't got enough game officials now."

"Scientists aren't anglers," says Mr. Carpenter. He grants that minnows have caused some damage but contends the regulation permitting only use of them from the waters being fished—while hard to enforce—is fair enough to go.

The Quebec Federation of Game and Fish Associations, which has a membership of about 25,000, has asked for a ban on live-wire bait at its last annual meeting but the resolution, while passed, was so hotly debated the federation hasn't pressed it.

"It is a messy, a serious situation," said a federation official. "But it seems to be a matter of public education first. There is little point in imposing a ban which will become just another law to evade.

"The rank-and-file angler has to be educated in the fact that minnow angling can be very dangerous."

A survey conducted in North America last year by director Gustave Prezbindowski of the Quebec biological bureau indicates that many areas face the same situation—and the same difficulties.

Manitoba, Utah, Washington and Oregon ban live bait minnow angling outright. Saskatchewan imposes a ban over its lower half —the result of finding carp within its borders. No minnows are used in the northern areas.

Ontario regulates possession and transportation of live bait fish and has an extensive ban on their use in parts of the northern districts of Cochrane, Quetico Park, Sudbury and Timiskaming. It also is forbidden to turn live bait fish loose except in the waters from which they originally were taken.

Montana is working to extend its ban, which now covers two-thirds of the state. Alberta is reconsidering its legislation the year's growth or commercial minnow hatcheries to supply minnows at a basic fish food.

British Columbia expressed fears that the minnow ban difficulties in a reply to chief Fisheries biologist R. G. McMynn who said he personally believed restricted regulations concerning livebait fishing are absolutely necessary but. . . they must be followed up with an intensive public relations program acceptable to the sports men."

Many replies referred to the difficulty of enforcing a ban and others to the dangers of re-infestation by "trash" fish of waters which have been officially poisoned out and restocked.

Mr. Legendre said it costs Quebec about $2,500 to clear out an "average-size" lake and that Minnesota spent more than $700,000 in 1951 to clear trash fish from former angling lakes.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The card party sponsored by the Crescent Rebekah Lodge in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Thomasburg, was well attended.

The annual "At Home" of Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Lodge and Elliott's L.O.L. took place recently in the I.O.O.F. Hall. The entertainment in the evening was a drama club of Tweed High School, which presented a one-act performance of its two one-act comedies. Many favorable comments were heard from those present, on the talent displayed by the young artists. Refreshments were provided by the women at the close of the program.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Waterfall, the former Mrs. Carleton, who was married in Christ Church, Thomasburg, last Saturday, with the Rev. Mr. Woodward of Roslin officiating. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carleton, after which the couple left for a brief wedding trip.

There is some improvement in the condition of Mr. Earl Jones, who has been a patient in Kingston hospital for some time. He is expected to return home soon.

Miss Phoebe Kerr, who has been visiting in the Moneymore district for some time, has returned home.

REPORT FAVORS COMPETITION FOR CBC

A. D. Dutton, shown with his wife, would have his present duties as chairman of the CBC board of governors split by the creation of the post of president of the board, if the report of the Fowler royal commission is implemented. The commission, investigating television and radio, recommended the government should break the CBC monopoly and permit more than one station in certain areas and should budget $470,000,000 for expansion of CBC over six years. Color programs, the report said, should be broadcast from Canada in 1962.

CAMPBELLFORD

District Co-ops Sponsor 14th Annual Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — A banquet, sponsored by the Campbellford District Co-operative Services and catered to by the St. John's Young Adult Club, was held Wednesday evening in St. John's auditorium with about 130 people present. Mr. Clarence Grills, president of the Co-op, was chairman for the evening which marked the 14th annual meeting. Entertainment was provided by Mr. Bruce Woodill and Muriel Heagle, with Joyce Rowe at the piano.

Guest speaker for evening was Mr. Julian Smith, who was recently brought to Canada by the United Co-operatives of Ontario from Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Smith served with the Co-operatives in Virginia and Kentucky and also did special work for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In his talk Mr. Smith stressed the importance and usefulness of Co-ops in the world of today, because the basic principle of the Co-operative movement is being all equal in voting privileges — one member, one vote, regardless of financial standing. Then too, he stressed, honesty is a basic policy of business — the business being operated for the people in serving and 16 ounces to the pound and 100 cents to the dollar value are a must. Co-operatives throughout the world are operated in many different ways and in many lines of business, but in Ontario the main volume of business is done in feed and farm supplies for the rural people of the province. But many urban residents benefit from the influence of Co-ops across the country.

However, regardless of what a Co-op sells or manufactures, whether it be located in Africa, India, Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain the birthplace of the now modern and flourishing movement) the basic principles are all the same: "Quality, Service and Savings" is the motto carried out to the best of their ability by every store, mill or factory.

Mr. Smith was thanked by President Clarence Grills.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Union tycoon Dave Beck starred in a strange performance before an investigating senate committee in Washington.

The wealthy chief of nearly 1,500,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters repeatedly refused to tell about his personal finances unless he might—and he shouted the word "might"—incriminate him.

"I think I will try," said the committee counsel.

Senator John McClellan, committee chairman, used the word "theft" in connection with $320,000 in union funds spent on behalf of "flagrant" disrespect for the U.S. government and unionism.

One puzzling item in the union financial list mentioned $9.68 for diapers, and Beck declared:

"Off the record, senator, you are assured they were not for myself."

The AFL-CIO executive council —of which the Teamsters Union forms the biggest member—suspended Beck as president and ordered an inquiry into his union.

BERMUDA TALKS

Britain paved a $115,000,000 order for Canadian uranium during talks at Bermuda conference between Prime Minister Si. Anthony Eden and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The Canadian agreed to supply supersonic guided missiles—Bomarc and Sparrow—in the talks between Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

The Bermuda talks ended with many expressions of goodwill among both leaders, the Canadian prime minister saying they were "most gratifying."

Correspondents covering the conferences said the main achievement was the restoration of close communications between Washington and London, jarred by the Middle East crisis, in a spirit of mutual trust.

CYPRUS TALK

Britain freed exiled Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus and hoped to hold talks with him in an effort to restore peace to the Mediterranean island where conflict has raged for two years.

The archbishop, in reply, told the British government he accepted the British that it is his desire to see peace restored to the colony. But he balked at entering any negotiations with Britain until he is "recognized" as Cyprus.

In the British House of Commons Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd said Makarios will be free to go anywhere except Cyprus. Other adjustments but also no basic changes in Canadian broadcasting.

The royal commission, headed by R. M. Fowler, proposed a new supervisory system for broadcasting, different in name but not essentially different in function from the present board of governors.

The federal government's single-station policy for television, however, is about ready for abandonment, it was learned. This would bring two stations to some areas under certain conditions.

TRIAL DRAMA

The London murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams mounted in drama, with keen duelling over the case against the physician who is charged with drugging an old widow to death.

Geoffrey Lawrence, brilliant defence counsel, wrung an admission from an expert Crown medical witness that the widow actually lived longer than could be "reasonably" expected.

The expert, Dr. Arthur Douthwaite, also testified that the amounts of drugs prescribed by Adams indicated the "intention was to terminate her life."

HOME FOR HANNA

Canada welcomed Hanna, born at sea, an orphan at six and a wanderer for most of his 23 years, to Canada's shores as a citizen and may have found a home at last.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan quashed the deportation order but Hanna's fate was decided by Canadian immigration department. Immigration Minister Pickersgill said in Montreal Hanna's appeal would be "undisturbed" for the present.

HOTEL BATTLE

More than 400 French-Canadian students went on the warpath against Premier Maurice Donald Gordon about the name of the railway's new hotel in Montreal. The students paraded and demonstrated, demanding—not for the first time—that the hotel be called Chateau Maisonneuve, after Montreal's founder, instead of Queen Elizabeth.

The uproar followed Gordon's statement in Ottawa before the parliamentary railway committee that the hotel intended to stick to the name Queen Elizabeth for the hotel.

TRIP COMMUTATION

Drastic steps were taken to relieve overcrowding at the Cape Breton-Prince Edward Island ferry.

Labor Angus MacLeod was ordered to release every private with less than 10 days to serve and to keep the number of inmates at not more than 48 at any time.

This happened after officials visited the jail and found 70 men confined in quarters built to hold 48.

4th Thursday

4TH THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treverton and family and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Howes were entertained to Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howes, 5th line.

Mrs. Tod Clugston and Rebecca, London, returned home Sunday after spending the past month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bits spent last weekend in Toronto.

Master Arnold C. spent last weekend at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Troverton were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cole, 3rd line.

Mrs. Don Williams, John and Elaine, Stirling, spent Friday afternoon with Mr. Russell Bits.

Mrs. Norman Hall, Sr., Belleville, spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mrs. H. W. Rose, Frankford, spent last weekend with her mother, Mrs. C. C. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Shannonville.

Masters Billie and Donnie Treverton spent a couple of days last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Howes.

The Bethany women of the W.A. met at the church Wednesday to make two quilts and have a pot-luck dinner.

Mrs. Arthur Treverton, Helen, George spent last Friday evening with Mrs. Douglas Tummon.

DISTANT RESORT

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The Antarctic has a bright future as a tourist resort in the opinion of New Zealanders who spent the last few months there with various expeditions. They say it has fascination all its own, and by modern aircraft is a pleasant weekend round trip.

Garden Notes

Spring Notes on Lawns and Roses

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

If you must put in a lawn this spring the earlier you get at it the better. Of course you know fall is the best time for planting new lawns.

Lawn making is hard work and here are a few rules to save raking the seed bed over several times.

1. Before ploughing, rototilling, or spading broadcast 30 pounds of yellow vigoro per thousand sq. ft. Do this by hand. It is easier than pushing a plant food spreader over rough ground.

2. Work up a good seed bed with a rototiller, if possible. If not, break up the soil with a rake.

3. Level off high spots and fill in low spots with rake.

RECOMMENDED RATES

4. Sow seeds at recommended rates using a mixture with a high proportion of bluegrass, fescue, or Merion bluegrass, sowing half of the seed north and south, the other half east and west to get a more even coverage. I find it helps to add a quarter cup of flour to five pounds of seed. The white powder shows up on the moist surface and indicates where seed has fallen. Use the same sowing method whether you sow by hand or with a seed and plant food spreader. At low seeding rates with these bluegrass, mix the seed with sand to give more bulk for even distribution.

5. Cover the seed lightly with not more than one eighth to one quarter inch of soil. Use a leaf rake.

6. Roll with a light roller. A heavy roller will pack the soil and prevent seed breaking through surface.

7. Sprinkle with hose in fine spray. Keep the surface moist at all times until seed is well sprouted.

8. Spray weeds with end-o-weed 2-4-D weed killer after the lawn has been mowed at least twice. First cutting should not be below grass is three inches tall.

Avoid keeping the seed bed moist is of prime importance. Drying out in the seeding stage is fatal to new lawns.

If the soil is clay it will be improved by the addition of peat moss at the rate of one bale to each 1,200 to 2,000 square feet of surface. Spread it before breaking up the seed bed.

Rose beds which mounded around the roses for winter protection should now be removed. Have on hand really sharp pruners. Dull ones can mangle the canes. Leave five to six canes per plant and six to seven buds per cane. This will produce a quantity of roses. If you prefer a display of perfect roses of greater size keep three to four canes with four buds each.

Climbing roses should be pruned after the June flowering. Cut back to soil level one or two of the oldest canes.

After pruning apply a half cup complete plant food or one of the new rose fertilizers for each plant. It need not be dug in. Spring rains will carry it down to the roots.

Fruit trees, and bush fruit should also be pruned and fed at this time.

MR. FARMER!
Do You Own a Herd of Grade Cattle?
If you do, are you one of those persons who thought that the artificial breeding program which the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association offers is not for your herd but for Purebred herds?
Then look at these facts — 70% of the 34,000 cattle bred by this Association in 1956 were grade cattle. With rising costs of operation on the farm, it is even more important to have the best quality of cattle possible, grades or purebreds. You'll find it will be to your advantage to join the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association.

Block that sun with CANVAS AWNINGS
Enjoy rooms 8° to 15° cooler . . . lower air conditioning costs!
Hot sun rays striking window glass carry quite a punch during summer months. They send room temperatures soaring, boost air conditioning costs, and damage interior furnishings.
The smart thing to do is to stop sun heat outside your house before it can do its damage. Stop it with colorful canvas awnings and rooms stay cool and shady . . . draperies and rugs fresh and unfaded. And because there's less heat to handle, air conditioning units cost less to buy, less to operate.
Let us show you our wide selection of smart canvas colors and give you a free estimate on the low cost of canvas awnings for your house.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Tonight the Whitby faithful will get a close-up view of the Kitchener Dutchmen in their second clash of the OHA senior "A" championship series. Tomorrow Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, will ring to the shouts of the Kitchener-Whitby faithful in the third game of the set-to.

It is hoped the Eastern Ontario champions have shaken whatever it was that turned their keen championship edge into that of a well-used hoe in their inaugural exhibition against the Dutchies in the Guelph Arena, the other night. And the same goes for the high-flying Dutchmen.

The off-stride play of the Dunlops — and a lot of Kitchener faithful look it for that which swept them to their eastern title — did not leave too good a taste in western hockey mouths. Nor did the lack-lustre loose exhibition of the Dutchies impress this observer. The Dunlops never did be a rip-roaring finale to that scheduled for the Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow afternoon regardless of what happens tonight.

Manager Wren Blair, far from downhearted over the initial setback, has sent out a rush call to Charlie Burns, at present tying one of his famous Maple Leafs baseball club down Florida way. Latest reports have it that Chuck will arrive in time to play in tonight's game.

Win or lose, the Whitby Dunlops fandom is solidly behind the Blairmen. There were between two and three hundred at the Guelph game and they backed up from none as far as verbal support was concerned. Their roar of "Go, Dunnies Go," came loudly and often, in the second game. Let's hope the Dunnies will trek to Toronto on Sunday, each bearing a gold and black banner with their cheer slogan on it.

Meanwhile with the northern blood apparently still thick in Pembroke veins, two newspaper men have been sent in to see a Pembroke-Sudbury playoff and they came back with colorful ideas of what the northern champions would do to the Dunlops, if and when the teams should meet.

Their opinion, published in the Pembroke Observer sports column, quoted a local scribe as saying, "Whitby would make a good showing but they would get killed. The north has defencemen that would eat little fellows like Attersley." The other loyal-to-the-north Jock said "Sudbury or North Bay would run Whitby right out of the rink."

There has been talk around the eastern circuit that the Lumber Kings will not be represented in the the Eastern League, or senior "A" hockey for that matter, next year. However it seems the powers-that-be up that way are putting the matter in the hands of the fans. A meeting was held with this in mind last night, but no reports have come through as to what happened. If the customers put the okay on the suggestion, that's it. If not, the town will go back to the junior brand. If the okay is given, immediate steps will be taken to build the squad for next season.

However it does not mean the Kings will automatically be back in the senior group. Pembroke would like to claim the Northern Association southern group would welcome a Pembroke entry next year with open arms. They say Maxie Silverman of the Sudbury Wolves thinks the move would help both the league and Pembroke. If memory is correct the Lumber Kings jumped the northern group for the eastern league last year because of the refusal of the northerners to subsidize them some $25,000. What goes, now, pray?

NON-SUFFORD

They were still chuckling in the press box in the Guelph Arena the other night over the "Rex Stimers Story." The popular "Voice of the Niagara Peninsula," is seems, was literally "caught with his trousers down" during a recent hockey broadcast.

When his favorite club, the St. Catharines Teepees, scored a goal, Rex leaped to his feet — at least the majority of him did. The Stimer pantaloons, which did not go on the pegged neatly down to his ankles.

Never at a loss for words, Rex quipped quickly, "That's the first time that's happened in 24 years. Fortunately I was not on television.

PLEASE NOTE

Bill Muirhead, secretary-treasurer of the City Softball League, passed along a reminder to any potential entries that Monday, April 1st is the final entry deadline. All entry fees, $15.00 per club, must be in Bill's hands by that date. Nine clubs has signified they will participate to date . . . Al Kelleher, who has been shouting baseball for the past two months, has arranged for a meeting in hope of forming a Belleville and District League. Big Al mailed notices all over the area and should get plenty of results. The meeting is slated for CJBQ on Monday, April 8th at 7.30 p.m. with all interested parties welcome . . . The B. and B. Softball League has scheduled it's next meeting for Motel St. Fireball on Wednesday, April 10th. That's the entry deadline and there's plenty of important business.

Unknown Stops Dodgers Cold

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A former first lieutenant who decided to give baseball a chance before making the U.S. Army a career, has emerged as "the best pitching prospect" on the Chicago White Sox.

The "sleeper", is Roger Howard, a 25-year-old righthander, who is still on the Indianapolis farm club roster. The husky rookie has impressed manager Al Lopez with his cool, confident under fire and exceptional control in addition to a live fast ball and good curve.

Howard sent eyebrows lifting sharply when he stopped Brooklyn Dodgers cold with one infield hit in a three-inning chore. He came back to check New York Yankees without a run and only two singles in another three-inning stint. His only pass in six innings was a walk to Mickey Mantle after the Yankee slugger had fouled off three 3-2 pitches.

Show in Montreal for Keeps, Boston Has Home Advantage But Wings Quietly Confident

MONTREAL (CP) — Coaches Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens and Phil Watson of New York Rangers have been playing Alphonse and Gaston verbally in their National Hockey League semi-final series.

But, with the best-of-seven affair tied 1-1 and the show switched to Montreal for keeps, something has to break tonight.

"The Rangers fought like the devil," said Blake after arriving back from Thursday night's 4-3 overtime loss at New York. "I'm sick and tired of all the talk that we'll win in a hurry."

Watson, who generously joined with the majority in giving Montreal the best of the odds before the series, acknowledged before leaving Friday night for Montreal that "we're back in there but it's going to be a case of a battle."

The mutual pessimism, thoughtfully phrased to knock the complacency out of any hockey player within hearing, has some basis on the series so far.

Montreal won 4-1 Tuesday with a burst of fire power in the final minutes of a fighty-every game and Rangers triumphed Thursday after Montreal goaltenders nullify three one-goal leads.

But back in Montreal's larger, more [illegible] Forum, Canadiens should draw some comfort from the record. Rangers won just one league game here this year—and managed only one playoff victory in the Forum last year.

"Every team we meet in the NHL is tough," Watson admitted, who play with legs, arms, skates and sticks and are good enough to be in the league," said Blake. "Then I hear all this nonsense that we can win easily. It's boring."

ST. LAURENT FEVERISH

He added that all his players are in good shape except defenceman Dollard St. Laurent, who sat out part of Thursday's game with a fever and swollen neck glands but who felt more chipper back home.

Rangers, who finished the season in fourth place well behind the second-place Canadiens, have been forced out of Madison Square Gardens by a circus, hence the move to Montreal for the rest of the course.

"Our fellows are going to have to work awfully hard to win it here," Watson said Friday night. "We've got to be lucky too. We've got to get the bounces."

GUMP SEEN AS KEY

He drew comfort from three things—goalkeeper Lorne (Gump) Worsley, Ranger youth, and the line centred by Larry Hillman which has yet to score in the series.

"We don't have an old leg on the team and so we can work without a letup," Watson mused. Montreal has three old men—one on each line. The Rocket (Maurice Richard), (Bert) Olmstead and (Floyd) Curry must let down every now and then.

"However, Worsley will tell the story. Gump seems to be on a streak right now. We got a chance if he gives it to us."

Biologists Have Had Close Calls With 'Punching' Moose in Park

By LARRY STANWOOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — With a grunting roar, the enraged cow moose swung around sharply and charged. Forester Roy Helset barely made his getaway, climbing frantically to the top of the "corral" fence.

The experience was one of several close calls game biologist Ralph Ritcey and his team have had "punching" moose in beautiful Wells Gray Park, 140 miles north of Vancouver.

These wilderness buckaroos have been engaged during the last few years in rounding up moose and ear-tagging them, about as dainty a job as playing catch with a time bomb.

ONE WEARS BELL

More than 100 moose have been so tagged by Mr. Ritcey and his helpers. They even hung a bell around the neck of one of these lords of the forests.

The purpose of this roundup, says the biologist, is to help determine the number range of the animals, obtain data on their lifespan, migration routes and general habits, and to estimate the size of moose population in the park.

Mr. Ritcey explains there are two phases in the job of getting the round, metal tag affixed firmly in the ear of the wily and sometimes belligerent moose.

"First of all, you have to trap

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins figures the team is right on schedule in its plan to upset National Hockey League champion Detroit Red Wings in their Stanley Cup semi-final playoff series.

Tied at one game apiece, the two clubs resume hostilities Sunday night at Boston Garden in the best-of-seven series.

"We went out to Detroit to split," Schmidt said of his fighting third-place Bruins who dropped a 7-2 decision Thursday after winning the opener 3-1. "We did just that."

"There is no panic," the former centre of the Bruins' famed Kraut line said. "It's like starting the series all over again and we have the home advantage."

THREE IN BOSTON

Schmidt pointed out that if the series goes the distance in its best-of-seven framework, three of the remaining five contests will be in Boston.

Boston was in good condition with the exception of rookie centre Larry Regan who is a doubtful performer for Sunday.

The Red Wings were expected here by plane tonight.

If the Bruins reach the finals against either Montreal or New York, it will be a first appearance in a decade. They got to the final round by beating the Wings in 1952, losing four to Montreal that year in five games.

"I don't feel any differently about our chances now than I did a week ago," said Schmidt, who played on the Boston last Stanley Cup-winning club in 1941. "I said then our series with Detroit probably would go six or seven games. I still feel that way."

WON IN SEVEN

The Bruins have beaten the Wings three times in Boston, losing two with two.

Schmidt didn't appear depressed by the lop-sided defeat in Detroit Thursday.

"Why should I be disgusted! We played our hockey like a champ club and we didn't play badly. Our boys never stopped trying, even when we were five and six goals down. You can't ask any more than that."

Vic Stasiuk, who suffered a minor knee injury in Thursday's night's game, will be in the lineup Sunday.

Bold Ruler Faces General Duke In Rich Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. turf spotlight today was turned on two $100,000-added races — the Florida Derby at Miami's Gulfstream Park and the John B. Campbell Memorial at Bowie, Md.

The derby, a 1⅛-mile race, attracted only five three-year olds. Two of them, Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler and Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke, are expected to play an important role in the May 4 running of the Kentucky Derby and subsequent rich stakes leading to the American three-year-old title.

Bold Ruler, trained by 82-year-old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, was made the even-money favorite chiefly off his victory in Hialeah Park's Flamingo Stake in which he edged Gen. Duke in a driving finish.

The entry of Gen. Duke, conqueror of the rivals in Hialeah's Everglades Stakes, and stablemate Iron Liege, was the second big surprise.

Federal Hill and Shan Pac completed the overnight field of Arcaro, who came within fourfifths of a second of the world record for 1⅛ miles and 70 pounds on William G. Helis Jr.'s True Verdict in the Kentucky Gold Stream's feature astride Apollo, was in Bold Ruler's saddle. Willie Hartack rides Gen. Duke.

Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate was the highweight in the field of 10 named for the 1 1-16 - mile John B. Campbell. He was assigned 126 pounds and 121 pounds and stood to pick up $76,850 for the winners purse of $112,850 if 10 start.

Most solid contenders, in addition to Dedicate, shaped up as C. T. Chenery's Third Brother, and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Paper Tiger.

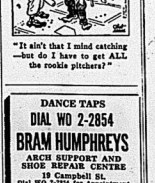
Reds Finally Trim Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — After being held scoreless for more than 133 minutes, Providence Reds finally broke the range in Friday night, rapping four goals past Bobby Perreault for their first victory over the Rochester Americans Hockey League playoffs, a 4-3 decision over the Rochester Americans.

Perreault had blanked the Reds, league leaders during the regular season, for two periods and two games of the best-of-seven semi-final.

He was given a 1-0 lead on Benny Woit's early goal. Dusty Blair broke Providence's scoreless streak with the tying goal at 13:47 of the period.

The Americans, who finished third, one place a bid with the fourth game in Rochester Sunday night.



The Reds, who outplayed the Americans most of the game, were never in front and never ahead, finally earning the win on an unassisted goal at 16:35 of the third period by Ray Cline.

Other Providence goals were by Allie Eberhardt and George McAvoy while Paul Masnick and Mike Rykoski were the other Rochester scorers.

The semi-final between Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears is tied 1-1 with the third game in Hershey tonight.

Western Juniors Hit Deadlock

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings came from behind to edge Flin Flon Bombers 5-4 in overtime Friday night and deadlock their Western Canada junior hockey semi-final at two wins apiece.

Fifth game of the best-of-seven series will be played in Edmonton Monday night.

Terry Lawless tallied twice for Edmonton but the big goal for Oil Kings was Warren Back's winner in the 10-minute extra period. Other Oil King scorers were Mike Lashuk, and Fred Gardiner.

Flin Flon snipers were Barry Beatty, Ken Willey, Mike Kardash and Pat Ginnell.

Two Minds With But a Single ...

REVERE, Mass. (AP) — Two minds with but a single thought: Al Rose of Brookline and Dick McCarthy of Medford saw their opening at the same moment in the first round of Friday night's preliminary fight at the Rollaway arena.

Both threw right hands at the same time. Both landed down to nine counts under the blows. Both got up at the same moment.

Rose got a technical knockout over McCarthy at 1:10 of the second round.

'Bums' Daffiness Is Heritage Rookie Steals Occupied Third

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turn back the clock, if you will, almost three decades.

Remember the Brooklyn Dodgers, of say, 1930. They had the likes of Dazzy Vance, Del Bissonette, Al Lopez and Babe Herman.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson was the manager.

A jolly crew they were, unpredictable, but dear to the hearts of the Brooklyn faithful. Herman's antics in the field and on the base paths left them roaring.

One of the favorite tricks of Brooklyn baserunners was for one of them to steal a base already occupied.

During that 1930 season, one Joe Pignatano was a shaver of less than two years old being pushed up and down the streets of the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn.

HISTORY REPEATS

Twenty-seven years later, Dodger rookie Pignatano tried to steal a base that was already taken and brought a gleam of reminiscence to the eyes of old-timers.

It happened in Friday's exhibition game with New York Yankees. Pignatano was sent in as a pinch-runner for Rube Walberg, who had doubled home a run in the fifth inning. What confused Pignatano was that two Brooks were on base when Walker delivered his double.

Joe saw them both score. But he didn't see Sandy Amoros send back to third base because of a ground rule.

So there was Pignatano happily leading off second base. Zing! He saw the third under the astonished eyes of manager Walt Alston and Amoros. Halfway down, he realized his error. Dash was accomplished, and he stopped dead in embarrassment. He was run down, but Amoros scored the Dodgers' third run. The game ended: Yanks 4, Dodgers 3.

Elsewhere on the exhibition circuit, Del Rice hammered the delivery of Milwaukee Braves combined for a 6-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Both Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Redlegs got slumbering performances out of their starters. Philly ace Robin Roberts fired only 18 batters in the last five innings to defeat Chicago White Sox 5-4, while veteran Warren Hacker went all the way for the Redlegs in stopping Washington Senators 7-2.

New York Giants defeated Baltimore Orioles 4-2; Pittsburgh Pirates halted Detroit Tigers 6-5; Cleveland Indians humbled Boston Red Sox 7-1; and Kansas City turned back Buffalo Bisons of the International League 6-3.

The Giants collected 19 hits off the Orioles and in the process won the mythical Eastern League championship. Lee Walls won the game for the Pirates with a two-run homer in the eighth off Steve Gromek with the Buccos trailing by one run. Herb Score went five innings for the Indians and was effective except for a homer by Ted Williams.

Vancouver Eilers Favored for Eighth Straight Hoop Title

VANCOUVER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Ellilotts face a tough task in their bid to lift the Canadian women's basketball crown from Vancouver Eilers.

The B.C team has held the women's championship for seven years and is inclined to view the crown as part of its natural equipment.

The Eilers, who are favored to take the best-of-seven series which starts Monday night, have lined up two practice sessions for their visiting opponents before the series starts.

The word from the Ontario team is that it will take advantage of the first practice Sunday session, but a Monday afternoon session is still uncertain.

TAKE IT EASY

Vancouver is coasting. The Eilers had their last practice Wednesday night.

Everybody's in good shape and ready to go," coach Gordie McDonald said, "except for a few injuries so far and nobody's sick or got a cold."

McDonald plans to entertain the 13 members of the Kitchener-Waterloo party and the Vancouver team at his home in suburban Burnaby Sunday night. Besides that, there'll be luncheon meetings and shows, sightseeing and the like between games and practices for the rest of the series.

BACKGROUNDS DIFFER

The actual series, to be played consecutive nights at King Ed ward gymnasium, features two teams with differing backgrounds.

Kitchener-Waterloo joined the Canadian-American league in 1953 as a senior B entry and won that title in 1956, only to be defeated in an early round for the Canadian championship. This year saw the Ellotts move up to senior A ranks in the Canadian-American league and continue climbing through all opposition to the Dominion finals.

On the other hand, Vancouver hasn't had any real regional competition in three years. It's been that long since they won a playoff for the women's senior A championship of British Columbia.

The defending champs played varsity basketball games against male and female opponents and kept in shape with weekly practice sessions.

Ready to Invest $20,000 in Pembroke Club

PEMBROKE (CP) — Operation of senior A hockey in this Ottawa Valley town may be taken over by Wallace Lenser, a former automobile dealer from nearby Golden Lake.

Lenser says he is prepared to invest $20,000 in hockey in this town 75 miles west of Ottawa.

Pembroke Lumber Kings lost $5,319 last season in the Eastern Ontario league and finished out of the running. The directors decorated the Kings from Jan. 29 to the end of the season after the executive resigned.

Lenser said he will meet with committees of the representatives of the five players soon.

Someone Pinched The Press Tables

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Sports writers are perfectly welcome at tonight's world flyweight title fight between champion Pascual Perez and Dai Dower. They can get into the stadium without paying a centavo. But it's a question whether they'll have a place to sit or a table on which to place their typewriters.

This state of affairs came to light Friday after a tour of inspection of the soccer stadium, where the fight is to be held. The entrance of the barbecue: To show newspaper men all the fine facilities that are available to writers. There was a mixup somewhere because there were no facilities.

Stadium officials finally agreed to produce some tables and chairs but suggested the writers be at the stadium five hours before the start of the fight "just to make sure someone has not stolen the tables."

Perez of Buenos Aires is favored to retain his title against the Welsh coal miner.

Whitby Recalls Charlie Burns For 2nd Clash With Dutchmen

WHITBY (CP)—Charlie Burns has been a sensational baseball temperamental to help Whitby Dunlops in their fight for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A title.

Burns, a 21-year-old centre, is a catcher who has been training with the Florida Brown Trouts Leafs of the International Baseball League.

He decided Friday that Dunlops needed him more at the moment and left the club. He arrived early today at Toronto airport, deeply tanned and ready to join Dunlops for their game tonight, the second in a best - of - seven series with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

Dunlops need all the help they can get. After sailing through the OHA eastern division finals almost unopposed, they came up against Kitchener, champions of the western division, and were beaten 6-2 in the first game Wednesday night.

Although Burns scored more than 30 goals during the season with Dunlops, he is especially noted as a dogged checker.

Kitchener coach Bobby Bauer, who led Dunlops in the 1956 Winter Olympics, says he fears injuries and overconfidence more than anything else.

"We're a big party hard with four cripples at the moment," Bauer says. "Determined Art Hurst is still hampered with a broken leg . . . Harry Psutka has a shoulder injury . . . George Scholes can hardly lift a stick . . . and Paul Knox still has his broken nose."

Sunday the two teams meet in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Kitchener will be away from home during the series because they could not get ice in their own auditorium.

The Rocket is temporarily defused as Rangers' Dean Prentice gives the veteran Montreal forward a double whammy of a check-but Rocket Richard escaped soon to score a second-period goal, his 64th in Stanley Cup competition. Rangers edged Canadiens 4-3 to even their semi-finals series, 1-1.

Three victorious Rangers are all smiles in their dressing room in New York after teaming up to defeat Habs, 4-3. From left are: Bill Gadsby, who scored a goal; Andy Hebenton, who tallied the winner in overtime, and goalie Gump Worsley, who stopped 44 shots.

Logart Wins Over Turner In Sizzling Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuba's flashy Isaac (Kid) Logart kept in the running for a welterweight title shot Friday night by racking up his second straight victory over ever-pressing Gil Turner of Philadelphia.

Logart, a 4-to-1 favorite, was awarded a unanimous decision in the bristling 10-rounder. Logart weighed 147, Turner 148½.

The 23-year-old second-ranking contender who has offered welter champion Carmen Basilio $50,000 to step into the ring with him, was powerful rully in the final three rounds after a slow start.

Judges Nick Garibold and Bill Recht each had Logart ahead, 59-1. Referee Mark Conn gave it to the Cuban, 6-4. The Associated Press had Logart in front, 8-1.

Logart won a close but unanimous decision over Turner 17 months ago.

Increase Cost of Game Licenses?

During the month of February it became necessary for me to go to the hospital for a bit of surgery. While there, one of my old sportsmen friends dropped in for a visit. Naturally the talk turned to fishing and, eventually, to the proposed increase in the price of a fishing license. I asked him how he felt about it.

"In things like this," he said, "I'm always on the side of the little man. I'm a conservationist."

"Who is this 'little man'?" I inquired.

"Why, the little fellow in the low income bracket who has to count his pennies."

It is just as well thinking which makes things so tough nowadays for the conservation departments. These men must have money with which to operate their complex organizations. The controversial amount involves an annual expenditure on the part of a fisherman of around two dollars extra—about the cost of half a box of shotgun shells.

My friend is old enough, as am I, to remember what are fondly called by some "the good old days." Good old days, my eye. Then we had only brook trout in our streams, good old salvelinus fontinalis, the stupidest trout that swims. Brown trout, while they had been introduced, were a rarity and rainbow were fish that you caught out west or read about in the magazines.

Then, what are now our big trout rivers were considered to be "bass water," and our fishing was done in trickles which permitted all too little actual fly casting.

True, there were comparatively few fishermen then compared to what we have today. By the same token, there were comparatively few fish. Moreover, such a thing as good dry-fly fishing, as we know it today, was almost impossible in those little native-trout streams, but also was unheard of.

Today, through the introduction of imported and developed species, the area of our trout fishing has widened tremendously. Our big rivers, properly managed and wisely, now hold more than their quota of sizeable trout. These, particularly the brown trout, test sorely the ability and the patience of the angler. Such fishing for them is an absorbing pastime. Hooking and landing them is a completely rewarding experience.

All of this transition has been brought about by the conservation commissions in the wise use of the licence-fee dollar. Constantly these men are planning for the improvement of our fishing. They seem to be little point in hampering their activities by any automobile ingness to spend a couple of extra dollars.

As for the "little man"—frankly, I wouldn't know where to look for him these days. Drive along through the country and you will see on nearly every house, no matter how shabby, a television aerial. Forked beside it almost always are one to two automobiles. I guess the "little man" can afford to lay out an extra couple of our inflated dollars if he wants to go fishing.

TACKLE MERGER

Gradually the fishing tackle business is taking on some of the aspects of the automotive industry. Time was, and not too long ago, that the Montague City Rod Company, the Ocean City Rod and Reel Company, and the American Fishing Tackle Company were three successful manufacturing concerns, turning out fishing tackle in lively competition.

Then the Montague plant, which at one time split 90% of the business that went into fishing rods in this country, encountered bad times and, for awhile, closed its doors. Recently it was taken over by Ocean City Rod and Reel Company.

On February 12th of this year came the announcement that the American Fork and Hoe Company, under its present corporate name of The True Temper Corporation, had acquired control of the Montague-Ocean City Rod and Reel Company, thus creating a miniature General Motors of the tackle industry.

Our congratulations to Mr. William G. Foster, President of the True Temper Corporation, and his directors. Here's wishing them all success.

MOURNING DOVE

People who live in the non-dove-shooting states do not realize the importance of the Mourning Dove as a game bird. Mostly, they regard him as a pretty little song bird whose plaintive call can be heard throughout almost any countryside during the nesting season.

Actually, this little speed king provides a great deal of sport annually for the gunners of the 29 states wherein dove shooting may be enjoyed. To give you some idea, in 1953 the reported kill in those states and one Canadian province totaled approximately 19 million—4 million more than the combined kill of all species of ducks and geese.

With the gradual change in climate and its resultant warmer winters, a great many doves no longer migrate to southern states during cold weather. For example, a flock of about 25 birds spent the winter of 1954-55 on the outskirts of Toronto, Canada.

Dove shooting is something which, like any sort of shooting, must be learned. A man who is new at the game will have trouble finding enough shooting to make the effort worthwhile. There is no space here to give you any suggestions save this—instead of trying to find your own shooting, go with a man who has spelt some time on these birds and who knows the rules and regulations. One more suggestion—when you do dove shooting, take plenty of shells along.

Toronto Golfer Tops Azalea Open

WILMINGTON, N.C (AP) Gerry Magee, amateur golfer from Toronto, led the field of 12 amateurs left in the Azalea open golf tournament Friday after the second round cut offs.

The smooth-swinging Canadian, with a 73-73—146, was two strokes ahead of R. C. Fowell of Wilmington.

Dow Finsterwald of Jupiter, Fla., held a one-stroke lead in the 100-man field, shooting for $12,500, as he fired a one-under-par 70 for a 150 total.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., had a 67—best round of the day—added to his 77 Saturday for 151.

Five Canadian pros fell by the wayside, as their scores climbed over the 151-cut-off mark set for professionals.

Remaining in the tournament were Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, 148; Stan Leonard, Lachute, Que., 75-72—147; Bob Wylie, Calcary, 76-73—149; and Al Balding, Toronto, 73-78—151.

Ousted were Murray Tucker, Toronto; Bill Kerr, Montreal; Pat Fletcher, Dorval, Que.; Bill Kozak, St. Catharines; and Ron Capra, Hamilton.

Win Western Hoop Opener

WINNIPEG (CP) — St. Vital Bulldogs turned on the power late in the final half and breezed to an easy 75-60 victory over Southern Alberta Chinooks Friday night in the opening game of the Western Canada senior men's basketball final.

Second game of the best-of-five series will be played here tonight. Fred Ingaldson, a Bulldog rookie, sank 24 points. Jack Lilly potted 23 points, including 11 field goals, for Chinooks.

Howe, Regan Schmidt Win NHL Top Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Milt Schmidt and Larry Regan of Boston Bruins and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings were among winners of achievement awards for the 1956-57 season announced today by the publication Hockey Pictorial.

Schmidt, former ace centre of Bruins, was named top coach while Howe was chosen the outstanding rookie of the National Hockey League. The NHL scoring champion, was chosen top player.

Other awards were: Jack Adams, general manager of the Red Wings, top executive; Andy Bathgate of New York, top new star; and Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks, comeback.

The award for the best contribution in the American Hockey League went to coach Billy Reay of Rochester Americans.

SPORT IN BRIEF

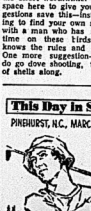
ACTON COACH FINED

WALKERTON (CP) — Frank Kampitz, coach of the Acton junior hockey team, was convicted Friday on a charge of common assault and fined $40 and costs.

The charge was laid by Wilfred Pegelo, a Grant Township farmer, following a fight at a hockey game in Paisley arena March 15.

A similar charge against Edward Postitt, manager of the Acton team, was dismissed. Pegelo was a fan at the game between Acton and Paisley Colts.

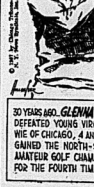
ENROL ANOTHER TEXAN



WINNIPEG (CP) — Hall Whitley, defensive linebacker from Texas College of Arts and Industries, has been signed by Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Union, the club announced Friday.

The six foot, two inch lineman is the fifth player obtained by the Blue Bombers for 1957.

RIDERS GET HELP



OTTAWA (CP) — Directors of the Central Canada Exhibition Association voted Friday night to grant $17,000 debt owed to the association by Ottawa Rough Riders football club.

The association also agreed to help the club by waiving all television rights for 1957. The Riders will pay the association 10 per cent of the gross gate at Lansdowne Park but this amount will be offset by some $3,000 in TV fees which will go into the club's coffers.

Port Elgin Downs Marmora to Win Midget C Title

MARMORA (Special) — Port Elgin defeated Marmora 8-1 here last night to capture the OMHA provincial Midget "C" hockey championship in three consecutive games.

The Port Elgin team was presented with the championship cup following the game by OMHA president Jack Christie.

Marmora fought hard all the way and opened the scoring at 3.19 of the first period, Jim Shannon scoring from Dan Bateman. The visitors came back for a 3-1 lead by the end of the period, aided the only goal of the second and finished with four in the third.

R.Dudgeon led the champs with four goals and one assist. Schell and Harper each had one and two while Grant and D. Dudgeon also scored. Reid and Chappell had single assists.

Dave Bedore in the Marmora nets played a fine game to keep the score below double figures.

Referee Mulholland and Post assessed 14 penalties with Port Elgin drawing eight, including a major to Chappell. Bev Osborne drew five of Marmora's six penalties.

AT THE BELLE — Smooth-talking confidence man Burt Lancaster sells ranch girl Katharine Hepburn on the idea that she is a woman of rare beauty in Hal Wallis' "The Rainmaker", one of those rare pictures about which everything seems right — a pleasure on all counts. The Technicolor drama at the Belle, co-stars Wendell Corey, Earl Holliman and Lloyd Bridges.

AT THE McCARTHY — Frank Sinatra, as a savage, sensation-hungry killer, co-stars with Sterling Hayden in United Artists' spy thriller, "Suddenly", featuring Nancy Gates and produced by Robert Bassler, opens Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Academy Award Winner John Houston's "Moulin Rouge" in Technicolor and featuring Jose Ferrer and Zsa Zsa Gabor is the 2nd feature.

Erin O'Brien Loveliest Example Of Adage 'Go East, Young Girl'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Erin O'Brien is one of the latest and loveliest examples of the truth of the adage, "Go East, young girl."

Betty Grable and countless others found fame only by heading for New York. Then they were discovered by Hollywood. The same is true of Erin. But instead of playing on Broadway as her predecessors did, she got her break in TV.

Erin was born right here in Hollywood. But it wasn't until she started appearing as a regular with Steve Allen in New York that her hometown began to take notice.

Now her career is booming. She may sign a contract with Warners, which wants her for a role in Marjorie Morningstar.

REALLY HER KIND

Erin is a soft-spoken, dark-haired lovely who looks a bit like Jean Simmons. Erin O'Brien is really her name, and she's the eldest of 14 children of a Long Beach, Calif., milk delivery man.

She sang at civic clubs and other affairs and that's how it went for a Los Angeles TV station to be the offer of a job: "She's too fat." Erin was a pudgy 145 pounds then, compared with her present 122.

The five-day signing grind on Al Jarvis' matinee show helped slim her down. After three years of it, she retired to become a "domestic engineer," the wife of singer Jimmy Fitzgraid and mother of two sons.

That might have been the end of it except for the Kingsley fate. An agent friend spied her dining out with her family in a drive-in restaurant, asked her about the lead in a local musical. The show laid a large egg, but it prompted her to try out for Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts, which was appearing here. Erin won, was hustled off to New York the same night. She came to the attention of Steve Allen, who admired her patrician beauty and way with a song.

That's her story, but the best is yet to come. Her career could well take off, now that Hollywood has claimed her at long last.

AT THE PARK — An outshirt of passion at home reflects the savage pattern of conflicting ambitions in the jungle of "big money" as prescribed in "Patterns", the new drama at the Park Theatre opening Monday, starring Van Heflin, seen here with Beatrice Straight. "Patterns" is released through United Artists. On the same program "The Killing" starring Sterling Hayden and Coleen Gray.

AT THE PARK — Flamboyant, sexy Marie Windsor, the gal who couldn't keep a secret in "The Killing", a United Artists release opening at the Park Theatre. On the same program "Patterns", powerful drama starring Van Heflin. Both hits are first shows here.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

When you fail to make a hand that is there to be had it is not always your fault. Mostly the cards are to blame. For some reason they fail to function properly without some help from you.

The bidding in room went like this:

North	East	South	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 D
1 H	Pass	2 H	2 S
3 H	3 S	Pass	4 2

The bidding in room two went like this:

North	East	South	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 D
1 H	1 S	2 H	2 S
3 H	3 S	Pass	4 S

Except for the wrong bid of one spade by east in room two, the bidding in both rooms is identical. And by this or any other kind of bidding, neither team could be blamed for reaching spade game.

In each room the opening lead was a heart. East can sluff a diamond on the west heart ace. West can sluff a red card on the east club queen. The rest could be ruffed.

No doubt the contract would make in such a way if opponents did not discover a good defence. But neither declarer took ten tricks. Each went down one trick at four spades.

Somewhere in the early proceedings, declarer led trumps and finessed the jack to north lone ace. This lost him two trump tricks and shortened his cross-ruffing material.

A master can boast of his own clever way; then muff the same thing in the midst of a-play.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, April 1, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mental ability and keenness are accelerated now. Be logical and try to hit your mark at the right time. Be duly careful in money, legal and domestic matters. Courtesy will pay off.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Using your innate intelligence, you can have a happy, healthful and profitable day. All useful activities, study research are favored.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Very encouraging and generous influences now. Mercury is in fine aspect, also Pluto, both favoring the arts, sciences, research, new discoveries, inventions. Be happy.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — It will be advisable to be punctilious and careful now, but not fretful nor doubtful. Use your keen imagination and ingenuity to help put over day's demands. Do not postpone urgent tasks.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Progress is in order and you can be out front in any worthwhile activity. A good day for acquiring knowledge; also for making plans for the future.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Similar influences to Gemini. Avoid temptation; work calmly, unhurriedly. You can attain much now. Be ready to handle, but not anxious about due obligations. This can be an interesting day.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Friendly rays, on the whole, for personal, business and work matters. Avoid irritating situations; keep your innate sense of humor and balance ready to counteract difficult situations. Smile.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio)— No really inauspicious influences, but the position of Uranus suggests that you be neither hasty nor erratic in making decisions, changes. Mercury's fine aspect encourages smart management, clear thinking. You can attain.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Mild rays in your sector, but other good influences nearby can work to your benefit if you think and act constructively, as you so well can. Aim only for what is reasonable.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Don't figure on "getting by somehow," but believe that with calm reasoning and careful management you can make a go of worthwhile undertakings. A good day for routine, mental work, familiar matters.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — The position of Uranus warns against erratic moves, sudden decisions and overdoing. Well made plans will pay. Set your schedule early and stick by it. It will be important not to deviate from good arrangements.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Let your innate originality bring you out of the mediocre class. Today invites imagination, a smart presentation of your ideas, goods and abilities.

You born today are especially suited to occupations bringing you before the public or work on public projects. Your interest in languages, artistry and love of the sea are innate. You are versatile and are often inspired to do great things in your own field or in some science, art, in theatricals or literature; will usually finish undertakings in a thorough and well-rounded manner. You should study and continue to improve daily since there is no limit to what you can attain. Put over-sensitiveness and doubt behind you. Be proud of and exercise well your God-given talents. Birthdate: Wm. Harvey, noted physician, discoverer of blood circulation.

TURNS TO POLITICS

HAMILTON (CP) — Bobby McDonald, a halfback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union until polio ended his career in 1954, was nominated Thursday by the Hamilton South Progressive Conservative Association to contest the riding in the next federal election.

McDonald won the league's rookie award in 1950 when he was 18 and played with the Tiger-Cats through the 1951 and 1952 seasons. Russel Heddon won the seat for the Liberal party in the 1953 federal election.

Eisenhower's Fast Trip Earns Him Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Richard Neuberger (Dem., Ore.) today criticized what he termed "evident disregard of the speed laws and elementary traffic safety during President Eisenhower's drive to Gettysburg, Pa., Friday.

Neuberger's comment was made in an interview after reporters accompanying the president said Eisenhower was driven in his Gettysburg farm for the weekend at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. The car was driven by a secret service man.

Eisenhower made the 80-mile trip in 1¼ hours, with his car slowing only for an occasional dip in the road or a railroad track bump and for the 3½ mile speed limit for police cars. No arrests were made.

RACE TO CATCH UP

When the squad cars turned back at the county line, reporters had to drive 95 to 100 miles an hour to catch up with the president. They are assigned to keep him in sight at all times.

Neuberger said such speed by the presidential car is "ironic" since he said limitations are posted across the country bearing Eisenhower's picture and an appeal to motorists to drive safely.

A secret service agent said there was no official reason for the speed, except that the roads were rather clear.

REPORTERS WARNED

Friday was the first instance in which police had stopped any part of the motorcade travelling with the president.

They pulled alongside and told reporters the speed limit was 55 miles an hour.

"Why don't you tell the president to get off the highway?" yelled.

"He's got four bodyguards," was the answer.

Half Million More Workers Join Strikers

LONDON (Reuters)—Some 500,000 factory workers in the London area today joined a strike already crippling the motor trade and 10 key British industrial centres.

Friday was the first broke down Friday after the 40 unions making up the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions rejected a three-per-cent wage increase offer by the employers. Immediately afterwards, Labor Minister Iain Macleod, appointed by the Conservative government of industry into the dispute.

Today's walk-out is the second phase of a "snowball" stoppage, most entering its second week, launched originally in support of a 10-per-cent pay increase. The unions plan to call out 3,000,000 workers by next Saturday if the dispute is not settled by then.

SAME THING

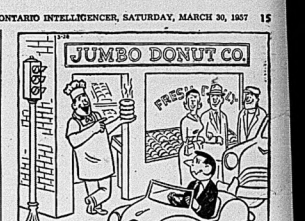
The government court of inquiry will be composed of the same three men as a court probing a parallel shipyard strike, now entering its 15th day. The shipyard workers also walked out with an initial demand of a 10-per-cent pay increase.

At present 500,000 are idle and construction and repair work is suspended on 60 ships in 70 yards all over the country. Last Monday their leaders turned down a five-per-cent offer after which the employers linked with a 12-month "wage standstill" demand.

The confederation has called for a full executive meeting for Tuesday to discuss a government appeal to them to end the strike.

Little Benny's Notebook

Some man got down out of the little barber's chair and went out while Big Joe was still cutting my hair, and the little barber said, I hate to work on that bird, Fred. Not that he wont tip me enough, but he always walks out without opening his trap. I'd like him better if he kept his tip and gave me a few words of appreciation on the fancy trim I did on his mustash.



That's life, Joe, the big barber said. Even if we know we're good, it takes words to make us sure of it, and our own words aint enough. No matter how cocky I feel at home about changing a washer to stop a drip in the kitchin, I dont feel real big about it unless my wife tells me I'm as clever with my hands as a professional magician.

You said it, Fred, the little barber said. I bet even Napoleon wouldn't of strutted around with one hand on his waistcoat chest if he hadn't been thinking about what the history books were going to say about him. he said, and the big barber said, No question about it, Joe, it takes words to make the ego go round. You're finished, boy, he said.

Meening my hair was done, and I got down and looked in the big mirror to see how much better I looked. Not being mutch, and I had an idea, saying to the big barber, Hay, that's a swell hair cut you gave me so quick.

Thanks, he said, you're a gentleman and a skoller and it's a privilidge to have you in my chair, the big barber said. Come in any time, he said.

Proving they were right and everybody injoys a compliment from anybody.

CANADIANS WIN OVER MILLION IN SWEEPSTAKES

A telegram that means $140,000 is proudly displayed by Earl Rowntree and his family of Elmvale, Ont. The telegram informed them that they had drawn a ticket on an entry in the Irish sweepstakes. Their entry was Sundew, which led the field in the running of the Grand National in England.

Second prize winner in the Army and Navy sweepstake is Gary Nixon of Toronto, who had a ticket on Wynburgh, who placed second. Nixon and his family win $12,000. Altogether Canadians won over a million dollars in the Irish and Army-Navy sweepstakes.

PRIME MINISTER

"The question may well be asked where a Canadian government will ask the country to accept greater commitments in the world? I feel sure the answer will be given in typical Canadian fashion: cautiously, timidly and with every intention of not burning little Canadian toes."

Dr. Conway said in Winnipeg Friday he was wrong—and glad of it—in his opinions expressed last autumn before the Suez crisis.

"This country's foreign policy has been forthright ever since," he said. He would not make the same kind of commentary today.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker described the prime minister's letters as government interference "that cannot be condoned and which cannot pass unchallenged."

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said he was "dumbfounded" by Mr. St. Laurent's attempt to "exercise censorship" over the CBC. Dr. Conway hadn't been heard on the CBC since.

Mr. St. Laurent said he made "no attempt to keep this young man off the air." It would not have been so bad if the young Briton had been introduced as recently arrived in Canada.

CLAIMS CENSORSHIP

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. St. Laurent's explanation "places the prime minister in the position of being a censor for the protection of Canadians from puerile propaganda."

For the prime minister to tell Mr. Dunton that commentators should be introduced on the CBC in such a way as to show the degree of their intelligence, their age, their period in Canada and qualifications was "an example of supercilious consciousness that is not in keeping with the maintenance of freedom of speech within this country."

"Have we come to the point when commentators must always praise the foreign policy of this government? Are commentators to be chosen on the basis of the degree to which they will praise the government? surely not."

Freedom of speech demanded "the right of each individual to express his viewpoint, limited and circumscribed only by the laws of libel and slander, blasphemy and decency."

ASKS QUESTION

Near the end of the sometimes noisy discussion, Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) asked whether the prime minister would feel free to write a similar letter of protest to Mr. Dunton again.

Mr. St. Laurent replied:

"I would not like to do anything that would be the occasion of the kind of field day we have had today and had I anticicated that it would bring about this kind of field day I would have concealed the irritation I felt at the supercilious tone of this broadcast."

Mr. Green: "In other words the prime minister has had his lesson?"

Mr. St. Laurent: "Well, I do not know. If it is a lesson, but there has been a demonstration of what use can be made of rather insignificant incidents."

RECALLS INSTANCE

The current dispute recalled a previous instance when Mr. St. Laurent, as Justice minister in 1945, asked the CBC not to broadcast reports of prison riots or disturbances at hours when prisoners in penitentiaries were allowed to listen to radio news. At the time he said there was "no directive or instruction." His request had been made on the ground such reports tended to cause unrest in other prisons.

The CBC board of governors declined the request, saying they could not refrain from publishing all news available to newspapers and other radio stations.

DOES NOT THINK

Social Credit Leader Low said he does not think Mr. St. Laurent's action was an attempt to interfere with the CBC.

Both Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) and Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) said the proper way for the prime minister or any cabinet minister, to protest any action of the CBC is to bring the matter before Parliament, just as any other MP should.

The CBC is responsible to Parliament, not to the government).

Mr. Cameron said he read both Conway scripts and found them "rather poor," but that the criticisms they contained were dictected at the government, not at the Canadian people.

WARNS DANES, TOO

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Soviet premier Bulganin has sent a letter to Danish Prime Minister H.C. Hansen reported to contain a warning similar to the one given Norway against allowing NATO to establish atomic bases on its territory.

CHARGE DISMISSED

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — A criminal negligence charge against Joseph Jarvis, 20, was dismissed Friday at a preliminary hearing. Jarvis was driving a truck which collided with a bus Feb. 23. Two passengers were killed and 15 others injured when the bus crashed into a hydro-electric pole and a tree.

HONOR LAWRENCE

HAMILTON (CP)—Former mayor and veteran union leader Sam Lawrence was honored Friday night at the 100th anniversary banquet of the Hamilton local of the Journeyman Stone Cutter's Association of North America. The dinner also celebrated the 75-year-old Lawrence's 60 years in the trades union movement.
